Dear Brother Carley: Our church at Glenmora has just closed a gracious revival. Rev. Walter Harbin, one of the general evangelist, as you know, was with us for more than three weeks in August and led us in the most successful revival that I have witnessed in a long time. This was one of the sanest meetings that I have ever seen and one that did more real, lasting good than most revivals that I have seen. Our church was brought to the altar for a real consecration and went out for personal work in real earnestness and won the lost to Christ. It was good to see big, strong men with arm around their brother talking to him about Jesus. The Holy Ghost fell and we all were made happy. I have known Brother Harbin intimately as one of my closest friends for a dozen years and have gone through many a series of meetings with him and heard him preach hundreds of times, but I must confess that he has far surpassed himself as a preacher and soul winner. I have never seen a man so completely under the power of God and as pliable in the hands of the Holy Spirit as was Brother Harbin. His preaching was high-toned and rang clear with the old-time Gospel message. He used absolutely no claptrap methods. I was surprised to find him so willing to let the Holy Spirit have His way. We had a great revival. My congregation is strengthened. There were about one hundred conversions and reclamations. I have nearly eighty applicants for church membership and most of them are on profession of faith. I have baptized about fifty. There were five conversions who gave their names for membership in the Baptist church. There were several family altars established and about ten subscriptions secured for the Nashville Advocate.

Yours faithfully,
D. B. BODDIE.

For the HAIR—
To make it soft, fluffy and free from dandruff use
TETTERINE
60c at your Druggist's, or from The SHUPTRINE CO., SAVANNAH, GA.

Confidence

"The American people must realize that confidence in public utility securities cannot be had by constant, unjust criticism. No public utility corporation subject to regulation can finance its requirements out of earnings."—Edward N. Hurley, former head of U. S. Shipping Board.

DR. H. B. BARTLETT
National Dental Parlors
Canal and Bourbon Sts.
Over Worner's Drug Store
Entrance on Bourbon Street
Phone Main 2193.
NEW ORLEANS
Crown and Bridge Specialist
Vitalized Air for Painless Extraction
Most Modern and Best Equipped Dental Parlors South.

Epworth League Department

Editor, North Mississippi Conference.....Rev. R. P. Neblett, Durant, Miss.
Editor, Mississippi Conference,
J. H. Weems, 308 Second Avenue, Hattiesburg, Miss.
Editor, Louisiana Conference,
Miss Consuelo Martinez, 314 Broadway, New Orleans, La.

Material for this Department from the several Conferences should be sent to the editors named above. Copy must be in the Advocate office by Thursday preceding the week of publication.

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.

Monroe-Ruston District Institute.

Our first District Institute was heid August 31 to September 1. Classes in how to teach the Methodist Armor were conducted by Rev. A. S. Lutz, of Shreveport. The first night was given over to the First and Second Department work, Mr. Gramhiing taking the former and Miss Wiikins of Shreveport the iatter. On the second night, Third and Fourth Department work was taken up, Mr. Grambiing taking Third Department and Miss Wilkins Fourth. Suppers were served the Leaguers by the Woman's Missionary Society and Young Woman's Auxiliary, League "pep" songs always making them very enjoyable.

One afternoon was given to recreation. Cars were provided and delegates were taken to view the surrounding country, including the carbon plants and the "Greatest Gas Fieid in America." The delegates also enjoyed a swim in the sait water natatorium. Another enjoyahie feature was the showing of some very interesting stereopticon slides on League work done at Mansfield and Lake Junaluska.

On Sunday, the big Loyalty Legion Drive Day, Brother Lutz preached, in the absence of the regular pastor, and 400 per cent was reached by one League. Mr. Grambiing ied the devotionai meeting Sunday and also assisted in organizing a Junior League in the afternoon. We hope to get some good reports from the newiy organized Junior League.

Alexandria District Institute.

This Institute was held in Aiexandria, Septemher 4, 5 and 6 and surely was "some" meeting. Bunkie, Boyce, Colfax, Glenmora, Olla, Pineviile and Lecompte sent delegates. Since this was the first District Institute, we think this was very good. A splendid district spirit was displayed and many eager eyes are looking forward to a certain Shield to be awarded in June. Brother Lutz's talks on the Methodist Armor every morning and his evening talks on our covenants were very fine. Mr. Grambiing told about the First and Third Departments and the organization of a Methodist Armor Study Class. Miss Wiikins of Shreveport had the Second and Fourth Departments.

One of the most enjoyahie features of the Institute was a swimming party Wednesday—no, I heiieve a mistake was made, the best time of ali was at the supper given at church, where the Assembiy people got real homesick for Mansfield. A splendid District Policy was drawn up and wiii he puhlished later.

Lake Charles District.

Our Senior League at DeRidder has a fine Church History Study Class, composed of 22 members. We are studying the "Beginnings of Methodism," and think it is so interesting. We meet twice a montb, most of the time in the woods, except in bad weather; then we meet at the home of one of the members. After our iesson we enjoy a social hour.

New Orleans District.

Everything is in readiness at the big tent for the Orleans District Circus to be heid Saturday, September 30. Tickets can be obtained from any Leaguer in New Orieans. Wiid animais, strong women, iittie men, clowns and everything that goes to make up a first-class circus wiii be there for your enjoyment, and of course there wiii be a reai hand—so don't miss this rare treat. Out of town Leaguers cordially invited.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

On Sunday, September 10, ahout twenty or more Leaguers of the Ellisviiie Chapter made a visit to Laurei to see that League in action and to hear Mr. Ira Fiowers preach. Mr. Flowers is a young Epworth Leaguer of Laurei who is preparing for the ministry in Miisaps College. Ellisviiie Leaguers say they enjoyed both the sermon and the League program very much and feel that they were greatly benefited by their trip.

On Sunday, September 17, Mr. Harreii, Miss Dawson, and Truman Lewis visited the Leagues at Magee, Miss., the occasion being an Epworth League rally in the afternoon. Miss Dawson made her first address as Assistant District Superintendent at this meeting. We are toid her remarks had a teiiing effect on the Magee Leaguers and a number of them expressed their determination to overcome difficulties and make things go in both Junior and Senior chapters there.

On this same day Mr. Harreii sent Thurman Lewis to Moseile to help in the reorganization of that chapter. Neediess to say, Thurman carried several young iadies with him, most of whom were from the Court Street Chapter, Hattiesburg, and ail of them made taiks to the League and were a great heip in the work there. Thurman said, "I just don't know what I wouid have done without them." Sure, why try to!

Some one asks the question, "Are there not more districts in the Mississippi Epworth League Conference than Meridian, Newton, Hattiesburg and Jackson?" We always thought there were, hut so far we have not been abie to hear from any of the others. May we not have something from the Vicksburg, the Brookhaven, and the Port Gihson Districts?

We cail your attention to the foiiowing letter from Mr. Harhin:

Impressions of the Mississippi Epworth League Assembiy.

As he stepped off the train in Brookhaven he heard and saw a iiveiy crowd of Epworth Leaguers singing songs of greetings. The rain didn't seem to matter and the Epworth League Secretary said to himseif, "Weii, this crowd wiii do. If they've got this much pep before things start, sureiy there'ii he an overflow of enthusiasm before the Assembiy is over." And deveiopments justified this prognostication. In work and play there was always that whoiehearted interest that made it a pleasure to work with them. From iittie freckied-faced "Pat," with his big smiie and ciever saiiies, to the biggest and oidest Leaguer in attendance, they were ail there for business, and that business was to become more efficient Epworth Leaguers.

This writer appreciated especiaiiy the valuable assistance he got in the recreational program from Miss Vaiiie Aiisup, of Hattiesburg. It was also a great pieasure to work in harness with Dr. Hounsheii, Miss Gatewood, Brother Deceii, Brother Hawkins, and others.

Several things characterized this Assemhiy. Summed up, it wouid read iike this: Eager desire to know, earnest work in ciasses, joyful participation in piay, deep spirituai atmosphere, hearty co-operation on the part of everybody. What more is needed to make the successfui Assemhiy?

E. O. HARBIN.

FREEDOM FROM LAXATIVES

Discovery by Scientists Has Replaced Them.

Pills and salts give temporary relief from constipation oniy at the expense of permanent injury, says an eminent medicai authority.

Science has found a newer, better way—a means as simpie as Nature itself.

In perfect health a natural lubricant keeps the food waste soft and moving. But when constipation exists this natural lubricant is not sufficient. Medical authorities have found that the gentle iubricating action of Nujoi most closely resembies that of Nature's own lubricant. As Nujoi is not a iaxative it cannot gripe. It is in no sense a medicine. And iike pure water it is harmless and pleasant.

Nujoi is prescribed by physicians; used in leading hospitals. Get a bottle from your druggist today.—Advertisement.

You are Wanted for a Good Position at a Big Salary

All that you need is training. Draughon's Practical Business College will train you, at your home, within only a few months. This is the College that has trained more than 300,000 men and women for good positions. Ask for big book, "Guide to Business Success." It's FREE. Address DRAUGHON'S BUSINESS COLLEGE, Dept. CA, Nashville, Tenn

REVIVAL AT MOSELLE, MISS.

Dear Brother Cariey: We have just ciosed a meeting of one week at Moseiie, being assisted by Rev. W. T. Griffin of Summit. Following the revivai of iast year the aim was mainiy to deepen and intensify the spiritual life of the membership, fifty people having already come into the church during the last year. Brother Griffin was at his best and his efforts among us were satisfactory in every way. He is congenial, inteiiigent, and consecrated—a very effective combination. Large crowds were present at every service and the response to his appeals was enough to stir the hearts of us all. Two members were received by certificate, the Epworth League was reorganized, and six subscriptions for the Advocate were taken.

Sincerely,

J. B. CAIN.

Ellisville, Miss.

Dodson's Liver Tone Killing Calomel Sale

Don't sicken or salivate yourself or paraiyze your sensitive liver by taking calomel which is quicksilver. Your dealer seiis each bottle of pleasant, harmless "Dodson's Liver Tone" under an ironclad, money-back guarantee that it regulates the liver, stomach and bowels better than calomel without making you sick—15 million bottles sold.

Goodyear Raincoat FREE. We will send a handsome Rainproofed, All-Weather Coat to one person in each locality who will show and recommend it to friends. Write to-day to The Goodyear Mfg. Co., 7067-R Goodyear Bldg., Kansas City, Mo.—Adv.

WINTERSMITH'S CHILL TONIC SOLD 50 YEARS

If not sold by your druggist, write Wintersmith Chemical Co., Louisville, Ky.

Have you lost your appetite? Do you get so tired with the day's duties that you're unable to enjoy an evening with friends or at the movies even in a while? Are you losing your rosy cheeks and your springy step?

Dr. Miles' Tonic

was made to restore health to people in your condition. It has been of permanent benefit to thousands who were afflicted just as you are. Why don't you try a bottle? Get in line for better health beginning today. Every Drug Store carries Dr. Miles' Medicines.

Sunday School

NOTES FROM NORTH MISSISSIPPI

By Rev. R. H. B. Gladney, Sardis, Miss.

The Greenville District for training in leadership will be held at Shelby, October 16-21. The courses offered are as follows: "Beginner Organization and Administration," Mrs. W. W. Adams; "The Pupil," Mrs. J. B. Randolph; "Principles of Religious Teaching," Mrs. J. M. Wyatt; "The Bible and Missions," Rev. E. S. Lewis.

Dr. C. M. Chapman, Registrar.

Rev. J. H. Felts, Educational Director.

Shelby, Miss.

* * *

"Macon, Ga., Sept. 1, 1922.

"Any sound business man would devote a large part of his energy to the cultivation of a field that had brought to him regularly for many years 85 per cent of his business. Reliable statistics prove this to be the exact case in the program of the church. Approximately 85 per cent of all our increase comes through the Sunday school. It behooves all Methodists, therefore, to be as wise in their generation as the children of the world, and devote themselves with renewed energy to the cultivation of this field. We have reached the day when no man is qualified to be a pastor in the church if he is indifferent to this supreme need. Indeed, any pastor must inevitably lose out in the march of progress if he is unconcerned about the culture of the childhood and youth of his church. I am anxious to see this interest have the emphasis that it deserves throughout the State of Mississippi. The observance of Sunday School Day is essential to the progress of the church, and I earnestly hope no charge will be left without report on this important matter, and from every charge numbers of men and women should be encouraged to take such training courses as will properly equip them for skilled service in the Sunday schools.

"W. N. AINSWORTH."

The above letter was written by Bishop Ainsworth to be used in forwarding the Sunday school work of our Conference. Your Board of Sunday Schools is grateful to those who have observed Sunday School Day. If you have not observed the day, will you ask your church for an offering? Send it to Rev. J. E. Stephens, Grenada, Miss.

R. H. B. GLADNEY,
Conf. Supt. of Sunday Schools.

REVIVAL AT PONCHATOULA, LA.

I believe God directed me to ask Rev. C. W. Crisler, D.D., the pastor of our First Church at Baton Rouge, to conduct our revival services. It was a bold step to ask such a pastor to leave the Capitol City of the State to visit our small town; but, under the blessing of God, it has resulted in the most gracious revival the town has had since the church was built. Night after night the building was crowded with patient, eager listeners. Many were unable to get inside. There were no sensational efforts—something altogether different from the usual conduct of such meetings. Many came from other churches and expected noise, the denunciation of certain special sins, and for awhile could not understand why this was absent. But Dr. Crisler condemned all sin. Cultured, intellectual, he always gave an earnest presentation of the Gospel, pleading, beseeching men to be reconciled to God, and at the same time a building up and a constructive appeal for a consecrated, active Christian life. The results are about thirty additions to the church, men and women long prayed for, and they are still coming in. The life of the church has been quickened. There has been spiritual healing of crippled feet, withered hands, and even dead souls raised to life. The church is realizing its true position and duty in this community, living on a higher level. This was evidenced in the attendance at the week-night prayer meeting. This was followed by a meeting of church officials and faithful women, who have determined to begin building a new parsonage right away, after sixteen years of talking.

God also directed me to find a Miss Pierce, a splendid singer, who was an added attraction. Mr. Bean, from Bogalusa, was brought over to lead the choir, and he can do so. This revival will not be as a morning cloud or the early dew. We intend to "continue steadfastly in the Apostles' doctrine, in fellowship, the breaking of bread and in prayer." To God be all the glory.

F. B. HILL, P. C.

FROM MANY, LA.

Dear Mr. Editor: I am having the best year of my ministry. Our prayer meeting at Many has increased from 10 or 12 to 76. I have never seen so much interest taken in the prayer meeting. We had the best congregation Sunday night since coming here; it was indeed a great inspiration to preach to a house full of folks. Our Sunday school is growing; League is well organized and is doing good work. The W. M. S. is doing excellent work.

Our church at Robeline is also on the up-grade. We have one of the best little Sunday schools there in the State. The school is one hundred per cent Centenary. We have just completed five new Sunday school rooms to the church and they are paid for. We have a wide-awake League at Robeline that is proving a blessing to the young people.

I am planning to hold my meeting there beginning the fourth Sunday in this month, with Robt. M. Brown, of Merryville, doing the preaching. I will hold my meeting at Many, beginning fourth Sunday in October, with Henry T. Young, of Natchitoches, doing the preaching.

With best wishes for the Advocate.

Very truly,

J. A. McCORMACK.

TWO RECENT OUTSTANDING EVENTS IN CHINA.

By Lillian Knobles.

The last two months have brought with them two important events for us who live in China. The first was the World Student Christian Conference at Pekin, to which delegates from about thirty different nations came. After the Conference, the delegates divided into teams and toured the different parts of China. Among the team that visited Soochow were two Filipinos, an American Indian, a native of India, a native of Poland, a Frenchman and two Americans. We had six nationalities represented at our luncheon table one day. All spoke English, and you may be sure that we had an interesting conversation. A number of the visitors made splendid addresses to the students. Mr. Shaw from India spoke on the revolutionizing effect of Christianity on the thinking of the people of India. What he said about the breaking down of class distinction, the exalting of woman's position, and other things were so very similar to what has taken place and is taking place in China to-day. It was great to have the students hear such a ringing testimony, from another country, to which they could so heartily say "Amen," because of their own similar experiences.

The second event was the meeting of The National Christian Association in Shanghai last week. There were delegates from all the Christian denominations in all parts of China. It is said that the two greatest impressions made upon the foreign delegates were the high type of Christian Chinese leaders and the spirit of democracy that pervaded all the sessions of the association. The Chinese are looking forward to the time when they can form an indigenous church without denominational differences.

We have had some fighting near Pekin this month. Two of the Northern war lords have been fighting against each other for supremacy in that part of the country. It seems that the fighting has just about come to an end, but it is said that no one can ever tell what turn affairs will take out here. I heard one person ask another, "Well, what do you think about the war in the North?" The other answered, "One never thinks in China; he only observes."

I am becoming more and more "Chinese-ized" all the time. I have improved considerably in my use of chop-sticks, and am able to get about fairly well with my small command of broken Chinese and my great store of gestures.

I had a very interesting trip during the Easter holidays. Nine Chinese young women who are teachers at Davidson School (where I expect to work next year) and four of us missionaries went to Moskanshan, the mountain where the Southern Methodist women have their summer home. We had to make the trip by houseboat and it took a night and a day to go and come. We spent two days on the mountain. It was ablaze with lovely spring flowers—red, purple and yellow azaleas and wisteria growing wild. Only one of the Chinese teachers had ever been on a mountain before. When we got to the top, one of them looked down into the valley and all about her and said, "What a big, wonderful world God has made!"

Renew your health by purifying your system with

Calotabs
TRADE MARK REG

The purified and refined calomel tablets that are free from nausea and danger.

No salts necessary, as Calotabs act like calomel and salts combined. Demand the genuine in 10c and 35c packages, bearing above trade-mark.

Bitter Chillifuge 25c

Has a bitter tonic taste and quick action in routing malaria from the system.

Will quickly stop chills and fever.

Splendid tonic for torpid liver and bracer for poor appetite.

FINLAY, DICKS & CO., INC.,
NEW ORLEANS.

Dickey's Old Reliable Eye Water

relieves sore eyes. Refreshes and strengthens a tired eye. Doesn't burn or hurt. Get genuine in Red Box. 25c all druggists. Bottle free to ministers
DICKEY DRUG CO., Bristol, Va.

666

Cures Malaria, Chills and Fever, Bilious Fever, Colds and LaGrippe.

TETTERINE

ENDS COMPLEXION WORRIES.

Healing, Antiseptic, Soothing, Fragrant.

60c at your Druggist's, or from The SHUPTRINE CO., SAVANNAH, GA.

STUDENTS' Violin Outfits $15 to $45

Complete with Case, Bow, Chin Rest, Rosin, Extra Set of Strings, Tuner and Self Instruction Book—Everything Ready for the Beginner to Start with.

WRITE FOR PARTICULARS.
FREE TRIAL APPLICATION AND EASY PAYMENT TERMS.

PHILIP WERLEIN, Ltd.,
605-9 CANAL ST.
NEW ORLEANS, LA.

—o—

PIANO CATALOGS FREE
Grands, Uprights and Player Pianos.

FROM FLORA, MISS.

Dear Brother Carley: A word from Flora may be of interest to the readers of the Advocate. On the 19th of March last Brother McIntosh and his singer, Brother Phillips, came to us and held a ten days' meeting, and a good meeting it was, with quite a number of conversions and additions to the churches of our community. We had a real old-time revival. The work continued to go on until we thought we should organize ourselves into an organization of some kind by which we might reach the entire community; so we organized a men's prayer meeting. We met in the Masonic Hall every morning at 7:30 for 25 mornings. After the busy season came, when men were compelled to stay at home more, we decided to meet each week on Wednesday morning at 7:30, indefinitely. We have had in attendance at our prayer meetings from 65 to 97.

Some time ago the "Flying Squadron" of Jackson paid us a visit and immediately we organized a "Local Squadron" of Flora; so now they are going from place to place doing good, and as a result many souls have been saved and added to the church.

We also have our local work well in hand. Committees of 5 to 8 are sent out in the country to see men who do not attend church; they talk to them and pray with them and now quite a number of these hard cases have been saved and attend our meetings. They pray in public, will lead prayer meetings when called on, and the most wonderful thing about it all to me is no one man has ever held prayer service twice; so you see nearly all our men will pray or lead a meeting. The old settlers say there has never been such a revival in this country before in its history. On last Sunday night they took charge of my service at the Methodist church at Flora. The house was filled to overflowing, and we had a great service. To God we give all the praise. Pray for us, that we may take this country for Christ. Your brother in Christ,

J. H. FOREMAN.

MRS. RUTH WILLIAMSON.

A Mother's Advice.

Health Is Vital to You, Mothers!

Birmingham, Ala.—"After becoming a mother my health gave way. I suffered severely with a pain low down in my right side. My sister-in-law, having been cured of a bad case of feminine trouble by taking Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, advised me to take it, which I did. I am now starting on my third bottle and the pain has all left me. My husband said to me the other day, 'That Favorite Prescription must be a wonderful medicine, I don't hear you complaining any more.'"—Mrs. Ruth Williamson, 4016 First Avenue.

You should obtain this famous Prescription now at your nearest drug store, in tablets or liquid, or write Dr. Pierce, President Invalids' Hotel in Buffalo, N. Y., for free medical advice. —Adv.

Antiseptic Mul-en-ol

Favorite for forty years.
Old friends can be trusted.
Stomach pains and nausea quickly relieved.
Also fine application for cuts and burns.

15, 30, 60 cts. Sizes
FINLAY, DICKS & CO., INC.,
NEW ORLEANS.

Happiness, content and satisfaction, all doubts answered, all dark places lighted up, Heaven begun here—this is the reward of loving God. In this world tribulations, yes, but good cheer in spite of that.—Dr. George Hodges.

QUARTERLY CONFERENCES.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

Hattiesburg Dist.—Fourth Round.

Bon Homie, at Tunison, Oct. 1.
Avera, at Avera, Oct. 4, 7 p.m.
Taylorsville-Mize, at Hebron, Oct. 8.
Williamsburg, at Santee, Oct. 11, 11 a.m.
Prentiss, at Carson, Oct. 12, 11 a.m.
Collins, at Collins, Oct. 15, 11 a.m.
Seminary, at Seminary, Oct. 15, 7 p.m.
New Augusta, at New Augusta, Oct. 18, 7 p.m.
Mt. Olive-Magee, at Mt. Olive, Oct. 22.
Richton, at Richton, Oct. 25, 7 p.m.
Hattiesburg, Court St., Oct. 29, 11 a.m.
Purvis, at Purvis, Oct. 29, 30, 7 p.m.
Oloah, at Oloah, Nov. 1, 11 a.m.
Ellisville, at Ellisville, Nov. 5.
Eucutta, at Goodwater, Nov. 7, 11 a.m.
Silver Creek, at New Hebron, Oct. 12.
Lucedale, Nov. 15, 7 p.m.
Lucedale ct., at Merrill, Oct. 16, 11 a.m.
Leakesville, at Winburn Chapel, Nov. 15, 11 a.m.
Hattiesburg, Main St., Nov. 26, 11 a.m.
Sumrall, Nov. 26, 27, 7 p.m.

Pastors, please see to it that your Board of Trustees and your Woman's Missionary Societies have full written reports. W. W. GRAVES, P. E.

Jackson Dist.—Fourth Round.

Terry, at Byram, Oct. 1, 11 a.m.
Florenee, at Plain, Oct. 1, 3:30 p.m.-7:30 p.m.
Canton, Oct. 8, 11 a.m.-3:30 p.m.
Millsaps Mem., Oct. 8, 7:30 p.m.
Bolton and Raymond, at Brownsville, Oct. 15, 11 a.m.
Edwards, Oct. 15, 4:30 p.m.-7:30.
Vaughn, at Deasonville, Oct. 21, 22, 11 a.m.
Benton, Oct. 22, 7:30 p.m.-23, 10 a.m.
Mendenhall and D'Lo, at Bethany, Oct. 25, 11 a.m.
Harrissville, at Harrissville, Oct. 26, 11 a.m.
Capitol St., Oct. 29, 11 a.m.
Galloway Memorial, Oct. 29, 7:30 p.m.
Madison, at Madison, Nov. 1, 11 a.m.
Sharon, at Sharon, Nov. 4, 5, 11 a.m.
Camden, Nov. 5, 3 p.m.-7:30 p.m.
Bentonia, Nov. 12, 11 a.m.-2 p.m.
Satartia, at Satartia, Nov. 12, 7:30 p.m.-13, 10 a.m.
Eden, Nov. 18, 11 a.m.
Yazoo City, Nov. 19, 11 a.m.-2 p.m.
Flora, Nov. 19, 5:30-7:30 p.m.
Monterey, Nov. 25-26, 11 a.m.
Brandon, Nov. 26, 3 p.m.-7:30 p.m.

Let the preachers and laymen put forth every effort, not only to answer the questions of the fourth quarterly conference, but to have full reports. We have had great revivals in all of the charges during the year. "Then let us render unto the Lord thanksgiving for His goodness."

M. L. BURTON, P. E.

Brookhaven Dist.—Fourth Round.

Foxworth, at Foxworth, Oct. 1.
Bogue Chitto and Norfield, at Bogue Chitto, Oct. 1.
Meadville and Bude, at Meadville, Oct. 8.
Wesson, Oct. 8, 9.
Bayou Pierre ct., at Pleasant Valley, Oct. 15.
Hazlehurst, Oct. 15, 16.
Fernwood ct., at Fernwood, Oct. 21, 22.
McComb, Pearl River Ave., Oct. 22.
Gallman ct., at Gallman, Oct. 28, 29.
Crystal Springs, Oct. 29, 30.
Monticello ct., at Monticello, Nov. 4, 5.
Summit and Topisaw, at Summit, Nov. 5, 6.
Pleasant Grove ct., at Tilton, Nov. 11, 12.
Brookhaven, Nov. 12, 13.
Scotland ct., at Bethel, Nov. 15.
Osyka ct., at Osyka, Nov. 18, 19.
McComb, La Branch st., Nov. 19, 20.
Barlow ct., at Brandywine, Nov. 25, 26.
Georgetown ct., at Georgetown, Nov. 26.

H. M. ELLIS, P. E.

Meridian Dist.—Fourth Round.

DeKalb, at Spring Hill, Oct. 1, 2.
Cleveland, at Clarks Chapel, Oct. 3.
Enterprise, Oct. 8.
Scooba, Oct. 15.
Porterville, Oct. 15, 16.
Pachuta, at Adams Chapel, Oct. 21, 22.
Quitman, p.m., Oct. 22.
Vimville, at Coker's Chapel, Oct. 29.
Bucatunna, at Chicora, Nov. 5.
Daleville, Nov. 11, 12.
Lauderdale, p.m., Nov. 12.
Matherville, at Langsdale, Nov. 17.
Waynesboro ct., at Hebron, Nov. 18, 19.
Waynesboro, p.m., Nov. 19.
DeSoto, Nov. 25, 26.
Shubuta, p.m., Nov. 26.

PAUL D. HARDIN, P. E.

Seashore Dist.—Fourth Round.

Escatawpa, at Big Point, 11 a.m., Oct. 1.
Moss Point, 7:30 p.m., Oct. 1.
Americus, at Salem C. G., Thurs., 11 a.m., Oct. 5.
Columbia, 11 a.m., Oct. 8.
Vancleave at New Prospect C. G., 11 a.m., Oct. 12.
Gulfport, 11 a.m., Oct. 15.
Ocean Springs, 7:30 p.m., Oct. 15.
Mentorum, at Mt. Zion, 11 a.m., Oct. 22.
Wiggins, 7:30 p.m., Oct. 22.
Coalville, Wed., 11 a.m., Oct. 25.
Long Beach, Wed., 7:30 p.m., Oct. 25.
Pass Christian, Oct. 29.
Saucier, Wed., 7:30 p.m., Nov. 1.
Picayune, Nov. 5, 6.
Carriere, Mon., 11 a.m., Nov. 6.
Poplarville, Q. C., Mon., 7:30 p.m., Nov. 6.
Lumberton, 9 a.m., Nov. 7.
Logtown, 11 a.m., Nov. 12.
Bay St. Louis, 7:30 p.m., Nov. 12.
Gulfport, Q. C., Tues., 7:30 p.m. Nov. 14.
Paseagoula, Wed., 7:30 p.m., Nov. 15.
Biloxi, Tues., 7:30 p.m., Nov. 21.
Brooklyn, Wed., 7:30 p.m., Nov. 22.
Wesley Memorial, Nov. 26.

Let the pastors see to it that the trustees have their reports; and let the stewards please collect the pastors' salaries. If the pastors are diligent and the stewards faithful, the district will make a full report at Conference. Let us pray and work together. W. M. SULLIVAN, P. E.

Vicksburg Dist.—Fourth Round.

Harriston, at Lorman, 11 a.m., Oct. 1.
Fayette, 7 p.m., Oct. 1.
Utica, 11 am., Oct. 6.
Hermanville, at Tillman, 11 a.m., Oct. 7.
Gloster and Liberty, at Gloster, Oct. 8.
Rosetta, at Hopewell, Oct. 9.
Washington, Oct. 15.
Natchez, 4:30 p.m., Oct. 15.
Rocky Springs, Hickory Ridge, 11 a.m., Oct. 22.
Port Gibson, 7 p.m., Oct. 22.
Vicksburg, Crawford St., 7 p.m., Oct. 23.
Vicksburg, Gibson Memorial, 7 p.m., Oct. 25.
Roxie, at Hamburg, Oct. 28.
Centerville, at Stephenson, 11 a.m., Oct. 29.
Woodville, 7 p.m., Oct. 29.
Oak Ridge, Nov. 5.
Rolling Fork, 11 a.m., Nov. 12.
Mayersville, 11 a.m., Nov. 19.
Anguilla, 7 p.m., Nov. 19.
Louise and Holly Bluff, at Louise, 11 a.m., Nov. 26.
Silver City, at ———, 7 p.m., Nov. 26.

J. R. JONES, P. E.

Newton Dist.—Fourth Round.

Deemer, at Deemer, Oct. 1, 2:30 p.m. and 7 p.m.
Harperville and Lena, at Hillsboro, Oct. 7, 8, 11 a.m.
Lake, at Lake, Oct. 8, 7 p.m., 9, 10 a.m.
Neshoba, at Cook's Chapel, Oct. 14, 15.
Philadelphia, Oct. 15, 16.
Union, at Union, Oct. 22.
Shiloh, at Johns, Oct. 25.
Homewood, at Gasque Chapel, Oct. 27, 2:30 p.m., 29, p.m.
Raleigh, at Boykin, Oct. 28, 29.
Montrose, at Montrose, Nov. 1, 11 a.m., 2 p.m.
Walnut Grove, at Zion, Nov. 3.
Carthage, at Bethel, Nov. 4, 5.
Bay Springs, at Bay Springs, Nov. 8, 2:30 p.m.
Laurel, First Church, Nov. 10, 7 p.m.
Laurel, Kingston, Nov. 11, 7 p.m., 12, 7 p.m.
Laurel, West End, Nov. 12, 11 a.m., 2:30 p.m.
Newton, at Newton, Nov. 15.
Chunky, at Suqualena, Nov. 18, 19.
Decatur and Hickory, at Hickory, Nov. 25, 26.

The trustees of church property will please make accurate reports in answer to the disciplinary questions. Reports from Woman Missionary Societies are expected.

J. A. MOORE, P. E.

School Desks

Opera Chairs.
Folding Chairs.
Kindergarten Chairs.
School Supplies.
Blackboards.

SOUTHERN DESK CO., Hickory, N. C.

RUB-MY-TISM, ANTISEPTIC AND PAIN KILLER, FOR INFECTED SORES, TETTER, SPRAINS, NEURALGIA, RHEUMATISM.

BOHNE & WILT, Booksellers, and Stationers, 1328 Dryades St., New Orleans, La. Baseball Goods, Religious Articles, Fishing Tackle, Periodicals. School Books.

CANCER HOSPITAL. Intra-venous treatment for cancer. Operation. Radium and X-Ray unnecessary. Booklet giving full information upon request. Box 2127, ATLANTA, GA.

Piles Can Be Cured

(Itching, Blind, Bleeding or Protruding)

Many sufferers have been made very happy over the results obtained from the use of PAZO OINTMENT—60c at any Drug Store.

(Follow the Directions Carefully.)

A REVIVAL AT HAUGHTON, LA.

Dear Brother Carley: Brother J. O. Bennett, of Haughton, La., has not only permitted me to assist him in a meeting at the above place, but suggests that I "write it up," so here goes:

The meeting began the second Sunday in August, the pastor preaching the opening sermon. Rev. R. H. Wynn, D.D., preached at 11 o'clock on Monday, and Rev. A. L. Harper, pastor at Ringgold, La., preached Monday night and Tuesday morning. I reached there for the night service, and preached twice daily then until the close, which was Friday night, August 25. We had splendid attendance and interest from the very beginning. There must have been more than a hundred who professed conversion. Thirty-five were received into the church, all of these by vows except five, who came in by certificate. Two young women decided for mission work, and I think one young man will go into the ministry.

Brother Bennett is doing an excellent work at Haughton. While this rushing age wants young men as leaders in both material and spiritual things, I believe if I were again in the pew I would feel most blessed when the Conference sent me a man ripe not only in years, but in experience as well, for my pastor. There are two things worth while about them: they have had experience, and their lives have stood the test—they can be trusted fully. So while my old friend, Brother Bennett, feels like he is getting on toward the end of his beloved task as a preacher, I predict that the time of greatest victory and usefulness is before him—"The best is yet to be." I pray the Lord to spare him and the other brethren who have stood the test of these years with "nothing against them, Bishop," that they may give to us and to the church the treasure of their mines of experience gathered along the way.

Brother Harper led the singing for us and did excellent work. He has a very warm place in the hearts of the people of Haughton, having held a meeting there a few years ago. He uses a cornet, and knows how to blow and sing, as well as pray and preach.

My association and fellowship with these men of God, and the good people of Haughton, better than whom I have not found, was indeed a blessing to me, and shall linger with me as one of the most blessed experiences of my ministry.

May the Lord perfect that work which He has begun against that day.

Fraternally yours,
HENRY T. YOUNG.

Natchitoches, La.

People look back at my six days a week to see what I mean on the seventh.—Cecil.

If You Are Too Tired to Eat

Take Hood's Sarsaparilla. A well-known Justice of the Peace in Indiana says Hood's Sarsaparilla makes "food taste good." After taking three bottles he eats 3 hearty meals a day, works hard and sleeps well.

A grateful woman writes: "I earnestly recommend all women who wish to be made new, or who are troubled with that tired feeling, to take Hood's Sarsaparilla. It wonderfully relieved me of sour stomach, distress and belching."

Get Hood's, and only Hood's.

Headaches Vanish

Sick or nervous headaches, backaches, women's aches almost instantly respond to the liquid remedy Capudine. It stops the pain by removing the cause. Every home should keep a bottle handy. Sold by druggists, 10c, 30c, 60c. Insist upon getting CAPUDINE

BOILS Old Sores, Cuts and Burns have been healed since 1820 with

Gray's Ointment

Sold by all druggists. Write for sample to W. F. Gray & Co., 707 Gray Bldg., Nashville, Tenn.

QUARTERLY CONFERENCES.

NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE

Sardis Dist.—Fourth Round.

Cockrum ct., at Cockrum, Sept. 30.
Olive Branch ct., at Olive Branch, Oct. 1.
Byhalia ct., at Byhalia, p.m., Oct. 1.
Pleasant Hill ct., at Pleasant Hill, Oct. 7.
Coldwater ct., at Coldwater, a.m., Oct. 8.
Senatobia, p.m., Oct. 8.
Crowder ct., at Crowder, Oct. 11.
Sardis ct., at Davis Chapel, Oct. 14.
Arkabutla ct., at Arkabutla, Oct. 15.
Oakland ct., at Tillatoba, Oct. 15.
Mt. Pleasant ct., at New Salem, Oct. 21.
Horn Lake ct., at Eudora, Oct. 21.
Tyro ct., at Looxahoma, Oct. 21.
Shuford ct., at Mt. Olivet, Oct. 22.
Longtown ct., at Lee's Chapel, Oct. 28.
Crenshaw and Sledge, at C., Oct. 29.
Batesville, Nov. 5.

The duplication of dates in the foregoing appointments is due to the fact that in a few instances the presiding elder will be assisted by others in making this round. The brethren are asked to give special attention to Questions 13, 14, and 15 in getting ready for their conferences.

R. A. MEEK, P. E.

Greenwood Dist.—Fourth Round.

Coila, at Eanon, Sun., Oct. 1.
Belzonl, Sun., Oct. 8, a.m.
Swift, at Lotus, Sun., Oct. 8, 3 p.m.
Itta Bena, Sun., Oct. 8, p.m.
Inverness, at Inverness, Wed., Oct. 11, p.m.
Indianola, Sun., Oct. 15, a.m.
Moorehead, Sun., Oct. 15, p.m.
Webb, at Webb, Wed., Oct. 18, p.m.
Sunflower, at Sunflower, Sun., Oct. 22, a.m.
Ruleville, at Ruleville, Sun., Oct. 22, p.m.
Tutwiler, Q. C., Wed., Oct. 25, p.m.
Schlater, at Schlater, Sun., Oct. 29, a.m.
Greenwood, Sun., Oct. 29, p.m.
Minter City, Wed., Nov. 1, p.m.
Drew, at Drew, Thurs., Nov. 2.
Sidon, at Cruger, Sun., Nov. 5, a.m.
Tchula, Sun., Nov. 5, p.m.

A careful and complete report will be expected from the treasurers of the Centenary and Educational Movements, Trustees and Missionary Societies. It will require a little effort on the part of the pastors to secure these, but the Conference will not be complete without them, and we must acknowledge we fail, if we fail.

S. L. POPE, P. E.

Greenville Dist.—Fourth Round.

Merigold and Alligator, at Alligator, Oct. 1, a.m.
Jonestown and Rich, at Jonestown, Oct. 1, p.m.
Coahoma and Lyon, at Lyon, Oct. 8, a.m.
Lula and Dundee, at Dundee, Oct. 8, p.m.
Clarksdale, Oct. 9, p.m.
Glen Allen and Avon, at Glen Allen, Oct. 11, p.m.
Leland, Oct. 13, p.m.
Evansville and Dubbs, at Dubbs, Oct. 15, a.m.
Friars Point, Oct. 15, p.m.
Rosedale, Oct. 16, p.m.
Boyle, at Boyle, Oct. 17, p.m.
Cleveland, Oct. 18, p.m.
Lake Cormorant, at Lake Cormorant, Oct. 22, a.m.
Tunica, Oct. 22, p.m.
Benoit and Beulah, at Beulah, Oct. 25, p.m.
Hollandale and Arcola, at Hollandale, Oct. 29, a.m.
Greenville, Oct. 29, p.m.
Gunnison and Deeson, at Gunnison, Nov. 1, p.m.
Duncan and Hillhouse, at Duncan, Nov. 5, a.m.

"The District that sounds no retreat" will make a decidedly better report in every way this fall than last unless some man "plays hooky." Surely neither elder, pastor nor layman will be the guilty party.

JAMES H. FELTS, P. E.

Grenada Dist.—Fourth Round.

Winona Ct., at Columbiana, Sept. 30, Oct. 1.
Grenada, Oct. 1, 2.
Paris Ct., at Pine Flat, Oct. 7.
Vaiden and West, at Vaiden, Oct. 8.
Tie Plant Ct.., at Tie Plant, Oct. 8, 9.
Poplar Creek Ct., at Friendship, Oct. 14, 15.
Pickens and Goodman, at Pickens, Oct. 15, 16.
Sallis Ct., at McAdams, Oct. 21.
Ebenezer Ct., at Liberty, Oct. 22, 23.
Lexington, Oct. 22, 23.
Kilmichael Ct., at Salem, Oct. 28.
Coffeeville Ct., at Gray Rock, Oct. 29.
Holcomb Ct., at Holcomb, Oct. 29, 30.

R. A. TUCKER, P. E.

Corinth Dist.—Fourth Round.

Hickory Flat ct., at Ebenezer, Sept. 29.
Myrtle ct., at Friendsbip, Sept. 30, Oct. 1.
Tishomingo ct., at Paradise, Oct. 4.
Golden ct., at Dennis, Oct. 5.
Guntown ct., at Saltillo, Oct. 6.
Baldwyn ct., at Lebanon, Oct. 7, 8.
Burnsville ct., at Burnsville, Oct. 13.
Iuka ct., at Mt. Evergreen, Oct. 14, 15, 11 a.m.
Iuka station, Oct. 15, night; Qr. Conf., Oct. 16, 9 a.m.
Rienzi ct., at Bethel, Wed., Oct. 18.
Marietta ct., at Mt. Nebo, Oct. 19.
Mooreville ct., at Mooreville, Oct. 20.
Mantachie ct., at Mantachie, Oct. 21, 22.
Booneville ct., at Liberty, Friday, Oct. 27.
Booneville station, Qr. Conf., Oct. 27, night; preaching, Oct. 29, 11 a.m.
Wheeler ct., at Double Springs, Oct. 28.
Silver Springs ct., at El Bethel, Wed., Nov. 1.
Ripley station, Qr. Conf., Friday, Nov. 3, 2 p.m.; preaching, Nov. 5, 11 a.m.
Chalybeate ct., at Mt. Pleasant, Sat., Nov. 4.

N. B.—Let pastors see that written repoits are made by Woman's Missionary Society and by Boards of Trustees, answering Questions 13 and 14.

J. B. RANDOLPH, P. E.

Aberdeen Dist.—Fourth Round.

Bellefontaine, at Shady Grove, Sept. 30.
Eupora and Mabin, at Mabin, Oct. 1, 2.
Mathiston, at Mathiston, Oct. 2.
Algomar, at Troy, Oct. 4.
Buena Vista, at Boones Chapel, Oct. 7, 8.
Vardaman, at Vardaman, Oct. 9.
Calhoun City, at Tabernacle, Oct. 10.
Randolph, at Hunters Chapel, Oct. 11.
Tocopola, at Lafayette Springs, Oct. 12.
Salem and Ecru, at Salem, Oct. 13.
Aberdeen, Oct. 15, 16.
Smithville, at Greenbrier, Oct. 17.
Greenwood Springs, at New Hope, Oct. 18.
Nettleton, at Evergreen, Oct. 20.
Prairie and Strong, at Prairie, Oct. 22, 23.

Permanent Muscular Strength cannot exist where there is not blood strength. Young men giving attention to muscular development should bear in mind. Hood's Sarsaparilla gives blood strength and builds up the whole system.—Adv.

Verona, at Palmetto, Oct. 24.
Shannon and Nettleton, at Nettleton, Oct. 25.
Fulton, at Friendship, Oct. 28, 29.
Tremont, at Hopewell, Oct. 29, 30.

T. H. DORSEY, P. E.

Columbus Dist.—Fourth Round.

Caledonia, at Caledonia, Sept. 29.
Cedar Bluff, at Siloam, Sept. 30, Oct. 1.
Mayhew, preaching, Oct. 1, evening.
Starkville, Oct. 4.
Crawford and Shaeffers, at Shaeffers, quarterly conference, Oct. 5.
Chester, at Chester, Oct. 7, 8.
Ackerman, preaching, Oct. 8, evening.
Mayhew and Sessums, at Mayhew, quarterly conference, Oct. 11.
High Point, at White Hall, Oct. 14, 15.
Noxapater, at Noxapater, Oct. 15, 16.
Louisville, Oct. 17.
Ackerman and Wier, at Ackerman, quarterly conference, Oct. 19.
McCool, at ———, Oct. 20.
Sturgis, at Mt. Airy, Oct. 21, 22.
Kosciusko sta., Oct. 22, p.m.
Kosciusko ct., at Pearce's Chapel, Oct. 23.
West Point, Oct. 25.
Artesia, Q. C., Oct. 26.
Shuqualak, at Shuqualak, Q. C., Oct. 27.
Columbus, Central, Oct. 31.
Brooksville, Nov. 1.

Pastors will please request Centenary and Educational treasurers to be present with written report, showing what has been raised this year, total amount paid to date, balance due, etc. Also remind the W. M. S. and the Board of Trustees to present a written report at this conference.

A. T. McILWAIN, P. E.

TETTERINE

DRIVES AWAY PIMPLES

and leaves your skin soft and spotless. 60c at your Druggist's, or from The SHUPTRINE CO., SAVANNAH, GA.

WILL ANSWER ANY WOMAN WHO WRITES

Woman Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Makes This Offer

Cumberland, Md.—"My mother gave me Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound when I was between thirteen and fourteen years old and was going to school, because I suffered with pains and could not rest. I did not have any more trouble after that until I was married, then I always was troubled in my back while carrying a child and could not do my work until I took the Vegetable Compound. I am strong, do all my washing and ironing and work for seven children and feel fine. I always have an easy time at childbirth and what it did for me it will do for other women. I am willing to answer any woman if she will write asking what it did for me." —Mrs. JOHN HEIER, 53 Dilley St., Cumberland, Md.

During girlhood and later during motherhood Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound brought relief to Mrs. Heier. Her case is but one of many we constantly publish recommending our Vegetable Compound. She is willing to answer your letter. Write to her.

FROM LAKE ARTHUR, LA.

Dear Brother Carley: After a long delay, I will write you a few lines to let you know I am still in the land of the living, and, as our fathers used to say, "upon praying grounds and pleading terms," though my health has not been very good since the first of May. But I am feeling fine now. I have not missed preaching every Sunday this year, and missed Sunday school only twice, and that was because I had a terrible carbuncle—and thought the strain too great to attend Sunday school and preach too.

Things are moving along O. K. up here. Our prayer meeting is fine and well attended—about 40 out last night; the Sunday school is good and doing efficient work; the Woman's Missionary Society is navigating along fine; we have reorganized our Epworth League, and it is well attended; our church attendance at 11 a.m. and 8 p.m. is fine.

Our beloved presiding elder held our third quarterly conference on the 16th of August and preached a fine sermon while here. He is a fine elder indeed, and efficient in his work.

Our revival will open on the first Sunday in October. Rev. Lee R. Sparks, of Franklin, will do the preaching. Come up and be with us.

Everything will come out O. K. in the end, I think.

May God bless the Editor and Manager of the Advocate and all that read it. Yours in Christ.

S. D. HOWARD.

WHAT DID THEY MEAN.

During the Christian Education Movement and the Centenary Movement our people responded in a loyal way to the call of the church. As part of the cultural program of these Movements we asked for hundreds of volunteers of the choicest young people of our church to lay their lives on the altar as the highest expression of their consecration. We were not disappointed in their response and they have conscientiously set their hearts to the task of the Kingdom.

Does this mean our task is finished? No thoughtful man who has unreservedly considered the needs of the Kingdom but is aware that a very large percentage of the young people who respond are not financially able to meet their expenses of training.

Scores of young people are now waiting an opportunity to enter school. Others are drifting from their original decisions. We cannot charge them with a lack of conviction or indifference, but when they find that the church that was so eager to call them to serve is not interested in preparing them, they are forced to question the matter of a serious intent on the part of the church.

Are you not interested to investigate the needs of the volunteers of your charge and district? The undersigned writer or the Conference Life Service Superintendent will be pleased to give you additional information. GARFIELD EVANS.

Nashville, Tenn.

A Cure for Worry: Be careful for nothing; but in every thing by prayer and supplication with thanksgiving let your requests be made known unto God.

Need of Daily Prayer: Keep back thy servant also from presumptuous sins; let them not have dominion over me; then shall I be upright, and I shall be innocent from the great transgression.

QUARTERLY CONFERENCES.

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.

Shreveport Dist.—Fourth Round.

Cotton Valley Sun., Oct. 1, a.m.
Springhill, Sun., Oct. 1, p.m.
Belcher, Wed., Oct. 4.
Bossier City, Fri., Oct. 6, p.m.
Athens, Sat., Oct. 7; Sun., Oct. 8, a.m.
Homer, Sun., Oct. 8, p.m.
Arcadia, Wed., Oct. 11, p.m.
Pelican, Sat., Oct. 14; Sun., Oct. 15, a.m.
Mansfield and South Mansfield, Sun., Oct. 15, p.m.
Oil City, Wed., Oct. 18, p.m.
Texas Avenue, Fri., Oct. 20, p.m.
Castor, Sun., Oct. 22, a.m.
Bienville, Oct. 22, p.m., Oct. 23, a.m.
Sibley, at Mims, Tues., Oct. 24
Haughton, Wed., Oct. 25.
Mangum Memorial (conference), Fri., Oct. 24, p.m.
Gibsland, Sun., Oct. 29, a.m.
Plain Dealing, at Walker's Chapel, Thurs., Nov. 2.
Wesley, at Carroll Creek, Sun., Nov. 5, a.m.
Ringgold, Mon., Nov. 6.
Grand Cane, Wed., Nov. 8 (conference).
Mansfield, Wed., Nov. 8, p.m. (conference).
Minden, Fri., Nov. 10, p.m.
First Church, Shreveport, Sun., Nov. 12, a.m. (preaching).
Mooringsport, Sun., Nov. 12, p.m.
Noel Memorial, Mon., Nov. 13, p.m. (conference).
Cedar Grove, Wed., Nov. 15, p.m.
First Church, Shreveport (conference), Fri., Nov. 17, p.m.

R. H. WYNN, P. E.

Baton Rouge Dist.—Fourth Round.

Greensburg, Center, Sept. 30, Oct. 1, a.m.
Kentwood, Oct. 1, p.m.
Pine Grove, Pine Grove, Oct. 8, a.m.
Keener Memorial, Oct. 8, 9, p.m.
Baker, Baker, Oct. 14, a.m., 15, p.m.
Springfield, Red Oak, Oct. 15, a.m.
Gonzales, New River, Oct. 22, a.m.
St. Francisville, Oct. 29, a.m.
Olive Branch, Gilead, Nov. 5, a.m.
Clinton, Clinton, Nov. 5, p.m.
Franklinton ct., Fisher, Nov. 12, a.m.
Franklinton, Nov. 12, p.m.
Baton Rouge, First Ch., Nov. 14, p.m.
Hammond, Nov. 15, p.m.
Dunham Springs, Dunham Springs, Nov. 19, a.m. J. W. LEE, P. E.

Alexandria Dist.—Fourth Round.

LeCompte ct., at LeCompte, Oct. 1.
Boyce, at Boyce, Oct. 5, p.m.
Winnfield ct., at Dodson, Oct. 8.
Pineville, Oct. 12, p.m.
Columbia ct., at Columbia, Oct. 15.
Glenmora, Oct. 19, p.m.
Jena and Jonesville ct., at Jonesville, Oct. 22.
Winnfield, Oct. 25, p.m.
Trout and Good Pine, at Good Pine, Oct. 26, p.m.
Provencal ct., at Provencal, Oct. 29.
Bunkie, Nov. 2, p.m.
Alexandria, preaching, Nov. 5, a.m.; conference, Nov. 6, p.m.
Marksville ct., at Marksville, Nov. 5, p.m.
Pleasant Hill ct., at Pleasant Hill, Nov. 12.
Natchitoches, Nov. 16, p.m.
Rochelle and Standard, at Rochelle, Nov. 19.

Preachers in charge will please see that the trustees have reports in hand concerning church property. Pastors will also nominate only the number of stewards allowed by the law of the church. Brethren, arrange your nominations accordingly. The law will be enforced. W. L. DOSS, Jr., P. E.

Lake Charles Dist.—Fourth Round.

Indian Bayou, Oct. 1, a.m.
Rayne, Oct. 1, p.m.
Franklin, Oct. 8, a.m.
New Iberia, Oct. 8, p.m.
Hornbeck and Peason, at Prospect, Oct. 15, a.m.
Zwolle, Oct. 15, p.m.
Lafayette, Oct. 22, a.m.
Opelousas, Oct. 22, p.m.
Morgan City, Oct. 29, a.m.
Jeanerette, Oct. 29, p.m.
Many, Nov. 5, a.m.
Sulphur, Nov. 12, a.m.
Lake Arthur, Nov. 12, p.m.
Merryville, Nov. 19, a.m.
Ludington, Nov. 19, p.m.

J. B. WILLIAMS, P. E.

Monroe-Ruston Dist.—Fourth Round.

Bonita, at Bonita, Oct. 1, preaching, 11 a.m.
Bastrop, Oct. 4, 8 p.m.
Mer Rouge, at Collinston, Oct. 6, 2 p.m.
Elmore, at Vienna, Oct. 8, preaching, 11 a.m.
Dubach, at Dubach, Oct. 8, preaching, 8 p.m.
Mangham, at Mangham, Oct. 10, 2 p.m.
Gilbert, at Gilbert, Oct. 11, 2 p.m.
Winnsboro, at Winnsboro, Oct. 12, 2 p.m.
Oak Grove, at Oak Grove, Oct. 15, preaching, 11 a.m.
Farmersville, at Farmersville, Oct. 18.
West Monroe, Oct. 20, 8 p.m.
Sinimsboro, at Salem, Oct. 22, preaching, 11 a.m.
Tallulah, Oct. 24, 8 p.m.
Rayville, at Rayville, Oct. 25, 3 p.m.
Midway and Epps, at Epps, Oct. 26, 3 p.m.
Chatham, at Trantam's Chapel, Nov. 1, 11 a.m.
Eros, at Eros, Nov. 3, preaching, 11 a.m.
Waterproof, at St. Joseph, Nov. 5, 3 p.m.
Sicily Island, at Sicily Island, Nov. 12, preaching, 11 a.m.
Lake Providence, Nov. 15, 8 p.m.
Monroe, Nov. 17, 8 p.m.
Bernice, at Bernice, Nov. 19, preaching, 11 a.m.
Ruston, Nov. 20, 8 p.m.

The Licensing Committee will meet at Monroe Sept. 19, 10 a.m.

K. W. DODSON, P. E.

Methodist Benevolent Association
Gives Southern Methodist Men and Women Safe
LIFE INSURANCE AT ACTUAL COST
J. M. SHUMAKER, Sec'y
810 Broadway Nashville, Tenn

Cured Her Rheumatism

Knowing from terrible experience the suffering caused by rheumatism, Mrs. J. E. Hurst, who lives at 508 E. Olive St., B-355, Bloomington, Ill., is so thankful at having cured herself that out of pure gratitude she is anxious to tell all other sufferers just how to get rid of their torture by a simple way at home.

Mrs. Hurst has nothing to sell. Merely cut out this notice, mail it to her with your own name and address, and she will gladly send you this valuable information entirely free. Write her at once before you forget.

QUALITY GOODS
AT LOW PRICES
D. H. Holmes Co.,
LIMITED.

GIRLS! LEMONS
BLEACH SKIN WHITE

Squeeze the juice of two lemons into a bottle containing three ounces of Orchard White, which any drug store will supply for a few cents, shake well, and you have a quarter pint of harmless and delightful lemon bleach. Massage this sweetly fragrant lotion into the face, neck, arms and hands each day, then shortly note the beauty and whiteness of your skin.

Famous stage beauties use this lemon lotion to bleach and bring that soft, clear, rosy-white complexion, also as a freckle, sunburn, and tan bleach because it doesn't irritate.

ROCHE'S HERBAL EMBROCATION
RELIEVES SAFELY AND PROMPTLY
CROUP OR WHOOPING COUGH
Also wonderfully effective in Bronchitis, Lumbago and Rheumatism.
All druggists or
W. EDWARDS & SON, London, England
E. FOUGERA & CO., 90-92 Beekman St. N. Y.

"baby improved wonderfully Health" recommend th
excells
Thessalon, Ont.
Box 95
March 29, 1920
Anglo-American Drug Co.,
New York, N. Y.
Gentlemen:—
In regard to Mrs. Winslow's Syrup: My baby suffered greatly with colic, and a friend told me of this Syrup and after I used it, baby improved wonderfully in health.
I can recommend this medicine to be excellent.
Yours truly,
(Name on request)
MRS. WINSLOW'S SYRUP
The Infants' and Children's Regulator quickly relieves diarrhoea, colic, flatulency and constipation, and regulates the bowels. Non-narcotic, non-alcoholic. Formula on every label.
At All Druggists.
Write for free booklet containing letters from grateful mothers.
ANGLO-AMERICAN DRUG CO., 215-217 Fulton St., New York
General Selling Agents: Harold F. Ritchie & Co., Inc., New York, Toronto, London, Sydney

A LETTER FROM REV. W. T. GRIFFIN.

Dear Advocate: Recently I have been with Brothers Price, White, Hawkins and Cain in meetings, and found good congregations, and responsive people. The interest grew until the last day at each place. There were conversions and reclamations and renewing of vows in the old-time way, though the political situation had a dire effect on the people in some places.

These pastors, all, are hard at work and are bringing things to pass. Brothers White and Cain organized Leagues; all put new life into Sunday schools, and urged prayer meetings, and some secured subscriptions to the Advocate. "Henry Ford" helps these pastors to travel, and they are reaching the people. Some thirty were received into the church. Brother White, the senior of these pastors, still has a strong hold on the young people; organizing and leading them, they become workers indeed. Plenty of books and good singing helped much in the campaign.

W. T. GRIFFIN.

FROM HAZLEHURST, MISS.

My Dear Dr. Carley: In keeping with my promise, I will give you some notes from this charge. We closed out last night one of the best meetings this town has had in the memory of the oldest citizens of this community. The whole town was brought under the influence of the gospel. The revival started with the meeting held on the courthouse yard, on the evening of the third, by the "Flying Squadron," of Jackson, with the largest crowd that has assembled in Hazlehurst in many days. Some estimate the number at three thousand. I am sure of one thing—that meeting held by the "Squadron" put a religious influence on the community that opened the way for the great results that followed.

Brother Bennett's preaching was clear, strong and was attended by the Spirit of God. I do not know a man in the evangelistic field that gives more satisfactory service and meets the general demands of a situation better than does Brother Bennett. His preaching is founded on Jesus Christ, a supernatural birth, a sinless life and vicarious death, and a gospel that is made powerful by the Holy Spirit. He insists on a personal experience of a conscious salvation, practical living of the gospel life in every department of life, and obedience to the truths of the gospel.

The town was well organized into prayer bands and a men's prayer meeting was held at the Presbyterian church every afternoon, and a great deal of praying was done in the homes of the people by those who had loved ones they wanted saved and wanted the church revived.

All the services were held in our church after the one on the court yard, except the last one, which was held in the Baptist church. Many evenings during the weeks that the meeting was in progress, many were turned away from the door. People stood around the walls of the church and hung on the words of the preacher with rapt attention. On the last night, notwithstanding we were in the large Baptist church, with every inch of space occupied in the main auditorium and Sunday school rooms, with chairs placed in the aisles, with fifty standing round the walls, more than a hundred were turned away for lack of room.

The spirit of co-operation and good fellowship on the part of the people of the other churches was all that could be expected or desired. The spirit was delightful and men stand on the streets this morning and talk of the meeting and the good that was done. Many families erected family altars and pledged to tithe their income.

The singing was conducted by Brother John Carter, our pastor on the Scotland charge, and I am sure that better and more satisfactory service could not have been given. He preached a fine sermon on the first Monday at the eleven o'clock service, and he caught the hearts of the people at the start, and soon worked his way into the life of the community and completely captured the young people. The names of Brother Bennett and Brother Carter will long remain a pleasant memory in the homes and hearts of the Hazlehurst people of all denominations.

The ladies will organize bands into prayer circles in the sections of the town so the places can be reached with as little walking as possible, and the men will have prayer meeting at some time in the week at one of the churches; a matter of special interest is the young men's prayer meeting, that will be held on Thursday afternoon of every week at the Presbyterian church.

To-morrow at 11 a.m., there will be held at the courthouse a general mass meeting to take steps to put in motion a movement to make the bootlegger and the white lightning dealers a little careful how they run their business.

Fifteen united with our church and several will unite with the other churches in the town.

This has been a very busy summer with this pastor. Besides attending the Divinity School at the Seashore Camp Ground, he has spent several weeks in revival meetings—three weeks with Brother Abney, one with Brother Carter, one with Brother McKeown, and one with Brother Watkins. Besides the blessing of the fellowship with these brethren, it was a great privilege and blessing to strive to lead the unsaved into the kingdom and the experience of a conscious salvation.

I think by the time the year closes we will be able to make a fairly good showing for this charge. I am sure that some improvement has been made on many lines of the church work and life. The parsonage has been improved at the expense of about ten or twelve hundred dollars, and the looks of the parsonage have been much improved. By the time we are to make our report at the coming session of the Conference, we hope to be able to make a good showing.

It has been pleasant to be associated with Brother Ellis, the hustling presiding elder, and it has been a real pleasure to have had the Brookhaven District superannuate preacher, the like of whom will be hard to find, Brother T. W. Adams, who has spent two nights with us in the parsonage home and preached twice for us.

Sept. 18. W. H. SAUNDERS.

JUDICIAL DISARMAMENT.

By Joseph F. Doherty, in The Christian Herald.

With the expansion of commerce, litigation inevitably increases. Our regular courts have a more or less fixed capacity. There is a constitutional limitation to the number of Supreme Court Justices that may be elected in New York. The limit has been reached and the courts may be likened to the neck of a bottle, through which must be poured three times the volume of litigation that now percolates out of the mouth of the bottle, if we are to meet the present demands.

The situation is such as to cause concern not only to judges and lawyers but to noble-minded and God-seeking men generally—men who realize that justice is a sine qua non of our civilization and the very foundation stone on which government is based. Some method must be employed to lift this great burden of litigation from the courts and to provide a speedy and effective means of determining disputes.

Such a method, it is believed, has indeed been found in the new Tribunal of Justice established by the Arbitration Society of America. This tribunal widens the neck of the bottle of Justice by providing hundreds of "judges" or arbitrators whose decisions will be as binding as the decisions of Supreme Court Justices—arbitrators who will have special knowledge of every field of activity and whose standing and integrity will be of the highest.

The new tribunal represents a bold departure from the methods of the regular courts of law. It is a voluntary tribunal where the parties to a dispute submit their disagreement to arbitration, at a small fraction of the expense that obtains in the regular courts, without counsel, if they so desire, and without any of the paralyzing delays, appeals, reviews, reversals and new trials..

The Friend of Sinners: Their scribes and Pharisees murmured against his disciples, saying, Why do ye eat and drink with publicans and sinners? And Jesus answering said unto them, They that are whole need not a physician; but they that are sick. I came not to call the righteous, but sinners to repentance.—Luke 5:30-32.

When a man feels that he does his work for God, and not for men only, then it becomes a divine vocation.—Selected.

ASPIRIN

Insist on Bayer Package

say BAYER

Unless you see the name "Bayer" on package or on tablets you are not getting the genuine Bayer product prescribed by physicians over twenty-two years and proved safe by millions for

Colds	Headache
Toothache	Lumbago
Earache	Rheumatism
Neuralgia	Pain, Pain

Accept only "Bayer" package which contains proper directions. Handy boxes of twelve tablets cost few cents. Druggists also sell bottles of 24 and 100. Aspirin is the trade mark of Bayer Manufacture of Monoaceticacidester of Salicylicacid.

WHEELER Business College BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
"WHEELER STUDENTS GET THE BEST POSITIONS"
Call or Write For Free Catalogue

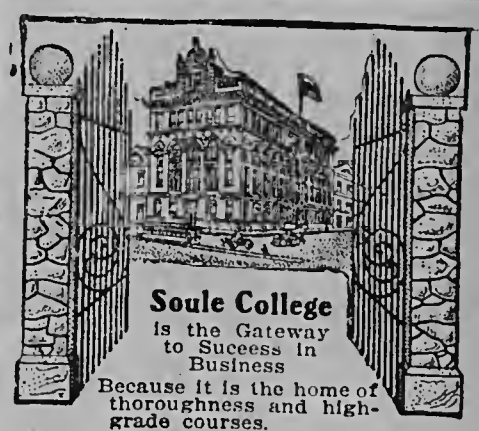
666 quickly relieves Colds and LaGrippe, Constipation, Biliousness, Loss of Appetite and Headaches.

ANGELL'S

COUGH and WHOOPING
Cough Syrup
Easy to Take
No Habit-Forming Drugs. Formula of
DR. RICHARD ANGELL
Prepared by
JAMES R. ANGELL,
New Orleans, La.
PRICE 35c AND 65c
AT ALL DRUGGISTS

It Doesn't Pay

to let your little hurts get bad. Keep Vacher-Balm handy, it will save you money and suffering, if used at once. Vacher-Balm purifies sores and relieves pain. Try it for Mumps, Boils, Bruises, Cuts, Corns, Piles and Soreness anywhere. Try it after shaving. Avoid imitations. If you cannot get it locally, write for a sample. E. W. Vacher, Inc., New Orleans, La.—Adv.



Think Ahead and You Will Get Ahead

Promotions in business go to the Best Trained workers. If you will Think Ahead, you will realize the great advantage of attending a Reliable School of Business Training.

We invite you to investigate the many advantages offered by Soule College.

Day and Night Sessions.

GEO. SOULE & SONS.

New Orleans, La.

NEW ORLEANS

CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE

Vol. 69—No. 40. Official Organ of the Louisiana, Mississippi, and North Mississippi Conferences, Methodist Episcopal Church, South. Whole No. 3478.

HENRY T. CARLEY, Editor. NEW ORLEANS, LA., THURSDAY, OCTOBER 5, 1922. CHAS. O. CHALMERS, Manager.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

PERSONAL EVANGELISM.

One of the greatest joys of the Christian worker is to realize that he has been directly instrumental in bringing some soul into a saving relationship to God. It is doubtless true that there are many Christians who have not experienced such joy, because the fruits of their labors have not immediately appeared; nor are such to be denied the happiness of feeling that they have a part in the coming of the Kingdom. But it is a kind of supreme joy to be able to point to some man or woman who has been won to Christ by a personal appeal. This joy is not experienced by many, perhaps, because they have felt that personal evangelism is something that can be practiced only by those who are especially gifted in dealing with individuals. Some people, of course, have the gift to an unusual degree; but all of us have the opportnity, it may be in a limited way, of saying the word that will be the means, under God, of saving a soul. It ought to bo an encouragement to all Christians, too, to know that almost invariably the sinner to whom they speak will give a respectful, and oftentimes eager, hearing. God prepares the ground as he prepares the seed; and he does not leave the sower to do his work without providential guidance and divine help. It certainly should not be considered a "cross" for one who is happy in the love of God to try to get somebody else to share the joy that is the greater by reason of the sharing. Happy indeed will be the man or woman who is welcomed at the portals of Heaven by those who have entered therein as a result of the personal word lovingly and appropriately spoken.

THE NEAR EAST ATROCITIES.

The recent massacre of Christians in Smyrna by the Turks has aroused a feeling of intense indignation throughout the Christian world, as well it might, and the organizations that are trying to save those persecuted peoples have issued a public appeal for funds for emergency relief. The Near East Relief has the organization on the field capable of handling the situation, but announces that it cannot do so unless it has immediately special funds for that purpose. An urgent appeal for immediate contributions is made, which should be sent to the Treasurer, Near East Relief, 151 Fifth Avenue, New York, designated "Smyrna Relief." After the bitter experiences of the past, it would seem to be unthinkable that the Turks should bo entrusted with the unregulated control of Christian groups—yet the Governments of Europe seem to be content to do the unthinkable thing. There is a strong feeling, too, that the United States should take some positive step toward bringing to an end such an intolerable condition. This feeling was very clearly voiced by Dr. Robert E. Speer at a great mass meeting held in New York on the afternoon of September 24, when he said: "We are not here to feed the fires of hatred against the Turk, nor to propose war, nor to urge our Government to take sides on disputed political issues. But we are here to declare our conviction that religious minorities are entitled to protection, to appeal to our nation to accept its inescapable duty in aiding and establishing a righteous peace in the Near East, and to insist that the Armenian people are entitled to some home of their own where they can be safe and able to take care of themselves." This would seem to be a most opportune time for the League of Nations, the Allies, and all the great Governments to function in behalf of humanity.

A VOTE THAT COUNTS.

According to the Dearborn Independent, a vote was recently taken on the wet and dry question among the inmates of the prisons in the United States, with the result that 133,000 voted dry and only 909 voted wet. We take it that this is a poll that has real significance. It is very well for those who have only their selfish interests and appetites to consider to say that there should be a modification of our present prohibition law; but for those who are paying the penalty for their misdoings, in which liquor played a large part, to say that the country ought to remain dry means that the "pragmatic test" has been applied. "The burned child is afraid of the fire."

COLLECTIONS IN THE CHURCHES.

We can easily understand how a congregation may become restive under repeated calls for money when these calls are made without regard to time, place, or circumstance; but we do not believe good men and women will ever resent the opportunity of contributing to a cause that is clearly and directly connected with the ongoing of the Kingdom of God. There may be individuals in the congregation who will not give and who will complain that the church is nothing more than a money-gathering agency; but the great mass of Christian people will respond heartily and liberally. We sometimes fear that the preachers are more timid about asking for money than the people are about giving; at least, it is probably true that "low-pressure" preachers are responsible for "low-pressure" congregations. The following from the Central Christian Advocate illustrates the point: "The other Sunday Bishop Fred B. Fisher was giving his thrilling story of the Victories of the Cross in his Calcutta area. He told of the victories over problems; the victories he had seen in personal life. Later, for a moment, he spoke of needs in India, in China, in Japan and Korea, with which he is also familiar. He told how the winds of God are blowing. And when he got through he quietly, and without any spirit of criticism whatever, started to say to the congregation, as he sat down, that 'it was understood he was to say nothing about the congregation giving anything, but he would be pleased if—'. He never got any further. A man in the congregation jumped to his feet and called out, 'Who told you that?' That layman took five of those hundred-dollar units and sent his check to the altar. Another and another followed. The offering was $2,650. Evidently the man who 'told him that' misunderstood something."

THINK A MINUTE.

The designation of October 2-9 as Fire Prevention Week calls attention to an economic loss in the United States that is too little realized. The disastrous fire a few weeks ago on the river front in New Orleans, in which the loss amounted to more than $5,000,000 adds point to the campaign. Last year the total loss by fire in the United States was $485,000,000, which means that property worth $925 was destroyed every minute; and in these fires 15,000 lives were lost. Careful investigation has shown that ninety per cent of all fires are caused by carelessness; it would have been possible, therefore, to save most of the property that went up in smoke, and 13,500 of those lives. It has not taken the reader more than a minute to scan these lines—yet, on the average, nearly $1000 worth of property has been consumed by the flames. Think a minute—and safeguard your premises against fire.

A POOR MEMORY.

According to a recent news item, Mr. Henry Ford's secretary called his attention to a deposit of $2,000,000 in a bank at Windsor, Ont., that he had forgotten all about. To our way of thinking, that is a supreme example of a poor memory. When we recall, however, that Mr. Ford's profits for the calendar year 1921 amounted to $76,000,000, and that his present cash balance is said to be about $200,000,000, we can easily believe that money as such has ceased to have any meaning to him except as an instrument with which to carry out his plans. But to forget that he had $2,000,000 in bank! We dare say there has never been another case like it in history.

THE RED CROSS ROLL CALL.

In keeping with its annual custom, the American Red Cross will conduct its "roll call" during the period between Armistice Day, November 11, and Thanksgiving Day. This "roll call" is simply a method of renewing the membership of the Red Cross year by year, and it is conducted for the purpose of enabling the organization to perform those duties which are laid upon it by Congress. We are sure there will be a ready response to this appeal when it is made in November.

New Orleans Christian Advocate

OFFICE, No. 512 CAMP STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

Published every Thursday by the Publishing Committee for the Louisiana, Mississippi, and North Mississippi Conferences, Methodist Episcopal Church, South.

Entered at the Postoffice at New Orleans as Second-class Mail Matter. Accepted for mailing at special rate of postage provided for in Section 1103, Act of Oct. 3, 1917, authorized Oct. 30, 1918.

TERMS:
Subscription Rates: One year, $2.00; six months, $1.
To superannuates and widows of preachers, $1.

TO CONTRIBUTORS.

All copy submitted for publication should be legibly written on one side of the paper with pen and ink, or typewritten. Matters written with a lead pencil and rolled manuscripts are unacceptable. No copy will be returned unless postage is enclosed for that purpose. In no case will responsibility be assumed for the loss or non-return of articles—the writers should keep copies of them. We do not purchase matter of any kind.

IF CHURCH LETTERS TOLD THE TRUTH.

(The Rev. W. H. Powers; the energetic and successful pastor of First Church, Ithaca, N. Y., believes that if Church Letters always told the truth some of them would read somewhat as follows.—Editor).

I.

To the Pastor of the Second Secondary Church, Fraternity Burg, N. M.:

This is to certify that Brother Lodge Enthusiast has financially supported this church for three years. We can say without any hesitation that he is one of the most popular men in social and fraternal circles who have ever lived in this city. Not only is he popular in these circles, but he is a recognized leader, as you will realize when I mention to you a few of the offices he holds at the present time. He is at this writing Worshipful Master of the Masons, Goodness of Hope of the Odd Fellows, Virgin Scrus of the Grange, Grand Mogul of the Sons of Indolence, Two-edged Tomahawk of the United Order of Red Men, Tailbearer of the Merciful Mannikins, Big Blizzard of the Arabian Knights, Double-Barreled Dictator of the Knights of Brass Circles, Sublime of the Union League, and Pledge Passer of the Reform Club. A few other offices held by him do not come to me.

He is glad to assume whatever responsibility he can in the church, but his physician has told him he must let up on some of his activities, so he has decided that it is impossible for him to accept any position of responsibility connected with the church. He conscientiously states that he regrets that he cannot attend the prayer meeting because every Wednesday in the month except one is taken by lodge engagements and he feels that after the advice given him by his physician he should stay in and rest that evening. His church attendance averages about one Sunday service a month unless his poor health manifests itself. Brother Lodge Enthusiast will do a good deal for your church socially and financially, but not so much spiritually. They say that he has the ritual of every lodge to which he belongs almost entirely committed. He dropped into the men's class a few Sundays ago and our teacher asked him to look up a reference in Matthew. After searching vainly for it in the vicinity of the Psalms he had to give it up, and our teacher asked Brother Goodman, Lodge Enthusiast's gardener, to read it. Trusting that your acquaintance with our brother may be a source of inspiration to him and that his health may improve so rapidly that he may soon be able to attend the church service bi-weekly, we are Cordially yours,

II.

To the First Disgruntled Church, Nearby City, N. Y.:

This is to certify that Brother and Sister E. Z. Peeved were faithful members of this church until they became displeased with the pastor's attitude and at that time desired to withdraw and unite with your church. At first we were very much grieved, but have learned since that in the past this has been their customary system in changing from one church to the next. It is impossible for us to state how long your church may be able to coddle them. If your supreme desire is to keep them in your membership we would suggest that you hedge a little in your sermons and be diplomatic to a painful and compromising degree outside of the pulpit. It is fortunate that your city has so many churches that are anxious to increase their membership because for several years our brother and sister will be able to go to a new church and by the time they get the rounds, unless conversion overtakes them, there may be a new and unsophisticated pastor in the church they started from. Very frankly yours,

III.

First M. E. Church, College Town, Mass.:

This is to certify that Mr. A. Student has been a member of this church for six years. During that time he has attended on an average of one service every six weeks. One of his chief religious convictions is that Sunday is the best day of the week on which to study; besides by studying on Sunday it leaves more time for social and recreational life on the evenings of the week. Mr. Student is a very bright and likeable young man and on Sundays when there is no studying to do will show considerable interest. We trust that the fellowship of your church will prove helpful to our brother. Sincerely yours,

IV.

Fifth Avenue Church, High-Tone City, Md.:

This letter is to certify that Mrs. Society Light has been a spasmodic member of this church for ten years. Her religious zeal is so thoroughly overwhelmed by her social ambitions that it appears to be almost smothered. She is constantly spending time, labor, and plenty of money to satisfy her social manlaticus, which is one form of softening of the brain. As a member of your church she will come when she isn't too rushed socially, will pay when she has a surplus and thinks of it and will work in the church society except when suffering from the above-mentioned disease. We commend her to your fellowship and trust that for her peace of mind she may not be eclipsed by any social rival. Sincerely,

V.

To the Pastor of the Pleasant Avenue Church, Easytown, Pa.:

This is to certify that Brother Religious Crook has been a misrepresentative member of this church for seven years. During that time he has pledged enough money to build a new church, furnish it and pay the pastor's salary for the first year, and out of the amount pledged has not paid enough on his pledges to buy enough material to give the bell its annual oiling. Our church treasurer says that if our entire membership paid on the same basis as Brother Crook we wouldn't have enough to buy fifty envelopes from Woolworth's in which to mail out the quarterly statements. A while ago Brother Crook told a neighbor that he had pledged $50 toward a benevolent fund, but did not mean to pay it. He made the pledge just so the church could send in a good report in the matter of pledges to this fund. Brother Crook has not said so openly, but it is well understood in the community that he does not consider anything pledged to the church as a debt; it is merely an expression of good will. A few evenings ago at the official board meeting, when the stewards were looking over the accounts of those who were five years or more in arrears, it was suggested that some one approach Brother Cook and ask him to settle up, but finally the plan was abandoned, as it was suggested that such action might injure Brother Crook's feelings, as he is exceedingly sensitive. Some people think it is wiser for a church to owe everybody in creation than to injure the feelings of any of its delinquents. If Brother Crook becomes a member of your church you will do him a favor to give him an opportunity to make a pledge for every good cause and then you will do him another favor by immediately and permanently forgetting that he pledged anything. We would suggest that to save ink the treasurers of the various funds take all Brother Crook's pledges verbally. We are in hopes that at our next General Conference it may be decided to refuse to give the church letter of members who deliberately and habitually dishonor their pledges. If there should be such a thing as "a man without a country," there should likewise be "a man without a church." Sincerely,

VI.

Pastor First Progressively Spiritual Church, Christian City, Mo.

My Dear Brother: You are an exceedingly fortunate pastor while I am a very sorrowful one because I am now issuing you the membership transfer of Brother and Sister Faithful. They have been earnest and consistent members of this church for fourteen years and go from us with the deepest respect of every man and woman in the community and the love of all who knew and worked with them. You will find in the first place that they look upon church attendance as one of their first obligations (they call it privilege). The prayer meeting is their regular weekly engagement and they almost never allow anything else to supplant it. They bring to the prayer meeting with them an earnest prayer and a ringing testimony, and we shall never forget how our hearts have been lifted as we have listened to them and witnessed the light of the Holy Spirit on their countenances. They will not be hesitant to express their displeasure at something that they consider wrong in the church, but they will do it guardedly, and in such a splendid Christian spirit that the criticism will be a stimulus to work. If there is anything you wish done you need have no hesitation in asking the service from Brother and Sister Faithful. They believe in a Christianity of service. If you want them to speak to an unsaved person you may be sure that they will inspire the utmost confidence of that person. Many a time have I heard some woman say, "I wish I could be as good a Christian as Mrs. Faithful." No less than twenty men have told me that if the church had a dozen men like Brother Faithful there would be no limit to its success. Enjoy their fellowship, use their services and count yourself fortunate in having with you such a man and woman of God. The respect, love and sincere prayers of the men and women of this church go with Brother and Sister Faithful to their new home. May God richly bless you as you work together. Sincerely yours.

—From N. Y. Christian Advocate.

FROM THE PELICAN PINES.

By Rev. S. A. Steel, D.D.

So the Episcopalians have taken the word "obey" out of the marriage service. I suppose it is just as well to eliminate it from the marriage service, as it seldom meant anything to the contracting parties anyhow. Not one in five hundred couples who get married read the marriage service before the ceremony itself. It is one of the most beautiful and solemn and sublime parts of the ritual. A proper study of that marriage service by young people who contemplate matrimony would save some from the tragical results of mismating, for no serious person can read that service without seeing what a sacred thing matrimony is, and that it is not to be taken in hand "unadvisedly, but reverently, discreetly, advisedly, and in the fear of God." So far as the word "obey" is concerned, both as it occurs in the Bible and in the marriage service, it does not mean that the wife is to take orders from her husband. That idea is contrary to the whole Biblical conception of the relation of woman to man; for the Bible, and the Bible alone of all the religions in the world, makes woman man's equal. It means that the wife is subordinate to her husband as the head of the family. The family is God's unit of social organization. Every organization must have a head. Take a business firm with two equal partners, and one of them must be the president, and must be recognized as such in order to the proper management of the business. So in the family. It must have a head, and God ordained that the husband should be the responsible head. So if you are going to run your home on God's plan, the wife must be "subject" to her husband, and husbands must "love their wives as Christ loved the church, and gave himself for it." I am sorry they have taken the word out of the service, and I hope the Methodists will keep it in; for it expresses the church's ideal of the "holy estate of matrimony."

After the delightful meeting at Tyler, Texas, where I bobnobbed for a week with Perry and Sledd and Dunkle and Duckwood, and enjoyed the music and the prayers and the enthusiasm of the colored preachers in their summer school of theology, I had a week at home with Sister Steel and two of the girls. Gerald had gone coastward, down among the rice-fields and Satsuma orchards to teach, and Virginia had gone to accept a position in a school near Philadelphia. I'm proud of all my girls. They are hustlers, and take to paddling their own canoes like little ducks take to water. Virginia, about 20—I can't keep the run of the almanac with so many birthdays in the family—attended a school near Philadelphia a year ago, through the kindness of her uncle. I understand she was the only girl in the school that would not dance. She made no pose of being more religious than others, but, thank the Lord, she has the Steel backbone, and was quietly loyal to her ideal of a Christian. So when the President of the school learned she was available for a special position he wanted to fill, he telegraphed for my little girl. Amen! If any girl reads this who thinks she must dance to win her way, let her reconsider her "thinks." I missed these two jewels from the home-casket. My pig was growing finely. I have named him Verres, after the Roman praetor who looted Sicily. Like the praetor, my pig never seems to be satisfied. Cicero did not have to make a speech to convict Verres. He submitted the facts, and that was enough. Verres was ruined and Cicero's fame was made as a lawyer. The pig, you understand, is a sanitary institution. I got him from Leboe, the butcher. I did not altogether like his looks, but Leboe assured me that he was a porcine aristocrat in disguise, and I believe he is going to put on the proper appearance in time, for I notice that he curls his tail over his back now, and has a dignified grunt instead of a tackey squeal. I won't have anything tackey around me if I can help it.

I found quite a nice start on the subscription to my book, "Home Life in Dixie During the War." I must have a thousand names before I can risk the expense of publishing it. I don't call for the money now, but do want subscribers at $2. Some have sent the money, and said keep it whether the book is published or not—a contribution, I suppose, to the "superannuate fund!" Dear Dr. Smith, of the University of Virginia, subscribed for several copies, sending the money with instructions to turn the check over to Sister Steel in the event I fail to get the 1000 subscribers. Several friends had asked others to subscribe, and sent a list of subscribers. If a number would do that, we would soon get the required number. Several editors of the church papers that I write for have given me a nice recommendation, and started the names coming. I appreciate that courtesy. It is a way they can help the "forgotten man." Forgotten!

I went to hear Pearson preach in Mansfield. He is a "humdinger!" I don't know what he was doing over in Middle Tennessee, that "dimple on the chin of Dixie," as Bob Taylor used to call it; but he is moving things in the Pelican pines. He preached on: "Wherefore, seeing we are compassed about with so great a cloud of witnesses," etc. Bobbitt's girls were there in full force, and they make a fine show. The sermon was fine, but I expected a little different treatment. I expected he would take the modern baseball game as the analogue of the Olymple race, and illustrate his theme by that. Had he done so, some of his hearers who are enthusiastic "fans" might have forgotten where they were, and started a shout. But he shied off on a different tangent. He is all right.

I am writing this from the Youree Hotel in Shreveport. I had to put the clerk in Hotel Tyler mighty low in the scale on account of his indifference to the comfort of his guests. These clever Youree clerks are the very opposite. Courtesy and kindness are the rule here, so it is a pleasure to stop at the Youree. I am on my way to Sardis—O no, not in Asia Minor where the unutterable Turk is shocking the world by his savage atrocities; but Sardis, Mississippi. It is not far from my early stamping ground, and the older I grow the more memory loves to revert to the scenes of my childhood. The long stretch of a virtuous life behind me makes a pilgrimage to the haunts of early life a genuine joy. Sardis used to be a center of intelligence and social culture and refinement second to few communities in our Southland. I expect to find it so still; yet we have changed in many ways. Even our ideals of culture now are different from what they were when I was young. Children are "kids," making their fathers billy goats, and fathers are "daddies." Every time I hear that word, a little black pickaninny in his shirt-tail bobs up before my mind's eye; for that was what the little darkies on the plantation called their fathers before the war. I would have gotten a good whipping if I had called my father "daddy." And if one of my children should so far forget their raising as to dub me "daddy," they may expect the same treatment now. But everybody to their likes, as the old lady said when she kissed the cow.

A TRIBUTE TO THE LATE REV. THOS. CAMERON.

Dear Brother Carley: I have just noticed the death of Rev. Thomas Cameron, and I wish to drop a flower in his memory. I, with five others of the Memphis Conference, were, by action of the General Conference in 1870, made members of the North Mississippi Conference in its organization, and Brother Cameron came in with us from the Alabama Conference and was made a member of our class. My introduction to him was very pleasant, and in our class examination we became very intimate. Rev. A. C. Allen examined us. Some amusing things occurred, one of which I remember; Brother Cameron took a hearty laugh. It was this: Brother Allen was examining us on the historical part of the Bible, when he asked one brother to give him a sketch of the character of a certain book; he studied for a moment, then said, "Brother Allen, I don't believe I ever heard my father preach from that text."

We were often thrown together, and in 1880 he and his brother, J. D. Cameron, were with me in a camp meeting, in which I enjoyed the preaching of both. The fact is, while J. D. outranked him, I never thought he could beat Tom as a real theological pulpit orator. I have been on his trail in the pastorate and he was everywhere spoken of in the highest terms. To his son and daughter, I would commend you to the care of your father's God, and pray that you may meet him in the eternal beyond where death has no horror, but where life will be in eternal happiness. Yours, of the few charter members of the North Mississippi Conference, in Christ,

S. W. MILLER.

Frisco, Texas.

OUR PERPLEXING SOCIAL PROBLEM.

By Rev. E. N. Evans.

(Extracts from a recent treatise on this subject, which may be had free of charge on request, as it is dedicated and given to our Memorial Home by the author).

This little treatise is not written for people who don't care. If you pray, "God bless me and my wife, son John and his wife, us four and no more," you may cease reading with this paragraph. I am not talking to you.

* * *

Social vice can be dealt with only from the point of approach set forth in the teachings of Jesus. The ancient Hebrews had the most rigid laws and severest penalties of olden times. They did not cure the evil, but the restraint gave them the best homes in that age of the world. They did not seek to cure the disease, they simply killed the patient as a preventive.

* * *

Jesus did not come to condemn and kill sinners, but to forgive sins and make saints out of such as would truly repent and trust in Him. He opened the way and cleared the mind of much confusion of thought when He made a clear distinction between sin and crime. He dealt with sin and left crime to be dealt with by the social order. He abrogated no law of Moses or of Rome. Forgiveness of sin did not pardon crime, nor did it restore to former social position. He forgave the sin of those who were criminals, but left them to expiate their crime as State or society might demand. We may pray for the forgiveness of the sin of the hardest criminal who ever abused society and still demand that he meet the penalty of violated law. The thief on the cross is an example. The organized social order has a duty to protect the home from the criminal. Failure or laxity to do so would destroy the foundation of our civilization.

* * *

There are sinners—social and moral sinners—who are not criminals in character or purpose. They do not deserve or need anything that the State or society can do for them. They are of all sinners the most penitent and pitiable. Even the home that gave them birth and shelter can not lower its moral standard and bring the cloud over the innocent members by retaining them. Gossip and scandal will inflict a penalty more cruel than that of the ancient Hebrew. Inevitable exposure will start these cruel social forces to the cursing of that home, crush these bruised lives, and blight the innocent one for all its days to come.

* * *

Publicity can do no possible good. The absence of information is the only preventive of scandal and gossip. Secrecy may be socially and morally honest—and it can protect society, the home, and the sinner. There is a place and an open door of hope for such as are not criminal and who may voluntarily retire from the home and seek that which alone can save—forgiveness of sin, regeneration of heart, a new life and a new chance. If Jesus can not forgive these of sin and give them a new life, there can be no hope for any sinner. Social recognition that can not be won by a clean and sinless life of Christian service is hardly worth while.

* * *

There are no illegitimate children. None of us choose our own parents. There may be children of illegitimate parents, but they are born with no more guilt than other children. There is not much in blood aside from the physical, except that it may all be bad. Physical birth that is physically perfect is good enough a start, since we all must be born again, and in this new birth we have an option and a prayer. These children should not be killed but spared to the childless homes that need them.

Do you believe that God can forgive and save these? Then our Memorial Home has a place and a mission. It is Christianity in action.

New Orleans, La.

BISHOP W. N. AINSWORTH AND HIS CONSTRUCTIVE PROGRAM FOR THE KINGDOM OF GOD IN MISSISSIPPI.

Dear Advocate: On last Wednesday there was held in the Winona Methodist Church a meeting that marks the beginning of a great forward movement on the part of the Methodists of Mississippi. On Tuesday night before, Bishop Ainsworth preached a great sermon to a large audience in Winona on the Mission of Methodism to the world. In his sermon the Bishop clearly showed that Methodism's chief mission to the world is preaching the gospel and giving to men a new life in Christ Jesus. He declared among other things that the ills of our world and of America can not be cured either by legislation or by argument, but that they can be cured by the renewal of the hearts of the people of the world through trust in and obedience to Jesus Christ. He clearly and forcefully brought out the fact that while Methodism's chief duty is evangelical, still we Methodists have doctrines. He, through an apt illustration, gave a knockout blow to the doctrine of election, and showed that it is the duty of Methodists to declare unto the world that Christ Jesus purchased salvation for all men alike, and that His invitation is, "Whosoever will." He then skillfully attacked the doctrine of the "final perseverance of the saints," and showed that though a man has been happily converted through faith in Jesus Christ, he may, through willful sin, finally be lost. But his concluding thought was a return to the original proposition, that Methodism's chief mission is to preach Christ. It was a great sermon, that made a profound impression on all his hearers.

The Bishop comes to Mississippi with an aggressive, constructive program that will stir the hearts of all Christians to new activity in the work of the Kingdom. He is asking that the presiding elders examine, each, his district and see if he can use all, or part, of the time of an evangelist. According to the need thus discovered, he is proposing to have the Conference finance men, all of whose time is to be given to the work of evangelism under the direction of the Conference. To give enthusiasm and life to this forward movement, the Bishop will call a meeting in Jackson some time in January, at which he will have all the preachers of Mississippi and at least one thousand laymen.

Thank God, Methodism is at last girding herself for a great forward movement here in Mississippi! Christians, let us all linger much and long at a throne of grace that the Holy Spirit, through our consecrated leader, Bishop Ainsworth, may have the right of way to do the work of God in our great State!

J. TILLERY LEWIS.

Winona, Miss., Sept. 23.

CONSOLIDATED CHURCHES.

By Rev. H. Walter Featherstun, D.D.

When on a rather thickly settled district some years ago, I discovered that in rural sections we had too many weak churches and far too few strong ones. I found that this very unfortunate state of affairs had come about in this way (I have in mind an example): A once strong country church with its Sunday school, prayer meeting and all else in a thriving condition, began to divide up by putting a preaching service at a little public schoolhouse some three or more miles north on the afternoon of the big church's regular preaching Sunday; by and by, another for Sunday night; then another for Saturday night, and all in little public schoolhouses in opposite directions from the big church. Little Sunday schools and smaller prayer meetings were undertaken. Some pastor after awhile organized each of these little groups of members into a church. All of this was justified by the claims that the roads were too bad to go far to church, and that conveyances were scarce, and the example and the facilities presented by the public schools were inviting. The pastor felt glad to report to the conferences—District and Annual—that he had organized three new churches, and expected to build houses for them in the near future. And in some instances poor little, cheap, often stoveless and otherwise inconvenient houses were built. The little Sunday schools and prayer meetings, wanting in the enthusiasm of numbers, and suffering the paucity of leaders, dwindled out. The fine revivals that came of old to the big old church gave place to four little preacher-killing, "pop-gun" protracted meetings, barren of force and meagre in results.

Our mistaken public school authorities set the example of this ruinous division until about all that our rural schools, some twenty years ago, could offer the farmer's child was a poorly equipped little school of three or four months' duration, with grades rarely above the sixth. The result was that Mississippi ranked shamefully low in the illiteracy comparisons with sister States. But a new day has come to us through her consolidated schools: "State Superintendent of Education Bond announces that Mississippi, according to population, has more consolidated schools than any other State in the Union. One hundred and eighty-one consolidated school districts have built a home for the teacher, for which he is charged no rent. Mississippi has more teachers' homes to-day than any other State, irrespective of population. Fifty Mississippi consolidated schools have been approved by the Federal government, and next year will do vocational work in agriculture. These schools will receive Federal aid. The total enrollment in the consolidated schools last season was 75,000. There are 1,600 transporation wagons and trucks transporting 35,000 children."

Methodism must take notice. The consolidated church must come. On the sites of old Antioch and Hebron and the rest so sacred with radiant memories will be built churches unexcelled in our towns, to which on every Sunday motor trucks and automobiles will bring along the splendid roads, already being built, the poor and the rich alike to the Sunday school and every Sunday preaching. It must come—this glad new day.

EDUCATIONAL NOTES, LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.

Our Shreveport Standard Training School was a pronuonced success. We had a most excellent faculty. Those who attended were serious-minded and did faithful work.

The Christian Education Movement is closely associated with the great work of the Sunday school. Our second objective in this far-reaching campaign is: "To promote the cause of religious education by bringing about a closer and more effective co-operation between our institutions of learning and the Sunday school, and by establishing strong departments of religious education in our colleges and universities." To the best of our ability, we are making an honest effort to come up to these requirements.

In a recent pamphlet sent out is to be found the following paragraph: "Our schools and colleges are thoroughly Christian." "The sense of religious obligation is stronger and more active in our institutions than it ever was," declare our Bishops. "Our educational institutions are loyal to the Bible as the authorized Word of God," said the last General Conference. "Each institution is a special agency of the church for the salvation of the world," say the colleges themselves. This is pre-eminently true of both Centenary and Mansfield Colleges. They are doing the best work in all of their history. The Christian ideal is being upheld in every field of endeavor. There is no greater work in the world. Character is basic to society. It is the noblest fruit of the universe.

If the training of the character, the inculcation of right precepts, the leading to right moral choices, the cultivation of a good conscience, the learning of the way of truth, reverence and holiness; in a word, if the fear of the Lord be indeed the beginning of wisdom, the foundation of all personal, commercial, and national success and happiness, then our Christian institutions having so serious a work in hand, deserve to have our most serious consideration and liberal financial support. More and more our people are coming to see the real position of our church schools and valuing them highly for their constructive program.

Centenary had a very fine opening. The audience filled the college chapel. Good speeches and fine music were on the program. Over three hundred students registered the first day. The dormitories are filled. A building will be started right away to take care of the overflow. We need the money to go into this enterprise. So pay up your pledge. If you have not pledged, give us your subscription.

Our second-payment "Pay-Up-Week" will be from November 1 to 8. We would be glad if the pastors would call attention to this fact during the month of October and urge those in arrears on the first payment to cover both first and second payment during Pay-Up-Week, if possible.

Let the local church collections make prompt remittance and when making returns to the Conference Secretary of Education at Shreveport, La., be sure always to send a complete list of those subscriptions who make payment, and to whom you want credit to be given.

ALBERT S. LUTZ,
Conference Secretary of Education.

THE CENTENARY IN THE MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE—A LETTER FROM BISHOP AINSWORTH.

My Dear Brother: I beg to call your attention to the approaching "Clean-Up Week" for our Centenary Funds. The Mississippi Conference stands well toward the top in the percentage of our payments on these pledges at the present time, and yet a very large sum is still overdue and unpaid. Financial conditions are certainly improving throughout the country, and we ought to gird ourselves to make a clean sweep of these collections at this time. No pastor can have a more important duty, and each one should summon his appropriate committee and plan to discharge this holy responsibility, without delay.

Wishing you abundant success in "Clean-Up Week," concerning which we will have reports at the Annual Conference, I am, with best wishes,

Sincerely your brother,
W. N. AINSWORTH.

Macon Ga., Sept. 26.

"THE CHILD IN THE MIDST"—THE METHODIST ORPHANAGE, RUSTON, LA.

Some one wrote recently in the Advocate to this effect: "Our Methodist church in Louisiana has neglected three things—Hospitals, Superannuates, Orphanages." I am interested in hospitals, for I robbed one of them of its Lady Superintendent; "The forgotten man" is being thought of; and I often make this statement, that our Orphanage is the most popular institution in our Conference. If I could get in my "Conference Claims" as easily as money for the Orphanage, how happy I would be. Yet our Orphanage ought to be three times its size.

I have before me a report of our Wesleyan Methodist Orphanage in the English Conference. And if I refer to the work being done "over there," please do not condemn me unjustly. I am not making comparisons nor offering suggestions. I simply state a few facts. I have known the English institution from its birth. It is now called The National Children's Home and Orphanage. It started by being called after its founder, Dr. Stephenson's Home and Orphanage. Reviewing the last ten years: In pre-war days it had thirteen branches; to-day it has twenty-eight, housing nearly four thousand children as against half that number in 1914. If you take a map of England and mark off the principal centers, you will find on examination that in each case there is planted a branch of the N. C. O. In 1914 the expenditure was $270,000; this year, 1922, the annual cost will be one million dollars. In all the twenty-eight branches there are cottages or homes, for the management believe in the home system. By that, I mean each cottage houses say from twenty-five children or more. A relative of mine has just given one of these homes—a branch—taking care of one hundred and ten boys, to train them for a seafaring life. War conditions prevented the sending over to the Branch in Canada boys and girls to be trained as citizens for Canada, but the scheme has begun again.

How it would gladden the heart of Bob Vaughan if the Ruston Orphanage could have a Branch at Alexandria, and another at Biloxi—how those boys and girls would enjoy a week or two by the sea! It must be painful to our esteemed Ruston Superintendent to be continually refusing applicants for admission. Our Lord uttered words which we regard as the most beautiful in all the literature of the world—words that showed how deep and tender was the Savior's pity towards the little ones. This work must lie near to the Divine heart. Children who have been orphaned in their infancy by death or orphaned by sin, are often under a handicap in relation to heredity, while those whose parents were unfit to have or care for children were in even worse case. We helleve in the possibility and the necessity of conversion of children, and when they are brought under such elevating influences as at the Home in Ruston then there is hope for them. Then there is the attention given to giving them a start in life by an education, by learning a trade. The failures are so very few and those who are succeeding are so many, that we are warranted in doing all in our power to extend the operations of the Orphanage. Work Day is upon us. Get husy.

Ponchatoula, La. F. B. HILL.

SAFETY SIGNALS.

By Rev. S. J. Davies.

Tho one who thinks for himself, who fears not to grapple with the great problems of life—the problems of the Here and the Hereafter—are the real heroes of the race. Men who follow blindly are very apt to blind themselves. Fear, prejudice, slavish bondage to custom, traditions, selfish ambition or love of place or office, are the giants in the way of progress. Hear me, a truth that any ways relates to life and destiny has precious little, if any value, to the man who refuses to test its worth In the alembic of his own thought. In fact, this is the only way he can rightly and truly call it his own. Dare to believe great truths, but remember true faith is based on conscious acceptance. Mere credulity is superstition; conscious, inborn, accepted faith is real religion—the only kind worth having. For herein are man and God agreed, if I read my Bible aright. Real thinking, honest thinkIng, the thinking that grapples and struggles, Is the true Insignia of royalty, the hall mark of princes among men. All the feebleminded are not confined to asylums; many are so, because they are too lazy or fearful really to do some downright honest thinking. "As a man thinketh in his heart so is he," are the golden words written on the portal of life by its Giver and Master. Read them well, understand them fully, treasure them in memory's shrine, for these are words of right understanding, words which are an open sesame to the King's palace, wherein are the beauty and joy of life eternal. Only be sure the heart thinketh aright.

* * *

"A new commandment I write unto you, that ye love one another." The Episcopalians, so says the Gazette, wish to add this to the decalogue. It is true that love Is law and the higher spiritual law is love, but the all-compelling power and impulse of love is something vastly more than complying with legal sanctions or Incurring legal penalties. The real life and beauty of love lie in its freedom, not In its compliance with compulsory enactments. Love is higher; it breaks over the barriers of "Thou shalt" and "Thou shalt not." In short, it obeys because it wants or wills to obey what is right and best. The holy passion our Lord was inculcating, can really only live and abide in the heart of one who wills to do God's will. Men can love and neither fear God nor serve him, but it is not divine love. When the dawn bursts with splendor on the Eastern hills I need no command to see—I need only to obey the law of vision and the eye catches the glory of the oncoming day. It seems to me it is something like this the Master meant.

Coushatta, La.

LAW ENFORCEMENT, OR ANARCHY.

A Great Law Enforcement Conference is to he held, December 3 and 4, in New Orleans, La., at the Grunewald Hotel. There will he a mass meeting, Sunday, 7:30 p.m. We are arranging for one or more of the best men to be had to address this meeting. A good program is being arranged for December 4. The afternoon session will be given over to the W. C. T. U. of Louisiana. Mrs. A. C. McKinney, State President, of Ruston, La., will have charge of the 3 o'clock session.

We want all ministers of the Gospel present who can possibly attend. Pastors will please elect two delegates from their charges. We suggest one of them be selected from the young people's organization of the church.

Beer and wine propaganda carried on by the enemies of prohibition must be met in a safe and definite way, and we propose to show the falsity of this wet agitation, so long as the 18th Amendment remains a part of the Federal Constitution. The question now is, Are you for the Constitution or against it? A. W. TURNER,

State Supt. La. Anti-Saloon League.

HARVEST DAY.

In the operation of an institution where orphan children must be provided with a home, clothed, fed, sent to school, and thoroughly equipped for life, it becomes necessary to call upon our people from time to time for the means with which to operate. The Louisiana Methodist Orphanage is now providing for 140 children, giving them every necessity of life, affording them the best of advantages, training, fitting, and equipping them for the highest citizenship. This institution Is owned and operated by the Methodist Church in Louisiana and is entirely dependent on the people of the Methodist Church for the support it must have if this important work is to be carried on. No agents, no collectors, and no solicitors are sent out in the field to secure money. Our only effort Is made through the church and Sunday school, and but two opportunities are afforded our people during the year to contribute to this cause. Easter Sunday in the spring and harvest Day In the fall are devoted to the Orphanage and its claims in all our churches and Sunday schools throughout the State. Sunday, October 15, is Harvest Day for this year. We therefore appeal to the people of the Methodist Church for the necessary support to carry us through the winter and meet the extra expense that cold weather brings. We sincerely trust that no church and no Sunday school will fail to do their utmost for this cause, and that the proceeds this year will go beyond anything that has ever heen raised in the church for the Orphanage. Assuring our people that we are doing the best we can to make this institution worthy in every way of their loyalty and support, and that we are striving to the utmost of our ability to give every child that comes under its care the best of attention and providing them with the hest of opportunities, and trusting that this will be a prosperous year for all Methodism in all its varied field of operations, I am, Sincerely,

ROB'T W. VAUGHAN,

Supt. Louisiana Methodist Orphanage.

Ruston, La., Sept. 30, 1922.

PREACHERS' INSTITUTES TO BE STANDARDIZED.

At the request of the General Conference Board of Education, the Commission on Education, which met at Lake Junaluska last month, adopted a "Minimum Standard for Preachers' Institutes." This minimum standard will be published as an appendix to the Commission's report, which is now being printed. The requirements fixed by the Commission will not be hard to meet. The following are the principal ones:

1. Except in the case of well-established institutes of high standing, these Preachers' Institutes are to be held at our educational institutions—preferably at our standard colleges—and with their co-operation.

2. These Institutes are to be administered by a board of managers, approved hy the Annual Conference Boards of Education.

3. In the interest of economy and efficiency, it is recommended that groups of Conferences unite in the maintenance and conduct of Institutes.

4. Institutes must be held for at least ten consecutive days.

5. Instruction is to be provided both for candidates for admission on trial and for ministers In service in rural church work, Sunday school work, missions, etc., as well as in the regular Conference course of study for undergraduates.

6. Undergraduates must attend the entire session in order to receive credit on the Conference course of study.

7. No credit is to be given unless the student shall have studied the books concerned before coming to the Institute, preferably under the direction of one of our Correspondence Schools.

8. Examinations at the institutes are to be as thorough as those given by the Correspondence Schools, and the passing grade shall be 70 per cent.

9. To give the instruction for the four classes of undergraduates, the faculty shall consist of not less than eight members.

A copy of the report of the Commission can be secured upon request from the Board of Education, 810 Broadway, Nashville, Tenn.

CARROLLTON CHURCH LEADS.

The first church to complete the full Fourth Payment on Centenary Pledges was Carrollton, where that prince of laymen, J. R. Bingham, lives. The next to come up were Greenwood Springs, Waterford, Chulahoma, and Love's Station. Several others are nearly up, viz: Aberdeen, Ebenezer, Houlka, New Albany, Prairie, Pine Grove, Derma, Wesley's Chapel, Kossuth circuit; Union Hill, New Albany circuit, Ripley, West Side, Clarksdale, South Union, Chester circuit; Como, Winona.

The churches paying the larger amounts are: Aberdeen, $7,416.50; Amory, $5,146.18; Tupelo, $15,122; Columbus, $6,596.75; Booneville, $5,944.90; Corinth, $5,561.93; New Albany, $12,946.68; Ripley, $6,191; Greenwood, $8,442.70; Clarksdale, $5,190; Grenada, $7,897.65; Water Valley, $7,812.25.

The church paying the largest per cent on its quota is New Albany. Tupelo pays the largest amount. Now let all the others of the six hundred churches collect and send in enough to put them In the 80 per cent paid-up list.

BEN P. JACO,

Conference Secretary and Treasurer.

CHURCH EXTENSION NOTICE.

To the Brethren of the North Mississippi Conference: Those who will expect to apply to the Conference Board of Church Extension for help in building or finishing churches or parsonages, should write at once to the Rev. J. T. McCafferty, Amory, Miss., who is the secretary of the Board, for blank applications, and have them filled out carefully. See that the county clerk has given his certificate and that it is properly endorsed by quarterly conference; then return same to the secretary to be placed on calendar for Conference.

The Board's Anniversary will be held Wednesday evening of the opening day of the Conference, and Dr. T. D. Ellis, our new General Secretary, will be with us and address the Conference.

W. M. YOUNG, President.

Leland, Miss.

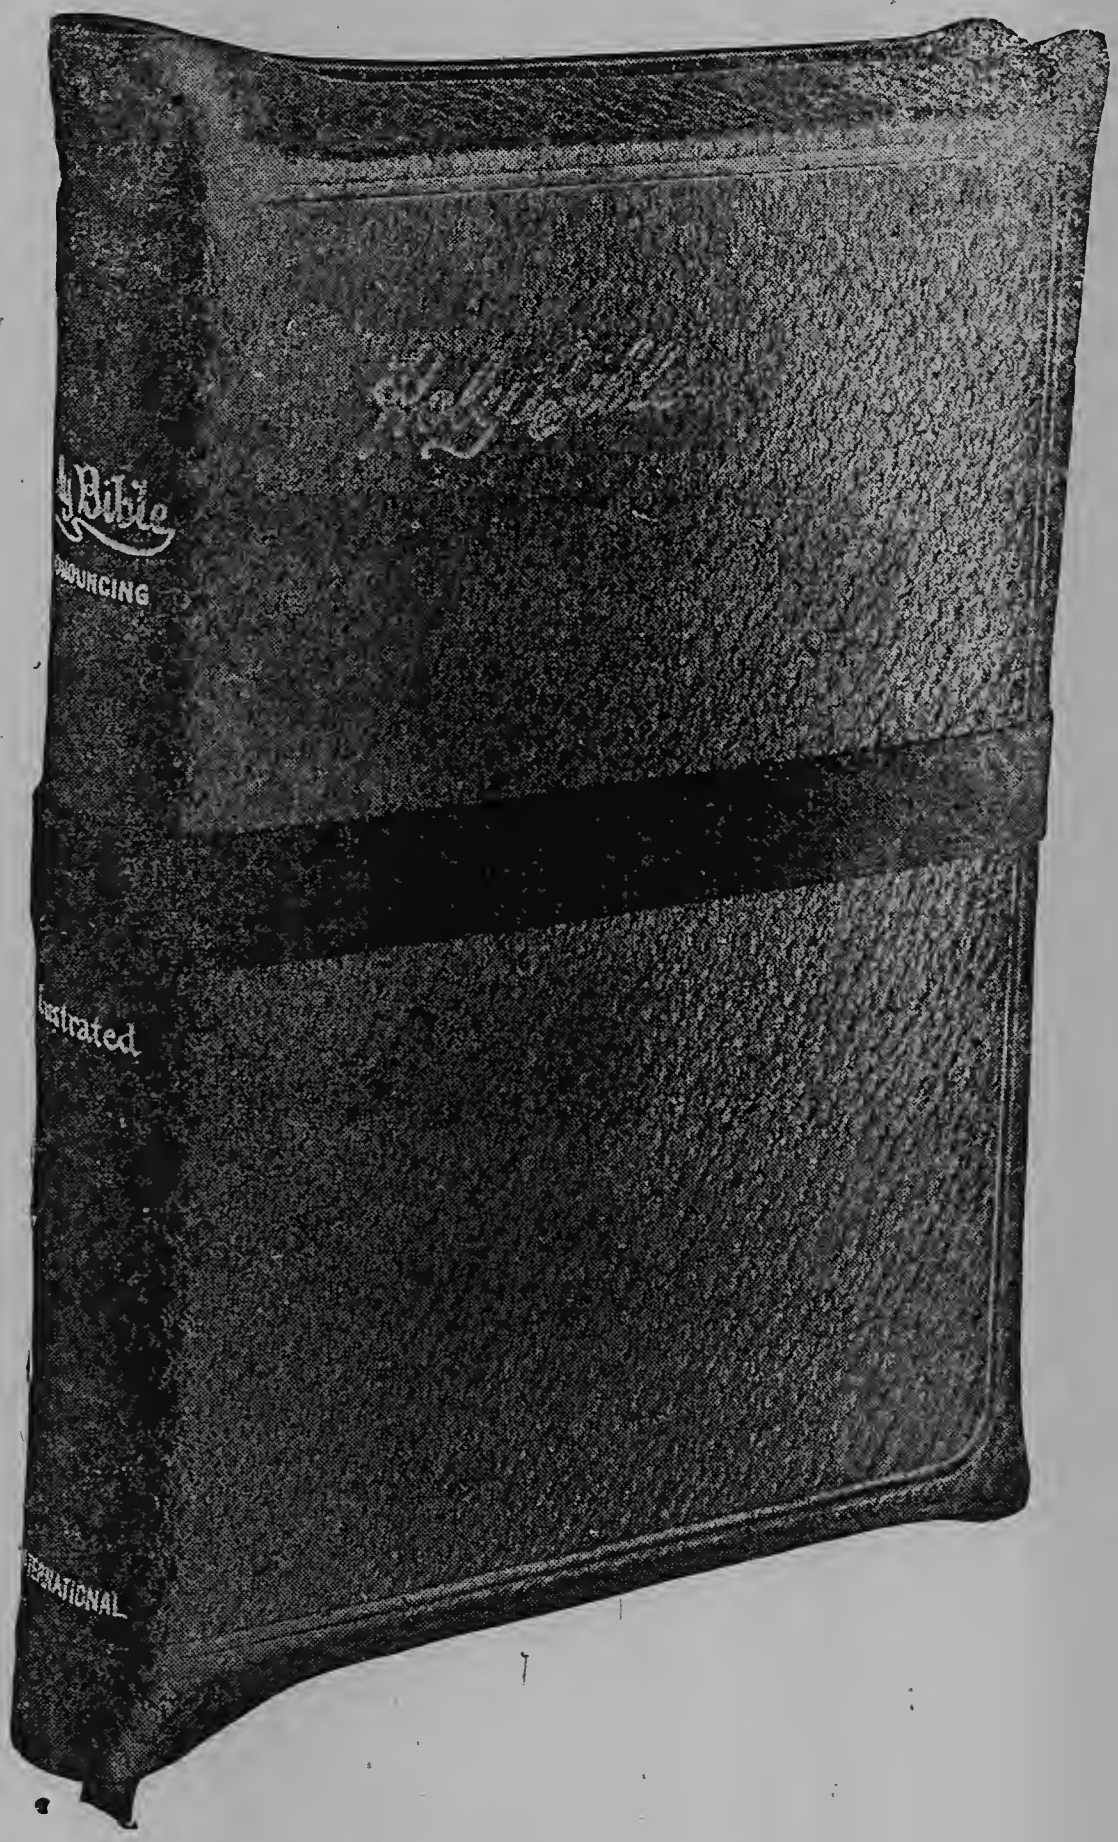
When Dr. John Henry Jowett was in Newcastle he Inaugurated a children's service in connection with the church. At the opening service four boys slyly blew their tin whistles in the rear of the gallery. The youngsters were brought before the preacher In the vestry, where they expected a severe reprimand. Much to their astonishment, Dr. Jowett asked, "Can't you play better than that on tin whistles?" And before they could gather their wits together to know how to answer, he added, "I must ask Mrs. Jowett to teach you to play properly." She undertook to teach them, and in a few week's time these same lads gave a fine whistle quartette at the children's service, Mrs. Jowett accompanying them on the piano. Thus they were won and used, and no better helpers could be found than these boys became.—Selected.

Love Is the one essential; pray that God may fill you with it to overflowing. Then will follow the spirit for work, for humility, for self-denial.—Evon Roberts.

The Standard Teachers' Bible

GENUINE LEATHER BINDING

FLEXIBLE



PRICE, $4.00.

ADDRESS:

New Orleans Christian Advocate, 512 Camp St., New Orleans, La.

The Home Circle

NEXT DOOR TO A ZOO.

I'll tell you what I'd like to do,
I'd like to live next door to a zoo!

Then the animals I'd have for chums,
And I'd get the adder to do my sums;

And when I'd a task in geography,
The kangaroo would bound for me;

The seal would seal my letters, you see;
And the monkey'd steal dates from the history,

The elephant would lend me his trunk, I know,
When off on my travels I wished to go;

I'd spend the eagles and fly the kites,
And the tapir would light my room o' nights;

I should have great fun, I think, don't you?
If I only lived next door to a zoo!

—Exchange.

"GETTING ALONG."

For some reason I was impressed the other day with the extreme convenience of this expression and the frequency of its use. Really, our vocabulary would be impoverished without these two words that in themselves mean little and may be employed in divers ways.

"I wonder," mused Jeannette, surveying last year's headgear with a criminal eye, "whether I can get along without a new hat this spring?"

"I should think that you could if you just made up your mind to. One can get along without most things in this world if one only thinks so."

Jeannette turned her thoughtful gaze to me. She had that far-off look that denotes a moralizing or philosophical mood.

"Then it's merely an attitude of mind?"

"What?"

"Oh, hats and people—yes, and perhaps husbands. I never looked at it in this way before; but honestly, life is made up with getting along without and getting along with."

"That's true."

"Mary Tompkins gets along with that lazy husband of hers by working twice as hard herself and letting him sleep late in the morning."

"That's because she loves him."

"She thinks she does it for love; but it really isn't affection. It's easier on the whole to work than it is to make him work. 'Getting along' is sometimes a synonym of mental sloth."

I gazed at Jeannette in astonishment.

"You're a pessimist."

"No, I'm a philosopher. Getting along with some things is shiftlessness, pure and simple."

"It doesn't apply to hats."

Jeannette whirled on her hand her last year's brown straw with a wing stuck up jauntily.

"No, not to hats. I never thought of how many significations that phrase has. Now, it isn't creditable to put up with a dirty house and slovenly children as Mame Jones does, with the excuse that she can 'get along' that way as well as any other, and it saves a lot of trouble and soap and backache. But it is highly to my credit if I make the hat do another season and give the money I save to the poor babies who are starving over in France."

Mother came in at that moment.

"Oh, girls, I've been over to see Miss Lyon! Did you ever see anything quite so beautiful as the way she gets along with her deaf old father? And he's so cross when she isn't there. I don't see anything to laugh at."

"There isn't anything, dear," Jeannette explained, "except that we were just talking about the use of that expression. Miss Lyon gets along with her difficult relative, but she has to get along on a very small income."

Mother's eyes danced in her merry way. "But they say that her brother is getting along splendidly in business," she commented.

"While her father is getting along in years," gasped Jeannette. "Oh, the beauties of the English tongue!"

Father's voice was heard in the hall.

"Aren't you people ever going to bed?" he queried. "It's getting along toward midnight. I never knew any women who could talk so much."

And then he wondered why a peal of laughter greeted his remarks in a frivolous manner.

"Get along to bed yourself," was mother's quick retort, for mother was the brightest of us all when she caught the spirit of a thing.—Felicia Buttz Clark, in Western Christian Advocate.

TINY MOUSE-DEER IN CAPTIVITY.

I had secured porcupines, both the common and the brush-tailed variety, Malay honey-bears, monkeys, gibbons, squirrels in variety and a half-grown leopard, but the prizes of my collection were five mouse-deer. They are exquisite miniatures of large deer. The full-grown bucks are between eleven and twelve inches high. They have light spots along the sides and a dark brown streak down the back—markings very much like those of the English fallow deer, but they have no antlers. Many legends and fairy-tales have grown up around Plandok, the mouse-deer, who has won the hearts of Malay children as Brer Rabbit has our own. When I returned to Singapore I was fortunate in getting six more mouse-deer from Yew Kee, the Chinese animal dealer, who had just received them from a trader in Ipoh. I knew that every zoo in America would be glad to display these beautiful little animals; so I nursed them into captivity with unusual tenderness. But in the month before I sailed for America three of them died in spite of my care, for they are very delicate animals and most difficult to accustom to cage-life. At first they beat themselves unmercifully against the sides of their cages and worried a great deal, but finally, after much coaxing and caressing, they became quite tame and even were taken out of their pen to run about the compound. Every morning one of my natives went to the marshes near Singapore to gather the water-plants, which are the favorite food of mouse-deer. We also gave them sweet potatoes chopped fine and a mixture of chopped apples and carrots. For the trip home I made two comfortable crates, with a separate compartment for each animal. Out of Manila one of the does had a little fawn, which was so small that it could lie flat on the palm of my hand. I spent most of my time on the ship in petting them and watching their diet as closely as if they had been babies. In every port I procured fresh water plants for them, kept their cages damp and sprinkled with clean sawdust and gave them fresh water several times a day.—From Specimens and Specimens, by Frank H. Buck, in Asia.

THE CHRISTIAN AND HIS LORD.

Where He appointed to meet His disciples, there He would be in due time. Jesus keeps His tryst. If He promises to meet us at the mercy seat, or in public worship, or in the ordinances, we may depend upon it that He will be there. We may wickedly stay away from the appointed meeting-place, but He never does. He says: "Where two or three are met together in my name, there am I;" He says not, "There will I be," but, "I am there already."

Jesus is always first in fellowship: "He goeth before you." His heart is with His people, His delight is in them, He is never slow to meet them. In all fellowship, He goeth before us.

But He reveals to those who come after Him: "There shall ye see him." Joyful sight! We care not to see the greatest of mere men, but to see Him is to be filled with joy and peace. And we shall see Him, for He promises to come to those who believe in Him, and to manifest Himself to them. Rest assured that it will be so, for He does everything according to His word of promise: "As he said unto you." Catch at these last words of our text, and be assured that to the end He will do for you "as He said unto you."—C. H. Spurgeon.

Miss Margaret Slattery told us that one day she was walking along the street when she heard a little voice say: "Hello, Miss Slattery." She looked around, but saw no one. Again the little voice. She looked everywhere, but still saw no one. Then the little voice said, "Keep-a-lookin' up, Miss Slattery." She said, "I looked up, and up, and up, and finally saw her way up in a tenement house, and when I found her she said, 'You didn't see me, Miss Slattery, because you didn't look high enough.'" The lesson is obvious. Some of us when we think of childhood look down as if it were beneath us.—Selected.

SPECIAL OFFER

ONE 42 PIECE $12.00 DINNER SET

BLUE BIRD, FLORAL OR WHITE AND GOLD DESIGNS

For $4.98 f. o. b. New Orleans

Cut out this Advertisement and send to WM. B. REILY & CO., New Orleans, La., with Six Coupons from Luzianne Coffee and $4.98, and the Beautiful Set will be Expressed to You at Once.

All three sets consist of: 6 dinner plates, 6 cups, 6 saucers, 6 pie plates, 6 fruit dessert dishes, 6 oat meal dishes, 1 large meat platter, 1 round vegetable bowl, 1 oval vegetable bowl, 1 cream pitcher, 1 sugar bowl, 1 sugar bowl cover.

New Orleans Christian Advocate

HENRY T. CARLEY, Editor.

CHAS. O. CHALMERS, Manager.

PUBLISHING COMMITTEE:

Louisiana Conference—Rev. J. F. Foster, Rev. S. J. Davies, Rev. C. C. Miller.

Mississippi Conference—Rev. J. T. Leggett, Rev. J. R. Jones, Rev. W. H. Saunders.

North Mississippi Conference—Rev. J. H. Felts, Rev. T. H. Lipscomb, Rev. J. W. Dorman.

DIRECTIONS.

All checks and money orders should be made payable to the New Orleans Christian Advocate.

Communications pertaining to subscriptions and other business matters should be addressed to the Manager, or to the New Orleans Christian Advocate.

The Printed Lab.l on a paper shows the date to which a subscription is paid. It is as good as a written receipt. When renewal is made, if the date is not moved forward after three or four weeks, notify us, and we will make it right.

Communications intended for the Editor should be directed to him at 512 Camp Street. Correspondents will observe the following rules: 1. Write on only one side of the paper. 2. If you have a typewriter, by all means use it; otherwise use a good quality of black ink. 3. Leave a space of at least two inches at the top of the first page; leave a margin of at least one inch on the left-hand side of the page; do not crowd the words and the lines together. 4. Take special pains to write proper names correctly and legibly. 5. Use letter paper if you can get it—not note paper. No attention will be paid to rolled manuscripts.

MEETING OF THE PUBLISHING COMMITTEE.

The regular annual meeting of the Publishing Committee is called to meet in the office of the New Orleans Christian Advocate, 512 Camp Street, New Orleans, La., on Thursday, October 12, at ten o'clock a.m. It is hoped that every member of the Committee can be present.

JNO. F. FOSTER, Chairman.

STOP THE LEAKAGE.

In a recent issue of the Advocate, under the caption, "Taking Care of the Young People," we discussed the necessity of our using every possible means to provide for the enlistment of our young people in the work of the church in order that they themselves may receive the religious development they need and in order that the church may maintain and increase its efficiency as a means of bringing in the Kingdom of God upon earth. We give below a letter from Dr. Fitzgerald S. Parker, General Secretary of the Epworth League, in which he calls attention to a serious problem—the leakage of the young people from the church during the period of adolescence and early maturity. The startling statement that, in some Conferences, as large a proportion as seventy per cent go back to the world during a period of ten years, is enough to give us serious thought, and to cause us to use redobled efforts to stop this loss. We MUST make full use of the Sunday school and the Epworth League. Dr. Parker's letter is as follows:

"Dear Brother Carley: I notice with much satisfaction your editorial in the current number of the Christian Advocate on 'Taking Care of the Young People.' Several years ago, I made some careful studies of the minutes of the Conferences in order to ascertain what was becoming of the young people who joined the church. I found that, in some Conferences, as large a proportion as seventy per cent of them go back to the world during a period of ten years. This leak can be stopped, but pastors must awaken to the fact that the waste is going on and the Epworth League is especially designed to aid them in this most important work. Just at present we are placing especial emphasis upon the organization of Intermediate Leagues, the purpose of which is to do for the adolescents between the ages of thirteen and seventeen a work of conservation, similar to that that is being done in the Senior League for the younger adults. The leakage in Sunday schools is even greater than that of young people being lost in the church, and the Intermediate League will be particularly adapted to this work of cooperation with the Sunday school.

"Very truly yours,

"FITZGERALD S. PARKER."

OUR ORPHANAGES.

We feel that it is only necessary to call attention to the Annual Work Day for our orphanages in Mississippi and Louisiana in order to insure a hearty and generous response to the appeals of these institutions for needed support. In all our Sunday schools and churches these appeals should be made—and we feel sure they will be made. Let the people have the opportunity of giving to this sacred cause—and see how gladly they will respond. Every human heart is touched by the appeal of helpless childhood.

PERSONAL AND OTHER NOTES.

According to the "Big Brother," the Walker-Boyd meeting in Greenville, Miss., is one of the best ever held in that city.

Rev. John A. Randolph, recently retired from the chaplaincy in the U. S. army, is holding a meeting this week at Chalybeate, Miss.

The address of Dr. Jno. T. Sawyer, an honored superannuate member of the Louisiana Conference, is now 4016 Prytania Street, this city.

The St. John Methodist Church, of Augusta, Ga., established in 1798, celebrated its 124th anniversary on October 1. Dr. Chas. C. Jarrell is the pastor of this historic church.

The next Triennial Convention of the Protestant Episcopal Church will be held in New Orleans in 1925. This is one of the greatest ecclesiastical gatherings held in this country.

Mrs. V. D. Skipper, widow of the late Rev. V. D. Skipper, in renewing her subscription to the Advocate speaks very appreciatively of the meeting recently held in Hazlehurst, Miss., by Rev. Jas. V. Bennett.

Bishop W. A. Quayle, one of the best known of the chief pastors of the Methodist Episcoppal Church, has been forced to give up his work for three months on account of ill health.

Rev. Jno. F. Foster, chairman of the Publishing Committee of the Advocate, was in the city last week and visited at the Advocate office. He is an indefatigable worker in his pastoral charge, Covington, La.

We learn from an exchange that at the recent session of the Southwest Missouri Conference Dr. M. N. Waldrip was received by transfer from the Tennessee Conference and appointed to the Central Methodist Church, Kansas City, Mo.

The new church at Pine Ridge, on the Natalbany charge, Louisiana Conference, will be dedicated on the fifth Sunday in October. The editor of the Advocate has been invited to officiate at that service. Rev. H. C. Murphy is the pastor.

The Sunday School Training School at Shreveport, La., came to a close on Friday night, September 22. About 140 were enrolled, and thirty-nine certificates were issued. An outbreak of dengue fever interfered greatly with the school towards its close.

The Business Men's Bible Class of Durant, Miss., greatly enjoyed its recent visit to the Methodist Orphanage at Jackson, Miss., as is evidenced by the resolutions passed at its meeting on September 24. We are sure much good will result both to the class and the Orphanage from this visit.

President Few of Trinity College, Durham, N. C., has just announced that Mr. James B. Duke, of New York, has made additional large gifts to the college. These gifts include $25,000 to the new gymnasium; $50,000 toward a law building; $50,000 toward a building for the new School of Religious Training. In addition to these gifts, Mr. Duke is adding $1,000,000 to the endowment of Trinity.

Under the auspices of the Southern Co-operative League for Education and Social Service, a Southern Congress for Home Betterment will be held at Nasbville, Tenn., December 3-6. The opening address will be delivered on Sunday afternoon by Dr. Philander C. Claxton, former U. S. Commissioner of Education.

Rev. W. M. Langley, our pastor at Holcomb, Miss., gives us the interesting information that the laymen of the church there have agreed to hold services on Sunday nights when there is no preaching. On Sunday night, September 24, the service was in charge of Brother B. S. Elliott, and there were fifty-three present.

Rev. C. D. Atkinson, Louisiana Conference Sunday School Field Secretary, paid the Advocate office an appreciated call on Monday of this week. He had just been to Franklinton, La., where he had gone in the interest of his work. He gave a good account of church affairs in Franklinton, where Rev. L. W. Cain is the popular and efficient pastor.

Rev. J. W. Pearson, our pastor at Mansfield, La., recently began holding occasional services at the old camp ground ten miles east of Mansfield, just on the edge of the Dolette Hills. This is a historic site, and in former days great revivals were held there. The Mansfield Enterprise of September 21 gives an interesting account of this old camp ground.

Dr. Charles P. M. Sheffey, of Lynchburg, Va., has recently sailed for medical missionary work in the Congo. He received his Master's degree from Randolph-Macon College in 1915, and his medical degree from Johns Hopkins University in 1921. Dr. Sheffey is the son of Mr. Edward Fleming Sheffey, one of the outstanding Christian laymen of Lynchburg.

We take the following from the Texas Christian Advocate: "Dr. W. H. Coleman, pastor of the Central Methodist Church of Fort Worth, is to be congratulated on the formal opening of the new auditorium which, recently completed, gives that church an auditorium space of twice the size of the original building." Dr. Coleman was formerly a member of the Louisiana Conference, where he filled some of the leading appointments.

A recent investigation has shown that the average annual cost per student at Emory University was $336.56, while the student himself pays but $136.91 a year. These figures mean that the student pays only a fraction more than 40 per cent of what his education costs, the university having to raise the balance from endowment or other sources, or suffer a deficit. The situation at Emory is paralleled at other educational institutions. It is evident that we must adequately endow our colleges and universities unless we want the opportunity for higher education restricted to those who are rich enough to pay thousands of dollars a year. We need to pay our Christian Education pledges.

The Methodists of Baton Rouge, La., are engaged in a great campaign to raise funds for the erection of what will probably be the finest church building in Louisiana—one of the finest in the South. A volunteer team of 136 persons are asking for subscriptions during the period September 29-October 5, and thus far have met with gratifying success. It is estimated that the total cost of the building fully equipped will be in excess of $200,000. The site at the corner of North and East Boulevards has been secured, which is generally recognized as the finest location for a church in the city. A banquet inaugurating the campaign was held on the evening of September 29, at which Governor John M. Parker was present, and a strong address in favor of the enterprise was delivered by him. The pastor, Dr. Chas. W. Crisler, is enthusiastically back of the movement. Mr. W. S. Holmes is general chairman, and he is assisted by a finc corps of workers. The building of this church will he an achievement that the whole of Louisiana Methodism will take pride in.

THANKS TO OUR FRIENDS.

We desire to express our thanks to the following friends who have sent us two or more subscriptions recently: Miss Emily Cook, Crystal Springs, Miss., 2; Miss Winnie Long, Philadelphia, Miss., 2; Rev.. Robt. Thorne, Springhill, La., 5; Rev. P. O. Lowrey, Indian Bayou, La., 3; Rev. A. M. Shaw, Oakdale, La., 2; Rev. P. M. Caraway, Sicily Island, La., 4; Rev. W. M. Williams, Purvis, Miss., 4; S. Montgomery, New Orleans, La. (First Church), 2.

A CALL FROM THE EAST.

By Dr. John S. Chadwick.

On Monday, September 25, there came to the Board of Missions headquarters in Nashville the following cablegram from Bishop James Cannon, Jr.:

"Constantinople.

"More outrages, more looting, morc deportations, more separation of families, more refugees, more misery, more orphans, more death. Greek and Armenia patriarchs have made heart-rending personal appeals for help for their helpless, despairing, suffering, dying people. Have assured them Christian America will help. Freely we have received, freely, quickly we must give. Outrages, deportations, massacres will continue intermittently while Turks rule over Christians. If America was justified in rescuing Cuba from Spain, she has great reason to rescue Christians from Turkey by whatever methods are necessary.

"JAMES CANNON."

The situation in the Near East is a most distressing one, and it grows worse as the days pass. Surely it is time for America to speak and for America to act. Thc churches of the United States have a wonderful opportunity, and theirs is a high obligation to speak in this hour in behalf of the millions of Armenians and other Christians who suffer persecution and who face death. The General Conference of our own church spoke on this question, and its message was morc than one of sympathy for our fellow Christians to distant lands. There was an appeal to our government tq join with nations of Europe in some action looking to the ending of the persecutions and the slaughter of Christians in the Near East. Other church hodies have made practically the same request of our government. As church people and as American citizens, it is our right to appeal to the government in behalf of the Armenians.

But whatever our government may do or may fail to do, the Christian people of America must do all in their power to help relieve the suffering of those distant peoples. The Methodist Episcopal Church. South, has made large contrihutions to Near East Relief. We must do more. This effective agency of relief in the Near East has done a work that will stand always as witness to the liberality of the Christian people of our land. The Board of Missions of our church stands ready to forward promptly all funds for Near East Relief, and urges our people to answer this call. Send your contribution to J. D. Hamilton, Treasurer, Lambuth Building, Nashville, Tenn.

A LETTER FROM JAPAN.

Hiroshima, August 11, 1922.

Dear Friends: I do not know whether any one has written the details, as we know them, of the tragedy our mission is again called on to face, the untimely death of that promising man, Harry Hughes. It still seems like some dreadful dream, from which we must awaken. Mr. Weakley, Mr. Shaver, and Miss Bennett went down on Tuesday, while I stayed here to attend to things here, as we had no news save that Mr. Hughes was drowned. We received the telegram a little after four o'clock Tuesday morning from Mr. Oxford, saying Mr. Weakley would he on the 7:30 train, on his way down. Mr. Weakley knew little more than we did. Mr. Shaver and Miss Bennett went prepared to go if it seemed hest. About an hour after they had gone, a telegram came saying the funeral would he in Kohe Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock. I tried to reach the folks on the train by a telegram, but fortunately it did not reach them. In the afternoon another came saying "cremation decided." Mr. Weakley made all sorts of inquiry about sending bodies on the train or steamer. It would have heen impossihle to send on the train, but might have been possible on the steamer from Beppo, hut all was arranged hefore they reached there. The funeral had heen held in the house and they were just starting out with the body when our Hiroshima folks arrived. Mr. Shaver said he never saw any one so brave under such suffering as Mrs. Hughes. Mr. Weakley said he did not ask Mrs. Hughes for any particulars, hut as far as he could find out, it seems Mr. Hughes was working in his garden with a farmer till quite late. The farmer said he did not go home till tbe lights were on. Mr. Hughes must have eaten his supper, before starting out, hut we do not know. Harry went with him and Harry and a little Japanese hoy were playing by the river. Mrs. Hughes said she heard a cry that sounded like some one with the mouth shut. She was in the dining room. She went out but could see nothing. Harry said, "We cannot see father." From Harry's account his father had crossed the river and swam as far as the bridge and was returning. There was a Matsuri, so it was hard to get any help for some time. The body floated before they found it, and came up opposite the house. The Demarees were out on the yearly boating with the Christians, so did not get home till eleven. The postoffice people watched for him and gave him the telegram when he returned. They went in the automobile, but did not reach Nakatsu till ahout three in the morning. Poor little woman! Alone in her grief all that time. Mr. Weakley said that Mrs. Demaree was entirely unnerved by the shock, and the long time without rest. Mr. Weakley stayed and helped one day and will go again. Miss Bennett will stay on till some things are decided. Mrs. Hughes wishes to start for America as soon as she can. Why it should he permitted that a man of Mr. Hughes' stamp should he taken just as he was fitted to do work, is something we cannot understand. I am ready to go to Natkatsu if it should seem hest for some one else to be with her and Miss Bennett. I suppose it will be hest for a man to go help with thc many things to be done.

For the past week I have been living much in the past, reading old letters, trying to decide which had value and should be kept. In this way I have reviewed most of the history of the mission, its triumphs as well as its trials. Many things hard at the time, in the light of later years appear as hlessings in disguise. Some things we can never know on this side of the Great River. One impression I get of Mrs. J. W. Lambuth, Dr. J. W. Lambuth, as well as our Bishop, is the fact that in everything they found some way to praise God for his goodness. We can say nothing to comfort the dear little woman, but we can pray that the Comforter he sent to her. As Mr. Weakley said to-day, Mr. Hughes was the leader among our younger missionaries and of the greatest promise of any that had come out of late years. May this common sorrow draw us closer to the Master and may we as a mission come to know and to do His will as we have never hefore. I think of Mr. Stewart's last talk to the girls on Sunday hefore he left. He said Christianity meant to the Cross, or rather, by heing faithful, often meant to the Cross, rather than being kept from suffering. I can not put it in as he did, hut it is certainly to the Cross, at some time.

I had such a cheerful letter from Mary Lambuth: while she feels the loss as greatly as ever, she is, Lambuth-like, taking up life and finding much to do for others, even in her grief, and with her mother needing so much care. O for a faith that will not shrink in trials! That old hymn, I cannot recall the words, will now have greater meaning for me.

I suppose the Bishop and Mrs. and Dr. Pinson havc arrived. With much love to all,

NANNIE B. GAINES.

START SOMETHING.

A certain Y. M. C. A. chief complainod recently that not one membcr of his staff had accomplished a solitary thing during the year in the way of original work. They had simply followed the heaten trail. They had done their work faithfully, but they had broken no new ground, and had started no forward movements. They had lots of zeal and energy hut no initiative; and the leader was disappointed. He had expected them to start something.

Possibly the men's very training bad made them followers instead of leaders. As we consider our schools we see that all too much the child is led to depend on the teacher, and when the teacher doesn't teach the child doesn't learn. This is a great handicap, and is apt to cling to the child through life. Children should be taught to use their own initiative, to grind their own grist, to do their own work.

And in amusements we have a similar state of affairs. The movie, the radio, the phonograph, and the player-piano, all assist in making the child helpless to amuse himself. Give a child a playmate, a piece of string, and a few pebbles, and hc ought to amuse himself for hours. But when our amusements are of the penny-in-the-slot variety the child, and the grown-up also, soon lose the power to amuse themselves. This is one of the reasons that the dance craze has heen so widespread, as it and cards seemed to be the only possihilities in the way of amusement to a generation which has really been trained to be dependent.

Even our teachers are tied so fast and hard to the prescribed curriculum and the ever-looming examinations that they lose most if not all of their initiative, and become slaves of the schedule. This has its manifest advantages, but it has equally manifest disadvantages, and tends to turn out machine-made students, and to repress very largely all individual initiative.

And yet the world's progress depends upon this very initiative. The world's advance depends upon its pioneers. There will always he plenty of stand-patters; there will always be plenty of men to champion the past; and there will always be need of far-seeing, courageous, and adventurous souls to sail the unknown seas and seek out the undiscovered lands. We need men who will face facts with seeing eyes and ask, "What does the church need?" "What does the home need?" "What does the State need?" and who will dare to answer their own questions and try to make real their own visions.

New things need not necessarily be big things. The pin was an improvement and a step towards civilization. The marvel of not a few of our modern discoveries is their extreme simplicity. But there are few things which do not need improvements, and there are few of us who cannot suggest and carry out some improvement in our own immediate neighborhood. And so we end where we began. If your church, your community, your homc, your country, have need, in the name of your Master and Lord get busy, and start something to supply those needs.—Christian Guardian.

David Livingstone said of his ancestors: "My great-grandfather fell at the hattle of Culloden, fighting for the old line of kings, but the only family tradition of which I feel proud is this: one of my forefathers on his deathhed said to his children round him, 'I have searched diligently all the traditions of our family, and I never found that there was a dishonest man among our forefathers. If, therefore, any of you take to dishonest ways, it will not be because it runs in our blood. I leave this precept with you, Be honest!'"—Selected.

Obituaries

Obituaries not over 200 words in length will be published free of charge. All over 200 words must be paid for at the rate of 1 cent a word. Count the words and be sure to send the amount necessary with the obituary. That will save trouble all around. We cannot make discriminations. Memorial resolutions are subject to the same rule as obituaries.

DR. CHAS. GALLOWAY—AN APPRECIATION.

On the night of the tenth of August, at his home on the beach, in Mississippi City, Miss., the noble heart of DR. CHAS. GALLOWAY ceased to beat, and in the midst of his greatest usefulness and service to the world, the brave yet gentle spirit slipped off the harness and went home to God. He who was our friend has passed on beyond the horizon, and we know that we will clasp his hand no more till we, too, pass within the veil, but his influence is with us still and we will face the future with more courage because of his life.

With no warning of the approach of the grim reaper, heart failure claimed him, and with no time for any handclasp of farewell his boat turned toward the "harbor lights of home."

"Twilight and evening bell
And one clear call for me,
And may there be no sadness of farewell,
When I put out to sea."

We know that his going was as God willed it, and perhaps as he himself would have chosen; yet we feel that we could better bear the pain of parting if there had been a little time to say "good-by."

He was born January 5, 1865, at Madisonville, Miss., and was a brother of the late Rev. G. H. Galloway of the Mississippi Conference, and a cousin of Bishop Chas. B. Galloway. He married Miss Ida L. Atkins, who preceded him several years ago to the home beyond.

Ten boys and girls were reared to manhood and womanhood, and received the impress of noble, Christian character in their home, which was an ideal one, six of their own and four of a dead sister.

He was a member of the M. E. Church, South, for many years a steward, a Mason, and a noble Christian gentleman. His great heart of sympathy was as big as humanity's need, and went out to every weak, struggling, ready soul on earth, and his hands, strong and tender, were always outstretched to help and lift and lead the discouraged and fallen back to life and hope.

Of magnetic personality, genial and courteous in temperament, his friends were legion, and those who knew him best loved him with a devotion it is the lot of few, perhaps, to inspire. Many from all walks of life followed him to his last resting place.

As a physician his practice was large, and extended to all the towns along the coast.

After funeral services conducted by Rev. W. L. Linfield and Rev. G. E. Grice we laid him to rest beneath a mound of flowers, in His keeping who said, "I am the resurrection and the life." And we know that what to us seemed the sunset, was to him but the herald of the glorious sunrise beyond. And the noble spirit feels no more the contradictions, the limitations and heartaches of this life, but is free to realize its highest ideals and aspirations.

"But oh! for the touch of a vanished hand
The sound of a voice that is still."

E. P.

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT.

Whereas, in the providence of God we are in grief over the death of our beloved Christian friend and fellow-worker in the common cause of service to humanity, DR. WILLIAM ROSS KENNEDY, who died in a hospital, Memphis, Tenn., September 19, whose body was buried in Shelby City cemetery, September 20, from the Methodist church, in which he was an official member, with Masonic honors; and

Whereas, in his death we have the loss of a man who will be missed in every walk of life, whose genial and consecrated life influenced others far and near who came under his great love; and

Whereas, since we can but bow to the will of Him in whom we trust, "who doeth all things well," and in our sorrow and short-sightedness pray in this hour for grace in consolation; therefore be it resolved, That

1. Dr. Kennedy was a good man—a choice spirit among his fellows. He loved men because he had the love of His Lord in his heart.

2. Dr. Kennedy was a faithful man. He was never a slacker on anything he believed was right. He took life very seriously—never took time for what many regard as necessary recreation.

3. Dr. Kennedy was a true spiritual Knight. In his church, his teaching of the men's class was the call of God. His preparation for the work was always to the extent of his ability. The results honored God in the lives of those that heard him. In his practice, the sorrowing of the humble in his death was a silent testimony of his Christian love for the poor.

4. We extend to his wife, three sons and two daughters, and other relatives our sincerest love and sympathy in this the loss of a devoted father, a faithful friend and an efficient servant of home, community, and church. We pray his soul may rest in peace in glory with our Lord. Amen.

Signed for the Committee: C. M. Chapman, Pastor; C. T. Jacobs, Chairman of Official Board, and F. W. Bullock, Superintendent Sunday school.

RESOLTUIONS.

Whereas our friend and co-worker, MRS. W. M. WROTEN, has been called from our midst by the grim reaper, death, after an illness of several months, which she bore with Christian fortitude, never once breaking faith, and cheerful to the end; and whereas she has always been loved and honored as the first President of our Missionary Society, and revered for her good works, being always ready to lend a helping hand in time of need, and knowing the comfort brought by her presence at such times, we feel that our Missionary Society sustains a great loss in the death of this Christian character.

Be it therefore Resolved, That individually and collectively we extend our sincere sympathy to the bereaved loved ones, and recommend them to the care of Him who faileth not.

Be it further Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be sent to her family, also a copy to the New Orleans Christian Advocate, and a copy to the Magnolia Gazette for publication.

Signed by: Mrs. Jerome Ford, Mrs. W. A. Daniel, Committee.

A GREAT REVIVAL AT SULPHUR, LA.

Dear Brother Carley: As it has been some time since you have heard from us, and as we have just a little more than the painting of the fence and a new gate to report, thought it might be well to give a short report of the work here. Of course as you know this is one of the best appointments in the Louisiana Conference, and that is the reason why we are holding on to it.

Doubtless the greatest revival ever held in this section of the country came to a close Sunday, the 17th. We had Brother Dan Kelley and his brother, John. Brother Kelley is known throughout the connection and, in my humble judgment, he is the best that we have. They were only here twelve days, but things were moving all the time. The dance and the card parties were great evils in this section (as they seem to be everywhere), but those who were the leaders in these things said that they would never go to another dance or play another game of cards; and, brethren, that is what I call a revival of religion. We had just as well begin pointing the gun at the enemy, and Brother Kelley did that in due and ancient form. Brother H. T. Young gave us a good start along that line two years ago and we have been going ever since.

We received at the close of the meeting seventy-four, most of them on profession of faith. We received seven from the Catholic church and some from the Baptist, and there are going to be others to follow.

This is our seventh year here and in every way it has been the best. We have received one hundred and ten into the church, and we think that we can duplicate that next year, but we do not know what the Bishop thinks about it.

Hoping that we may have a great year, I am Yours for the Master,

LOUIS HOFFPAUIR, P. C.

DANDRUFF
quickly disappears when
TETTERINE
is applied. Fragrant and Soothing. 60c at your Druggist's, or from The SHUPTRINE CO., SAVANNAH, GA.

QUALITY GOODS
AT LOW PRICES
D. H. Holmes Co.,
LIMITED.

Refreshes Weary Eyes
When Your Eyes feel Dull and Heavy, use Murine. It Instantly Relieves that Tired Feeling—Makes them Clear, Bright and Sparkling. Harmless. Sold and Recommended by All Druggists.
MURINE FOR YOUR EYES

Cuticura Soap
SHAVES
Without Mug
Cuticura Soap is the favorite for safety razor shaving.

IT IS A BURNING SHAME

That so many Churches are without sufficient insurance and not properly safe-guarded against Fire, Lightning and Tornado.

THE NATIONAL MUTUAL CHURCH INSURANCE COMPANY OF CHICAGO—The Methodist Mutual—in successful operation since 1898—furnishes protection AT COST upon easy annual payments. No assessments; legal reserve for security of policy-holders same as stock companies.

No agents. Deal direct. For applications and particulars address

HENRY P. MAGILL, Sec't'y. & Mgr.
1509 Insurance Exchange, Chicago, Ill.

Mrs. Alice Hargrove Barclay, Agent, M. E. Church, South, 314 Norton Building, Louisville, Ky.

Confidence

"The American people must realize that confidence in public utility securities cannot be had by constant, unjust criticism. No public utility corporation subject to regulation can finance its requirements out of earnings."—Edward N. Hurley, former head of U. S. Shipping Board.

DR. H. B. BARTLETT
National Dental Parlors
Canal and Bourbon Sts.
Over Worner's Drug Store
Entrance on Bourbon Street
Phone Main 2193.
NEW ORLEANS
Crown and Bridge Specialist
Vitalized Air for Painless Extraction
Most Modern and Best Equipped Dental Parlors South.

Epworth League Department

Editor, North Mississippi Conference.....Rev. R. P. Neblett, Durant, Miss.
Editor, Mississippi Conference,
J. H. Weems, 308 Second Avenue, Hattiesburg, Miss.
Editor, Louisiana Conference,
Miss Consuelo Martinez, 314 Broadway, New Orleans, La.

Material for this Department from the several Conferences should be sent to the editors named above. Copy must be in the Advocate office by Thursday preceding the week of publication.

NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONERFENCE

October has been set aside as the month for the membership campaign, for the Junior and Intermediate Leagues, for this year. Miss Ida Mallory Cobb, Junior and Intermediate Secretary for the General Epworth League Board, has written a strong letter to all the Superintendents of this department for the Annual Conferences, and is confidently expecting the District Secretaries to follow up the work done in a larger way, throughout their respective districts so that each chapter and pastoral charge, as well as individual congregations and communities may be touched and the Juniors organized.

The plans are fully outlined in the Junior and Intermediate Epworthians, fourth quarter, 1922, not necessary to be repeated here; but attention is called to it so the matter can he brought forward. It is desired, and the goal. for this campaign is 50 per cent increase in membership. Miss Campbell and Miss Cobb are doing all they can to make this drive a success, and are praying that all the boys and girls in the Southern Methodist churches may have the chance to he trained as Junior and Intermediate Leaguers, so that they will he ready for the Senior League and the church work which will need them.

In several of the charges this department of the League is going forward splendidly, but in every case there are capahle leaders who are willing to devote themselves to the splendid cause of the children at this period of their developing life.

If there are any of the Junior Leagues that have not reported their organization and their Superintendent to the District Secretaries or the Conference organization, please do so at once that we may know the status of this phase of the work in planning for next year.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

All League chapters seem to be taking on new life after the summer months and vacation time, and every one seems to be eager to get down to hard work again and make the wheels spin. Let's everybody catch the spirit of enthusiasm and jump into harness and pull hard, no holding back but always pulling ahead; if you can't find a place to pull, then push. There is a place for every available worker; your pastor needs help; your Sunday school superintendent needs more workers; some one must help keep the prayer meetings going. How about it, Mr. League President? How many workers have you to offer your church as helpers in the work? THE STRIKE IS OFF—LET'S GO TO WORK.

* * *

Was it a Dream?

We thought we read the New Orleans Christian Advocate, and the head lines ran like this:

"The strike is over: Thousands of Epworth Leaguers returning to work all over South Mississippi."

Then we became interested immediately and read on:

"Epworth Leaguers all over south Mississippi have been on strike for two or three months. They made no demands on any one and no one seemed to know why the strike was called; the workers simply failed to report for duty when there was much work to be done. A great number of workers were loyal to the League and pastor and remained at their post of duty during the entire time; hut many joined the ranks of strikers and have been away from their post of duty for some time.

"But now that the summer months are over and vacation time is at an end, Epworth Leaguers everywhere are flocking hack to their old jobs. The officials say work will be found for every Leaguer who wishes to return to work, as well as any new recruits who may have heen secured or who may be secured later."

Wo laid down our paper and walked over to the depot to get more information. There we found a great locomotive, a mighty machine which they told us was the church; she has never failed. "But why," we asked, does she not run better? And we were told by one who we learned was the pastor that because a large part of his working force had failed to report for duty when there was much work to he done, he had been unahle to keep the mighty machine in smooth working trim. Just then we saw a small band of young people approaching. "Who are these?" we ask. And our pastor's face brightened, there appeared a broad smile: "Why these are our mechanics, oilers and other helpers necessary to keep this old machine running smoothly."

And as they drew nearer we recognized our Epworth League Council, every man in working clothes. The leader of the hand—the League president—approached and reported to the pastor that every man was ready for duty.

"All right, Mr. President, let's get this machine going and we will move your train first."

By this time every member of the Council was hard at work. Journal bearings were well oiled, fuel enough to carry us to the next coaling station was put on, the water tank was filled from that living fountain that never shall run dry, and the spiritual fires were made to burn brighter. Steam was soon up, and the League president called the pastor to make a final inspection before the steam was turned on. "She looks good, young folks, but you have overlooked one very necessary thing." "And what is that?" "Sand. You have failed to fill your sand box. You must have plenty of grit or you will never get over the first hard pull." All agreed there must be grit and every fellow ran to get his part, and the great engine was ready.

In the first car of the train we found that the devotional superintendent had loaded up his hand of workers. He had his program committee, watch committee, Quiet Hour, Fellow-workers and Stewardship covenant hands, and other committees necessary to the successful working of his department.

In the next car we find the Second Department superintendent with her different committees and machinery. There is the Hospital committee, the Community welfare committee, a committee to visit the sick and shut-in's, the "Soup and Soap committee," and all the others to make her department go.

In the third car we find the "Joy makers." It seems they have not overlooked anything that would help the Leaguers enjoy themseives throughout the trip, even to the ice cream and cake, lemonade and punch. "We must have plenty of this hecause our Conference President may join us at some station and we have our pastor with us."

In the fourth car is our Fourth Department superintendent with his band of missionaries; not all going to the foreign field, but every one a missionary nevertheless. They have their mission study class and they are spreading missionary propaganda all along the way. This superintendent has persuaded the League Treasurer to ride in his car and presently they will pass through the train and collect their African special and other items on the Chapter budget.

The train moves, the pastor looks happy. Mr. League president says: "The first stop will be the 1923 Assemhly, where we are due to take on supplies: water, fuel, oil and, yes, GRIT enough to run us another year, and there are to he no more strikes on this line."

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.

Houma District.

Like previous District Institutes reported, the Houma District Institute was a great success. It was very inspiring and has brought each member into closer touch with the work that is before him. The attendance at every night session was from 35 to 45. The morning sessions, of course, were attended by only a few, owing to the fact that so many were at work and school. All those who were able to attend any of the meetings received great blessings from the Institute and the Houma District is in hopes of having another one in April.

Houma Loyalty Legion Report.

Houma Epworth League—Membership, 31; amount raised, $71.

New Orleans District.

From the Second Department Superintendent of the Orleans District

(Continued on Page 14)

Laxatives Replaced
By the Use of Nujol
Nujol is a lubricant—not a medicine or laxative—so cannot gripe.
When you are constipated, not enough of Nature's lubricating liquid is produced in the bowel to keep the food waste soft and moving. Doctors prescribe Nujol because it acts like this natural lubricant and thus replaces it. Try

Nujol
REG. U.S. PAT. OFF.
A LUBRICANT—NOT A LAXATIVE

TETTERINE
Makes Hair Beautiful, Free from Dandruff and Keeps the Scalp Healthy. 60c at your Druggist's, or from The SHUPTRINE CO., SAVANNAH, GA.

SORES BOILS, CUTS and BURNS have been healed since 1820 with
Gray's Ointment
Sold by all druggists. Write for sample to W. F. Gray & Co., 707 Gray Bldg., Nashville, Tenn.

WINTERSMITH'S CHILL TONIC
SOLD 50 YEARS
A FINE GENERAL TONIC

Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic
Restores Health, Energy and Rosy Cheeks. 60c

Take a box with you
If you have headache, backache, toothache, neuralgia, rheumatism, sciatica, you'll be surprised at the quick relief
Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills will give you.
A package of these pills in your pocket or in your shopping bag may save you hours of suffering.
Buy them of your Druggist.

Sunday School

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE SUNDAY SCHOOL NOTES.

Sunday, the 24th, was spent in Natchez. We had a most pleasant visit with these folks and their workers. I witnessed their promotion day. They were eager to take steps for a forward movement. I was glad to see the wonderful improvement on the building. They will have to build further to care for their growing Sunday school. There is an air of progress about the church that gives hope for the future. The workers are willing and anxious to go forward.

The Galloway Memorial Sunday school reported 195 present in the Men's Bible Class on Sunday, the 24th. The Capitol Street had the same number. The Galloway Memorial, reported 836 present in their Sunday school Sunday. This is the largest attendance in this school that I have any record of. We are glad to see the work growing and progressing.

Mr. C. W. Alford is our newest Sunday school superintendent. He is in charge of the school at Anding. We bid him Godspeed. Pray for him in this most important work.

Mr. J. P. Jelich, reporting for the past five months of the Lone Pine Sunday school, says that they have on the average an actual attendance of 19 more than the church enrollment. Who else can come up to this? This most active superintendent is over 71 years old.

Rodeheaver's Gospel Songs

Our New Book ready Oct. 1st.

Also: Victory Songs, Awakening Songs Songs for Service

For all religious occasions. Shaped or round notes

Singly prepaid. 45c Cloth, 35c Limp, 30c Manila (Quantities Not Prepaid) 40c, 30c, 25c

Catalog of Sheet Music, Song Books, Bibles—Books and Folding Organs on request.

Rainbow Sacred Records

Favorite Gospel Selections 75c each not postpd.

Ask for Complete List

THE RODEHEAVER COMPANY

Chicago, Ill. 677 McClurg Bldg. Philadelphia, Pa. Dpt. 22—814 Walnut St.

Renew your health by purifying your system with

Calotabs

TRADE MARK REG

The purified and refined calomel tablets that are free from nausea and danger.

No salts necessary, as Calotabs act like calomel and salts combined. Demand the genuine in 10c and 35c packages, bearing above trade-mark.

The Sunday School Day fund is $254 behind what it was last year. Won't you please help us to run it up? You can at least take an offering and send it in. Your Board is trying to serve the whole Conference and has been seriously crippled by lack of funds.

Brother Hull presented the Board with his work for the month of August. God's richest blessings upon him and his! Pray for him—he is doing a mighty good work in the Newton District.

FAIR—Please send in as early as you can your exhibit—just one to look after it. There are multiplied things to do. Please assist in anyway you can and get it to us in ample time.

Above all PRAY for the work and the workers. Yours in Him,

JOHN C. CHAMBERS.

(The report of the Treasurer on Sunday School Day receipts came too late to be published this week. It will appear next week.—Editor.)

NOTES FROM NORTH MISSISSIPPI

By Rev. R. H. B. Gladney, Sardis, Miss.

Have you read Bishop Ainsworth's stirring appeal to the pastors and superintendents of the Conference? Read it and then heed the earnest exhortation of our Chief Pastor.

Have you forgotten to send me the handwork of your juniors, a photograph of any class or department to be used as a part of the exhibit at the State Fair and for our Conference? Send anything you have and I will return it to you.

The first session of the Greenville District Standard Training School in training for leadership will be held at Shelby, Monday, October 16 at 3 p.m. Instead of the course in pupil study, as formerly announced, we shall give "A Methodist Church and Its Work." We should have at least twelve pastors and superintendents to take this course. Write Dr. C. M. Chapman, Shelby, Miss., and let him know you expect to attend.

Do the new superintendents need any help in starting off the new year? It may be I can give some suggestion that will make the work move off smoothly. It won't cost much to give me a trial.

Brother H. P. Lewis, pastor at Booneville, has spent considerable money in buying chairs, making tables, and screens for nine classes in his elementary department. This week I am teaching a class of ten teachers and an equal number of visitors, using as a text, The Pupil. A few teachers with only the training received during one week will change the atmosphere of the entire school and transform the entire church. A few more demonstrations will convince those who are willing to learn.

ADVERSITY CROWNED THE FRIEND OF MAN.

By Rev. H. W. Ledbetter.

The supreme achievement is the making of a man, the full-orbed man. This not only embodies the education of the entire man, but the testing of that education in life's various activities.

The path to success is not usually strewn with flowers, but beset with adversitles. The triumph of hard-fought battles increases the spirit of attack. The spirit to conquer is encouraged by previous victories. The man who is crowned with success over the rugged issues of adversity sits upon the summit of greatness with hardened fibre and tried soul. He is prepared to hold the fort he has thus won.

The greatest incentives to men in life are beauty, love, and riches. So come with me, young man, and let us tour the world together. We will visit all nature's most ravishing sceneries and gather her most entrancing beautles, and visit the most famous art galleries of the world and rob them of their masterpieces. We will mold these into a monument of unsurpassed beauty and set it on yonder cliff. Again, let us visit the treasures of the world, the jewelry stores, the famous diamond mines, and then let us mold these golds, these gems, these pearls and diamonds, into one supreme monument of riches, and set it on yonder cliff. There it is, personified riches. Then let us visit all the pure hearts of the world, maidens fair and saints lovely, and from their hearts take their sweet loves and mold them into a monument of love, and set it on yonder cliff as personified love. Now let us take the monuments of love and beauty and riches and mold them into one monument. The Monument of Man's Objective Goal. It is placed on the far-off mountain cliff. It is not illusive as the rainbow, but real and obtainable. It is not reachable but by a rugged path. Adversity is crouched by the wayside. Many are bluffed and do not enter the race; others fall by the wayside; but many, strengthened by the assailing force of adversity, are marching ON. Each contested height attained gives renewed strength to push the battle. Adversity, instead of being a foe, has proved a friend. Those who gave up the chase fell not by adversity inherited or produced, but by luxury. It is so much easier to take the evening auto joy ride, than to labor to cross the chasm of the rugged mountain; so much easier to visit the show than shovel the dirt out of the pathway to the goal. But at the close of the day the young man who stuck adhesively and cohesively to his task has won the unit which is a unit of power to forward his next attack. So the adversity of poverty is not always a foe, but often, by forcing strategic movement, becomes a real friend. Many who have obtained large degrees of success by the advantages of adversity would make a wreath of flowers and place it upon the brow of adversity, crowning him the friend of man, and commission him to go forth and push his unwelcome hand into the sides of the possibly great. By the constant struggle of this incontestable energy, one reaches the summit and takes the monument of personified success as his own. As he approaches it, it molds itself into the eternal, and passes into the character of the pursuer, who now becomes the happy possessor; or rather these factors of beauty, riches and love have been molded into his very being by constant pursuit and victory. Adversity is the Uncrowned Friend of Man.

Hammond, La.

Bitter Chillifuge 25c

Has a bitter tonic taste and quick action in routing malaria from the system.

Will quickly stop chills and fever.

Splendid tonic for torpid liver and bracer for poor appetite.

FINLAY, DICKS & CO., INC., NEW ORLEANS.

Dickey's Old Reliable Eye Water

relieves sore eyes. Refreshes and strengthens a tired eye. Doesn't burn or hurt. Get genuine in Red Box. 25c all druggists. Bottle free to ministers.

DICKEY DRUG CO., Bristol, Va.

FROM BAKER, LA.

Dear Brother Carley: We have held all our meetings for this year. We were assisted at Baker by Rev. Leon I. McCain. He preached the Gospel without compromise. Five united with our church on profession of faith, and we are sure the seed sown will yield a fruitful harvest.

Rev. D. L. Griffin was with us at Blackwater and Deerford. There were twenty conversions at Blackwater and five at Deerford. Each church was greatly revived.

Our last meeting was at Bethel. Rev. D. L. Griffin was engaged for this meeting also, but failed to reach us; but the Lord was with us and blessed our effort. Seven were converted here and united with our church.

J. L. CADY.

UNCOMFORTABLE AFTER MEALS?

Then Try a Pinch of Black-Draught. This White-Haired Alabama Lady Says It Helps Her.

Dutton, Ala. — In recommending Thedford's Black-Draught to her friends and neighbors here, Mrs. T. F. Parks, a well-known Jackson County lady, said:

"I am getting up in years; my head is pretty white. I have seen medicines and remedies come and go, but the old reliable came and stayed. I am talking of Black-Draught, a liver medicine we have used for years—one that can be depended upon and one that will do the work.

"Black-Draught will relieve indigestion and constipation if taken right, and I know, for I tried it. It is the best thing I have ever found for the full, uncomfortable feeling after meals.

"Sour stomach and sick headache can be relieved by taking Black-Draught. It aids digestion, also assists the liver in throwing off impurities. I am glad to recommend Black-Draught, and do, to my friends and neighbors."

For simple, common ailments, due to disordered stomach, liver and bowels, you will find Thedford's Black-Draught a useful and valuable remedy. The purely vegetable ingredients of which Black-Draught is composed gently stimulate the liver, increasing the flow of digestive juices, thereby helping to prevent or relieve constipation in an easy, natural way.

Insist upon Thedford's, the original and only genuine Black-Draught powdered herb and root liver medicine.—Adv.

FROM THE DUNCAN AND HILLHOUSE CHARGE.

Dear Brother Carley: Please publish in our paper this account of a revival just closed at Sherard, Miss., on the Duncan and Hillhouse charge, North Mississippi Conference.

Chaplain John A. Randolph was with us eight days for a series of meetings. He has recently retired from the chaplaincy of the United States Army after twenty-four years of active and faithful service. He is now awaiting the session of our Annual Conference, to be held at Water Valley in November, for an appointment. In the meantime, he desires to serve his church and brethren in any capacity he can.

Under his wise and able preaching, we had one of the most glorious revivals that have ever been held at Sherard. The interest was keen from the beginning and continued to grow with each service. The spiritual life of the church was deepened. Numbers of men and women reconsecrated their lives to the service of their Master. He is a great Gospel preacher, and has the peculiar power and ability of giving big thoughts and ideas in the simplest and clearest language. Everybody fell in love with him. We had quite a number from Clarksdale and surrounding communities to attend our services. The Rev. E. Nash Broyles, our popular and efficient pastor at Clarksdale, was one among those who attended.

I commend Brother Randolph to any of the brethren who would like a strong, efficient, spiritual and Gospel preacher in a revival meeting. I love him. God's choicest benedictions upon him and his family!

Everything is moving along nicely here on the Duncan and Hillhouse charge. God has honored our feeble and humble efforts this year. We had only eighty-three members when I arrived on the field, but now we have one hundred and thirty. I have christened more than twenty infants. Finances are up to date.

Our district spirit is fine. Everybody loves our wise and efficient presiding elder, the Rev. J. H. Felts. He is the man for his job. God bless him! What God wants is men great enough to be small enough to be used in His service.

We will be ready when the Annual Conference arrives. God bless you!

Fraternally yours,
J. A. GEORGE, P. C.

A Mighty Arm: Thou hast a mighty arm: strong is thy hand, and high is thy right hand. Justice and judgment are the habitation of thy throne: mercy and truth shall go before thy face.—Psalm 89:13, 14.

Reader Takes Newer Form of Iron—Feels Years Younger

"Six weeks ago I saw a special offer in the paper telling how thousands of people grow old in looks and energy long before they are really old in years, because, as examinations by physicians have shown, an enormous number of people do not have enough iron in their blood. I have been taking the newer form of iron known as Nuxated Iron for two weeks: the results are simply astounding. The roses have come back in my lips and cheeks, and I can conscientiously say that I feel ten years younger."

The above is a typical hypothetical case showing the results that have been achieved by a great many people since we started this "satisfaction or money back" offer on Nuxated Iron. We will make you the same guarantee. If, after taking the two week's treatment of Nuxated Iron, you do not feel and look years younger, we will promptly refund your money. For sale by all druggists.

NOTE—Nuxated Iron has been used for years whenever needed in the family of the Advertising Representative of this paper with excellent results. We are able to guarantee that if you do not obtain all and even greater benefits than you expect from Nuxated Iron, the manufacturers will promptly refund your money.—Adv.

Antiseptic Mul-en-ol

Favorite for forty years.
Old friends can be trusted.
Stomach pains and nausea quickly relieved.
Also fine application for cuts and burns.
15, 30, 60 cts. Sizes
FINLAY, DICKS & CO., INC.,
NEW ORLEANS.

QUARTERLY CONFERENCES.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

Hattiesburg Dist.—Fourth Round.

Taylorsville-Mize, at Hebron, Oct. 8.
Williamsburg, at Santee, Oct. 11, 11 a.m.
Prentiss, at Carson, Oct. 12, 11 a.m.
Collins, at Collins, Oct. 15, 11 a.m.
Seminary, at Seminary, Oct. 15, 7 p.m.
New Augusta, at New Augusta, Oct. 18, 7 p.m.
Mt. Olive-Magee, at Mt. Olive, Oct. 22.
Richton, at Richton, Oct. 25, 7 p.m.
Hattiesburg, Court St., Oct. 29, 11 a.m.
Purvis, at Purvis, Oct. 29, 30, 7 p.m.
Oloah, at Oloah, Nov. 1, 11 a.m.
Ellisville, at Ellisville, Nov. 5.
Eucutta, at Goodwater, Nov. 7, 11 a.m.
Silver Creek, at New Hebron, Oct. 12.
Lucedale, Nov. 15, 7 p.m.
Lucedale ct., at Merrill, Oct. 16, 11 a.m.
Leakesville, at Winburn Chapel, Nov. 15, 11 a.m.
Hattiesburg, Main St., Nov. 26, 11 a.m.
Sumrall, Nov. 26, 27, 7 p.m.

Pastors, please see to it that your Board of Trustees and your Woman's Missionary Societies have full written reports. W. W. GRAVES, P. E.

Jackson Dist.—Fourth Round.

Canton, Oct. 8, 11 a.m.-3:30 p.m.
Millsaps Mem., Oct. 8, 7:30 p.m.
Bolton and Raymond, at Brownsville, Oct. 15, 11 a.m.
Edwards, Oct. 15, 4:30 p.m.-7:30.
Vaughn, at Deasonville, Oct. 21, 22, 11 a.m.
Benton, Oct. 22, 7:30 p.m.-23, 10 a.m.
Mendenhall and D'Lo, at Bethany, Oct. 25, 11 a.m.
Harrissville, at Harrissville, Oct. 26, 11 a.m.
Capitol St., Oct. 29, 11 a.m.
Galloway Memorial, Oct. 29, 7:30 p.m.
Madison, at Madison, Nov. 1, 11 a.m.
Sharon, at Sharon, Nov. 4, 5, 11 a.m.
Camden, Nov. 5, 3 p.m.-7:30 p.m.
Bentonia, Nov. 12, 11 a.m.-2 p.m.
Satartia, at Satartia, Nov. 12, 7:30 p.m.-13, 10 a.m.
Eden, Nov. 18, 11 a.m.
Yazoo City, Nov. 19, 11 a.m.-2 p.m.
Flora, Nov. 19, 5:30-7:30 p.m.
Monterey, Nov. 25-26, 11 a.m.
Brandon, Nov. 26, 3 p.m.-7:30 p.m.

Let the preachers and laymen put forth every effort, not only to answer the questions of the fourth quarterly conference, but to have full reports. We have had great revivals in all of the charges during the year. "Then let us render unto the Lord thanksgiving for His goodness."

M. L. BURTON, P. E.

Brookhaven Dist.—Fourth Round.

Meadville and Bude, at Meadville, Oct. 8.
Wesson, Oct. 8, 9.
Bayou Pierre ct., at Pleasant Valley, Oct. 15.
Hazlehurst, Oct. 15, 16.
Fernwood ct., at Fernwood, Oct. 21, 22.
McComb, Pearl River Ave., Oct. 22.
Gallman ct., at Gallman, Oct. 28, 29.
Crystal Springs, Oct. 29, 30.
Monticello ct., at Monticello, Nov. 4, 5.
Summit and Topisaw, at Summit, Nov. 5, 6.
Pleasant Grove ct., at Tilton, Nov. 11, 12.
Brookhaven, Nov. 12, 13.
Scotland ct., at Bethel, Nov. 15.
Osyka ct., at Osyka, Nov. 18, 19.
McComb, La Branch st., Nov. 19, 20.
Barlow ct., at Brandywine, Nov. 25, 26.
Georgetown ct., at Georgetown, Nov. 26.

H. M. ELLIS, P. E.

Meridian Dist.—Fourth Round.

Enterprise, Oct. 8.
Scooba, Oct. 15.
Porterville, Oct. 15, 16.
Pachuta, at Adams Chapel, Oct. 21, 22.
Quitman, p.m., Oct. 22.
Vimville, at Coker's Chapel, Oct. 29.
Bucatunna, at Chicora, Nov. 5.
Daleville, Nov. 11, 12.
Lauderdale, p.m., Nov. 12.
Matherville, at Langsdale, Nov. 17.
Waynesboro ct., at Hebron, Nov. 18, 19.
Waynesboro, p.m., Nov. 19.
DeSoto, Nov. 25, 26.
Shubuta, p.m., Nov. 26.

PAUL D. HARDIN, P. E.

Seashore Dist.—Fourth Round.

Columbia, 11 a.m., Oct. 8.
Vancleave at New Prospect C. G., 11 a.m., Oct. 12.
Gulfport, 11 a.m., Oct. 15.
Ocean Springs, 7:30 p.m., Oct. 15.
Mentorum, at Mt. Zion, 11 a.m., Oct. 22.
Wiggins, 7:30 p.m., Oct. 22.
Coalville, Wed., 11 a.m., Oct. 25.
Long Beach, Wed., 7:30 p.m., Oct. 25.
Pass Christian, Oct. 29.
Saucier, Wed., 7:30 p.m., Nov. 1.
Picayune, Nov. 5, 6.
Carriere, Mon., 11 a.m., Nov. 6.
Poplarville, Q. C., Mon., 7:30 p.m., Nov. 6.
Lumberton, 9 a.m., Nov. 7.
Logtown, 11 a.m., Nov. 12.
Bay St. Louis, 7:30 p.m., Nov. 12.
Gulfport, Q. C., Tues., 7:30 p.m. Nov. 14.
Pascagoula, Wed., 7:30 p.m., Nov. 15.
Biloxi, Tues., 7:30 p.m., Nov. 21.
Brooklyn, Wed., 7:30 p.m., Nov. 22.
Wesley Memorial, Nov. 26.

Let the pastors see to it that the trustees have their reports; and let the stewards please collect the pastors' salaries. If the pastors are diligent and the stewards faithful, the district will make a full report at Conference. Let us pray and work together. W. M. SULLIVAN, P. E.

Vicksburg Dist.—Fourth Round.

Utica, 11 am., Oct. 6.
Hermanville, at Tillman, 11 a.m., Oct. 7.
Gloster and Liberty, at Gloster, Oct. 8.
Rosetta, at Hopewell, Oct. 9.
Washington, Oct. 15.
Natchez, 4:30 p.m., Oct. 15.
Rocky Springs, Hickory Ridge, 11 a.m., Oct. 22.
Port Gibson, 7 p.m., Oct. 22.
Vicksburg, Crawford St., 7 p.m., Oct. 23.
Vicksburg, Gibson Memorial, 7 p.m., Oct. 25.
Roxie, at Hamburg, Oct. 28.
Centerville, at Stephenson, 11 a.m., Oct. 29.
Woodville, 7 p.m., Oct. 29.

THIS GIRL IS A WONDER.

Do you want to make more money than you ever possessed? If so, learn to make nut and fruit bonbons—the business will net you $90 to $300 per month. You can work from your own home; all who sample your bonbons become regular customers. Mary Elizabeth started her candy kitchen with $5.00, and has made a fortune. Can not you do likewise? I will tell you all about the business. Now is the psychological time to make big money. Write today—Isabelle Inez, 526B Morewood Bldg., Pittsburgh, Pa.—Adv.

School Desks

Opera Chairs,
Folding Chairs,
Kindergarten Chairs,
School Supplies,
Blackboards.
SOUTHERN DESK CO., Hickory, N. C.

BOHNE & WILT, Booksellers, and Stationers, 1328 Dryades St., New Orleans, La. Baseball Goods, Religious Articles, Fishing Tackle, Periodicals, School Books.

CANCER HOSPITAL. Intra-venous treatment for cancer. Operation. Radium and X-Ray unnecessary. Booklet giving full information upon request. Box 2127. ATLANTA, GA.

Oak Ridge, Nov. 5.
Roiling Fork, 11 a.m., Nov. 12.
Mayersville, 11 a.m., Nov. 19.
Anguilla, 7 p.m., Nov. 19.
Louise and Holly Bluff, at Louise, 11 a.m., Nov. 26.
Silver City, at ———, 7 p.m., Nov. 26.

J. R. JONES, P. E.

Newton Dist.—Fourth Round.

Harperville and Lena, at Hillsboro, Oct. 7, 8, 11 a.m.
Lake, at Lake, Oct. 8, 7 p.m., 9, 10 a.m.
Neshoba, at Cook's Chapel, Oct. 14, 15.
Philadelphia, Oct. 15, 16.
Union, at Union, Oct. 22.
Shiloh, at Johns, Oct. 25.
Homewood, at Gasque Chapel, Oct. 27, 2:30 p.m., 29, p.m.
Raleigh, at Boykin, Oct. 28, 29.
Montrose, at Montrose, Nov. 1, 11 a.m., 2 p.m.
Walnut Grove, at Zion, Nov. 3.
Carthage, at Bethel, Nov. 4, 5.
Bay Springs, at Bay Springs, Nov. 8, 2:30 p.m.
Laurel, First Church, Nov. 10, 7 p.m.
Laurel, Kingston, Nov. 11, 7 p.m., 12, 7 p.m.
Laurel, West End, Nov. 12, 11 a.m., 2:30 p.m.
Newton, at Newton, Nov. 15.
Chunky, at Suqualena, Nov. 18, 19.
Decatur and Hickory, at Hickory, Nov. 25, 26.

The trustees of church property will please make accurate reports in answer to the disciplinary questions. Reports from Woman Missionary Societies are expected.

J. A. MOORE, P. E.

Aspirin

Say "Bayer" and Insist!

BAYER

Genuine

Unless you see the name "Bayer" on package or on tablets you are not getting the genuine Bayer product prescribed by physicians over twenty-two years and proved safe by millions for

Colds	Headache
Toothache	Lumbago
Earache	Rheumatism
Neuralgia	Pain, Pain

Accept "Bayer Tablets of Aspirin" only. Each unbroken package contains proper directions. Handy boxes of twelve tablets cost few cents. Druggists also sell bottles of 24 and 100. Aspirin is the trade mark of Bayer Manufacture of Monoaceticacidester of Salicylicacid.

Epworth League.

(Continued from Page 11)

comes this splendid report:

The second department superintendents of the various Leagues in New Orleans, under the able supervision of our Second Department Superintendent, Miss Laura Edwards, have banded themselves together to do some definite social service work. Each League has a committee of young people who are responsible for the program each Monday evening at the Mary Werlein Mission. A religious and social program is usually planned and the Monday evening programs are growing popular and are welcomed most heartily by those who attend. The meetings are usually attended by children ranging from five to sixteen years of age.

A Story Telling Hour for Saturday afternoons is being planned. A Leaguer from each League has volunteered to go to the Mission and tell the mission children stories.

There is a wonderful future with unlimited possibilities at the Mary Werlein Mission. Some of our very best workers have gotten their start at the Mission, so may God bless our efforts that the work may continue in His name.

Nearly Organized League.

The very good news comes to us that a Senior League has been organized at Mandeville, La. On Sunday, September 17, Rev. John Foster called a meeting for this purpose. There were 18 members present, with five honorary members. The following officers were elected: President, Mr. H. W. Russ; Vice President, Miss Eddie Brown; Recording Secretary, Miss Ester Russ; Treasurer, Miss Lydia Vix; Corresponding Secretary, Miss Robina Vaught; 1st Department Superintendent, Miss Louise Chapin; 2nd Department Superintendent, Miss Anita Wallace; 3d Department Superintendent, Miss Ella Pain; 4th Department Superintendent, Mrs. W. N. Vaught.

With this splendid material they are hoping to keep up their aim, "Others," and their motto, "All for Christ." We are sure they are going to succeed, too, and our prayers are that God will bless this newly organized League and help them to do great things for the Master.

Dodson's Liver Tone

Instead of Calomel

Calomel is quicksilver. It attacks the bones and paralyzes the liver. Your dealer sells each bottle of pleasant, harmless "Dodson's Liver Tone" under an ironclad, money-back guarantee that it will regulate the liver, stomach and bowels better than calomel, without sickening or salivating you—15 million bottles sold.—Adv.

Headaches Vanish

Sick or nervous headaches, backaches, women's aches almost instantly respond to the liquid remedy Capudine. It stops the pain by removing the cause. Every home should keep a bottle handy. Sold by druggists, 10c, 30c, 60c. Insist upon getting CAPUDINE

Church Furniture

WORK OF THE HIGHEST QUALITY AT REASONABLE PRICES

Write for Catalogue

BUDDE & WEIS MFG. CO.

JACKSON, TENNESSEE

FROM THE NEBO CIRCUIT.

Dear Brother Carley: Here comes my report from the Nebo circuit.

We had our first meeting at Oak Grove church, commencing the fourth Sunday in July, with Rev. W. F. Baggett doing the preaching for us. It was well done and was highly appreciated by all who heard him; but, owing to the fact that we have no material here, we had no accessions.

Our next meeting was held at Cool Springs, commencing the second Sunday in August, with the efficient and popular pastor of the Roxie charge doing the preaching for us, Rev. M. L. McCormick. His sermons were strong and forceful. The co-operation between the Methodists and Baptists was the best that I ever saw. There were no accession here, owing to the fact that we have no material here at this time.

Our last and best meeting was held at Nebo church, with Rev. C. A. Schultz, from Anguilla, doing the preaching for us, beginning the first Sunday in September. The presence of the Lord was felt in power from the very beginning of the meeting. People were there from Fayette, Union Church, Barlow, and Meadville, also from the Barlow charge and from Blue Hill to hear Brother Shultz, whom I consider one of the best preachers in a revival that it has ever been my privilege to hear. After the second day I announced that we would have two services a day, but no dinner except for the children.

We had each day a men's prayer meeting, conducted by some of the laymen, and a ladies' prayer meeting over at the church.

The visible results of these meeting are that the churches have been greatly revived. There were eleven accessions to the church at Nebo, with more to follow.

Brethren, pray for us.

Your brother,

C. H. HERRING.

QUARTERLY CONFERENCES.

NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE

Sardis Dist.—Fourth Round.

Pleasant Hill ct., at Pleasant Hill, Oct. 7.
Coldwater ct., at Coldwater, a.m., Oct. 8.
Senatobia, p.m., Oct. 8
Crowder ct., at Crowder, Oct. 11.
Sardis ct., at Davis Chapel, Oct. 14.
Arkabutla ct., at Arkabutla, Oct. 15.
Oakland ct., at Tillatoba, Oct. 15.
Mt. Pleasant ct., at New Salem, Oct. 21.
Horn Lake ct., at Eudora, Oct. 21.
Tyro ct., at Looxahoma, Oct. 21.
Shuford ct., at Mt. Olivet, Oct. 22.
Longtown ct., at Lee's Chapel, Oct. 28.
Crenshaw and Sledge, at C., Oct. 29.
Batesville, Nov. 5.

The duplication of dates in the foregoing appointments is due to the fact that in a few instances the presiding elder will be assisted by others in making this round. The brethren are asked to give special attention to Questions 13, 14, and 15 in getting ready for their conferences.

R. A. MEEK, P. E.

Greenwood Dist.—Fourth Round.

Belzoni, Sun., Oct. 8, a.m.
Swift, at Lotus, Sun., Oct. 8, 3 p.m.
Itta Bena, Sun., Oct. 8, p.m.
Inverness, at Inverness, Wed., Oct. 11, p.m.
Indianola, Sun., Oct. 15, a.m.
Moorehead, Sun., Oct. 15, p.m.
Webb, at Webb, Wed., Oct. 18, p.m.
Sunflower, at Sunflower, Sun., Oct. 22, a.m.
Ruleville, at Ruleville, Sun., Oct. 22, p.m.
Tutwiler, Q. C., Wed., Oct. 25, p.m.
Schlater, at Schlater, Sun., Oct. 29, a.m.
Greenwood, Sun., Oct. 29, p.m.
Minter City, Wed., Nov. 1, p.m.
Drew, at Drew, Thurs., Nov. 2.
Sidon, at Cruger, Sun., Nov. 5, a.m.
Tchula, Sun., Nov. 5, p.m.

A careful and complete report will be expected from the treasurers of the Centenary and Educational Movements, Trustees and Missionary Societies. It will require a little effort on the part of the pastors to secure these, but the Conference will not be complete without them, and we must acknowledge we fail, if we fail.

S. L. POPE, P. E.

Greenville Dist.—Fourth Round.

Coahoma and Lyon, at Lyon, Oct. 8, a.m.
Lula and Dundee, at Dundee, Oct. 8, p.m.
Clarksdale, Oct. 9, p.m.
Glen Allen and Avon, at Glen Allen, Oct. 11, p.m.
Leland, Oct. 13, p.m.
Evansville and Dubbs, at Dubbs, Oct. 15, a.m.
Friars Point, Oct. 15, p.m.
Rosedale, Oct. 16, p.m.
Boyle, at Boyle, Oct. 17, p.m.
Cleveland, Oct. 18, p.m.
Lake Cormorant, at Lake Cormorant, Oct. 22, a.m.
Tunica, Oct. 22, p.m.
Benoit and Beulah, at Beulah, Oct. 25, p.m.
Hollandale and Arcola, at Hollandale, Oct. 29, a.m.
Greenville, Oct. 29, p.m.
Gunnison and Deeson, at Gunnison, Nov. 1, p.m.
Duncan and Hillhouse, at Duncan, Nov. 5, a.m.

"The District that sounds no retreat" will make a decidedly better report in every way this fall than last unless some man "plays hooky." Surely neither elder, pastor nor layman will be the guilty party.

JAMES H. FELTS, P. E.

Grenada Dist.—Fourth Round.

Paris Ct., at Pine Flat, Oct. 7.
Vaiden and West, at Vaiden, Oct. 8.
Tie Plant Ct., at Tie Plant, Oct. 8, 9.
Poplar Creek Ct., at Friendship, Oct. 14, 15.
Pickens and Goodman, at Pickens, Oct. 15, 16.
Sallis Ct., at McAdams, Oct. 21.
Ebenezer Ct., at Liberty, Oct. 22, 23.
Lexington, Oct. 22, 23.
Kilmichael Ct., at Salem, Oct. 28.
Coffeeville Ct., at Gray Rock, Oct. 29.
Holcomb Ct., at Holcomb, Oct. 29, 30.

R. A. TUCKER, P. E.

Corinth Dist.—Fourth Round.

Baldwyn ct., at Lebanon, Oct. 7, 8.
Burnsville ct., at Burnsville, Oct. 13.
Iuka ct., at Mt. Evergreen, Oct. 14, 15, 11 a.m.
Iuka station, Oct. 15, night; Qr. Conf., Oct. 16, 9 a.m.
Rienzi ct., at Bethel, Wed., Oct. 18.
Marietta ct., at Mt. Nebo, Oct. 19.
Mooreville ct., at Mooreville, Oct. 20.
Mantachie ct., at Mantachie, Oct. 21, 22.
Booneville ct., at Liberty, Friday, Oct. 27.

Neutralizes Uric Acid!

Rheumatism is caused by uric acid in the blood. In order to be cured of rheumatism it is necessary to neutralize this acid. RENWAR is a scientific combination of salts prepared to neutralize the uric acid in the blood. There is nothing in Renwar to injure the stomach or affect the heart. It acts solely upon uric acid, completely eliminating it from the blood and thereby relieving your rheumatism. It is harmless but effective. Positively guaranteed by money-back offer. It is a godsend to sufferers from rheumatism. Renwar also corrects constipation. Mr. J. M. Willis of the Nashville Railway and Light Company says, "I must say that Renwar far surpassed my expectations, for it gave me almost immediate relief; too much can not be spoken in behalf of 'Renwar' for rheumatism." Sold by druggists, price 50 cents, or by mail from WARNER DRUG COMPANY, NASHVILLE, TENN.

Booneville station, Qr. Conf., Oct. 27, night; preaching, Oct. 29, 11 a.m.
Wheeler ct., at Double Springs, Oct. 28.
Silver Springs ct., at El Bethel, Wed., Nov. 1.
Ripley station, Qr. Conf., Friday, Nov. 3, 2 p.m.; preaching, Nov. 5, 11 a.m.
Chalybeate ct., at Mt. Pleasant, Sat., Nov. 4.

N. B.—Let pastors see that written reports are made by Woman's Missionary Society and by Boards of Trustees, answering Questions 13 and 14.

J. B. RANDOLPH, P. E.

Aberdeen Dist.—Fourth Round.

Buena Vista, at Boones Chapel, Oct. 7, 8.
Vardaman, at Vardaman, Oct. 9.
Calhoun City, at Tabernacle, Oct. 10.
Randolph, at Hunters Chapel, Oct. 11.
Tocopola, at Lafayette Springs, Oct. 12.
Salem and Ecru, at Salem, Oct. 13.
Aberdeen, Oct. 15, 16.
Smithville, at Greenbrier, Oct. 17.
Greenwood Springs, at New Hope, Oct. 18.
Nettleton, at Evergreen, Oct. 20.
Prairie and Strong, at Prairie, Oct. 22, 23.
Verona, at Palmetto, Oct. 24.
Shannon and Nettleton, at Nettleton, Oct. 25.
Fulton, at Friendship, Oct. 28, 29.
Tremont, at Hopewell, Oct. 29, 30.

T. H. DORSEY, P. E.

Columbus Dist.—Fourth Round.

Chester, at Chester, Oct. 7, 8.
Ackerman, preaching, Oct. 8, evening.
Mayhew and Sessums, at Mayhew, quarterly conference, Oct. 11.
High Point, at White Hall, Oct. 14, 15.
Noxapater, at Noxapater, Oct. 15, 16.
Louisville, Oct. 17.
Ackerman and Wier, at Ackerman, quarterly conference, Oct. 19.
McCool, at ———, Oct. 20.
Sturgis, at Mt. Airy, Oct. 21, 22.
Kosciusko sta., Oct. 22, p.m.
Kosciusko ct., at Pearce's Chapel, Oct. 23.
West Point, Oct. 25.
Artesia, Q. C., Oct. 26.
Shuqualak, at Shuqualak, Q. C., Oct. 27.
Columbus, Central, Oct. 31.
Brooksville, Nov. 1.

Pastors will please request Centenary and Educational treasurers to be present with written report, showing what has been raised this year, total amount paid to date, balance due, etc. Also remind the W. M. S. and the Board of Trustees to present a written report at this conference.

A. T. McILWAIN, P. E.

FREE BOOK ABOUT CANCER.

The Indianapolis Cancer Hospital, Indianapolis, Indiana, has published a booklet which gives interesting facts about the cause of Cancer, also tells what to do for pain, bleeding, odor, etc. A valuable guide in the management of any case. Write for it to-day, mentioning this paper.—Adv.

TETTERINE

CLEARS BABY'S SKIN

and drives off the Rash and Pimples. Harmless, Soothing, Fragrant.

60c at your Druggist's, or from The SHUPTRINE CO., SAVANNAH, GA.

FROM VERONA, MISS.

Dear Brother Carley: Our pastor, Rev. R. M. Evans, has been sick with fever for twenty-five days—in fact ever since he closed a meeting at Tranquil for Brother Owen. He is still in bed and has some temperature, but we think he is now on the road to recovery, and hope he will soon be able to be up.

The stewards over the work are looking after things as well as they can, and are trying to relieve his mind of anxiety in regard to Conference collections, etc. During the summer he conducted revivals on his own work—all doing good, and building up and strengthening the church spiritually. At Union he had fine congregations and some accessions.

Besides his own work, he held a revival meeting at Strong, and one at Tranquil, both resulting in much good, and accessions and conversions.

We have had a good year. Brother Evans and wife are much loved in the work. We ask prayers of the church in his behalf, that he may be restored speedily, if it is God's will.

(Mrs.) A. C. OATS.

WONDERFUL REVIVAL AT WAYNESBORO, MISS.

The town of Waynesboro, Miss., has recently passed through the throes of a great revival. The pastor spent some two or three months advocating, planning, and advertising for a county-wide revival campaign, having secured the services of Dr. L. J. Miller, general evangelist of the Methodist Church, and one of the South's great preachers, and his able singer, Prof. Ward D. Milam, and wife. The official board, with a vision of great things, aided the pastor in constructing a "Novel Air Dome Tabernacle" of splendid dimensions.

From the first service to the last, the Holy Spirit evidently had his way. inditing the messages of gospel and of song with power, and operating upon the hearts and minds of men and women, boys and girls, bringing them under deep conviction to the feet of Jesus, until they knelt at the altar of prayer and then professed a knowledge of sin forgiven.

Waynesboro seemed to be transformed night after night into a city as the throngs came to the great tabernacle meetings. Pocketbooks of the people were willingly opened to the end that the expenses of the tabernacle and church were easily met, and the workers presented with a most excellent free-will offering.

But best of all, Waynesboro and Wayne County have had a great awakening, souls unnumbered have been blessed, there have been several additions to the churches, and the church generally has been revived.

H. A. WOOD, Pastor.

Makes a Family Supply of Cough Remedy

Really better than ready-made cough syrups, and saves about $2. Easily and quickly prepared.

If you combined the curative properties of every known "ready-made" cough remedy, you probably could not get as much real curative power as there is in this simple home-made cough syrup, which is easily prepared in a few minutes.

Get from any druggist 2½ ounces of Pinex, pour it into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with syrup, using either plain granulated sugar syrup, clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, as desired. The result is a full pint of really better cough syrup than you could buy ready-made for three times the money. Tastes pleasant and never spoils.

This Pinex and Syrup preparation gets right at the cause of a cough and gives almost immediate relief. It loosens the phlegm, stops the nasty throat tickle and heals the sore, irritated membranes so gently and easily that it is really astonishing.

A day's use will usually overcome the ordinary cough and for bronchitis, croup, hoarseness and bronchial asthma, there is nothing better.

Pinex is a most valuable concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, and has been used for generations to break up severe coughs.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with full directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

QUARTERLY CONFERENCES.

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.

Shreveport Dist.—Fourth Round.

Athens, Sat., Oct. 7; Sun., Oct. 8, a.m.
Homer, Sun., Oct. 8, p.m.
Arcadia, Wed., Oct. 11, p.m.
Pelican, Sat., Oct. 14; Sun., Oct. 15, a.m.
Mansfield and South Mansfield, Sun., Oct. 15, p.m.
Oil City, Wed., Oct. 18, p.m.
Texas Avenue, Fri., Oct. 20, p.m.
Castor, Sun., Oct. 22, a.m.
Bienville, Oct. 22, p.m., Oct. 23, a.m.
Sibley, at Mims, Tues., Oct. 24
Haughton, Wed., Oct. 25.
Mangum Memorial (conference), Fri., Oct. 24, p.m.
Gibsland, Sun., Oct. 29, a.m.
Plain Dealing, at Walker's Chapel, Thurs., Nov. 2.
Wesley, at Carroll Creek, Sun., Nov. 5, a.m.
Ringgold, Mon., Nov. 6.
Grand Cane, Wed., Nov. 8 (conference).
Mansfield, Wed., Nov. 8, p.m. (conference).
Minden, Fri., Nov. 10, p.m.
First Church, Shreveport, Sun., Nov. 12, a.m. (preaching).
Mooringsport, Sun., Nov. 12, p.m.
Noel Memorial, Mon., Nov. 13, p.m. (conference).
Cedar Grove, Wed., Nov. 15, p.m.
First Church, Shreveport (conference), Fri., Nov. 17, p.m.

R. H. WYNN, P. E.

Baton Rouge Dist.—Fourth Round.

Baker, Baker, Oct. 14, a.m., 15, p.m.
Springfield, Red Oak, Oct. 15, a.m.
Gonzales, New River, Oct. 22, a.m.
St. Francisville, Oct. 29, a.m.
Olive Branch, Gilead, Nov. 5, a.m.
Clinton, Clinton, Nov. 5, p.m.
Franklinton ct., Fisher, Nov. 12, a.m.
Franklinton, Nov. 12, p.m.
Baton Rouge, First Ch., Nov. 14, p.m.
Hammond, Nov. 15, p.m.
Dunham Springs, Dunham Springs, Nov. 19, a.m.

J. W. LEE, P. E.

Alexandria Dist.—Fourth Round.

Pineville, Oct. 12, p.m.
Columbia ct., at Columbia, Oct. 15.
Glenmora, Oct. 19, p.m.
Jena and Jonesville ct., at Jonesville, Oct. 22.
Winnfield, Oct. 25, p.m.
Trout and Good Pine, at Good Pine, Oct. 26, p.m.
Provencal ct., at Provencal, Oct. 29.
Dunkie, Nov. 2, p.m.
Alexandria, preaching, Nov. 5, a.m.; conference, Nov. 6, p.m.
Marksville ct., at Marksville, Nov. 5, p.m.
Pleasant Hill ct., at Pleasant Hill, Nov. 12.
Natchitoches, Nov. 16, p.m.
Rochelle and Standard, at Rochelle, Nov. 19.

Preachers in charge will please see that the trustees have reports in hand concerning church property. Pastors will also nominate only the number of stewards allowed by the law of the church. Brethren, arrange your nominations accordingly. The law will be enforced.

W. L. DOSS, Jr., P. E.

Lake Charles Dist.—Fourth Round.

Franklin, Oct. 8, a.m.
New Iberia, Oct. 8, p.m.
Hornbeck and Peason, at Prospect, Oct. 15, a.m.
Zwolle, Oct. 15, p.m
Lafayette, Oct. 22, a.m.
Opelousas, Oct. 22, p.m.
Morgan City, Oct. 29, a.m.
Jeanerette, Oct. 29, p.m.
Many, Nov. 5, a.m.
Sulphur, Nov. 12, a.m.
Lake Arthur, Nov. 12, p.m.
Merryville, Nov. 19, a.m.
Ludington, Nov. 19, p.m.

J. B. WILLIAMS, P. E.

Monroe-Ruston Dist.—Fourth Round.

Mer Rouge, at Collinston, Oct. 6, 2 p.m.
Elmore, at Vienna, Oct. 8, preaching, 11 a.m.
Dubach, at Dubach, Oct. 8, preaching, 8 p.m.
Mangham, at Mangham, Oct. 10, 2 p.m.
Gilbert, at Gilbert, Oct. 11, 2 p.m.
Winnsboro, at Winnsboro, Oct. 12, 2 p.m.
Oak Grove, at Oak Grove, Oct. 15, preaching, 11 a.m.
Farmersville, at Farmersville, Oct. 18.
West Monroe, Oct. 20, 8 p.m.
Simmsboro, at Salem, Oct. 22, preaching, 11 a.m.
Tallulah, Oct. 24, 8 p.m.
Rayville, at Rayville, Oct. 25, 3 p.m.
Midway and Epps, at Epps, Oct. 26, 3 p.m.
Chatham, at Frantam's Chapel, Nov. 1, 11 a.m.
Eros, at Eros, Nov. 3, preaching, 11 a.m.
Waterproof, at St. Joseph, Nov. 5, 3 p.m.
Slelly Island, at Slelly Island, Nov. 12, preaching, 11 a.m.
Lake Providence, Nov. 15, 8 p.m.
Monroe, Nov. 17, 8 p.m.
Bernice, at Bernice, Nov. 19, preaching, 11 a.m.
Ruston, Nov. 20, 8 p.m.

The Licensing Committee will meet at Monroe Sept. 19, 10 a.m.

K. W. DODSON, P. E.

MOTHER!

Move Child's Bowels with "California Fig Syrup"

"PUT THE BEST BEFORE YOUR GUEST"

Henry Clay Brand Coffee

NOT JUST ORDINARY COFFEE
IT IS BETTER
FOR SALE AT ALL FIRST CLASS GROCERS

A UNION OF INTEREST TO WOMEN

Healthy Housewife---Happy Home

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Has Helped Form Many

For the ailing, half-sick housewife such a union is impossible. Often times even the slightest form of housework cannot be accomplished. Yet the work must be done.

Many women struggle along for years suffering from some form of female trouble that make their lives miserable and their homes far from happy.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has helped thousands of just such women regain their health and strength. Just give your thought to the following letters and remember that the women who wrote these letters knew how they felt before taking the Vegetable Compound and again afterwards. It helped them—let it help you.

Had Nervous Spells

Horatio, Ark.—"I had nervous spells and awful bad feelings. My right side and my back hurt me all the time and I had been going down in health for six or seven years. For three years I had not been able to do my work without help. I weighed only 95 pounds when my husband's mother persuaded me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Now I heartily recommend it to all suffering women, as I have gained weight and health. I can do all my work, anything I want to do."—Mrs. JIM REARICK, Horatio, Arkansas.

Reading, Pa.—"I was a nervous wreck and could hardly do my housework. I always had to have help or I would never have got it done. Through the advice of friends I have been taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for my nerves and Lydia E. Pinkham's Blood Medicine for my blood and I am feeling fine and doing my work all alone. I can recommend these medicines to any one, for they certainly helped me. I suffered for five years and Lydia E. Pinkham's medicines pulled me through." — Mrs. WALTER U. STOYER, 1218 Mulberry St., Reading, Pa.

Recommends the Vegetable Compound

New Orleans, La.—"I have found relief from my troubles by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I praise it wherever I go. I could not do my work as it should be done for I would sometimes have to lie down because of the pains I had. A friend induced me to take your Vegetable Compound and I have got great results from it. I keep house and am able to do all my own work. I recommend your Vegetable Compound to my friends who have troubles similar to mine."—Mrs. T. FOECKLER, 1915 N. Derbigny St., New Orleans, La.

Woman's Missionary Society.

LOUSIANA CONFERENCE.

A Letter from The Corresponding Secretary.

To the Auxiliaries of the Louisiana Conference.

Dear Co-workers: I feel that I must say a word in regard to our Week of Prayer, as the time is approaching when it will be observed. The Louisiana Conference should be especially interested in making a liberal offering, as the entire amount given by all Southern Methodism is to be given to our French Mission Work at Houma, La. Some of you may not know that the contract has already been let for the erection of a $16,000 school building on the same site with the MacDonell Wesley Community House, where Miss Ella Hooper, one of our own Louisiana deaconesses, is head resident. Surely, we have an opportunity to help our own, so let us compete with the other Conferences who are going to help us swell the offering.

The building will have adequate class rooms and a chapel for the enrollment of from sixty to one hundred students. There will be a dormitory space, with baths, etc., sufficient for the accommodation of about thirty boys, and an apartment for the Superintendent and his family. It is proposed to remodel the MacDonell Wesley Community House so as to give accommodation for the girls, for the women teachers, and to supply dining room and kitchen space for the entire student body.

Miss Hooper writes that ten girls are already at the Wesley House attending the public school until our building is ready—so eager are they to be under our care.

Mrs. C. F. Niebergall, our president, was in Houma last week to advise with Miss Hooper about the proper location of the building, etc., and she reports that there is a fine spirit in the home and an optimistic outlook for the work and a sympathetic attitude among the Houma people.

Most of these girls come from inaccessible places where they could have no school advantages but for the privilege of being in the Wesley House.

Seven scholarships at $150 each have been donated by individuals and auxiliaries and the opportunity is open for others. The Home Department of the Board of Missions has provided for ten scholarships for boys and an opportunity will be open for Sunday school classes or individuals to supply others. The harvest is ripe! where are the reapers? Yours in service,

Mrs. S. A. MONTGOMERY,
7926 Elm Street,
New Orleans, La.

P. S. Report—Report—REPORT—by October 1.

FROM BENOIT, MISS.

Dear Dr. Carley: We are in the last stretch of this Conference year, and conditions are good for a successful ending. We have had good revivals at all appointments. I was assisted at Winterville by Brother W. M. Young. It is unnecessary to say that we had sound gospel preached. The meeting was a success, and as a result we received seven members.

At Pace I was ably assisted by Brother W. L. Graves. He came to us filled with the Spirit, and did some good preaching, which was honored of God. Graves is sweet-spirited, earnest, and sincere. The meeting resulted in sixteen conversions; eight joined the Methodist church, and eight joined the Baptist church.

We organized an Epworth League with thirty charter members, which has since grown to fifty members. Credit for the League must be given to Mrs. E. S. Jackson, who is the efficient superintendent. The following are officers of the League: Junior Superintendent, Mrs. E. S. Jackson; President, Sallie Cumings; 1st Vice President, Annibell Pace; Secretary, Don Shepherd; Treasurer, Wayne Thornton; Epworth Quarterly Circuit Agent, Mattie Sue Alexander. This is a fine chapter and we are expecting great things of it.

W. R. GOUDELOCK.

FROM HAZLEHURST, MISS.

My Dear Dr. Carley: Last Sunday morning at the eleven o'clock hour the pastor preached on "The True Marks of Discipleship," opened the doors of the church, and two strong young men came forward and gave their hands, and, with fifteen others, came into the church; I baptized 11 adults, and altogether we had a most delightful service. The Spirit of God rested upon the whole congregation and we realized that it was good to be there.

Prayer meetings are running in great interest, and a thing to be most grateful for is the young men's prayer meeting, at which we had fifty-seven on Tuesday of this week.

If any charge has reason to rejoice over the fact that it has a man with special marks of true discipleship, it is this one. Brother F. A. Grimes, formerly of the Mississippi Conference, but now a member of the West Texas Conference, in the superannuate relation, lives in this pastoral field, and is a companionable brother, renders great service in every way possible, enjoys the unbounded respect and shares the love of all. He has recently finished a neat, comfortable bungalow, a home for the retired saint, and will spend the balance of his days here, unless he should recover his health; then he would, doubtless, return to the pastorate of the church. The Woman's Missionary Society of this charge remembered Brother Grimes and his most excellent companion with a kind expression of Christian love at the time they moved into the new home.

W. H. SAUNDERS.

SONGS AMONG THE LEAVES.

A shining music runs along
The laughing leaves of June,
And mingles with the mocker's song
To put the world in tune;
The song that runs among the leaves
In muffled melody
Is from the chorus of the sheaves
In summer's ministrelsy.

A mingled singing I can hear,
Among the gladsome leaves,
And whispered soothings drowse my ear,
When night her darkness weaves;
The breezy fingers lightly fall
On harps among the leaves,
And far off music voices call—
Soft singing from the seas.

O singing Voices in the trees,
How sweet ye are to me;
And choruses of honey bees,
Across the flowery lea;
The buttercups are smiling there,
Where winnowing wings go by,
And meadow larks fly up the stair
That leans against the sky.

I love the singing in the trees;
I love the laughing leaves;
I love the grasses on the leas,
When summer sunshine weaves
The colors on the greening hills,
'Mid rivulets of song,
And where the lonely whippoor-wills
Sing when the shadows throng.

—Charles Coke Woods.

ECZEMA

IS CURABLE

Write me today and I will send you a free trial of my mild, soothing, guaranteed treatment that will prove it. Stops the itching and heals permanently. Send no money—just write me—that is all you have to do. Address

Dr. Cannaday, 1225 Park Squire, Sedalia, Mo.

PILES Don't Be Cut

Until You Try This Wonderful Treatment

My internal method of treatment is the correct one, and is sanctioned by the best informed physicans and surgeons. Ointments, salves and other local applications give only temporary relief.

If you have piles in any form write for a FREE sample of Page's Pile Tablets and you will bless the day that you read this. Write today.

E. R. PAGE 430J Page Bldg., Marshall, Mich.

WHEELER Business College BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
"WHEELER STUDENTS GET THE BEST POSITIONS"
Call or Write for Free Catalogue

Iowa Physician Makes Startling Offer to Catarrh Sufferers

Found Treatment Which Healed His Own Catarrh and Now Offers To Send It Free To Sufferers Anywhere.

Davenport, Iowa.—Dr. W. O. Coffee, Suite 726, St. James Hotel Bldg., this city, one of the most widely known physicians and surgeons in the central west, announces that he found a treatment which completely healed him of catarrh in the head and nose, deafness and head noises after many years of suffering. He then gave the treatment to a number of other sufferers and they state that they also were completely healed. The Doctor is so proud of his achievement and so confident that his treatment will bring other sufferers the same freedom it gave him, that he is offering to send a 10 days' supply absolutely free to any reader of this paper who writes him. Dr. Coffee has specialized on eye, ear, nose and throat diseases for more than thirty-five years and is honored and respected by countless thousands. If you suffer from nose, head or throat catarrh, catarrhal deafness or head noises, send him your name and address today.—Adv.

Tremendous Value For 15c

Leading Weekly Magazine of Nation's Capital Makes Remarkably Attractive Offer.

Washington, D. C. (Special).—People everywhere are hurrying to take advantage of the Pathfinder's wonderful offer to send that splendid illustrated news and story paper to new readers thirteen weeks for 15 cents. It costs the editor a lot of money to do this, he says it pays to invest in new friends. You will like this paper; it is chuck full of just the kind of reading the people want, as its half-million subscribers testify; it will keep you posted on activities at the nation's capital and the world over. Splendid stories and rare miscellany; question box is a mine of information. Only 15 cents in stamps or coin mailed at once to Pathfinder, 11 Langdon Sta., Washington, D. C., will bring you for 13 weeks the breeziest, cleanest, sanest, most entertaining paper there is; you will be delighted.—Adv.

It is a heroic obedience to obey the laws of God simply because they are God's laws, and not because He has promised to reward the obedience of them.—Lessing.

A HEALTHY WOMAN IS ALWAYS BEAUTIFUL IN THE EYES OF MAN.

Lexington, Ky.—"During the time of middle life I used Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription and I cannot praise it too highly for the good it did me. I believe the Favorite Prescription is bound to become a favorite remedy with each woman who gives it a fair trial. I have also used Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery for stomach trouble and for colds, etc., and I believe it to be the best general tonic that can be had."—Mrs. C. C. Oldham, 553 Breckenridge Street.

The use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription has made many women happy by making them healthy. Get it at once from your nearest druggist, in either liquid or tablet form. Write Dr. Pierce, President Invalids' Hotel in Buffalo, N. Y., for free, confidential medical advice.—Adv.

ANGELL'S

COUGH and WHOOPING

Cough Syrup

Easy to Take
No Habit-Forming Drugs. Formula of
DR. RICHARD ANGELL

Prepared by
JAMES R. ANGELL,
New Orleans, La.

PRICE 35c AND 65c
AT ALL DRUGGISTS

NEW ORLEANS

CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE

Vol. 69—No. 41. Official Organ of the Louisiana, Mississippi, and North Mississippi Conferences, Methodist Episcopal Church, South. Whole No. 3479.

HENRY T. CARLEY, Editor. NEW ORLEANS, LA., THURSDAY, OCTOBER 12, 1922. CHAS. O. CHALMERS, Manager.

Editorial.

THE STATE OF THE CHURCH—THE GENERAL CONFERENCE SPEAKS.

Since it has been only a few months since the nineteenth session of the General Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, adjourned its meetings in the city of Hot Springs, Ark., and since the General Conference is the supreme law-making body of the church, having full powers to make rules and regulations for the church under the limitations imposed by the Restrictive Rules, it may be well to consider the significance of that body with reference to the present state of the church.

Membership.

The representative character of the membership of the General Conference is guaranteed by the disciplinary provisions concerning their election. In accordance with those provisions, the recent General Conference was composed of one clerical member for every forty-eight members of each Annual Conference, and an equal number of lay members. In order that these members may be truly representative of the church as a whole, the clerical representatives must be elected by the clerical members of the Annual Conference, and the lay representatives must be elected by the lay members of the Annual Conference; in order that these representatives may meet all the requirements of character and legislative ability and that they may be truly representative of their constituencies, it is further provided that the clerical delegates must have been traveling preachers at least four calendar years next preceding their election, and they must be in full connection with an Annual Conference at the time of their election and also at the time of holding the General Conference, and the lay delegates must be twenty-five years of age and must have been members of the church for at least six calendar years next preceding their election, and also at the time of holding the General Conference. It would be hard to find a better method of making the General Conference a truly representative body.

Method of Work.

The work of the General Conference is carried on by Standing Committees, composed of one clerical and one lay representative from each Annual Conference, elected by the respective delegations, and by such special committees as the Conference itself may desire and constituted as the Conference itself may direct. These committees elect their own officers, meet at stated times, and consider such matters as are referred to them by the Conference and such as properly come before them. Since the bishops are amenable to the General Conference, the Committee on Episcopacy is charged with the duty and responsibility of passing the character and work of each under review, thus answering to the church as to the faithfulness with which they have performed the duties of their high position. It will thus be seen that the General Conference is the whole church functioning, through its representative capacity, as a legislative body.

The Episcopal Address.

An address, prepared by the bishops, is read at the opening of the General Conference. This address, known as the Episcopal Address, usually gives a review of the work of the church for the preceding quadrennium, deals with the general state of the church, and makes such recommendations as the bishops deem wise. Since the bishops are connectional officers in the highest sense of the term, being general superintendents, they are in position to know, and are supposed to know, the life of the church as few others can. Their conclusions, therefore, are entitled to great weight. Since this is so, it will be of special interest to quote some parts of the Episcopal Address as given before the recent General Conference:

"A Glance at Our Times. * * * The world lies heartbroken at the feet of God. Its appeal to him is not to the god of battles, as in olden times, but to the Father of all, whose property is always to have mercy. God knows, and has taught us to know, that the only hope of the race ruined now by sin as at the beginning is in the crucified and risen Christ; and to his church he has committed such a ministry of healing and redemption as was never before known. He has suffered the world to be melted in the fires of war and famine and pestilence, and it waits to be recast in molds which the gospel furnishes, provided Christianity is wise enough to throw itself without reserve into the mighty but glorious task."

"About Ourselves and Others. While within the College of Bishops there is a realm of the most absolute candor, and while bishops are much given to having opinions of their own, we are glad to say that we have had a quadrennium of great harmony among ourselves. We can truly say, in the language of the ritual, that we 'are in love and charity with our neighbors.'

"We are glad to be able to state again that we have everywhere met with the heartiest co-operation and the finest courtesy possible on the part of the preachers and people. We have been much refreshed by their unvarying attitude of reverence for our office and of their affectionate regard for ourselves as their co-workers in the Lord's vineyard. Their consideration and loyalty have lightened our burdens, and they have made our hearts glad by their brotherly kindnesses. They have made us better workmen than we could have been without their help in council and in other ways. * * *"

"The Sunday School. Despite the limitations by which we have been in a measure bound, we are glad to note an unparalleled prosperity in this department of our work. Much of this progress we can see in the statistics which are given below; but much of it, and perhaps the best part of it, cannot thus be articulated. The intellectual and spiritual appreciation of this arm of power on the part of the church and of the general public, the enlarged grasp of our pastors, superintendents, officers, and teachers of the wonderful work committed to their hands, the enlarged conception our pupils have of the value of the Word of God and their devotion to the study of it, the growing influence of the Sunday school as a means of religious education upon the public thought and upon related institutions, the truly wonderful advance made by tens of thousands of our teachers in preparation for their work, are of such a nature that they cannot be tabulated, but are causes of gratitude to God and of the giving of thanks to our laymen who without material compensation have worked with apostolic zeal and success in this sphere of holy and abiding influence. * * *"

"Christian Education. * * * While turning to consider the larger educational day in which we live, let no one say that our work in the past, however desultory and lacking in general support, has been in any sense a failure. It has been far otherwise. It has throughout produced for us leaders who for high devotion and church statesmanship have not been surpassed by the leaders of any other church. * * * We are glad to believe that the sense of religious obligation is stronger and more active in our institutions of higher learning than it was even a few years ago. * * *"

"Southern Methodist University. * * * All the regularly constituted religious organizations of the church for young people are in successful operation. This year and last, under the leadership of the President, a most gracious revival of religion has been enjoyed and practically the entire student body brought into a saving knowledge of the Son of God. In this great institution of learning the purpose of the church is being realized.

"The School of Theology is doing splendid work, preparing our young preachers for more efficient service in the ministry and the mission field. * * *."

"Emory University. * * * In all departments the spiritual life and Christian character of the institution are most pronounced. No young man can attend any school at Emory without feeling the powerful influence of the strong Christian men in the faculty and student body."

"About the Church Itself. * * * We are particularly glad to be able to report in behalf of our own communion that peace and harmony have prevailed throughout our borders. There has been no serious disturbance of the peace of the church anywhere and very few cases of discipline of any kind. There have been, on the other hand, many and marked signs of unity and of improvement in the spiritual state of the church. Among these are: a very great improvement in the support of our preachers and of all the causes which call for material help, the unusually large number of conversions and the consequent increase in membership, the activity and liberality of our people in building churches, the unprecedented attendance of the people upon public religious services, the better use of pastoral and general evangelism in the conduct of great revivals, and the wonderful development of our laymen in the more spiritual aspects of their work. * * *"

"Our Missionary Work. * * * The church abroad has caught the spirit of progress in a wonderful way. Centenary giving has outstripped that in the home land. The strides toward self-support during the quadrennium have been beyond anything we have ever known. The spiritual results are still more cheering. There is scarcely a foreign field in which there are not now unusual tokens of a revival. In some it is so unusual as to be almost a new Pentecost. * * *"

"Of Lay Activities. * * * It is plainly true that no quadrennium in our history has witnessed such deep and intelligent devotion to the interests of the church on the part of our laymen as has marked the last four years. * * * Church loyalty is but the patriotism of the kingdom of God. And this loyalty to the church we believe has never before flourished as it does now. * * *"

"Revivals and Evangelism. * * * When Methodism had crossed the Atlantic the same dominant note called the people of the great wilderness to the altars of a new faith and larger hope. The very existence of Methodism in America

(Continued on Page 8)

New Orleans Christian Advocate

OFFICE, No. 512 CAMP STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

Published every Thursday by the Publishing Committee for the Louisiana, Mississippi, and North Mississippi Conferences, Methodist Episcopal Church, South.

Entered at the Postoffice at New Orleans as Second-class Mail Matter. Accepted for mailing at special rate of postage provided for in Section 1103, Act of Oct. 3, 1917, authorized Oct. 30, 1918.

TERMS:

Subscription Rates: One year, $2.00; six months, $1.
To superannuates and widows of preachers, $1.

TO CONTRIBUTORS.

All copy submitted for publication should be legibly written on one side of the paper with pen and ink, or typewritten. Matters written with a lead pencil and rolled manuscripts are unacceptable. No copy will be returned unless postage is enclosed for that purpose. In no case will responsibility be assumed for the loss or non-return of articles—the writers should keep copies of them. We do not purchase matter of any kind.

"DETACHMENT FROM EARTH AND DEVOTION TO GOD."

By Bishop Warren A. Candler.

God's Kingdom is a patriarchy. Its sovereign is the Eternal Father, and its subjects are His children who partake of His divine nature.

This filial relation of the citizens of the Heavenly Kingdom to its patriarchial Ruler implies in its very nature that they live in absolute dependence upon Him and in unfaltering obedience to Him. They cannot give trust or obedience to any other authority in the universe.

Such being the case, every filial citizen of the Kingdom of Heaven must live a life of detachment from the world that now is and of devotion to his God and Father. This principle prevails through every dispensation of the Kingdom of Heaven on earth.

The principle is very manifest in the call of Abraham, in which call God said to him: "Get thee out of thy country, and from thy kindred, and from thy father's house, into a land that I will show thee." Such a call wrenched loose from every earthly attachment the father of the faithful and the founder of the Hebrew commonwealth. While it severed every controlling bond of the world, it attached him completely to God. He was to find a country promised him, not by pursuing a journey with a map before him pointing him to the way, but by following God's direction daily. No blueprint of the promised land was put in his hands; but he was commanded to get to the land which God would show him. His journey was to be a personally conducted journey to a divinely granted inheritance.

The essential principle involved in Abraham's call is found also in the conditions of discipleship imposed by the Lord Christ upon all his followers: "He that loveth father or mother more than me, is not worthy of me; and he that loveth son or daughter more than me, is not worthy of me." (Matthew x, 37.) These words do not imply any indifference to parents, but they do signify, as did the call of Abraham, entire detachment from any authority or influence which would get between a human soul and God.

The Christian life is, therefore, a thoroughly unworldly life. It cannot, without damage to it, be subject to any of the maxims of men or the customs of this world which do not conform to the will of God. It must constantly pursue its course in perfect trust and perfect obedience to the Heavenly Father.

And men will not obey any authority upon which they cannot trustfully depend. Hence, the teaching of the Master in the sermon on the mount in which occurs His great words concerning providence and obedience:

"Lay not up for yourselves treasures upon earth, where moth and rust doth corrupt, and where thieves break through and steal:

"But lay up for yourselves treasures in heaven, where neither moth nor rust doth corrupt, and where thieves do not break through nor steal:

"For where your treasure is, there will your heart be also.

"The light of the body is the eye: if therefore, thine eye be single, thy whole body shall be full of light.

"Bt if thine eye be evil, thy whole body shall be full of darkness. If, therefore, the light that is in thee be darkness, how great is that darkness!

"No man can serve two masters: for either he will hate the one and love the other; or else he will hold to the one, and despise the other. Ye cannot serve God and mammon.

"Therefore, I say unto you: Take no thought for your life, what ye shall eat, nor what ye shall drink; nor yet for your body, what ye shall put on. Is not the life more than meat, and the body than raiment?" (Matthew, vi:19-23.)

These words of Jesus teach us that we serve the Master with trustful obedience or we do not serve Him at all, and that, if we rely upon earthly things for our sustenance and support, we are serving mammon and severing our relation of children to the Divine Father. Anxious thought for our life is but one manifestation of such distrustful disobedience to our Heavenly Father. A thousand other forms of this worldly spirit are found among men, and where any form of such worldliness is found, it is characterized by attachment to earthly things and detachment from God.

Life in the Heavenly Kingdom, therefore, requires the courage of the highest faith. If we are to seek first the kingdom of God, we must believe in the reality of the Divine Father and rely without hesitation or misgiving on his fatherly care of us.

In the Epistle to the Hebrews, it is stated that, "Without faith it is impossible to please God, and he that cometh to God must believe that He is and that He is a rewarder of them that diligently seek Him." (Hebrews xi:6.)

This must be so in the very nature of the Christian life. If we doubt the existence of our Father in Heaven or distrust his ability or disposition to reward them who seek Him, our hearts will necessarily turn to some lower source of support and authority, and such a turning away from our Father by any one of His children must be exceedingly displeasing to Him. Such an act of filial disregard is a gross reflection upon the divine care of our Heavenly Father. It dishonors Him while it damages the soul which indulges it.

It is not strange that the inspired writers, whose writings make up the Holy Scriptures, warn us so often against worldliness. Attachment to the world and resting in the things of the world for our comfort and support is the fruitful source of all sin. The first sin of the human race sprang from distrusting the word of God and then disobeying His will. Paradise was blighted by the blasting breath of worldliness, and myriads of Edens since have been withered by the same destructive influence.

The teaching of Jesus and the writings of the Apostles are in perfect agreement concerning the peril of the worldly spirit. In the parable of the sower, Jesus teaches us that the good seed was choked by thorns, and He tells us that the thorns are: "The cares of this world, and the deceitfulness of riches." (Matthew xiii:22.)

During the last hours before the crucifixion, the Master pointed out the irreconcilable antagonism of the world to His kingdom and to the children of the kingdom, saying:

"If the world hate you, ye know that it hated me before it hated you.

"If ye were of the world, the world would love its own: but because ye are not of the world, but I have chosen you out of the world, therefore the world hateth you.

"Remember the word that I said unto you. The servant is not greater than his lord. If they have persecuted me, they will also persecute you; if they have kept my saying, they will keep yours also." (John xv, 18, 19, 20.)

His words have been fulfilled in all ages. The roster of the heroes of faith contained in the Epistle to the Hebrews shows that they were forced to suffer for their sainthood. Moses suffered affliction with the people of God rather than indulge the pleasures of sin for a season. Before him Abel, and Enoch, and Noah, and Abraham, Isaac and Jacob, were made to suffer on account of their detachment from this world and devotion to God. All who came after them were found in like condition of militant and unworldly faith. By such faith, "They subduced kingdoms, wrought righteousness, obtained promises, stopped the mouths of lions, quenched the violence of fire, escaped the edge of the sword, out of weakness were made strong, waxed valiant in fight, turned to flight the armies of the aliens." (Hebrews xi:33, 34.)

"And others had trials of cruel mockings and scourgings, yea, moreover of bonds and imprisonment: They were stoned, they were sawn asunder, were tempted, were slain with the sword: they wandered about in sheepskins and goatskins; being destitute, afflicted, tormented; they wandered in deserts and in mountains, and in dens and caves of the earth." (Hebrews xi:36-38.) All these lived lives that were detached from the world and the inspired writer truly says, "The world was not worthy."

By the word world, neither Christ nor the Apostles meant to condemn love of the natural world in which we live. The world that God made does not antagonize Him, but there is a domineering world of vague outline in which the spirit of every age seeks to intercept and set aside the authority of God over human souls. This God-forgetting and God-defying world is the world which Jesus condemned and His apostles deprecated.

Writing to the Romans, St. Paul says of this evil world: "Be not conformed to this world" (the word meaning be not conformed to this age) (Romans xii:2). Writing to the Galatians, he says that Christ gave himself for our sins, that He might deliver us from this present evil world, according to the will of God, our Father." (Galatians 1:4.)

It is evident that we cannot be delivered from the power of such a domineering world except we bring every thought of the mind and desire of the heart in obedience to Christ.

We are sometimes exhorted to take heed to our times. We are told that men must conform to the age in which they live, but this is precisely what Jesus and His apostles taught us we should not do. There has never been an age in the history of our world since sin entered into it when any true man could afford to be subject to the spirit of his times. The faithful follower of Christ must live above his times and descend upon his time with saving influence. Like Abraham of old and all his saintly successors, the children of our Lord must be detached from the world and devoted to God.

"NOT ARITHMETIC—US."

In a city in New York, just previous to a financial campaign, a pastor was talking to one of his laymen. He was a railroad engineer, a man of very moderate income, with a wife, child and a dependent relative to support.

"Pastor," he said, "wife and I have been talking it over, and we have decided that we want to support a native preacher in India. That will be a Centenary contribution."

And the pastor answered, "Fine. Your tithe will take care of that easily, will it not?"

"Oh, no," said John, "this hasn't anything to do with our tithe."

The preacher was puzzled. In his experience, people had usually been trying to figure out how many things they could include under their tithe account. "Why not?" he said. "According to my arithmetic, your tithe ought to more than cover that."

"It isn't a matter of arithmetic," he replied. "It's us. Eighteen years ago, very soon after we were married, I was taken sick and didn't earn anything for two years. But the time came when I was getting better and thinking that soon I would be at work, and one evening, Dolly said, 'John, I think we ought to tithe.' I remember it mighty well. As I looked at her across the table I thought she was going crazy, and I said so. She insisted, however, and as we didn't have any income anyway and no prospects of having any soon, I thought I would humor her. But the idea had gotten a better hold of me than I thought. When the first wages in over two years came, we had some talk together and promised the Lord the tenth of that and all that should come after. It hasn't been easy always. We have had some pretty heavy expenses, and we began, $1,800 in debt. But we never ceased to tithe. The debts are all paid; we own our home. God has been good to us and we have gotten along comfortably. Now we want to support a native preacher in India. We want to be personally represented over there. Our tithe we have promised to God already. But we want to do this, too."

The point of this story is neither the size of John's income nor the size of his gift. It is his statement. "It isn't a matter of arithmetic. It's us." For the spirit of stewardship is a spirit of glad, loving partnership with God, a partnership real enough to be definite, but too deep to stop with calculation. And when that spirit gets hold of Methodism, there will be a transformed church and a long step toward a transformed world.—Exchange.

GETTING READY FOR CONFERENCE—GETTING THE RECORDS IN SHAPE.

By Rev. W. W. Holmes.

A church register a hundred and seventeen years old, kept consecutively and continuously from 1803 to 1922, would be a rare find, and would certainly be of historic value. About twelve months ago word came to the writer that such a church register was in existence and could be found somewhere within the bounds of the old Bayou Chicot circuit in the Louisiana Conference. All the information received in response to the many inquiries concerning this register was corroberative evidence that the book was all that had been claimed for it.

In McTyeire's History of Methodism a very interesting story is given of the Attakapas circuit and the itinerancy of Thomas N. Lasley in that lonely region. According to McTyeire, Lasley traveled this circuit in 1806; but it was reported that the church register of this circuit carried this data: "Register of Pastors—Name—Rev. Thomas Lasley; Date of Appointment—1803; Term of Service—One Year." Such a book would deserve a place among the historical documents of Methodism. I must confess I was much worked up over this register. I wanted to handle with my own hands a register that had been kept consecutively for more than a century. I wanted to see the names written in this register by Lasley himself, and by Nolley and others of the pioneer preachers who planted Methodism in the great Southwest.

At last this register was located and the preacher in charge was kind enough to send it to me (I would have been willing to make a long trip to get it), but it was not the book I had expected to find and about which I had allowed myself to become so enthusiastic. In the first place, the book could not have been more than 35 years old, for it was printed by our Publishing House in 1887. In the second place, it was practically worthless as a historical record covering a period of 85 years. In fact, any quarterly conference committee examining it at any time would have been compelled to report: "Not well kept." There are many church registers throughout the bounds of our church that are no better kept than this one, may be not as well. This careless and slipshod bookkeeping ought not to be perpetrated. If our records are worth anything, they are worth being made accurate and reliable. There is no better time to start in earnest with this good work than now. Conference is some weeks off, so we have plenty of time to put all the church records in good shape. If this is done, the "new preacher" will have no trouble with the records, and he will have had set for him an example that is worthy of emulation.

In writing this article I am not assuming the position of a record expert. I have been bothered much by the poor records I have found, and I have been ashamed of those I have kept myself. The poverty and inaccuracy of our records prompt me to make a few suggestions which I hope will be helpful.

The Church Register.

I first call attention to the church register and attempt to point out some common errors, with a suggestion of correction.

Some mistakes:

1. The purchase of a small register which is wholly inadequate for a growing church.
2. Where new register is purchased, the failure to transfer from old register to new register the full and complete record.
3. Attempting to make the church roll as recorded in register alphabetical instead of chronological.
4. Delay in making entries on register, and failure to make such entries accurate and in full.
5. "Marking off" names.
6. Correcting the church roll by transferring the "live membership" to other pages in the register.
7. Having no definite person to post register and no definite place in which register may be kept.

Some suggestions of correction:

1. Purchase a register that will be adequate for at least a hundred years. Enlarging a register is better than discarding it.
2. When a new register is purchased there should be copied into it a full and complete record of all the data in old register. Absolutely nothing should be omitted. Names of members, how received, how dismissed, when—everything should be carried to the new register. The copy should be certified and thus it becomes history.
3. A church roll can not well be kept in alphabetical order. It would have to be revised every year. The chronological roll alone has a historical value. Where the church roll is very large it is well to keep in separate book an alphabetical roll of membership, each name having a number corresponding to register number. This becomes a key to the register and by reference to it any name in the register can be quickly located.
4. Delay destroys the accuracy of more church records than any other one thing. A couple is married, a child is baptized, a person is received into the church, a certificate of dismissal is given or a death occurs—don't wait till to-morrow to record. Do it NOW. Let every entry into the register be accurate and in full. Correct names, initials and dates should be given. It is much better to record the name of a married woman with the initials of her husband than with her given name. Everybody will know who Mrs. J. L. Smith is, but few will know Mrs. Susie Smith. Neither "1922" nor "July 1922" is accurate when the date is "July 19, 1922." Be accurate.
5. Many a church register is a regular eyesore. The pages are all splotched and soiled; many names are marked through with pencil; additions are made on margin of page; names of members lost sight of, dismissed by church certificate or by order of church conference are literally marked off. There is absolutely no excuse for this—this running of a pencil mark or red ink through a name. Opposite every name on the church roll is a column plainly marked where disposition of member can be noted.
6. The "Live Membership" should not be transferred to other pages of register unless the church roll has been so marked up as to make a new roll necessary—and in that case the whole roll with all data should be transferred—preferably to a new large register
7. Some definite safe or vault should be selected as a place of safe keeping for all church records. In nearly every community there is some one who would take pleasure in posting register and seeing that it is safely kept. The preacher in charge ought to turn over all data to be posted up at least once a month. He ought often to examine the register, and the quarterly committee appointed to this task ought to be thorough and exacting.

Church Conference Record and Church History.

For a long time the church conference hasn't amounted to much. The church conference record is unappreciated to boot. Few permanent records of any worth are to be found anywhere. Even an interesting church conference is hard to put to record. I offer this suggestion:

Select as secretary or historian some man or woman in every church who has a knack in being able to jot down and make history the interesting things that are constantly occuring in the church, such as: special services, "write ups" in the newspaper, visits of distinguished people, resume of principal business transacted by quarterly conference during the year, etc.

A permanent record into which such items as mentioned above are written, along with the doings of the church conference, will make a record which will be a joy to keep and will never fail to interest.

The Quarterly Conference Record.

Some of our preachers and laymen think lightly of the quarterly conference. They seem to fail to grasp the importance and significance of it. It is THE conference of the local church. Without its authorization no church officers could be elected; no property could be bought or sold for the church. This conference is the church official, and through it the church has its legal standing in the community. Therefore the record of this conference becomes of supreme importance. Carelessness in the keeping of this record may jeopardize the whole church enterprise. It may be directly responsible for the foreclosure and utter ruin of a church. So it becomes very necessary that the business of the conference be carefully and accurately put into this record and that this record be safeguarded through the years.

Our church law requires that all quarterly conference records be taken to the district conference for examination. This is never done—25 or 50 per cent of the records are never taken to conference. There is no penalty attached to this failure in performance of duty. If the salesmen of a manufacturing concern were requested to bring their books to the convention—would the books be brought?

I believe that when a man is elected recording steward it should be with the understanding that he will attend the quarterly conferences and will act as secretary. The quarterly conference record blank should be used as little as possible. The record book has the questions printed out in full. In this day of speed and fountain pens, surely the answers could be written into the book itself. When the conference completes the business, the minutes could be read and approved and the presiding elder could sign the original record then and there. What would be the result? Instead of the minutes' being posted up once a year or may be not at all, the record would be made complete at every quarterly conference. Again, the book would always be at the conference for the inspection of the officials and the presiding elder.

What can be done to make the quarterly conference record for the year complete? The presiding elder and members of the fourth quarterly conference can insist that all minutes not yet recorded be recorded at once; that a full and accurate report be given by every Board of Trustees and that this report be properly recorded. There is church property scattered throughout the bounds of our Conferences that has practically been lost sight of because trustees have failed to report and the quarterly conference has been careless with its records. No quarterly conference record ought to be incomplete at the end of the year if the presiding elder, pastor and recording steward are on the job.

Pastor's Book, Visiting List, Etc.

Every pastor uses a book or visiting list according to his own liking—most of the time according to his own making. I use a looseleaf book with double indexing, one for alphabetical roll of membership, the other for alphabetical roll of streets. These rolls are made with typewriter. The street address given in membership roll is always written with pencil; thus change of address can easily be made without marring the page. In the alphabetical roll of streets, members are listed numerically, according to the house numbers. These numbers are used in consecutive order, 229, 244, 381, 426, etc. Only the surnames of members are used in this list, with figure to denote number in family who are members of the church, and "S. S." to denote membership in Sunday school. This street list carries name of every family represented in church or Sunday school, or who have expressed preference for my church.

Whatever kind of a book a pastor may use, it should be so perfected by Conference time that a new preacher, by the use of it, could take up the work right where the old pastor left off. All preachers should be mindful of this obligation to their successors, to the church, and to the Kingdom of God. It ought to be the ambition of every preacher who has sown good seed to do his utmost that the harvest be good and bountiful. After all, the success of a preacher is in being able to conserve the work done, and to pass on to his successor all the information and all the available help, that the good work begun may be continued and finally brought to a glorious consummation.

Some preacher will say: "I should worry. I know my church. I am not bothering with records. I am not going to move this year." Who knows? Has he any guarantee of return to his present pastorate? Has he any lease on life? Let us right the records and keep them right.

Lake Charles, La.

A LETTER FROM JAPAN.

(Published by permission of Mrs. I. M. Stevens, Biloxi, Miss.)

Nikko, Japan, July 30, 1922.

My Dearest Family: I am sitting in one of the two bedrooms upstairs in our lovely Japanese house. Right across from me and not so far away is a range of mountains that almost seems to reach to the sky, thickly covered with trees. At the rear of the house is a darling little garden, entirely Japanese, but artistic. From our front door we walk almost out into the street, but we have no men neighbors and are quite private in our house; downstairs is a delightful large room which we use for a dining room and a sitting-room; a tiny kitchen with only hibachie to cook on, and a small trunk room beside the bathroom and a nice little porch at the back.

Sister, Mrs. Akogi, and I reached Nikko yesterday afternoon at four-thirty, tired but thankful to get here. Two girls from Hiroshima had been occupying the house during the month of July, and as they are Northern girls, everything was spotless and invitingly cool. They leave early in the morning, however, and we will have the house the rest of August by ourselves.

I left Hiroshima last Saturday for Gatumber to climb Fugi with Mr. Hereford and Nannie. I stopped over in Kobe with Miss Williams and Miss Newcome, Sunday and Sunday night and left Monday morning at seven-forty-five for G., reaching there at seven in the evening. Don't you think that I am smart, traveling in Japan by myself and not knowing any Japanese? The Japanese train boys are so lovely to us, though, that there isn't any danger of getting lost.

I went out to the clubhouse, two miles from G., in a jinrikasha, where the Herefords met me. Mrs. Hereford had me a delicious supper ready. There was quite a conglomeration of people at the club—four Germans, Canadians, Baptists, and lots of lovely Americans. The Baptists were having their Mission meeting there, and there were about twenty of them. I enjoyed four young girls who are doing work in Northern Japan and had come to G., for the annual Y. W. C. A. We become friends immediately and had such a good time together. I also met Dr. Phelps, head of the Y. work in Japan; also, Dr. and Mrs. Seaman, who had been sent from America to visit the Y. work in the East. I retired early that night and had a good night's rest. Mr. Hereford decided next morning that we would start up Fugi at eleven. We left the Club in an automobile and rode to the foot of Fugi. I had borrowed an outing suit consisting of a khaki divided skirt (very short) and a woolen middy. My shoes were the worst of my outfit, being too low, and I suffered as a result of it.

Let me tell you about Fugi before I begin about the climb. Fugi, is 12,365 feet above sea level, the highest mountain in Japan, and the most famous. The road up is rather wide, getting smaller near the top, and is divided into stations. It goes straight up near the top, the path zigzagging like steps, which keeps it from being perpendicular. The path is mostly of cinders and rock, which is very hard on the feet. At each station is an inn where water and tea can be had, and rice and fish, if necessary. There were five in our party—Mr. Hereford, Nannie, myself, and two Germans, one of whom spoke eleven languages; they had been in Japan only two and one-half months and could speak Japanese fluently.

Well, back to the climb. We got to the foot of the mountain where we got five horses, three guides, a climbing stick each, and a fan as a souvenir. The guides carried our packs and all we had to do was to carry ourselves. We began on horseback about three, and rode to the third station, which was a little more than six miles up. We dismounted here and began climbing. Nannie gave out right at the start, but Mr. Hereford made us walk very slowly and rest every few minutes and she soon regained courage. We climbed about two miles and came to the fourth station, had our supper and rested a while. We started climbing again about seven and made good time to the sixth station. But from the sixth on, I began to give out, became nauseated and really sick. One guide was pushing me while Mr. Hereford was pulling me up, with a rest every ten feet. We had to reach the seventh station however, and, though I urged Mr. Hereford to leave me by the wayside to "die," he would not, and we finally reached the tea house at eleven, completely exhausted. We three slept on a pallet in a corner of the room with about forty other Japanese in the same room. The Germans had deserted us long ere this. I reckon we were too slow for them. We slept until three-thirty (at least I did), got up and began climbing again; we slept in our clothes, so had no dressing to do. As we got near the top, it grew steeper and steeper, and we finally reached the top of the wonderful Mount Fugi at six-forty-five, dead tired, but exultant. We didn't eat any breakfast until about eleven, and finally reached home at one-thirty for lunch. We missed the sunrise at the top because it was cloudy, a sight that I had so longed to see.

Though the view from each station going up was simply magnificent, I am sorry that I can't describe the beauty and grandeur as it really was. We soon got above the clouds and it was beautiful to look down on this sea of white foam, becoming more like a sea the higher we climbed. We had views of wonderful mountain ranges to the east and on the west we looked down on a small plain, beautifully green with wheat fields and three large lakes near the base of the mountain. One of the most interesting sights, however, was to stand near the top and look down on a line of pilgrims coming up, all dressed in white, with small brass bells at their waist, jingling. At least a thousand climbed the day we did, and I have never seen a more picturesque sight. At the ninth station they received a blessing, and it was pathetic to see and feel the uselessness of it all, and, too, their seeming seriousness and faith. Some old men came up that had to be pulled all the way, just to receive the blessing at the top.

There was snow along the sides of the mountain, and it was as cold as winter on the top. I had my heavy sweater and steamer rug and still almost froze. We remained and rested and drank in all of the beauty and grandeur that we could for an hour, then began to make the descent. I can't tell you much about the trip down, as we didn't come down the same path, but down the side of the mountain through rock and cinders about four feet deep. We would get a running start and slide through the cinders, catching ourselves with our sticks. It was great fun for a while, but imagine keeping this up for four hours, your feet getting filled with cinders and beginning to get sore and having to keep right on, because it was too steep to stop. We found a small patch of snow as we came down, and when we tried to get a little to eat, there was a large bank of it under the cinders. We got down to the bashia (something like our busses, but smaller, and drawn by a poor old horse). At eleven, footsore, bones aching, but wildly excited and a little peppy over the satisfaction of knowing that I was able to climb Fuji, the highest mountain in Japan, we rode in this awful little bashia until twelve-thirty, then took an auto at the inn, and reached the clubhouse at one-thirty, where a good dinner was awaiting us. After a long and needed rest, we were all down for supper that evening, feeling fine. It is needless to say that I slept well that night.

The next morning we (the four girls, Mrs. Hereford, Nannie, and I) started on a six and one-half mile hike across the mountain to see one of the most beautiful lakes in Japan. It was a lovely walk and not so hard, though we did not reach the lake until after one o'clock. One delightful thing about Japan is, that everything is so green and fresh looking. The valleys and hills are covered with wheat and rice and the mountains are dense with evergreen trees. There were large white lilies growing along the paths of the mountain, and from the tops of the mountains we had a magnificent view of the surrounding country for miles and miles. Lake Hakani is more beautiful than I can tell you. It extends about a mile and a half across, surrounded by other ranges of mountains with the little picturesque town of Hakane nestled down at the foot of one of the mountains. We crossed the lake in a gasoline launch, spent a few hours with missionaries at Hakane, who served tea and chocolate cake, left the four girls there, and Mrs. Hereford, Nannie and I re-crossed the lake and walked back home that night, arriving a little after dark. The next day Mrs. Towson came up to the clubhouse and had dinner with me, or rather I had dinner with her, as I was her guest. Every one was so lovely to me and so kind that I could have stayed there for several days if board had not been five yen a day, and I had not had a telegram from Sister, telling me to meet her in Tokyo the next morning. I left Gatumber the next morning at three o'clock. Mrs. Hereford and I had to walk two miles to the station, as the Kurimaiya Sans would not come out at that hour. I had about two hours' sleep that night. Mr. and Mrs. Hereford were lovely to me and could not have done more for my pleasure. The trip up Fugi cost me Y 15 and my stay in Gatumber four and a half days was Y 23, which I think was quite expensive. But I am glad to have this great opportunity of seeing the wonderful mountain, Fuji, and to know that I have been to its peak.

There is a saying here that one cannot say "Kekko" until he has seen Nikko, meaning that everything is beautiful and wonderful. And I find that it is true, for Nikko is like paradise and fairyland to me. There are miles and miles of avenues of Cryptemaria trees that simply entice one to wander on and on through the most beautiful woodlands and finally to a mysterious old temple, where pilgrims are chanting their prayers, and the temple bell peals out a melodious but weird sound. This afternoon, we three took our supper and roamed down one of these avenues for about a mile and a half, until we came to a lovely little waterfall, where we ate our supper. My precious loved ones, I simply ached for every one of you, especially mother, father, and auntie. I know now that God sent me to Japan, worked it all out for me and made it all possible for me to do this work. I haven't words to tell you of the beauties of Nikko. It is one of the beauty-spots of the world and I deem it more than a privilege to be here for a month. Water runs continually outside of our house, which gives one such a soothing and peaceful feeling. Our house-keeping is so simple and so easy, that we are enjoying every minute of our stay. At all of the largest temples, there is a bell which chimes out every hour in the day, which adds to the mystery and beauty of it all.

Mary and Mildred, your dear letters came last week, and I loved every word of them. How I would enjoy swimming with you this summer, and what fun you must be having! Do mother and auntie go in with you as much as they can? Hope father, brother, sister and the babies are all with you now. We haven't heard from father and auntie for quite a while. Will write you a long letter while we are here. I must close and go to bed, for it is quite late. Mr. Akogi and I have a three-mile hike on, to see one of the falls to-morrow if it is pretty weather. Love, a hug and kiss for each of you.

Your own,
JULIA LAKE STEVENS.

WHAT OF THE HOME FIELD?

The Methodist Eppiscopal Church, South, has made such increases in its foreign mission appropriations, and this so emphasized in our discussions of the Centenary, that many Southern Methodists do not know that there has been a larger percentage of increase in appropriations to the home field than to the foreign. And yet this is the situation in so far as regards our connectional missionary program. And if we take into account increased expenditures in the Annual Conferences, local and Conference investments, the gain in expenditures for home work is altogether out of proportion to that in foreign fields.

During the three years 1917-1919 our Board of Missions appropriated to the home field, this including the Woman's Missionary Society appropriations, $1,065,000. For the three Centenary years, 1920-1922, the total was $3,635,000, and adding to this total the ten per cent of all Centenary payments returned to the Annual Conferences for Conference missions—approximately $1,250,000—the total is $4,885,000. And this does not take into account amounts paid on assessments for Conference missions. Of this total of $4,885,000, the Centenary supplied $3,820,500. If pledges were paid to date it would have supplied $1,500,000 additional.

This home mission money has gone to rural work, mountain mission schools, city missions, work among miners, the people of cotton mill communities, of industrial centers and communities, to special evangelistic work, service to the foreigners in our midst, to Indians, to Negroes. For practically the first time in our history we have a real home mission program, and one that would not have been possible but for the Centenary.

Of course our program is in no measure an adequate one. We have made only a beginning in the work of serving the home field, but certainly the home work is not being discriminiated against in the expenditures of the Church's income. Of $35,000,000 expended for all purposes by our Church last year, more than $30,000,000 was for the home work—connectional, conference and local. We must do more for the evangelization of our own land. And one of the most vital things in all our plans and programs is that we provide conference mission funds for the extension of the work in each conference, the sending of preachers to fields now unoccupied, and the better support of the men now serving mission charges. The payment of Centenary pledges will help much to that end—ten pepr cent of all amounts paid by each Conference to be returned to that Conference for its own work. In supporting the Centenary you serve first the work in your own Conference.

A FLOURISHING CHURCH.

By Rev. Robt. Thorne.

Churches may be differently characterized as many professing Christians. There is a worldly church, in which temporal things have more prominence than eternal, the things of earth are more cared for than the things of heaven. There is the formal church, in which the life of religion is neglected while undue emphasis is laid upon its forms. There is the liberal church, in which divergent views may be held in theology, and membership retained therein. There is the lethargic church. It is possessed of powers which, if rightly used, might achieve great things for the power of God; but as it is, they accomplish but little, because their possessor is asleep. But there is the church in which, while temporal matters have attention, spiritual things engage supremely the thought and heart. This church is the flourishing church; and some of the facts regarding it shall now have our attention.

1. It is a divinely bedewed church. It is the scene of the refreshing and invigorating influences of God's Spirit. As the dews through the clear night after the sultry day distill upon the landscape, refreshiug its life, so do the divine influences refresh this church, making it strong and vigorous. Concerning these influences represented as dew, notice some facts:

First—They are personal. God has not created an atmosphere around the soul out of which shall come in the days of its drought moisture to refresh its nature. He does not meet the needs of the soul by His creative acts; He meets them by coming directly into contact with it Himself. Out of no ambient atmosphere is the church revived; but by the direct contact of God therewith by His Spirit.

Second—They are silent. Who ever heard the dew distill? Silent forces are often the mightiest. Those that open the gates of the morning and conduct the king of the day to his throne in the zenith, operate so silently that perhaps only God's ear hears them.

Third—They are penetrating. Dews remain not on the surface of vegetables to sparkle and adorn; they go down into its life and reach even to the tips of its roots. So do the influences of the Holy Spirit in the church; they go down to the depths of its nature.

Fourth—They are proportionate. The hottest day is followed by the most copious dews. There are trying experiences in church life that are like days of merciless heat, when faith, and hope, and love are threatened with destruction. But in these times the dews of God are most abundant.

Fifth—They are daily. The dews do not come once or twice a year—they come when needed. In the heat of the year they come daily. The influences of God's Spirit are not annual blessings; they may be had daily. Thus is the flourishing church bedewed.

2. The flourishing church is, as to itself, a growing church.

First—In beauty—"As the lily." Everything in nature cannot be considered beautiful; but of the many objects which can, surely the lily is one. And so also is the olive tree. It would seem as if the prophet (Hosea) sought the most beautiful objects among his natural surroundings to set forth the moral beauty in which a healthy church grows.

Second—In root strength. The cedars of Lebanon sink their roots deep in the earth, and cast them forth so widely as to cover the ground as great in diameter as the height to which they raise their heads. So does the church sink its roots of faith and love into the soul of truth.

Third—In breadth. "His branches shall spread." When a man becomes a Christian he partakes of Christ's Spirit. His love for man is at once broadened. Love for souls characterizes the true church of Jesus; and in that love it grows.

Fourth—In attractiveness. "Its smell is as Lebanon." The winds that swept over Lebanon bore on their wings delicious odors from the sweet-smelling flowers that grew there. It is said that far out at sea the traveler meets with sweet odors from Ceylon's isle. Even so is the fragrance of the flourishing church deliciously sweet.

3. It is a useful church. "They that dwell under the shadow shall return." No agency for good can stand higher for usefulness than a truly flourishing church.

Springhill, La.

IF YOU WERE RICH.

If you were rich, what would you do with your money? Would you hold your wealth as a trust from God and invest it for the glory of God and the welfare of your fellows? Or would you regard it as a lucky windfall and use it as your own greed, or appetite, or folly might dictate? We like to picture ourselves as saintly beings, too noble to be mean, too public-spirited to be selfish, too generous to be stingy, and too high-minded to be base and sordid. And as we see how some rich men use their wealth it necessarily feel virtuous to realize that if we were rich we would not spend our money as they are spending theirs.

If we were rich, no neighbor of ours would ever want for bread. Our workmen would always be contented and happy because we would always use them well, paying good wages under ideal conditions, and providing alike for present and future needs. We would never have a strike for our men would have nothing for which to strike.

And if we were rich we would not be anxious to add fortune to fortune, but we would be willing to let other men share in our good fortune. We would be public-spirited men and the city in which we lived would have good cause to remember us for we would delight to spend our wealth in public benefactions.

And we would delight to help most liberally the churches and all the organizations which make for human betterment. Our preachers would be paid salaries consistent with the importance of their work; our Sunday schools would be well manned with competent teachers and supplied with all the latest improvements in books and equipment; and the church would be a delight to the eye, and the music as near like angel-songs as human skill could make it. Yes, if we were rich we would be ideal rich men!

This is our dream, but what is the reality? We are worth more money now than we were twenty years ago, but how have we invested it? So far it is every dollar in our own name, and it is likely to stay so. Our income now may be three or four times what it was twenty years ago, but how are we spending it? Then, we spent nearly every cent upon ourselves, and we are doing the same to-day. And if our income were to double to-morrow we would still follow the old plan. We would build or buy a better house, on a better street. We would sell the Ford and buy a McLaughlin. We would get rid of the old rugs and get new and better ones. We would get some luxuries that we have longed for for years. In short we would spend, if not every dollar yet nearly every dollar, upon the gratification of our own pride and appetite.

How many of us are there who can honestly claim that we have regarded increased wealth as a sacred trust? How many of us can plead that as wealth increased we have forgotten self in our enthusiasm for humanity? How many of us are nearer to God and nearer to man, because of our increased earnings or our increased wealth? We venture to say that with most of us wealth has ministered to selfish ease rather than to self-denial; it has helped to build a wall between us and our poorer brethren, rather than to bridge the gap that was already there; it has helped us to forget duty rather than to make us more keenly sensitive to it; in short, wealth has become to many of us not weal-th but ill-th. And the word of the Lord to us to-day is the old, old word of long ago, "Repent ye, for the kingdom of heaven is at hand."—Christian Guardian.

Let the world's strong man do his worst, I know a stronger, and he is the spiritual man; the manhood in which weakness can shelter; the manhood that is formed in the spirit and in the image of our blessed Lord; the manhood, indeed, which is enthroned in the universe, overlooked and sustained by the manhood of Jesus Christ.—R. J. Campbell.

SECOND PAYMENT PAY-UP-WEEK, NOVEMBER 1st to 8th, CHRISTIAN EDUCATION MOVEMENT, LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.

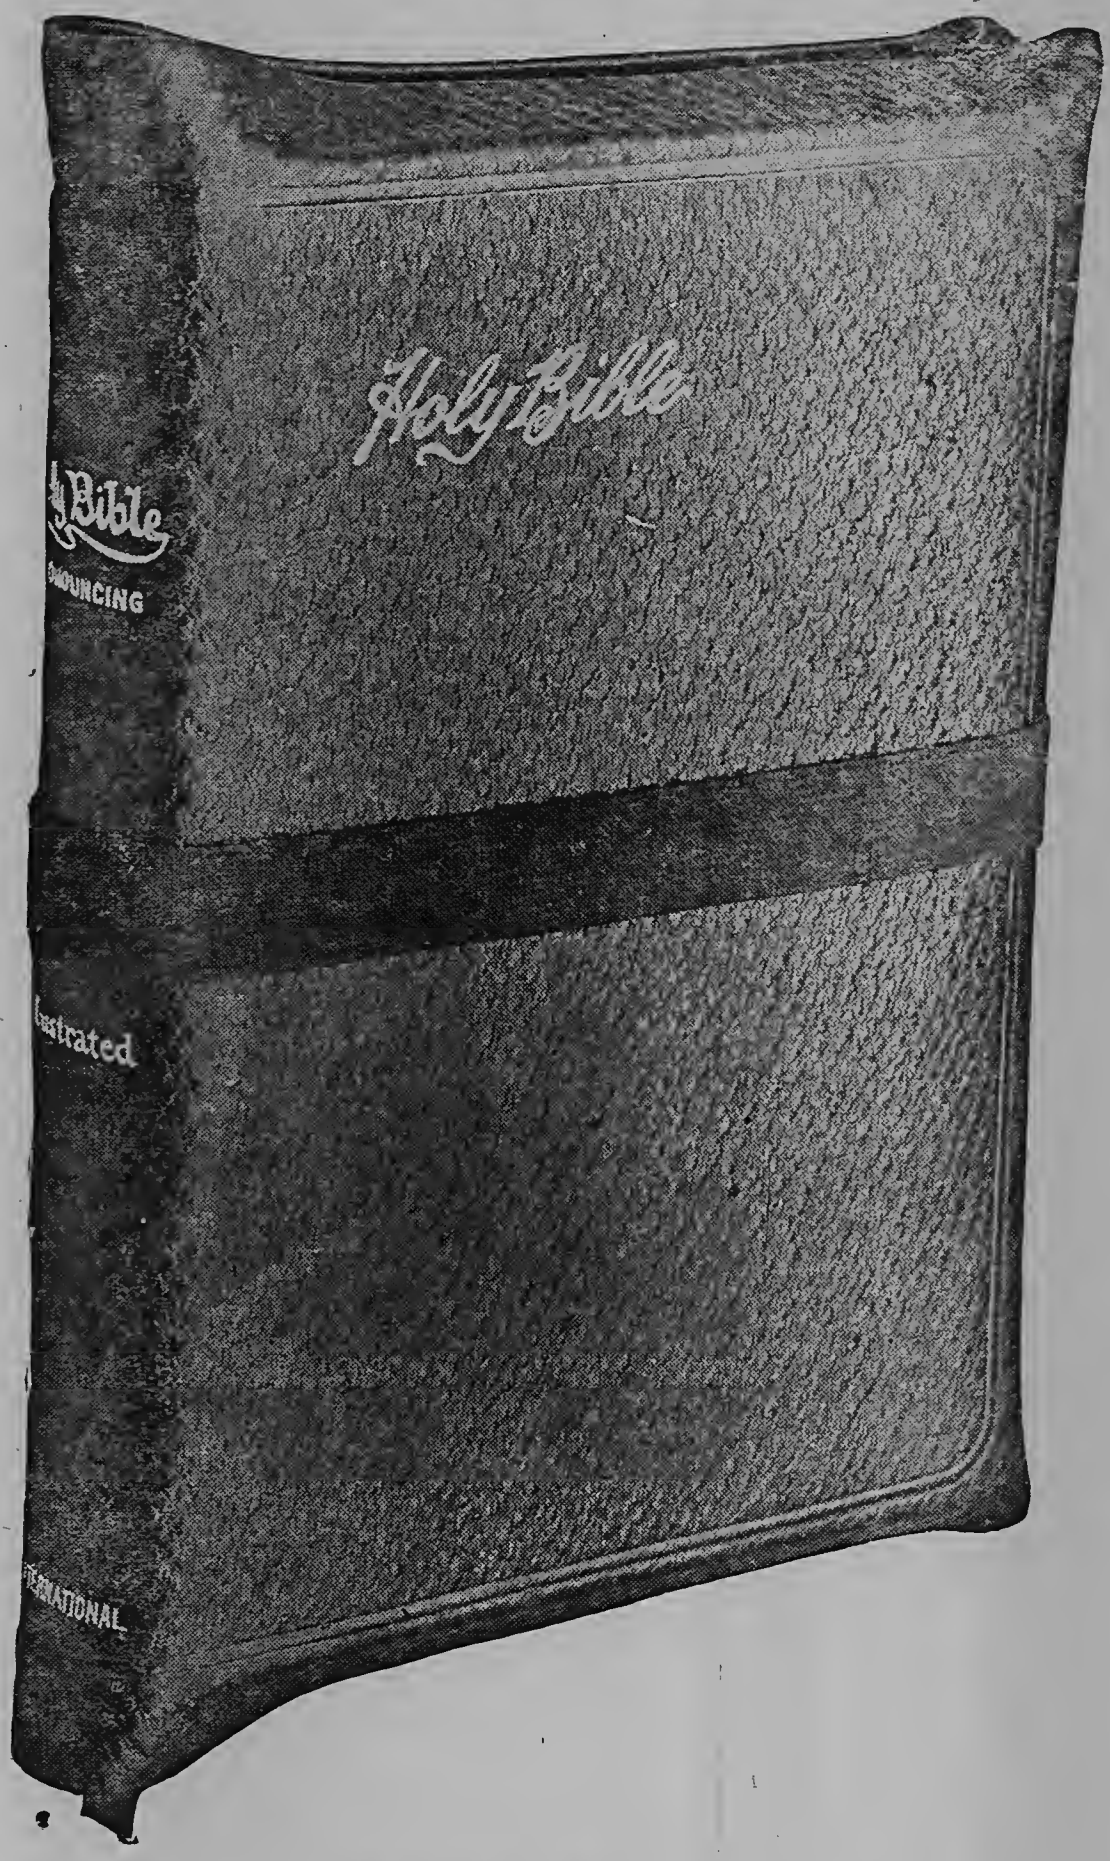
PAY YOUR LOCAL CHURCH COLLECTOR, OR SEND DIRECT TO CONFERENCE SECRETARY OF EDUCATION.

ALBERT S. LUTZ.
1063 Sheridan Ave.,
Shreveport, La.

The Standard Teachers' Bible

GENUINE LEATHER BINDING

FLEXIBLE



PRICE, $4.00.

ADDRESS:

New Orleans Christian Advocate, 512 Camp St., New Orleans, La.

The Home Circle

"GRANDMA'S STORY BOOK."

By Mary E. Klefer.

I like to be sick at my Grandma's.
(Of course I don't mean very ill),
But just-kind-of-dull-and-complainy,
So it feels rather good to keep still.

Then, Grandma will bring me my dinner
Of crackers and soup, tea and toast,
In her prettiest china, lots thinner
Than ours is at home, 'ease she's host.

And when I have eaten it slowly
She asks me if I will have more.
I answer, "I'm not hungry, truly;
I guess that my throat's getting sore.

"I can't talk much, Grandma, but maybe
You could tell me a story or two."
Then she folds back the spread, and before me
Lies her pretty pieced quilt, in view.

"Which one shall I tell first?" asks Grandma.
I point to a block colored brown.
"Just tell me the one about mamma
The day when she wore that brown gown."

Then she tells all about that, and others
Of Mamma's, and Rose's, and Paul's,
(I really don't see how Grandmothers
Can ever remember it all.)

Then "This was a piece that your Grandpa
Bought me on our first trip to town.
This red, was a dress for your mamma.
She cried for a mixed green and brown.

This blue, was a dress of Minerva's,
(She was your mamma's cousin, you see),
She wore it to our house one Sunday
And tore it when climbing a tree.

This striped piece was Billy's. For wearing
It couldn't be beat. Don't you know
Boys always are noted for tearing
Their clothes from their head to their toe?"

But the piece I like best, and the story
'S 'bout the dress that my mamma wore when
She went off to visit her Grandma
And her age, just like mine, was 'bout ten.

—California Christian Advocate.

THE STORY OF A DISH.

By Florence Irma Jennings
(thirteen years old).

I was a pretty little dish, though I say so myself. I was made in a large factory along with many other dishes. When I was finished, the other dishes and I were sent to a place where we were painted. A little Dutch boy and girl and a little house with a red roof and a windmill by its side were painted on me.

Then I was sent to a store, where many things were sold. There were nails, paint, hammers, saws, and things like that for sale. Then there were dishes and pots and pans, too. It was called a hardware store.

One day a lady came in the store and asked for a dish for a little girl. As I was made for a child and could not break easily, the man showed me to her. She thought I was cute and was sure Betty would like me. Betty was her little girl. So I was wrapped up and paid for and taken to her house.

As we reached there Betty ran out to meet us. She had short black curls and dark blue eyes. She was about five years old and very pretty, I must say.

"Oh, mamma! Did you get my dish," she said. "Let me see it right away." So her mother gave me to her and she liked me very much. Then I was sent to the kitchen.

The next morning, and every day after that for a long time, good things were put in me for her to eat.

One day when she was eating out of me she said suddenly, "Mother, I want a new dish. I am tired of this one."

Her father, who was sitting at the table, said, "You can not have a new one till that one is broken."

Now, Betty had a temper when she was angry. She was a spoiled child. She was very angry now and picked me up and threw me on the floor. If I had not been so strong, I might have cracked into pieces; as it was, I was chipped on the side.

"Now Betty, don't get mad. Papa will get you a new one if you will be a good girl," said her father.

I was picked up and carried out and put in a box with some other old dishes that I heard were going to be sent to a charity hospital. I made the box full so we were put on a truck that took us to the hospital.

The next day some dainties for a sick child were put in me. I was placed on a tray with some other things and taken to a bed where a little sick girl lay. Her name was Dolly and she was the sweetest thing I ever saw, though I heard the doctor say she would die soon. She loved me, I know, because she was so careful of me. Every day she would eat out of me. I adored her. She was so sweet. One day she said to me, "You poor dish, I wonder who chipped you up so."

After awhile she died and I and everything and everybody were very sad.

I still remained at this place for over a year, holding food for the little sick children. Then a rich man left a lot of money for this hospital and we old dishes were not needed any more. We were sold to a man who bought and sold old china and glassware.

One day a man came in the store who bought a lot of old bottles and dishes. I happened to be one of the dishes. We were taken away and broken into pieces with a hammer.

Then he fixed us on a fence along the top to keep people from climbing over. I suppose you have seen one like it. There, if you pass to-day, you will see me, the Dutch boy in one place, the girl in another, the house in another, and the windmill in still another.

New Orleans, La.

SPOT FINDS A HOME.

Down on the rug at my feet, writes a correspondent, lies Spot, whose father may have been almost anything. His mother may have been a collie. Spot is perfectly happy. That was not always true, however, until one day he found, entirely unexpectedly, a home for himself.

We used to have a little curly haired dog that we named Goldie from her color, which was a golden brown like burnt sugar. She had a smiling eye and an expressive tail. She would cry if left alone, and she would sit up and beg for sugar as prettily as you could wish.

Goldie was with us for a long time. A day or two before she left us forever we noticed Spot down by the basement door. He was a strange dog, skinny, frightened and homeless. His ribs showed through his hair and his matted coat; his big eyes were filled with misery and loneliness; he trusted no one. From across the street he watched Goldie play.

A few days after the strange black and white dog had appeared in the neighborhood Goldie, reverting to one of her frolicsome puppy tricks, ran after a motor car. She caught it off the block and was returning victorious up the middle of the street when an automobile truck, driven by a fellow whose heart was rock, ran her down and killed her instantly. We picked her up, and neighbors and neighbors' children wept over the little mangled body. Goldie had been every one's friend. And among the mourners, with the neighbors' dogs of various sizes, was the strange dog. He edged close to watch Goldie buried, and he stayed more and more one than ever when the gathering broke up and the neighborhood went back to its workaday cares.

That night we heard a scratching at the screen door. Opening it and turning on the outside light, we saw the strange dog. He was shivering with fright, but as he turned up his agonized face his plea was as plain as if he had spoken. We held the screen door open for him, and he needed only a friendly word to enter the room politely.

Spot has been part of the family ever since that evening. He is sleek and clean and happy now, and I suppose he has forgotten the days when he was a tramp. But as I look at him I cannot help thinking that he came as the result of sound canine reasoning; he knew that the untimely death of poor Goldie had made a vacant place in a good home, and he hurried to apply for it before we should get another dog. Youth's Companion.

SPECIAL OFFER

ONE 42 PIECE $12.00 DINNER SET

BLUE BIRD, FLORAL OR WHITE AND GOLD DESIGNS

For $4.98 f. o. b. New Orleans

Cut out this Advertisement and send to WM. B. REILY & CO., New Orleans, La., with Six Coupons from Luzianne Coffee and $4.98, and the Beautiful Set will be Expressed to You at Once.

All three sets consist of: 6 dinner plates, 6 cups, 6 saucers, 6 pie plates, 6 fruit dessert dishes, 6 oat meal dishes, 1 large meat platter, 1 round vegetable bowl, 1 oval vegetable bowl, 1 cream pitcher, 1 sugar bowl, 1 sugar bowl cover.

New Orleans Christian Advocate

HENRY T. CARLEY, Editor.

CHAS. O. CHALMERS, Manager.

PUBLISHING COMMITTEE:

Louisiana Conference—Rev. J. F. Foster, Rev. S. J. Davies, Rev. C. C. Miller.

Mississippi Conference—Rev. J. T. Leggett, Rev. J. R. Joncs, Rev. W. H. Saunders.

North Mississippi Conference—Rev. J. H. Felts, Rev. T. H. Lipscomb, Rev. J. W. Dorman.

DIRECTIONS.

All checks and money orders should be made payable to the New Orleans Christian Advocate.

Communications pertaining to subscriptions and other business matters should be addressed to the Manager, or to the New Orleans Christian Advocate.

The Printed Lab l on a paper shows the date to which a subscription is paid. It is as good as a written receipt. When renewal is made, if the date is not moved forward after three or four weeks, notify us, and we will make it right.

Communications intended for the Editor should be directed to him at 512 Camp Street. Correspondents will observe the following rules: 1. Write on only one side of the paper. 2. If you have a typewriter, by all means use it; otherwise use a good quality of black ink. 3. Leave a space of at least two inches at the top of the first page; leave a margin of at least one inch on the left-hand side of the page; do not crowd the words and the lines together. 4. Take special pains to write proper names correctly and legibly. 5. Use letter paper if you can get it—not note paper. No attention will be paid to rolled manuscripts.

THE STATE OF THE CHURCH—THE GENERAL CONFERENCE SPEAKS.

(Continued from First Page)

meant an organized evangelism such as would abide through the ages. From that time our ministry and membership have been faithful to these traditions, and our church by the double plan of education and evangelism has enjoyed the greatest growth within a similar period known in the history of the Christian church. We deem ourselves fortunate in the present arrangement for the continuance and enlargement of this great work. * * *"

"Conclusion. * * * Heretofore our church has been remarkably exempt from these destructive influences and revolutionary tendencies. Our preachers (with few, if any exceptions) have been characterized by purity of doctrine and elevation of life, and the spirit of our people has been marked by the most admirable conservatism of evangelical Christianity.

"We do not discourage devout scholarship, nor discourage efforts to reach sound learning in all departments of thought and promote investigation along all lines of useful research. From the first Methodism has fostered education and walked unafraid along the paths of intellectual culture. From its founders and fathers, who came forth from the halls of famous seats of learning, we have inherited courage in pursuit of truth and confidence in following its light. We have received also from them the disposition to maintain the faith once for all delivered to the saints. They were not, and we must not be, unstable children, tossed to and fro and carried about by every wind of doctrine. Modish rationalism must not be permitted to affect our devotion to the established tenets of ancient and abiding Christianity.

"In these times of doubt and distress the message of the enduring gospel of the Son of God, with apostolic accent and authority, must speak tranquility and order to a perturbed and distressed world. The demands of the hour exclude the propagation of novelties and notions. * * * Our office is not to produce a new Christianity, but to preach with the power of the Holy Ghost sent down from heaven 'the old, old story of Jesus and his love.' * * * And the best defense against all the forms of incendiary rationalism on the one hand, and of the fanaticism of ignorance on the other, is a great offensive movement against all the forces of iniquity. * * * To this end, let the spirit of brotherly love prevail in all our borders; let us put away all worldliness out of our hearts and lives; and let unceasing prayer be made to the God of our fathers for the outpouring of his Holy Spirit upon all our people. * * *"

"Concerning the future we have the same confidence that St. Paul had when he wrote to Timothy: 'Nevertheless the foundation of God standeth sure, having this seal, The Lord knoweth them that are his. And, Let every one that nameth the name of Christ depart from iniquity.' * * *"

It seems to us that these declarations of our bishops taken from the Episcopal Address and, in fact, the whole Address, sound the clear and ringing note of optimism, based upon an intelligent understanding of the situation as it exists throughout the church. It is a sane optimism, which takes into account the real difficulties and dangers that exist, but which holds out encouragement for the future, nevertheless. There is no suggestion in it that the church has departed from the faith, that it has become unsound in doctrine, or that its leadership has become inefficient and dangerous; rather, it is a clarion call to go forward valiantly in a united attack upon the strongholds of sin. The Address is signed by all the bishops, in order of seniority, as follows: Eugene R. Hendrix, Warren A. Candler, James Atkins, Collins Denny, John C. Kilgo (now deceased), William B. Murrah, Richard G. Waterhouse, Edwin D. Mouzon, John M. Moore, William F. McMurry, Urban V. W. Darlington, Horace M. DuBose, William N. Ainsworth, James Cannon, Jr.

Doctrinal Standards.

In order to deal with certain representations that were made in memorials, petitions, and resolutions from several Annual Conferences and from district conferences, churches, individuals, and one from the General Board of Missions concerning our Standards of Doctrine, a special Committee on Standards of Doctrine, consisting of one member from each delegation, to be appointed by the delegation, was ordered. This committee was appointed as follows: A. W. Plyler, J. E. Harrison, C. Henley, E. E. Wiley, G. W. Barcus, E. E. Clements, A. J. Lamar, J. H. Light, J. W. Mills, C. A. Slaughter, W. W. Holmes, J. F. Yarbrough, J. B. Winn, J. F. Corbin, J. L. Becker, A. Chappell, R. E. Dickenson, F. S. Onderdonk, J. W. Hunt, B. Anthony, G. B. Winton, J. R. Jones, M. H. Norton, J. A. B. Fry, Herbert Holmes, J. S. Ryang, H. M. North, C. L. McCausland, C. A. Spragins, R. L. Russell, J. B. Cox, W. G. Henry, J. C. Jones, W. Sherman, W. G. Cram, J. E. Harrison, G. W. Hummel, S. Fisher. After mature deliberation this representative committee presented a report in the form of an address to the church, which was adopted. That address, with the omission of the paragraphs in the Episcopal Address to which reference is made, is as follows:

"We, your representatives in General Conference assembled, in view of the fact that there have come to us various memorials and petitions which indicate that in parts of the church and among some of our people there is a degree of alarm lest the time-honored and universally accepted doctrines of our Methodism are not being presented in their purity by certain of our preachers and teachers, send you our greetings and beg to assure you that we, and we believe the great body of our people, still adhere unwaveringly to 'the faith once delivered to the saints.'

"It may be that some, using that liberty which Methodism has always allowed to its representatives, have gone too far in questionable speculations. We would not have our people, our young people in particular, led to accept beliefs contrary to our recognized standards of doctrine. Those standards are amply set forth in our Articles of Religion and in the Apostles' Creed.

"We therefore call upon all Annual Conferences, boards of trustees of our institution of learning, and other responsible officers of our church, to take all necessary steps to 'banish and drive away all erroneous and strange doctrines contrary to God's Word.'

"No article of our faith has been from the beginning more precious or more vital in our history than the divine inspiration and sufficient authority of the Bible. We recall to you once more those emphatic and comprehensive words of our fifth Article of Religion: 'Holy Scripture containeth all things necessary to salvation; so that whatsoever is not read therein, nor may be proved thereby, is not to be required of any man, that it should be believed as an article of the faith, or be thought requisite or necessary to salvation.'

"Such is the faith which we have inherited from our fathers and by which we unfalteringly hold. God has wonderfully rewarded our loyalty. The past quadrennium, the last year especially, has been for our Zion one of unexampled prosperity. Our people have been moved to pour vast sums of money into the treasury of the Lord. Multitudes of souls have been the harvest of our ministry. Our increase of membership last year (91,315) was the greatest we have ever had in one year, and greater than that reached the same year by any other branch of Methodism. Meantime, the young people of our church societies and institutions of learning are offering themselves by the thousand for lives of sacrificial service.

"As enforcing the sentiments for which we would have our people stand, we bring to their attention and commend to their consideration the following weighty paragraphs from the Pastoral Address of our honored and beloved bishops."

This action by the General Conference seems to be a clear-cut declaration of its conviction that the church is sound in faith—"we beg to assure you that we, and we believe the great body of our people, still adhere unswervingly to 'the faith once delivered to the saints.'" The report calls upon all Annual Conferences, boards of trustees of our institutions of learning, and other responsible officers of the church to take all necessary steps to "banish and drive away all erroneous and strange doctrines contrary to God's Word"—an obligation that has always rested upon them and one that they disregard at their peril.

Connectional Institutions and Enterprises.

All the connectional institutions and enterprises of the church, including the activities of all the General Boards, were passed under review by the General Conference and, with perhaps some minor exceptions, were approved and endorsed. These agencies stand to-day with the official backing of the church as a whole—they are the church functioning in their various fields of activity.

Bishops and Other Connectional Officers.

In Report No. 2 of the Committee on Episcopacy, the character and official administration of each of the bishops, called by name, were passed by the General Conference by adoption of the report. All the new bishops and connectional officers were elected by ballot by their brethren sitting as official representatives of the church charged with this great responsibility.

The Closing Address.

The close of the recent General Conference was marked by these striking words spoken by the senior bishop, Bishop Warren A. Candler: "I hope it will go forth that the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, is still a holy and religious institution and that its highest legislation represents that religious spirit that permeates the entire Connection. I think that your legislation, upon the whole, has been inspired by singleness of purpose and has been wise legislation. It will bless the church, I trust, in all its borders and redound to the glory of our God and the salvation of men. Go home, my brethren, into your local churches and the district and Annual Conferences, and continue to manifest the spirit of Christ and to have constant reference to his will, that the people may be kept in the ways of righteousness and peace for his name's sake."

What Is The Significance?

It seems to us that the significance of the actions of the recent General Conference is unmistakable. The General Conference adjourned on Monday, May 22, 1922—not quite five months ago. During its sessions all the interests of the church were fully considered by representative committees and by the body as a whole, and all its actions are authoritative and binding upon the membership of the entire church, and its findings are, in effect, the findings of the whole church through its duly chosen and accredited representatives. Those actions and those findings are official; and they are, and ought to be, reassuring to those who may have been troubled by reports from various sources that the leadership of the church is unsafe, that its faith is imperiled, that its doctrines are being discarded, and that its spiritual life has practically gone into eclipse.

We do not contend that there is no sin in the world; that everything is as it ought to be; that the church membership embraces only those who have been soundly converted; that no preacher anywhere has fallen into error; that the judgment of our leaders is infallible. But we do maintain that the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, is essentially sound in faith, pure in doctrine, increasing mightily in its spiritual resources, growing in grace, and that its leaders are godly men and women who are giving themselves unreservedly to the work to which they have been called and that they are entitled to and ought to have the sympathy, prayers, and hearty co-operation of all our people.

God has blessed the church in the past, as its history proves; there are unmistakable signs that his favor is resting upon it to-day; his continued blessing is conditioned only upon its obedience to the divine will in the future. The supreme tragedy of our ecclesiatical history would be for us to lose sight of the pillar of cloud by day and the pillar of fire by night that have led us all these years and that are still going before to draw us on to the achievement of still greater things for the kingdom of God.

"And, behold, there came a voice unto him, and said, What doest thou here, Elijah?

"And he said, I have been very jealous for the Lord God of hosts: because the children of Israel have forsaken thy covenant, thrown down thine altars, and slain thy prophets with the sword; and I, even I only, am left; and they seek my life, to take it away.

"And the Lord said unto him, * * * Yet I have left me seven thousand in Israel, all the knees which have not bowed unto Baal, and every mouth which hath not kissed him." I Kings 19:13-18.

PERSONAL AND OTHER NOTES.

"I am glad to tell you we are getting along nicely with our work," writes Rev. T. C. Cooper, of Philadelphia, Miss.

The pastor, Rev. J. Early Gray, reports that the work goes well at Moss Point, Miss., and a good report is assured for Conference.

Our church at Durant, Miss., Rev. R. P. Neblett, pastor, has let the contract for new pews to go into the building completed several years ago. It is expected that they will be in place by Thanksgiving. The old pews and pulpit furniture will be sold as soon as a purchaser can be found.

The seventy-sixth Annual Report of the Board of Missions (the latest issue) is now ready for distribution. Every preacher in the church will receive a copy free of charge if he will send his name and address on a postal card to the Board. We trust every preacher will write for a copy at once.

Rev. H. N. Brown, pastor of Parker Memorial Church, this city, has recently returned, with his family, from a visit to California, where he spent a delightful vacation. He was greatly impressed by the Golden West—but he says the deepest impression is the greatness of Louisiana as an opportunity.

Rev. S. L. McNeece writes from Trenton, Miss.: "This year has been a season of refreshing from the presence of the Lord on the Trenton circuit. Our meetings were real revivals, and we have good Sunday schools and prayer meetings. The church seems to be in better condition than it has been in for years."

Rev. R. T. Hollingsworth, formerly of Millsaps College, Jackson, Miss., has been appointed pastor at Pass Christian, Miss., to succeed Rev. H. G. Roberts, the condition of whose health has made it necessary for him to rest until Conference. Brother Hollingsworth is already at his new post of duty and is greatly pleased with the reception given him.

Receiving the spirit of the Flying Squadron, of Jackson, Miss., a section of which visited Newton, Miss., several weeks ago, the men of Newton have organized for more aggressive work and more loyal support of their respective churches, under the name of Laymen's Band. Each Wednesday for a half-hour at noon they hold a meeting attended by from 75 to 100.

Rev. and Mrs. Nolan B. Harmon, of Port Gibson, Miss., have recently returned home from a delightful visit to their sons, Robert, in Washington, D. C., and Rev. Nolan B., Jr., who is pastor at Rockville, Md., just fifteen miles from Washington. During Brother Harmon's absence, the members of the congregation held all the regular services of the church, a layman being chosen to conduct the service. Rev. J. H. Sharp, of the Rocky Springs charge officiated at one service.

By special invitation, Rev. H. G. Hawkins, pastor at Newton, Miss., preached for Rev. A. J. Davis at Hawkins Memorial Church, Meridian, Miss., on Sunday, October 1, baptizing Albert Sidney Eggerton, Jr., infant son of Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Eggerton, of Nashville, Tenn., and grandchild of Mr. W. D. Hawkins, Missionary Secretary of the Mississippi Conference. In the absence of the pastor, the pulpit at Newton was supplied by Rev. R. W. Gibson, a local preacher, who is a student at Clarke College, Newton.

The Greenville District Standard Training School will be held at Shelby, Miss., October 16-21. It will be under the local supervision of Rev. J. H. Felts, presiding elder of the Greenville District, Rev. C. A. Parks, district secretary, and Dr. C. M. Chapman, pastor. The courses of study and the instructors are as follows: "The Junior Pupil," Mrs. W. W. Adams; "The Bible and Missions," Rev. E. S. Lewis; "Principles of Religious Teaching," Mrs. J. M. Wyatt; "A Methodist Church and Its Work," Rev. R. H. B. Gladney.

Rev. Chas. W. Wesley and Miss Ursula Barr were married on September 26, at the residence of the bride's sister, Mrs. Allen Elder, at Moss Point, Miss., Rev. J. Early Gray officiating. Brother Wesley is a student in Emory University, from which he expects to receive his degree soon, after which he will apply for admission into the Mississippi Conference. The bride is a daughter of the late Rev. R. H. Barr, of the Mississippi Conference. The Advocate extends all good wishes to this fine young couple.

We acknowledge the honor of an invitation from Mrs. George W. Newton, of Dallas, Texas, to attend the marriage of her daughter, Allyne, to Mr. Marlin W. Drake. Mr. Drake is a son of Dr. and Mrs. W. Winans Drake, Dr. Drake being pastor of our Noel Memorial Church, Shreveport, La. Mr. Drake is a fine young man who is making his mark in the business life of Shreveport, and the Advocate extends in advance heartiest good wishes to this splendid young couple. They will be at home at 2032 Gilbert Street, Shreveport.

The following interesting report comes from Rev. W. M. Young, of Leland, Miss.: "We had a good-fellowship meeting at Leland last Friday evening, October 6, that was greatly enjoyed by the older people as well as the children. We had a nice program of song service and a most splendid address by the presiding elder, Rev. J. H. Felts, after which refreshments were served, with social good-will that was greatly enjoyed by all. Our fourth quarterly conference comes one week later. We are hoping to clear the decks."

Miss Mildred Lake, of Aberdeen, Miss., and Mr. Guy C. Brown, of New Orleans, were married at the residence of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Lake, at Aberdeen, Miss., on September 27, Rev. J. E. Cunningham officiating. The bride is a granddaughter of the late Rev. W. S. Lagrone, of the North Mississippi Conference, and Mr. Brown is a son of Dr. and Mrs. Geo. S. Brown, prominent Methodists of New Orleans. The young couple are at home at 2030 Broadway, this city. The Advocate extends to them heartiest good wishes.

The preachers of the New Orleans District took advantage of the opening of the district parsonage on Thursday of last week to show their respect and esteem for their presiding elder, Rev. J. G. Snelling, and Mrs. Snelling, by presenting them with handsome traveling bags. The point was made that the bags were not to speed their departure, but to make it easy for them to return for visits to their friends. As a man, as a Christian gentleman, as a presiding elder, as a leader of the forces of the Kingdom of God during his quadrennium on the district, Brother Snelling has won the respect, confidence, and love of his brethren.

A memorable event in the history of New Orleans Methodism was the opening of the district parsonage on Thursday of last week. Rev. and Mrs. J. G. Snelling kept open house during the afternoon and evening, and, in spite of very inclement weather, scores of people called and inspected the beautiful home. Mr. and Mrs. Snelling were assisted in receiving by representatives of the Woman's Missionary Societies of the district, by the district trustees, and by the parsonage committee. Delicious fruit punch was served throughout the afternoon and evening. A special feature of the evening was the presence of a large delegation from St. Rose, a point above New Orleans where work has recently been established. Several appropriate addresses were made, and a delightful musical program was provided. The opening prayer was made by Dr. Jno. T. Sawyer. We venture to say that the New Orleans District now has as beautiful, commodious, and conveniently located parsonage as any district in the church, and the presiding elder and his committees are to be congratulated upon the success of their efforts to provide this much-needed home.

THANKS TO OUR FRIENDS.

We desire to express our thanks to the following friends who have sent us two or more subscriptions recently: Rev. A. A. Bernard, Gueydan, La., 7; Rev. G. L. McNeece, Trenton, Miss., 5; Rev. T. M. Brownlee, Starkville, Miss., 6; Rev. J. F. Watson, Bentonia, Miss., 2; Rev. T. C. Cooper, Philadelphia, Miss., 2; Rev. C. M. Ray, Caledonia, Miss., 5.

EDUCATIONAL NOTES, LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.

A meeting of marked and unusual interest has been held at Cedar Grove Church. It was an earnest effort on the part of the pastor, Rev. H. L. Johns, to put on a real constructive evangelistic campaign. The spirited singing was conducted by Rev. Jas. B. Grambling, our State Epworth League Secretary. The inspirational addresses were given by the Conference Secretary of Education, who based his remarks on: "The Message of John's Gospel." Chapters from the Fourth Gospel were assigned as daily reading. At the close of every service, a short institute was conducted by Brother Grambling on "Organization for Service." The result will be a thorough organization of the Senior, Intermediate and Junior Epworth League for efficient constructive work. The church will be united and unified as never before. The spiritual good will be seen in transformed lives with a real vision of the blessed Jesus.

We are now entering into the period of the second payment for the Educational pledges, which will begin on November 1. The whole country seems to be recovering from its financial gloom, and days of prosperity are before us. Be sure that in your financial reckoning you remember God's cause first. The Psalmist asked: "What shall I render unto the Lord for all His benefits toward me?" His reply was: "I will pay my vows." We are looking for our Louisiana Methodists to rise up and pay everything in full. "Fine and dandy! Why not?"

"Life is before you! From the fated road
You cannot turn; then take ye up the load.
Not yours to tread or leave the unknown way,
Ye must go o'er it, meet ye what ye may.
Gird up your souls within you to the deed,
Angels and fellow-spirits bid you speed!"

ALBERT S. LUTZ,
Conference Secretary of Education.

Obituaries

Obituaries not over 200 words in length will be published free of charge. All over 200 words must be paid for at the rate of 1 cent a word. Count the words and be sure to send the amount necessary with the obituary. That will save trouble all around. We cannot make discriminations. Memorial resolutions are subject to the same rule as obituaries.

Fell asleep, at the Presbyterian Hospital, September 21, 1922, to awake in a brighter world, MRS. LOUISIANA VIRGINIA McKEE, widow of the late Logan McKee. Sister McKee was a native of Shreveport, a member of the Methodist Church, and lived a consistent Christian until her death. When she moved to New Orleans, she united with the Methodist Church here, and in 1914 transferred her membership to Epworth Church, where she worshiped until the end came. She was an active member of the Woman's Missionary Society, always ready to respond to a needy call and make some life brighter. Sister McKee is survived by two sons, three daughters, and several grandchildren. She will be missed by her loved ones and by her co-workers in the Lord's vineyard; yet we feel that she has gone to her heavenly home, where shadows never fall, and where all is joy and peace and love. The funeral services were conducted at the home of her son-in-law, by her pastor, Rev. J. E. Selfe, assisted by Rev. James E. Sells, of Meridian, Miss., and was followed to the grave by many sorrowing friends. May the God she loved, and with whom she has gone to live, comfort the bereaved family.

G. CARTY, Sec.,
Woman's Miss. Society of Epworth.

CHAMBERLAIN'S COUGH REMEDY
FOR THE RELIEF OF
Coughs, Colds, Croup
WHOOPING COUGH, HOARSENESS
BRONCHITIS
-SOLD EVERYWHERE-

Let Cuticura Be Your Beauty Doctor
Soap, Ointment, Talcum, 25c. everywhere. For samples address: Cuticura Laboratories, Dept. V, Malden, Mass.

Use MURINE FOR EYES
Irritated by Sun Wind Dust and Cinders
RECOMMENDED AND SOLD BY DRUGGISTS AND OPTICIANS
WRITE FOR FREE EYE BOOK. MURINE CO. CHICAGO

PARKER'S HAIR BALSAM
Removes Dandruff-Stops Hair Falling
Restores Color and Beauty to Gray and Faded Hair
60c. and $1.00 at Druggists.
Hiscox Chem. Wks. Patchogue, N. Y.

HINDERCORNS Removes Corns, Callouses, etc., stops all pain, ensures comfort to the feet, makes walking easy. 15c. by mail or at Druggists. Hiscox Chemical Works, Patchogue, N. Y.

A TRIBUTE.

Dear Brother Carley: I have just returned from Glenmora, La., where I attended the funeral of JOHN F. CADY, who died at his home in San Antonio, Texas, Tuesday evening, September 26. John and I were chums during our boyhood days and later married sisters. I loved him even as a brother. He joined the Methodist Church several years ago and was a faithful member of Travis Park Methodist Church, San Antonio, at the time of his death. He was a regular attendant at church and Sunday school. John was a good boy, and we have all confidence that he is now in heaven. He said to loved ones just a few days before his death: "I will soon be gone, but I am going home to heaven." This message brings comfort in this sorrow. We weep not as those who have no hope. He leaves a wife and two little girls, besides a host of friends and relatives. to mourn his departure.

His body was laid away in the cemetery at Glenmora, La., to await the resurrection. Rev. D. B. Boddie, pastor of the Methodist Church, conducted the service, paying a beautiful tribute to his character.

Yours truly,
G. A. MORGAN.

MRS. MARY M. ALFORD was born in Washington Parish, Louisiana, December 18, 1866, and died in the Touro Infirmary, at New Orleans, La., June 8, 1922. Her useful earthly career came to a peaceful end shortly after an operation for a slight bodily ailment. She was a member of the M. E. Church, South, at Franklinton, La. The funeral services were conducted at the church by her pastor, and the remains laid to rest in Ellis Cemetery, to await the resurrection. On November 2, 1887, she was married to Mr. James W. Burris, who died February 6, 1902. To this union seven children were born, two of whom died in infancy, and five are living. On January 26, 1922, she was married to Rev. N. E. Alford, a local elder in the M. E. Church, South, who said: "She possessed as sweet a spirit as any one I ever knew." Her sudden and unexpected death was an irreparable loss to the family. She was a faithful wife, a devoted and attentive mother. She was indeed a good woman, and many were her friends and admirers.

L. W. CAIN.

FROM GREENSBURG, LA.

Dear Brother Carley: I am writing to mention one more of our very successful revival meetings this year; but while I am writing, there comes to me a question. It is this question that I wish to ask, and while it is being asked, let our great people who are called Methodists, ask it of themselves. What is the purpose of the revival meeting in the Methodist church of to-day? I find that many of our people who are considered good church members, and some who hold very responsible positions in the church, are greatly irritated at hearing the word "Holiness;" who seemingly do not understand, or do not care to hear the word preached. These persons, I say, should beware lest they forget the great teachings of that leader, the founder of Methodism.

Any one who has studied the life of John Wesley, if these testimonies be true as recorded in his life, will without doubt see and understand that great doctrine as it is set forth in his teachings.

Every turn in Wesley's thought was the question of soul-saving. He was the greatest of the leaders in his day, in the age in which Methodism was beginning to be born. It is for this reason we believe that John Wesley was the greatest living spiritual leader in that day. Wesley stood directly between two great extremes—that of Deism, and that of the Moravian Theory.

We fail to remember that Wesley taught the doctrine of repentance. He spread Scriptural holiness everywhere. He preached a state of perfection and the experience of sanctification. But we would not be confused with the idea of angelic perfection, or that absolute and infallible perfection, for this is quite impossible with us as long as we remain in this present tabernacle; but we are to be renewed like unto him at that last day.

And so, we say that Wesley identified himself with the greatest nation on earth, and this was done in the 17th Century. Wesley thus distinguished himself above all the rest in that age.

Wesley records in his Journal this passage: "Absolute and infallible perfection I never contended for; sinless perfection I neither contend for, seeing it is not Scriptural. A perfection such as enables a person to fulfill the whole law and so need not the merits of Christ, I do not now, and never shall acknowledge." But while he translates the doctrine into a positive term, he says: "By Christian perfection I mean the state of so loving our neighbor as to rejoice evermore, praying without ceasing, and in everything giving thanks to God. He who experiences these things is scripturally perfect."

Now, the obedience to God's laws must be the voluntary service of a free will, and under the direction of the Holy Spirit. So the purpose of the field-preaching, and the revival meeting throughout Methodism, must be accompanied by the power of the Holy Spirit upon our people. It is one thing to join the church, and quite another to experience the witness of the Spirit. "What shall we say then? Shall we continue in sin that grace may abound? God forbid!" Ought not we as preachers to warn those who are in this way of darkness? May we not say then to our people everywhere: "Thus saith the Lord: Return unto me and I will return unto you."

We have just closed a very fine meeting at Wesley's Chapel. Brother J. S. Rutledge, of Olive Branch circuit, preached for us. Brother Rutledge is a very fine man—of much spirituality, a forceful preacher, and of splendid character and personality. The members of Wesley's Chapel, and those outside the church experienced a real warming up. We prayed very earnestly for our people, and while it seemed that God would not hear and answer our prayers, we continued to call upon him and upon the reason of men and women. God, thus hearing us, sent forth his convincing power; both men and women were converted to God, and were baptized in the faith. Thiteen souls were added to the church at Wesley.

It is my most earnest prayer that God will add his richest blessings to our church and people everywhere.

Fraternally yours,
A. BRULET.

QUALITY GOODS
AT LOW PRICES
D. H. Holmes Co.,
LIMITED.

TETTERINE
Makes Low Necks and Short Sleeves Possible. It Clears the Skin.
60c at your Druggist's, or from The SHUPTRINE CO., SAVANNAH, GA.

If: If my people, which are called by my name, shall humble themselves, and pray, and seek my face, and turn from their wicked ways:

Then: Then will I hear from heaven, and will forgive their sin, and will heal their land.—2 Chronicles 7:14.

Confidence

"The American people must realize that confidence in public utility securities cannot be had by constant, unjust criticism. No public utility corporation subject to regulation can finance its requirements out of earnings."—Edward N. Hurley, former head of U. S. Shipping Board.

DR. H. B. BARTLETT
National Dental Parlors
Canal and Bourbon Sts.
Over Worner's Drug Store
Entrance on Bourbon Street
Phone Main 2193.
NEW ORLEANS
Crown and Bridge Specialist
Vitalized Air for Painless Extraction
Most Modern and Best Equipped Dental Parlors South.

Epworth League Department

Editor, North Mississippi Conference.....Rev. R. P. Neblett, Durant, Miss.
Editor, Mississippi Conference,
J. H. Weems, 308 Second Avenue, Hattiesburg, Miss.
Editor, Louisiana Conference,
Miss Consuelo Martinez, 314 Broadway, New Orleans, La.

Material for this Department from the several Conferences should be sent to the editors named above. Copy must be in the Advocate office by Thursday preceding the week of publication.

NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE

The Iuka Epwerth League, Corinth District, North Mississippi Conference, was organized in February of this year and now has a membership of sixty-five. Their meetings are well attended and a majority of the members are very enthusiastic about the work.

Before the beginning of a revival, conducted by the pastor, Rev. W. W. Jones, assisted by Rev. W. M. McIntosh, a resolution to do personal work in the meeting was passed. To lead at least twelve souls to Christ was the goal set, and this was approximately doubled by the Leaguers in their special and individual efforts for those of their age and association.

A later resolution was passed to organize at least three new Epworth Leagues within the county, then hold an Epworth League Institute for the benefit of these newly formed Leagues. On Sunday, September 17, Mr. D. A. Dugger and Mr. C. S. Moser, officers of the League, went to Belmont and addressed a fine meeting, out of which a League was later formed. This League gives promise of being one of the best in the Conference.

It is the purpose of the Iuka Leaguers to visit the cities of Tishomingo and Burnsville, in the near future, for the purpose of organizing Epworth Leagues. What these Leaguers are doing, other workers can do; and if this plan were kept up, it would not be long before every charge and church would be alive with earnest young people developing in service for the kingdom.

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.

Epworth League News.

The following is a report of Anniversary Day offerings for the different Conferences as reported by the Central Office. We are proud to see the Louisiana Conference third, but hope that next year we will head the list:

Conference—	Amount
Little Rock	$176.41
Florida	169.21
Louisiana	150 88
Memphis	103.07
Virginia	98.70
Southwest Missouri and Missouri	82.50
Texas	77.65
North Alabama	64.04
Northwest Texas	61.17
Tennessee	61.77
St. Louis	52.00
North Arkansas	51.63
Mississippi	48.40
Kentucky	46.57
Western North Carolina	45.21
Holston	41.54
East Oklahoma	39.50
South Georgia	30.07
Upper South Carolina	28.10
Alabama	20.56
Pacific	20.52
Louisville	17.91
South Carolina	16.71
West Texas	16.06
North Mississippi	15.99
Western Virginia	13.67
West Oklahoma	12.22
Illinois	8.31
Arizona	7.75
North Carolina	6.69
North Georgia	3.32
Baltimore	1.50
North Texas	1.45

City Union Institutes.

Announcement is herewith made of two City Union Institutes, namely the New Orleans Union, to be held in New Orleans, October 30 to November 4, at First Methodist Church; and the Shreveport City Union Institute, to be held in Shreveport, November 6 to 11, at First Methodist Church.

Leaguers all over the State who attended the first Institute held I am sure will be delighted to hear that Mr. Harbin will again be the Central Office representative. Watch the Advocate for further announcements of the schools and the faculty.

HOW THE SUNDAY EVENING PROBLEM WAS SOLVED IN SPRINGFIELD, ILL.

Springfield, Ill., has found what is believed to be a unique and effective solution of the summer Sunday evening church problem, in the series of eight open air union services just closed. The services were held in the heart of the downtown district, on the Courthouse grounds, with eighteen churches and religious organizations participating throughout, and it is believed they were unrivaled by any similar services held anywhere in the country, from the standpoint of excellence of the programs provided and the number of people attending each service.

With but one exception, the preaching was by pastors of local churches. Sunday evening, August 13, Bishop Charles Edward Locke, of the Methodist Episcopal Church, stationed in the Philippine Islands, gave a notable address on the subject, "A Great Adventure in the Philippine Islands."

Donald M. Swarthout, of James Millikin University, Decatur, Ill., one of the most capable chorus directors of the Middle West, was engaged for the entire season to lead a chorus of more than one hundred voices in the singing of some of the great sacred choral masterpieces. The Illinois Watch Factory Band, led by Louis Lehman, one of the best musical organizations of the kind in the Middle West, was engaged for the entire season to render special numbers and to accompany the chorus and the audience. At the closing service of the series the chorus and band gave a program of selections from the oratorio, "The Messiah," by Handel, following the sermon.

Two thousand canvas seats were provided for the audience and a large platform was provided for the pastors, chorus and band. A large Magnivox Telemegaphone was provided, which enabled the preacher to reach a vast open air audience with perfect ease.

At least 2000 persons were present at each service, and on three occasions audiences numbering 2,500 persons were present. It is felt beyond a doubt that these services sent out a wholesome spiritual influence, which reached the entire community. The city has a population of about 70,000.

The total cost of the eight services this year will be about $2,600. A large portion of this amount was raised by direct appeal by letter and telephone to more than 4,600 persons, asking for $1 and $2 subscriptions. The Sunday evening collections yielded about $800. The treasurer will have a neat balance left after paying all bills.

The services were held under the auspices of the Summer Union Service Committee, composed of the pastor and one layman from each church particlpating. The following are the officers: Chairman, Rev. Abram G. Bergen, D. D., pastor of the Fifth Presbyterian Church; Vice-chairman, Rev. Wilbert Dowson, pastor of Kumler Methodist Episcopal Church; Secretary, Elmer J. Kneale; Treasurer, William E. Lehne.

A special open-air service was held Wednesday evening, August 9th, with twenty-eight Protestant churches of the city taking part. On this occasion Bishop Thomas Nicholson, resident bishop in Chicago, of the Methodist Episcopal Church, and president of the Anti-Saloon League of America, gave an address on "Safeguarding American Ideals." He made a remarkable appeal for the upholding of the prohibition laws. An audience of 2,000 persons was present.

We talk about the telescope of faith, but I think we want even more the microscope of watchful love.—Selected.

"Put any burden upon me, only sustain me,
Send me anywhere, only go with me;
Sever any tie but the one that binds me
To Thy service and to Thy heart."

You are Wanted for a Good Position at a Big Salary

All that you need is training. Draughon's Practical Business College will train you, at your home, within only a few months. This is the College that has trained more than 300,000 men and women for good positions. Ask for big book, "Guide to Business Success." It's FREE. Address DRAUGHON'S BUSINESS COLLEGE, Dept. CA, Nashville, Tenn

GIRL NOW WELL AND STRONG

Daughter Took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as Mother Advised

Wauseon, Ohio.—"My daughter always had backache and leg-ache at certain periods and could not be on her feet at those times. We read about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound doing girls so much good so she began to take it. That is two years ago and she is a different girl since then able to do any work she wants to do—although she is still careful not to do heavy work—and so well and strong. We recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to all mothers with ailing daughters, and I give you permission to publish this letter as a testimonial."—Mrs. A. M BURKHOLDER, Route No. 2, Box 1, Wauseon, Ohio.

Something out of balance will affect the finest clock, causing it to gain or lose. The proper adjustment made, all is well. So it is with women. Some trouble may upset you completely.

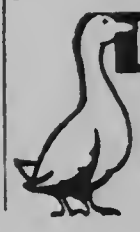
Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will correct the cause of the trouble and disagreeable symptoms will disappear as they did in the case of Mrs. Burkholder's daughter.

MOTHERS—it is worthy of your confidence.

CHAMBERLAIN'S TABLETS
-SOLD EVERYWHERE FOR-
CONSTIPATION
BILIOUSNESS
Headache
INDIGESTION
Stomach Trouble

ROCHE'S HERBAL EMBROCATION
FOR CROUP OR FOR WHOOPING COUGH
Relieves promptly and safely the Terror and Distress of these dreaded afflictions of Childhood.
120 years of successful use
Applied externally only. Wonderfully effective in Bronchitis, Lumbago and Rheumatism.
All druggists or
W. EDWARDS & SON, London, England
E. FOUGERA & CO., 90-92 Beekman St. N. Y.

WINTERSMITH'S CHILL TONIC
SOLD 50 YEARS—A FINE GENERAL TONIC
If not sold by your druggist, write Wintersmith Chemical Co., Louisville, Ky.



BUY 25 POUND FEATHER BED $7.95
30 lb. bed $8 95. One pair 6 lb. pillows, $1.95. All new feathers, odorless, and dustless, best eight ounce ticking. MAIL ORDER TODAY or WRITE for Free Catalog of Iron Beds, Springs, Mattresses, Rugs, Blankets, Spreads, Window Curtains, Pound Remnants, etc. $1,000.00 deposited with Charlotte Bank & Trust Co., guaranteeing satisfaction or money back.
SANITARY BEDDING COMPANY, Dept. F CHARLOTTE, N. C.

Sunday School

NOTES FROM NORTH MISSISSIPPI

By Rev. R. H. B. Gladney, Sardis, Miss.

If you have anything to send to the State Fair at Jackson to show what you have been doing in your Sunday school, you may send it to Rev. John Chambers, Jackson, Miss.

Teachers of the Greenville District, decide to attend the training school to be held at Shelby, beginning October 16. I have never heard of a teacher who regretted that he bad attended one of these schools. One week of study under a competent teacher will be a blessing the rest of your life.

Does any one know how many schools or how many departments in the schools have attained first rank standard? So far as I know, not one. If I am uninformed, please tell me better.

We have schools doing most excellent work, but none have come up to the lowest rank. It is about time we were getting up to the top.

The Business Men's Bible class of Durant recently made a visit to the Orphan's Home at Jackson, led by Rev. R. P. Neblett, pastor. Mr. J. A. Meredith is president of this class and Mrs. Neblett is the teacher. The class saw more of the children in an hour than could be learned in a day of reading. The class saw much to commend and incidentally found out some things to be done for these 200 children of ours. The visit made the class happy, informed the home church of what is being done for the children, will put some other class to work, and make many little hearts happy.

Promotion Day is the habit of our school at West Point. It is a part of the work of the year. It gives the parents an opportunity to see what the school is doing in the way of giving religious instruction. The following program is given, for the benefit of schools that are not in the habit of observing this day:

Song, Primary Department, "There is a Friend for Little Children."
Prayer, by Pastor.
Song, "Lullaby," Marion Graham.
Recitation, "Our Cradle Roll Babies," Helen Rogers.
Cradle Roll Certificates, delivered by Mrs. Snyder.

Beginners.

Song, "We are the Lambs."
Twenty-third Psalm?
Certificates, delivered by Miss Adelaide Hicks, Superintendent.

Primary.

Song, "Hosanna," Wm. Murphy.
Valedictory, Burton McGee.
Review of Work Done, by Mrs. B. M. Howorth.
Song, "World Children for Jesus," five girls.
Sunbeam Song, Katherine Thompson.
Bibles delivered to those completing primary work, Mrs. Howorth, Supt.
Certificates delivered, by Mr. Sid White.

Juniors.

Explanation of Work, Mrs. Schumpert, Junior Superintendent.
Map outline of Paul's Journeys.
Books of the Bible, Dorothy Abbott.
Review of notable places in Bible, Junior Department.
Certificates delivered, by Prof. Schumpert, Superintendent of School.

TREASURER'S REPORT, MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

The following is the Treasurer's report of the amounts contributed by the various schools for Sunday School Day up to September 30, 1922. If there is a mistake, please let us know. This is far short of last year. Won't you at least take an offering and help us out?

Brookhaven District.

School—	Amount
Ebenezer	$ 5.00
McCalls	2.50
Brandywine	7.00
Brookhaven	23.94
Foxworth	4.00
Thompson's Chapel	1.00
McComb, Centenary	22.96
LaBranch Street	6.46
Tilton	4.15
Bethel	6.00
Gallatia	10.00
Hawkins Chapel	2.00
Topisaw	7.15
Wesson	10.00
Adams	11.00
Bethel	2.50
Bogue Chitto	3.70
Fernwood	39.85
Mt. Pleasant	4.06
Magnolia	25.00
Pearl River Avenue	20.00
Pleasant Grove	3.45
Mallalieu	1.80
Bethesda	6.83
New Hope	6.25
Summit	5.30
Pisgah	2.16
Total	$254.06

Hattiesburg District.

Bon Hommie	$ 8.68
Bethel	4.00
Eucutta	3.28
Vossburg	4.34
Pine Grove	7.20
Purvis	14.80
Union Grove	2.35
Collins	14.76
Boyles Chapel	3.09
Heidelberg	4.87
Philadelphia	5.14
Prentiss	10.00
Taiawah	2.50
Good Hope	5.00
Total	$ 90.01

Jackson District.

Benton	$ 12.10
Pelahatchie	6.80
Camden	5.00
Pleasant Hill	6.00
Fannin	4.20
Flora	7.05
Capitol Street	102.98
Madison	14.90
Mt. Olivet	8.00
Forest Hill	3.67
Byram	2.32
Brandon	12.50
Greenfield	2.20
Forest Grove	2.50
Edwards	3.83
Andrews Chapel	1.52
Galloway Memorial	71.00
Millsaps Memorial	1.00
Mendenhall	4.65
Terry	3.60
Spring Ridge	5.06
Cooper	5.00
Rexford	1.65
Total	$287.53

Meridian District.

Bucatunna	$ 4.51
Lynwood	3.12
Andrews Chapel	7.20
Stonewall	2.63
Lauderdale	9.35
Central	20.00
Filth Avenue	3.28
Lost Gap	2.09
Poplar Springs	5.71
State Line	4.25
Quitman	14.00
Coker's Chapel	6.60
Big Rock	1.00
Daleville	1.65
Pleasant Ridge	2.35
Manassa	10.80
Mellen	1.50
Lockhart	3.58
East End	15.00
Sageville	8.88
Langsdale	12.67
Theadville	10.82
Chapel Hill	4.00
Shubuta	15.00
Harper	4.07
Total	$173.86

Newton District.

Kingston	$ 10.55
Montrose	3.50
Mars Hill	5.50
Newton	8.70
Raleigh	5.36
Finkbine Camps	12.50
Shiloh	9.30
New Prospect	5.50
Bay Springs	2.65
Suquaiena	5.50
Gasque Chapel	3.47
Homewood	3.46
Lawrence	5.00
Forest	20.00
West End	3.33
Cook's Chapel	9.15
North Bend	5.00
Philadelphia	11.28
Rose Hill	2.90
Johns	3.65
Independence	5.00
Union	7.00
Chunkey	4.70
Decatur	4.77
High Hill	3.00
Conehatta	3.00
Lake	2.87
Laurel, First	40.00
Total	$206.65

Seashore District.

Biloxi	$ 19.33
Columbia	25.00
Escatawpa	5.41
Gulfport	15.00
Pine Grove	4.70
Ocean Springs	6.00
Picayune	7.06
Mt. Pleasant	21.00
Back Bay	1.67
Bay St. Louis	17.98
Coalville	4.38
Orange Grove	3.00
Logtown	9.57
Moss Point	13.21
Pascagoula	7.08
Vancleave	15.00
New Prospect	4.35
Wiggins	5.41
Total	$185.05

Vicksburg District.

Centerville	$ 7.00
Liberty	6.00
Mayersville	6.00
Nebo	7.00
Rolling Fork	14.06
Gibson Memorial	15.00
Fayette	19.00
Lorman	9.15
Natchez	18.89
Oak Grove	6.00
Crawford Street	20.00
Washington	5.00
Total	$133.10

The Newton District is the only District leading its record last year. Brethren, help us.

Yours in the work,
G. M. LESTER, Treasurer,
P. O. Box 548, Jackson, Miss.

RECIPE FOR GRAY HAIR.

To half pint of water add 1 oz. Bay Rum, a small box of Barbo Compound, and 1-4 oz. of glycerine. Any druggist can put this up or you can mix it at home at very little cost. Apply to the hair twice a week until the desired shade is obtained. It will gradually darken streaked, faded or gray hair and make it soft and glossy. It will not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy and does not rub off.—Adv.

Bitter Chillifuge 25c

Has a bitter tonic taste and quick action in routing malaria from the system.

Will quickly stop chills and fever.

Splendid tonic for torpid liver and bracer for poor appetite.

FINLAY, DICKS & CO., INC.,
NEW ORLEANS.

Dickey's Old Reliable Eye Water

relieves sore eyes. Refreshes and strengthens a tired eye. Doesn't burn or hurt. Get genuine in Red Box. 25c all druggists. Bottle free to ministers
DICKEY DRUG CO., Bristol, Va.

Great and True: Ascribe ye greatness unto our God. He is the Rock, his work is perfect: for all his ways are judgment: a God of truth and without iniquity, just and right is he.—Deuteronomy 32:3, 4.

Seeing me fall, you know that still the best
Is what I long to do.
—Browning.

A Real Fool: He that trusteth in his own heart is a fool.—Prov. 28:26.

Renew your health by purifying your system with

Calotabs
TRADE MARK REG

The purified and refined calomel tablets that are free from nausea and danger.

No salts necessary, as Calotabs act like calomel and salts combined. Demand the genuine in 10c and 35c packages, bearing above trade-mark.

Aspirin

Say "Bayer" and Insist!

Genuine BAYER

Unless you see the name "Bayer" on package or on tablets you are not getting the genuine Bayer product prescribed by physicians over twenty-two years and proved safe by millions for

Colds	Headache
Toothache	Lumbago
Earache	Rheumatism
Neuralgia	Pain, Pain

Accept "Bayer Tablets of Aspirin" only. Each unbroken package contains proper directions. Handy boxes of twelve tablets cost few cents. Druggists also sell bottles of 24 and 100. Aspirin is the trade mark of Bayer Manufacture of Monoaceticacidester of Salicylicacid.

BISHOP MOORE REPORTS PROGRESS IN BRAZIL.

Bishop John M. Moore returned recently from a visit of several months to Brazil. For the past quadrennium he was in charge of our Conference in Brazil, and when Bishop H. M. Dobbs, assigned to this episcopal district, sailed for South America, Bishop Moore accompanied him. Such a large program of development and advancement had been on during the quadrennium, all of this under the direct supervision of Bishop Moore, that Bishop Dobbs asked his colleague to accompany him to Brazil and give him there the benefit of his counsel and advice.

On his return to this country Bishop Moore reports that the big Centenary program in Brazil goes forward with the promise of another quadrennium of real progress. He says that already fifty-four Centenary churches and twenty-five Centenary parsonages have been built. The administration building of Porto Alegre College is well under way and work has been begun on the Centenary College at Santa Maria. The school buildings at Passo Fundo are practically finished, and the buildings of the American College at Porto Alegre are in course of construction. The Centenary College and the American College are institutions of the Woman's Department of the Board of Missions. Extensive additions to the Granberry College buildings have been made, and our educational work in Brazil is more promising than ever before in the history of our church in that country.

Bishop Moore says that our missionaries and native preachers in every section of our Brazil territory report a strong revival movement in all the Conferences. The Centenary saved the day for Southern Methodism in Brazil in so far as our building enterprises are concerned, for not only were there the extra funds from the church at home, but our Brazilian membership has given as never before. And the heartening of our missionaries and native membership has meant for the church in Brazil a new spirit. We are now firmly entrenched in all that territory, and as we could not have been but for the Missionary Centenary.—Bulletin.

Do not think of your faults; still less of others' faults; look for what is good and strong; and try to imitate it; your faults will drop off like dead leaves, when their times come.—Ruskin.

Warning to Meddlers: He that passeth by, and meddleth with strife belonging not to him, is like one that taketh a dog by the ears.—Proverbs 26:17.

5,000 CHRISTIAN WORKERS WANTED

to sell Bibles, Testaments, good books and handsome velvet Scripture Mottoes. Good commission. Send for free catalogue and price list.

GEORGE W. NOBLE, Publisher
Dept. D., Monon Bldg., Chicago, Illinois

Rupture Cured

IN 30 DAYS OR NO PAY

Write today for our GUARANTEED Proposition, and free copy of book describing this wonder treatment, and record of marvelous results obtained. Just send your name and address to

Dr. Andrews, 304 Koch Bldg., Kansas City, Mo.

FROM IUKA, MISS.

Dear Dr.. Carley: We are closing out a good year at Iuka. While some enterprises undertaken have not gone through, we are not giving up, but expect success by the help of the Lord and these good people.

Economic conditions have been the same here as at other places, but our men have stood faithfully and bravely by the church. Their loyalty approaches heroism. They have wrought well.

Our women and young people are diligent and faithful in the various societies and in the Epworth League. We have three weekly prayer meetings—the regular, one for the women, and one for the young people.

The Sunday school has been suffering for want of room, but this will be provided in the future.

Our revival meeting was conducted by our own Rev. W. M. McIntosh, who measures up to the highest standard as a revivalist. He is as good as the best of our general evangelists. The only objection we have to him is, that he does not stay at home enough. He has been busy all the year. Those wanting him for next year had better engage him early.

In the meeting there were eighty-one who gave their names for church membership. Most of them have been received into the various churches of the town. It was a great meeting, the results of which can not be enumerated here.

The people do not expect to break their record for a good report to Annual Conference. Yours faithfully,

WALTER W. JONES.

Antiseptic Mul-en-ol

Favorite for forty years.
Old friends can be trusted.
Stomach pains and nausea quickly relieved.
Also fine application for cuts and burns.

15, 30, 60 cts. Sizes
FINLAY, DICKS & CO., INC.,
NEW ORLEANS.

QUARTERLY CONFERENCES.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

Hattiesburg Dist.—Fourth Round.

Collins, at Collins, Oct. 15, 11 a.m.
Seminary, at Seminary, Oct. 15, 7 p.m.
New Augusta, at New Augusta, Oct. 18, 7 p.m.
Mt. Olive-Magee, at Mt. Olive, Oct. 22.
Richton, at Richton, Oct. 25, 7 p.m.
Hattiesburg, Court St., Oct. 29, 11 a.m.
Purvis, at Purvis, Oct. 29, 30, 7 p.m.
Oloah, at Oloah, Nov. 1, 11 a.m.
Ellisville, at Ellisville, Nov. 5.
Eucutta, at Goodwater, Nov. 7, 11 a.m.
Silver Creek, at New Hebron, Oct. 12.
Lucedale, Nov. 15, 7 p.m.
Lucedale ct., at Merrill, Oct. 16, 11 a.m.
Leakesville, at Winburn Chapel, Nov. 15, 11 a.m.
Hattiesburg, Main St., Nov. 26, 11 a.m.
Sumrall, Nov. 26, 27, 7 p.m.

Pastors, please see to it that your Board of Trustees and your Woman's Missionary Societies have full written reports. W. W. GRAVES, P. E.

Meridian Dist.—Fourth Round.

Scooba, Oct. 15.
Porterville, Oct. 15, 16.
Pachuta, at Adams Chapel, Oct. 21, 22.
Quitman, p.m., Oct. 22.
Vimville, at Coker's Chapel, Oct. 29.
Bucatunna, at Chicora, Nov. 5.
Daleville, Nov. 11, 12.
Lauderdale, p.m., Nov. 12.
Matherville, at Langsdale, Nov. 17.
Waynesboro ct., at Hebron, Nov. 18, 19.
Waynesboro, p.m., Nov. 19.
DeSoto, Nov. 25, 26.
Shubuta, p.m., Nov. 26.

PAUL D. HARDIN, P. E.

Seashore Dist.—Fourth Round.

Gulfport, 11 a.m., Oct. 15.
Ocean Springs, 7:30 p.m., Oct. 15.
Mentorum, at Mt. Zion, 11 a.m., Oct. 22.
Wiggins, 7:30 p.m., Oct. 22.
Coalville, Wed., 11 a.m., Oct. 25.
Long Beach, Wed., 7:30 p.m., Oct. 25.
Pass Christian, Oct. 29.
Saucier, Wed., 7:30 p.m., Nov. 1.
Picayune, Nov. 5, 6.
Carriere, Mon., 11 a.m., Nov. 6.
Poplarville, Q. C., Mon., 7:30 p.m., Nov. 6.
Lumberton, 9 a.m., Nov. 7.
Logtown, 11 a.m., Nov. 12.
Bay St. Louis, 7:30 p.m., Nov. 12.
Gulfport, Q. C., Tues., 7:30 p.m. Nov. 14.
Pascagoula, Wed., 7:30 p.m., Nov. 15.
Biloxi, Tues., 7:30 p.m., Nov. 21.
Brooklyn, Wed., 7:30 p.m., Nov. 22.
Wesley Memorial, Nov. 26.

Let the pastors see to it that the trustees have their reports; and let the stewards please collect the pastors' salaries. If the pastors are diligent and the stewards faithful, the district will make a full report at Conference. Let us pray and work together. W. M. SULLIVAN, P. E.

Vicksburg Dist.—Fourth Round.

Washington, Oct. 15.
Natchez, 4:30 p.m., Oct. 15.
Rocky Springs, Hickory Ridge, 11 a.m., Oct. 22.
Port Gibson, 7 p.m., Oct. 22.
Vicksburg, Crawford St., 7 p.m., Oct. 23.
Vicksburg, Gibson Memorial, 7 p.m., Oct. 25.
Roxie, at Hamburg, Oct. 28.
Centerville, at Stephenson, 11 a.m., Oct. 29.
Woodville, 7 p.m., Oct. 29.
Oak Ridge, Nov. 5.
Rolling Fork, 11 a.m., Nov. 12.
Mayersville, 11 a.m., Nov. 19.
Anguilla, 7 p.m., Nov. 19.
Louise and Holly Bluff, at Louise, 11 a.m., Nov. 26.
Silver City, at ———, 7 p.m., Nov. 26.

J. R. JONES, P. E.

Newton Dist.—Fourth Round.

Neshoba, at Cook's Chapel, Oct. 14, 15.
Philadelphia, Oct. 15, 16.
Union, at Union, Oct. 22.
Shiloh, at Johns, Oct. 25.
Homewood, at Gasque Chapel, Oct. 27, 2:30 p.m., 29, p.m.
Raleigh, at Boykin, Oct. 28, 29.
Montrose, at Montrose, Nov. 1, 11 a.m., 2 p.m.
Walnut Grove, at Zion, Nov. 3.
Carthage, at Bethel, Nov. 4, 5.
Bay Springs, at Bay Springs, Nov. 8, 2:30 p.m.
Laurel, First Church, Nov. 10, 7 p.m.
Laurel, Kingston, Nov. 11, 7 p.m., 12, 7 p.m.
Laurel, West End, Nov. 12, 11 a.m., 2:30 p.m.
Newton, at Newton, Nov. 15.
Chunky, at Suqualena, Nov. 18, 19.
Decatur and Hickory, at Hickory, Nov. 25, 26.

The trustees of church property will please make accurate reports in answer to the disciplinary questions. Reports from Woman Missionary Societies are expected.

J. A. MOORE, P. E.

Health Brings Beauty

Every Woman Should Read This

Bankston, Ala.—"I had been down with trouble of a feminine character for a good many years. I took medicine from different doctors, but it did not do me any good. Then I heard of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and I ordered some of this medicine. I took six dollars' worth of it and I would not take sixty for the good it did me. I surely can praise Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. I don't intend to be without it in my home as long as I can get it. I would advise every woman that is bothered with trouble from which women suffer, to use this Prescription."—Mrs. Williamson, Route 2.

Get this Prescription of Dr. Pierce's in tablets or liquid and see how quickly you will have sparkling eyes, a clear skin and vim, vigor, vitality. Write Dr. Pierce's Invalids' Hotel in Buffalo, N. Y., for free medical advice.

CANCER HOSPITAL. Intra-venous treatment for cancer. Operation, Radium and X-Ray unnecessary. Booklet giving full information upon request. Box 2127, ATLANTA, GA.

School Desks

Opera Chairs,
Folding Chairs,
Kindergarten Chairs,
School Supplies,
Blackboards.

SOUTHERN DESK CO., Hickory, N. C.

BOHNE & WILT, Booksellers, and Stationers, 1328 Dryades St., New Orleans, La. Baseball Goods, Religious Articles, Fishing Tackle, Periodicals, School Books

The Most Beautiful Calendar

OF ITS KIND EVER ISSUED

A Most Beautiful and Artistic Religious Calendar for You

Size 9½" x 14". One page for each month and a cover, all printed from beautiful color plates. There are seven Biblical and five Missionary pictures, with Scriptural quotations for daily Bible readings.

An Easy, Delightful Way
—to—

Earn Extra Funds For Your Society

Every Christian home needs one of these calendars. By introducing them into the homes of your community you can easily earn extra funds for your society. Prices and profits on Christian Home Calendars in quantities of 25 or more are as follows:

Number	Cost	Sell	Profits
25	$ 7.50	$ 8.75	$ 1.25
50	12.50	17.50	5.00
100	20.00	35.00	15.00
250	46.50	87.50	41.25
500	82.50	175.00	92.50

Single Calendars, 35c

Combine your order with others and secure the greater discount. Payment for the calendars you order can be made 30 days after delivery. So that you require no capital to start!

LAMAR & BARTON, Dept. B-12, NASHVILLE, DALLAS, RICHMOND

Woman's Missionary Society

All communications for this Department should be sent to Mrs. J. G. Snelling, 6321 Freret St., New Orleans, La.

AN INTERESTING LETTER FROM WEMBO-NYAMA LAND.

Mrs. L. L. Harris.

Let me take you to one of our Missionary Societies. There are seventy-four women present. Watch them as they file in; some tall, lithe and beautiful of form, while some even have beauty in their faces. Others are there, however, with bodies and faces marked and marred by sin. Most of them have little or no clothing on. The meeting you are attending this afternoon is of special interest. First they will sing, "The Great Physician," then Mrs. Anker will give a beautiful talk from the sixth chapter of Galatians, "Be not weary in well-doing." Then the women who have done works of love during the past month will be asked to stand; twenty will respond. They have pounded millet for a blind woman whom they are furnishing with food, and some of them have worked gardens for women who were ill and unable to work. But the thing that will thrill you most will be when one of them, a young married woman, will tell of their going with Mrs. Anker and Miss Foreman to look for an abandoned blind woman they had heard of. After walking for nearly two hours they came to a tiny little hut of grass, built in cone-shaped style, supported by one pole in the center. The highest part, which was in the center, was not more than four feet. The width across the hut at its base, which was its widest part, was about four feet. The door was a palm branch. The entrance was about two feet in height. Inside they found a woman blind, emaciated and starving. She lived alone and had not had food for days. At first she was afraid, and when they asked her to return with them to the Mission she protested and even refused. The people near her were anxious for her to go. The native women of the Missionary Society said, "Let us take her anyway, it is for her good." But at last she consented. By that time it was late—so late that by the time they reached a swamp half mile in length, it was dark. The women carried her all the way in their arms, and had to walk on raised poles through this entire swamp; for in many places the water was more than deep, and the poles were from four to six inches in diameter. She is now in the hospital and is quite contented. The Missionary Society will support her as well as another blind woman in a near by village.

A Missionary Society was organized at Chief Wembo Nyama's village last month with a membership of twenty-two women. They seemed eager to organize, and we are expecting them to follow in the path of the other and older Missionary Society of which I have been telling you.—Centenary Bulletin.

Headaches Vanish

Sick or nervous headaches, backaches, women's aches almost instantly respond to the liquid remedy Capudine. It stops the pain by removing the cause. Every home should keep a bottle handy. Sold by druggists, 10c, 30c, 60c. Insist upon getting CAPUDINE

BOILS Old Sores, Cuts and Burns have been healed since 1820 with

Gray's Ointment

Sold by all druggists. Write for sample to W. F. Gray & Co., 707 Gray Bldg., Nashville, Tenn.

Keep Stomach and Bowels Right

By giving baby the harmless, purely vegetable, infants' and children's regulator.

MRS. WINSLOW'S SYRUP

brings astonishing, gratifying results in making baby's stomach digest food and bowels move as they should at teething time. Guaranteed free from narcotics, opiates, alcohol and all harmful ingredients. Safe and satisfactory.

At All Druggists

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.

Quarterly Report of Woman's Missionary Society, at Jonesboro, La.

Our Woman's Missionary Society is still having a regular meeting every Monday evening. We all enjoy so much our Bible Study, which is taught by Mrs. Fred Callaway. We have for our next lesson next second Monday the second book of Samuel.

Mrs. H. M. Scroggin teaches a very interesting mission study class. We have just finished our first textbook and will begin a new one, the theme of which is the "Negro," next third Monday. All of the Protestant churches are supposed to use the same books in their mission study, hence we most cordially invite ladies from the other churches to join our mission study class.

Last Monday afternoon, Mrs. J. A. Gaar, our auxiliary superintendent of Social Service, conducted a very interesting program on "Social Service," by which we all felt much benefited. "Social Service" presents such a wide field for active service and one in which we have done so little, that we wish many more of our ladies could have heard the program. We feel sure they would be interested in the work. Social service is another thing which belongs to no one church, but to all.

In addition to our business meeting next Monday afternoon, our president has planned to have a study of our minutes and by-laws. All members of our society are urged to be present, as well as other ladies of our church.

We have sent two boxes of clothing off this quarter. The first, valued at $20, contained the fall and winter clothes for the orphan at Ruston which we have been clothing for three years. The second box, containing second-hand clothing and valued at $35, was sent to our French Mission at MacDonell Wesley House.

We had a delegate at our Woman's Missionary Conference of the Monroe-Ruston District at Monroe and felt greatly encouraged by her report. We learned that our standing compared very favorably with that of much larger and older auxiliaries.

In addition to the above, we have raised some money all along, some of which we spent locally and some to be used in foreign fields. And while we know we can not get along without some money and that it is all spent in a good cause, we feel that the money side of our society is of secondary importance compared with the real good of the Woman's Missionary Society. We know that our greatest blessings come from a deeper and fuller spiritual life and through a greater service to mankind. Both of these are made possible by the activities of the Woman's Missionary Society.

Mrs. E. L. WALKER,
Corresponding Secretary.

I own that I am inclined to say grace upon twenty other occasions in the course of the day besides my dinner. I want a form for setting out upon a pleasant walk, for a moonlight ramble, for a friendly meeting or for a solved problem.—Charles Lamb.

Every son of God comes into His presence as one of a brotherhood. And at all worship God seems to ask of each worshipper: "How is it with thy brother?"—Selected.

QUARTERLY CONFERENCES.

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.

Shreveport Dist.—Fourth Round.

Pelican, Sat., Oct. 14; Sun., Oct. 15, a.m.
Mansfield and South Mansfield, Sun., Oct. 15, p.m.
Oil City, Wed., Oct. 18, p.m.
Texas Avenue, Frl., Oct. 20, p.m.
Castor, Sun., Oct. 22, a.m.
Bienville, Oct. 22, p.m., Oct. 23, a.m.
Sibley, at Mims, Tues., Oct. 24
Haughton, Wed., Oct. 25.
Mangum Memorial (conference), Frl., Oct. 24, p.m.
Gibsland, Sun., Oct. 29, a.m.
Plain Dealing, at Walker's Chapel, Thurs., Nov. 2.
Wesley, at Carroll Creek, Sun., Nov. 5, a.m.
Ringgold, Mon., Nov. 6.
Grand Cane, Wed., Nov. 8 (conference).
Mansfield, Wed., Nov. 8, p.m. (conference).
Minden, Frl., Nov. 10, p.m.
First Church, Shreveport, Sun., Nov. 12, a.m. (preaching).
Mooringsport, Sun., Nov. 12, p.m.
Noel Memorial, Mon., Nov. 13, p.m. (conference).
Cedar Grove, Wed., Nov. 15, p.m.
First Church, Shreveport (conference), Fri., Nov. 17, p.m.

R. H. WYNN, P. E.

Baton Rouge Dist.—Fourth Round.

Baker, Baker, Oct. 14, a.m., 15, p.m.
Springfield, Red Oak, Oct. 15, a.m.
Gonzales, New River, Oct. 22, a.m.
St. Francisville, Oct. 29, a.m.
Olive Branch, Gilead, Nov. 5, a.m.
Clinton, Clinton, Nov. 5, p.m.
Franklinton ct., Fisher, Nov. 12, a.m.
Franklinton, Nov. 12, p.m.
Baton Rouge, First Ch., Nov. 14, p.m.
Hammond, Nov. 15, p.m.
Dunham Springs, Dunham Springs, Nov. 19, a.m.

J. W. LEE, P. E.

Alexandria Dist.—Fourth Round.

Pineville, Oct. 12, p.m.
Columbia ct., at Columbia, Oct. 15.
Glenmora, Oct. 19, p.m.
Jena and Jonesville ct., at Jonesville, Oct. 22.
Winnfield, Oct. 25, p.m.
Trout and Good Pine, at Good Pine, Oct. 26, p.m.
Provencal ct., at Provencal, Oct. 29.
Bunkle, Nov. 2, p.m.
Alexandria, preaching, Nov. 5, a.m.; conference, Nov. 6, p.m.
Marksville ct., at Marksville, Nov. 5, p.m.
Pleasant Hill ct., at Pleasant Hill, Nov. 12.
Natchitoches, Nov. 16, p.m.
Rochelle and Standard, at Rochelle, Nov. 19.

Preachers in charge will please see that the trustees have reports in hand concerning church property. Pastors will also nominate only the number of stewards allowed by the law of the church. Brethren, arrange your nominations accordingly. The law will be enforced.

W. L. DOSS, Jr., P. E.

Lake Charles Dist.—Fourth Round.

Hornbeck and Peason, at Prospect, Oct. 15, a.m.
Zwolle, Oct. 15, p.m
Lafayette, Oct. 22, a.m.
Opelousas, Oct. 22, p.m.
Morgan City, Oct. 29, a.m.
Jeanerette, Oct. 29, p.m.
Many, Nov. 5, a.m.
Sulphur, Nov. 12, a.m.
Lake Arthur, Nov. 12, p.m.
Merryville, Nov. 19, a.m.
Ludington, Nov. 19, p.m.

J. B. WILLIAMS, P. E.

Monroe-Ruston Dist.—Fourth Round.

Winnsboro, at Winnsboro, Oct. 12, 2 p.m.
Oak Grove, at Oak Grove, Oct. 15, preaching, 11 a.m.
Farmersville, at Farmersville, Oct. 18.
West Monroe, Oct. 20, 8 p.m.
Simmsboro, at Salem, Oct. 22, preaching, 11 a.m.
Tallulah, Oct. 24, 8 p.m.
Rayville, at Rayville, Oct. 25, 3 p.m.
Midway and Epps, at Epps, Oct. 26, 3 p.m.
Chatham, at Frantam's Chapel, Nov. 1, 11 a.m.
Eros, at Eros, Nov. 3, preaching, 11 a.m.
Waterproof, at St. Joseph, Nov. 5, 3 p.m.
Sicily Island, at Sicily Island, Nov. 12, preaching, 11 a.m.
Lake Providence, Nov. 15, 8 p.m.
Monroe, Nov. 17, 8 p.m.
Bernice, at Bernice, Nov. 19, preaching, 11 a.m.
Ruston, Nov. 20, 8 p.m.

The Licensing Committee will meet at Monroe Sept. 19, 10 a.m.

K. W. DODSON, P. E.

Methodist Benevolent Association

Gives Southern Methodist Men and Women Safe

LIFE INSURANCE AT ACTUAL COST

J. E. SHUMAKER, Sec'y

810 Broadway Nashville, Tenn.

TETTERINE

For the Complexion

60c at your Druggist's, or from The

SHUPTRINE CO., SAVANNAH, GA.

MOTHER!

Your Child's Bowels Need "California Fig Syrup"

FROM PICKENS, MISS.

Greetings from the Pickens charge, Grenada District, North Mississippi Conference, to the Editor of the Advocate, and all readers: We are moving along in our usual (successful) way on the Pickens charge. We have good congregations, prayer meetings and Sunday schools.

Our collections have kept about up to date, during the year, with good prospects for "everything in full" by Conference.

The evangelistic work has been very good. In June we had our meeting in Pickens, with Brother J. W. Ward, of Lexington, to do the preaching, and it was high-class—"a feast of reason and flow of soul" indeed. We seemed to be sitting together in heavenly places in Christ Jesus.

We were at Richland in August, Brother R. P. Neblett, of Durant, preaching; and with songs and sermons he won all hearts. Oh, how those good people love Neblett! The Holy Presence was manifest throughout the week, and we rejoiced together in the Lord.

We were in Goodman the last week in September, with Brother J. T. Lewis, of Winona, doing the preaching.

The Flying Squadron, of Jackson, Miss., was with us, Sunday night, September 24, 125 strong, with an audience estimated at 2000. The music, songs, prayers, and testimonies were of great variety. How we laughted, cried and rejoiced together as those noble men told how the Lord had saved them from sin, and kept their souls by his love and power! Hon. Julian Alexander was master of ceremonies. Hon. Frederick Sullins, closing speaker, called for response from those who would help take Mississippi for Christ, and almost the entire audience gave their hands, pledging to do what they could.

It was wonderful, it was precious, it was thrilling to our souls. May God's blessings abide upon those good men!

The meeting continued during the week, Brother Lewis preaching. He is one of our best preachers and just the man to hold the interest at high tide. We had a crowded house day and night, and our hearts "burned within us," as the man of God unfolded the Holy Scripture, and God's Spirit witnessed with great power. Can we ever forget that meeting? It was good to be there. About 25 have been received into the church on the charge on profession of faith.

Praise God from whom all blessings flow! J. H. SMITH, Pastor.

Give us this day our daily bread.—Matt. 6:2.

Give us our daily bread,
O God, the bread of strength,
For we have learnt to know
How weak we are at length—
As children must be fed.
Give us thy grace, O Lord,
To be our daily bread.

Give us our daily bread,
The bitter bread of grief;
We sought earth's poisoned feasts
For pleasure and relief,
We sought her deadly fruits;
But now, O God, instead,
We ask thy healing grief
To be our daily bread.

—Adelaide Proctor.

The man who experiences the power of the Gospel in his own life has no shame in declaring Jesus Christ to others.—Selected.

QUARTERLY CONFERENCES.

NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE

Sardis Dist.—Fourth Round.

Sardis ct., at Davis Chapel, Oct. 14.
Arkabutla ct., at Arkabutla, Oct. 15.
Oakland ct., at Tillatoba, Oct. 15.
Mt. Pleasant ct., at New Salem, Oct. 21.
Horn Lake ct., at Eudora, Oct. 21.
Tyro ct., at Looxahoma, Oct. 21.
Shuford ct., at Mt. Olivet, Oct. 22.
Longtown ct., at Lee's Chapel, Oct. 28.
Crenshaw and Sledge, at C., Oct. 29.
Batesville, Nov. 5.

The duplication of dates in the foregoing appointments is due to the fact that in a few instances the presiding elder will be assisted by others in making this round. The brethren are asked to give special attention to Questions 13, 14, and 15 in getting ready for their conferences.

R. A. MEEK, P. E.

Greenwood Dist.—Fourth Round.

Indianola, Sun., Oct. 15, a.m.
Moorehead, Sun., Oct. 15, p.m.
Webb, at Webb, Wed., Oct. 18, p.m.
Sunflower, at Sunflower, Sun., Oct. 22, a.m.
Ruleville, at Ruleville, Sun., Oct. 22, p.m.
Tutwiler, Q. C., Wed., Oct. 25, p.m.
Schlater, at Schlater, Sun., Oct. 29, a.m.
Greenwood, Sun., Oct. 29, p.m.
Minter City, Wed., Nov. 1, p.m.
Drew, at Drew, Thurs., Nov. 2.
Sidon, at Cruger, Sun., Nov. 5, a.m.
Tchula, Sun., Nov. 5, p.m.

A careful and complete report will be expected from the treasurers of the Centenary and Educational Movements, Trustees and Missionary Societies. It will require a little effort on the part of the pastors to secure these, but the Conference will not be complete without them, and we must acknowledge we fail, if we fail.

S. L. POPE, P. E.

Greenville Dist.—Fourth Round.

Glen Allen and Avon, at Glen Allen, Oct. 11, p.m.
Leland, Oct. 13, p.m.
Transville and Dubbs, at Dubbs, Oct. 15, a.m.
Friars Point, Oct. 15, p.m.
Rosedale, Oct. 16, p.m.
Boyle, at Boyle, Oct. 17, p.m.
Cleveland, Oct. 18, p.m.
Lake Cormorant, at Lake Cormorant, Oct. 22, a.m.
Tunica, Oct. 22, p.m.
Benoit and Beulah, at Beulah, Oct. 25, p.m.
Hollandale and Arcola, at Hollandale, Oct. 29, a.m.
Greenville, Oct. 29, p.m.
Gunnison and Deeson, at Gunnison, Nov. 1, p.m.
Duncan and Hillhouse, at Duncan, Nov. 5, a.m.

"The District that sounds no retreat" will make a decidedly better report in every way this fall than last unless some man "plays hooky." Surely neither elder, pastor nor layman will be the guilty party.

JAMES H. FELTS, P. E.

Grenada Dist.—Fourth Round.

Poplar Creek Ct., at Friendship, Oct. 14, 15.
Pickens and Goodman, at Pickens, Oct. 15, 16.
Sallis Ct., at McAdams, Oct. 21.
Ebenezer Ct., at Liberty, Oct. 22, 23.
Lexington, Oct. 22, 23.
Kilmichael Ct., at Salem, Oct. 28.
Coffeeville Ct., at Gray Rock, Oct. 29.
Holcomb Ct., at Holcomb, Oct. 29, 30.

R. A. TUCKER, P. E.

Corinth Dist.—Fourth Round.

Burnsville ct., at Burnsville, Oct. 13.
Iuka ct., at Mt. Evergreen, Oct. 14, 15, 11 a.m.
Iuka station, Oct. 15, night; Qr. Conf., Oct. 16, 9 a.m.
Rienzi ct., at Bethel, Wed., Oct. 18.
Marietta ct., at Mt. Nebo, Oct. 19.
Mooreville ct., at Mooreville, Oct. 20.
Mantachie ct., at Mantachie, Oct. 21, 22.
Booneville ct., at Liberty, Friday, Oct. 27.
Booneville station, Qr. Conf., Oct. 27, night; preaching, Oct. 29, 11 a.m.
Wheeler ct., at Double Springs, Oct. 28.
Silver Springs ct., at Ei Bethel, Wed., Nov. 1.
Ripley station, Qr. Conf., Friday, Nov. 3, 2 p.m.; preaching, Nov. 5, 11 a.m.
Chalybeate ct., at Mt. Pleasant, Sat., Nov. 4.

N. B.—Let pastors see that written reports are made by Woman's Missionary Society and by Boards of Trustees, answering Questions 13 and 14. J. B. RANDOLPH, P. E.

Aberdeen Dist.—Fourth Round.

Tocopola, at Lafayette Springs, Oct. 12.
Salem and Ecru, at Salem, Oct. 13.
Aberdeen, Oct. 15, 16.
Smithville, at Greenbrier, Oct. 17.
Greenwood Springs, at New Hope, Oct. 18.
Nettleton, at Evergreen, Oct. 20.
Prairie and Strong, at Prairie, Oct. 22, 23.
Verona, at Palmetto, Oct. 24.
Shannon and Nettleton, at Nettleton, Oct. 25.
Fulton, at Friendship, Oct. 28, 29.
Tremont, at Hopewell, Oct. 29, 30.

T. H. DORSEY, P. E.

Columbus Dist.—Fourth Round.

Chester, at Chester, Oct. 7, 8.
Ackerman, preaching, Oct. 8, evening.
Mayhew and Sessums, at Mayhew, quarterly conference, Oct. 11.
High Point, at White Hall, Oct. 14, 15.
Noxapater, at Noxapater, Oct. 15, 16.
Louisville, Oct. 17.
Ackerman and Wier, at Ackerman, quarterly conference, Oct. 19.
McCool, at ———, Oct. 20.
Sturgis, at Mt. Airy, Oct. 21, 22.
Kosciusko sta., Oct. 22, p.m.
Kosciusko ct., at Pearce's Chapel, Oct. 23.
West Point, Oct. 25.
Artesia, Q. C., Oct. 26.
Shuqualak, at Shuqualak, Q. C., Oct. 27.
Columbus, Central, Oct. 31.
Brooksville, Nov. 1.

Pastors will please request Centenary and Educational treasurers to be present with written report, showing what has been raised this year, total amount paid to date, balance due, etc. Also remind the W. M. S. and the Board of Trustees to present a written report at this conference.

A. T. McILWAIN, P. E.

STOP ITCHING

Skins with Tetterine

60c at your Druggist's, or from The SHUPTRINE CO., SAVANNAH, GA.

Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic

Old Standard Remedy for Chills and Malaria. 60c

Dodson's Liver Tone

Killing Calomel Sale

Don't sicken or salivate yourself or paralyze your sensitive liver by taking calomel which is quicksilver. Your dealer sells each bottle of pleasant, harmless "Dodson's Liver Tone" under an ironclad, money-back guarantee that it regulates the liver, stomach and bowels better than calomel without making you sick—15 million bottles sold.

Constipation

Relieved Without the Use of Laxatives

Nujol is a lubricant—not a medicine or laxative—so cannot gripe.

When you are constipated, not enough of Nature's lubricating liquid is produced in the bowel to keep the food waste soft and moving. Doctors prescribe Nujol because it acts like this natural lubricant and thus replaces it. Try it today.

Nujol

REG. U.S. PAT. OFF.

A LUBRICANT—NOT A LAXATIVE

When You're Nervous

Whatever the cause—overwork, worry, grief, loss of sleep, excitement, business troubles, stimulants, narcotics—there's one medicine that will help you.

Dr. Miles' Nervine

has relieved thousands of cases of headache, dizziness, irritability, sleeplessness, hysteria, epilepsy. Buy a bottle of your druggist and start on the road to better health today.

Dr. Miles' Guaranteed Medicines.

Dr. Miles' Nervine
Dr. Miles' Heart Treatment
Dr Miles' Tonic
Dr. Miles' Blood Purifier
Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills
Dr. Miles' Laxative Tablets
Dr. Miles' Tonic

You'll Find Dr. Miles' Medicines at your Drug Store

REVIVAL AT EPWORTH CHURCH, NEW ORLEANS.

Dear Mr. Editor: New Orleans, the metropolitan city of the South, has never been known as an ideal city in which to hold a revival; nevertheless since the great Gipsy Smith meeting there is a very different attitude.

Epworth Church decided several months ago to have a revival, and in a meeting of the Board of Stewards the pastor was authorized to secure, if possible, one of our general evangelists, which he proceeded to try to do. After considerable correspondence with different men it was found difficult to agree upon a time satisfactory to both. We prayed much over the matter and I thoroughly believe we were led to engage Rev. James L. Sells, pastor of the East End Methodist Church, Meridian, Miss.

Brother Sells could he with us for only ten days and in order to get a good start we appealed to some of our brethren in the city, who responded in a truly Methodist way. The meeting began on Wednesday night, the 13th of September, with Dr. Carley preaching; on Thursday, Rev. J. W. Rayner, of St. Mark's; on Friday, Rev. R. H. Harper, of First Church, and on Sunday night our presiding elder, Rev. J. G. Snelling. To say that these men all preached excellent sermons and that each sermon was just what was needed to start the meeting off is putting it very mildly.

Brother Sells, the genial, loving man of God that he is, began on Monday night and preached for ten days, giving us one continual feast of good things from God's great storehouse.

The attendance was fine, the interest continuous, the church was revived, and sinners were converted. Up to the present time twenty-five have been received into the church, twelve on profession of faith and thirteen by certificate. One of the most interesting and unusual results was the baptizing and receiving into church membership Mrs. Hannah Coulter, who is now in her eightieth year.

God greatly blessed us, for which we are truly thankful.

JAMES E. SELFE, P. C.

KIM IK DU—A KOREAN PREACHER OF EXTRAORDINARY POWER.

By Rev. F. K. Gamble.

We have just closed a meeting here in Seoul, about which I am sure you will be interested to hear. The preacher was a Korean evangelist, and indeed he has the evangelistic gift to a marked degree. In his power of graphic description, his apt use of homely illustrations, his ability to attract and hold the crowds, and his delivery of plain, practical, forceful messages, he has reminded me much of Dr. George R. Stuart. The average Korean is rather sober-sided and serious, and the average Korean preacher delivers his message in a dignified manner. But this man, Kim Ik Du, is unique in that he illustrates his message with his facial expressions and bodily movements. He is a splendid caricaturist, and the way in which he takes off the old-time Korean gentleman of leisure, or the new woman, or the countryman riding on the train for the first time, or the grandparents in their ecstatic delight over the arrival of their first grandson, is both ludicrous and fascinating. The big tent which we had erected for the meeting was filled each night with from 2500 to 3500 people, who alternately laughed and cried, always intent to catch every word of the speaker.

With all his humor and pathos, Kim Ik Du is a wonderful preacher of the pure Gospel of Jesus Christ. He is a sincere believer in the power of prayer, and in the truth and power of God's Word. He exposes sin in its subtle as well as its gross forms, exalts Jesus Christ as the only and all-sufficient Savior, and shows the definiteness and certainty of the Christian's hope. It is nothing short of marvelous that such a preacher should be produced during one short generation of the Gospel's preaching in this land. It must be remembered that the first missionaries came to Korea in 1884.

In his genius for work and the strenuous program he carries out, Kim Ik Du is like the founder of our Methodism. The daily program consists of services at 5:30 and 10:30 a.m., and 2:30 and 8:30 p.m. He conducts all these services himself, often preaching more than an hour. After each service he has special prayer for the sick. Thus he is constantly going, working, preaching, praying, from five o'clock in the morning till past midnight, with almost no time for rest. He believes firmly in healing the sick through prayer, though he does not give this a prominent place in his public utterances. He claims no healing power for himself, and does nothing but pray with and for the sick, and try to get them to exercise faith for healing. Quite a number of remarkable cures have been reported. He will not pray with or for a sick person unless that person is a sincere believer in Christ, and always insists that genuine repentance and faith are conditions of physical as well as spiritual healing.

There were 280 converts or new believers enrolled as a result of the meetings, but the greater work was among the Christians, leading them to a deeper consecration and a clearer conception of divine truth. A large number pledged themselves to pay the tithe of their incomes to the Lord's work, and a still larger number pledged themselves to renewed Bible study and prayer.

The collection taken at the close of the meeting resulted in about $250 in cash, besides about thirty hairpins, ten earspoons, twelve wedding rings and other ornaments contributed by the women. I saw the women come to the platform, pull the pins out of their hair, and the rings from their fingers and lay them on the collection plates. Their joy in making such offerings when they had no money was both pathetic and inspiring.

After having heard Kim Ik Du preach, once more I gave thanks to God for the wonderful things wrought among the people of this land through His grace and power. Continue to pray for us. "The fields are indeed white unto harvest" here now. May God help us to improve this opportunity while it lasts, to "work while it is called to-day, for the night cometh when no man can work."

OUR BISHOPS ARE BUSY.

At their meeting in Atlanta several months ago our bishops by unanimous vote adopted the following resolution:

"Resolved, That it is the sense of the College of Bishops that special attention should be given to the consideration of the Centenary and the Education Movements at the session of the fall Conferences; and we believe the Annual Conferences should give ample and appropriate time to the consideration of these causes.

"Resolved, That we are ready to respond to a call for special work at the Annual Conference sessions, where our services may be needed and where other duties will permit; and to serve these interests in any other possible way."

In line with the resolution adopted, our chief pastors have been giving splendid service in representing the Centenary and the Christian Education Movement at all of the sessions of the Annual Conferences held to this time. Usually two bishops have visited each Conference and have presented the Centenary and Christian Education interests.

To this time Bishops Candler, Atkins, Denny, McMurry, Darlington, and DuBose have carried the Centenary message to the Annual Conferences and it has been a service of real value to this great enterprise of the church. Other bishops will be used in addition to those named at the sessions of the Conferences yet to come.

Our bishops see that it is vital both to our missionary interests and to the general prosperity of the church that the Centenary program be carried through. By all in their power they are seeking to stir the conscience of the church concerning its sacred obligation, and they have declared that the Centenary must not fail anywhere.

WHEELER Business College BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
"WHEELER STUDENTS GET THE BEST POSITIONS"
Call or Write For Free Catalogue

TO-MORROW.

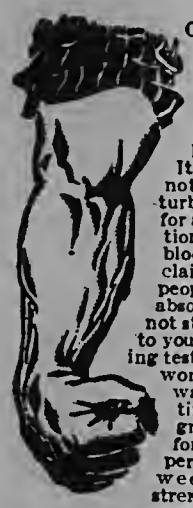
By Margaret E. Sangster, in the Christian Herald.

All of the hope of the unlived years,
All of the dreams that we
Have tried to hold when the heart was cold,
And the road stretched far and free,
All of the sweet imagining,
And the hidden, half-known truth;
All of the joyous faith we fling,
On the altar of our youth.

All of the wonder of early dew,
On a scarce unfolding rose,
When the dawn is high in the waking sky,
And a breeze from heaven blows;
All of the story we have not read,
And the verse we have not learned,
And the rainbow's gleam, when the storm has fled,
And the page we have not turned!

Paths that reach to the far-off blue,
Of the dim horizon line,
Forests sweet, where our willing feet
Walk through long aisles of pine.
All the to-morrows of all the earth,
And all of the years to be—
Tragedy, happiness, death and birth,
Romance and mystery!

There is Strength in Every Tablet of This Newer Form of Iron



One dose often helps commence to enrich your blood and revitalize your wornout exhausted nerves — it is a newer form of iron, like the iron in your blood and like the iron in spinach. It is so prepared that it will not injure the teeth nor disturb the stomach. It is ready for almost immediate absorption and assimulation by the blood while some physicians claim metallic iron which people usually take is not absorbed at all. If you are not strong or well you owe it to yourself to make the following test: See how long you can work or how far you can walk without becoming tired. Next take two five-grain tablets of this newer form of iron — three times per day, after meals for two weeks. Then test your strength again and see how much you have gained.

NOTE — The manufacturers of this newer form of iron known as Nuxated Iron are thoroughly reliable: since its introduction it has reached the stupendous sale of over 4,000,000 packages annually, and it has been used and highly recommended by former U.S. Senators, Members of Congress, Judges of U. S. Courts and many physicians. We are able to guarantee that if you do not obtain all and even greater results than you expect from Nuxated Iron the manufacturers will promptly refund your money.

To be sold by all Druggists.

NOTE—Nuxated Iron has been used for years whenever needed in the family of the Advertising Representative of this paper with excellent results. We are able to guarantee that if you do not obtain all and even greater benefits than you expect from Nuxated Iron, the manufacturers will promptly refund your money.—Adv.

ANGELL'S

COUGH and WHOOPING
Cough Syrup
Easy to Take
No Habit-Forming Drugs. Formula of
DR. RICHARD ANGELL
Prepared by
JAMES R. ANGELL,
New Orleans, La.
PRICE 35c AND 65c
AT ALL DRUGGISTS

Universal Bible Sunday
November 26th, 1922 (or either adjacent Sunday)
THEME: The Bible—Undelivered to the Nations of the World
YOUR Church or Sunday School will welcome the education and the inspiration resulting from the observance of Universal Bible Sunday.
An extremely interesting exercise, a beautiful poster in colors, an informative report together with leaflets for wide distribution furnished free on request to pastors, Sunday School superintendents, teachers and other religious workers. Kindly state size of congregation, school or class in ordering.
AMERICAN BIBLE SOCIETY - - - - - - - Bible House, New York

NEW ORLEANS

CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE

Vol. 69—No. 42. Official Organ of the Louisiana, Mississippi, and North Mississippi Conferences, Methodist Episcopal Church, South. Whole No. 3480.

HENRY T. CARLEY, Editor. NEW ORLEANS, LA., THURSDAY, OCTOBER 19, 1922. CHAS. O. CHALMERS, Manager.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

DELIVER YOUR MESSAGE.

An undelivered message is the tragedy of many a life. There are people who have something to say to the world and the world is ready to hear—but they never speak. In the crucible of their own souls have been fused all the elements of experience and reflection that enter into the knowledge that saves, and in their own lives have been wrought out the plans by which great character is builded, and in their hearts are burning the divine fires that inspire to noblest endeavor and achievement—but the world is none the wiser. Man, if you have a message, deliver it—in word, by deed, that the world may hear. If you have no message as yet, climb some mountain peak, push back the curtains of heaven, catch at least a glimpse of the infinite stretches of eternal truth, listen to the Divine Imperative—then speak.

GROW SOME THOUGHTS.

Dr. George R. Stuart, in his fascinatingly interesting book, "The Preacher and the Crowd," says this: "A man can no more deliver great thoughts without growing them than a farmer can deliver on the market a great crop without growing it. Many sermons have a platitudinous rambling around a few commonplace illustrations and assertions, and tire people. The reason is to be found in the fact that the preacher has no resources." We have an idea that Dr. Stuart has come very close to hitting upon the solution of the problem of "why men do not go to church." The average man is a good deal more capable of recognizing and appreciating real thought than a good many preachers seem to give him credit for, and when he goes to hear a man whose business it is to speak in public he expects, as he has a right to expect, to hear something that will at least recognize his intellectual respectability. When "hungry sheep look up and are not fed," they are very likely to lose confidence in the shepherd who fails of his prime mission. Grow some thoughts—they are the best-paying crop in the world.

LISTEN TO THIS!

The Country Gentleman is the oldest and one of the very best agricultural journals in the world. Its position as a reputable representative of the agricultural interests of this country is too well established to need any commendation from us. When it speaks, therefore, it is entitled to a careful hearing. In its issue of October 14, on its editorial page, under the caption, "Who Voted Wet?" it takes such a bold stand for prohibition that we feel we shall be doing the prohibition cause great service by quoting liberally. The editorial in question says: "We are curious about the identity of those who voted in the Literary Digest's national prohibition poll and cast the totals which give the wets the most comfort they have had in months. Who, for instance, are the 60,362 women who voted wet, while only 48,485 voted dry? Do they represent a true cross section of the motherhood of America? Are they mothers of boys and girls, or are they the guardians of hip flasks and caretakers of poodle dogs? Do they speak English without burr or gurgle? Are they, perchance, a fair representation of the neglected wives whose husbands formerly cashed their pay checks at the corner saloon? In Kansas, for example, where a generation has grown up without seeing an open saloon, did the mothers cast the vote of 1006 dry and 685 wet? We are even more curious about how the biggest class and biggest industry in this country is represented in this poll. We trust the Literary Digest in its canvass has been fairer to the farmers than it has been many times in the past when it published symposium articles on important agricultural subjects and quoted as authorities, not the farm press of America, but the city newspapers, often dignifying as authorities the fuzzy-lipped reporters and city-bred editorial writers, many of whom would scarcely know whether a Poland-China is beast, bird or bric-a-brac. * * * But as to the prohibition poll properly representing the sentiment of that almost half of our population which lives on the farms and in agricultural villages and towns and cities, we do not believe it for a moment. Our information is all the other way. Prohibition started with farm folk. * * * The liquor business was never a local industry with farmers, not even as a market for rye and barley, as the farmers have found out from the better prices of recent prohibition days. The brewers and distillers and the crooked politicians spent millions to hold the saloon in rural territories, but the agricultural folk finally rose in determined revolt and banished the saloon, and no poll which records the vote of 900,000 people out of a population of 110,000,000 is convincing evidence that farm folk have changed their mind. * * * Despite all that has been said to the contrary by enemies of prohibition, the Eighteenth Amendment represented a popular majority. It is a majority that has been many years growing. It headed up when the world was aflame with war. Money at that time was as important as men. The biggest lump of money which the nation could possibly find was the two-billion-dollar annual drink bill. We drafted those booze dollars, baptized them in blood and made patriots of them. Later we passed through the most trying reconstruction period of a half century with scarcely a bread line. More latterly still we have seen two great public necessities crippled by strikes and an unparalleled opportunity presented for bloodshed. But there were no open saloons in which to brew frenzy and breed crime, and with the exception of the Herrin riot, and a few small outbursts, the strikes passed off peaceably. * * * How about the one-third of our population which on June thirtieth had $16,618,705,000 in savings accounts in American banks? Do they wish to return to the spendthrift days of the open saloons? Do the so-called main poll totals of 306,225 for enforcement, 325,519 for modification and 164,453 for repeal take proper account of the best judgment of this vast army of savings fund depositors? Do these figures represent the sentiment of Henry Ford and the other automobile manufacturers, of the packers, the railway executives, the steel makers, the machinery manufacturers and the heads of these other industries which mean so much to our national prosperity and which have found absence from work less and accidents fewer under prohibition? * * * The poll seems unfair, inadequate, unrepresentative to us particularly if it is to be used as embodying the sentiment of the agricultural half of this nation. * * * In the meantime there is need for more sober thought on this whole question. Prohibition is here and here to stay. It is the duly constituted law. Its enemies are noisy, but they are not so numerous as the thoughtless might suppose. A few frogs in a small pond make a big racket. We have let the diehards all have their say, we have humored them beyond the proper boundaries of patience. Now let's start putting the flag above passion. Let's begin being Americans." In that last statement, "Let's begin being Americans," there is much food for thought for those who either violate the law themselves or condone its violation by others. True Americans stand by the Constitution.

THE AMERICAN LEGION.

The national convention of the American Legion is in session in New Orleans this week. It is estimated that at least 75,000 visitors are in the city. Every downtown street is ablaze with decorations and by every token the men who were enlisted in the World War are enjoying the hospitality of a proverbially friendly city. We wonder if these military veterans realize the responsibility that rests upon them as representatives of a nation that entered the greatest of all wars that it might help end war. If they remember—and we believe they will remember—that the victories of peace are no less than those of war, they will stand unequivocally for those things that really exalt a nation, all of which are summed up in the one word, "righteousness." By their conduct as individuals and by their attitude as an organization toward the laws of the land and the fundamental qualities of good citizenship they will show whether or not they really won the victory in the fight in which they risked their lives. Every good American citizen must stand for law and law enforcement.

New Orleans Christian Advocate

OFFICE, No. 512 CAMP STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

Published every Thursday by the Publishing Committee for the Louisiana, Mississippi and North Mississippi Conferences, Methodist Episcopal Church, South.

Entered at the Postoffice at New Orleans as Second-class Mail Matter. Accepted for mailing at special rate of postage provided for in section 1103, Act of Oct. 3, 1917, authorized Oct. 31, 1918.

TERMS:

Subscription Rates. One year, $2.00, six months, $1

To superannuates and widows of preachers $1.

TO CONTRIBUTORS.

All copy submitted for publication, should be legibly written on one side of the paper with pen and ink, or typewritten. Matters written with a lead pencil and rolled manuscripts are unacceptable. No copy will be returned unless postage is enclosed for that purpose. In no case will responsibility be assumed for the loss or nonreturn of articles—the writers should keep copies of them. We do not purchase matter of any kind.

THE LAST LONG MILE.

By Rev. F. B. Hill.

There are two experiences of mine, one past and one present, with me, the last very much so. Some time ago I was called out to take a rather long buggy ride to conduct a funeral. If it had been possible for me to manufacture a bad day as far as weather was concerned, I could not have made a worse one. After the ceremony I caught a train back—a local—but I was still five miles from home. There was no alternative but to walk back. Thunder, lightning, wind, rain, yet on I tramped, with the knowledge that every step I took was bringing me home to rest, refreshment and warmth and comfort. Now in company with so many of my brethren in the ministry, with Conference getting nearer and nearer, I am conscious that in the winding up of things, the last long mile is testing my powers. No pastor ought even to have to get in "Conference Claims." All collections should be done by laymen and laywomen. This leads me to sermonize. And I have in view some of my best friends in previous charges who, I know, are tramping—not physically, but in spirit—the last long mile of life's journey.

"Is there anything," says one of our Wesleyan Methodist ministers (W. J. May) in a letter written eighteen months ago, "in life we are more afraid of than the last lap of the journey?" We go on a long tramp, and the road is pleasant, and the sun shines overhead. Birds flit from bush to bush, or, soaring high, pour out their souls in song until we "Stop—Look—Listen." The common flowers in the hedgerows nod their heads to us in greeting. There is sunlight on our faces, and music in our souls, and our feet seem to dance to its lilt. Who would not tread such a road on such a day? What more could any one ask of life? The day draws near its close, and the sun is sinking in a blaze of glory behind the hill. There is an unexpected chill in the air. The flowers have curled their petals, and there is only the sound of the night creatures in the grass. Our feet drag. We are not far from home, but we are strangely tired. We would give so much to be at home. Our limbs ache; our wills have lost their strength, and we are afraid our strength will not hold out. It is the note of expectancy, and the knowledge where our great strength lies and resources from which we can draw. "He giveth power to the faint." We say:

"The end comes as came the beginning;
And shadows fall with the past,
And the goal is not worth the winning,
If it brings us but home at last.

"While far through the pain of waste places
We tread, 'tis a blossoming rod
That drives us from grace to disgraces,
From the fens to the garden of God."

What short-sighted creatures we are! We fail because we do not look far enough forward. Like Bunyan's Pilgrims when upon the Delectable Mountains, we need a telescope, if faith is to be quickened and strength renewed. We live as if the gospel story acted in the midnight darkness of Good Friday. It goes on to the glory of Easter Day, and the earthly pilgrimage of Jesus ends in the glory of the Father's right hand. If we follow Jesus, at least let us follow him all the way. Where does the last long mile lead us? Down through the valley of the shadow of death? No; it leads us up to the door of the House of the Lord, where we shall dwell forever. The companions who are with us all the way are Faith, Hope and Love. When you come to the last long mile, and strength is failing and feet are dragging "Lift up your hearts, for behold your redemption draweth nigh." God never made us for loneliness. "He setteth the solitary of the earth in families." We are always a bit afraid of the solitary experiences and the lonely places. We shrink from the last long mile because we have to "go over" it alone. If only we could go over it together, or if we could be sure that at the end of the dark valley some one very dear who had passed over the road a little earlier would greet us! If the pain could be stilled and the weariness vanish at the touch of the hand of some one we greatly loved, and we could open the eyes that had grown so tired and dim, and see the eyes of love shining down into ours, with all the love of the vision of the unveiled face of God aglow in them! If we could be sure of that vision, we could dance over the last long mile.

When Jesus comes to us (and he does) he alone has come back along the last long mile, and whispers in our ear the secret that destroys all our fears: "I will come again and receive you unto myself." No harm can come to us in the valley if He is with us. When the call, "Friend, come up higher," comes to us, if we see beneath the sombre robes of the Angel of Death, the white linen and the golden girdle of the Shepherd of Souls, will not fear vanish and doubt be utterly destroyed? The hand that guides the small bird to its nest even in the darkness will not fail to guide us home. That is the greatest fact about death. Our fears and doubts arise because we dwell upon the uncertainties and ignore the facts. We have all manner of speculation. They may be all true, or none of them. The one fact is, we shall be at home with the Lord, and nothing which would help us feel at home will be missing.

"Then shall we see, and hear, and know;
All we desire and wish below.
And every power find sweet employ
In that eternal world of joy."

Wherever we feel home should be, heaven will be. It may be the poor woman whose life had been one unending round of drudgery, and who dreamed of heaven as a place where one might sit down with a clean white apron on and fold tired hands, had grasped a truth as really as the Jew who dreamed of white robes and waving palms. At the end of the last long mile we shall step across the threshold of home and hear the Father saying, "Bring forth the best robe and put it on him, and put a ring on his hand and shoes on his feet, for this my son was dead and is alive again."

When we were born into this world we came into a place prepared for us, a place where all our needs had been anticipated, where love supplied all our wants. We were clad in prepared garments. Love prepared a home for us then, and Love will not fail to prepare a home for us again. Once more the Master enheartens us, "How much more shall your Heavenly Father prepare good things for those that love him."

The last piece of the road is leading us into the homeland—into the home that love has prepared, made ready. So, as we grow older, we look forward less to the place and more to the people. Home is not a particular house; home is the dwelling-place of those we love most, and the joy of going home is the joy of meeting them. Heaven is the home where the loved ones are, and, most of all, where Jesus is, the great Lover of us all. As friends go ahead and grow more numerous and friends behind grow fewer, we look forward more than ever to going home. We grow too old to make new friends, and cling more and more to the old ones, and we long to be where they have gone before us. They wait for us at the end of the last long mile, at the doorway of home; and Jesus comes to us with us that no harm befall us in the valley. We have our regrets; we sing, maybe, our swan song—

"Adieu, and the years are a broken song,
The right grows weak with the strife with wrong,
The lilies of love have a crimson stain,
And the old days never will come back again.

"Adieu, where the mountains are dim
With the tremulous tread of the seraphim,
Shall not our querulous hearts prevail
That have prayed for the peace of the Holy Grail?

"Adieu, sometime shall the veil between
The things that are, and that might have been,
Be folded back for our eyes to see,
And the meaning of all be clear to me."

Yes, it is "better on before." "To be with Christ is far better." "Some better things reserved in Heaven for you." So comfort one another with these words: "Forever with the Lord!"

Ponchatoula, La.

RALL'S "NEW TESTAMENT HISTORY."

By Rev. N. G. Augustus.

There recently came into my hands a "New Testament History," by Harris Franklin Rall, president and professor of Systematic Theology, The Iliff School of Theology, Denver, Colorado. As it is one of a series of textbooks of Bible study for colleges and universities and as the author professes to write from the "modern historical view," I read it with some interest. While no special ability is shown by the author, the book is interesting from several standpoints. It is notable for calling attention to some twenty or more alleged mistakes, or discrepancies in the writings of the New Testament. The writer seems to be hunting for difficulties. Our knowledge of the history of that time as regards both Biblical and non-Biblical sources is so fragmentary that we lack material to fill up many gaps and so making a full and consecutive history of that age. These alleged differences are emphasized in regard to some of the vital points of our Christology, such as the virgin birth and the resurrection of our Lord. Concerning these differences of writers about the latter event, the writer says: "Only by violence can these accounts be harmonized in their details." "It has been pointed out that the rest of the New Testament is silent upon this and in Luke there is but a single clause that refers to it." "Two points should be made clear: One is that the virgin birth was evidently not essential for the faith of the early church. John and Paul, who say nothing concerning it, are the two writers who give us the highest conception of the divinity of Jesus."

Was Jesus tempted of the devil? Did he believe in and teach us to believe in a personal devil? Our author here says: "We must remember in the second place that it is a picture form which Jesus uses. He speaks of the devil here just as when he says to Peter, 'Get thou behind me Satan.'" "The fact is not then a literal bodily Satan whom Jesus allowed to carry him to temple and mountain, but that Jesus in the thoughts and conflicts of those days saw through many of the ideas which the people held as to the Messiah and knew that they were evil." All this evasive vagueness is in marked contrast to the definite record. "And Satan left him for a season."

Our author speaks with full confidence of what Jesus knew. In the matter of evil spirits he says of Jesus, "So far as ordinary knowledge is concerned, we find him sharing the opinions of his time." As to the knowledge that Jesus had of His mission, our author says, "And a voice came out of heaven saying, Thou art my beloved son, in thee I am well pleased." "A young man's greatest question is that of his life calling." For most of us it is a problem to sound the mysteries of a common mind; how much the greater mystery of the psychology of the Incarnation! But the author finds no forbidding difficulty here.

We have here in fitting terms the picture of a great teacher, a great lover of men, a great sympathizer with sinful men, a great healer, a great doer of wonderful works. But with a limitation. Jesus healed; so have many others. There is no difficulty here for the non-believer in the miraculous, for this historian of Jesus says nothing in his text of miracles of power over nature, the turning of water into wine, the stilling of the tempest, or the three instances in which our Lord raised the dead to life. Here we note the omissions of the author. Does he refer to the preexistence or deity of Jesus? He says the disciples declared him to be Master and Lord and King (page 103).

We read again. "Neither the old Testament nor the teachers of the day knew anything of a suffering Messiah." But Philip and the author of the Acts (Acts 8:32) thought that Isaiah, 53d chapter, had a very vivid conception of this character. So has thought the church in all ages. Delitzsch said this passage of Isaiah sounded as if written at the foot of the cross. But "modernists" explain it as describing the sufferings of Israel. Is that new? Origen writing in the second century (Contra Celsum C. 1. 55), quotes Celsus, the infidel, as saying this interpretation came to him from a Jew of his day.

Our author speaks of alleged spirits as notions imported from Persia. The Old Testament speaks of these being in writings expressly vouched for by our Lord. Have we an authoritative record of such avouchment? If not, what can we believe in the New Testament? Or was Jesus in these avouchments ignorant or ill informed? or was he willfully deceptive?

What is the author's idea of inspiration? He does not tell. This is one of the many matters slurred over in this book. He says, "All this does not mean that the writers did not feel that they were inspired, that they were moved by the Spirit of God." Were they deceivers or self-deceived?

This author fails in his portrayal of Christ by virtual omissive or vague treatment of the preexistence, divinity, virgin birth, miraculous power, resurrection and ascension of our Lord. What is the atonement? We quote: "What Jesus hoped for from his death was not wanting. It did for us what his life alone had not accomplished. The cross, symbol of shame for that day, like the guillotine or the gallows for ours, became the center of the message for his disciples and the symbol of honor for the ages following. From the first, men saw in his death, as he did, not a tragic accident or the triumph of his foes, but some great purpose of God. It has wrought the sense of sin and the feeling of penitence which He had wished to call forth. It stood forth as the crowning deed of his love in which they saw the love and mercy of God. It fixed forever the ideal of his life as that of love and service, and the ideal of the Christian life for those who were to follow him."

Is this all that the ages have seen in the cross? Men said as much but a few days ago of Michael Collins, the murdered Irish patriot.

Prof. Rall's book is of interest because its author is the storm center of the theological contention now on hand in the M. E. Church, because, according to the Eastern Methodist of Dr. L. W. Munhall, the Presbyterians of Colorado recently appointed a committee to look into the instruction given in Prof. Rall's school, and the committee in their report advised their church not to patronize this Denver school, and because the book I am reviewing was taught last session at Millsaps College.

Byhalia, Miss.

THE NEW CHURCH AT BATON ROUGE, LA.

By Rev. Chas. W. Crisler, D.D., Pastor.

The proposed new First Methodist Church, of Baton Rouge, La., to be erected at the corner of North and East Boulevards, the most magnificent building spot in the city, overlooking the Jefferson Highway from New Orleans to Winnipeg, is an assured fact. The recent campaign to raise $100,000 by the local congregation to meet the conditions on which the Joint Committee on Educational Centers of the General Church would give substantial assistance, closed Thursday night with a victory banquet, during which there was raised in cash and notes $105,618. This achievement was made possible by the united efforts of one hundred and thirty-six active workers who had faith enough to undertake the doing of a seemingly impossible task.

The success of this campaign is not only an achievement for the Methodists themselves, but is full of significance to the spiritual and moral life of the whole community and the State at large, as indicated by the support of people of every class and creed. It is a universally accepted truth that the true church stands for the best in the life of the people. It is the only sure safeguard against those forces which threaten our civilization and menace our free institutions. It is the mightiest power for spreading good will, stabilizing society and inspiring confidence among men, without which there can be no common brotherhood and no assurance of real and lasting prosperity.

This new church building is, first of all, to be a place of worship for devout men and women, and will also offer greater facilities for all-round religious development and moral training, social activities and wholesome play, such as tend to make a more contented and happy people. It will undertake to train those under its influence for unselfish Christian service. True to the traditions of the great Southern Methodist Church, it will stand for a greater, cleaner citizenship, the just enforcement of law, and the help of God's neglected children. As a builder of character, therefore, its physical presence and religious message will be the highest community asset.

For more than sixty years the congregation has worshiped in its present historic building, at the corner of Church and Laurel Streets—a building sanctified by the toil, suffering and sacrifice of men and women who, during the terrible days of Civil War and the more trying times of reconstruction, builded a new South out of the ashes of the old. The old church house has not only been made sacred by a thousand holy associations, but has trained at its altars some of the best men and women who have ever blessed the commonwealth and the nation with their lives.

The feeling has steadily grown in recent years that with the enlarging of the University, the splendid material expansion of the city, and the phenomenal growth of the membership, the Methodists must seek a more commanding location and provide ampler quarters, more in keeping with the larger responsibilities thrust upon them. This new building will not only fittingly symbolize their feeling of greatness and dignity of their growing cause, but will offer the increased facilities so essential in the life and progress of a modern church.

This greater First Methodist Church will mark a new era in church building in Baton Rouge, if not in the entire State. In architectural design it will be simple and practical, yet beautiful and attractive, as the drawings indicate. It will be something that will excite the interest and arouse pardonable pride in every right-thinking citizen in the State who visits the Capital City.

The building will follow the lines of the late English or Tudor Gothic, which is simpler in character and less severely ornamental but more practical and less costly than the earlier French and English designs. When completed, including furnishing throughout, the building and site will cost approximately $225,000, which will be ample to provide comfortably for the growing local congregation and also to care fully for the large body of University students.

The outside will be trimmed with stone and the walls will be of rough rock-faced stone. Heavy buttresses will give the walls and towers an effect of massive dignity. The roof over the main auditorium will be of tile, and over the second section or Sunday school and social unit of the building a flat roof will be provided for a roof garden. This feature will be of unusual interest since all out-of-door meetings during the long summer months can be held there with comfort. The evening service of worship will also be held there during the warm weather. A porte cochere over the side entrance from the East Boulevard will afford shelter to automobiles while unloading and loading visitors to the church.

The seating capacity of the auditorium will be between twelve and fourteen hundred, depending on how much the pews are crowded. The choir provides seats for forty. There will be a main floor and a balcony in this room. The wood work will be finished in dark oak, and the windows will be a beautiful combination of Gothic tracery and rich stained cathedral glass.

Entrance to the auditorium will be through a wide lobby on North Boulevard, with coat and toilet rooms on either side; in addition, there will be side entrances at the rear of the auditorium on the east and west, respectively. A great pipe organ, with chimes in the corner tower, will be the crowning feature of the beautiful auditorium.

The Sunday school department will have a capacity of nearly two thousand, and the arrangement has been approved as Class A by the architectural department of the Methodist Board at Louisville, Ky. This means that full provision has been made to take care of every department in the most convenient style.

The young people's department has a very large capacity with a view to caring for three or four hundred Methodist students attending the State University. Space is provided to accommodate large individual classes of men, women, and young people.

A large room, with capacity of two hundred and fifty, is provided for the Boy Scouts of the church, with locker room and shower baths, also with separate entrance from East Boulevard so as to give the best possible facility for developing scouting.

Many coat rooms and toilets and drinking fountains are located on various floors for general convenience. A kitchen and serving rooms afford conveniences for taking care of a large number of guests in the general social room under the main auditorium.

Other features of interest are the pastor's study, library, superintendent's office, fireproof vault for records, church office, ladies' parlor, and elevator for use of those who prefer it to climbing stairs.

The building when completed will rank in church and Sunday school facilities with any in the South. It will be a magnificent achievement for Methodists and enterprising citizens of Baton Rouge.

It is the present purpose of the building committee who have this work in hand to begin construction at the very earliest practicable date and push the building to completion with the greatest possible speed consistent with good and lasting work. It is possible to be able to begin work when spring opens next year.

Every Methodist family in the State is interested in this new enterprise, especially those families with boys and girls at the University. The Methodist congregation here is building for their boys and girls and future homes of our country. In a large sense this movement should appeal strongly to the pride and substantial support of every Methodist within the commonwealth. We are planning to take care of the spiritual and moral welfare of these young people.

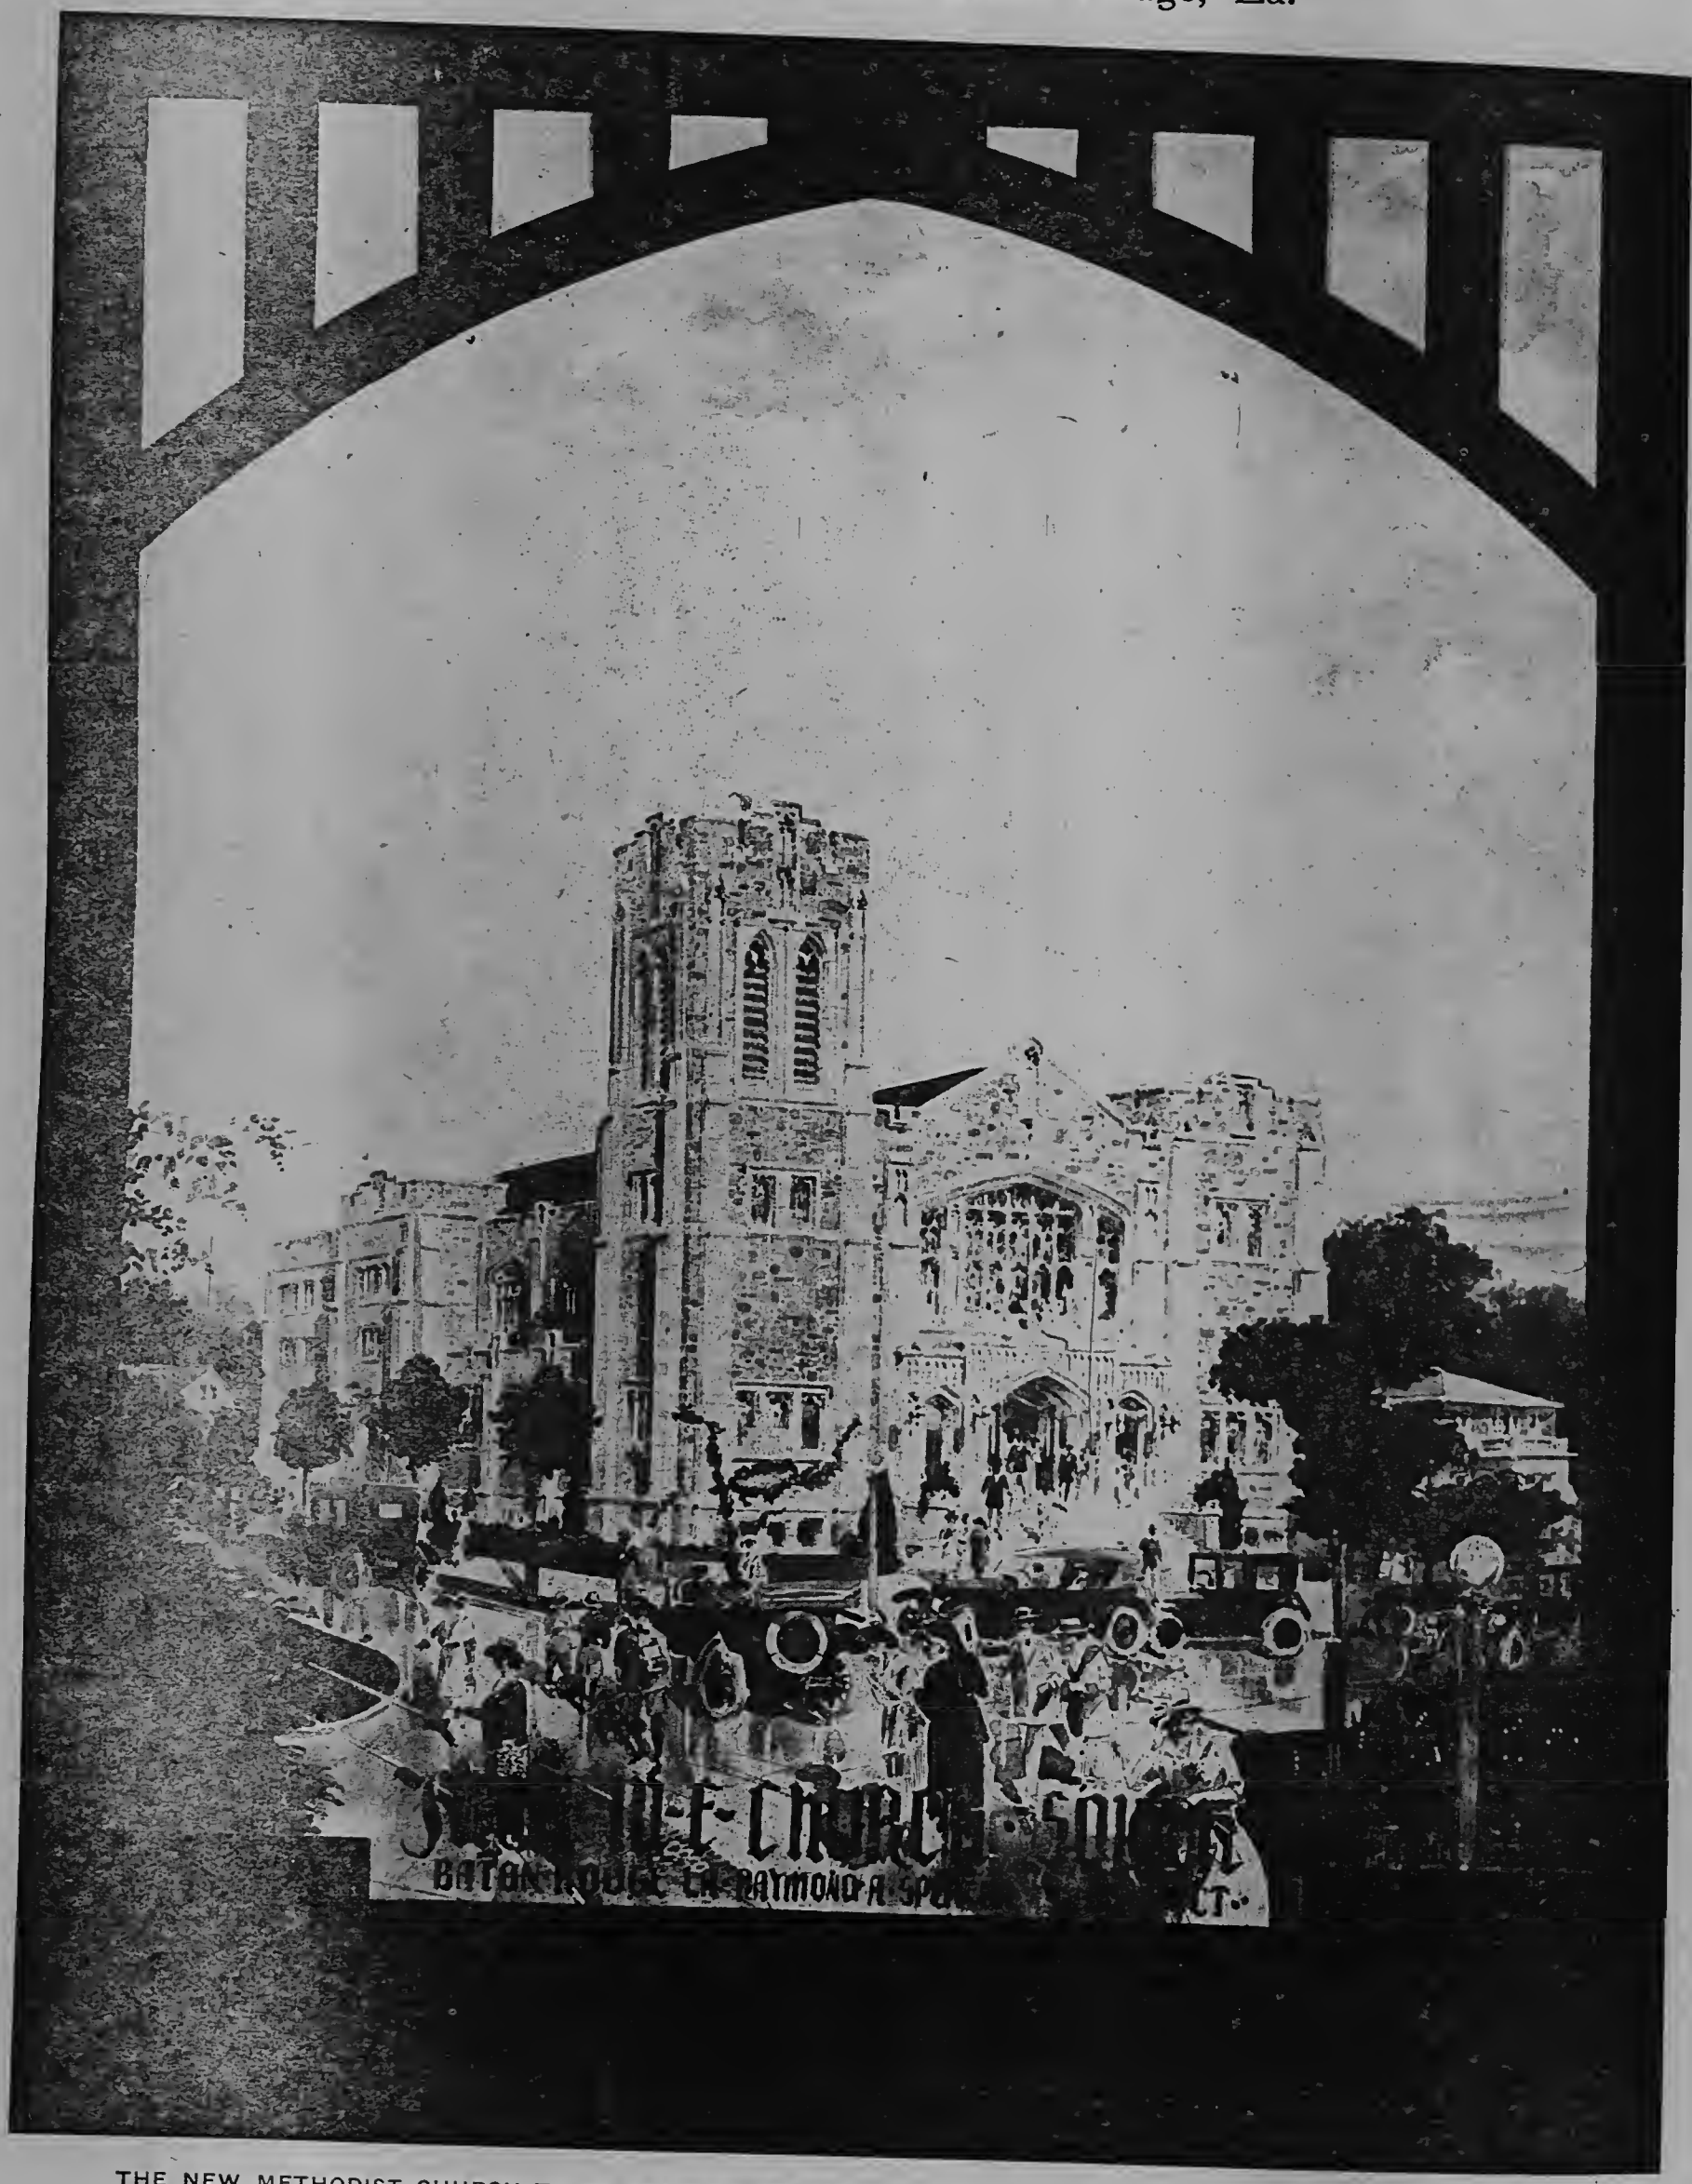
The local Methodists challenge our whole citizenship to make this the biggest, best and most desirable State in which to live anywhere in the whole Southland. It is their consuming desire to help build a spirit in the Capital City that will forever guarantee the peace, safety, prosperity, and happiness of all the people, all the time, everywhere.

A boy doesn't necessarily have to attend an agricultural college to learn how to sow wild oats. —Selected.

'Tis not the calm and peaceful breast
That sees or reads the problem true;
They only know on whom 't has prest
Too hard to hope to solve it too.

—Clough.

First Methodist Church, Baton Rouge, La.



THE NEW METHODIST CHURCH TO BE ERECTED AT BATON ROUGE, LA., AN ACCOUNT OF WHICH APPEARS ON ANOTHER PAGE. REV. CHAS. W. CRISLER, D.D., IS THE PASTOR.

REV. THOMAS CAMERON.

Rev. Thomas Cameron, born July 14, 1842, at Gordo, Alabama, died September, 1922, at his home in New Albany, Miss. At his bedside were his two children, Robert and Ida, who had attended him with such loving care during his latter years.

One of the noble company of the pioneers of the Cross in this country has gone to his Father's house. Uniting with the church in his youth, Brother Cameron became in his early years a class leader in his home church. Here his gifts and graces revealed the secret of the future minister of the Gospel of the Cross. The ideals of his native Southland were strong in him; and it is not surprising that he was among the first who rallied to the defense of the Confederacy in the years '61 to '65. While serving in Co. B, 40th, Alabama Regiment, he was several times wounded.

During the year 1864, while convalescing in a hospital, Brother Cameron answered the call of his Lord to the Christian ministry. He was ordained deacon in the Mobile Conference by Bishop Andrews in 1867. Later, transferring to the North Mississippi Conference, he was ordained elder by Bishop Paine, in 1873. He was happily married in 1872. Among the charges which he served in North Mississippi were: Winona Ct., Black Hawk (two terms); Batesville and Wesley (two terms); Starkville Station; Kosciusko Station; Iuka Station; Crawford Ct.; Como Station; Pickens Ct.; Okolona; Guntown and Baldwin; New Albany Ct. While in charge of the last-named circuit, Brother Cameron was superannuated in 1901, after thirty-five years' active ministry. His devoted wife and one daughter, Mrs. T. E. Marshall, preceded him to the heavenly home by several years.

The purity of his life, the loyalty of his service to the church in the trying years following the Civil War, the sacrifices he suffered without murmur for the cause of Christ, set forth the life and ministry of Brother Cameron as a portrait done in rare and beautiful colors, fadeless and immortal, even as the light which adorns his Glorified Lord whom he loved even unto death, and in whom he abides forever.

New Albany, Miss. MELLVILLE JOHNSON.

CENTENARY COLLEGE NEWS.

"Best opening in the long history of the institution," say a chorous of voices. Certainly the best within recent years. Our success is at once a joy and an embarrassment: a joy because Centenary is earning a deserved triumph, an embarrassment because we cannot build rooms and harracks fast enough to take care of the new students. We have 325 students in actual attendance—110 in the Academy and 215 in the College. This is marvelous. Rare indeed in the history of educational progress has any institution shown the growth that Centenary College has.

If the Methodists of Louisiana and the Christian people in general could only visualize what is actually taking place at Centenary, the future of Christian education in Louisiana would be secure! Not only in the great influx of students, but also in material improvements has the College astonished everybody. When one walks across the campus and sees for himself the additions and the evidences of thrift and prosperity, he catches the enthusiasm of a constructive and vigorous enterprise. The very atmosphere is pulsing with new life.

Added to the excellent faculty of last year are: In Math., Major Jno A. Hardin, who finished his M. A. work at the University of Chicago; in English, Prof. Wm. Chislett, M. A., Ph.D., of Leland Stanford; in Science, Prof. Paul M. Ginnings, M. S., Ph.D., of the University of Illinois; in Education, Prof. W. C. Gleason returns to Shreveport with his Master's degree fresh from Harvard.

If there had ever been any doubt concerning the academic standing and standards of Centenary, such doubts are now dispelled. This superior faculty with the strong student body now in attendance, together with the ample endowment and splendid building program now under way, all confirm the opinion of the Secretary of the General Education Board to the effect that Centenary College has a future of unchallenged superiority and is destined to become one of the powerful factors of the Southwest.

Dr. Sexton is giving himself, day and night, to every department of the work—the erecting of buildings, the administrative details, the enlargement of the Academy, and the Sexton School of Commerce, the construction of athletic accommodations, and last but not least, the organization of religious activities, such as Y. M. C. A.

Brethren, when you come to the State Fair, pay us a visit and see for yourselves. You will not be ashamed of your college.

R. E. SMITH, Dean.

CHRISTIAN EDUCATION PAY-UP WEEK, MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

To the Preachers and Members of the Methodist Church of the Mississippi Conference.

We are now approaching the second payment of our Educational Fund. You will no doubt be interested to know that the Mississippi Conference leads the Southern Methodist Church in collections. The first week in November is Pay-up Week, and notices are being sent to all subscribers. Some have not yet met the first payment. Will you not join us in making this a banner week for our schools and colleges?

We are planning liberal things for the Seashore Campground Training School—about $21,000 has been subscribed recently to build a dormitory.

I wish to thank one and all for the hearty cooperation of the work accomplished. Without the aid of the preachers any cause in our church will fail. Please announce in your pulpits the importance of this second payment. The collectors have all been notified of Pay-up Week. I am sure I will get the support of all. If any one has not paid his first subscription, send check for first and second to me at Jackson, Miss.

Cordially your brother,

J. M. MORSE.

CHRISTIAN EDUCATION LETTER.

Two years ago, we, as a church, started a campaign to create a Christian Education Conscience, to secure Five Thousand Ministerial and Missionary Volunteers and to establish thoroughly our Christian schools—the training camps of the church, the Gibraltars of the Christian faith and teaching. We are devoutly thankful for the success which has crowned your efforts in this great Movement.

We have come now to the CRUCIAL period of the COLLECTING Campaign. The next THREE MONTHS will mark the SUCCESS or the FAILURE of the Financial Campaign. SHALL WE FAIL? That can be answered by the INDIVIDUAL SUBSCRIBER, alone. YOU are the one to give answer. To FAIL would be TRAGEDY. To have the world to point its finger of ridicule at us as a great church that repudiates its pledges would be a humiliation hard to bear. To see our great educational system languish and suffer for lack of the promised help, chagrined in the disappointment of its faith, to see our schools trying to compete with the State endowed schools, without the support of the great church that created them, owns them and directs them, is a sad condition and evidences a douhtful moral state. Our church is on TRIAL of FAITHFULNESS TO HER PROMISE. WE MUST NOT FAIL. WE MUST PAY OUR VOW.

In the multitude of cross currents in the field of philosophy and theology, OUR CHURCH SCHOOLS stand as BULWARKS in the midst of this storm. They are safe and sound, grounded in the tenets of teaching and principles. We can depend on them. They are the BEST THE WORLD HAS. To pay our PLEDGES may mean sacrifice, but sacrifice is better than for a church to dishonor its vows, and fail to care for its children.

Our church has never yet failed the world in the hour of need. God has ENTRUSTED TO US TREMENDOUS RESPONSIBILITIES. I cannot believe we will fail Him and our great church at this time.

About FOUR THOUSAND [illegible] in the North Mississippi Conference are behind with their first year's pledge. We [illegible] you and praying that every [illegible] paid to date. Two payments are due NOVEMBER 1. More than Four Thousand Subscribers [illegible] one payment. Some have made two payments, and some have paid their entire pledge. We thank each of you. We plead for your [illegible] your schools. We are doing your work. May we not count on YOUR HELP NOW? WE MUST NOT FAIL!

Sincerely yours,

J. H. HOLDER,
Conference Secretary [illegible], Christian Education Movement.
New Albany, Miss.

EDUCATIONAL NOTES, LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.

It is a well known fact that Louisiana is at her flood tide in school growth and activities. Every school in the State seems to be filled to the limit; many of them are overcrowded. This applies to grammar, high schools, academies, normals, industrials, colleges and universities. The next five years will be the critical time for our development.

Our denominational colleges, Centenary and Mansfield, are to be congratulated upon the wonderful opportunity that is before them. They are well to the front in the development of the future leaders for our State. This is the day and time for our people to invest their money in the youth of the land who will give them better returns for their money than the Standard Oil Company, which declared a 100 per cent dividend.

When Mr. John D. Rockefeller gave the millions which have enabled the General Education Board to extend his liberality to the church colleges of America, he is said to have remarked: "The Christian college is the most permanent and productive of all the forms of investment."

These Christian colleges furnish two indispensable elements to the life of the State: knowledge and trained Christian leadership. These elements are fundamental in the oncoming of civilization and all of its processes. We could not get along without them.

The great banking convention recently held in New York, attended by eleven thousand five hundred delegates, discovered that the progress already made towards the restoration of prosperity all over the country has been distinctly greater than had been popularly imagined.

Our country is making a very creditable comeback after its period of depression which amounted to prostration. We find that the agriculturists are doing better, labor is better employed, building operations are booming, railway traffic is of record-breaking volume, merchants are doing a fairly active fall trade, banks all over the country have been strengthening their position and indebtedness has been greatly reduced by all classes—agricultural and commercial.

It gives us pleasure then, amid these prosperous times, to announce our second-payment pay-up-week, for Christian Education, to be from November 1 to 8. Every Methodist in the State of Louisiana will want to remember Centenary and Mansfield Colleges with a liberal paid-up pledge this year. Now is the time to give these magnificent Christian Institution an adequate support. To every person of means, large or small, these institutions offer the supreme opportunity to serve his day and generation in the largest and most fundamental way.

"And unto him who knoweth to do good and doeth it not—unto him it is sin."

ALBERT S. LUTZ,
Conference Secretary of Education.

EXPERT DUPLICATING OF CHURCH CIRCULARS AND POSTAL CARDS. PRICES REASONABLE. MISS D. PFEIFFER, 729 HIBERNIA BLDG. PHONE, MAIN 3966.

We Have Promised—Let Us Perform

More than a year ago we, the people of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, pledged, each as he was able, large sums to the cause of Christian Education. In the very midst of the worst financial depression our country ever knew we electrified the nation by our loyalty and fidelity in laying on the altar of this sacred cause vaster amounts than had ever before been given in a similar Movement.

We did not over-pledge ourselves. For we made our promises in a time when men were most conservative, when no wise man in America dared to "plunge." So that what we pledged then we are abundantly able to pay now in these better times.

We rallied to this cause because we knew the facts, and, knowing them, understood that it was a life and death struggle for the Church. We learned from history that Methodism must educate or cease to be Methodism. She must educate or die. It has always been so in the history of Churches. So it will ever be.

We saw that we faced a shortage of more than a thousand regular preachers—that many thousands of our pulpits were denied the privilege of the traveling ministry of Methodism—that all our mission fields at home and abroad were sadly undermanned. And all the experience of the Christian world convinced us with an indisputable certainty that our sole and only source of supply was the Christian college.

Then we saw that our own institutions were so scantily equipped and so sadly under-endowed that they could not begin to accommodate the boys and girls from our own homes who looked to them for training. Six thousand Methodist boys and girls—the best blood and brain of the land—were driven each year away from the schools of their own Church. This was more than one-fourth as many as could be received.

It was a reproach to us—a blot on the escutcheon of our Church. We clamored for preachers and missionaries and Christian leaders of every kind. Yet we drove our own young people from the only institutions which produce such leaders.

Furthermore, we realized that the whole educational system of America must be Christianized. Unhappy and unholy tendencies were manifest here and there. Many institutions of learning were not Christian at all—at least in the sense accepted by every Christian denomination on earth.

These were some of the facts which dawned upon us with startling force more than a year ago. We resolved that the situation should be corrected immediately and at all hazards. So we pledged great sums to make our colleges what they ought to be—to give to the world an education truly Christian—to save the youth of Methodism to the Church—to produce the Christian leaders and workers so imperatively needed.

As we promised, now let us perform. All of the conditions which urged us to make our pledges still remain to urge us to pay them. The situation cannot be met by vows and subscriptions alone, but only as our promises materialize in cash. Let us not break faith with God, the Church, and our own children. Let us not falter in carrying to triumphant consummation that which we have so gloriously started.

The installments on our pledges are due on November first. Let us not be slack in redeeming them. Let us pay the Christian Education pledge.

BOARD OF EDUCATION
Methodist Episcopal Church, South

1922 © E.F.C.

The Home Circle

LITTLE BIRDS.

What do the birdies dream of?
Flowers and leaves and waving wheat,
Brooks and buds and mosses sweet,
Nooks all hidden from the heat,
Little birdies dream of.

What do birdies sing of?
Morning dew-drops pearly fair,
Sunshine rippling down the air,
Heaven's rich beauty everywhere,
Little birdies sing of.

What are birdies proud of?
Soft-lined houses in the tree,
Baby birdies, one, two, three—
These, my dear, you still may see Little birds are proud of!

—Exchange.

THREE MEALS A DAY.

"Dear me!" groaned Nell. "Almost time to drop everything I'm interested in and get things ready for supper. It does seem as if life were just one awful succession of meals that have to be prepared, eaten and then cleared away—only to get ready for another! Yes, I know I'm talking just like the discontented pendulum, grandma, and that all I need to think about is the one meal that's coming next; but didn't you ever feel that way yourself?"

Grandma smiled serenely over her knitting. "I was a housekeeper for nearly fifty years, my dear."

"Against my two and a half," said Nell. "And, knowing you, I can imagine that in all the fifty years you didn't kick so much against the pricks of housekeeping as I have done in my two and a half years.

Grandma smiled again. "Not quite that, my dear, though I thank you for the compliment. When I was a girl I think we were taught to accept the duties of life a little more serenely than folks do now, and doing that made them easier to accomplish. But I had some feelings about those same three meals just the same. I don't believe there was ever a housekeeper who didn't. Even your friend Mrs. Gaylord, who does nothing but order those three meals, groans over them almost as much as you do.

"Grandma, you are such a comfort!" Nell stooped to kiss the withered cheek. "You're so understanding! I'm almost tempted to ask you why the Lord couldn't have arranged for us to manage on one meal a day, perhaps by stoking up ahead the way some animals do."

"I think you might ask me," grandma said and smiled. "In fact I'll even admit that long years before you were born I'd wondered about the matter myself. But I don't wonder now. Probably there are a great many answers; don't believe the Lord has just one reason for many of the things that He does any more than we have for the things we do."

"Why, grandma," exclaimed Nell, "what a funny thing to say! I'm sure I always do things for just one reason. Don't you?"

"My experience," replied grandma, "is that several things usually influence us when we make a decision—a circumstance that sometimes explains apparently contradictory statements that lead to misunderstandings. For example, if I should ask you why you are wearing that pink dress to-night, you might say that it is because you thought you might have company this evening. Perfectly true no doubt, but, if teasing Tom should ask you, you might say that it is because the weather has turned warm or because the laundry is going to-morrow, and you wanted to wear it once more. All three statements are true, and probably each influenced you a bit."

"I see!" exclaimed Nell. "And I'm awfully glad I asked, for it helps me a lot about a misunderstanding that I had with Madge Marcy. But I do want to know your reason for the three meals, or rather one of the Lord's reasons. What is it?"

"It's what I should call the Lord's reason for the housemother," replied grandma. "It came to me when my family were growing up and when the three-meal burden seemed heaviest. Your grandfather was a very busy man, and my children were of widely different ages. One day I suddenly realized that almost the only time we ever got together as a family, when nobody was too much occupied with something else to talk with the rest, was at mealtime. And I thanked the Lord right then and there that He hadn't made us so that we could go with one meal a day or quietly stoke up, as you call it. For those recurring three meals a day did more to keep us a united family than any other one thing. Eating is a homely necessity, deary, but those homely things may at bottom be the home-making things; and after all home is—"

"The dearest place in the world!" said Nell. "And as long as I live, grandma, I'll thank the Lord for letting me help to keep it what it is."—The Companion.

WHY DOGS AND CATS HATE EACH OTHER.

A Chinese Story That Chinese Mothers Tell to Chinese Children.

A Chinese cat and a Chinese dog lived with an old Chinese man and woman. The old man and woman were sad because robbers had stolen their magic wishing-ring. So the dog and the cat started after the robbers. When they came to a river, the dog took the cat on his back and swam across, because cats, you know, can't swim.

The ring lay hidden in a wooden chest, so the cat caught a mouse and the mouse gnawed a hole in the chest and the cat brought out the ring. Then the cat hopped on the dog's back and the dog swam across the river.

Then they started for home. But the cat climbed right over the roofs of houses and the dog had to go around, because dogs can't climb, you know. So the cat reached home first with the ring. And the old Chinese man and the old Chinese woman petted her and gave her cream to drink. But when the poor dog ran in, the man and woman scolded him crossly for not finding the ring. So the dog chased the cat up a tree. And ever since, dogs and cats have hated each other.—From the October Delineator.

THE SCIENTIFIC WONDERS OF THE GREAT PYRAMID.

As to the Great Pyramid of Gizeh, volumes have been written about it and volumes more could be written. There is not one inch in bulk or measurement in the whole fabric either that does not seem to point to a scientific purpose, although that purpose continues a despite.

This much is certain: whoever built the pyramid knew a lot more in many ways than do our modern scientists. Here are a few facts. It is the only building in the world that is oriented exactly to the four points of the compass. Its measurements, extended, give the weight of the world in tons and the mean distance between the earth and sun in miles. Its base is an exact fraction of the diameter of the earth from pole to pole—to be exact, the ten millionth part of the earth's semi-axis. It stands within a few feet of the exact center of the earth's habitable area, and in all likelihood is only those few feet out of place because the rock on which it stands is necessary to its foundations. Its descending passage points upward exactly toward the Pole Star. Its inside temperature is exactly the mean between the boiling and freezing points of water at that level. Its dimensions are said to solve the problem of the squaring of the circle; and, strangely enough, it appears to establish the scientific basis of the English gallon measure and the English inch, as against the so-called metric measure.

The great coffer, which was the only thing ever found in side the pyramid, has exactly the same dimensions as those of the Jewish Ark of the Covenant.—From Adventure Magazine for October.

FOLLOWED INSTRUCTIONS.

"Where have you been, Henry?"

"Down to the drug store."

"Didn't I tell you to beat that rug?"

"I didn't so understand you. You said to take that rug out and hang it on the line and beat it. I did." Selected.

KEEPING UP THE STANDARD.

Angry Father: "How dare you come home like this, in the middle of the term? And how dare you have the cheek to say you don't like your school? Don't you know that it has turned out some of the most brilliant men in the country."

Son: "Yes, dad. They turned me out."—Selected.

SPECIAL OFFER

ONE 42 PIECE $12.00 DINNER SET

BLUE BIRD, FLORAL OR WHITE AND GOLD DESIGNS

For $4.98 f. o. b. New Orleans

Cut out this Advertisement and send to WM. B. REILY & CO., New Orleans, La., with Six Coupons from Luzianne Coffee and $4.98, and the Beautiful Set will be Expressed to You at Once.

All three sets consist of: 6 dinner plates, 6 cups, 6 saucers, 6 pie plates, 6 fruit dessert dishes, 6 oat meal dishes, 1 large meat platter, 1 round vegetable bowl, 1 oval vegetable bowl, 1 cream pitcher, 1 sugar bowl, 1 sugar bowl cover.

New Orleans Christian Advocate

HENRY T. CARLEY, Editor.

CHAS. O. CHALMERS, Manager.

PUBLISHING COMMITTEE:

Louisiana Conference—Rev. J. F. Foster, Rev. S. J. Davies, Rev. C. C. Miller.

Mississippi Conference—Rev. J. T. Leggett, Rev. J. R. Jones, Rev W. H. Saunders.

North Mississippi Conference—Rev. J. H. Felts, Rev T. H. Lipscomb, Rev. J. W. Dorman.

DIRECTIONS.

All checks and money orders should be made payable to the New Orleans Christian Advocate.

Communications pertaining to subscriptions and other business matters should be addressed to the Manager, or to the New Orleans Christian Advocate.

The Printed Lab l on a paper shows the date to which a subscription is paid. It is as good as a written receipt. When renewal is made, if the date is not moved forward after three or four weeks, notify us, and we will make it right.

Communications intended for the Editor should be directed to him at 512 Camp Street. Correspondents will observe the following rules: 1. Write on only one side of the paper. 2. If you have a typewriter, by all means use it; otherwise use a good quality of black ink. 3. Leave a space of at least two inches at the top of the first page; leave a margin of at least one inch on the left-hand side of the page; do not crowd the words and the lines together. 4. Take special pains to write proper names correctly and legibly. 5. Use letter paper if you can get it—not note paper. No attention will be paid to rolled manuscripts.

CONFERENCE CALENDAR.

North Mississippi Conference, November 8, at Water Valley, Miss.; Rev. L. P. Wasson, pastor; Bishop William N. Ainsworth, presiding.

Louisiana Conference, November 22, at Shreveport, La.; Dr. H. L. Brooks, pastor; Bishop Warren A. Candler, presiding.

Mississippi Conference, November 30, at Crystal Springs, Miss.; Rev. W. B. Jones, pastor; Bishop William N. Ainsworth, presiding.

PERSONAL AND OTHER NOTES.

Rev. J. M. Morse, Secretary-Treasurer of the Christian Education Movement for the Mississippi Conference, writes that his work is getting along splendidly.

The International Convention of the Young Men's Christian Association will meet in Atlantic City on November 14 and remain in session for five days.

Rev. W. W. Perry is closing out a good year on the Rochelle-Standard charge, Louisiana Conference. He has received about seventy members into the church this year.

Bishop W. B. Murrah honored the Advocate office with a call on Wednesday of last week. He appeared to be in good health and spirits, and alive to all the interests of the church.

Rev. Walt Holcomb, general evangelist, who has been doing evangelistic work in Europe under direction of the Board of Missions, has returned to the United States. His work abroad was rich in results.

The "Work Day" collection for the Mississippi Orphanage taken at Columbia, Miss., last Sunday in the Sunday school, amounted to $206. Rev. L. L. Roberts, the pastor at Columbia, is doing a fine work.

Dr. W. D. Bradfield, pastor of Grace Church, Dallas, and former editor of the Texas Christian Advocate, has been elected to the chair of Christian Doctrine in the School of Theology, Southern Methodist University.

Dr. G. E. Cameron, recently transferred from the Kentucky to the St. Louis Conference, was appointed pastor of Cabanne Methodist Church, St. Louis. Dr. Cameron was formerly a member of the Louisiana Conference.

Col. John A. Randolph recently conducted a meeting at Blue Mountain, Miss. The Baptists cooperated in the meeting, and Col. Randolph spoke daily at the Blue Mountain College and at the Mississippi Heights Academy.

At the recent session of the St. Louis Conference, Rev. H. P. Crowe was appointed presiding elder of the Poplar Bluff District. Brother Crowe was a visitor to the North Mississippi Conference last year, where he has many friends.

Rev. R. H. Harper, pastor of the First Methodist Church, this city, and Rev. Jno. F. Foster, pastor of the Methodist church at Covington, La., were invited speakers at a Masonic celebration at Marksville, La., recently.

Rev. Fred H. Ray, pastor of our church at Alpharetta, Ga., has just brought from the press a booklet, "Duties of Local Church Officials," which would be a fine thing to put into the hands of every church official. It may be had of the author for ten cents a copy.

We learn from press dispatches that the executive committee of the Board of Trustees of the Seashore Camp Ground, at a meeting recently, appointed a lanscape gardener, who will beautify the grounds and select the sites for a $50,000 brick school building and a $50,000 dormitory.

Rev. Ellis Smith, pastor of the Carrollton Avenue Methodist Church, this city, is enjoying this week a visit from his daughter, Mrs. W. J. Bryan, of Timpson, Texas. Mrs. Bryan is accompanied by her charming little daughter, Myrtis.

The Broad Street Methodist Church, of Lake Charles, La., will celebrate its fiftieth anniversary on October 29. Rev. W. W. Holmes has been pastor of this church for the past four years. Mr. A. M. Mayo has been superintendent of the Sunday school for more than thirty years.

"The Greenville District" is the name of an interesting monthly bulletin issued by Rev. J. H. Felts, presiding elder of the Greenville District, North Mississippi Conference. The inspiring slogan of this wide-awake presiding elder is, "The district that sounds no retreat."

Our little friend, Florence Irma Jennings, author of the interesting "Story of a Dish" on the Home Circle page of last week's Advocate, is eleven years old instead of thirteen, as stated in that issue. A lapse of memory on the part of the editor is responsible for the error.

We regret to learn that Rev. R. M. Evans, our pastor at Verona, Miss., has been sick for more than a month with typhoid fever, and that he is still very ill. We are sure many earnest prayers will be made in behalf of this faithful servant of the church.

We regret to learn that Mrs. H. Armstrong, widow of the late Rev. H. Armstrong, of the Louisiana Conference, suffered severe injuries from a fall during the summer. We are glad to know, however, that she has fully recovered. Her friends were very kind to her during her affliction. She lives at Olla, La.

We call special attention to the advertisement in this issue of the Advocate of the Board of Managers of Tracts and Evangelical Literature, Dr. A. J. Lamar, chairman. This Board was established by the General Conference to secure and disseminate helpful literature among our people. It is doing a great and needed work.

Rev. Burke Culpepper, who is holding a meeting at Bogalusa, La., was unable to be present the first day or two on account of illness, but the meeting was begun on time. Rev. J. G. Snelling and Rev. L. W. Cain assisted the pastor, Rev. Elmer C. Gunn, pending the arrival of Brother Culpepper.

The Department of Justice has finally decided that beverage liquor on American ships on the high seas and on foreign ships within the three-mile limit is contrary to the Eighteenth Amendment. The veriest tyro in the law knew this from the beginning—but the Government sometimes moves slowly.

We know of no secular newspaper in our territory that gives more space to religious matters than does the Daily American-Press, of Lake Charles, La. It has recently given full accounts of the "Commencement" exercises and the services on "Old Folks' Day" at the Broad Street Methodist Church in that city.

The Methodists of Richmond, Ky., the home of the late Miss Belle Bennett, have organized the Belle H. Bennett Memorial Association and are proposing to erect a suitable memorial church at that place. An opportunity will be given every congregation in the connection to contribute to this good cause. Rev. W. O. Sadler, formerly of North Mississippi, is pastor at Richmond.

We take the following from "The Big Brother," Greenville, Miss.: "In about thirty days Brother Lewis will end his fifth year as our pastor, and never was a people more faithfully served than we have been. Not only has he served us faithfully, but he has served the entire community. He is looked on not only as our spiritual adviser, but the whole community looks to him for this service. He is a great man of God, and let us hope and pray that we may have the great privilege of serving under him for many more years."

We take the following from the Jackson Daily News of October 5: "Rev. John W. Ramsey, pastor of West End Methodist Church, Laurel, is preaching a series of sermons based on the Sermon on the Mount, which is proving of great interest and attracting much favorable comment.  It is reported that his congregations are growing from Sunday to Sunday. In fact, his church has made remarkable progress during the year, sixty-five having been added to the membership and $600 of a $1300 indebtedness having been liquidated. He is approaching the close of the year with the love of his people."

The Publishing Committee of the Advocate met in regular annual session in the office of the Advocate on Thursday of last week. The entire membership of the Committee was present, as follows: Louisiana Conference—Rev. Jno. F. Foster, Rev. S. J. Davies, Rev. C. C. Miller; Mississippi Conference—Rev. J. R. Jones, Rev. J. T. Leggett, Rev. W. H. Saunders; North Mississippi Conference—Rev. J. H. Felts, Rev. T. H. Lipscomb, Rev. J. W. Dorman. Careful consideration was given the affairs of the paper, and it was found that there has been an improvement in the situation as compared with a year ago, though the financial stress is still being felt. The secretary of the Committee, Rev. Thos. H. Lipscomb, will furnish a report of the meeting for the Advocate.

Rev. Lyman Carley, of Ellisville, Miss., father of the editor of the Advocate, spent last week in and around Columbia, Miss., his boyhood home. An incident of great sentimental interest to him was a visit to the spot where the church stood in which he was licensed to preach, on April 10, 1869—fifty-three years ago. The late Rev. H. P. Lewis was the presiding elder and the late Rev. E. W. Simmons was preacher in charge. He visited also the spot where this editor was born in 1878—on Friday, the 13th of December—and plucked some leaves from a magnolia tree which he planted that year. The editor has very little recollection of the place, but those leaves, which his father sent him, seem to recall happy memories of a day long gone. While at Columbia he had the privilege of baptizing two children of one niece and one of another. He also performed the marriage ceremony of still another niece, by which Miss Mamie Ethel Davis became the wife of Mr. H. C. Mayerhoff.

THANKS TO OUR FRIENDS.

We desire to express our thanks to the following friends who have sent us two or more subscriptions recently: Rev. T. H. Lipscomb, Columbus, Miss., 2; Rev. W. M. Williams, Purvis, Miss., 3; Rev. W. C. Mattox, Bellefontaine, Miss., 2; Mrs. J. H. Settoon, Flora, Miss., 2; Rev. J. W. Dorman, Louisville, Miss., 27.

WORDS—PERSONAL AND ELSE.

By Arthur Madison Shaw.

I trust I may not be accused of "working" the paper for a bit of free advertising, if I state to my interested friends that the publishers inform me my book, "Shorten the Line" will be ready October 20. It can be had of Lamar & Barton, Nashville, Tenn. But I shall greatly appreciate orders that are sent to me, at Oakdale. The price is one dollar. I had great pleasure and happiness in writing this book, and feel that the Publishing House has honored me greatly in accepting it for publication at a time when conditions in the publishing business warrant the publishing of only such books as are likely to meet a pressing demand. The thoughts therein have helped me, and will, I believe, help others.

We are closing a three weeks' revival meeting. The visible results have been below our expectations; but the church has been greatly helped, and we feel that the work is in better condition than it has ever been. Besides endeavoring to develop a more vigorous spiritual life, and instruct our people in things vital to Methodism, we have placed more than forty New Orleans Advocates in the homes of our people this year, and some six or eight subscriptions to the Nashville Christian Advocate have been secured. We are also circulating a considerable amount of tract and pamphlet literature, which is having a wholesome effect.

I wish to commend to all our people the pamphlets by Rev. C. T. Thrift, of Clayton, N. C. "Why John the Baptist Sprinkled the Multitudes at the River Jordan" is one of the clearest, strongest and most unanswerable arguments that I have seen. The three pamphlets in one, with the title, "A Modern Scholar, Modern Scholarship, etc," ought to be in the hands of every Methodist. Don't overlook it because it costs a little more than the other (nor because it has too much title!). It is an eye-opener, worth many times its cost.

"What is the matter with the church—and everything?" It seems quite generally agreed that there is something the matter. My good friend, Brother H. T. Young, seems to think it is that we are not turning enough people out of the church; and that the pastor with the shepherd heart, who takes people in instead of turning them out, is a 'pussy-footer! (Wonder how many he turns out per annum!) Dr. Steel and others think it is destructive criticism, and folks not a-livin' like they used to! Some think it's woman's dress, and others think it's socialism. Well, as Elihu said, "I also will show mine opinion." I think that the biggest thing the matter with the church and the world is that too many are looking around to see what is the matter with other people. A man once entered the woods with a gun, and, finding no other game, at last saw an immense 'coon on the limb of a tree, and shot at it. The shot failed to take effect, so he fired again and again, until all his ammunition was gone. The 'coon would move about, but never seemed hurt, or even scared. When the last charge of shot was gone, the man started home in disgust—and lo, wherever he looked, he saw the 'coon! He knitted his brow, and stroked his forehead with his hand. Just then he made a discovery. He had seen no 'coon at all! The "varmint" that had produced the illusion was only a small insect on his eyebrow!

Oakdale, La.

He that is faithful in that which is least is faithful also in much.—Luke 16:10.

THE WESTERN METHODIST ASSEMBLY.

On October 5 the Executive Committee of the Assembly met at Fayetteville, Ark., and approved the plans of Hare & Hare, landscape architects of Kansas City, and instructed the engineer to lay off the lots, grade the drives, and order materials for sewer and water mains and water tower and proceed immediately with certain improvements.

It was decided to offer the lots for sale on December 8. Prices were fixed and range from $250 to $2,000. All are highly desirable lots, but they differ in size and location. All will have access to sewer, water, and electricity. As there are only 150 lots, all should be taken December 8. If all lots are sold, the proceeds will approximate $100,000, and will make possible very satisfactory development. The terms will be one-fourth cash, with a discount of ten per cent for all cash. It is expected that special railroad rates will be secured. A plot of the grounds and descriptive literature will soon be ready. Further publicity will be given through the church press. Meanwhile the pastors are requested to mention the lot sale December 8 to their members who are likely to be interested.

For information address the president of the Board, Rev. A. C. Millar, 221 E. Capitol Ave., Little Rock, Ark.

"THE MORAL REVOLT OF THE YOUNGER GENERATION."

By Rev. Carroll Varner.

The above is the somewbat startling theme of an address delivered some time back by Dr. Bernard I. Bell, President of St. Stephen's College, before a church congress held in Baltimore. It seems that Dr. Bell bad been making a study of university students with reference to their morals and religion, and he is forced to the distressing conclusion that they are revolting against the conventional religious and moral standards. Says he, "they have been educated to regard themselves merely as animals," and that they want to know why they should be expected to remain chaste and honest and truthful and self-sacrificing!

Dr. Frederick Lynch, editor of "The Christina Work," in commenting upon Dr. Bell's address, says the same condition prevails in England, and that a London clergyman said to him, "this younger set of cocktail-drinking, tango-dancing, party-going boys and girls are not questioning the doctrines of the church; they are questioning the reasonableness and validity of its morals and ethics." In other words, as Dr. Lynch puts it, it is not the Apostles' Creed that they question; it is the Ten Commandments and others. To say that this is an alarming state of affairs is not putting it strong enough. Yet it is not to be wondered at when we are told that a large percentage of the professors in these universities have ridiculed the Bible and denied the divinity of Christ! There is no adequate religious background in such schools against which a high moral standard can be outlined.

But we are thankful that Dr. Bell does not leave us without a remedy for this diseased condition: It is the small denominational college. He insists that the church should take an even more active hand in the higher education of our young people; that it is not only well that the church should do this, but absolutely essential if we are to save them from moral bankruptcy. Well, I think there is no doubt about our believing in the church school, but I do wonder if we set the value upon it that we should. Surely the disclosures that are being made to us from different sources regarding the religious condition—or lack of it—in the State controlled schools and universities ought to force home upon us the essential need of Christian education. In this connection, then, there are two things we preachers ought to do: insist, first, that every teacher in our church schools shall be an active Christian; and, second, urge our people to send their sons and daughters to these schools for the academic training at least. To be sure, we are supposed to have been doing this all along, but I dare say we have taken much for granted and gone on, and whatever interest has been shown has been of the half-hearted sort. But perilous conditions are upon us now; conditions such as demand that we shall "stand up, speak out, and boldly in God's name!" Let us insist that our church schools be Christian not only in name, but also in fact; employ no teacher that is not an out-and-out Christian, none who gives forth an uncertain sound in either the class room or on the campus. Then, let us advise the boys and girls in our charges who are going away to college to go first to our church schools, and be diligent to show the parents the danger they run if they let them go elsewhere for those first years of college life. We can no longer be indifferent to this matter; if we preachers do not lead the way, who will?

West Point, Miss.

NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

Fourth Year.

The Committee and Class of the Fourth Year will meet for examination at the Methodist church at Water Valley, Miss., 10 a.m., November 7.

The presence of all the class is necessary, whether or not the whole course has been passed upon by the Correspondence School. If a part or none or all the course has been finished, the Committee desires the presence of all the class, as none will be passed without personal examination.

N. G. AUGUSTUS, Chairman.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE BOARD OF CHURCH EXTENSION.

In accordance with Bishop Ainsworth's request, the Board of Church Extension of the Mississippi Annual Conference is called to meet in the Methodist church at Crystal Springs, Wednesday, November 29, at 10 a.m. All members of the Board are urged to be present at that first meeting.

All applications for aid from this Board should be sent to the Secretary, Rev. L. E. Alford, Meridian, Miss., not later than November 25.

W. M. WILLIAMS, Chairman.
L. E. ALFORD, Secretary.

O Thou of purer eyes than to behold
Uncleanliness! lift my soul, removing all
Strange thoughts, imaginings fantastical,
Iniquitous allurements manifold!
Make it a spiritual ark, abode
Severely sacred, perfumed, sanctified,
Wherein the Prince of Purities may abide,
The holy and eternal spirit of God!

—David Gray.

CHRISTMAS
Cards Gifts
Folders Decorations
Order Early
Write for Catalog
DAMERON-PIERSON CO., LIMITED
Social Engravers
New Orleans

SECOND PAYMENT PAY-UP-WEEK, NOVEMBER 1st to 8th, CHRISTIAN EDUCATION MOVEMENT, LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.

PAY YOUR LOCAL CHURCH COLLECTOR, OR SEND DIRECT TO CONFERENCE SECRETARY OF EDUCATION.

ALBERT S. LUTZ,
1063 Sheridan Ave.,
Shreveport, La.

Obituaries

Obituaries not over 200 words in length will be published free of charge. All over that amount will be paid for at the rate of 1 cent a word. Count the words and send the amount necessary with the notice. That will save trouble and delay. We cannot make discriminations. Memorial resolutions are subject to the same rule as obituaries.

VIAT JEAN was born, January 3, 1911, and was killed by the L. C. passenger train, May 30, 1922, in Baker, La. Services were held at 2 p.m. at the Baker church and interment was at Roselawn Cemetery, Baton Rouge, at 3 p.m., by the side of his brother James, who passed away not three years ago. He was known among his playmates as Little Ray. He had an unusual disposition—so gentle, sweet and true. He was the life and almost idol of his home. He would not retire at night until he had found his mother, and said his "Now I lay me down to sleep." He was a member of the Baker Sunday school. Little Ray has gone where congregations never break up and Sabbaths have no end. He leaves father, mother, two sisters, and a host of friends and relatives to mourn their loss.

J. L. CADY.

RESOLUTIONS.

Whereas the hand of death has entered our midst, and removed our much esteemed and greatly loved friend, MRS. JANE HOWELL, therefore be it resolved:

That we, the members of the Woman's Missionary Society at Learned, Miss., do hereby extend to her bereaved daughter and family our deepest sympathy and love in this hour of sorrow.

That while we bow to the will of our Heavenly Father, at all times acknowledging His supreme power and wisdom, our friend will be greatly missed from among us.

That we pray that this sorrow may sweeten and fill with resignation to God's will the hearts of those left behind, and that her patient Christian life be the biggest monument erected to her memory.

That a copy of these resolutions be sent to her daughter, Mrs. J. M. ——line, to the Christian Advocate for publication, and a copy be entered on the minutes of our society.

Signed by: Mrs. J. F. Bush, Mrs. R. A. Ferguson.

Nashville Advocate please copy.

Perhaps no church ever sustained a greater loss at one time than the Methodist church at Itta Bena, Miss., in the death of MR. J. L. HALEY and his niece, MRS. LILLY HALEY SORRELL, whose deaths occurred within a few hours of each other, and whose funerals were held the same day. Mr. Haley died at St. Joseph's Infirmary, Hot Springs, Ark., where he had gone to regain his health, which had been on a general decline for more than a year. This was his second trip there. Mrs. Sorrell's death was sudden and unexpected. She was at the home of Mr. Haley with the sorrowing relatives Monday morning when she became suddenly ill and died at her home that evening at 8:45.

Jesse Lee Haley, son of Charles Washington and Rebecca Cook Haley, was born in Maury County, Tennessee, December 12, 1857. At the age of eighteen he came to Leflore County, Miss., where he spent the remainder of his life. Mr. Haley was a remarkable man, a ten-talented man, and he used his talents in a most unselfish manner. Without financial aid or early educational advantage, by dint of perseverance, energy and natural ability, he became one of the largest land owners in the Mississippi Delta. For years he was a leader in every forward movement in his town and county. He served four years as sheriff and tax collector for Leflore County; was supervisor for fifteen years, the last nine of which he was president and vice president. He was a member of the Upper Yazoo Levee Board. Mr. Haley was known as the friend of the poor man and the man in trouble, and no petition for aid from such was ever denied. His reputation along this line was the greatest of any man I have ever known. If, as it is said, the unselfish man is the great man, Mr. Haley was truly a great man. He was a trustee of the Methodist Church at the time of his death and for years had been an official member of it. He was devoted to his church and gave to it his most liberal support. Mr. Haley was married, January 27, 1878, to Mrs. Mattie Elizabeth Parker, who was, prior to her first marriage, a Miss Blount. Their children are Mrs. J. H. Holloman, Mrs. J. C. Reese, and Jesse Lee Haley, Jr., besides Mrs. Roxie Cooper, child of Mrs. Haley by her former marriage. All of these are residents of Itta Bena, Miss.

Mrs. Lilly Haley Sorrell, daughter of C. A. and Lou Haley, was born in Leflore County, Miss., April 8, 1876. She grew up in a Christian home and under Christian influence. She attended the Methodist Sunday school from infancy and joined that church early in life and remained a faithful and devoted member to the time of her death. Hers was an active, useful life spent in unselfish service. She was chairman of the Social Service Committee of her church and Missionary Society, and along this line did her greatest work. Her attention to the poor and the sick was unusual. She was known as "The lady who sends flowers to the sick." As a result of her efforts, her church at all seasons and at every service was decorated with beautiful flowers. She was married to Mr. J. H. Sorrell, January 3, 1906. Their children are Arthur, John, Charles, and Joe Camp, besides Mrs. C. M. Durham, daughter of Mr. Sorrell by a former marriage. These, with her mother, Mrs. Lou Haley, and her sisters, Mrs. J. W. Bradford and Mrs. B. B. Harper, are the surviving relatives. The church and entire community are saddened by their loss in the death of these two noble ones. We are thankful for their lives and influence and bow in submission to the will of our Heavenly Father and pray His blessings upon the sorrowing loved ones.

Their pastor, J. T. LOCKHART.
Itta Bena, Miss.

A CHURCH CONFERENCE THAT COUNTS!

We have church conferences that count for very little—a mere formal hurried-through service which is more or less irksome to the average church member, and a feeling of relief is apparent when its over. I know what I'm talking about, for I have had some of this kind, but found out some time ago that they amounted to very little. So, in recent years I have tried to have church conferences that counted for something sure enough. I had one such kind while I was at Gloster. We have had one or two at Pearl River Avenue, McComb. I announced it as a "Church Council" and for all to come. We had a religious program, fine choir practice, business session or financial reports with discussion of same, and a social feature with refreshments. The Sunday school superintendent made an interesting talk on "The Essentials of Approach" in a Sunday school teacher leading the pupil to Christ. A Sunday school teacher made a fine talk on "The Most Interesting Incident of My Summer's Vacation." The chairman of our financial committee made a ringing talk on "The Future Outlook of Our Church." The stringent financial situation that has obtained most all the year (the most critical McComb has had since 1911) and the heavy financial obligation the church has in paying for the nice, new, up-to-now parsonage—all this occasions a deficit, financially, for the church to meet before Conference. This fine man said "it shall all be paid!" We put on a tithing campaign in May and I spoke of the decided increase financially since it was initiated, and this man, with others, then took the floor, telling of the Lord's blessings upon them and their homes since they began to tithe. The "windows of heaven" were opened and several were blessed greatly in their souls. I'm expecting nothing else but full, reports at Conference. This meeting was Tuesday night, and sixty-five—the "bone and sinew" of the church—were there. We disbanded with a fine feeling and the very atmosphere was surcharged with the aroma from the skies!

Up to the present we've had thirty-nine accessions in all, five coming by letter recently. We have also lost one of our most faithful and tireless officials in the person of Brother T. E. McDowell, but two men already have voluntarily offered to help to fill the gap he left open. We bow in submission to the Lord's will as He buries His workman, but we know He'll carry His work on!

We are now on the "home run" before Conference and we certainly are enjoying it. 'Amen!'

With bright prospects.

J. A. WELLS.

CHAMBERLAIN'S COUGH REMEDY
FOR THE RELIEF OF
Coughs, Colds, Croup
WHOOPING COUGH, HOARSENESS
BRONCHITIS
-SOLD EVERYWHERE-

WHEN IT COMES BE PREPARED

Insurance the only safeguard possible against such destruction.
THE NATIONAL MUTUAL CHURCH INSURANCE COMPANY
—The Methodist Mutual—SAVES AND SAVES Methodism and is now rendering a greater service than ever. Its successful operation since 1898
Insures against Fire, Lightning and Windstorm AT COST. No assessments, easy annual payments, legal reserve for protection of policy holders same as stock companies. No agents. Deal direct. Write for particulars to
HENRY P. MAGILL, Sec'y. & Mgr.
1509 Insurance Exchange, Chicago, Ill.
Mrs. Alice Hargrove Barclay, Agent, M. E. Church, South, 314 Norton Building, Louisville, Ky.

QUALITY GOODS
AT LOW PRICES
D. H. Holmes Co.,
LIMITED.

TETTERINE
ENDS COMPLEXION WORRIES.
Healing, Antiseptic, Soothing, Fragrant.
60c at your Druggist's, or from The SHUPTRINE CO., SAVANNAH, GA.

Public Service
HAS BECOME THE ACTIVE PRACTICAL IDEAL OF THE STREET RAILWAY COMPANY WITH ITS REORGANIZATION AS NEW ORLEANS PUBLIC SERVICE, INC. WE SOLICIT HELPFUL SUGGESTIONS AND WISH TO KEEP SERVICE ALWAYS
On the Job

DR. H. B. BARTLETT
National Dental Parlors
Canal and Bourbon Sts.
Over Worner's Drug Store
Entrance on Bourbon Street
Phone Main 2193.
NEW ORLEANS
Crown and Bridge Specialist
Vitalized Air for Painless Extraction
Most Modern and Best Equipped Dental Parlors South.

Epworth League Department

Editor, North Mississippi Conference.....Rev. R. P. Neblett, Durant, Miss.
Editor, Mississippi Conference,
J. H. Weems, 308 Second Avenue, Hattiesburg, Miss.
Editor, Louisiana Conference,
Miss Consuelo Martinez, 314 Broadway, New Orleans, La.

Material for this Department from the several Conferences should be sent to the editors named above. Copy must be in the Advocate office by Thursday preceding the week of publication.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

Mr. B. F. Harrell, Secretary of the Hattiesburg District, writes us as follows:

"Sunday, September 24, Mr. Truman Lewis, Miss Cora May Crossley, Mrs. Harrell, and myself motored to Richton, Miss., to organize a Senior Epworth League Chapter. We were hospitably entertained in the home of Rev. A. W. O'Bryant; and at 7:30 p.m., Brother O'Bryant began our meeting with a song service, followed by prayer, and the meeting was turned over to the district secretary, who introduced Miss Crossley, the first speaker, who gave a very fine explanation of the purposes, motto, symbols, etc., of the Epworth League. Mr. Truman Lewis was the next speaker, who outlined the work of the Epworth League. After a few remarks by the district secretary in regard to the administration phase of the local chapter work, Mr. A. R. Bounds was chosen as Chairman and Miss Ruby Cantrell was chosen Secretary.

The following officers were elected: Mr. Virgil McBride, President; Mr. O. C. Oaks, Vice President; Miss Ruby Cantrell, Secretary; Mr. W. R. Smith, Treasurer.

Much interest was shown by the large congregation present. I am sure that, with the assistance of such an enthusiastic pastor as Brother O'Bryant, this will develop into one of the best Chapters in the Conference.

We had the pleasure of meeting on this trip several officers and members of the Ovett Chapter, who came down to take pointers on the work. This was my first intimation that there was a Chapter at Ovett, and I was agreeably surprised. I am taking steps to have this Chapter chartered and the departments organized in accordance with the requirements. I will visit the Ovett League at an early date."

Mr. Hawkins has found another Chapter in the Meridian District. There is no telling what he and Ralph will find in that district before next June. We always thought "Porto Rico" was somewhere in South America, but not on your life. At least not all of them, for there is one right on the Pachuta charge in the Meridian District and they have an Epworth League Chapter whose membership is equal to the membership of the church. Can any one else beat it? And that is not all—Brother Beasley says if Mr. Hawkins will just send him some literature, he will organize an Intermediate League. We hope Brother Beasley will let us hear more from this Chapter. Pachuta charge is mighty close to our old home and we will find out something about these folks.

Some time ago Miss Brown, of the Central Office, made the rounds of our Conference with the President, visiting each district, taking part in each District Institute, after which she was asked the question, What is the greatest need of our Conference? She promptly replied, "It is a better knowledge of the Handbook." If this is really true, and we have no doubt that it is, why not begin to eliminate this fault? We often meet Epworth Leaguers who do not know that there is such a thing as an Epworth League Handbook. And often we find League officers who have never read one. Now really is there any excuse for such a condition to exist? Not so long as we can buy Handbooks for the sum of twenty-five cents each. You positively can not operate a successful Chapter without a knowledge of the Handbook. And the more you know about it, the better. Suppose you start a study class in the Handbook, first in your Council. Get a book for each officer and see that each officer makes a thorough study of it. Then start a class with the balance of the League. You are going to have a study class of some kind. If your Chapter is a good one; why not have at least one class in the Handbook. Let's get after this, folks, and the next time we have a visitor from the Central Office let's show them we know some things about our Epworth League.

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.

Lake Charles District.

The Lake Charles District Institute, held September 18, 19 and 20, was very successful and well attended by local Leaguers and delegates from Indian Bayou, Bell City, and DeRidder. Mr. Grambling and Miss Wilkins were the Shreveport instructors. Supper was served in the League Rooms each night. The Lake Charles Leagues also went over the top in the Loyalty Legion.

New Orleans District.

On October 10, the New Orleans City Union held their monthly meeting at Second Church. A very interesting talk on our three Covenants was given by Mr. Black, of McDonoghville League. It was reported that all the Leagues in New Orleans went over the top in the Loyalty Legion and it is hoped that when the final reports come in the whole district can be reported as having reached the 100 per

(Continued on Page 15)

QUARTERLY CONFERENCES.

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.

Shreveport Dist.—Fourth Round.

Texas Avenue, Fri., Oct. 20, p.m.
Castor, Sun., Oct. 22, a.m.
Bienville, Oct. 22, p.m., Oct. 23, a.m.
Sibley, at Mims, Tues. Oct. 24
Haughton, Wed., Oct. 25.
Mangum Memorial (conference), Fri., Oct. 24, p.m.
Gibsland, Sun., Oct. 29, a.m.
Plain Dealing, at Walker's Chapel, Thurs., Nov. 2.
Wesley, at Carroll Creek, Sun., Nov. 5, a.m.
Ringgold, Mon., Nov. 6.
Grand Cane, Wed., Nov. 8 (conference).
Mansfield, Wed., Nov. 8, p.m. (conference).
Minden, Fri., Nov. 10, p.m.
First Church, Shreveport, Sun., Nov. 12, a.m. (preaching).
Mooringsport, Sun., Nov. 12, p.m.
Noel Memorial, Mon., Nov. 13, p.m. (conference).
Cedar Grove, Wed., Nov. 15, p.m.
First Church, Shreveport (conference), Fri., Nov. 17, p.m.

R. H. WYNN, P. E.

Baton Rouge Dist.—Fourth Round.

Gonzales, New River, Oct. 22, a.m.
St. Francisville, Oct. 29, a.m.
Olive Branch, Gilead, Nov. 5, a.m.
Clinton, Clinton, Nov. 5, p.m.
Franklinton ct., Fisher, Nov. 12, a.m.
Franklinton, Nov. 12, p.m.
Baton Rouge, First Ch., Nov. 14, p.m.
Hammond, Nov. 15, p.m.
Dunham Springs, Dunham Springs, Nov. 19, a.m. J. W. LEE, P. E.

Alexandria Dist.—Fourth Round.

Glenmora, Oct. 19, p.m.
Jena and Jonesville ct., at Jonesville, Oct. 22.
Winnfield, Oct. 25, p.m.
Trout and Good Pine, at Good Pine, Oct. 26, p.m.
Provencal ct., at Provencal, Oct. 29.
Bunkie, Nov. 2, p.m.
Alexandria, preaching, Nov. 5, a.m.; conference, Nov. 6, p.m.
Marksville ct., at Marksville, Nov. 5, p.m.
Pleasant Hill ct., at Pleasant Hill, Nov. 12.
Natchitoches, Nov. 16, p.m.
Rochelle and Standard, at Rochelle, Nov. 19.

Preachers in charge will please see that the trustees have reports in hand concerning church property. Pastors will also nominate only the number of stewards allowed by the law of the church. Brethren, arrange your nominations accordingly. The law will be enforced. W. L. DOSS, Jr., P. E.

Lake Charles Dist.—Fourth Round.

Lafayette, Oct. 22, a.m.
Opelousas, Oct. 22, p.m.
Morgan City, Oct. 29, a.m.
Jeanerette, Oct. 29, p.m.
Many, Nov. 5, a.m.
Sulphur, Nov. 12, a.m.
Lake Arthur, Nov. 12, p.m.
Merryville, Nov. 19, a.m.
Ludington, Nov. 19, p.m.

J. B. WILLIAMS, P. E.

Monroe-Ruston Dist.—Fourth Round.

West Monroe, Oct. 20, 8 p.m.
Simmesboro, at Salem, Oct. 22, preaching, 11 a.m.
Tallulah, Oct. 24, 8 p.m.
Rayville, at Rayville, Oct. 25, 3 p.m.
Midway and Epps, at Epps, Oct. 26, 3 p.m.
Chatham, at Frantam's Chapel, Nov. 1, 11 a.m.
Eros, at Eros, Nov. 3, preaching, 11 a.m.
Waterproof, at St. Joseph, Nov. 5, 3 p.m.
Sicily Island, at Sicily Island, Nov. 12, preaching, 11 a.m.
Lake Providence, Nov. 15, 8 p.m.
Monroe, Nov. 17, 8 p.m.
Bernice, at Bernice, Nov. 19, preaching, 11 a.m.
Ruston, Nov. 20, 8 p.m.

The Licensing Committee will meet at Monroe Sept. 19, 10 a.m.

K. W. DODSON, P. E.

MOTHER!

Clean Child's Bowels with "California Fig Syrup"

Even a sick child loves the "fruity" taste of "California Fig Syrup." If the little tongue is coated, or if your child is listless, cross, feverish, full of cold, or has colic, a teaspoonful will never fail to open the bowels. In a few hours you can see for yourself how thoroughly it works all the constipation poison, sour bile and waste from the tender, little bowels and gives you a well, playful child again.

Millions of mothers keep "California Fig Syrup" handy. They know a teaspoonful today saves a sick child tomorrow. Ask your druggist for genuine "California Fig Syrup" which has directions for babies and children of all ages printed on bottle. Mother! You must say "California" or you may get an imitation fig syrup.—Adv.

CHAMBERLAIN'S TABLETS
-SOLD EVERYWHERE FOR-
CONSTIPATION
BILIOUSNESS
Headache
INDIGESTION
Stomach Trouble

DEEP-SEATED
FRECKLES
Need attention NOW or may remain all winter. Use the old and time-tried guaranteed treatment that has given satisfaction to millions of women for over 14 years, and rid yourself of these homely spots. Ask for
Othine--Double Strength
At all Druggists and Department Stores.

WOMEN OF MIDDLE AGE

Here Is Good Advice For You!

Lexington, Ky.—"I have used Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and the Golden Medical Discovery in my family for years, and I cannot recommend them too highly. During the period of middle life the Prescription and the Discovery were a wonderful help to me. No woman should try to do without them at that time."—Mrs. Nannie Kelley, 731 Jackson St.

Your health is most important to you. It's easily improved. If you suffer from heat flashes, dizziness, or any of the symptoms common to women at the critical period in life, just ask your nearest druggist for this Prescription of Dr. Pierce's, in tablet or liquid form. Send 10 cents to Dr. Pierce's Invalids Hotel, Buffalo, N.Y., if you wish a trial pkg. and write for free, confidential medical advice.

Sunday School

NOTES FROM NORTH MISSISSIPPI

By Rev. R. H. B. Gladney, Sardis, Miss.

Should any of our superintendents desiro a copy of the new Sunday school law, a program of work for the Sunday school or of any of the departments of the school, write me and I will furnish them cheerfully. Only the best superintendents feel the need of help.

One of the best and most practical periodicals published hy the Sunday School Department is the Superintendent and His Helpers. Not only the superintendent needs it, but every teacher in the school should be supplied with a copy. It is only 25 cents a year. Another periodical that deserves a wide circulation is the Home Quarterly, a magazine of 96 pages, printed in large type for the benefit of older people. It is the hest of helps in establishing and maintaining family worship. The last issue is worth the price of a year's suhscription. Send for a copy and see for yourself.

The American Bible Society will furnish free of cost a dramatic program for use on Bible Sunday, Novemher 26. This program will help get the people to study this good book. Write to the American Bible Society, Bible House, Astor Place, New York, telling them how many in your school, and you will receive a most attractive and informing program.

In closing out the work of the year you will not forget the Sunday School Board, the board that has used all its resources in helping where help counts for most. The small amount of money entrusted to this board has yielded large dividends to every department of church work. The plain question is this, Can the church do too much for its children? What the church in North Mississippi is doing for the children of to-day is not sufficient to guarantee the safety of the kingdom of God for the future. Forget everything else before you forget our own children.

THE CHURCH—WHICH?

Dear Brother Carley: An article in the Advocate of September 21, "But It Is So," is at variance with an editorial in the Advocate of August 24. It is not my intention to excite a controversy, hut to express my honest opinion of the church at the present time. I do not helieve that the church is less spiritual now than formerly, neither do I helieve that the world is more sinful now than ever before, as some contend.

On the contrary, I believe there are more truly good people in the world to-day than ever before. I believe the church comes nearest patterning after the Man of Galilee to-day than ever before since the days of the Apostles. I helieve there are Christians who love the church and, if necessary, would suffer martyrdom for the principles of Christ and for the church, and that make great sacrifices, both in time and means.

There is sin in the world, a great deal of it. There is careless indifference on the part of many church memhers, we admit. The forces of Satan are always ready to take advantage of every condition to accomplish the destruction of the human family. We have conditions to-day that are peculiar to our special time that are threatening the destruction of our Christian civilization. It is well that the Christians look the condition squarely in the face, that they may he capable of coping with these evil influences. There is enough Christian spirit and zeal in the church to take care of the situation, and the church will emerge from the presnt crisis better and purer, more capable than she has ever heen hefore.

The thing to do is to observe the gradual progress of natural mutableness that is certain to be continually in evidence and be qualified to handle the condition that these changes naturally hring ahout. To handle these conditions so as to further advance the kingdom of God, requires consecration and piety. The Christian should ever be on watch for reformation that would tend to hring the masses of the people nearer to God, that the church may be better equipped to win the world for Christ. I believe we have the requisites in the church to-day.

The church should not he blind to the sins of the time, hoth in and out of the church, hut on the contrary, should ever he on guard to combat evil wherever it is present. The evil of the day is no apparition, but to say that the church has lost its spiritual powers is chimerical; however, it is lamentahly true that we have our Judas Iscariots, Alexanders the coppersmiths, Hymeneuses and Bar Jesuses in the church that need to be dealt with. On the other hand, the church has St. Johns that just love people into the kingdom of God; we have our Dorcases and Lydias, Josephs of Arimathaca, Zaccheuses, and our poor widows, giving freely of their substance.

In every Methodist church that I have been pastor of, I have found consecrated men and women that loved God and loved his church, and were an inspiration to their pastor. It is true there were others that were a hindrance, that caused anxiety, and were detrimental to the spiritual life of the church.

The church must (if it accomplishes what is expected), combat evil in every form, with all her spiritual and moral force; and, as a whole, she is doing this.

The Christian (that is, the church member) has worked, and is working unremittingly for a better condition of suffering humanity; the Christians, under the auspices of the church, have built and are supporting hospitals of various kinds to take care of the indigent; they have established and are maintaining educational institutions to instruct and train the young mind and heart for a life of usefulness, and all this more than ever before. The church was first and foremost in getting laws enacted closing the saloons of the nation and ridding the country of the curse of alcoholism. You may say that doing these things is not religion; it is not, hut it is the visible result of spirituality. Christ's mission on earth was to help men, and the greater part of his work while here among men was alleviating suffering, and comforting the hroken-hearted.

I do not pretend to say that the church has attained to the highest state of efficiency—that would be visionary. It would be virtually saying that there is nothing more for the church to do, only take care of what she already has. This would be blind folly, it would he suicidal.

As long as there is sin in the world, there is work for the church, and there are consecrated Christians that will work and pray unceasingly until the great day of the Lord shall come.

Fraternally yours,

A. L. McQUEEN.

Franklinton, La.

MEDITATION.

By Letitia Rutledge.

Have faith, O soul of me,
Tho' raging storms may blow
Thy ship far out at sea,
There'll be no wreck, I know,
For Jesus cares for thee.

Be strong, O heart of me;
When temptation comes near
Persist, and keep me free,
Then nothing will I fear,
For Jesus will help thee.

Have faith, O soul of me,
Love, look up to skies of hlue;
Thy visions always he
Thus beautiful and true,
Bcause Jesus loves thec.

When our pleasures mean hardships for some one else it is time to stop and examine them.—Selected.

Headaches Vanish

Sick or nervous headaches, backaches, women's aches almost instantly respond to the liquid remedy Capudine. It stops the pain by removing the cause. Every home should keep a bottle handy. Sold by druggists, 10c, 30c, 60c. Insist upon getting CAPUDINE

CANCER HOSPITAL. Intra-venous treatment for cancer. Operation, Radium and X-Ray unnecessary. Book-let giving full information upon request. Box 2127, ATLANTA, GA.

School Desks

Opera Chairs,
Folding Chairs,
Kindergarten Chairs,
School Supplies,
Blackboards.
SOUTHERN DESK CO., Hickory, N. C.

FREE BOOK ABOUT CANCER.

The Indianapolis Cancer Hospital, Indianapolis, Indiana, has published a booklet which gives interesting facts about the cause of Cancer, also tells what to do for pain, bleeding, odor, etc. A valuahle guide in the management of any case. Write for it to-day, mentioning this paper.—Adv.

Renew your health by purifying your system with

Calotabs

TRADE MARK REG

The purified and refined calomel tablets that are free from nausea and danger.

No salts necessary, as Calotabs act like calomel and salts combined. Demand the genuine in 10c and 35c packages, bearing above trade-mark.

Bitter Chillifuge 25c

Has a bitter tonic taste and quick action in routing malaria from the system.

Will quickly stop chills and fever.

Splendid tonic for torpid liver and bracer for poor appetite.

FINLAY, DICKS & CO., INC.,
NEW ORLEANS.

PILES Don't Be Cut

Until You Try This Wonderful Treatment

My internal method of treatment is the correct one, and is sanctioned by the best informed physicans and surgeons. Ointments, salves and other local applications give only temporary relief.

If you have piles in any form write for a FREE sample of Page's Pile Tablets and you will bless the day that you read this. Write today.

E. R. PAGE 430J Page Bldg., Marshall, Mich.

For the HAIR—

To make it soft, fluffy and free from dandruff use

TETTERINE

60c at your Druggist's, or from The SHUPTRINE CO., SAVANNAH, GA.

HER AILMENTS ALL GONE NOW

Mrs. Sherman Helped by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Lake, Michigan.—"About one year ago I suffered with irregularities and a weakness and at times was obliged to stay off my feet. I doctored with our family physician and he finally said he could not understand my case, so I decided to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. After I had taken the first bottle I could see that I was getting better. I took several bottles of the Vegetable Compound and used Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash and I am entirely cured of my ailments. You may publish this letter if you wish."—Mrs. MARY SHERMAN, Route 2, Lake, Mich.

There is one fact women should consider and that is this. Women suffer from irregularities and various forms of weakness. They try this and that doctor, as well as different medicines. Finally they take Lydia E. Pinkham's Compound, and Mrs. Sherman's experience is simply another case showing the merit of this well-known medicine.

If your family physician fails to help you and the same old troubles persist, why isn't it reasonable to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound?

TWENTY-FIFTH WEDDING ANNIVERSARY OF REV. AND MRS. H. E. CARTER.

The Methodist parsonage at Minter City, Miss., was the scene of a beautiful reception on Tuesday of last week, when the Rev. and Mrs. H. E. Carter celebrated their 25th anniversary.

The rooms were beautiful with cut flowers, ferns and burning tapers. About 75 friends called to extend to their beloved pastor and his wife their good wishes on this occasion and to see the many beautiful and useful gifts received. Mrs. D. W. QUARLES.

Minter City, Miss.

MARRIED.

A beautiful wedding was celebrated at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Pippin, at Elizabeth, Miss., on Thursday morning, October 5, 1922, when MISS ANNIE LAURA PIPPIN became the wife of ROBINSON VERNON NEWMAN, of Pace, Miss., the Rev. W. M. Young, of Leland, Miss., officiating, the ring ceremony being used. The home was beautifully decorated. The couple will make their home at Elizabeth, Miss.

QUARTERLY CONFERENCES.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

Jackson Dist.—Fourth Round.

Vaughn, at Deasonville, Oct. 21, 22, 11 a.m.
Benton, Oct. 22, 7:30 p.m.-23, 10 a.m.
Mendenhall and D'Lo, at Bethany, Oct. 25, 11 a.m.

USEFULNESS OF BLACK-DRAUGHT

Louisiana Lady Tells How This Well-Known Liver Medicine Helped Her Obtain Relief.

Baton Rouge, La.—"After having used many laxatives, I chanced to hear of Black-Draught, and decided to use it as a liver tonic," says Mrs. E. B. Odom, of 838 South Boulevard, this city.

"Black-Draught acted on my liver, cleansed my system, and I was in much better condition after having used it," says Mrs. Odom.

"Black-Draught relieves the swimming, or lightness, in the head.

"It relieves the heavy feeling after meals, which indicated to me it was good for indigestion.

"So I keep Black-Draught in the house and use it for colds, headache, sour stomach and torpid liver. I have told my friends, and they use it also.

"My present health is improved wonderfully."

Thousands of people have learned of the value of Black-Draught from personal experience, and have chosen it as their favorite powdered liver medicine. It is purely vegetable; not disagreeable to take; causes no bad after-effects.

When you get up in the morning with a bad taste in your mouth, stomach not right, bilious, or have a headache, try a dose of Black-Draught. Keep a package in your home, ready for immediate use when needed.

Ask your druggist for Black-Draught liver medicine. See that the package label bears the name, "Thedford's."—Adv.

Antiseptic Mul-en-ol

Favorite for forty years.
Old friends can be trusted.
Stomach pains and nausea quickly relieved.
Also fine application for cuts and burns.

15, 30, 60 cts. Sizes
FINLAY, DICKS & CO., INC.,
NEW ORLEANS.

Harrissville, at Harrissville, Oct. 26, 11 a.m.
Capitol St., Oct. 29, 11 a.m.
Galloway Memorial, Oct. 29, 7:30 p.m.
Madison, at Madison, Nov. 1, 11 a.m.
Sharon, at Sharon, Nov. 4, 5, 11 a.m.
Camden, Nov. 5, 3 p.m.-7:30 p.m.
Bentonia, Nov. 12, 11 a.m.-2 p.m.
Satartia, at Satartia, Nov. 12, 7:30 p.m.-13, 10 a.m.
Eden, Nov. 18, 11 a.m.
Yazoo City, Nov. 19, 11 a.m.-2 p.m.
Flora, Nov. 19, 5:30-7:30 p.m.
Monterey, Nov. 25-26, 11 a.m.
Brandon, Nov. 26, 3 p.m.-7:30 p.m.

Let the preachers and laymen put forth every effort, not only to answer the questions of the fourth quarterly conference, but to have full reports. We have had great revivals in all of the charges during the year. "Then let us render unto the Lord thanksgiving for His goodness."

M. L. BURTON, P. E.

Brookhaven Dist.—Fourth Round.

Fernwood ct., at Fernwood, Oct. 21, 22.
McComb, Pearl River Ave., Oct. 22.
Gallman ct., at Gallman, Oct. 28, 29.
Crystal Springs, Oct. 29, 30.
Monticello ct., at Monticello, Nov. 4, 5.
Summit and Topisaw, at Summit, Nov. 5, 6.
Pleasant Grove ct., at Tilton, Nov. 11, 12.
Brookhaven, Nov. 12, 13.
Scotland ct., at Bethel, Nov. 15.
Osyka ct., at Osyka, Nov. 18, 19.
McComb, La Branch st., Nov. 19, 20.
Barlow ct., at Brandywine, Nov. 25, 26.
Georgetown ct., at Georgetown, Nov. 26.

H. M. ELLIS, P. E.

Hattiesburg Dist.—Fourth Round.

Richton, at Richton, Oct. 25, 7 p.m.
Hattiesburg, Court St., Oct. 29, 11 a.m.
Purvis, at Purvis, Oct. 29, 30, 7 p.m.
Oloah, at Oloah, Nov. 1, 11 a.m.
Ellisville, at Ellisville, Nov. 5.
Eucutta, at Goodwater, Nov. 7, 11 a.m.
Silver Creek, at New Hebron, Oct. 12.
Lucedale, Nov. 15, 7 p.m.
Lucedale ct., at Merrill, Oct. 16, 11 a.m.
Leakesville, at Winburn Chapel, Nov. 15, 11 a.m.
Hattiesburg, Main St., Nov. 26, 11 a.m.
Sumrall, Nov. 26, 27, 7 p.m.

Pastors, please see to it that your Board of Trustees and your Woman's Missionary Societies have full written reports. W. W. GRAVES, P. E.

Meridian Dist.—Fourth Round.

Pachuta, at Adams Chapel, Oct. 21, 22.
Quitman, p.m., Oct. 22.
Vimville, at Coker's Chapel, Oct. 29.
Pennington, at Chicora, Nov. 5.
Lakeville, Nov. 11, 12.
Lauderdale, p.m., Nov. 12.
Mattiesville, at Langsdale, Nov. 17.
Waynesboro ct., at Hebron, Nov. 18, 19.
Waynesboro, p.m., Nov. 19.
DeSoto, Nov. 25, 26.
Shubuta, p.m., Nov. 26.

PAUL D. HARDIN, P. E.

Seashore Dist.—Fourth Round.

Wiggins, 7:30 p.m., Oct. 22.
Coalville, Wed., 11 a.m., Oct. 25.
Long Beach, Wed., 7:30 p.m., Oct. 25.
Pass Christian, Oct. 29.
Saucier, Wed., 7:30 p.m., Nov. 1.
Picayune, Nov. 5, 6.
Carriere, Mon., 11 a.m., Nov. 6.
Poplarville, Q. C., Mon., 7:30 p.m., Nov. 6.
Lumberton, 9 a.m., Nov. 7.
Logtown, 11 a.m., Nov. 12.
Bay St. Louis, 7:30 p.m., Nov. 12.
Gulfport, Q. C., Tues., 7:30 p.m. Nov. 14.
Pascagoula, Wed., 7:30 p.m., Nov. 15.
Biloxi, Tues., 7:30 p.m., Nov. 21.
Brooklyn, Wed., 7:30 p.m., Nov. 22.
Wesley Memorial, Nov. 26.

Let the pastors see to it that the trustees have their reports; and let the stewards please collect the pastors' salaries. If the pastors are diligent and the stewards faithful, the district will make a full report at Conference. Let us pray and work together. W. M. SULLIVAN, P. E.

Vicksburg Dist.—Fourth Round.

Port Gibson, 7 p.m., Oct. 22.
Vicksburg, Crawford St., 7 p.m., Oct. 23.
Vicksburg, Gibson Memorial, 7 p.m., Oct. 25.
Roxie, at Hamburg, Oct. 28.
Centerville, at Stephenson, 11 a.m., Oct. 29.
Woodville, 7 p.m., Oct. 29.
Oak Ridge, Nov. 5.
Rolling Fork, 11 a.m., Nov. 12.
Mayersville, 11 a.m., Nov. 19.
Anguilla, 7 p.m., Nov. 19.
Louise and Holly Bluff, at Louise, 11 a.m., Nov. 26.
Silver City, at ———, 7 p.m., Nov. 26.

J. R. JONES, P. E.

Newton Dist.—Fourth Round.

Shiloh, at Johns, Oct. 25.
Homewood, at Gasque Chapel, Oct. 27, 2:30 p.m., 29, p.m.
Raleigh, at Boykin, Oct. 28, 29.
Montrose, at Montrose, Nov. 1, 11 a.m., 2 p.m.
Walnut Grove, at Zion, Nov. 3.
Carthage, at Bethel, Nov. 4, 5.
Bay Springs, at Bay Springs, Nov. 8, 2:30 p.m.
Laurel, First Church, Nov. 10, 7 p.m.
Laurel, Kingston, Nov. 11, 7 p.m., 12, 7 p.m.
Laurel, West End, Nov. 12, 11 a.m., 2:30 p.m.
Newton, at Newton, Nov. 15.
Chunky, at Suqualena, Nov. 18, 19.
Decatur and Hickory, at Hickory, Nov. 25, 26.

The trustees of church property will please make accurate reports in answer to the disciplinary questions. Reports from Woman Missionary Societies are expected.

J. A. MOORE, P. E.

Aspirin

Say "Bayer" and Insist!

BAYER

Genuine

Unless you see the name "Bayer" on package or on tablets you are not getting the genuine Bayer product prescribed by physicians over twenty-two years and proved safe by millions for

Colds	Headache
Toothache	Lumbago
Earache	Rheumatism
Neuralgia	Pain, Pain

Accept "Bayer Tablets of Aspirin" only. Each unbroken package contains proper directions. Handy boxes of twelve tablets cost few cents. Druggists also sell bottles of 24 and 100. Aspirin is the trade mark of Bayer Manufacture of Monoaceticacidester of Salicylicacid.—Adv.

Look to Your Eyes

Beautiful Eyes, like fine Teeth, are the result of Constant Care. The daily use of Murine makes Eyes Clear and Radiant. Enjoyable. Harmless. Sold and Recommended by All Druggists.

MURINE FOR YOUR EYES

BOHNE & WILT, Booksellers, and Stationers, 1328 Dryades St., New Orleans, La. Baseball Goods, Religious Articles, Fishing Tackle, Periodicals, School Books.

The Board of Managers of Tracts and Evangelical Literature

Have Published the Following Tracts:

Poison in Present-Day Literature. By Mary Helm.	$ .75 per 100
Why Delay Your Salvation?	.50 per 100
What the Adult Applicant for Church Membership Should Know. By J. E. Tate	.85 per 100
The Lord's Supper. By J. F. Archer	.50 per 100
Methodism. By E. V. Cox	1.00 per 100
Can We Fall from Grace? By T. L. Hulse	.75 per 100
Baptism as Jesus Understood It. By T. L. Hulse	.75 per 100
The Church and Its Sacraments. By E. B. Chappell	10.00 per 100
Pros and Cons of Christian Science. By Charles Reynolds Brown	.75 per 100
The Resurrection. By J. A. Burrow	.75 per 100

These tracts are sold at the prices quoted above to all self-sustaining Charges that wish to use them in their work. To all Mission Charges the tracts are sent absolutely free.

The importance of using such literature in the work of the Church has been clearly demonstrated by many experiments.

Send all orders to A. J. Lamar, Chairman of the Board, 810 Broadway, Nashville, Tenn., and mention with order whether the charge is a Mission or the tracts to be charged to the one ordering.

This is in no sense a commercial proposition. The tracts that are sold simply enable the Board to publish other tracts for distribution in Mission territory.

Woman's Missionary Society

All communications for this Department should be sent to Mrs. J. G. Snelling, 1431 Octavia St., New Orleans, La.

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.

Conference On Life And Work.

By Mrs. W. W. Holmes.

The Conference on Life and Work, Lake Junaluska, N. C., August 7-13, was indeed a season of heart-searching, of information and of inspiration. It was the privilege of your Conference Superintendent of Social Service to attend this meeting, and a blessed privilege it was, bringing with it a deeper sense of our obligations to Christ's "little ones," opening our eyes to the fact that opportunities for service are at our very doors, and, above all, impressing us with that wonderful truth that if we so desire, we can be "co-laborers together with God."

This Conference was presided over by Dr. W. W. Alexander, Atlanta, Ga., a man who is outstanding in his work for the Negro and is rendering a wonderful service to our Southland. Each session of the Conference was opened with a devotional led by Dr. W. A. Smart, Emory University, Atlanta, Ga., using as his theme for the entire Conference "Some of the Social Teachings of Jesus," impressing upon his hearers the fact that what God wants is a spirit of brotherhood—this spirit to pervade every walk of life, in politics, in business and in our dealings with other races. In speaking of standards of success, Dr. Smart said that according to the standards of the average business man, Jesus' life was a failure, and then asked the question, "According to Jesus' standards, who is the most successful business man in your community?" and then said that the large corporation making money at the expense of its labor is an absolute fallure, according to the standards of Jesus. Dr. Smart said that not bearing our own burdens, but bearing the crosses and burdens of our fellow men is the service God requires, emphasizing the fact that the only way to serve God is to serve God's people.

The music for the Conference was furnished by the Morehouse College Glee Club, and by a band from the Newberry Cotton Mills, Newberry, S. C., and a rare treat it was to listen to these gifted musicians. The Glee Club used only Negro melodies, and only those who have heard Negroes with trained voices can imagine the wonderful beauty of these songs. Through the efforts of the Commission on Interracial Relationships, an effort is being made to preserve these songs, a history of which has been written, and interesting history it is. In introducing these singers, Dr. Alexander said that in the whole collection of songs was not to be found one note of discontent.

On Tuesday evening, August 7, Mrs. W. A. Newell, our Council Superintendent of Social Service, was the first speaker on the program. She gave in a most interesting way the history of the work of the Commission on Interracial Relationships and told of the splendid work being done by the women of Southern Methodism along these lines.

Mrs. Luke Johnson was to have spoken on "Negro Home Life," but illness prevented her attending the meeting, and brought a great disappointment to those who have had the privilege of hearing her.

Mary Bethune, a splendidly educated Negro woman of Daytonia, Fla., a woman who is greatly interested in the uplift of her race and is working to bring better feelings between the races, gave a very splendid address on "Negro Home Life," making a very strong plea for the Christian white women to help the Negro women and children, impressing the fact that many Negro women are ambitious for their children, but because of lack of education and training, are absolutely helpless in directing them. There is no greater opportunity for Christian service than this work for Negro women and children.

Perhaps the most interesting speaker of the entire Conference was Prof. George Carver, Tuskegee Institute, Alabama, a full-blooded Negro, born in Missouri, and a chemist of world renown. His subject was "A Negro's Contribution to Southern Agriculture." At the very beginning of his address he impressed his hearers with the fact that he is a deeply spiritual man. He quoted many passages of Scripture such as, "Know the truth, and the truth shall make you free;" "Where there is no vision, the people perish;" "I can do all things through Christ which strengtheneth me;" "I will lift up mine eyes unto the hills from whence cometh my strength;" and gave wonderful interpretations of these passages. Prof. Carver has evolved many products from the peanut, the pecan and the sweet potato, which he says will in time be the three chief money crops of the South. On this occasion he told of what he is doing with the sweet potato and astonished his audience with his exhibit of the many products which have come from this very common vegetable. According to the methods used by Prof. Carver, there is absolutely no waste, the vines being used for stock food, the peelings and ends making a very fine meal. His exhibit included sweet potato chips, flour, meal, breakfast foods, coffee substitute, paint made from the peelings and vines, instant tapioca, coloring matter to take the place of eggs in cake making, starch, substitute for cornstarch, mock cocoanut, peanut bar, yeast mints, lemon and orange drops, caramels, molasses being manufactured by the Government in Georgia, a substitute for green ginger, vinegar, dyes for cotton, silk and wool goods and wood stains for furniture. Thomas Edison has made splendid offers to Prof. Carver, urging him to come North, but it is his ambition to serve the farmers of the South, and he says he will live and die in Alabama. In his very modest way he tells us that God is speaking through him that He may tell us of the many wonderful things that are hidden away in the fields and hills.

Ex-Governor Hugh M. Dorsey, Atlanta, Ga., spoke on "The Menace of the Mob," making a most urgent appeal that the better element of the two races do all in their power to stop the barbaric practice of lynching, convincing his hearers that many, many times it is the innocent Negro who is so brutally dealt with, giving many instances where this has actually occurred. No more earnest plea for the protection of the Negro was made than that by Gov. Dorsey.

At each of these meetings one side of the auditorium was reserved for the Negroes, and on Wednesday evening, when Maj. Moton, of Tuskegee Institute, Alabama, was the speaker, a very large number was present. In introducing the speaker, Dr. Alexander said that the most serious question before the world to-day is one of race relations, and the Christian people of the South are using our own problem to show the world that through the power of Christianity these problems can be solved.

The first part of Maj. Moton's address was to the Negroes present, saying: "A large part of the problem is in our hands." He urged the Negroes to race pride, honesty, economy, thrift, thoroughness in work, be that work the most menial or exalted. In speaking to the whites, he emphasized the fact that "social equality" is a "Bugaboo," saying: "We find our happiness among our own, and in no way are we seeking social equality." One of the things that touched the hearts of his hearers was the statement that Negro women are not protected by law. Nothing could be more unfair.

He urged better traveling accomodations for Negros, saying the Christian whites should demand common justice. Maj. Moton said that the present generation is just as faithful as their forefathers, and gave many striking and touching incidents of their faithfulness and of their bravery in protecting white women and children.

In taking Booker T. Washington's place at Tuskegee, Maj. Moton is in a very splendid way carrying on the work of one of the South's greatest benefactors.

We feel sure that out of this Conference has come the conviction that the Christian people of the South—the Christian whites and the Christian Negroes—have a problem to solve that can be solved only by the application of the principles of Christ's teachings. The work is ours, the time is NOW. Let us be about our Master's business.

Lake Charles, La.

QUARTERLY CONFERENCES.

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.

New Orleans Dist.—Fourth Round.

Donaldsonville ct., Oct. 14, 7.30 p.m.
Plaquemine ct., Oct. 15, 7:30 p.m.
Pearl River ct., at St. Tammany, Oct. 27, 11 a.m.
Bogalusa ct., at Sun, Nov. 4, 10 a.m.
Bogalusa sta., Nov. 4, 7:30 p.m.
Covington ct., Nov. 5, 3 p.m.
Slidell, Nov. 5, 7:30 p.m.
Louisiana Avenue, Nov. 6, 7:30 p.m.
St. Mark's, Nov. 7, 7:30 p.m.
Second Church, Nov. 8, 7:30 p.m.
Algiers, Nov. 9, 7:30 p.m.
McDonoghville, Nov. 10, 7:30 p.m.
Epworth, Nov. 13, 7:30 p.m.
Felicity, Nov. 14, 7:30 p.m.
First Church, Nov. 15, 7:30 p.m.
Carrollton Avenue, Nov. 16, 7:30 p.m.
Rayne Memorial, Nov. 17, 7:30 p.m.
Parker Memorial, Nov. 19, 7:30 p.m.

Pastors will please endeavor to have reports from each department of the work. Please do not fail to have the president of the Board of Trustees to answer Question 15.

J. G. SNELLING, P. E.

Dodson's Liver Tone

Instead of Calomel

Calomel is quicksilver. It attacks the bones and paralyzes the liver. Your dealer sells each bottle of pleasant, harmless "Dodson's Liver Tone" under an ironclad, money-back guarantee that it will regulate the liver, stomach and bowels better than calomel, without sickening or salivating you—15 million bottles sold.—Adv.

Chronic Constipation

Relieved Without the Use of Laxatives

Nujol is a lubricant—not a medicine or laxative—so cannot gripe.

When you are constipated, not enough of Nature's lubricating liquid is produced in the bowel to keep the food waste soft and moving.

Doctors prescribe Nujol because it acts like this natural lubricant and thus replaces it. Try it today.

Nujol

REG U.S. PAT. OFF.

A LUBRICANT—NOT A LAXATIVE

RENWAR VS. RHEUMATISM.

It is certainly a pity that so many people suffer year after year the intense pains of rheumatism when it can be so easily expelled from the system by the simple treatment of taking Renwar Rhenmatic Salts. Rhenmatism is caused by uric acid in the blood; and in order to effect a complete cure, it is necessary to entirely eliminate this acid from the blood. Renwar is guaranteed to relieve or your money is refunded. It contains no injurious drugs. It is the one sure remedy, and it does not in the slightest degree injure the stomach or affect the heart. Mr. Joseph L. Boehmer says, "One 50c bottle has done me more good than all sanatorium treatment, and what it did for me, why should it not do the same for others? Should any one doubt the virtue of Renwar and the certainty of curing this malady, refer them to me." For sale by druggists, price 50c; or by mail on receipt of price from WARNER DRUG COMPANY, NASHVILLE, TENN.—Adv.

TETTERINE

DRIVES AWAY PIMPLES

and leaves your skin soft and spotless. 60c at your Druggist's, or from The SHUPTRINE CO., SAVANNAH, GA.

Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic

Makes the Body Strong. Makes the Blood Rich. 60c

ECZEMA

IS CURABLE

Write me today and I will send you a free trial of my mild, soothing, guaranteed treatment that will prove it. Stops the itching and heals permanently. Send no money—just write me—that is all you have to do. Address

Dr. Cannaday, 1225 Park Squire, Sedalia, Mo.

Epworth League.

(Continued From Page 11)

cent mark. The Third Department Superintendent, Miss Violet Wade, reported that approximately $130 was raised at the circus recently given hy the Union; $100 of this is to go for the support of our girl at Vashti and the balance to be applied toward the expenses of the coming Institute. A very delightful pageant was presented at the close of the meeting by the Intermediate Leaguers of Second Church, giving the story of how Abraham secured a wife for his son Isaac from among his own kindred.

Algiers League.

In spite of the hot weather the Algiers Leaguers have been kept quite busy. During the sixty-one days of August and Septemher, they have had twenty-nine meetings in addition to the devotional services held on Sunday and the mid-week prayer meetings. There were only fifteen days in two months that a League meeting of some kind was not planned.

On Septemher 15 the Epworth League and the Missionary Society combined their efforts in giving an entertainment for the New Church Building Fund. The Missionary Society furnished the refreshments and the League the program, which consisted of a "Womanless Wedding." The wedding was a very elahorate affair, the bride being attended hy six bridemaids, a flower girl, ring bearer, and so on. Seventy-one dollars was made on the entertainment.

The losing side of the Memebership contest entertained the winners at a Japanese social on Friday, September 22. Every one enjoyed the games, costumes and refreshments, which happened to be Japanese. Members are still coming in and the new ones are greatly interested in their work.

A Stubborn Cough Loosens Right Up

This home-made remedy is a wonder for quick results. Easily and cheaply made.

Here is a home-made syrup which millions of people have found to be the most dependable means of breaking up stubborn coughs. It is cheap and simple, but very prompt in action. Under its healing, soothing influence, chest soreness goes, phlegm loosens, breathing becomes easier, tickling in throat stops and you get a good night's restful sleep. Tho usual throat and chest colds are conquered by it in 24 hours or less. Nothing better for bronchitis, hoarseness, croup, throat tickle, bronchial asthma or winter coughs.

To make this splendid cough syrup, pour 2½ ounces of Pinex into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup and shake thoroughly. If you prefer, use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, you get a full pint—a family supply—of much better cough syrup than you could buy ready-made for three times the money. Keeps perfectly and children love its pleasant taste.

Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, known the world over for its prompt healing effect upon the membranes.

To avoid disappointment ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with full directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

Carrollton League.

This League is very enthusiastically working over one of the most interesting contests ever held. The contest is for attendance during the month of October. Each department is rivaling the other for the largest attendance on their respective nights. "First Department Night" was celebrated last Sunday, October 7, with great success, sixty-two people present. There was a carefully planned program and special music by the quartet. The evening's topic, "The Folly of Procrastination," was carried out in true courtroom style, and the program was concluded by a pageant dramatizing the "Parable of the Ten Virgins." Ten Junior Leaguers, robed and veiled in white, charmingly protrayed the story. Tennyson's "Too Late" was softly rendered by the quartet as the five wise virgins entered through the flower-bedecked gate and the five foolish virgins knelt outside pleading for admittance. The service, simple, expressive and reverent, with just a tinge of the unexpected, proved that the First Department was on the job and the Leaguers are looking forward to the other Department Nights with great interest.

QUARTERLY CONFERENCES.

NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE

Sardis Dist.—Fourth Round.

Mt. Pleasant ct., at New Salem, Oct. 21.
Horn Lake ct., at Eudora, Oct. 21.
Tyro ct., at Looxahoma, Oct. 21.
Shuford ct., at Mt. Ollvet, Oct. 22.
Longtown ct., at Lee's Chapel, Oct. 28.
Crenshaw and Sledge, at C., Oct. 29.
Batesville, Nov. 5.

The duplication of dates in the foregoing appointments is due to the fact that in a few instances the presiding elder will be assisted by others in making this round. The brethren are asked to give special attention to Questions 13, 14, and 15 in getting ready for their conferences.

R. A. MEEK, P. E.

Greenwood Dist.—Fourth Round.

Sunflower, at Sunflower, Sun., Oct. 22, a.m.
Rulevllle, at Rulevllle, Sun., Oct. 22, p.m.
Tutwiler, Q. C., Wed., Oct. 25, p.m.
Schlater, at Schlater, Sun., Oct. 29, a.m.
Greenwood, Sun., Oct. 29, p.m.
Minter City, Wed., Nov. 1, p.m.
Drew, at Drew, Thurs., Nov. 2.
Sidon, at Cruger, Sun., Nov. 5, a.m.
Tchula, Sun., Nov. 5, p.m.

A careful and complete report will be expected from the treasurers of the Centenary and Educational Movements, Trustees and Missionary Societies. It will require a little effort on the part of the pastors to secure these, but the Conference will not be complete without them, and we must acknowledge we fail, if we fail.

S. L. POPE, P. E.

Greenville Dist.—Fourth Round.

Lake Cormorant, at Lake Cormorant, Oct. 22, a.m.
Tunica, Oct. 22, p.m.
Benoit and Beulah, at Beulah, Oct. 25, p.m.
Hollandale and Arcola, at Hollandale, Oct. 29, a.m.
Greenville, Oct. 29, p.m.
Gunnison and Deeson, at Gunnison, Nov. 1, p.m.
Duncan and Hillhouse, at Duncan, Nov. 5, a.m.

"The District that sounds no retreat" will make a decidedly better report in every way this fall than last unless some man "plays hooky." Surely neither elder, pastor nor layman will be the guilty party.

JAMES H. FELTS, P. E.

Grenada Dist.—Fourth Round.

Sallis Ct., at McAdams, Oct. 21.
Ebenezer Ct., at Liberty, Oct. 22, 23.
Lexington, Oct. 22, 23.
Kilmichael Ct., at Salem, Oct. 28.
Coffeeville Ct., at Gray Rock, Oct. 29.
Holcomb Ct., at Holcomb, Oct. 29, 30.

R. A. TUCKER, P. E.

Corinth Dist.—Fourth Round.

Marietta ct., at Mt. Nebo, Oct. 19.
Mooreville ct., at Mooreville, Oct. 20.
Mantachie ct., at Mantachie, Oct. 21, 22.
Booneville ct., at Liberty, Friday, Oct. 27.
Booneville station, Qr. Conf., Oct. 27, night; preaching, Oct. 29, 11 a.m.
Wheeler ct., at Double Springs, Oct. 28.
Silver Springs ct., at El Bethel, Wed., Nov. 1.
Ripley station, Qr. Conf., Friday, Nov. 3, 2 p.m.; preaching, Nov. 5, 11 a.m.
Chalybeate ct., at Mt. Pleasant, Sat., Nov. 4.

N. B.—Let pastors see that written reports are made hy Woman's Missionary Society and by Boards of Trustees, answering Questions 13 and 14.

J. B. RANDOLPH, P. E.

Aberdeen Dist.—Fourth Round.

Nettleton, at Evergreen, Oct. 20.
Prairie and Strong, at Prairie, Oct. 22, 23.
Verona, at Palmetto, Oct. 24.
Shannon and Nettleton, at Nettleton, Oct. 25.
Fulton, at Friendship, Oct. 28, 29.
Tremont, at Hopewell, Oct. 29, 30.

T. H. DORSEY, P. E.

Columbus Dist.—Fourth Round.

quarterly conference, Oct. 19.
McCool, at ———, Oct. 20.
Sturgis, at Mt. Alry, Oct. 21, 22.
Kosciusko sta., Oct. 22, p.m.
Kosciusko ct., at Pearce's Chapel, Oct. 23.
West Point, Oct. 25.
Artesia, Q. C., Oct. 26.
Shuqualak, at Shuqualak, Q. C., Oct. 27.
Columbus, Central, Oct. 31.
Brooksville, Nov. 1.

Pastors will please request Centenary and Educational treasurers to be present with written report, showing what has been raised this year, total amount paid to date, balance due, etc. Also remind the W. M. S. and the Board of Trustees to present a written report at this conference.

A. T. McILWAIN, P. E.

SORES BOILS, CUTS and BURNS have been healed since 1820 with

Gray's Ointment

Sold by all druggists. Write for sample to W. F. Gray & Co., 707 Gray Bldg., Nashville, Tenn.

"A God-sent Blessing" is what one mother writes of Mrs. Winslow's Syrup. Thousands of other mothers have found this safe, pleasant, effective remedy a boon when baby's little stomach is upset. For constipation, flatulency, colic and diarrhoea, there is nothing like
MRS. WINSLOW'S SYRUP
The Infants' and Children's Regulator
It is especially good at teething time. Complete formula on every label. Guaranteed free from narcotics, opiates, alcohol and all harmful ingredients.
At all Druggists
Write for free booklet of letters from grateful mothers.
ANGLO-AMERICAN DRUG CO.
215-217 Fulton St. New York
General Selling Agents: Harold F. Ritchie & Co., Inc. New York, Toronto, London, Sydney

WINTERSMITH'S CHILL TONIC SOLD 50 YEARS

If not sold by your druggist, write Wintersmith Chemical Co., Louisville, Ky.

"PUT THE BEST BEFORE YOUR GUEST"

Henry Clay Brand Coffee

NOT JUST ORDINARY COFFEE
IT IS BETTER
FOR SALE AT ALL FIRST CLASS GROCERS

"I don't need them very often, but when I do, I need them quick. One or two and the pain is gone."

Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills will relieve you quickly and safely—no unpleasant after effects—no danger of forming a drug habit.

Next time you pass a drug store stop in and get a box.

Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills contain no habit forming drugs.

Your Druggist Has Them

MEMORIAL HOME—PAYMENT ON ASSESSMENT, MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

Amount paid on the Memorial Home Assessment in the Mississippi Conference by Districts and Charges up to October 12, 1922.

Brookhaven District.

Adams	$ 20.00
Barlow	9.43
Bayou Pierre	23.00
Bogue Chitto and Norfield	25.00
Brookhaven	91.05
Crystal Springs	35.50
Fernwood	45.00
Gallman	35.00
Hazelhurst	53.00
Magnolia	45.00
McComb, Centenary	114.00
McComb, LaBranch St.	35.00
McComb, Pearl River Ave.	35.00
Osyka	23.00
Pleasant Grove	12.00
Rev. H. M. Ellis	50.00
Summit and Topisaw	38.25
Tylertown	40.00
Total Brookhaven District	$719.23

Hattiesburg District.

Collins	$ 9.20
Hattiesburg, Main St.	21.25
Oloh	10.00
Prentiss	15.00
Purvis	30.00
Silver Creek	15.00
Sumrall	17.65
Rev. W. W. Graves	15.00
W. S. F. Tatum	200.00
Total Hattiesburg District	$333.10

Jackson District.

Brandon and Pelahatchie	$ 31.10
Camden	20.00
Canton	40.00
Edwards	30.10
Flora	25.00
Fannin	10.00
Harrisville	4.00
Jackson, Galloway Memorial	170.00
Jackson, Capitol Street	100.00
Madison	4.80
Total Jackson District	$435.00

Meridian District.

Bucatunna	$ 6.13
DeSoto	22.00
Lauderdale	16.45
Meridian, Central	95.00
Meridian, East End	47.50
Meridian, Hawkins Memorial	27.00
Meridian, Seventh Avenue	6.25
Shubuta	43.00
Vimville	12.25
Waynesboro	22.00
Total Meridian District	$297.58

Newton District.

Decatur and Hickory	$ 27.00
Chunky	10.00
Forest and Morton	42.00
Laurel, Kingston	25.00
Laurel, West End	3.40
Rose Hill	21.00
Philadelphia	50.00
Union	16.51
Total Newton District	$194.91

Seashore District.

Americus	$ 25.00
Biloxi, Main Street	90.00
Carriere	10.00
Columbia	103.00
Escatawpa	17.00
Gulfport, First Church	85.05
Logtown	20.00
Lumberton	40.00
Moss Point	53.00
Ocean Springs	5.50
Vancleave	25.00
Wesley Memorial	10.00
Total Seashore District	$483.55

Vicksburg District.

Fayette	$ 35.00
Louise and Holly Bluff	30.00
Natchez	60.00
Rolling Fork	40.00
Silver City	30.00
Utica	34.00
Vicksburg, Crawford Street	65.50
Wasbington	15.00
Total Seashore District	$309.50

RECAPITULATION.

Brookhaven District	$ 719.23
Hattiesburg District	333.10
Jackson District	435.00
Meridian District	297.58
Newton District	194.91
Seashore District	483.55
Vicksburg District	309.50
Total receipts to date	$2,772.87

W. C. CHILDRESS,
Supt. Memorial Home for Young Women.

Thousands of Women Are Now Taking This Newer Form Of Iron

Worn-out Housewife Tells How She Quickly Regained Her Health and Strength.

"Only a short two weeks ago I was so tired, nervous and worn-out from the drain on my nerves and strength of household drudgery, that I thought I could not keep up another day.

A short two weeks' treatment of the newer form of iron has given me a marvelous increase in health, strength and energy. Now I can do my whole house without help, and do not have to sit at home in the evening "all-in" sick and nervous."

"The above is a typical hypothetical case," says Dr. James Francis Sullivan, formerly physician of Bellevue Hospital (Out-Door Dept.) New York, and the Westchester County Hospital. "You cannot be well and strong and full of vigor, force and power unless your blood is rich in iron. It is your red blood that enables you to resist and overcome disease and that nourishes every organ in your body. Without iron your blood becomes thin, pale and watery. Poor blood cannot nourish your vital organs and as a result you may have pains in your heart or kidneys, indigestion, headaches, and feel all "run-down" and tired out."

When your blood lacks iron do not waste your time taking stimulating medicines or narcotic drugs, but directly enrich your blood with the newer form of iron sold by all druggists under the name of Nuxated Iron, which is like the iron in spinach, lentils, and apples, and is in a form easily assimilated into your blood.

Get a bottle of Nuxated Iron today. Take it for two weeks and if you have not, like thousands of others, obtained most surprising health, strength and energy, the manufacturers will promptly refund your money. Your local druggists will sell you Nuxated Iron with this "satisfaction or money back" guarantee.

NOTE: Nuxated Iron has been used for years whenever needed in the family of the Advertising Representative of this paper with excellent results. We are able to guarantee that if you do not obtain all and even greater benefits than you expect from Nuxated Iron, the manufacturers will promptly refund your money.—Adv.

THINGS THAT WILL MAKE YOU BIGGER.

Start your day with a definite plan and carry it through.

Say little each day and do more.

Smile outside and radiate smiles, no matter how you may feel inside.

Always keep a brave front and carry a fighter's heart. Never admit failure.

Keep your mind clear and your heart clean.

Be generous to a fault. It may sometimes hurt, but it will never harm.

Time given to the help and happiness of others is never wasted.

Never learn to love money.

Put your confidences into your own heart. Then lock them up and throw the key away.

Learn to listen.

Never divide your attention. If a thing is important enough for a part of your thought, it is important enough for all. When you concentrate, burn a hole into the thing at hand.

Be brief. Never steal time from another.

Never hurt another's feelings. Be considerate.

Keep calm. Go slow, but keep going.

Keep criticizing yourself.

Take kindly suggestions kindly.

Never be afraid to carry a right thing through. Always be strong.

Abolish idleness from your life. Use every minute. Keep thinking, planning, building.

You have ability which no one else in the world has. Use it to the highest end you know.

Bury every regret. Work and live in the now.

Fear no man. You are as big as you do—no bigger.

Eliminate worry. Go to sleep in peace, with happy thoughts.

Do at least one single helpful act every day that will mean special planning on your part, and then soon such acts will come about without planning.

Have an inward reverence for your body and keep it healthy.

Live each day as though it were to be the last.

—Exchange.

PRAY—GIVE—GO.

Three things the Master hath to do,
And we who serve him here below,
And long to see his kingdom come,
Must pray, or give, or go.

He needs them all—the open hand,
The willing feet, the asking heart—
To work together and to weave
The threefold cord that shall not part.

Nor shall the giver count his gift
As greater than the worker's deed,
Nor he in turn his service boast
Above the prayers that voice the need.

Not all can go; not all can give
To earn the others for the fray;
But young or old, or rich or poor
Or strong or weak—we all can pray.

Pray that the full hands open wide
To speed the message on its way;
That those who hear the call may go,
And—pray that other hearts may pray. —Annie Johnson Flint.

The Feast of Harmony: Better is a dry morsel, and quietness therewith, than a house full of sacrifices with strife.—Proverbs 17:1.

WHEELER Business College R
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
"WHEELER STUDENTS GET THE BEST POSITIONS"
Call or Write for Free Catalogue

Skin Troubles
—Soothed—
With Cuticura
Soap, Ointment, Talcum, 25c. everywhere. Samples free of Cuticura Laboratories, Dept. V, Malden, Mass.

ANGELL'S

COUGH and WHOOPING
Cough Syrup
Easy to Take
No Habit-Forming Drugs. Formula of
DR. RICHARD ANGELL
Prepared by
JAMES R. ANGELL,
New Orleans, La.
PRICE 35c AND 65c
AT ALL DRUGGISTS

Books By George Herbert Betts

HOW TO TEACH RELIGION.

"Principles and methods are stated with conciseness and clearness, and with a kind of illustration that causes them to throb with life. The book will prove an inspiration and practical help to every teacher who will read it and put its teaching into practice."
—Boston Evening Transcript.

Price, net, $1.25; by mail, $1.37.

THE NEW PROGRAM OF RELIGIOUS EDUCATION.

"The aim of the book is to multiply the energies of the Church, to open its eyes to this wonderful area of opportunity, to arouse its interest in the new movements for religious education that are at work among us, and to quicken the consecration of men and women so that in seed sowing, in cultivation, and in harvesting there may be great rejoicing throughout the Church and abundant good may be distributed among the people everywhere."—The Christian Advocate.

Price, net, 75 cents; by mail, 82 cents.

At the Better Bookshops

THE ABINGDON PRESS
NEW YORK CINCINNATI

Universal Bible Sunday

November 26th, 1922 (or either adjacent Sunday)

THEME: The Bible—Undelivered to the Nations of the World

YOUR Church or Sunday School will welcome the education and the inspiration resulting from the observance of Universal Bible Sunday.

An extremely interesting exercise, a beautiful poster in colors, an informative report together with leaflets for wide distribution furnished free on request to pastors, Sunday School superintendents, teachers and other religious workers. Kindly state size of congregation, school or class in ordering.

AMERICAN BIBLE SOCIETY - - - - - - - Bible House, New York

NEW ORLEANS

CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE

Vol. 69—No. 43. Official Organ of the Louisiana, Mississippi, and North Mississippi Conferences, Methodist Episcopal Church, South. Whole No. 3481.

HENRY T. CARLEY, Editor. NEW ORLEANS, LA., THURSDAY, OCTOBER 26, 1922. CHAS. O. CHALMERS, Manager.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

AN IMPORTANT ELECTION.

On November 7 the people of Mississippi will have an opportunity at the polls to vote on amendments to the Coustitution of the State that will allow bequests to be made to hospitals, orphanages, institutions of learning, and other eleemosynary agencies owned and controlled by religious denominations. On matters purely political the Advocate does not feel that it should even make a suggestion as to the attitude of the people of its patronizing territory; but in such an issue as is presented in these proposed amendments we feel that it is perfectly legitimate for us to urge as strongly as we can their support. It seems to us that if there ever was a time when such stringent regulations were expedient, that time has passed, and certainly there can be no sound objection now to making it possible for those who are so disposed to leave by will at least a part of their wealth for the support of those institutions and agencies that have only the welfare of the State at heart. It is a well known fact that educational institutions, for example, in other States have been enabled to reach their highest degree of usefulness through bequests; yet Mississippi alone of all the States in the Union has a constitutional provision which makes such bequests illegal. Any fear that any religious denomination might be able, through such bequests, to accumulate vast holdings of real estate is removed by the provision that bequests must be made six months prior to the death of the testator and that real estate so bequeathed must be sold within three years from the date of its acquisition unless the Chancery Court, for good reason, should see fit to extend the time limit. We heartily endorse the views expressed by President Watkins, of Millsaps College, and of Hon. O. B. Taylor, exchancellor of the Fifth District, as expressed in articles appearing elsewhere in this issue of the Advocate, and we urge the voters of Mississippi to approve by an overwhelming majority the amendments to Sections 269 and 270 of the Constitution on November 7. The fact that these amendments have been approved by the North Mississippi Conference, the Mississippi Conference, the Baptist State Convention, the Presbyterian Synod, and Bishop Theodore Bratton, of the Protestant Episcopal Church, is ample guarantee that they have been drawn to meet all the requirements of sound public policy.

A LION WITHOUT.

It is worth noting that the proverb says it is the slothful man who declares, "There is a lion without, I shall be slain in the streets." Failure to overcome the enemy is not always due to cowardice—it may be pure laziness.

STANDARDS OF VALUE.

We suppose that no absolute standard of value for all the things of life, material, intellectual, and spiritual, can ever be established, but we can always insist upon a proper apportionment of relative values that will put first things first. The money standard can be made to apply strictly only to material things, and any attempt to measure intellectual and spiritual values by this standard can result only in confusion. The recent suggestion of a prominent business man of Chicago that there is too much education and that the best way to restore the equilibrium of compensation between teachers and manual laborers is to kill off some of the teachers, is, of course, to be taken facetiously. One trouble with the world is that there is too little education instead of too much. We need to get it out of our heads that money represents the summum bonum of life. The questions, "What is it worth?" "What did it cost?" "What will it pay?" are based upon a conception of value that is, at best, purely material and that leaves out of account the things that endure forever. We need to get the point of view of Moses, who esteemed "the reproach of Christ greater riches than the treasures in Egypt: for he had respect unto the recompense of reward." It is everlastingly true that a man is not rich in what he has, but in what he is.

MAKE A CLEAN SWEEP.

By Bishop W. N. Ainsworth.

Let us make a clean sweep! I mean of the quota due on our educational subscriptions for 1922. The first week in November is the time set to do it and there is every reason why we should complete the job at the appointed time.

The cause deeply needs the last dollar of the indispensable equations in the solution of the vexed problems that beset our civilization. More education of the right sort is the sure way out. We must have our own institutions, equal to the best in educational equipment that other sections have and saturated with the fervent and reverent spirit of evangelical Christianity. Our campaign was a creditable, though inadequate, start toward a new day for education in the South. We must redeem our pledges to the last dime. Unpaid promises will not only open no new doors to Southern youth who are struggling for a better chance, but will testify to a fatal blindness to the very things that make for our highest prosperity.

We must pay our vows! And if every presiding elder, pastor, secretary, and local officer will give himself to this appointed task at the appointed time and do it with a will, we will achieve a result of the most far reaching value and one that cannot fail of the approval of Almighty God. There is nothing our church ought to do which it cannot do. We ought to meet these pledges now. Let's make a clean sweep of it!

MAYBE SO, BUT—

After the prohibition enforcement forces had secured an injunction against a good many places that were under suspicion to prevent the sale of liquor during the American Legion Convention, the commander of the Legion was quoted in the local newspapers as saying that such action was an insult to the Legion. Maybe so, but—! We know that thousands of those who were in attendance upon the Convention are just as fine men as can be found anywhere. They are clean in life and character and all their efforts are toward the betterment of the organization to which they belong and for the uplift of the country generally. But there were enough of another kind present to make decent, law-abiding people wonder if the organization ought not to hold its convention on an altogether different plan. Those who showed an apparent contempt for the Eighteenth Amendment and other laws of the land may imagine that because they fought in the war they are released from the observance of the proprieties of civilized life and that their vicious conduct is to be excused on the ground that they were willing to die for their country; not so. Unless the Legion can find some way by which to restrain those of its membership who are guilty of flagrant and brazen disregard of the plain laws when they meet in convention, it is likely to find itself an unwelcome visitor in any city in which it may hold its gatherings. We honor the fine young men who were willing to die for their country as much as anybody; but law at home is as sacred as law abroad and a patriotic citizen will observe it everywhere.

STARVATION DIET.

The pathetic case of a young boy, afflicted with boils and ulcers, who was placed in the care of a fanatic who is convinced that clothes and a meat diet are the causes of most ailments, has recently attracted much attention. The boy was confined, stark naked, in a pen made of tin and gunny sacks and fed only on nuts, milk, and persimmons. We do not wonder when we read that the boy is undersized and undernourished. Yet that boy is not alone in his pitiable condition. There are grown men and women apparently in good health and abundantly provided for, whose minds and souls are weak and emaciated because they are living on a starvation diet. The man who never reads a good book, never thinks a serious thought, never allows himself to come under the influences of the Word of God, never reflects upon the goodness and mercy of the Almighty, never hungers after that food which alone can support the real life is more to be pitied than the starving boy, covered with sores, confined in a pen. His case is all the more pathetic because the food he needs is at hand and all he has to do is to reach out and take it.

New Orleans Christian Advocate

OFFICE, No. 512 CAMP STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

Published every Thursday by the Publishing Committee for the Louisiana, Mississippi, and North Mississippi Conferences, Methodist Episcopal Church, South.

Entered at the Postoffice at New Orleans as Second-class Mail Matter. Accepted for mailing at special rate of postage provided for in Section 1103, Act of Oct. 3, 1917, authorized Oct. 30, 1918.

TERMS:

Subscription Rates: One year, $2.00; six months, $1.
To superannuates and widows of preachers, $1.

TO CONTRIBUTORS.

All copy submitted for publication should be legibly written on one side of the paper with pen and ink, or typewritten. Matters written with a lead pencil and rolled manuscripts are unacceptable. No copy will be returned unless postage is enclosed for that purpose. In no case will responsibility be assumed for the loss or non-return of articles—the writers should keep copies of them. We do not purchase matter of any kind.

THE JAPAN MISSION MEETING.

By Dr. W. W. Pinson

This is a hasty time, beforc the boat leaves, to testify to a very successful and encouraging meeting of the Japan Mission. Although the meeting was held outside our territory, it was a full meeting, and we had an equally full program. To witness that it was a pleasant and profitable meeting is by no means to convey the idea that there are no problems. There are plenty and they are sufficiently grave. But they were faced with courage and unity of purpose that reduced them to a minimum and shot them through with the light of hope.

It was Bishop Boaz's first Conference; yet to all appearances it might have been his twenty-first. He seemed at home in the chair. His presidency gave great satisfaction. He was brotherly, considerate, earnest and painstaking. His messages were spiritual and evangelical. From the first note to the last, he was pleading for a widespread revival as the outstanding need of the Mission. Indeed, this may he said to have been the keynote of the Conference. Practically every address, prayer and exhortation throhhed with the yearning for power and for a revival. The sermon of the Bishop on Sunday morning stressed the foundation truths of the incarnation, humiliation, resurrection and glorification of our Lord. The impression was so marked that the Southern Presbyterian Mission unanimously offered to join in its publication and circulation and coupled with this a request to the Bishop that he allow it published, and our own Mission joined in the request. It will he put in Japanese and it is believed will be an effective means of instructing and convincing the Japanese, who of all things are a reading people.

The evangelistic campaign was stressed and plans are being laid for a revival throughout the Mission and in the entire Japanese Methodist Church. Dr. R. S. Stewart, our evangelist, and Brother Kugimiya, one of the leading pastors of the Japanese Methodist Church, are leading the forces.

A most interesting session of the meeting was taken up in hearing the messages of Japanese brethren who have gone out from our Mission. Brother Sunamoto, the first preacher who joined the Lamhuths in the work, and who has never wavered all these years, thrilled the meeting with his apostolic message. He is fired with the purpose to build a church at Shimoniseki to his beloved friend, Bishop Lamhuth. The tenderness and genuineness of the love of these men for the missionaries and for the Mother Church, in which they were converted, is most evident and touching.

We had a great memorial service, in which tribute was paid to the memory of Bishop Lambuth, Dr. Belle H. Bennett and Rev. H. L. Hughes. The latter was one of the younger members of the Mission. He had just completed his language studies and begun his work in the greatest possible zeal and with fine promise. The first telegram which met us on our arrival at Yokohama was one announcing his tragic death by drowning on the day before. The finest things were said of him, and his loss was felt most keenly, and all the more that he had joined the evangelistic ranks where men are so greatly needed. The memorial service was held on Sunday night and was a solemn and tender hour. Just one year ago Bishop Lamhuth gave his last message in the same auditorium. The memorials were read hy Rev. W. E. Towson, Miss Mahel E. Howell and Rev. T. W. B. Demaree, and were worthy tributes to these worthy and honored dead.

The Mission was gladdened by the coming of Miss Anderson, Miss Johnson, and Rev. P. L. Palmore, of Richmond, Virginia. Brother Palmore was married on the 18th of July, immediately after his arrival, to Miss Jean McAlpin, whose grandfather was a missionary in Japan and built the first Christian church in Japan fifty years ago in Yokohama, near where I am writing. Her father is a Presbyterian missionary also and was present at a Mission meeting held in Karuizawa at the same time ours was held.

Bishop Herbert A. Welch, of the M. E. Church, brought a strong and cheering, as well as most brotherly message, to us at our invitation.

The following statistics show gratifying increase in all lines. The only decreases are in workers. That is the chief need—more workers. The one thing continually stressed was the crying need for an immediate increase in evangelistic missionaries. Let those who read these lines pray the Lord of the harvest to thrust out men who will come to preach to these hungry millions. We must have them. The harvest is white, but the laborers are few indeed.

Bishop Hay was able to remain over and attend the meeting. His presence added to the interest of the occasion. He preached the opening sermon on the afternoon of the first day and, from the parable of the pounds, emphasized the idea of service as fundamental to the great appreciation of the Mission.

FROM THE PELICAN PINES.

By Rev. S. A. Steel, D.D.

We are wonderfully and fearfully made, and there is nothing more wonderful in our nature than our sub-conscious mind, the region we name Memory. When I go east, after passing Bristol, Tenn., all at once and without conscious thought, the songs I heard when a student at Emory and Henry College fifty years ago hegin to huhble up, and I find myself humming "Annie Laurie," "Kathleen, Mavourneen," "Coming Through the Rye," and many more. And with the songs, there rise to view the noble and beautiful faces of the friends of my youth, and all the tender memories of long ago. So when I travel from Memphis to Grenada, and especially as I approach Hernando, I hear a phantom congregation singing, and unconsciously join in the invisible worship, the songs we used to sing at the protracted meetings at old Hine's Chapel: "Come, humble sinner, in whose breast;" "Turn sinner, turn, why will you die;" "O, brothers, will you meet me?" "The old ship of Zion," and other sacred melodies. We had no choir and the minister "lined out" the hymn, that is, he read every alternate two lines. My father usually raised the tune. The singing was full of life, and I have sometimes heard it a half a mile away, when I happened to he late arriving. The men sat on the right side as you entered the church, and the women on the left, and it took considerable nerve in a young man to sit with his girl. No man would venture to come into the service with his coat off, no matter what the mercury might do, and a deputy sheriff would probably have quietly got some of the older women to lead out any woman dressed in the short skirts of today! We wrote in our copy books, as a lesson in writing, "Modesty is a quality that highly adorns a woman;" and no child, except the little pickaninnies, spoke of its father as "Dad." That is the lingo of the "Quarters." The Yankees whipped the South, and made the Southern people use the language of their slaves; but we had spunk enough then to use our own speech. The correlative of "Dad" is "Kid," and both of them indicate a vulgar ideal both of fatherhood and childhood, a coarsening of our thought, a change from the refinement of the drawing room to the slouchy vernacular of the curbstone! Do you call that progress? Our standards were higher then than now. I well remember the first time my mother heard me use the vulgar byword, "dog-gone." She called me to her, reproved me sharply for using such language, then taking a wash-rag, she dipped it in lye soap, and washed out my mouth, with the comforting assurance that the process would be repeated every time she knew I used that, or similar, vulgar expressions. The lye soap remedy was effectual. One application cured me. If I had called my father "Dad," the soap, plus a switch, would have been used to hold me to the line of decent speech. Thank the Lord for a home with such ideals! It all came back to me as I went to Sardis.

I found Sardis, as I expected, a community of intelligent and hospitable people, and greatly enjoyed preaching there for a week for the pastor, Rev. E. G. Mohler, who is closing his fourth year in that church. He has wrought well, and I heard only words of praise for him and his good wife, whose delicate health is a cause of deep anxiety to all the people who know her. She is a great helper to her husband, and I know from experience what a tower of strength a good wife is to a minister in his work, and also what it means when his right hand is stricken. Mrs. Mohler is at Hot Springs, and let us pray that her valuable life may he spared, and she may live long to bless the church with her useful service as a pastor's wife. I got a peep into several of the Sardis homes, one, that of Mr. Howry, where I was a guest thirty years ago, and that retains its charm still; another, Dr. John Anderson's, whose aunt, Miss Maria Anderson, of Shelby County, Tenn., was my first school-teacher, the heroine of the Yankee raid on the schoolhouse. I tell about it in my book to be, "Home Life in Dixie During the War." (But, between us, I can't publish it unless I get 1000 subscribers at $2.) I have told that story, from Boston to San Francisco in the North, and thousands of people have cheered to the echo the dauntless little Southern girl who defied a whole regiment of Yankees, and won the fight! I greatly enjoyed the home of Mr. Jordan Short. Mr. Short was a college-mate at Emory and Henry fifty years ago, and we floated back together on the stream of memory. Dr. Meek took supper with us, but he did not get a chance to put in a word edgewise. Short and I had too much to talk about, too many frolics to recall, and long-forgotten escapades to revive. How these boyhood memories link us in a mystic brotherhood and make us love one another! I found a delightful room at Mrs. John Rice's. It was exactly what I needed, quiet and retired, and made agreeable by the pleasant courtesies of a motherly old lady and her accomplished daughter. They are good Episcopalians, and that suits me, for I am largely one myself, and always feel at home with them, thanks to my Virginia associations. Just across the street, at Mrs. Ellis's table, I found a very congenial company and ample opportunity to exercise self-control in abstaining from indulgence in eating and drinking.

Sardis is the home of the Rev. R. A. Meek, D.D., and I had the pleasure of a brief association with him. In addition to being presiding elder of a large and difficult district, Dr. Meek is editor of The Southern Methodist, a new paper recently established in Memphis as a special organ of "orthodoxy." Dr. Meek is one of the foremost men in the Methodist Church, and a champion of her doctrines and traditions. He wields a brilliant pen and is a fearless defender of the truth, and the few issues of his paper that I have seen give assurance that we are not yet ready to surrender to the "Liberals," to whom one religion is as good as another. I did not learn it from him, but one who probably knows told me that the paper will give the "Liberals" a hearing if they choose to use its columns. I don't doubt it, and expect Dr. Meek wishes some one of the guild of rationalists would enter the arena and give him a chance to demolish him! Meek reads Biedsoe, and a man with brains to enjoy Biedsoe is a dangerous antagonist. The frisky little theologues of this day, paddling around like goslings with the straddles, and babbliug the nonsense of the "new theology," a la Fosdick, Abbott, et al., have to ask who Bledsoe was! Most of them would come up to about Bledsoe's shoetop in intellectual stature. Only superficial people are rationalists. Selah!

Brother Trotter, the Baptist pastor at Sardis, who was very fraternal, says he has a good joke on me. I heard complaint that my sermons were "too deep" for many of my auditors. So I urged them not to keep me in the shallows, but, as Jesus said, to "launch out iuto the deep" themselves. Brother Trotter said I did all I could to get the Methodists into "deep water," but they were afraid to venture! A good lady, however, greatly encouraged me by saying that my messages had strengthened her faith and opened up larger views of truth for her. And she is a Methodist. But it is only too lamentably true that preaching that makes people think is not relished by the mass of hearers. Much has been left unsaid, but this is enough about my trip to Sardis.

Mansfield, La.

MISSISSIPPI STATUTES OF MORTMAIN.

A Simple Statemnt as to the Changes Made if the Proposed Amendments to the Constitution are Ratified by the Voters at the November Election.

By Hon. O. B. Taylor,
Ex-Chancellor, Fifth District of Mississippi.

At the regular election. November 7, the voters of Mississippi will pass upon the proposed amendments to Sections 269 and 270 of the Constitution of the State. These sections are known as the Mortmain Sections. That the voters may know the effect of the proposed change, the following is a statement in plain, simple language.

Under these sections as they now stand in the Constitution, no person can, by a will, leave a dollar of money or property to any orphanage, school, college, or hospital, owned by any religious organization, or in any way for the benefit of a religious organization.

Should the amendments be adopted the effect will be that should a person desire to do so, he can, by a will, leave money or property to an orphanage, hospital, school, or college, or other religious institution or organization, provided, however, and only, if the will was written not less than six months before the death of the person making it, and provided further that if the property left under the will is real estate, it must be sold within three years, unless the Chancery Court for sufficient cause should extend the time.

For the further information of the voters of Mississippi, it might be stated that very few of the States of the Union have Mortmain Sections in their organic law, and there is no State in the Union, and no other civilized State in the world, so far as is known, that has such drastic provisions as those now in the Mississippi Constitution.

As to whether there is any necessity for such provisions may be gathered from the fact that Mississippi had no such statutes until 1857, and from the date of its admission to the Union in 1817 to 1857—forty years—not a single heir came into court and complained of the evils the Mortmain Statutes were supposed to cure.

Judge J. A. P. Campbell, the Nestor of the Mississippi Bar, in preparing the Code of 1880, purposely omitted those sections, and for a period of ten years, or until the Constitution of 1890, they were not in force, and during this time the records of the courts do not show a single complaint as to any evil effect arising because the State had no Mortmain Statutes.

The voters of the State will find very interesting the following quotation from a paper read by Mr. J. C. Wells, of Jackson, before the State Bar Association, in which he gives the opinion of Judge Campbell as to these sections:

"In a talk I had with him on April 14, 1916, when sound in mind, though weak in body, he, with great emphasis, told me that he was in length of practice probably the oldest lawyer in America; that he was admitted to the bar when he was seventeen years old, and had either been actually in practice or on the bench until about his eighty-seventh year. He was for six years on the circuit bench, and for eighteen years on the Supreme bench of our State; that during that entire time he never once saw the slightest necessity or reason for the Mortmain Statutes; that now, facing death very shortly, he had not changed his mind as to the position he took when, thirty-six years ago, he left it out of his code.

"Judge Campbell stated further, with reference to undue influence on the part of either priest or preacher, that he had never seen or heard a complaint made in court, nor is there a single case published in our decisions where it was ever charged by an heir that either priest or preacher had used undue influence to secure a devise or bequest for either himself or his religion, either before or during the last illness of the decedent; that many such charges had been made and sustained as to physicians and others, but not one to priest or minister."

For the further information of the voters of the State, it might also be stated that the amendments proposed have been approved by the Baptist State Convention, by the North and South Mississippi Conference of the Methodist Church, by the Presbyterian Synod of Mississippi, and by Bishop Theo. D. Bratton, of the Episcopal Church, personally.

Jackson, Miss.

THE MISSISSIPPI STATUTES OF MORTMAIN—AN APPEAL.

My Dear Friend: As you are doubtless aware, at our next general election, November 7, the citizens of Mississippi will have an opportunity to vote on amendments to Sections 269 and 270 of the State Constitution, which, if carried, will enable citizens of Mississippi to make bequests to hospitals, orphanages, institutions of learning, and other eleemosynary agencies that are owned and controlled by religious denominations. I am asking you in the name of your Alma Mater to support these amendments and use your influence to induce your friends to do so.

You will be surprised to learn that Mississippi is the only State in the Union that has any such sweeping prohibition, and it has been said that no civilized country in the world possesses so rigid a law in regard to this matter. A careful reading of the proposed amendments will show that the said bequest must be made six months prior to the death of the testator and that real estate so bequeathed must be sold within three years from the date of its acquisition by the legatee unless the Chancery Court, for cause shown, should see fit to extend the time within which the sale shall be made.

It would seem to be a strange fact that the laws of our Commonwealth will allow a man to make bequests in favor of benevolent institutions owned by the State and by private agencies, but prohibit bequests to similar agencies belonging to the church, which is doing by far the largest share of such work for the relief of suffering humanity. In other words, the State would allow a Methodist preacher to leave $25,000 to a State institution, but would not allow that same Methodist preacher to leave even the smallest amount to an institution of the same character owned and controlled by the church at whose altars he had ministered for forty years.

Any favor that you can give to this effort to remove so unjust a section from our constitutional law will be greatly appreciated by the friends of Christian Education in the State.

Very truly yours,
A. F. WATKINS, President,
Millsaps College.

Jackson, Miss.

The Power of Faith: Jesus said unto them, If ye have faith as a grain of mustard seed, ye shall say unto this mountain, Remove hence to yonder place; and it shall remove: and nothing shall be impossible unto you.—Matthew 17:20.

OUR FALLEN HEROES.

By Rev. Theodore Copeland, D.D.

Away back in the infancy of the world God began to call and ordain His chosen messengers of salvation. From Enoch to Malachi, from John the Baptist to this day, many elect souls like Saul of Tarsus have heard the voice of Jesus and beheld His glory, and, obedient to the Heavenly vision, have gone forth to conquer and reclaim a ruined world. Take John Wesley, for example: "Riding more miles for the Master than any man who ever bestrode a beast, giving all he had of money and energy and time, and at the last leaving a good library, a well worn clergyman's gown, a much abused reputation and the Methodist Church."

Southern Methodism has recently lost three of her most useful and honored members. I refer to Bishop Lambuth, Miss Bennett, and Bishop Kilgo, heroes of many battle fields, who counted not their lives dear unto themselves so that they might finish their course with joy, and the ministry which they had received of the Lord Jesus.

It has truly been said that Bishop Lambuth was the best known and best loved man in our church, one of the most eminent missionary leaders of any age since Apostolic times. He was a citizen of the world, having labored in the gospel in every continent except Australia. Born of missionary parents on missionary soil, his childhood was spent in an atmosphere that fostered his love and sympathy for the Christless nations. Lovers of missions will recall his thrilling adventure into equatorial Africa, praying as he went for divine guidance, which led him to our present mission station at Wembo, Niaml. On his last episcopal visit to the Orient, though in feeble health and contrary to the advice of his physician, he penetrated the neglected regions of Siberia and unfurled the banner of the Cross on the outermost edge of the world.

So many touching tributes have been paid to the life and labors of Miss Belle H. Bennett that any word from my pen would seem superfluous. Her consecrated personality and the charm of her unselfish, sacrificial life will be fondly cherished for many years by the great church she loved and served so faithfully.

The whole church has reason to mourn the death of Bishop John C. Kilgo, who has recently been translated to the undiscovered country where there shall be no more death, neither sorrow nor crying, neither shall there be any more pain, for the former things have passed away. Bishop Kilgo was one of the most prominent men in the church, of which he was a chief pastor. As educator, as preacher of the gospel, as administrator of the affairs of the Kingdom, in all his arduous and responsible duties he stood foursquare to all the world, finding his chief delight in loving, unstinted service to his fellow-men. The great purpose of his life was doing good. To this he dedicated all his power of body and mind; at all times, in all places, by reason, by interest, by every motive and every inducement, he strove to turn men from the error of their ways and awaken them to virtue and religion. Wherever there was a friend to serve or a soul to save, he readily repaired. He thought no office too humiliating, no condescension too low to reclaim the meanest of God's offspring. His message to the late General Conference revealed the inmost heart of a great man, whose humility and childlike faith and uncomplaining acquiescence in the will of God formed a fitting postlude to the song of his noble life.

When Michael Faraday, master of all the sciences, lay dying, they tried to interview the professor, and inquired: "What are your speculations?" "Speculations?," he asked with wondering surprise. "I have none; I am resting on certainties. I know whom I have believed, and I am persuaded that He is able to keep that which I have committed unto Him against that day."

Such was the experience of Bishop Kilgo, who reveled like a little child in those cloudless simplicities as his great soul passed away. Like the Roman soldier standing at his post amid the ruins of ancient Pompeii, these eminent saints remained at the post of duty until in the twilight they could exclaim: "I have fought the good fight, I have finished the course, I have kept the faith. Henceforth there is a erown of righteousness laid up for me, which the Lord, the righteous Judge, shall give me at that day, and not for me only, but for all them also who love His appearing."

Dallas, Texas.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL MAGAZINE ON THE SPIRITUAL STATUS OF CHILDREN.

By Rev. John W. Ramsey.

In the October issue of the Sunday School Magazine there is an article with the eaption, "The Birth from Above." As every one knows, Dr. E. B. Chappell is the editor of the Sunday School Magazine and Dr. E. Hightower is the associate editor. The article referred to is not signed; it is, therefore, impossible to say which of these two hrethren is responsible for the article and its teaching. However, let the author of the artiele be whoever he may, there are some things in it which, as I see it, need controverting.

The writer of the artiele begins hy saying: "There are many who maintain that the new birth is not neeessary in the ease of a child who is brought up under a proper regime of Christian education." After expressing sympathy with the general intelleetual attitude of those who adopt this conelusion, the writer states again: "While we sympathize with the aim and motive which lie back of this effort to escape the implications of Calvinism, we are forced to the conclusion that the assumption that a child may grow up in the Christian life without the new birth is fundamentally erroneous. It is eontrary in the first plaee to the teaching of the New Testament."

To show that the doctrine is contrary to New Testament teaching, the writer, after stating that Jesus allows for no exceptions when he deelares that "except a man be born anew he eannot see the kingdom of God," adds this eomment: "The word man stands here for human being." His argument is: 1. Every human heing must be born again; 2 A child is a human heing; 3. Therefore, a child must be born again. This argument may look all right and may sound eonelusive, but the trouble with it is the logie is wrong because the writer in his major premise assumes the very thing which is under discussion—the very thing which needs proof, viz.: That every human being needs the new birth as a prerequisite to his entrance into the kingdom of heaven. It must be admitted that the word man is generie, including woman as well as man, and, perhaps, stands for human being; hut it must be remembered that Jesus specifies no age, and since he was talking to an adult man, the logieal and natural inference is that he meant men and women of adult age. Especially does this seem to be the logical eonclusion when it is recalled that, on another oceasion, he said to his disciples: "Except ye be converted, and become as little children, ye shall not enter into the kingdom of heaven." The unquestionable position of our Lord here is that children are inside the kingdom of heaven, and if his adult disciples would enter the kingdom they must turn around and face back toward childhood.

The writer, as further proof of his contention, quotes John 6:53, 56: "Except ye eat the flesh of the Son of man and drink his blood, ye have not life in yourselves," etc. Also, Gal. 2:20: "I have been crucified with Christ, and it is no longer I that live, but Christ liveth in me," etc. I have carefully read these quotations together with the writer's comment, but I have to confess that I am unable to see what connection these quotations have with the particular point under discussion.

As a further substantiation of his position that a child needs to be born again, the writer says: "We are not repeating meaningless words when we pray in our ritual for the baptism of infants: 'O merciful God, grant that the old Adam in this child may be so buried that the new man may be raised up in him," etc. In reply, I have to say that to use these words of the ritual as a proof for his contention, the writer will have to prove conclusively that the "old Adam" is the thing which neeessitates the new birth, and that he cannot do, either by argument or Scripture. Furthermore, while quoting the above words from the ritual, he must have overlooked the first paragraph contained in that same ritual: "All men, though fallen in Adam, are horn into this world in Christ." Now, let the writer think on these words for a moment and see what becomes of his appeal to the ritual.

The most objectionable words of the author of the article in question are to be found in this statement: "The ehild is born with spiritual eapacity, but not with spiritual life." If it be true that ehildren are born without spiritual life, the seriptural teaching of the efficaey of the sacrifieial death of Jesus Christ may he questioned, and the implication of Calvanism that children dying in infancy go to hell is true. Personally, I would like to know what is to be done with a ehild born without spiritual life, except to send it to hell? I know that the old theologians invented the "dying grace" theory to evade this "horrible decree of Calvinism" but the "dying graee" theory was an intellectual gymnastie performanee necessitated by an inherited taint of Calvinism. The Bible does not teach it, and I challenge any man who wants to aecept the ehallenge to produce just one seriptural referenee in support of that old, worn-out, threadbare "dying grace" theory.

"A child is born with spiritual capacity, hut not with spiritual life," so says the writer of the artiele in the Sunday Sehool Magazine; "therefore, as by the offence of one judgment eame upon all men to condemnation: even so by the righteousness of one the free gift eame upon all men unto justification of life," so says Paul in his letter to the Romans. Who is right, the writer of the magazine artiele who says that children are born without spiritual life, or Paul, who says that the free gift eame upon all men unto justification of life? Personally, I regard Paul as the better authority. Children are either born into the world inside the kingdom or outside the kingdom. They are either born without spiritual life or they are born with spiritual life. If they are born without spiritual life, they are born outside the kingdom, and if they are born outside the kingdom, dying in infancy, they go to hell. If they are born with spiritual life, they are horn inside the kingdom, and if they are born inside the kingdom, dying in infaney, they go to heaven. This logic is unanswerable and the conelusions incontrovertible.

I do not wish to be understood as teaching that when a ehild arrives at the years of diseretion it does not face the possibility and even the probability of committing sin, either by the rejection of Christ or neglecting to aecept him, thereby necessitating his regeneration; hut I do contend that every ehild is born into the world inside the kingdom beeause it has spiritual life by virtue of the atonement of Jesus Christ. The sin of Adam brought condemnation upon all men. The atoning

NEW METHODIST CHURCH NOW IN PROCESS OF CONSTRUCTION AT BOGALUSA, LA.
Rev. Elmer C. Gunn is Pastor.

death of Jesus Christ brought life to all men, conditionally to adults, unconditionally to immature children; otherwise, the death of Christ was not co-extensive with the sin of Adam, and Paul made a mistake when he said, "Where sin abounded, grace did much more abound."

To come into the possession of spiritual life, otherwise than by virtue of the atonement of Christ as I maintain the child does, a conscious, deliberate acceptance of Christ must be made. The writer, whose article is here under review, admits that a child may grow up into the Christian life without experiencing a conscious conversion. This admission is a complete surrender of the very point under discussion.

In closing, I must enter my protest against such teaching as is contained in the statement that a child is born into the world with a capacity for spiritual life, but without spiritual life. I am glad I believe with the apostle, "That as sin hath reigned unto death, even so might grace reign, through righteousness, unto eternal life, by Jesus Christ our Lord."

NOTES FROM EUROPE.

By Walt Holcomb, General Evangelist, Cartersville, Ga.

V.

While evangelizing in Poland, the study of the country and people in the three partitioned districts has been full of helpful information and source of much meditation. Warsaw was the center of Russian Poland, and known as the Old Duchy of Poland, which was held by Russia for one hundred and fifty years. Russia had typed its architecture, agriculture, literature and politics, bnt never destroyed its identity.

The further you go toward the west, the more Russianized the country appears. Baranowicze is the frontier point between Poland and Bolshevikl Russia. The Methodist Mission has a well equipped cafe in Baranowicze, where the majority of the Polish returning refugees cross the border, fleeing from the inhuman Bolshevists. Cart loads of bony, skinny and dying refugees are dumped off here; and, were it not for the kindly ministries of our workers, the starved and famished would have been greater. Our old clothes from America have kept many from freezing.

Our Orphanage at Klarysew is one of the handsomest plants. It was bought and well furnished for a mere song. While the work, necessarily, started with Catholic workers, and the neglected waifs of Catholic homes, the Protestant cause has been recognized, and now the teachers and nurses are Protestant, and there are one hundred and forty children, who are proud to be Methodists. They are being trained in Methodist doctrine, and will soon be far enough advanced to join our church.

Austrianized Poland includes the southern territory, which has been under the intermittent rule of the House of Hapsburg for over one hundred years. Galicia was taken from Austria-Hungary and given back to the Independent State of Poland. The renowned city of Cracow and the famous city of Lemberg are located in this section, which was ceded to Poland by the League of Nations. At Lemberg, the Methodists have a relief station, and are gaining ground in this difficult land.

Prussianized Poland occupies the eastern side, adjacent to the German Empire. Posen is the commanding city here and is near the heart of former Prussianism. General Hindenburg had an estate in this section. However, he was not at home, as he had moved over the border, into a more congenial clime. The Kaiser had a palace at Posen, but it is now being used as a Polish University and city hall. Posen is famous for fine German liquor, which the Poles are still manufacturing. The Methodists have a relief work in Posen, which is doing practical Christian service.

In Chodziez, we have a well established church, without any relief house. But this kind of good work done in Posen has reached the little city and made us many friends. At a meeting of leading Roman Catholics, where they were talking about the heretic and Masonic Methodists, one of the leading Romanists arose and befriended our cause, because he had heard of our relief work in Posen. We have just closed a revival here, where my interpreter was a full-fledged German. It looked strange to see an American evangelist standing beside a German, preaching the gospel through him. In my gestures, I hugged him several times to make my points clear.

In Grodzisk, a flourishing city of fifty thousand, we have a good church building, with a splendid congregation. Across the Vistula River can be seen the homeland of the Mennonites. This is quite a military post, as the Germans had big barracks here. They are now occupied by Polish soldiers, who seem to be proud of their position. Our congregation speaks German, as all this country was in Prussia. Our pastor was a lieutenant in the German Army, and has since become a member of our church. I had to speak through a German interpreter. It was a spiritual revival and over a hundred signified their intention of leading a Christian life.

The closing engagement in this Prussian section was in Danzig, the Capitol of the free State of Danzig. The League of Nations opened this port not only to Poland, but to all nations. It is a wonderful place, enjoying the fresh breezes of the Baltic Sea. Ships from all the countries land here, bringing their cargoes to this open gateway of several nations. It ranks in beauty and importance with the best seaport cities.

Our church is large and commodious and has a strong congregation. German is the language spoken by the people; and I had a fine, educated, cultured German interpreter, who also had been called into the service of the Fatherland near the close of the war. He was graceful and fluent and interpreted my plain speech into the most eloquent German. He had the fire and unction of a Martin Luther, and was a wonderful conveyor of truth. The special services were all that we could expect. Many lives were touched and impressed for good. Of all the places I have visited in Europe, I had rather forget them than to blot out the memory of my stay in the City of Danzig, in the Free State of Danzig. Thanks to the League of Nations, and especially to the just and great Woodrow Wilson.

Hotel Deutsches Haus, Free City of Danzig.

TO THE PRESIDING ELDERS AND BRETHREN OF THE LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.

Dear Brethren: Our Annual Conference is scheduled to meet November 22 next. It has been decided that the sessions shall be held in the First Methodist Episcopal Church, South, of Shreveport and that Bishop Warren A. Candler will be the presiding officer. The time is not far off and the First Church needs to prepare to entertain the Conference. In order that we may do this satisfactorily, there are some things that we need to know.

First—We most earnestly request the presiding elders of the several districts, if they have not already done so, to send a list of all preachers and delegates who are entitled to entertainment, to the pastor host of the Conference.

Second—That all preachers who are intending to bring their wives with them to the sessions of the Conference shall at once send notice of this intention.

We are planning and hoping to give splendid entertainment both in the homes and the sessions of the Conference.

Dr. H. C. Morrison, President of Asbury College at Wilmore, Ky., will be present during the sessions and preach each afternoon. The Board and Committee meetings will be held at the night services. We hope all of the brethren will send the above information requested at once, as it is necessary that we should know whom we are to entertain and how many homes need to be provided.

Very sincerely and fraternally,
HENRY FELGAR BROOKS, Pastor.
Shreveport, La.

A REGRETTABLE DISCLOSURE AT MILLSAPS.

Mr. Editor: I have read with interest the article from the pen of Rev. N. G. Augustus entitled "Rall's New Testament History," which appeared in your issue of October 19. As a trustee of Millsaps College, I desire to state that it deeply grieves me to learn that such a volume is being used as a textbook in that institution. The quotations cited by Brother Augustus are quite enough to show that Mr. Rall is not a fit instructor for the youth of Southern Methodism, and if further proof of what he stands for is needed, it can easily be had. The truth is, scarcely any man in the Northern Methodist Church has been more terrifically under fire from the sound element in that denomination than this liberalistic professor.

Does not this development show the need of the trustees of our schools giving closer attention to what is going on in their classrooms? I have been connected with the Millsaps Board for many years, and I think I possess an average amount of insight; but I did not dream that such a book was in the hands of the students in attendance upon that institution. I hope that I do not need to say to the Methodists of Mississippi that if I had been aware of it, I should have made vigorous objection to having it taught there, and that I now favor its immediate elimination.

In my opinion, the time has come, in view of the general conditions prevailing throughout the country with respect to unsound teaching, when every Board of Trustees charged with the management of one of our educational institutions should carefully scrutinize its courses of study and make certain that they are safe and sane. And, furthermore, they ought to be sure that the instructors in every department hold fully and unwaveringly to the Christian faith. It will not do NOW to take anything for granted. The church should know UNMISTAKABLY what is going on in her colleges and universities.

I remember reading some years ago a book called "The Memoirs of the Waddel Family," in which an account was given of the founding of the University of Mississippi. It contained a most interesting description of the work of mapping out the courses of study for that institution, in which the trustees actively participated. It was set forth therein how Dr. Waddel, a Presbyterian minister who had just been elected Chancellor, and Judge Wilkinson, a trustee with skeptical leanings, clashed over the question as to whether the "Evidences of Christianity" should be taught in the new University, Dr. Waddel winning in the fight. (If I mistake not, this was the Judge Wilkinson who figured in the noted Kentucky murder trial that was immortalized by the marvelous eloquence of the renowned Sergeant S. Prentiss.) In my judgment, as I have already in effect said, our trustees in this day need to be less ornamental and more useful—they need to exercise to a larger extent the proper functions of the responsible office which they hold.

I trust that none of the readers of the Advocate overlooked the article by Brother Augustus to which I have referred. It deserves a careful reading at the hands of every Mississippi Methodist.

Respectfully yours,
Sardis, Miss. R. A. MEEK.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE BOARD OF CHURCH EXTENSION.

In accordance with Bishop Ainsworth's request, the Board of Church Extension of the Mississippi Annual Conference is called to meet in the Methodist church at Crystal Springs, Wednesday, November 29, at 10 a.m. All members of the Board are urged to be present at that first meeting.

All applications for aid from this Board should be sent to the Secretary, Rev. L. E. Alford, Meridian, Miss., not later than November 25.

W. M. WILLIAMS, Chairman.
L. E. ALFORD, Secretary.

There Is Yet A Thing Undone

When Methodists rallied to the cause of Christian Education and pledged unprecedented sums for its continuation and perfection, there was a thrill of rejoicing and congratulation.

But there is yet a thing undone. The mighty Movement stands uncompleted. We have not yet redeemed the vows we made.

And so the great need of the Church is still unmet, and must remain so until her loyal sons carry to a triumphant conclusion that which they so auspiciously began. The whole cause of Christian Education and all that it means to the Church, to the world, to our children and our children's children, is in the balance. It waits upon the payment of our pledges. What we do now will determine our future.

Shall we put our hand to the plow and then turn back! Shall we leave a half completed task forever unfinished! Let us pay the Christian Education pledge.

Installments on all pledges made to the Christian Education Movement are due and payable on November 1st. It is imperative that they be paid promptly and in full. Make your remittance through your local church collector or send direct to your conference educational Secretary.

BOARD OF EDUCATION
METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH, SOUTH

The Home Circle

HIS VACATION.

By Emily H. Glover.

"Mamma, what does the Blue Jay say?
It sounds just like "Chill day! Chill day!"
"And so it is, I think, my dear!
He says it in and out of season,
Right through the middle of the year,
And this, I guess, must be the reason:

Like other folks, he loves good clothes,
But he can't change as Biddie does,
For if he shed his wings and tail
He'd look just like an Apteryx!
He'd try and surely fail,
And then he'd be in such a fix!

But when the weather's nice and warm,
To lose one feather does no harm;
And so he drops them one by one,
And grows new feathers, fine and blue,
And sings, 'Chill day! Vacation fun Begins in Fall when clothes are new!'"

—Selected.

THE MONSTER OF THE NORTH.

There dwells along the Alaskan coast, ranging from Behring Sea as far north and east as Point Barrow, the strangest and most diabolical land animal to be found in North America. This monster of the north is the Pacific walrus. In the past, this strange animal was the very life of the American Eskimo, but of late years the walrus has so diminished in numbers that Uncle Sam has had to come to the relief of the poor Eskimo, who otherwise would disappear from the earth.

Formerly, the walrus was food, light, heat, clothing, and nearly all the other necessaries of life to the Eskimo. This animal also furnished the material for their boats, or kaiacs, material for their sledges, harnesses for their dogs, and many other articles and implements. But now this useful animal has nearly disappeared, due to the wantonness of hunters and prospectors. These thoughtless men slew hundreds of walrus where they used one, and that was what caused his disappearance.

In appearance the walrus is a rather hideous satyr, with nothing pleasant or appealing about him. On land he is very helpless and easily killed, but in the water he is a dangerous fellow, often wrecking small boats and killing their occupants.

The full grown male walrus measures from ten to twelve feet from the tip of the nose to the root of the tail, which is very short. But his strange flippers stick out behind another two feet. His weight is from eighteen hundred to two thousand pounds.

His skin is yellow and almost hairless. It is wrinkled, seamed, and ugly. It varies in thickness from half an inch, to two inches along the neck and shoulder. The hide alone from a large specimen weighs two hundred and fifty pounds.

The flesh under this nearly bulletproof hide is largely fat, the oil from which is a valuable article of commerce.

The walrus ranges along the edge of the ice floe, going northward in summer and southward in winter.

The food of this strange animal consists partly of marine plants, but he also subsists on small crustaceans which he gathers in great quantities along the mud flats in the bays of the Alaskan coast. He will even dive to the bottom of the sea, where it is not too deep, for food. He can inflate his great lungs and stay down for a long time. This is one of his methods of escape from his enemies.

The walrus calf is awkward and ungainly as the mother, but the strange instinct of mother love seems to be as strong in this great ugly animal as in any of the beautiful creatures of the animal kingdom. The cow protects and guards this strange baby as tenderly as any domestic cow would her calf. The calf suckles under the water, just as the baby hippopotamus does.

There are many enemies of the walrus family. The male walrus is most chivalrous and will fight to the death to protect either the calf or his mate.

There are many dangers both in the water and on land against which the walrus parents have to protect their offspring. Probably the worst of these is that tiger of the North, the polar bear. This wonderful animal is equally at home on land or in the water, so he can stalk the walrus calf, no matter where he is. Perhaps the walrus mother and the calf will be sunning on some rocks a mile or two at sea, but water is no obstacle to the white hunter. He will come swimming with just his nose and eyes showing above the water. When his strong arm reaches out for the calf, the blow that he strikes is like lighting, and the mother walrus must be quick if she is to save her calf. If the walrus can get in one body thrust with its terrible tusks, there is no animal in this hemisphere that can withstand the impact.

But the white hunter is not the only foe of the walrus calf. There are the Eskimos, and also many dangers of the deep. The blue shark may come swimming along, armed with his scimeter tail.

Many other monsters of the deep there are who would relish the tender calf, so the cow sleeps with one eye open all the time. She has but this one offspring in a year, so the calf must be guarded well if the herd is to be kept up.

The walrus family are fond of lying on the rocks in the open sea not too far from land. So their grunting and bellowing has often saved ships from striking on the rocks, while sailing in a thick fog.

A most interesting manoeuver of the herd is seen when these monsters come down to the mud flats to sun in midsummer. In the old days there were often scores in a herd. This herd was ruled over by a tyrannical old male. His orders were law, and he enforced his demands with his powerful flippers and his death-dealing tusks.

The herd will select a spot on the flats where there are plenty of large rocks, convenient for a sun-bath. There they will stretch out, a long row of mighty satyrs.

It might be imagined that it would be easy to steal upon this herd as it sleeps, and kill them all, but not so. There is always one of the herd on guard. First one will stand guard a spell, then he will prod the walrus nearest to him, and that one will wake up and take his turn. When he thinks he has done his duty, he prods the comrade next to him, and thus, the duty of watchman is passed along the entire herd, so that one is always on guard.

In addition to this, the walrus is a rather light sleeper. His hearing and sense of smell are of the keenest. The only animal with keener senses is the sea otter, also an inhabitant of the Pacific ocean.

No full-grown walrus has ever been captured, and only a few calves. Commander Peary brought a small calf from his last North Pole expedition. It was kept for several weeks at the Bronx zoo, but finally died. Nansen also procured two or three specimens, but their life was of short duration after being taken to the temperate zone.

Some arctic animals there are, like the polar bear, which acclimate quite readily, but the walrus is not one of them.

Personally, I do not greatly enjoy watching any wild animal which has been taken far from its native clime, and placed in captivity.

To the polar bear, used to the freedom of the ice floe, and the great stretches of the frozen North, his narrow cage must be terrible. One can see this in his movements as he paces to and fro, just so many steps in his range, or as he sways from side to side.

So this is the story of the Pacific walrus, the monster of the north, who was formerly so useful to the Eskimo, but who through folly and wastefulness of careless men, has nearly disappeared.

When will the average American ever learn that the storehouse of even bountiful Mother Nature is not exhaustless, and that some of her bounty, once lost, can never be regained?—Our Dumb Animals.

HOW OLD WAS SHE?

A candidate for the position of the world's meanest man has appeared in the person of the editor of a small Missouri newspaper, who published the following item in his "Social Gossip" column:

"Miss ———, a young lady of 20 summers, is now on a visit to her twin brother, aged 31."—Selected.

Platform for Labor and Capital: All things whatsoever ye would that men do unto you, do ye even so to them: for this is the law and the prophets.—Matthew 7:12.

SPECIAL OFFER

ONE 42 PIECE $12.00 DINNER SET

BLUE BIRD, FLORAL OR WHITE AND GOLD DESIGNS

For $4.98 f. o. b. New Orleans

Cut out this Advertisement and send to WM. B. REILY & CO., New Orleans, La., with Six Coupons from Luzianne Coffee and $4.98, and the Beautiful Set will be Expressed to You at Once.

All three sets consist of: 6 dinner plates, 6 cups, 6 saucers, 6 pie plates, 6 fruit dessert dishes, 6 oat meal dishes, 1 large meat platter, 1 round vegetable bowl, 1 oval vegetable bowl, 1 cream pitcher, 1 sugar bowl, 1 sugar bowl cover.

New Orleans Christian Advocate

HENRY T. CARLEY, Editor.

CHAS. O. CHALMERS, Manager.

PUBLISHING COMMITTEE:

Louisiana Conference—Rev. J. F. Foster, Rev. S. J. Davies, Rev. C. C. Miller.

Mississippi Conference—Rev. J. T. Leggett, Rev. J. R. Jones. Rev. W. H. Saunders.

North Mississippi Conference—Rev. J. H. Felts, Rev. T. H. Lipscomb, Rev. J. W. Dorman.

DIRECTIONS.

All checks and money orders should be made payable to the New Orleans Christian Advocate.

Communications pertaining to subscriptions and other business matters should be addressed to the Manager, or to the New Orleans Christian Advocate.

The Printed Label on a paper shows the date to which a subscription is paid. It is as good as a written receipt. When renewal is made, if the date is not moved forward after three or four weeks, notify us, and we will make it right.

Communications intended for the Editor should be directed to him at 512 Camp Street. Correspondents will observe the following rules: 1. Write on only one side of the paper. 2. If you have a typewriter, by all means use it; otherwise use a good quality of black ink. 3. Leave a space of at least two inches at the top of the first page; leave a margin of at least one inch on the left-hand side of the page; do not crowd the words and the lines together. 4. Take special pains to write proper names correctly and legibly. 5. Use letter paper if you can get it—not note paper. No attention will be paid to rolled manuscripts.

CONFERENCE CALENDAR.

North Mississippi Conference, November 8, at Water Valley, Miss.; Rev. L. P. Wasson, pastor; Bishop William N. Ainsworth, presiding.

Louisiana Conference, November 22, at Shreveport, La.; Dr. H. L. Brooks, pastor; Bishop Warren A. Candler, presiding.

Mississippi Conference, November 30, at Crystal Springs, Miss.; Rev. W. B. Jones, pastor; Bishop William N. Ainsworth, presiding.

MEETING OF PUBLISHING COMMITTEE.

The Annual Meeting of the Publishing Committee of the New Orleans Christian Advocate was held in the Advocate office, October 12, at 10 a. m., pursuant to call, all the members being present. C. C. Miller and W. H. Saunders, new members, were introduced and seated, representing the Louisiana and Mississippi Conferences, respectively. C. W. Crisler and W. L. Duren were also introduced and invited to sit with the Committee during its proceedings.

The meeting was opened with prayer by J. H. Felts.

J. F. Foster was re-elected Chairman and T. H. Lipscomb was re-elected Secretary, and reports for the year were read from the Chairman, Editor, and Manager, in order.

The financial condition of the Advocate was found to be slightly improved, the debt having been reduced through the assessments placed upon the Conferences by about $1000, and it is hoped that with the aid of a like assessment, which is asked of the several Conferences for the coming year, and by strict economy the debt may be wiped out by next fall.

A special committee of three, J. F. Foster, T. H. Lipscomb, and J. R. Jones, was appointed to consider the advisability of publishing the Advocate by contract or making such other arrangements as might be advantageous, to report its finding to the Committee one year hence. The Executive Committee was instructed to look into the reduction of overhead expenses at once if possible. The salaries of the Editor and of the Publisher were continued as last year, and resolutions adopted commending the fidelity and efficiency with which they have looked after the interests of the paper.

Suggestions relative to the financing of full page advertisements of the Superannuate Endowment Campaign were received from Dr. Todd, and the Joint Boards of Finance requested to provide for this, that funds contributed may go directly to end proposed.

On motion of J. H. Felts, the Executive Committee was requested to take up with the Editor a plan whereby each District may have space to make reports to the Advocate each week, thus adding to the interest of the paper as a news agency.

The effect of the campaign of last year to secure increase in subscriptions was found to have slightly increased the subscription list, now around 6100, but again we face many delinquents, to the offsetting of all gain unless active interest is taken by pastors this fall in securing renewals. On motion of C. C. Miller, the plan of last year to secure individual pledges for subscriptions to be secured was again commended to the Boards of Christian Literature for adoption, unless some other plan be locally thought best.

The Executive Committee, consisting of J. F. Foster, J. R. Jones, and J. H. Felts, was continued, to act on all matters arising in the interim of the annual sessions. The meeting adjourned at 12:30 with benediction by J. T. Leggett.

T. H. LIPSCOMB, Secretary.

PERSONAL AND OTHER NOTES.

We learn from our exchanges that Bishop and Mrs. James Atkins are the happy parents of a young son.

An exchange states that fifteen clergymen are working as floor walkers in New York department stores to eke out their meager salaries.

Rev. H. J. Moore, our pastor at Forest, Miss., is busily engaged in getting things in shape for Conference. He expects to be able to say, "A good year, Bishop."

Rev. Claude P. Jones, our pastor at Magnolia, Miss., is closing a good year's work at that place. The amount collected for the Orphanage on Work Day was $243.69.

Chaplain H. S. Johns, of the Louisiana State Prison, recently attended the Prison Congress at Detroit, Mich. Brother Johns is a member of the Louisiana Conference.

The reports to the fourth quarterly conference at Durant, Miss., showed that every department of church work was in a flourishing condition. Rev. R. P. Neblett is the pastor.

Brother W. T. Holland, of Greensburg, La., editor of the St. Helena Echo, honored the Advocate office with a call on Saturday of last week. He is always a welcome visitor.

Rev. L. N. Hoffpauir, of Leesville, La., paid the Advocate office an appreciated call one day last week. He was a delegate from his local Post to the American Legion Convention.

It is announced that Bishop Warren A. Candler will preach at the First Methodist Church, this city, on next Sunday evening. He will dedicate the church at Covington, La., Sunday morning.

The Publishing Agents have recently purchased centrally located property in the city of Nashville on which they will erect a building to accommodate the manufacturing department of the Publishing House.

The fourth quarterly conference of our church at Friars Point, Miss., passed strong resolutions to express appreciation of the pastor, Rev. C. P. Moss, who has been the faithful and successful pastor for the past three years.

November 19 has been designated by the World's Student Christian Federation as a day of prayer for students. The Young Men's Christian Association has set apart the period, November 12-18, as a week of prayer for young men.

Former President Wilson has presented to the congregation of the First Presbyterian Church of Staunton, Va., a bronze tablet in memory of his father, the Rev. Dr. Joseph R. Wilson, who was pastor of the church from 1855 to 1857.

Professor C. A. Bowen, of Millsaps College, was one of the instructors in the Standard Training School at Blytheville, Ark., October 15-20. Professor Bowen is a specialist in religious education, and his services are largely in demand.

The teaching of the Bible is a regular part of the work of the public schools of Hereford, Tex. The Bible teacher, Miss Marion F. Livingston, has prepared a booklet outlining the work in detail and giving a historical sketch of its development.

Two Mississippi girls, Misses Ruby Trigg and Nellie Stribling, won first honors in the canning clubs contest recently held at Atlanta, Ga. These young ladies will go to Chicago in December to compete with eight other teams for the prize of a trip to France.

Miss Yosabell Zook, one of the young ladies from the Methodist Orphanage, Jackson, Miss., who is attending Grenada College, recently underwent an operation for appendicitis at the Baptist Hospital in Jackson. She is recuperating satisfactorily, and will return to Grenada in due time.

Dr. C. C. Grimes, pastor of St. John's Church, Memphis, Tenn., will dedicate our new house of worship at Coldwater, Miss., on Sunday, October 29. Rev. Standifer Raper, the happy pastor, invites all former pastors of this splendid congregation to be present.

We thank Dr. A. F. Watkins, president of Millsaps College, for a copy of the souvenir booklet issued in connection with the Methodist celebration at the Mississippi State Fair. It is beautifully printed, and it constitutes an interesting and valuable summary of the work of Methodism in Mississippi.

Rev. W. B. Hogg, formerly pastor of the Winfield Memorial Church, Little Rock, Ark., has been transferred to the New Mexico Conference and appointed pastor of Trinity Church, El Paso, Tex. Brother Hogg has many friends in Louisiana and Mississippi, who will be interested to know of his assignment to a new field.

Rev. Paul H. Grice, of Johns, Miss., has had a good year on the Shiloh charge. There have been good revivals throughout the charge, and the three Sunday schools have an attendance of more than 100 each. The work is in good shape and the indications are that the pastor will carry a fine report to Conference.

Rev. Standifer Raper has had a fruitful ministry at Coldwater, Miss., and he expects to make a full report at the approaching session of the North Mississippi Conference. In addition to other gifts received by him this year, he announces a gift of $2000 to the Superannuate Endowment Fund of the North Mississippi Conference. Mr. J. A. Moore, of Coldwater, is the generous donor.

Announcement has been made by the trustees of Southern Methodist University that they have elected Mr. J. W. Barton, junior publishing agent, to the presidency of that institution. Mr. Barton was formerly a member of the faculty of the University, saw service in the war, and is recognized as an unusually gifted business man. We understand that he will continue as publishing agent until next July, when he will enter upon his duties at the University.

There was a pretty wedding in the Methodist church at Forest, Miss., on the evening of October 11, when Miss Julia Robertson and Mr. Roy Colquitt were united in marriage. The church was beautifully decorated and a large congregation gathered for the occasion. The pastor, Rev. H. J. Moore, officiated, and the benediction was pronounced by the Rev. Mr. Richardson, pastor of the Baptist church. The Advocate extends all good wishes to the happy young couple.

The following note has just been received from Rev. Leon I. McCain, our faithful pastor at Lafayette, La.: "We have just closed a very successful revival at Woodworth, La. There were 93 additions to the Methodist and the Baptist churches there; 62 of them came to our church. Twenty-six pledged themselves to erect family altars, and thirty-one to tithe. You will receive about twenty subscriptions to the Advocate from Woodworth." Brother McCain is not only a very successful pastor, but also one of our most efficient revivalists.

Rev. Hilary S. Westbrook, of Seminary, Miss., writes: "The work on this charge moves auspiciously. If something unforseen does not loom up to prevent, we will be able to make a very good report at the fast approaching Annual Conference session. The Rev. W. W. Graves, our efficient presiding elder, was with us on the evening of the third Sunday of this month and he preached a great sermon for us all. He held the fourth quarterly conference for this charge on the following Monday afternoon. The attendance was very good, but not what it ought to have been."

Some of the achievements of our church at Indian Bayou, La., during the past two years, under the leadership of Rev. P. O. Lowrey, are as follows: 125 infants and two adults baptized; 153 members added to the church; about 40 subscriptions secured for various church papers; a budget and weekly-giving financial plan adopted; church building and parsonage greatly improved; the Sunday school, the Epworth Leagues, and the Woman's Missionary Society developed and strengthened. Progress is evident in every department of the work.

We take the following from "Methodist Matters," of Coahoma, Miss.: "After years of hoping and waiting, the time has arrived when the congregation at Coahoma is to move forward in the erection of a new building. * * * The preliminary plans and sketches have been prepared, and have met with universal approval. They are the most complete and workable plans for a church of this size we have ever seen. They meet every need of the church and community, and without a needless feature. Every inch of the space is usable, and there is enough of ornamentation to make it a beautiful structure, and without extravagance. The entire community will be proud of the building." We congratulate the pastor, Rev. Del Longgrear, and his fine people upon the near realization of their hopes.

THANKS TO OUR FRIENDS.

We desire to express our thanks to the following friends who have sent us two or more subscriptions recently: Rev. P. H. Grice, Johns, Miss., 2; Rev. T. M. Brownlee, Starkville, Miss., 7; Rev. W. J. Dawson, Brandon, Miss., 2; Rev. Hilary S. Westbrook, Seminary, Miss., 2.

TWO THINGS TO DO.

On days like these we ought first of all to make a really earnest and determined effort to keep our heads cool. Nothing will be helped, and much may be hurt and hindered, by our getting excited and calling other folk bad names, and working ourselves up into a feeling of antipathy and dislike toward other good people. Even if they do not feel and think quite as we do, that fact may not furnish a sufficient reason for our disliking and talking them down.

Occasionally there are signs of a fresh breaking out of a spirit of controversy in the church, but in the name of all that is sensible and Christian where can such a thing lead us, save into trouble and disaster? Has it ever led us any other where? Has any good ever come out of it, save in a very round-about and uncertain way. Have Christian men ever advanced the interests of any really Christian cause or fostered the growth of any true Christian spirit by controversy over doctrine or custom or method in the Christian church? We find it very difficult indeed to discover where or when they have.

Yes, we ought to keep our heads cool, and avoid the heat of controversy and discussion beyond what is seemly, and refuse absolutely to be stampeded into any merely hysterical loss of faith in people and in causes.

And then, of course, we ought to keep our hearts warm. Warm in the first place with an intensity of love and devotion to our Great Master, whose we are and whom we serve. And then we ought also to keep them warm toward our brethren. That ought not to be difficult, and yet it does seem to be with many of us. But how can we claim to be Christian at all if we have anything in our hearts but love toward our fellow Christians! And of course we know that our love should not limit itself, even to those, but should extend itself out to the great world that is so dear to the heart of Christ and for which He died.

And then with head cool, we will be able to see clearly, to judge fairly, to estimate righteously. With heart warm we will be able to love and help and labor persistently, and to aid splendidly in bringing in the Kingdom of God on the earth. And how much this old world of ours needs its great principles and its wonderful spirit of love we all know quite well.—Christian Guardian.

TO PASTORS AND CENTENARY TREASURERS, MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

I trust that you observed "Pay-up Week" in your church and have already reported the results; but if for any reason you did not do so, please do this now, and do not stop until every subscriber has been called upon and urged to pay all due on their subscription. If any of your subscribers have moved away, please write them and urge them to send remittance to you—they are to pay where the subscription was made.

Please make your final report not later than November 20, so I can include in my report to the Annual Conference. Yours for service,

W. D. HAWKINS,
Conference Missionary Secretary.

FIRST CHURCH TO OVERPAY ITS CENTENARY SUBSCRIPTION IN MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

Porter's Chapel, Oak Ridge charge, Vicksburg District, is the first church to report more paid to date than was subscribed for the five years. Mr. J. A. Brown is the treasurer of this church and Rev. E. D. Simpson is pastor.

Who will be the next to report in full for the five years? Yours for service,

W. D. HAWKINS,
Conference Centenary Treasurer.

NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

First Year.

The Committee and Class of the First Year of the North Mississippi Conference will meet in the Methodist church at Water Valley, Miss., at 2 p.m., November 7. The Committee must have a full report to be presented at the first session of the Conference, which will be on Wednesday morning, November 8. So it is absolutely necessary for all the members of the Committee and for all the members of the Class to be present on Tuesday at 2 p.m. J. A. HALL,

For the Committee.

Second Year.

The Class of the Second Year will please meet the Committee at the Methodist church at Water Valley, at 4 p.m., November 7. It is very important that each member of the Class be present at this time, as the Committee must report to the Bishop on every man—whether his work is complete or not complete—at the first session of the Conference. THOMAS H. MILLS, Chairman.

Third Year.

The Class of the Third Year will please meet the Committee for examination at the Methodist church, Water Valley, Miss., on the evening of November 7, at 7 o'clock.

T. M. BROWNLEE, Chairman.

Fourth Year.

The Committee and Class of the Fourth Year will meet for examination at the Methodist church at Water Valley, Miss., 10 a.m., November 7.

The presence of all the class is necessary, whether or not the whole course has been passed upon by the Correspondence School. If a part or none or all the course has been finished, the Committee desires the presence of all the class, as none will be passed without personal examination.

N. G. AUGUSTUS, Chairman.

TACT OF AN ANGLER.

Tact is one of the qualities that are essential to the highest success in every walk of life. Tickling trout is no doubt a delicate operation and demands unlimited patience and skill. But it is child's play compared with stalking and capturing men and women. This is true as a principle, whether the stakes for which we are playing are high or low. The Duke of Marlborough is regarded by some authorities as the foremost soldier that Europe ever produced. But he was also a statesman, and, as an historian has told us, "was a consummate diplomatist, and his serene, victorious intellect shone with equally unclouded radiance upon a battle or an intrigue." His name is linked with four famous triumphs on the field of war. But possibly his greatest victory was achieved by his tact in an interview with the King of Sweden. Publicans generally are not superlatively endowed with the desire to help religion. Two men in the same city approached two of the fraternity to ask a favor. The first was so tactless in making his request that he was literally kicked into the street by the acolytes of the publican. The second was such a cunning compound of the wisdom of the serpent and the harmlessness of the dove that he won the enthusiastic consent of the tavern-keeper. He who runs may read. More wasps are caught by honey than by vinegar.—William Wakinshaw.

COMPENSATION.

By Clarence E. Flynn.

For everything that happens wrong
A dozen things go right.
For every tear a flood of song
Rings out across the night.
For every dark and stormy day
A week of days are fair.
However chill the clouds and gray,
'Tis always bright somewhere.

For every heart of bitterness
A host of hearts are light.
For every hour of deep distress
A whole long day is bright.
For every faithful friend we find
That many friends are true.
So, after all, God's mighty kind
To such as me and you.

—N. Y. Christian Advocate.

For Paul, as for Christ, there is no possible discharge from the duty of love, no substitute for it. Other things, even so-called spiritual gifts, are not only no substitutes, but themselves are worthless without love. * * * God's whole redemption is to a life like his own, to a sharing his life; and that life is love.—Henry C. King.

SECOND PAYMENT PAY-UP-WEEK, NOVEMBER 1st to 8th, CHRISTIAN EDUCATION MOVEMENT, LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.

PAY YOUR LOCAL CHURCH COLLECTOR, OR SEND DIRECT TO CONFERENCE SECRETARY OF EDUCATION.

ALBERT S. LUTZ,
1063 Sheridan Ave.,
Shreveport, La.

Obituaries

Obituaries not over 200 words in length will be published free of charge. All over 200 words must be paid for at the rate of 1 cent a word. Count the words and be sure to send the amount necessary with the obituary. That will save trouble all around. We cannot make discriminations. Memorial resolutions are subject to the same rule as obituaries.

REV. C. A. HASTINGS.

"Our little systems have their day;
They have their day and cease to be:
They are but broken lights of thee,
And thou, O Lord, art more than they."

When a good man full of faith and a life service as was Brother Hastings passes from the walks of men, I am constrained to recall these lines of Tennyson. He left this world September 18, 1922, after a protracted illness. The end came while in a hospital at McComb. He was sixty-six years of age. He leaves a wife and seven children to mourn his departure. Brother Hastings was a member of the M. E. Church, South, having been a local preacher of real worth to his church, his God, and his country for many years. I knew him intimately, and to say he was a man of extraordinary gifts as a preacher is to put it mildly. He was a student all of his life and had made himself conversant with many subjects, especially on the lines of theology, agriculture, and all practical questions of the day. It can be said of him that he served his day and generation well. As a logician and sermonizer he was above many men that hold degrees from theological institutions. As I have listened to him many times preach in that way which was his own and that no one can imitate, I am reminded of the Negro student that said to his master, when asked as to his grades in school, that he had made 150. I will say he will be missed by many of his friends, found in all walks of life. He was well thought of by other denominations. This is a common consent among all God's children that we will soon meet him. I grow homesick for heaven when I stop to think how many dear to my life have crossed over the river. I feel that "I want to go to Heaven where the angels sing and shout,

I want to see that city which we all have read about;
I want to meet my friends who have gone on before,
I want to see my mother on that happy golden shore."

We have prayed together, walked together out under the ancient stars and drunk from the perennial springs of spiritual aspirations till our souls would be so full that we could hold no more. I will soon meet him at the gate where he will be anxiously standing, looking at the coming throngs to see the ones he has left here below. His body sleeps in the Cavin burying grounds of his native County of Wilkinson. Rest to his immortal soul and peace to his ashes!

DELOS CASSELLS.
Gloster, Miss.

RESOLUTIONS.

Resolutions passed by the Woman's Missionary Society of the Methodist Church on the death of MRS. J. H. SARRELL.

Resolved, That this organization mourns her death and will ever cherish her memory, and that we extend to the bereaved husband and children our most affectionate sympathy. We would say to the loved ones remaining, "You know where to find her, for surely she was God's very own and He will see to it that she has her reward as she waits in His beautiful country for you to join her."

That copies of these resolutions be sent to her family, a copy be spread upon the minutes of the Society, and a copy sent to the New Orleans Christian Advocate for publication.

Signed by: Mrs. T. B. Hollomon, Mrs. O. Tompson, Mrs. H. H. Nabors.
Itta Bena, Miss.

October 10 was a day of sadness on earth, but one of rejoicing in Heaven, when the death angel visited the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Arnold and took from their embrace their darling baby, RAY EDWIN. Little Ray lived to brighten their home only one year and fifteen days, then closed his beautiful eyes to awake in the home of many mansions. His sickness was of short duration, but the suffering was very intense. It was hard to give him up, but we know he is safe in the arms of Jesus, waiting for mamma and papa to come. Earth has lost one more treasure, but our loss is Heaven's gain. His fair little body was laid to rest in Ramie Cemetery Tuesday afternoon. He leaves mother, father, five brothers, and one sister to mourn their loss. We extend our sympathy to the bereaved. May they look from the little mound of earth to the time when there will be no parting and no sad good-byes. The funeral was conducted by the Rev. Mr. Chapman. MRS. W. W. REES.
McCall's Creek, Miss.

PLANS FOR CHURCH AND SUNDAY SCHOOL BUILDINGS.

The Joint Commission on Church and Sunday School Architecture as authorized by the last General Conference was organized in Louisville, October 6. The following constitute the membership of this very important commission:

General Board of Church Extension Section—Rev. J. A. Baylor; chairman; Bishop W. F. McMurry, Rev. T. D. Ellis, Rev. J. H. Wells, Mr. J. H. Wilson.

General Sunday School Board Section—Mr. M. W. Brahham, chairman; Miss Minnie E. Kennedy, Mr. J. P. Jones, Mr. L. F. Sensahaugh.

The Joint Commission met in the offices of the Board of Church Extension and Mr. Wilson, of Lincoln, Ala., was elected chairman and Mr. Brabham, of Nashville, was elected secretary.

The work of the commission as contemplated by the legislation of the church was discussed at length and tentative plans of procedure were adopted.

Dr. Baylor and Mr. Brabham were appointed as a sub-committee to work out standards, score cards and other material to be submitted at a later meeting for consideration and adoption. This committee was also asked to handle all inquiries coming to either the Board of Church Extension or the General Sunday School Board, giving suggestions and counsel as the needs of the cases would require.

Mr. Sensabaugh and Dr. Ellis were asked to work out suggestions for giving full publicity to the service contemplated by the commission.

AN IMPORTANT MATTER.

Dear Brother Carley: Just at this time when the Annual Conference is approaching, there is a very serious matter that should be brought before the laymen of the church for their thought and consideration. I mention laymen for the simple reason that they, more than any one else, are really responsible for a condition arising and being practiced in a number of charges which, if allowed to continue, may result rather seriously.

In their eagerness to secure the very best pastors possible, which I must say is human nature and natural for any charge and really should be commended, there is a growing tendency on the part of the church to make an effort to have their pastor paid in full; and they have, therefore, allowed their Conference claims to suffer. A glance at the minutes of the last Annual Conference held in Alexandria shows seven charges where the pastor was overpaid, while their payments on Conference claims have fallen short of their assessments. There are also twenty-six charges which paid their pastors in full, yet fell short in their Conference claims. Persistent rumor is being spread in the Conference that some of the important charges in the Conference have been making a practice of placing the pastor's assessment far below the actual salary paid each year and as a result their Conference claims are cut very materially. This practice should not be allowed to continue; a precedent established, and the results will prove disastrous.

I do not wish to convey the idea that our preachers are overpaid; in all the years of my service as steward. I have the first time to vote against a raise in the pastor's salary, but we should not lose sight of the superannuated preachers, the widows and orphans and the general work of the church. Let us not allow our overzealousness for good preachers and pastors retard the collections of our Conference claims. None of us are paying more than we are able, and certainly with a very little more effort on the part of the laymen of our great church, our report to the Annual Conference can go, "PAID IN FULL."

Respectfully yours,
W. H. MOORE.

DANDRUFF
quickly disappears when
TETTERINE
is applied. Fragrant and Soothing.
60c at your Druggist's, or from The
SHUPTRINE CO., SAVANNAH, GA.

QUALITY GOODS
AT LOW PRICES
D. H. Holmes Co.,
LIMITED.

Public Service
HAS BECOME THE ACTIVE PRACTICAL IDEAL OF THE STREET RAILWAY COMPANY WITH ITS REORGANIZATION AS NEW ORLEANS PUBLIC SERVICE, INC. WE SOLICIT HELPFUL SUGGESTIONS AND WISH TO KEEP SERVICE ALWAYS
On the Job

CHAMBERLAIN'S COUGH REMEDY
FOR THE RELIEF OF
Coughs, Colds, Croup
WHOOPING COUGH, HOARSENESS
BRONCHITIS
—SOLD EVERYWHERE—

Clear Baby's Skin With Cuticura Soap and Talcum
Soap, Ointment, Talcum, 25c. everywhere. For samples address: Cuticura Laboratories, Dept. V Malden, Mass.

MURINE FOR YOUR EYES
You Cannot Buy New Eyes
But you can Promote a Clean, Healthy Condition
Use Murine Eye Remedy "Night and Morning."
Keep your Eyes Clean, Clear and Healthy.
Write for Free Eye Care Book.
Murine Eye Remedy Co., 9 East Ohio Street, Chicago

PARKER'S HAIR BALSAM
Removes Dandruff—Stops Hair Falling
Restores Color and Beauty to Gray and Faded Hair
60c. and $1.00 at Druggists.
Hiscox Chem. Wks. Patchogue, N. Y.

HINDERCORNS Removes Corns, Callouses, etc., stops all pain, ensures comfort to the feet, makes walking easy. 15c. by mail or at Druggists. Hiscox Chemical Works, Patchogue, N. Y.

DR. H. B. BARTLETT
National Dental Parlors
Canal and Bourbon Sts.
Over Worner's Drug Store
Entrance on Bourbon Street
Phone Main 2193.
NEW ORLEANS
Crown and Bridge Specialist
Vitalized Air for Painless Extraction
Most Modern and Best Equipped Dental Parlors South.

Epworth League Department

Editor, North Mississippi Conference.....Rev. R. P. Neblett, Durant, Miss.
Editor, Mississippi Conference,
J. H. Weems, 308 Second Avenue, Hattiesburg, Miss.
Editor, Louisiana Conference,
Miss Consuelo Martinez, 314 Broadway, New Orleans, La.

Material for this Department from the several Conferences should be sent to the editors named above. Copy must be in the Advocate office by Thursday preceding the week of publication.

HELP NOW, NOT LATER.

A number of voluntcers have been continued in collegc because of the timely help of friends in providing board and tuition. Schools have now opened. Several volunteers have entered conditionaiiy. Some of these will not be able to remain in school unless some financial assistance can be given. Contributions of $5, or $10, or $25, or $50 from individuals or organizations will help. Correspondence is solicited. GARFIELD EVANS.
810 Broadway, Nashville, Tenn.

NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE

On the Eupora and Maben charge, Rev. G. W. Baker, pastor, there is a splendid Epworth League at Maben, which was organized this year, during the present pastorate, and has been recently chartered. There were two representatives from this League at the League Conference at Grenada College in June, who went back home with new plans and ideals for their chapter and have wrought weil.

This League is bringing into active service a band of most excellent young people. They have an orchestra composed of cornet, clarinet, saxaphone and other instruments, which adds much to the efficiency of the work done at devotional and social services. These young people are all members of the regular choir and brighten the music at the preaching services, as well as at the weekly devotional meetings.

A public service was conducted by this Leaguc recently when a representative of the Conference Epworth League Board was present and outlined the workings of the organization. Though this meeting was held on Friday night, there was a 100 per cent attendance and a large company of the people of the community, showing their interest in the good work being done by the officers and members.

Following are the names of those who are leading this League: Miss Grace Hankins, president; Miss Mary Louise Cummings, vice president; Miss Mattie Kyle, recording secretary; Thomas Allen Hartley, corresponding secretary; Willie Hankins, treasurer; Miss Christeene Herpool, Era Agent; Miss Blanch McMullin, superintendent of the devotional department; Miss Rosa McLemore, superintendent of the department of social service; Miss Etta May Sheffield, superintendent of the department of culture and recreation, and Marvin McLemore, superintendent of the missionary department.

Out of this group are coming some of our choice workers and leaders.

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.

The following letter was received by our Field Secretary from Dr. R. L. Russell, Secretary of the Board of Missions. As all Louisiana Leaguers know, instead of all our missionary money going to Africa this year, a certain portion is going to be used for our French Mission work in Louisiana, and the letter is in regard to this work:

"Dear Brother Grambling:

"I am to-day in receipt of your letter and it brings very cheering news. I have been wondering for some time if there was not some way to get the Louisiana Epworth Leaguers interested in our French Mission. I talked to Dr. Parker some months ago about the whole Epworth League taking over the special of this French Mission. There is absolutely an unlimited field in there for missionary work. We could spend $20,000 a year in supporting missionaries and putting up chapels for ten years and work wonders in that country. I doubt, however, if we ought to give the whole amount for the finishing of the building at Houma. I suppose, however, that $2,500 will not cover the amount. I think a very good proposition for you to make to them would be that you will furnish one-half of the amount of the furnishing and they one-half. It will put them on their mettle a little to make a proposition of that kind. I expect by the time you buy the organ and seat it, it will cost $5,000. I am very glad for your Leaguers to take over this special, and would be glad to handle it for you. You can remit the money to the Epworth League office here, with the understanding that it is to be sent back to Brother McCoy, provided that is their custom. If it is not their custom to handle it, you could send it directly to me and I will forward it on to Brother McCoy.

"I am hoping when the Centenary period is over the Epworth League organization can take over about $10,000 or $15,000 special for the French Mission, and you can render us good service in this work.

"Please express my appreciation to the Louisiana Epworth League."

New Orleans District—Parker Memorial League.

On Sunday, October 15, under the auspices of the Second Department, this League held their annual service for the Old Folks. From the various institutions in the city the guests were called for by automobiles and were presented with flowers and the League colors. The guests, together with the membership of the church, enjoyed the splendid service. Special music by the choir was enjoyed by all, as well as the pastor's sermon, taken from St. John's Gospel, 14th Chapter. This annual service is looked forward to by both old folks and Leaguers and it would be pretty hard to tell who enjoys it most.

Beginning next week will be shown the final reports from the Loyalty Legion Drive, as reported by headquarters. If space permits, Alexandria and Baton Rouge Districts will be printed. Keep these reports and see how your District compares with the other Districts of Louisiana.

QUARTERLY CONFERENCES.

NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE

Sardis Dist.—Fourth Round.

Longtown ct., at Lee's Chapel, Oct. 28.
Crenshaw and Sledge, at C., Oct. 29.
Batesville, Nov. 5.

The duplication of dates in the foregoing appointments is due to the fact that in a few instances the presiding elder will be assisted by others in making this round. The brethren are asked to give special attention to Questions 13, 14, and 15 in getting ready for their conferences.

R. A. MEEK, P. E.

Greenwood Dist.—Fourth Round.

Schlater, at Schlater, Sun., Oct. 29, a.m.
Greenwood, Sun., Oct. 29, p.m.
Minter City, Wed., Nov. 1, p.m.
Drew, at Drew, Thurs., Nov. 2.
Sidon, at Cruger, Sun., Nov. 5, a.m.
Tchula, Sun., Nov. 5, p.m.

A careful and complete report will be expected from the treasurers of the Centenary and Educational Movements, Trustees and Missionary Societies. It will require a little effort on the part of the pastors to secure these, but the Conference will not be complete without them, and we must acknowledge we fall, if we fail.

S. L. POPE, P. E.

Greenville Dist.—Fourth Round.

Hollandale and Arcola, at Hollandale, Oct. 29, a.m.
Greenville, Oct. 29, p.m.
Gunnison and Deeson, at Gunnison, Nov. 1, p.m.
Duncan and Hillhouse, at Duncan, Nov. 5, a.m.

"The District that sounds no retreat" will make a decidedly better report in every way this fall than last unless some man "plays hooky." Surely neither elder, pastor nor lay man will be the guilty party.

JAMES H. FELTS, P. E.

Corinth Dist.—Fourth Round.

Booneville ct., at Liberty, Friday Oct. 27.
Booneville station, Qr. Conf., Oct. 27, night; preaching, Oct. 29, 11 a.m.
Wheeler ct., at Double Springs, Oct. 28.
Silver Springs ct., at El Bethel, Wed., Nov. 1.
Ripley station, Qr. Conf., Friday, Nov. 3, 2 p.m.; preaching, Nov. 5, 11 a.m.
Chalybeate ct., at Mt. Pleasant, Sat., Nov. 4.

N. B.—Let pastors see that written reports are made by Woman's Missionary Society and by Boards of Trustees, answering Questions 13 and 14. J. B. RANDOLPH, P. E.

Columbus Dist.—Fourth Round.

Columbus, Central, Oct. 31.
Brooksville, Nov. 1.

Pastors will please request Centenary and Educational treasurers to be present with written report, showing what has been raised this year, total amount paid to date, balance due, etc. Also remind the W. M. S. and the Board of Trustees to present a written report at this conference.

A. T. McILWAIN, P. E.

STOMACH TROUBLE?

Weakness? Distress?

Ashland, Ky.—"Many years ago my mother used Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery for her stomach. She had taken treatment from physicians and had never obtained good results. After commencing to take this remedy she noticed an improvement and I can say it surely helped her wonderfully. I am pleased to write this to let others know how this medicine helped our family. Any one will benefit by the 'Discovery' if they will try it."—Mrs. M. A. Brown, 642 E. Carter Ave.

Obtain the Discovery in tablets or liquid at your nearest drug store, or send 10c for trial package to Dr. Pierce's Invalids' Hotel in Buffalo, N. Y. and write for free medical advice.

Rupture Cured

IN 30 DAYS OR NO PAY

Write today for our GUARANTEED Propositon and free copy of book describing this wonder treatment, and record of marvelous results obtained. Just send your name and address to
Dr. Andrews, 304 Koch Bldg., Kansas City, Mo.

Methodist Benevolent Association

Gives Southern Methodist Men and Women Safe

LIFE INSURANCE AT ACTUAL COST

J. H. SHUMAKER, Sec'y
810 Broadway Nashville, Tenn.

TETTERINE

Makes Hair Beautiful, Free from Dandruff and Keeps the Scalp Healthy. 60c at your Druggist's, or from The SHUPTRINE CO., SAVANNAH, GA.

CHAMBERLAIN'S TABLETS

-SOLD EVERYWHERE FOR-
CONSTIPATION
BILIOUSNESS
Headache
INDIGESTION
Stomach Trouble

ALWAYS TIRED NO AMBITION

Nervous and Dizzy, Everything Seemed to Worry Me. How I Got Well

Larwill, Indiana.—"My back was so bad I could not do my washing. I was always tired out and had no ambition, was nervous and dizzy and everything seemed to worry me and I had awful pains in my right side. I felt badly about four years and could not do my work as it should have been done. I saw Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound advertised so much and it did so many people good that I began to take it myself. I am feeling fine now and everyone tells me they never saw me looking so well. I live on a farm, do all my work, and have three little girls to take care of. I am recommending this medicine to my friends and know it will help them if they use it like I do." — Mrs. HERBERT LONG, R. R. 3, Box 7, Larwill, Indiana.

Many women keep about their work when it is a great effort. They are always tired out and have no ambition. When you are in this condition give it prompt attention.

Take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, for it is especially adapted to correct such troubles, as it did for Mrs. Long.

Sunday School

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE SUNDAY SCHOOL NOTES.

The State Fair has attracted our attention for the past few weeks and we have tried to make an exhibit that would be worth while. I am afraid to say we succeeded, but we did our best. I desire to thank every one who cooperated with all my heart for their lovely spirit and fine fellowship.

October 15 was spent on the Madison charge, at Pocahontas and Tinnin. We had good services. Tinnin stated they would start the school there at an early date. Pocahontas has a very small but loyal school. They are filling their mission and deserve the prayers and faith of all. I enjoyed my visit with them.

I wish to take space to thank the preachers of the Mississippi Conference for their response to the invitation to participate in the parade. No, they did not all come, but a good representation did come and made a fine impression. Brother Lewis and his helpers of the Orphanage had as pretty a float as I ever saw in a parade at any place any time. It was as lovely as a float could be made. Brother Ellis, as the Circuit Rider, made a fine impression and led the march. Truly, this line of march let the devil know that God is not dead.

I wish that the two Mississippi Conferences would set aside a sum each year for an exhibit at the State Fair. It has meant a lot of hard work on the part of many, but it surely is worth the time and effort. Many historic things of interest were shown. This will enable the Sunday School Board to place an exhibit at Conference above anything we have ever had. It has shown us where to find things of interest. It has helped those who came to the Fair to know and see what others were doing. It has advertised before the world what the Methodist Church is trying to do.

Just a short time before Conference. Can we not count on each and every one of you giving us accurate reports? If we can get them, we will show the greatest progress the church has ever seen. Take an offering for the Sunday School Board. Pray for the work and the workers. Yours in Him,

JOHN C. CHAMBERS.

BOOK OF PRAYERS
Complete Manual of several hundred terse, pointed, appropriate Prayers for use in Church, Prayer Meetings, Young People's Society, Sunday Schools, Missionary, Grace and Sentence Prayers. Question of How and What to Pray in Public fully covered by model, suggestive and devout Prayers. Vest Pocket size, 128 pages. Cloth 25c, Morocco 35c, postpaid, stamps taken. Agents Wanted. GEO. W. NOBLE, Meson Building, Chicago, Ill.

BOILS Old Sores, Cuts and Burns have been healed since 1820 with
Gray's Ointment
Sold by all druggists. Write for sample to W. F. Gray & Co., 707 Gray Bldg., Nashville, Tenn.

School Desks
Opera Chairs,
Folding Chairs,
Kindergarten Chairs,
School Supplies,
Blackboards.

SOUTHERN DESK CO., Hickory, N. C.

Renew your health by purifying your system with Calotabs
TRADE MARK REG
The purified and refined calomel tablets that are free from nausea and danger.
No salts necessary, as Calotabs act like calomel and salts combined. Demand the genuine in 10c and 35c packages, bearing above trade-mark.

QUARTERLY CONFERENCES.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

Jackson Dist.—Fourth Round.

Harrissville, at Harrissville, Oct. 26, 11 a.m.
Capitol St., Oct. 29, 11 a.m.
Galloway Memorial, Oct. 29, 7:30 p.m.
Madison, at Madison, Nov. 1, 11 a.m.
Sharon, at Sharon, Nov. 4, 5, 11 a.m.
Camden, Nov. 5, 3 p.m.-7:30 p.m.
Bentonia, Nov. 12, 11 a.m.-2 p.m.
Satartia, at Satartia, Nov. 12, 7:30 p.m.-13, 10 a.m.
Eden, Nov. 18, 11 a.m.
Yazoo City, Nov. 19, 11 a.m.-2 p.m.
Flora, Nov. 19, 5:30-7:30 p.m.
Monterey, Nov. 25-26, 11 a.m.
Brandon, Nov. 26, 3 p.m.-7:30 p.m.

Let the preachers and laymen put forth every effort, not only to answer the questions of the fourth quarterly conference, but to have full reports. We have had great revivals in all of the charges during the year. "Then let us render unto the Lord thanksgiving for His goodness."

M. L. BURTON, P. E.

Brookhaven Dist.—Fourth Round.

Gallman ct., at Gallman, Oct. 28, 29.
Crystal Springs, Oct. 29, 30.
Monticello ct., at Monticello, Nov. 4, 5.
Summit and Topisaw, at Summit, Nov. 5, 6.
Pleasant Grove ct., at Tilton, Nov. 11, 12.
Brookhaven, Nov. 12, 13.
Scotland ct., at Bethel, Nov. 15.
Osyka ct., at Osyka, Nov. 18, 19.
McComb, La Branch st., Nov. 19, 20.
Barlow ct., at Brandywine, Nov. 25, 26.
Georgetown ct., at Georgetown, Nov. 26.

H. M. ELLIS, P. E.

Hattiesburg Dist.—Fourth Round.

Hattiesburg, Court St., Oct. 29, 11 a.m.
Purvis, at Purvis, Oct. 29, 30, 7 p.m.
Oloah, at Oloah, Nov. 1, 11 a.m.
Ellisville, at Ellisville, Nov. 5.
Eucutta, at Goodwater, Nov. 7, 11 a.m.
Silver Creek, at New Hebron, Oct. 12.
Lucedale, Nov. 15, 7 p.m.
Lucedale ct., at Merrill, Oct. 16, 11 a.m.
Leakesville, at Winburn Chapel, Nov. 15, 11 a.m.
Hattiesburg, Main St., Nov. 26, 11 a.m.
Sumrall, Nov. 26, 27, 7 p.m.

Pastors, please see to it that your Board of Trustees and your Woman's Missionary Societies have full written reports. W. W. GRAVES, P. E.

Meridian Dist.—Fourth Round.

Vimville, at Coker's Chapel, Oct. 29.
Bucatunna, at Chicora, Nov. 5.
Daleville, Nov. 11, 12.
Lauderdale, p.m., Nov. 12.
Matherville, at Langsdale, Nov. 17.
Waynesboro ct., at Hebron, Nov. 18, 19.
Waynesboro, p.m., Nov. 19.
DeSoto, Nov. 25, 26.
Shubuta, p.m., Nov. 26.

PAUL D. HARDIN, P. E.

Seashore Dist.—Fourth Round.

Pass Christian, Oct. 29.
Saucier, Wed., 7:30 p.m., Nov. 1.
Picayune, Nov. 5, 6.
Carriere, Mon., 11 a.m., Nov. 6.
Poplarville, Q. C., Mon., 7:30 p.m., Nov. 6.
Lumberton, 9 a.m., Nov. 7.
Logtown, 11 a.m., Nov. 12.
Bay St. Louis, 7:30 p.m., Nov. 12.
Gulfport, Q. C., Tues., 7:30 p.m. Nov. 14.
Pascagoula, Wed., 7:30 p.m., Nov. 15.
Biloxi, Tues., 7:30 p.m., Nov. 21.
Brooklyn, Wed., 7:30 p.m., Nov. 22.
Wesley Memorial, Nov. 26.

Let the pastors see to it that the trustees have their reports; and let the stewards please collect the pastors' salaries. If the pastors are diligent and the stewards faithful, the district will make a full report at Conference. Let us pray and work together. W. M. SULLIVAN, P. E.

Vicksburg Dist.—Fourth Round.

Centerville, at Stephenson, 11 a.m., Oct. 29.
Woodville, 7 p.m., Oct. 29.
Oak Ridge, Nov. 5.
Rolling Fork, 11 a.m., Nov. 12.
Mayersville, 11 a.m., Nov. 19.
Anguilla, 7 p.m., Nov. 19.
Louise and Holly Bluff, at Louise, 11 a.m., Nov. 26.
Silver City, at ———, 7 p.m., Nov. 26.

J. R. JONES, P. E.

Newton Dist.—Fourth Round.

Homewood, at Gasque Chapel, Oct. 27, 2:30 p.m., 29, p.m.
Raleigh, at Boykin, Oct. 28, 29.
Montrose, at Montrose, Nov. 1, 11 a.m., p.m.
Walnut Grove, at Zion, Nov. 3.
Carthage, at Bethel, Nov. 4, 5.
Bay Springs, at Bay Springs, Nov. 8, 2:30 p.m.
Laurel, First Church, Nov. 10, 7 p.m.
Laurel, Kingston, Nov. 11, 7 p.m., 12, 7 p.m.
Laurel, West End, Nov. 12, 11 a.m., 2:30 p.m.
Newton, at Newton, Nov. 15.
Chunky, at Suqualena, Nov. 18, 19.
Decatur and Hickory, at Hickory, Nov. 25, 26.

The trustees of church property will please make accurate reports in answer to the disciplinary questions. Reports from Woman Missionary Societies are expected.

J. A. MOORE, P. E.

FLOUR

According to a report of the U. S. Bureau of Chemistry, the South is being fed "breadstuffs woefully deficient in protein." The controversy which has arisen and is now filling columns in the daily press, involves millers, flour manufacturers, and the Dear Old Public, and particularly that portion of it residing south of the Mason and Dixon Line. The charge which one group of millers makes, and which is backed up by an abundance of laboratory reports, bureau findings, etc., is that the South is being made the dumping ground for the inferior grades of flour of the country, and that this is made possible by the introduction and rapid demand of the last few years of self-rising flours.

"Self-Rising Flour Digs into Vitality of Nation," reads a two-columns headline in the New York Globe and Commercial Advertiser, introducing a signed article by Alfred W. McCann, who appears to have gone to the bottom of the controversy and announced his findings. Mr. McCann reminds that while most people think "wheat is wheat," in reality, wheat, as standardized by the U. S. government, is divided into six classes and approximately sixty grades. Not only is there a difference between hard spring wheat and soft winter wheat, he points out, but the right kind of wheat contains between 12 and 14 per cent protein, while much of the poorer grades contain as low as 4 per cent protein. Continuing he asserts: "The National Cereal Products Laboratories at Washington, D. C., under the direction of Dr. Benjamin R. Jacobs, for many years connected with the U. S. Bureau of Chemistry, have sounded a warning against the alarming increase in the use of self-rising flour, of which, in the South alone, from 8,000,000 to 10,000,000 BARRELS ARE USED ANNUALLY. Of thirty-seven different brands purchased in the open market for analysis, examination has resulted in the literally appalling discovery that more than three-fourths of the whole lot consists of low grades, even the lowest grade and most inferior subgrades of chemically treated starch. The analysis reveals that into these inferior, demineralized and practically sheer starch compounds calcium acid phosphate and sodium bicarbonate are shoveled out without regard to the relationship between the amount of acid reacting leavening and the amount of alkiline neutralizer employed. Field investigation shows that when these self-rising flours remain on the shelves of the grocers until the chemicals in them have deteriorated they are shipped back to their manufacturer SO THAT AN EXTRA DOSE OF PHOSPHITE AND SODA CAN BE ADDED." The remedy, say the controversialists, is for the Southern housewives to insist upon flour of the finest grades and baking powders of approved merits, and apply the two together as intelligently as did their mothers and grandmothers, whose breadstuffs set a standard for health and palatability for all time.—Adv.

Newer Form of Iron Quickly Increases "Pep" Strength and Energy

"You cannot be well and strong, and full of vigor, force and power unless your blood is rich in iron," says Dr. James Francis Sullivan, formerly physician Bellevue Hospital (Out-Door Department), New York, and the Westchester County Hospital. "It is your red blood that enables you to resist and overcome disease and that nourishes every organ in your body. Without iron your blood becomes thin, pale, and watery. Poor blood cannot nourish your vital organs and as a result you may have pains in your heart or kidneys, indigestion, headaches, and feel all run-down and tired-out."

When your blood lacks iron do not waste your time taking stimulating medicines or narcote drugs, but directly enrich your blood with the newer form of iron sold by all druggists under the name of Nuxated Iron which is like the iron in spinach, lentils, and apples and is in a form easily assimilated into your blood.

Get a bottle of Nuxated Iron today. Take it for two weeks and if you have not, like thousands of others, obtained most surprising health, strength and energy, the manufacturers will promptly refund your money. Your local druggists will sell you Nuxated Iron with this "satisfaction or money back" guarantee.—Adv.

NOTE: Nuxated Iron has been used for years whenever needed in the family of the Advertising Representative of this paper with excellent results. We are able to guarantee that if you do not obtain all and even greater benefits than you expect from Nuxated Iron, the manufacturers will promptly refund your money.—Adv.

Bitter Chillfuge 25c
Has a bitter tonic taste and quick action in routing malaria from the system.
Will quickly stop chills and fever.
Splendid tonic for torpid liver and bracer for poor appetite.
FINLAY, DICKS & CO., INC.,
NEW ORLEANS.

LETTER FROM DR. W. W. PINSON.

Written from Seoul, Korea, Sept. 10.

The Eastern situation is "unparalleled," as everybody is saying. We are simply swamped and I am sending out an S. O. S. to the natives for help. In an ordinary shower you can put up an umbrella, but a deluge is another matter. All our missionary traditions, all our little precedents and blueprints have gone overboard. We must somehow begin over. It is a new situation. There must be a reforming of our lines, a recasting of our policies. Past surveys have gone the way of all the dead. They are left like the shell of the nautilus, "by life's unresting sea." "Build thee more stately mansions" is the cry of these millions. In education we are simply smothered. Like Castoria, "the children cry for it." One morning not long ago Korea woke up and said, "we must know." Who can teach these millions? Who can house them? If you doubled your capacity to-day, you would face an overflow to-morrow, treading on each other's heels. Yet they tell us we will lose their confidence and respect if we fail them.

Then our little thoughts about evangelism are like a toy whistle in a tornado. Not that this is a tornado, any more than our former thoughts were a toy whistle. But this is a movement for which we have no adequate provision, and in which our notions and methods are flooded and choked. How to house and shepherd and have a hundred new groups in a single district, and keep pace with the widening frontiers baffles imagination.

All of which means that when the Lord lays His hand on things, human measurements and forecasts are a huge jest, and man's best plans are left as fossils in the sediment. Is this mere rhetoric? If you think so, come and see.

What is to be done? I don't know—yet. For one thing we must believe. We must not be dismayed. We must not lose our heads. We must think soberly. The situation furnishes a well-nigh perfect opportunity to grow a harvest of blunders. The missionaries are alive and keen to the facts. They have method and sanity and poise. The Spirit is working in them with steady glow rather than with a consuming flame. Some things are coming into clear outline:

1. We must bring the church at home to face and parallel this awakening. Then they will pay.

2. Boards must face the new hour with new alignments, new emphases, and more adequate methods.

3. Various mission bodies must move upon the situation with concerted action and united wisdom and power.

4. Most important of all the native church must find its place in the [illegible] and upon the non-Christian sympathizer must be made a partner in the responsibility. The one new conviction that has broken upon me out of this condition is that the American churches can't do this thing alone, and ought not, and that the opportune hour has struck for rallying to the task the people we serve. We must lay aside our American self-sufficiency and acknowledge we are baffled and beaten without their help. Rather, we must let them know we have come to help them rather than ask them to help us. If we have failed at all, it is at this point.

We now have a chance to retrieve that failure. I don't see yet just how the Spirit will show us. The necessity is clear. There are signs of its being met. God speed it. It will mean a new dawn.

Antiseptic Mul-en-ol

Favorite for forty years.
Old friends can be trusted.
Stomach pains and nausea quickly relieved.
Also fine application for cuts and burns.

15, 30, 60 cts. Sizes
FINLAY, DICKS & CO., INC.,
NEW ORLEANS.

CROUP OR WHOOPING COUGH
ROCHE'S EMBROCATION
Relieves promptly and safely. Effective in Bronchitis, Influenza and Rheumatism.
W. EDWARDS & SON, London, England. E. FOUGERA & CO., 90 Beekman St., N.Y.

MOTHER!

Open Child's Bowels with "California Fig Syrup"

Even a sick child loves the "fruity" taste of "California Fig Syrup." If the little tongue is coated, or if your child is listless, cross, feverish, full of cold, or has colic, give a teaspoonful to cleanse the liver and bowels. In a few hours you can see for yourself how thoroughly it works all the constipation poison, sour bile and waste out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again.

Millions of mothers keep "California Fig Syrup" handy. They know a teaspoonful today saves a sick child to-morrow. Ask your druggist for genuine "California Fig Syrup" which has directions for babies and children of all ages printed on bottle. Mother! You must say "California" or you may get an imitation fig syrup.—Adv.

No More Rupture--Sound as a Dollar!

Ohio Man Finds Remarkable Device Which Succeeds Where Many Fail; Sample SENT FREE.

This is an invitation that no man or woman who reads this paper and who is suffering the terrible handicap of dangerous Rupture can afford to ignore. I want to send you, at once, free, a sample of my latest Sponge Rubber Rupture Pad, that so many users say has, when fitted to their case, not only given them instant relief from all the tortures, dangers and discomforts of Rupture but has effected a complete, lasting recovery so that all evidence of Rupture is gone and they are in perfect health and as "sound as a dollar."

Don't say this is too good to be true. Try it. Send no money—just your name and address plainly written and say "I am ruptured"—and I will quickly send you a sample Sponge Rubber Rupture Pad and full particulars of my generous offer in a plain sealed envelope. Address E. H. Scott, Hernia Expert, 5511 Scott Building, Akron, Ohio. Do this today—Before you forget. You may not see this notice again.—Adv.

CHRISTMAS
Cards Gifts
Folders Decorations
Order Early
Write for Catalog
DAMERON-PIERSON CO., LIMITED
Social Engravers
New Orleans

YOU OWE IT TO YOUR CHILDREN - TO YOUR FAMILY TO SEE THAT THEY GET THE MOST NUTRITIOUS WHOLESOME BAKINGS.

Don't take the chance of sacrificing quality, economy and food value by using self-rising flour mixtures. They are only substitutes for good plain flour and good baking powder.

The best baking results are obtained from good baking powder and plain flour. The results are far better than from self-rising flour.

There is no substitute for good baking powder and plain flour.

Economy does not necessarily mean cheapness of price, nor does it mean the easiest way. In these times the greatest care should be used in determining between true economy and the sham of mere cheapness because there are so many preparations and substitutes in the way of leavening agents on the market.

For best results use—
Calumet Baking Powder
and a good plain flour.

Woman's Missionary Society

All communications for this Department should be sent to Mrs. J. G. Snelling, 1431 Octavia St., New Orleans, La.

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.

Material For The Monthly Programs.

Realizing that the receipt of program material is frequently so late in the month that leaflets are of little use to the average auxiliary, the matter was taken up with Nashville. The following letter from Mrs. Lipscomb would indicate that the fault lies with the printer, and that in the near future we may look for better service along this line.

"My Dear Mrs. Niebergall: Your letter of October 2 to hand and I am snatching a moment at the noon recess of the Executive Committee Meeting to answer.

"I very much fear that the delay in the receipt of your literature is due to the tardiness of the printer here.

"We have moved into the new building and are happy to be able to make our distribution under better conditions and we shall be able to speed up all along the line. I do believe that you can say to your women that the trouble has not been in your Conference. Lovingly yours,

"BESSIE W. L."

Week of Prayer. November 5-11, 1922.

Our gifts and our prayers for Colegio, Buena Vista, Havana, Cuba, and the French field of Louisiana.

"Prayer asks everything; and it gives the all-in-all. It is hard; it is a cross, but it is also easy; it is the crown of life. It is God's Fatherhood acknowledged, God's friendship accepted, God's life possessed.

"Have you prayed with all your life and love? Then you have found God. In him you have courage; in him you have insight; in him you have joy for yourself and for all you love; in him you have eternal life."

About The Work In the Eastern Division.

Contract for the proposed French Mission School at Houma, La., which is to be erected from Week of Prayer Funds, has been let to the Montague Construction Company, of Abbeville, La.

Owing to the proposed building of very important highways in Terrebonne Parish, La., the Wesley Community House property, on which will be located the French Mission School, is enhancing in value. Three of the highways will touch our property.

A School for the French Mission Field.

Mrs. J. H. McCoy,
Administrative Secretary, Home Field, Eastern Division.

"Show thy marvelous loving-kindness, O thou that savest by thy right hand them that take refuge in thee."

By the French Field is meant that section of Southeastern Louisiana in which reside about 240,000 people of French descent, residents of this continent since pre-colonial days, but isolated from national progress by the use of the French language and the influence of a medieval church.

The ancestors of the people of the French Mission Field came from that section of the French colonial empire to which was given the name of Acadia, and which comprised what is now known as Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, and a part of Maine. When the French were conquered by the British, the Acadians were accused of abusing their privileges as neutrals, and in 1755 several thousand of them were deported, with much harsh treatment, southward.

The origin of the people of the French Mission Field is preserved in the perverted name "Cajaens" (Acadians), by which they are commonly called. The tragic romance of their deportation has been sung by Longfellow in the poem "Evangeline."

The Acadians of Louisiana are a gentle, loving people. Although so many of them are superstitious, ignorant, and industrially inefficient, they are by temperament very religious, and their reverence of what they hold sacred might well be imitated by the young people of other sections of the nation.

Our Protestant missionaries in the French Field are hindered by the lack of native educated leadership. The people are ready to accept a gospel that liberates. Protestantism must educate its own future leadership.

For this reason the Woman's Missionary Council has recommended the erection on the Houma Wesley Community House property of a modest school for elementary education and industrial training. The school is to be co-educational. The residence on the property, used as a Community Center and Workers' Home, will be arranged to accommodate the girls, while a new building, containing schoolrooms and boys' dormitory, should be built; $25,000 will be needed for this purpose.

No funds are appropriated for the maintenance of the school. It costs $150 a year, just a little over forty cents (40 cents) a day to keep a student in school. Benevolent people are giving scholarships for these young people. We need scholarships and we need funds for equipping and developing the school.

The announcement that Southern Methodist women are to build a school for the French Mission Field is bringing to the hearts of the people of our communion and to these patient, long-suffering, submissive folk a new day of hope.

Longfellow puts this prayer on the lips of the Acadians as they leave the shores of their beloved Canadian home: "Fill our hearts this day with strength and submission and patience." With the coming of the French Mission School the hope ascends that the days of this people's submissive patience and sorrow are passing, and that the wide-open door of Christian education and evangelism will bring to their hearts a new and more joyous outlook upon the life of the here and a sweeter, higher hope for the blessed life of the hereafter.

The Woman's Missionary Council has voted to direct the portion of the Week of Prayer offering for the Home Field to the French Mission School. May a new record of liberality be made by our consecrated women so that this needy people may be helped and this great work go forward.

Some Facts Concerning the French Mission Field.

Terrebonne is the largest Parish in Louisiana. Area 1,806 square miles.

Houma is the parish seat. It was settled in 1838.

Houma is situated about fifty miles southwest of New Orleans.

Houma took its name from the Houmas tribe of Indians.

Houma's population is about 6,000.

Houma is situated at the junction of six navigable bayous, and is directly on the intercoastal canal route.

The banks of each of these bayous are settled for miles in every direction.

Houma is served by the Southern Pacific Railroad.

Houma is directly connected with New Orleans by steamboat service.

Houma is the center of a tremendous sugar-producing area.

The production of the refined product in this parish amounts to approximately $3,250,000 annually.

The first settlement in Terrebonne Parish was made on Bayou Grand Caillou about 1740.

Among the most valuable and important of the natural assets of Terrebonne Parish is its inexhaustible supply of natural gas.

Terrebonne borders on the Gulf of Mexico. It is intersected by numerous lakes, bayous, and bays. All of these contain a wonderful variety of edible game, fish, shrimp, and oysters.

FROM THE FRENCH MISSION FIELD.

Dear Advocate: Just a few words to let the brethren in Louisiana and Mississippi know what is going on in this field. I have been at work in the Lord's vineyard since January 1. I have spent all my time in revival work for the past four months, and I have much for which to thank the dear Lord. During my four months of revival work, twenty-four left the field of sin and entered into the sheepfold of our Lord. Dear brethren, we need your co-operation in prayer for this French field.

O brethren, Mr. Wesley's torch set the world on fire; we are building on the same foundation and we must set the world on fire with our torch. Wherefore let us take the whole armor of God, that we may be able to stand against the wiles of the devil. For we wrestle not against flesh and blood, but against principalities, against powers, against the rulers of the darkness of this world, against spiritual wickedness in high places. Let us have our loins girt with the truth, having on the breastplate of righteousness, and our feet shod with the preparation of the gospel. Let us not forget the helmet of salvation and the sword of the Spirit, which is the Word of God. So we would appreciate your co-operation in prayer. We have a great opportunity in this French field.

Rev. R. E. Martin and K. F. Martin are building a nice church at Point-aue-Chene, which will be completed this week. But, best of all, a school has been started at the Wesley House in Houma, of which Miss Ella Hooper is head host. This is the only hope for this French field—train our own people to prepare themselves with the gospel of peace. Fraternally yours,

G. A. LaGRANGE,
Pastor Bayou Blue Circuit.
Houma, La.

Winning An Enemy: If thine enemy be hungry, give him bread to eat; and if he be thirsty, give him water to drink.—Proverbs 25:21.

Dodson's Liver Tone Killing Calomel Sale

Don't sicken or salivate yourself or paralyze your sensitive liver by taking calomel which is quicksilver. Your dealer sells each bottle of pleasant, harmless "Dodson's Liver Tone" under an ironclad, money-back guarantee that it regulates the liver, stomach and bowels better than calomel without making you sick—15 million bottles sold.

WINTERSMITH'S CHILL TONIC
SOLD 50 YEARS
A FINE GENERAL TONIC

Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic
Invigorates, Purifies and Enriches the Blood. 60c

TETTERINE
CLEARS BABY'S SKIN
and drives off the Rash and Pimples. Harmless, Soothing, Fragrant.
60c at your Druggist's, or from The SHUPTRINE CO., SAVANNAH, GA.

FREEDOM FROM LAXATIVES

Discovery by Scientists Has Replaced Them.

Pills and salts give temporary relief from constipation only at the expense of permanent injury, says an eminent medical authority.

Science has found a newer, better way—a means as simple as Nature itself.

In perfect health a natural lubricant keeps the food waste soft and moving. But when constipation exists this natural lubricant is not sufficient. Medical authorities have found that the gentle lubricating action of Nujol most closely resembles that of Nature's own lubricant. As Nujol is not a laxative it cannot gripe. It is in no sense a medicine. And like pure water it is harmless and pleasant.

Nujol is prescribed by physicians; used in leading hospitals. Get a bottle from your druggist today.—Advertisement.

THAT MAN TO BE—OUR BOY.

By L. L. Bailey.

That man to be—our boy—must strengthen his body as well as his brain in his school days—not that he may engage in lawless physical combat and physical fights with other boys and men, and when he grows up, by the lack of proper physical control, become known as a brawler and undesirable and disreputable character, but that his physical forces may properly support the mental in their sound reasoning, through the possession of virile physical health and strength, developed during the scholastic period of life.

In olden times man used to believe that physical combat and brawls were essential signs of manhood, and that physical encounters were necessary to the development of manhood; modern man believes in mental and physical development through athletics and competitive games, in friendly rivalry, which teach self-control through penalties for unfair plays, and in this manner, while developing mental and physical health and prowess under the self-control, fostered and developed by the application of these rules, likewise help hand-in-hand with scholastic education to produce a citizenship which is bound to become a bulwark for the better protection of society at large.

It is often harder and more manly to control our temper and not give way to it, than to lose it and engage in physical fights, in which right may or may not be strong enough to win out. For if we are too weak physically to win and our cause is just, it is better to use tact and our wits to avoid physical encounter, and, if necessary, later bring our grievances into court of law; and if we are strong enough physically to win, we ought to be strong enough to refuse to engage in a brawl or fight with one who seems to be incapable of knowing right from wrong.

Since, under the laws of nature, there are times when mental forces meet, and demand a positive and a negative, and that our boy must at such times become the positive under these laws, our boy must win over woman, not by the brutal forces of nature, but by fairness, strength of character, wisdom, sympathy, intellect, wit and gentleness.

For our boy of to-day will soon be our man of to-morrow, to help make safe and happy the lives of all of his day, and if his life be a normal one, he will be expected to take unto himself a wife for whose protection and happiness in life he and the laws of the land will be responsible.

Our boy—that man to be—must, therefore, while young, not only be taught the value of good citizenship—mentally, physically and morally, under government and law, but that his government expects him to learn to be self-supporting and likewise later to make and support and own a home of his own, and that to do this he must first learn, while young, the best means of earning a living; next in importance is to acquire habits of thrift—that is, learning to waste nothing, whether it be materials, or time, and especially time during working hours—the time one devotes to making oneself financially secure. Equally important is the formation of the habit of saving as much of the money he makes as possible, so that when he meets the girl he loves, he may be in a position to build a home for her, and insure her as well as himself against financial want. He may be called a tight-wad by some of the girls and boys of his acquaintance, but by the time he has grown up and is ready to settle down, he will not only get the girl he wants but will have already provided for her and she will have no misgivings at the time she casts her lot with him.

And our boy—that man to be—must be warned against going into business for himself without a thorough and working knowledge of such business in all of its details. He must be reminded that owing to lack of sufficient money capital and a knowledge of business methods, from 75 to 90 per cent of every hundred persons who engage in business fail.

With this basic knowledge acquired by our boy during his scholastic period of life, there is no reason why our boy should not grow up to become a good, honorable, and useful citizen, and a joy and pride to his loved ones and his country.

Iowa Physician Makes Startling Offer to Catarrh Sufferers

Found Treatment Which Healed His Own Catarrh and Now Offers To Send It Free To Sufferers Anywhere.

Davenport, Iowa.—Dr. W. O. Coffee, Suite 726, St. James Hotel Bldg., this city, one of the most widely known physicians and surgeons in the central west, announces that he found a treatment which completely healed him of catarrh in the head and nose, deafness and head noises after many years of suffering. He then gave the treatment to a number of other sufferers and they state that they also were completely healed. The Doctor is so proud of his achievement and so confident that his treatment will bring other sufferers the same freedom it gave him, that he is offering to send a 10 days' supply absolutely free to any reader of this paper who writes him. Dr. Coffee has specialized on eye, ear, nose and throat diseases for more than thirty-five years and is honored and respected by countless thousands. If you suffer from nose, head or throat catarrh, catarrhal deafness or head noises, send him your name and address today.—Adv.

AN UNUSUAL THING IN ILLINOIS.

The Illinois Conference Sunday School Board has taken a step toward the cultivation of the Sunday school superintendents which is very aggressive. The chairman of the Board, Rev. A. E. Thomas, has sent in a complete list of the one hundred superintendents in his Conference, and a check was enclosed covering the cost of one hundred subscriptions to "The Methodist Superintendent and His Helpers." In other words, every superintendent in the Illinois Conference is to receive this monthly publication for one year at the expense of the Sunday School Board.

While the Illinois Conference is one of the smallest in the entire connection and while the subscription price of the periodical is only twenty-five cents a year, the undertaking is nevertheless a worthy one and is to be heartily commended.

RECIPE FOR GRAY HAIR.

To half pint of water add 1 oz. Bay Rum, a small box of Barbo Compound, and 1-4 oz. of glycerine. Any druggist can put this up or you can mix it at home at very little cost. Apply to the hair twice a week until the desired shade is obtained. It will gradually darken streaked, faded or gray hair and make it soft and glossy. It will not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy and does not rub off.—Adv.

QUARTERLY CONFERENCES.

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.

Shreveport Dist.—Fourth Round.

Gibsland, Sun., Oct. 29, a.m.
Plain Dealing, at Walker's Chapel, Thurs., Nov. 2.
Wesley, at Carroll Creek, Sun., Nov. 5, a.m.
Ringgold, Mon., Nov. 6.
Grand Cane, Wed., Nov. 8 (conference).
Mansfield, Wed., Nov. 8, p.m. (conference).
Minden, Fri., Nov. 10, p.m.
First Church, Shreveport, Sun., Nov. 12, a.m. (preaching).
Mooringsport, Sun., Nov. 12, p.m.
Noel Memorial, Mon., Nov. 13, p.m. (conference).
Cedar Grove, Wed., Nov. 15, p.m.
First Church, Shreveport (conference), Fri., Nov. 17, p.m.

R. H. WYNN, P. E.

Baton Rouge Dist.—Fourth Round.

St. Francisville, Oct. 29, a.m.
Olive Branch, Gilead, Nov. 5, a.m.
Clinton, Clinton, Nov. 5, p.m.
Franklinton ct., Fisher, Nov. 12, a.m.
Franklinton, Nov. 12, p.m.
Baton Rouge, First Ch., Nov. 14, p.m.
Hammond, Nov. 15, p.m.
Dunham Springs, Dunham Springs, Nov. 19, a.m.

J. W. LEE, P. E.

Alexandria Dist.—Fourth Round.

Provencal ct., at Provencal, Oct. 29.
Bunkie, Nov. 2, p.m.
Alexandria, preaching, Nov. 5, a.m.; conference, Nov. 6, p.m.
Marksville ct., at Marksville, Nov. 5, p.m.
Pleasant Hill ct., at Pleasant Hill, Nov. 12.
Natchitoches, Nov. 16, p.m.
Rochelle and Standard, at Rochelle, Nov. 19.

Preachers in charge will please see that the trustees have reports in hand concerning church property. Pastors will also nominate only the number of stewards allowed by the law of the church. Brethren, arrange your nominations accordingly. The law will be enforced.

W. L. DOSS, Jr., P. E.

Lake Charles Dist.—Fourth Round.

Morgan City, Oct. 29, a.m.
Jeanerette, Oct. 29, p.m.
Many, Nov. 5, a.m.
Sulphur, Nov. 12, a.m.
Lake Arthur, Nov. 12, p.m.
Merryville, Nov. 19, a.m.
Ludington, Nov. 19, p.m.

J. B. WILLIAMS, P. E.

Monroe-Ruston Dist.—Fourth Round.

Chatham, at Frantam's Chapel, Nov. 1, 11 a.m.
Eros, at Eros, Nov. 3, preaching, 11 a.m.
Waterproof, at St. Joseph, Nov. 5, 3 p.m.
Sicily Island, at Sicily Island, Nov. 12, preaching, 11 a.m.
Lake Providence, Nov. 15, 8 p.m.
Monroe, Nov. 17, 8 p.m.
Bernice, at Bernice, Nov. 19, preaching, 11 a.m.
Ruston, Nov. 20, 8 p.m.

The Licensing Committee will meet at Monroe Sept. 19, 10 a.m.

K. W. DODSON, P. E.

New Orleans Dist.—Fourth Round.

Pearl River ct., at St. Tammany, Oct. 27, 11 a.m.
Bogalusa ct., at Sun, Nov. 4, 10 a.m.
Bogalusa sta., Nov. 4, 7:30 p.m.
Covington et., Nov. 5, 3 p.m.
Slidell, Nov. 5, 7:30 p.m.
Louisiana Avenue, Nov. 6, 7:30 p.m.
St. Mark's, Nov. 7, 7:30 p.m.
Second Church, Nov. 8, 7:30 p.m.
Algiers, Nov. 9, 7:30 p.m.
McDonoghville, Nov. 10, 7:30 p.m.
Epworth, Nov. 13, 7:30 p.m.
Felicity, Nov. 14, 7:30 p.m.
First Church, Nov. 15, 7:30 p.m.
Carrollton Avenue, Nov. 16, 7:30 p.m.
Rayne Memorial, Nov. 17, 7:30 p.m.
Parker Memorial, Nov. 19, 7:30 p.m.

Pastors will please endeavor to have reports from each department of the work. Please do not fail to have the president of the Board of Trustees to answer Question 15.

J. G. SNELLING, P. E.

OTHINE

For the treatment of

FRECKLES

In Use for Over 14 Years

Your freckles need attention NOW or may remain all winter. Use Othine—double strength—the old and time-tried guaranteed treatment that has given satisfaction to millions of women, and rid yourself of these homely spots.

At all Druggists and Department Stores.

Housework and Headache

There's relief for you housewives who suffer from aches and pains.

When lack of fresh air, working over a hot stove and the odor of cooking make your head throb, your back ache, your limbs tremble, just take 1 or 2

Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills

They'll relieve you quickly and safely.

Your druggist sells them.

BUY 25 POUND FEATHER BED $7.95

30 lb. bed $8.95. One pair 6 lb. pillows, $1.95. All new feathers, odorless, and dustless, best eight ounce ticking. MAIL ORDER TODAY or WRITE for Free Catalog of Iron Beds, Springs, Mattresses, Rugs, Blankets, Spreads, Window Curtains, Pound Remnants, etc. $1,000.00 deposited with Charlotte Bank & Trust Co., guaranteeing satisfaction or money back.

SANITARY BEDDING COMPANY, Dept. F CHARLOTTE, N. C.

FROM McCOOL, MISS.

Dear Brother Carley: Just a few lines for our paper with reference to our work on the McCool charge. We have had a very pleasant year, but have found, as elsewhere, plenty to do—more than we have been able to do. We have five churches, and have held meetings at each church, with ministerial help at four of the churches.

My brother, Olin Ray, assisted me in a meeting at Liberty Chapel; we had a great meeting, with 2 additions to our church.

R. G. A. Carlisle was with me at Liberty Hill, and the Lord was with us in great power and 25 were saved and added to the Methodist Church.

A. L. Davenport was with us to do the preaching at Chapel Hill. He brought us some great messages, and the Spirit of the Lord was upon us. Many backsliders were reclaimed and re-dedicated their lives to the service of the Lord.

At Bowie Chapel I held my own meeting by the help of the Lord and the good people of the church; 9 were added to the church.

Last, but not least, was our meeting at McCool, conducted by our Conference Evangelist, Rev. W. A. Wilson, beginning October 1, and running till the night of the 11th. His condemnation of sin, his presentation of the gospel as the power of God to save, and Christ as the only Savior of the world, backed up by his interest in and zeal for lost souls, stirred this town perhaps as it has not been stirred for some time. Numbers of people pledged themselves to a better life; 7 were added to the Methodist Church, 4 to the Presbyterian, and 3 to the Baptist churches. The religious life of the town has been lifted to a higher plane as a result of the meeting.

GUY RAY, P. C.
McCool, Miss.

FROM NOXAPATER, MISS.

Dear Advocate: I have just had the pleasure of having Rev. R. G. Moore, our returned missionary from China, with me over my charge. He has indeed an interesting message from the people across the sea. My people enjoyed so much listening to him regarding his work among these people so far from us, and they have decided since hearing him that they will take more interest in our unfortunate heathen people. Many people are in ignorance as to the exact state of affairs with the Chinese and other heathen lands, and for that reason they are no larger contributors for these worthy causes; however, the same state of affairs exists in this section—because of the ignorance on the part of the people here in our own home land the cause of Christianity suffers. Ignorance and superstition go hand in hand, and here where you find such a deplorable state existing, there are all kinds of discords and strife and ill will and malice and hard feelings and such like; hence persecutions and villifications naturally follow. Oh, how we need in all the churches revivals, so as to help overcome such existing states, and these revivals should start in the high up places and take in all, not stopping until all are enveloped or taken in. I think our North Mississippi Conference would do well to put Brother Moore in the field and just let him go from church to church and inform the people as to the exact state of affairs across the sea. He would do very effectual work and when the end of the year had come I believe we would all see that he had made a big contribution towards helping the people get the light, and I know that he would have fully earned his salary. With this kind of information before the people and followed up with several live evangelists over the Conference doing effectual work, this next year ought to be a banner year of the North Mississippi Conference in reviving the church and saving lost souls. I am getting very anxious for the new year to come, for I am going to enter in some sapacity the evangelistic field work, the class of work that I have longed for years to do and that has appealed to me for these years. Brethren, have Brother Moore with you; he will help you and your folks.

W. V. SHEARER, Pastor.

It is only when all the rest of our humannature is calmed that the spirit comes forth in full energy; all the rest tires, the spirit never tires. Humbleness, awe, adoration, love, these have in them no weariness; so that when this frame shall be dissolved into the dust of the earth, and the mind, which is merely fitted for this time world, learning by experience, shall have superseded, then, in the opening out of an endless career of love, the spirit will enter upon that Sabbath of which all earthly Sabbaths are but the shadow.—F. W. Robertson.

The Prince of Peace: Unto us a child is born, unto us a son is given: and the government shall be upon his shoulder: and his name shall be called Wonderful, Counsellor, The mighty God, The everlasting Father, The PRINCE OF PEACE.—Isaiah 9:6.

Aspirin

Say "Bayer" and Insist!

BAYER

Genuine

Unless you see the name "Bayer" on package or on tablets you are not getting the genuine Bayer product prescribed by physicians over twenty-two years and proved safe by millions for

Colds	Headache
Toothache	Lumbago
Earache	Rheumatism
Neuralgia	Pain, Pain

Accept "Bayer Tablets of Aspirin" only. Each unbroken package contains proper directions. Handy boxes of twelve tablets cost few cents. Druggists also sell bottles of 24 and 100. Aspirin is the trade mark of Bayer Manufacture of Monoaceticacidester of Salicylicacid.—Adv.

CANCER HOSPITAL. Intra-venous treatment for cancer. Operation, Radium and X-Ray unnecessary. Booklet giving full information upon request. Box 2127, ATLANTA, GA.

Headaches Vanish

Sick or nervous headaches, backaches, women's aches almost instantly respond to the liquid remedy Capudine. It stops the pain by removing the cause. Every home should keep a bottle handy. Sold by druggists, 10c, 30c, 60c. Insist upon getting CAPUDINE

GET RID OF THAT FAT

Free Trial Treatment on Request

Ask also for my "pay-when-reduced" offer. My treatment has often reduced at the rate of a pound a day. No dieting, no exercise, absolutely safe and sure method.

Mrs. E. Bateman writes:—Have taken your treatment and it is wonderful how it reduces. It does just as you say. I have reduced a pound a day and feel fine.

Mrs. Anna Schmidt writes:—I weighed 178 pounds before I started your treatment and I now weigh 138 pounds. You may print this if you like.

These are just examples of what my treatment can accomplish. Let me send you more proof at my expense.

DR. R. NEWMAN, Licensed Physician
286 Fifth Avenue, New York. Desk H967.

BOHNE & WILT, Booksellers, and Stationers, 1328 Dryades St., New Orleans, La. Baseball Goods, Religious Articles, Fishing Tackle, Periodicals, School Books.

WHEELER Business College
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
"WHEELER STUDENTS GET THE BEST POSITIONS"
Call or Write for Free Catalogue

ANGELL'S

COUGH and WHOOPING
Cough Syrup
Easy to Take
No Habit-Forming Drugs. Formula of
DR. RICHARD ANGELL
Prepared by
JAMES R. ANGELL,
New Orleans, La.
PRICE 35c AND 65c
AT ALL DRUGGISTS

AN IMPORTANT and VALUABLE BOOK

NOW BEING PRINTED AT OUR HOUSE WILL BE READY FOR DISTRIBUTION BY THE TIME THIS ANNOUNCEMENT REACHES YOUR ATTENTION.

The manuscript of this book, after receiving the approval and hearty indorsement of the Book Editor, was handed to the Man in the Publishing House whose business it is to determine the mechanical make-up of a new book. In order to get some idea of the general theme, he read the Foreword with no purpose of reading more. This caught and so held his attention that without scarcely knowing it he had read every word of it without a stop, from which he derived much pleasure and great benefit—just what he needed. He wants you to have it too. Especially the laymen!

THERE IS A GREAT NEED FOR JUST THIS BOOK AND WE ARE GLAD TO ANNOUNCE IT.

Shorten the Line

BY ARTHUR MADISON SHAW,
Of the Louisiana Conference.

Price, $1 Price, $1

TABLE OF CONTENTS.

FOREWORD.

Chapter I.....Save Your Ammunition
Chapter II.....Purely Speculative Questions
Chapter III.....Sectarian Peculiarities
Chapter IV.....Historical Questions
Chapter V.....Doctrinal Questions
Chapter VI.....The Case of Science
Chapter VII.....The Shortened Line
Chapter VIII.....Prayer the Key and Test
Chapter IX.....The Modern Prophet
Chapter X.....The Church of To-Morrow
Chapter XI.....Epilogue

WE CONSIDER THIS A VERY VALUABLE BOOK.

Dr. G. T. Rowe, Book Editor and Editor of the Methodist Quarterly Review, writes of it:

"Shorten the Line," by Arthur Madison Shaw, is one of the most valuable books that have appeared in recent years. The author is a Christian who thoroughly understands both the essential truth of Christianity and the age in which we now live. The reasonable plea of this book is that preachers and other religious teachers should cease to waste their energies in defending points of indifferent value and concentrate upon the vital facts and truths of the Christian religion. Any preacher of any denomination will profit by giving it a careful reading, and no Methodist preacher can afford to miss it.

Lamar & Barton, Nashville, Dallas, Richmond
DEPARTMENT B-16

NEW ORLEANS

CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE

Vol. 69—No. 44. Official Organ of the Louisiana, Mississippi, and North Mississippi Conferences, Methodist Episcopal Church, South. Whole No. 3482.

HENRY T. CARLEY, Editor. NEW ORLEANS, LA., THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 2, 1922. CHAS. O. CHALMERS, Manager.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

NEED IN THE NEAR EAST.

It almost seems that appeals in behalf of the Near East are to become a part of the regular activities of all the churches. The suffering there is so dire that the Christian world cannot remain unmoved while it endures. It is right, therefore, that those who are directly related to the work of alleviating that suffering should do all in their power to enlist the sympathy and aid of those who can know of it only as they are told. For that reason we call special attention to a statement on another page of the Advocate of the General Conference Advisory Committee of Co-operation with the Near East Relief, in which an urgent appeal is made for help for the helpless victims of Turkish atrocity who are facing starvation. We plead for an immediate and generous response to this call throughout the church. Sunday schools, Epworth Leagues, Missionary Societies, local congregations—in short, all members and organizations of the church—should be glad to have a part in the relief of a devoted people whose sufferings are beyond the power of words to express. Contributions should be sent to Mr. J. D. Hamilton, Treasurer of the Board of Missions, 810 Broadway, Nashville, Tenn., with the statement that the remittance is intended for the Near East. The Christian people of the world cannot escape the responsibility of helping those who are in need; but the so-called Christian nations will have to answer in the Judgment for their failure to make the Turk respect the rights of the helpless but Christian Armenians.

"HOLD 'EM, TULANE!"

Not long ago we saw a football game at the Tulane Stadium in which, at one time, the opponents of the local team had the ball on the Tulane one-yard line. The prospect of a touchdown by the opposing eleven stirred the Tulane "rooters" to an intense pitch of interest and, to strengthen their own team in the moment of peril, they let loose their well-known cry, "Hold 'em, Tulane, hold 'em, Tulane!" Tulane held, the enemy was repulsed, and the ball was kicked out of the danger zone. We would not say that the cheering on the sidelines alone saved the day; but it was a critical moment in the game, and the encouragement of the loyal supporters of the local team must have inspired its members to do their utmost to keep their goal line from being crossed. There is always a fight being waged against the forces of righteousness, and it sometimes seems that the enemy is on the verge of a victory; but there is sufficient reserve strength in the forces of righteousness to prevent defeat if they themselves and those who are with them in the fight will throw into the conflict all the power they possess. Continuing the figure of the football game, those on the sidelines have an important part to play in the fight. They may not actually be in the struggle, but their interests are wrapped up in the outcome and they are under obligation to do whatever they can to save the day. If they sullenly remain silent when the issue hangs in the balance or, worse, if they begin to find fault with and criticize harshly those who are in the thick of the fray; if they call in question the loyalty of those who have been officially chosen to represent them in the fight and to hurl taunts at them because they seem to be hard pressed, they have, in effect, gone over to the enemy and are giving aid and comfort to those who are fighting the things for which they stand. Loyalty receives its real test in the time of trial.

A GREAT WEEK'S WORK BEFORE US.

By Bishop Warren A. Candler.

During the first week in November the second payments on the subscriptions made to the Christian Education Movement become due, and I take occasion to exhort the preachers and people of our church to put forth zealous efforts for the payment in full of this instalment on the pledges made.

The needs of our educational institutions are urgent and imperative. On their faith in these pledges they have builded high hopes and projected important plans. They must not be disappointed. Faculties cannot be maintained nor patronage retained, if we fail to meet the subscriptions we have made. And if our schools fail, both the foreign work of the church and its enterprises in the home field will suffer most seriously. Institutions of secular learning produce but few missionaries and ministers of the gospel.

Moreover, unpaid vows of offerings to God and His church impair the piety of the men and women who thus default in their solemn promises for the promotion of Christ's cause.

Let us pay our vows unto the Lord now in the presence of all the people and thus honor Him with our substance that we may be enriched with His blessings.

MERELY A HINT.

According to one of our Northern exchanges, the Discipline of the Methodist Episcopal Church provides that the charge receiving a new pastor shall pay his moving expenses. That may be a good provision—though we are not advocating it for adoption in our church. The suggestion we wish to make is this: Let the stewards of every charge in the Louisiana, the Mississippi, and the North Mississippi Conferences see to it that their pastors go to the approaching Conferences with every cent of their salaries paid; then, if they have to move, the probability is that they will be in position to do so without the embarrassing necessity of having to borrow money. We venture to add this suggestion to the stewards of the charges that will receive new preachers: Do not wait a month before making a payment on salary. The probability is that the new preacher, even if he has been paid in full by his previous charge, has used practically all his surplus funds to meet the expense of moving and he faces an embarrassing situation in a new community among strangers. We can imagine the grateful feeling of a pastor on a new charge to whom the stewards would say on the day of arrival: "Brother, we want you to know that we are glad to have you with us—and here is $100 as a token of our loyal support; there will be more later." It might do the stewards good, too!

A PREACHER'S LIBRARY.

Recently we had the privilege of looking again through the library of a preacher—a member of one of our patronizing Conferences—who is now in the superannuate relation. We were greatly interested in noting the kind of books this man has nourished his mind on as he did the work of the ministry through an active period of more than forty years, and that he still finds helpful as he meditates upon the glorious truths of our holy religion. We made no attempt to classify the library of several hundred volumes, but we found represented in it writers upon practically all the great themes of the intellectual and religious life. Among the books of reference, we noted the following: Encyclopedia Brittannica; The New Schaff-Herzog Encyclopedia of Religious Knowledge; Hastings' Dictionary of the Bible; Liddell and Scott's Greek-English Lexicon; Robertson's Grammar of the Greek New Testament; Abbott-Smith's Manual Greek Lexicon of the New Testament. Recalling them at random, we remember these volumes: Ueberweg's History of Philosophy; Wardell's First Lesson's in Philosophy; Leighton's The Field of Philosophy; Guizot's History of Civilization; Darwin's Descent of Man, and Origin of Species; Orr's The Resurrection of Jesus, and the Virgin Birth; Smith's Christ and Science; Lee's Religion of Science; Lightfoot's The Apostolic Fathers; Dubois's Psychic Treatment of Nervous Disorders; Kawakami's What Japan Thinks; Haller's Redemption of the Prayer Meeting; Plutarch's Lives; Ellicott's Christus Comprobator. This library has, of course, many of the standard works dealing specifically with theological subjects, and it has also a good deal of poetry, standard works of fiction, volumes of biography, and not a little of science. In short, it represents the intellectual and spiritual interests of a busy preacher who has tried seriously to prepare himself for the ministry to which he was called, and to keep himself in touch with the currents of thought in the times in which he lives. We do not suggest that this library is ideal in any sense, but we do know that it shows that this Methodist preacher has been willing to spend money and time in acquiring and acquainting himself with the books that gave promise of being able to help him in his work. Books are not everything—not by a great deal—but they are something. Some of our younger preachers might, perhaps, well spend more time in their libraries—if they have them—and less "downtown somewhere."

New Orleans Christian Advocate

OFFICE, No. 512 CAMP STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

Published every Thursday by the Publishing Committee for the Louisiana, Mississippi, and North Mississippi Conferences, Methodist Episcopal Church, South.

Entered at the Postoffice at New Orleans as Second-class Mail Matter. Accepted for mailing at special rate of postage provided for in Section 1103, Act of Oct. 3, 1917, authorized Oct. 30, 1918.

TERMS:

Subscription Rates: One year, $2.00; six months, $1.
To superannuates and widows of preachers, $1.

TO CONTRIBUTORS.

All copy submitted for publication should be legibly written on one side of the paper with pen and ink, or typewritten. Matters written with a lead pencil and rolled manuscripts are unacceptable. No copy will be returned unless postage is enclosed for that purpose. In no case will responsibility be assumed for the loss or non-return of articles—the writers should keep copies of them. We do not purchase matter of any kind.

SANCTUARY.

Let us put by some hour of every day
For holy things—whether it be when dawn
Peers through the window-pane, or when the moon
Flames like a burnished topaz in the vault,
Or when the thrush pours in the ear of eve
Its plaintive melody; some little hour
Wherein to hold rapt converse with the soul
From sordidness and self a sanctuary,
Swept by the winnowing of unseen wings,
And touched by the White Light Ineffable.

—Clinton Scollard in The Christian Century.

SPIRITUAL DROUGHT.

Jeremiah 14:4.

By Rev. Robt. Thorne.

All nature mourns when rain has been long withheld. The importance of the treasures of the clouds to earth's enrichment is apparent in the consequences that follow their retention. The ground becomes parched, the streams are dried up, and vegetation languishes. This was the condition of nature in Judah at the time our text speaks of. What distressing scenes were to be witnessed during its continuance! Jerusalem was in mourning, the streams were dry, there was no water in the wells, and there was no grass in the fields; so distressing was the state of things that the plowmen were ashamed, and in deep concern covered their heads.

But there is another and even more greatly to be deplored drought than that that chaps the ground, withers and keeps bare the meadow lands, and dries up the water courses; there is spiritual drought.

I. What does it mean? It means the absence of the influences of the Holy Spirit, which are as necessary to the success of the work of the church and the true progress of man, as is the rain to the success of the plowman, and the temporal prosperity of men. Then this drought has a large meaning.

1. It means preaching without success. There is a requisite to the successful preaching of the gospel that is not attained by academic studies, or scholastic training of any sort. The great and indispensable requisite to the successful preaching of Christ's gospel is the influence of the Holy Ghost. Jesus plainly teaches this as he tells his disciples to tarry at Jerusalem until they be endued with power from on high.

2. It means praying without fitness therefor. What a glorious privilege it is to be permitted to talk with God, and tell him all our cares and wants! They tell us prayer is useless, and really make it appear that the Creator of the universe is the only being in it who cannot answer prayer; but it is a glorious truth, taught both by the Bible and experience, that God does hear and answer prayer.

3. It means church-going without its blessings. Profitable attendance upon the sanctuary depends upon the outpouring of the Holy Spirit's influence upon the soul. There may be heard many eloquent discussions of ethical and even gospel truth, and yet the soul be very little profited by it.

4. It means an absence of the influence necessary to the growth of Christians. The Holy Spirit's influences are as necessary to the growth of Christians as is rain necessary to the growth of trees.

II. What are its consequences? As this question is considered, perhaps it will be seen that facts, rather than a disposition to be pessimistic, lead not a few of the workers in the cause of Christ to declare that there now exists a widespread spiritual drought. Look at some of the consequences:

1. There is small natural growth of churches. The natural increase of the church is by new, spiritual birth. Churches grow in numbers, quite often, at the expense of other churches. In newer sections of a city a church may grow rapidly in numbers, and yet not one of the increase be a new convert to Christ under the ministry of the church. Building up churches at the expense of other churches is not natural increase. It is not advancing the cause of Christ in the least.

2. There is a decline of spiritual vitality. The life of the plant becomes enfeebled by long drought. See how the trees of the woodland wilt and wither when the rain has been long absent.

3. There is a falling off in church attendance. When the atmosphere of heaven fills a church, and the blessings of God are bestowed upon those who meet there to worship him, it is a most comfortable place to be in.

4. There is the growth of formalism. When there is the absence of the influence of the Divine Spirit from a church, what other character can its service be said to have than formal? There can be no holy power in it. The singing is formal—perhaps operatic; the genuflections are formal; the sermon is in the course of things. This kind of worship grows as the drought continues, until it comes to pass that the great object of going to God's house is entirely lost sight of. But one word more on the consequences of this drought:

5. There is a resort to certain expedients to counteract its effects. These expedients need not here be enumerated, for a contemplation of them saddens the soul. Who, as he enters certain churches, especially in the evening, would ever think that their services are to lead the soul to God, and care for the things that have to do with its eternal good? The church service is made an entertainment. It is a time of singing, which is often done by voices whose owners thus use them only for the money they make.

III. What are the causes of spiritual drought? The cause of the drought in Judah was the wickedness of the people. Their sins grieved God, and He shut up the heavens that they gave them no rain. May not spiritual drought be because of God's displeasure? If such a drought be because God is grieved with the conduct of men, it must be Christians who thus grieve Him; for He never afflicts the church for treatment He receives from the world. How, then, may Christians displease God so that He may withhold the influence of His spirit?

1. By failing to give such response to His work among them as He looked for. As a vineyard of His own planting, what care He expended on Israel!

2. By ignoring the emphasis of His word. In the Scriptures God has put emphasis on certain teachings and duties. There emphasis is put on the necessity of repentance, and faith in Jesus Christ for salvation. There emphasis is put on the necessity of regeneration and holiness of life. There emphasis is put upon separation from the world, and the duty of living in view of the judgment. There emphasis is put upon the consequences of wicked living, both here and hereafter. Are there not many places where these teachings and duties are not emphasized? Where repentance is not preached, but only referred to? where the necessity of regeneration is not taught, but only a change of conduct? Are there not many places where separation from the world is not urged, the judgment is never spoken of, and hell is kept entirely out of sight? God is handicapped in His work by this conduct. Is there any wonder He should withdraw the influences of His Spirit and shut up the heavens?

3. By attenuating the importance to man of Jesus and the Bible. It is being taught in books, in theological schools, in pulpits, and in other ways that Jesus is not necessary to man's salvation; that His death has nothing to do with the pardon of the guilty. It is being as widely taught that the Bible is a human production, utterly as devoid of the supernatural as the Vedas of the Brahmans, or the Shasters of the Persians. Surely this treatment of God's Son and the Holy Scriptures must grieve God. May it not be a cause for the drought complained of?

4. By putting material into the church other than living stones. We shall not dwell on this point, but hasten to ask:

IV. How may such drought be broken up? How important the question! Are we suffering from it? Surely we would like to know how to get rain.

1. Let there be confession of sins. Let the churches, wherever there is this drought, become penitent.

2. Let there be most earnest inquiry into the attitude of those men towards Jesus and the Bible whom God used in other times of drought to break it up, and get into the same attitude. What was the attitude of Edwards, Wesley, Whitefield and Finney towards Jesus Christ and the Bible? Let us get into their attitude if we are not there.

3. Let there be an acknowledgment of the need of the divine influences.

4. Then, pray, pray, pray for the rain!

"On all the earth thy Spirit shower,
The earth in righteousness renew."

SAFETY SIGNALS.

By Rev. S. J. Davies.

"The words that I speak unto you, they are spirit and they are life." Jesus spoke these words to his disciples immediately after his discussion with the Pharisees concerning the real meaning of the Kingdom. Bread to these materialists only meant provender for the body; bread to Him meant sustaining grace from God the Father, to nourish the spirit of man. So forever runs the reel. The seen and the unseen, flesh and spirit grappling, struggling, each for mastery in the broad domain of life's vast field. Eternal issues are joined, eternal results are at stake. No man can interpret the deeper things of life and spirit in terms of material meaning only. Herein was the dismal failure of the Jews in the days of his incarnation, and herein lies the error of those who continuously and repeatedly attempt to measure the vast sweep and range of a spiritual kingdom in terms of human knowledge under the name of science.

Just when the material touches the spiritual no man knows, yet there are many who attempt to map this border land. Of one thing we may be assured—the essence of life is divine and here may we safely rest.

* * *

The Indian Summer is at hand. This period of dreamy splendor, when the floating mists fill the valleys and the haze covers the hills, seems to me, is a fitting symbol of the retreating years of man's life. Soon the frosts will come and then all nature will doff her garments of deeper green and the golden coloring of autumnal hues will crown the forests and streams among the shrubbery and grasses. Like some faltering swimmer on the verge of an icy pool just before the plunge, nature pauses before the embrace of winter. In the quiet hush of this Inter-season many are the dreams which come and go, many are the memories that troop in from other days and other years. Time, with the gentle sweep of her eraser, has a wonderful way of obliterating the harsher, bitter things of these bygone years, and uniting anew the better things. Happy indeed is one when these memories are like the Indian Summer, dim and hazy, because they belong to the irrevocable past, but sacred and peaceful because interwoven with the best!

Coushatta, La.

GETTING READY FOR CONFERENCE—GETTING THE PARSONAGE IN SHAPE.

By Rev. W. W. Holmes.

The parsonage belongs to Methodism. Other churches sometimes furnish their pastor a house to live in, but with the Methodist Church the parsonage is a necessity. The itinerant and appointive system compels the church to own and equip a suitable place for pastor's residence. Without the church-owned parsonage the itineracy would lose much of its effectiveness. It would be a great strain on the loyalty of the itineracy for the preachers to be made homeless with every new appointment. Much valuable time that should be given to the work of the church would have to be used by the preacher in locating a place to live. There would be no fixed residence for the pastors. They would have to live here and there, and thus the influence of the parsonage in the community would be largely lost. Everybody ought to know where the preacher lives, if the preacher is to do his best work.

While the parsonage is the house the church provides for the preacher, it is the preacher's home, and, as such, it should be well kept, both for the sake of the preacher and the church. A poor house with few conveniences is a reflection on the church and it is a source of much embarrassment to the preacher and his family. No congregation can be very proud of a preacher, nor have much concern about his comfort, if through indifference and neglect he is allowed to live in an old ramshackle house with inadequate furnishings. Such neglect hampers the whole progress of the church. The church building may be ever so fine, but if the parsonage is neglected, this neglect will have a telling effect on the community. A man is judged sometimes by the house he lives in; likewise a church is judged by the house it forces the preacher to live in. Many parsonages are a constant rebuke to the church folks. The preacher, living in such a parsonage, deprived of the conveniences and comforts he ought to have for himself and family, can not possibly do his best work. That parsonage home, instead of being a place where the people love to go and in which they take pride, is a part of the church of which they are very much ashamed.

What Kind of Parsonage Is Yours?

There are all kinds of parsonages, "good, bad and indifferent." There are some that are good. I have lived in them. I live in one now. Many a church has a just right to be proud of its preacher home. It is the beauty spot of the community. In this home is every comfort and convenience. Nothing is lacking. A live parsonage committee always "makes the stitch in time that saves nine:" thus the parsonage is not allowed to go to rack and ruin; new furniture is provided when needed. Such a parsonage is a joy to the preacher and a credit to the church. Whoever the preacher is for the new year, he has a real home, furnished, clean, and bearing every mark of thoughtfulness and affection. Under these circumstances he goes about his work with a heart all aglow.

Only the preachers, and only some of them, know how poor some of the parsonages are. There are churches that have absolutely no "parsonage conscience." I was once appointed to a church which had no parsonage. (I have had five appointments of this kind.) There was nowhere for me to live. I really think the people were glad to have me as pastor. I had many friends among the membership, but, with one or two exceptions, nobody concerned himself about a house for the pastor. For a whole week I trudged the streets in search of a house, and finally had to take a second story flat of a rooming house for my baby to be born in. Only those who have had a similar experience know what anguish my family passed through during that week and the inconvenience we suffered in the flat. This same church, a few months later, built a beautiful parsonage, modern in every respect, and put in it furnishings to suit.

Little wonder is it that sometimes the preacher's wife, who has had to bear more than her share of the hardships of the itineracy, comes to the place where she rebels and says: "I am not going to live in that house." Sure, she becomes the talk of the community. People say unkind things about her. "Sister Complacence," they say, "lived in that house for four years and it was good enough for her. No finer woman ever lived than she is. Why should this new sister cut up about it?" When "Sister Complacence" went into the house four years ago the old roof leaked then, now it is almost like a sieve—all the wash tubs on the place are required to take care of the water on a rainy day. The wall paper, fresh and new four years ago, is all falling down now. Both the front and back steps have given way. The doors will neither stay open nor shut. The latches and hinges are all on the blink. All the openings to the house once had screens—but screens do not last always. They are gone. Flies and mosquitoes are everywhere. Cardboard has been inserted in window frames to take the place of broken panes. The furniture, come down from Noah's Ark, or the cast-offs of some of the church members, is worn out. The old bedstead stands up during the day and falls down at night, usually when company is present. The mattresses either sag down in the middle or on the side; or else they have knots that resmble the lumps on a camel's back. A better smudge for driving away the mosquitoes or smoking meat than the old cooking stove couldn't be found. If "Sister Complacence" had any pride and vanity when she went into this house, she has none now. The old parsonage mirror with the back of it all blistered—the very cheapest mirror, perhaps, to start with—now broken, with only a part of it left in the frame—well—even a look into such a mirror would give one the appearance of having suffered long with scrofula. It would make the prettiest woman look like the dickens. After all, "Sister Complacence" is not such an angel, nor is "Sister Newcomer" so bad.

Preacher's Family Somewhat to Blame, But Not All.

The preacher's family "is just folks." His wife is no worse a housekeeper than other women; his children are no more destructive than other children. In the best regulated homes the roof will sometimes spring a leak; the steps will give way; the door fastening will become loose; the window screens will rust out; the bedsteads will be broken; the wall paper scratched, furniture marred, etc.; all that will happen to any other home will happen to the parsonage, maybe sometimes a little more.

The preacher's family is often censured and criticised unjustly. They are blamed for the wear and tear on the parsonage and parsonage furniture. The preacher's wife is a "miserable housekeeper" and his children are "very destructive." This may be true or not true. Facts will show that the preacher's wife is at least an average housekeeper and that his children are average children; and yet in some quarters it seems to be quite the fashionable thing to criticize the way the parsonage is kept. Let the preacher's family bear the blame that belongs to them. At the same time let the church folks be fair and not hide behind and excuse or criticism in doing the things that need to be done.

Parsonage Conscience Needed.

The year is coming to a close. God has blessed us with a lavish hand. The harvest has been bountiful, the price good. What about the old parsonage? The Annual Conference is only a few weeks off. Your pastor has been faithful, and he is in high favor with the people. You want the bishop to send him back. You say: "It would be disastrous to the church for him to move at this time" —and yet you want him to continue to live in that dilapidated old parsonage. You may feel that a new preacher is needed and you send up a strong petition to get him—still you are unwilling to provide for him a decent home.

Every church or pastoral charge in Methodism is expected to provide a home for the preacher. This home ought to be sufficiently large to house the average-sized family. In its arrangement and appointments, comforts and conveniences ought not to be forgotten. The bathroom is sorely needed. A study room is needed whether the preacher uses it or not. A nice reception room is a necessity. The average parsonage is visited by more people than any other house in the community. Certainly a parsonage in this day should be as completely modern as the people and preacher can make it.

What The People Can Do.

1. Where there is no parsonage, provide one, fully equipped and furnished at the earliest possible date. This house should be purchased or built, not over in "Nigger Street" where somebody might give a lot, but in a good neighborhood where any member of the church would be willing to live.

2. Where there is a parsonage, see that it is put in good repair at once, and is in every way made comfortable. All heavy furniture ought to be provided by the church. The parsonage committee ought never to wait for the preacher's wife to "make her wants and wishes known." The committee should visit the parsonage often and keep the needs supplied. In case of change of preachers, extra touches should be given to make the parsonage homelike and inviting. The preacher's family never forget that first day in the new parsonage home.

What The Preacher Can Do.

1. The very first thing a preacher can do and must do is to recognize the fact that the parsonage is HIS. It has been built and furnished and set aside solely for the use of the preacher brotherhood of which he is a member. It is not a rented house. It does not belong to the Board of Trustees. They hold it for him and his successors. Everything he puts in the house, every shrub and flower he plants in the garden, everything he does to add attractiveness and value to the place, is just so much for the brotherhood. If all the preachers recognized the fact that all the parsonages are theirs, and all worked at the job of beautifying and making homelike the parsonage, there would soon be no homes more beautiful and serviceable in the land.

2. In the building of a new parsonage the preacher will present the common need of the itineracy rather than a need that might be peculiar to himself. A preacher with no children certainly would not advocate nor permit the building of a three-room parsonage. The size, the arrangement, all, would be with reference to the needs of the average preacher and preacher's family who might occupy the house.

3. The preacher can take pride in the upkeep of the house. The "personal touch" can always be observed. A little thought, a little planning and a little work will change the most unattractive place into a place of charm, grace and beauty. People say: "How beautiful—it doesn't look like the same place!" And yet this change has been wrought with little cost and effort. Every preacher should work for the improvement and beautifying of his parsonage as if he were going to live there always. He may not reap all he has sown. The flowers of his planting may bloom for another. Luscious fruit and appetizing vegetables he may bring to maturity, but may move before their full ripening. He may begin that for which another will get credit and reward. But what matters it? He is making his contribution to the Brotherhood, and if all are working in this selfsame spirit, gain will come to all. This spirit will give every Methodist preacher a good home.

A Question of Promotion.

Promotion and advancement come to preachers along a line that is a little hazy and obscure, certainly along a line that is not easily explainable. These qualities are said to belong to the preachers who are promoted: "Good Preacher," "Good Pastor," "Good Sunday School Man," "Good Mixer," etc.; and yet all good preachers are not promoted, nor are all preachers promoted good preachers. The same can be said of preachers possessing the other good qualities. Be that as it may, no recognition thus far has been given to the preacher who has been eminently successful in building the "preacher homes" of Methodism. The man who, everywhere he goes, gives increased value to the parsonage property and makes the flowers to bloom, and gives "the house by the side of the road, where the race of men go by," a charm and beauty hitherto unknown—may God give us more men of this kind and may there come to them their just reward and recognition.

TRAVEL LETTER FROM DR. AND MRS. I. W. COOPER.

Usually a lapse of years is necessary to give sufficient historic perspective to show in proper relationship events such as those which took place during the years of the recent World War. But whatever questions may still he mooted, there is little doubt in the minds of all fair-thinking people that to little Belgium helougs tne crown for the most heroic service rendered and the greatest endurance shown hy any of the contending nations. Believing this most strongly, as we did, you may imagine the thrill we felt when we found ourselves in Belgium's capital.

Apparently untouched by the war, Brussels is a beautiful, thriving, modern city. When we asked why it was that in this case the Germans did not leave desolation in their wake, we were told that the resistance of the Belgians had ceased before the Huns reached Brussels, and until the very close of the war the Germans were so sure that this city would one day he their own that they wanted to preserve it intact.

Just as Belgium is often called the battlefield of Europe, so no city on the continent has had as varied a political history as Brussels. To say nothing of its mediaeval story, during the last two centuries it has belonged to the French, been one of the capitals of the Netherlands, and, later, the center of the revolt which separated Belgium from Holland. For nearly a hundred years now, it has been the capital of the Belgian kingdom. Another thing that makes it interesting is that far beyond its relative size and commercial importance, this little city stands for the cultivation and patronage of art—and yet it is not the birthplace of any great artist or art school. Its wonderful public library, its picture galleries, fine observatory and educational institutions, all hear witness to the cultural taste of its inhabitants.

Brussels is noteworthy, too, from a commercial point of view. Its extensive canal and railway communications make it the center of distribution for all the products of Belgium. Two of its chief industries are book-making and lace-making. Strange to say, most of the famous Brussels carpets and tapestries are made at Tournai, though sold in Brussels. We believe that the numerous and wonderful lace shops of Brussels and the beautiful bead hags found there were the greatest financial temptation which the feminine portion of our party had to endure on all the trip—even greater than the fascination of Paris shops! Indeed, a large part of the time that we were in Brussels, we were shopping—sometimes in large department stores, sometimes in attractive little shops in arcades.

In olden days, Brussels was a fortified city. Now, these old forts and earthen works have heen transformed into boulevards, so extensive that while some are incorporated into the city as parks and open squares, others extend five miles or more beyond the city and are planted with elms and linden trees. The city is divided into what is known as the upper and the lower town. The latter is the older part and its streets are often narrow and crooked; but the upper town is very regularly and elegantly huilt and contains some beautiful public buildings. Most of these municipal palaces surround, or are located near to a beautiful seventeen-acre park which is filled with fountains and statuary. Brussels was the first city we visited on the continent where cathedrals did not overshadow in importance all other public places.

Our party was located at a nice little hotel in the lower part of the city. It overlooked one of the characteristic open squares of Brussels. Hotels, shops and dwellings surrounded this square on three sides. The fourth was entirely covered by a large union railway station. This probably accounts for the fact that at any hour of the day or night we could see from our window an animated and conglomerate mass of people, passing to and fro across the square. Newsdealers and flower venders had little movable stands here and there, and across the square passed all sorts of vehicles, from automobiles to strange little carts which were drawn by dogs and pushed by men, women or children. The dogs of Belgium are large and much valued as draft animals. Sometimes we saw these dogs fastened heneath the carts so as to protect them from the sun, hut allow them, through some ingenious arrangement of the harness, to pull their carts as well as if they were in the lead.

While we were in Brussels, we had a delightful side-trip to the hattlefield of Waterloo, about fourteen miles distant. We took a whole afternoon for this excursion and enjoyed every movement of it. As our cars left the city behind, we became more and more impressed, as we sped along, with the splendidly kept pike which ran through beautiful suburhan districts. On one side, we feasted our eyes on beautiful forest trees; on the other hand were pretty and often very handsome dwellings, invariahly set amid beautiful flowers and well-kept lawns. Every now and then, these dwellings clustered together in friendly, village fashion. One of these small towns proved to be Waterloo—a distance of two miles from the battlefield. Here we stopped and visited the house in which Wellington passed the two fateful nights of June seventeenth and June eighteenth, 1815, and from which he sent his bulletin of victory. Here, too, General Gordon died, soon after the fight was over. Wellington's room is now an interesting museum which displays the various styles of guns and swords used in the battle.

Next, we visited the Farm House of La Haye Sainte, around which, for several hours, the hattle raged. Our guide showed us the battered masonry of the enclosing brick wall, house and chapel. We went, too, into a large apple orchard where hand to hand fighting had resulted in serious losses to both English and French. Just where some of the warriors fell, they were buried—facing all points of the compass. Handsome monuments now mark these spots. It was a strange sight to see these graves, so irregularly placed, in the midst of a fruiting orchard. Not many feet away, we saw a deep well into which the dead and dying were thrown by their victors.

But the most interesting part of this Waterloo excursion was our stop at the vast mound of earth—about 200 feet high—which was huilt between the years 1823 and 1826, to commemorate this English victory. This mound, which is in the shape of a pyramid, was constructed by Belgian peasant women, paid by the English government. They carried the dirt for this historic pile in baskets which rested on their heads, while their hands busily knitted. Up the mound they went, for three years, laboriously toiling under their heavy loads, while singing patriotic songs to spur them on to the fulfillment of the design. Isn't that a picture of the courage of woman?—a hetter pattern of bravery it seems to us than that of the men who fought all over this field. The summit of the mound, which is reached by a flight of 225 steps, is surmounted by a large stone lion, a symbol of English victory. We were many times repaid for the muscular effort required for the ascent of this little pyramid. Seated at the base of the marble upon which the lion rested, we listened attentively to our guide's detailed account of the battle, while our eyes swept a vast plain of surrounding territory—an immense circuit of which this mound is the center, from which extend radii of five or six miles ere the eye is stopped by a line of forests.

After passing down the stairway, our party turned to the left and entered a large, circular frame building which encloses a panoramic picture of the battle. This vivified the struggle to our minds even more than our guide's good descriptions had done. The various positions and the relative strength of different divisions were well portrayed. But perhaps the most interesting thing about it was to note the variety and brilliance of the uniforms, and to locate, without difficulty, the great leaders. Wellington made a "brave picture" on his dark mount, but Napoleon, on his white charger, appealed more strongly to the romantic imagination.

Our guide finally hastened us back to our cars and we drove to Brussels in the fading light, feeling that we had passed one of the most interesting and profitable afternoons of our lives.

We were up early next morning, ready for an excursion—by train—to the war-torn little city of Louvain. Here we passed the forenoon looking at damaged dwellings and churches which repeated the sad history we had read in the ruins of Reims. A little Belgian hoy of about fourteen attached himself to our party and told us many intersting things which the guide omitted. This boy's father was killed during the bombardment and he and his mother, with her younger children, had lived in a cellar during the German occupation of the town. In spite of the horrors through which he had passed, the little fellow had much of the youthful sprightliness of his years. He spoke excellent English and told us that he was equally at home with French and German. He said something about our being from America and when we asked him how he knew we were not English, he laughed and said that the ladies' shoes could not he anything but American. This was certainly true, for the shoes American women wear are very different from those worn on the continent and in England.

We had luncheon in a very nice new hotel in Louvain. Here we falled to be the center of attraction, for we were overshadowed by the presence of a number of Belgian army officers. This, like every public dining room we entered in Belgium, was adorned with a handsome portrait of the hero king of Belgium—King Albert. Shortly after luncheon, we "made" our train for Brussels, for another excursion was planned for that afternoon.

So, after a few minutes' rest at our Brussels hotel, we took the train for Antwerp, the largest seaport town of Belgium. As we had only three or four hours to spend in this wonderfully interesting little city, we went at once to the Catbedral of Antwerp, a building beautiful and interesting for its exterior grade of architecture, but most famous as the repository of several of the greatest paintings of Rubens and some wonderful mediaeval wood-carvings on pulpit and baptistry. One of Rubens' pictures, the Raising of the Cross, is kept behind curtains and displayed only on feast days, or when tourists pay a fee to look at it. Then, the curtains move on invisible wires and disclose their treasure. It is indeed a great work of art, in its drawing, its coloring and its feeling conception. This, and two other originals of Rubens which adorn the Cathedral, made us wish that we had time to visit the Museum of Antwerp, which is full of his compositions. However, there was only sufficient time left us to walk and ride a little through the city and get some idea of what a mixture it is of the quaint and the modern. We had, too, a few minutes in which to visit the harbor. From this port were shipped the bodies of most of the American soldiers who were brought home for burial. We were much impressed with the busy, substantial appearance of this quay, where quite a number of ships and boats of all descriptions were to be seen.

Next morning, we left Brussels very early and after a ride of about four hours, on a fast train, we found ourselves in Ostend, where we immediately took ship for England. We had heard so much of the rough waters of the English Channel that we dreaded the crossing more than an ocean voyage. But a few hours of smooth sailing brought us in sight of the famous white cliffs of Dover. And presto we were en route to London.

DECADENCE OF REVERENCE FOR THE CHURCH.

By Rev. W. Gibson Forsyth.

I presume it will he evident that the above reference is to the visible house of God. That there is such decadence, I do not think any one who observes and is sensitive to these things, will he disposed to controvert. The fact is evident everywhere. And the condition is of comparatively modern development. My design in this paper is to call attention to the matter, and its insidious growth, dulling gradually, as it does and has, the sensibilities of men.

There can be no question as to the church being a sacred place. The fact is not only set forth, but emphasized, as to the Methodist church, in the ceremony of dedication. There the declaration is emphatic and unmistakable. And this declaration is based not only on Old Testament authority, but also upon the character of the institution and the attitude of Jesus Christ. Jesus's interpretation is sweeping, and leaves no room for questioning.

That for which the church stands—a godly life in consonance with the spirit and character of Jesus Christ—also attests the sacredness of the place. The very essence of the Christian life is involved in it. This fact is made clear by Jesus's attitude, in both act and word, to the desecrators of the Temple. His reverence for the house of God was part and parcel of his very being. It was that which spoke always of and reflected God!

The decline of reverence for the church is seen in much to-day that is countenanced and goes unrebuked. Things are allowed in the church that are utterly at variance with the dedication ceremony and the spirit of the Master. Secular lectures, sometimes political speeches, indiscriminate and frivolous conversation, Christmas trees and other things of like character—these things have become frequent in our churches. And the prevalence of these abuses, which has been a creeping growth, has deadened the consciences of men, as the consciences of men had been deadened in Jesus's day. All of these things Jesus rebuked and, in scathing terms, condemned!

Lack of a due estimate and emphasis of the sanctity of the church on the part of the laity is bad enough, but when it finds expression in the ministry of the church, it is little less than disastrous! What but a loss of the appeal of the church in its essential character to the souls of men can follow the auctioning of the Gospel as is too often done on evangelistic occasions in providing funds; the clapping of hands and loud laughter, as we too frequently have it on our Conference occasions! Those in the place of authority should emphasize and exemplify, as did Jesus, the sacredness of the Temple, by condemnation of all such abuses.

A distinct reflection is upon Protestantism today, when a comparison is made between lodge rooms (when lodges are in session), the Roman Catholic Church, and a few other organizations. In the Masonic Lodge, I am told, there is profound seriousness; and in the Catholic Church, I know there is the greatest reverence. Initial consecration and sustained devotion characterize all services. I have never heard a man laugh aloud or clap his hands in a Roman Catholic church!

Frequently since the sitting of the last session of the Mississippi Conference, has this growing lack of regard for the sanctity of the church pressed itself upon me. And it seemed to me there was more of it manifested on that occasion than I had ever seen before. I have wondered whether we are to have a repetition of it at Crystal Springs. Dr. Linfield, W. B. Lewis, J. L. Forsyth, and a large number of other consecrated men have served that church—men who regarded it the "very gate of heaven"—and I have wondered what their sensations would be were they to hear such things there as we had in Capitol Street Church, Jackson!

Well, it may be I am not attuned to the "spirit of the times;" at any rate that is what the young folks say of some of us. And I plead guilty! No, under the training of the man who gave Marvin to the church, and the woman who was a co-laborer with W. H. Watkins, I imbibed a different spirit from that of the present. And in that spirit I know there is Life. And I am persuaded when we lose that spirit we are drifting toward the breakers. I suppose Harry Emerson Fosdick has caught the spirit of the times, judging from a recent ebullition of his; those who have lost reverence for the house of God, also have caught it, judging by their hand-clapping and laughter! But unlike Fosdick, on their part it is not coldly and studiedly designed. They are victims of a "creeping paralysis." God save us from all desecrations of His church!

Enterprise, Miss.

AN URGENT APPEAL IN BEHALF OF THE NEAR EAST.

When the General Conference provided for an Advisory Committee to co-operate with the National Near East Relief Committee, a very grave situation existed in Asia Minor. The atrocious Turk had slaughtered or slain by hardships half the adult population of Armenia; many thousands of adults and children had been saved from death by starvation and cold and were being cared for by the Near East Relief Committee; but a falling off of income had forced upon the generous people of America the question, "Shall we deny bread to thousands of 'these little ones' and turn them out to starve?" There seemed to be no alternative. The receipts of the Committee had decreased by 40 per cent, and the appropriations for Anatolia, Syria, Palestine and Armenia had to be cut down 25 per cent. These lowered appropriations were a death warrant.

These facts being brought before the people of America, gifts poured into the treasury in amounts sufficient to commute the sentence of death by raising the funds to the previous level of $5 a month for each child in the orphanages.

But a new crisis has arisen. The rout of the Greek Army in Asia Minor, the burning of the city of Smyra, the scrapping of the treaty of Sevres and of restoration of Thrace and the cities of Constantinople and Adrianople to the Turks, have precipitated upon the charity of the world a rabble of refugees numbering a million and a half. American and English ships have afforded temporary relief and transportation to seven hundred and fifty thousand of the victims of the fresh calamity. With the early prospect of the re-occupation of Thrace and the strait cities by the Turks, a current of herded humanity, estimated at 800,000, is now pouring over the roads that lead into Greece, fleeing in terror from the merciless Turk, stripped of all means of life, into the territory of bankrupt and defeated Greece, their only refuge.

In the presence of this augmented terror, Europe is financially helpless and almost abject before the victorious Turk. America alone is able to offer relief. To America the appeal comes with the double effect of the cry of helpless suffering and the accusation of having failed in the crucial hour when her participation in the reconstruction of Europe would have averted post-war calamities. It was America's refusal of the Armenian mandate that left this martyr nation of Christians to be crucified afresh.

The General Conference Committee met at the call of Bishop Cannon, the Chairman, who is just back from the Near East, and passed a resolution calling upon the entire church, in every congregation, Sunday school, Missionary Society and Epworth League, to come to the aid of the Near East Relief Committee by diffusing information on the subject and by observing Sunday, January 21, as Near East Relief Day. Large offerings must be made, as it is only through the churches that the vast sum needed can be raised.

Together with the other denominations that have entered into the plan, we must pray, work and give unitedly and to the utmost in order to meet this moving appeal.

GENERAL CONFERENCE ADVISORY COMMITEE ON NEAR EAST RELIEF.
James Cannon, Jr., Chairman.
Fitzgerald S. Parker, Secretary.

LEST WE FORGET.

Dear Friends: Please don't forget December 3-4 is the time for our Law Enforcement Conference in New Orleans, La., and that we expect the friends of law enforcement in Louisiana to be there. If you fail us, to whom shall we look for co-operation?

Prohibition Commissioner Roy A. Haynes, Washington, D. C.; Miss Mabel Walker Willebrandt, Assistant Attorney General, Washington, D. C.; Wayne B. Wheeler, General Counsel for the Anti-Saloon League of America, Washington, D. C; Dr. P. A. Baker, National Superintendent Anti-Saloon League of America, and others will be on our program.

We have just won a great victory in the ruling of Attorney General Daugherty, making dry all American ships in all ports and on the high seas as well, also drying all foreign ships within the three-mile limit.

The Manufacturers Record in referring to this ruling says the following:

"Like the shot that was heard around the world, which awakened into life the long dormant world-wide longing for liberty, was this shot whose reverberations have startled every country on earth, made the heathen liquor interests to rage, and the moral forces of the world to sing for joy that such a new and mighty era of civilization's advancement has been ushered in. As the shot at Lexington had to be followed by years of struggle for American independence, so will it be necessary to fight on for years to win independence for the liquor power.

"No national customs of foreign ships, whether they be to furnish liquors to their sailors or to their passengers, can for one moment be permitted to make void and of none effect our laws.

"As a nation we have taken a stand for the utter overthrow within our borders of the liquor traffic. Back of us in this movement we have mighty moral forces at work in England, in Canada, in Australia, even in France, and elsewhere throughout the world. These forces will take new courage and fight for us with renewed energy in this world battle against the mighty forces of the liquor traffic."

On with the battle! A. W. TURNER,
Supt. Louisiana Anti-Saloon League.

A NOTE FROM REV. D. H. CROWSON.

Dear Advocate: Please let me say through the Advocate to my friends that I am ready for Conference. I am enjoying robust health again and am ready and anxious for the work of the pastorate. I have sold my home, "burned all bridges" behind me, and am ready to go anywhere reasonable, and be a man of "one job" the rest of my active life.

I want to thank all for their many tokens of sympathy for me in my suffering and in the loss of my sainted father. Pray for us.

Since Conference I have held 380 religious services in churches, schools, and homes; assisted in six meetings, and attended Sunday school 50 times. The Lord has saved and reclaimed many souls. The people have been good to us—God bless them.

Fraternally,
D. H. CROWSON,
Supernumerary.

TO THE PASTORS AND CENTENARY TREASURERS, MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

Dear Brethren: A telegram from Dr. W. G. Cram, Directing Secretary of the Centenary, says:

"Must have two and a half million dollars by December 31, or the mission work at home and abroad will suffer. Send out S. O. S. call to churches through pastor and treasurer to respond to this urgent need."

The above telegram explains why this letter is being written to you, and I trust that it will meet with your hearty co-operation. So far, I have not received enough reports to determine the result of "Pay-up Week," October 15 to 22, in the Conference.

If your church did not collect all of the pledges that were due during this Pay-up Week, in other words, 80 per cent of the amount pledged by your church, will you not continue the campaign to December 31, or until you have collected as much as possible? It would be a CALAMITY to fail, and I am sure that you realize this and will do your best to avoid it. Yours for service,

W. D. HAWKINS,
Conference Missionary Secretary,
Conference Centenary Treasurer.

Ask, Seek, Knock: Ask, and it shall be given you; seek, and ye shall find; knock, and it shall be opened unto you.—Matthew 7:7.

For the sake of the Boy and the Girl

For the sake of the young people of Methodism—your boy and girl and those of your friends—who are looking to the Church for an educational opportunity and who will be foredoomed to failure or mediocrity without it—

For the sake of those who aspire to a life of Christian service and must needs obtain a thorough training for their holy tasks in the pulpits at home or in the mission fields beyond the seas—

For the sake of the next generation from which the Church must obtain an intelligent leadership or lose its position of influence in moral and spiritual affairs and thus allow the world to drift downward to ruin—

Pay the Christian Education Pledge

It will swing wide the college doors which now are slammed in the faces of 6,000 persons who seek entrance every year.

It will provide the means whereby our life service volunteers who are without sufficient funds may be trained for their work through the assistance of the Church.

It will give to Methodism a system of schools and colleges incomparable for excellence and Christian character, that our boys and girls may receive the best without being compelled to attend schools other than our own.

Installments on pledges made to the Christian Education Movement are due and payable on November 1st. It is highly important that they be promptly paid. Please remit at once through your local church collector or send the payment direct to your Conference Educational Secretary.

BOARD·OF EDUCATION

METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH, SOUTH

The Home Circle

SONGS.

'Most every time I try to sing
There's some one sure to say:
"Poor child! you cannot keep the key;
Now that will do to-day."

I hide my head, I'm so ashamed.
Why can't I keep the key?
I love to sing, and all my songs
Sound right enough to me.

Then mother kisses both my cheeks
And whispers very low:
"Down in your little heart you sing
The sweetest songs I know."

And then I feel so glad I just Can't think of anything,
But run away all by myself
And sing and sing and sing.

—Selected.

A RIDE IN A DOG HOUSE.

By Evangeline Weir.

Willie and Donald were playing hide and seek, and Willie was looking for a good place to hide. In the next yard he saw a dog house, which Mr. Willis, the carpenter, had just finished. He crept inside it.

It was very comfortable in the little house, and Willie fell asleep. Donald searched for a long time before he thought of the dog house. He peeped in and, seeing Willie asleep, thought he would play a little trick on him; so he quietly closed the door and slipped the bolt and then went home to supper.

Donald ate his supper, forgot all about Willie and went to bed. But some time in the night he awoke and remembered what he had done. He put on his clothes, crept downstairs and went out into the darkness. He found his way to Mr. Willis' yard, but he could not find the dog house. He was very much frightened, but he knew he must find Willie. He pulled the heavy knocker. It sounded all through the house. Mr. Willis came down with a light in his hand.

"Why, Donald!" he said when he saw the small boy. "What is the matter?"

"I locked Willie in the dog house and it is gone," he said in a frightened voice.

"Of course it's gone," Mr. Willis replied. "I just finished it yesterday for a man down at Millville, and I sent it over on the evening train. I remember that the box felt rather heavy when I lifted it on the car. Does his mother know what has happened!"

"No. Willie goes down every night to stay with his aunt while his uncle is away."

"I see. She thinks he is down there. Perhaps he is, Donald. Go back to bed, and in the morning we'll look him up."

Donald did not say anything more. He ran home to his room, but he could not sleep. He thought of Willie in the dog house, alone in the dark and without any supper.

Again he crept down to the kitchen. He put a biscuit in his pocket and started to find his friend. He knew that if he kept to the railroad track he would finally reach Millville. It was a long way off—nearly ten miles—but he meant to go there at once.

As Donald walked on through the darkness he felt very much afraid. He had to rest a great many times, and his feet blistered and grew very sore. It was getting light when he reached Millville. He looked for the dog house, but it was not there, so he sat down to wait until Mr. Mills should come to help him find Willie. He felt a little better now that morning had come, and, laying his head against the station door, he went to sleep.

"Hello, Donald!" somebody cried.

He sat up and rubbed his eyes. There was Willie with the ticket agent.

"You are a fine boy to lock a fellow up and forget him," said Willie, taking it for granted. "How did you get here?"

"I walked," Donald said wearily.

Willie seemed to enjoy the adventure. "I never woke up," he told Donald, "until the man lifted the dog house off the train. I peeped through the hole, and then I knew what had happened."

"And he barked so loud," said the ticket agent, "that we opened the door. Out crawled a boy instead of a dog, and I had to take him home and feed him."

Just then Mr. Willis came along in his car. "I see the lost dog has been found," he said, laughing. "How did you get here, Donald?"

"He walked ten miles in the dark," the ticket agent answered."—Youth's Companion.

TONGUE TWISTERS.

Do you want some very good tongue exercise? You can get it by reading, or attempting to read, rapidly the following sentences. For those who may have in future life to read or speak in public, there is more in such exercise than mere fun:

Six thick little sticks.

Flesh of freshly fried fish.

Two toads, totally tired, tried to trot to Tedbury.

The sea ceaseth, but sufficeth us.

Give Grimes Jim's great gilt gig-whip.

Strict, strong Stephen Stringer snared slickly six sickly silky snakes.

She stood at the door of Mrs. Smith's fish sauce shop welcoming him in.

Swan swam over the sea; swim, swan, swim; swan swam back again; well swum, swan.

A haddock, a hoddock, a black spotted haddock, a black spot on the black back of the black haddock.

Susan shineth shoes and socks, socks and shoes shineth Susan; she ceaseth shining shoes and socks, for socks and shoes shock Susan.

You know the tongue twister Peter Piper, but there are others which are harder. One of the worst is "Mixed biscuits." Try saying that rapidly, and if you succeed, say this: "Stop at the shop at the top of the Sloane Street." Then try saying over and over again, just as far as you can: "Six slender saplings," and see if your tongue does not get nicely twisted.

Some people also contend that it is extremely difficult to say even such a simple thing as "Troy boat" fast and many times over without getting the words mixed.—Exchange.

"AN INTEREST IN THE CONCERN."

When I was a young lad I was a newsboy for about five years. I think that gave me special interest in the following story which they say was once told about Mr. Moody.

This newsboy lived in the city of Chicago and attended a mission school. All of the people who attended were poor, but each one was called to help as far as he was able. One day they asked for pledges for the work during the year. The newsboy promised to give two cents every week.

About a month later his parents moved to a distant part of the city, more than four miles away. For a time he went back to the old Sunday school, but as winter came on the distance was so great that he did not go anywhere. One Sunday he dressed up in the best clothes he had and said he was going back to the old school. His mother asked him if he did not think it was too far to go. He replied: "I haven't been there for a long time, but I've got an interest in the concern and I want to see how the business is getting along."

People are interested in the things to which they give some of their time or strength or money. The reason some people are not interested in understanding Christ's kingdom in the world is that they are doing nothing to help it on. They do not give to the church. Their children do not go to church school. They do not count in the great things which God is trying to get done in the world through the service of his people. I hope every boy and girl will make a regular pledge to the church and church school. Most of us are able to earn some money, or we have other money which is our very own with which we can do what we choose. It is good to get the habit of helping our Lord Jesus in His work in the world by building up the church and church school. How much interest have you in the great concern which represents our Lord Jesus?—Resourceful Pastor In The Church School.

Flower in the crannied wall,
I pluck you out of the crannies,
Hold you here, root and all, in my hand,
Little flower—but if I could understand
What you are, root and all, and all in all
I should know what God and man is.

—Tennyson.

It Surely Will: Be sure your sin will find you out.—Numbers 32:23.

SPECIAL OFFER

ONE 42 PIECE $12.00 DINNER SET

BLUE BIRD, FLORAL OR WHITE AND GOLD DESIGNS

For $4.98 f. o. b. New Orleans

Cut out this Advertisement and send to WM. B. REILY & CO., New Orleans, La., with Six Coupons from Luzianne Coffee and $4.98, and the Beautiful Set will be Expressed to You at Once.

All three sets consist of: 6 dinner plates, 6 cups, 6 saucers, 6 pie plates, 6 fruit dessert dishes, 6 oat meal dishes, 1 large meat platter, 1 round vegetable bowl, 1 oval vegetable bowl, 1 cream pitcher, 1 sugar bowl, 1 sugar bowl cover.

New Orleans Christian Advocate

HENRY T. CARLEY, Editor.

CHAS. O. CHALMERS, Manager.

PUBLISHING COMMITTEE:

Louisiana Conference—Rev. J. F. Foster, Rev. S. J. Davies, Rev. C. C. Miller.

Mississippi Conference—Rev. J. T. Leggett, Rev. J. R. Jones, Rev. W. H. Saunders.

North Mississippi Conference—Rev. J. H. Feits, Rev. T. H. Lipscomb, Rev. J. W. Dorman.

DIRECTIONS.

All checks and money orders should be made payable to the New Orleans Christian Advocate.

Communications pertaining to subscriptions and other business matters should be addressed to the Manager, or to the New Orleans Christian Advocate.

The Printed Label on a paper shows the date to which a subscription is paid. It is as good as a written receipt. When renewal is made, if the date is not moved forward after three or four weeks, notify us, and we will make it right.

Communications intended for the Editor should be directed to him at 512 Camp Street. Correspondents will observe the following rules: 1. Write on only one side of the paper. 2. If you have a typewriter, by all means use it; otherwise use a good quality of black ink. 3. Leave a space of at least two inches at the top of the first page; leave a margin of at least one inch on the left-hand side of the page; do not crowd the words and the lines together. 4. Take special pains to write proper names correctly and legibly. 5. Use letter paper if you can get it—not note paper. No attention will be paid to rolled manuscripts.

CONFERENCE CALENDAR.

North Mississippi Conference, November 8, at Water Valley, Miss.; Rev. L. P. Wasson, pastor; Bishop William N. Ainsworth, presiding.

Louisiana Conference, November 22, at Shreveport, La.; Dr. H. L. Brooks, pastor; Bishop Warren A. Candler, presiding.

Mississippi Conference, November 30, at Crystal Springs, Miss.; Rev. W. B. Jones, pastor; Bishop William N. Ainsworth, presiding.

PERSONAL AND OTHER NOTES.

The International Convention of the World League Against Alcoholism will meet in Toronto, Canada, November 24-29.

Rev. G. S. Harmon, one of our general evangelists, has recently assisted the pastor, Rev. J. M. Lewis, in a good meeting at Collins, Miss.

We regret not being in the office when Dr. Briscoe Carter, our pastor at Minden, La., paid the Advocate office a call one day last week.

The Sunday school payments to the Centenary amounted to $1,026,739 on October 1. The Epworth Leagues had paid $228,870 to the same date.

A daily bulletin was issued in connection with the Stough meeting in Brookhaven, Miss., the bulletin being under the auspices of the Brookhaven "Flying Squadron."

Rev. K. W. Dodson, presiding elder of the Monroe-Ruston District, Louisiana Conference, was in the city last Sunday, attending the great meeting at First Church on Sunday night.

Mr. D. W. Heidelberg, of Shubuta, Miss., a prominent laymen of the Mississippi Conference, spent a few days in the city this week and paid the Advocate office an appreciated call on Tuesday.

Dr. Lyman Abbott, editor-in-chief of the Outlook, died at his home in New York on Sunday, October 22. For many years he had been recognized as a leader in civic and religious thought.

Rev. W. B. Hogg, of Little Rock, Ark., has recently held fine meetings in Yazoo City, Miss., and Alexandria, La. Press reports of these meetings indicate that they were far-reaching in results.

Rev. J. H. Feits, presiding elder of the Greenville District, North Mississippi Conference, says that the "district that sounds no retreat" is hard at it for a successful conclusion of the year's work.

Dr. J. W. Perry, one of the secretaries of the Home Department of the Board of Missions, spent last Sunday in New Orleans, preaching at Rayne Memorial in the morning and delivering a brief address at First Church in the evening.

Dr. Theodore Copeland, who is known throughout the church as an evangelist, has recently closed what he says was the greatest meeting he has ever held, at Norman, Okla. Norman is the seat of the State University, and hundreds of the students were reached through the meeting.

By the death, on October 17, of the Rev. Dr. Reese P. Alsop, a prominent clergyman of the Protestant Episcopal Church in Greater New York, Canon of the Cathedral of the Incarnation, and Rector Emeritus of St. Ann's Church, Brooklyn, the American Bible Society has lost the chairman of its Versions Committee.

Mrs. M. A. Cunningham, formerly of Okolona, Miss., but now of Aberdeen, Miss., has been a subscriber to the Advocate for more than fifty years. She has reared a large family, all of whom are substantial Methodists, one of her sons, D. S. Cunningham, being a member of the official board at Okolona. Blessings upon her!

Mrs. H. R. McKee, wife of Rev. H. R. McKee, is in the Methodist Hospital at Hattiesburg, Miss., where she underwent a serious operation on Monday of this week. She has been seriously ill for three months, and the brethren are requested to pray for her recovery. Before her marriage, Mrs. McKee was Miss Duncan, kindergarten teacher at the Wesley House in Meridian, Miss.

We regret to learn of the death of Mrs. Margaret Ann Savage, of Sessums, Miss., on October 19, in her sixty-eighth year. She was the widow of the late Fletcher A. Savage. She leaves six sons and two daughters to mourn their loss. Mrs. Savage was a long-time reader of the Advocate, and was interested in all the work of the church. We extend sincere sympathy to the sorrowing loved ones.

Rev. C. C. Wier, pastor of the Algiers Methodist Church, New Orleans, celebrated his fifty-sixth birthday on last Sunday, October 29, by preaching a special sermon. The choir observed the occasion by rendering appropriate music, and the congregation presented him with a nice purse and otherwise paid attention to their beloved pastor. The Advocate extends hearty congratulations to this faithful and popular preacher.

Rev. and Mrs. H. C. Murphy, of Natalbany, La., celebrated the forty-second anniversary of their wedding on Saturday, October 28. The marriage ceremony forty-two years ago was performed by Rev. Jesse Fulton of sainted memory. Mrs. Murphy is a namesake of the officiating clergyman—she was Miss Jessie Fulton Hammett. The Advocate extends best wishes to Brother and Sister Murphy as they pass another milestone in their happy wedded life.

The Missionary Centenary Pay-up Week for the Louisiana Conference will be December 3-10. As this will be one week after the close of the Conference and there will be no other special financial objects before our people at that time, it is sincerely hoped that every pastor and official in our church will lend every aid possible in making this effort a great success. Before that time as much should be collected as possible not to embarrass other causes.

On Friday evening, November 10, a church-wide get-together meeting will be held at the Carrollton Avenue Methodist Church, this city. The members of the Woman's Missionary Society will act as hostesses, assisted by all the officials of the church and their wives. It is expected that this will be one of the most successful and inspiring occasions in the history of this aggressive and growing congregation. Rev. Ellis Smith is the pastor.

The recent revival meeting at Bogalusa, La., conducted by Rev. Burke Culpepper, was wonderfully successful in every way. There were 300 additions to the membership of the churches of the city, 175 of them being to the Methodist church. The business houses closed for the morning services, and the attendance at times exceeded the capacity of the auditorium. The "blind tigers" have been closed as a result of the meeting, and a great impetus has been given all church work. Rev. Elmer C. Gunn is the pastor.

Bishop Warren A Candler dedicated the church at Covington, La., last Sunday morning, and preached at First Church, New Orleans, on Sunday evening. The other Methodist congregations of the city had called in their services of the evening and a great audience heard the Bishop in one of his characteristically great sermons. Bishop Candler was entertained while in the city by Rev. and Mrs. J. G. Snelling. On Monday, the Bishop and Dr. J. W. Perry were entertained by the Methodist pastors at a luncheon at the Monteleone Hotel. In addition to the Methodist preachers of the city, the following out-of-town preachers were present: Rev. H. B. Hines, Rev. L. W. Cain, Rev. W. H. Giles, Rev. E. C. Gunn. Rev. W. B. Simmons, of the New Mexico Conference, was also present. Rev. J. G. Snelling, the presiding elder of the New Orleans District, presided at the luncheon, which was a very delightful occasion.

We take the following from a recent number of the Jackson (Miss.) Daily News: "In token of the services rendered by Rev. W. B. Jones, pastor of the Methodist Church at Crystal Springs, Miss., in the erection of a new church, M. J. Eagan, president of the board of stewards, presented him with a silver loving cup, appropriately inscribed. A memorial window inscribed, 'To Our Mothers,' was presented by the young men of the church, and one inscribed, 'To Our Fathers,' was presented by the young women of the church. The other windows reveal the following names: Porter, Folkes, Foggs, Thompson, Eagan, Sexton, Howell, Aby, Lee, Humphries, Barrington. The pews, of dark oak, were installed by the Ladies' Aid Society; the pulpit was presented by W. B. Lockwood as a memorial to his father and grandfather; the altar rail was presented by the children of Dr. and Mrs. R. E. Jones, in memory of their parents; the communion table is a gift of Mrs. H. W. Sims; the handsome electric fixtures were principally the gift of H. F. Aby, of Tulsa, Okla."

The editor had the happy privilege of officiating at the dedication of the beautiful and commodious new church at Pine Ridge, about seven miles west of Tangipahoa, La., on last Sunday morning. A congregation that crowded the house was gathered for the occasion, and the service was, in every way, a delightful one. Pine Ridge is one of our oldest preaching places, a church having been established there about forty years ago, growing out of a Sunday school organized by a Mrs. Hutchinson, who has since passed to her reward. By the side of the present church stands one of the most attractive rural school buildings we have seen in a long time. Rev. H. C. Murphy is the pastor of this fine congregation, and we heard only words of highest praise concerning him. Rev. B. D. Watson, of Jackson, La., and Rev. A. Bruiet, of Greensburg, La., were present and assisted in the service. It was a great regret to the editor that he had to leave immediately after the service, thus being unable to partake of the bountiful "dinner-on-the-ground" that had been prepared, and to enjoy the afternoon service, at which Brother Watson was announced to preach.

Obedience to love adds wings,
And little faith will grow to great.

—Spitta.

THE FINANCIAL OBLIGATIONS OF THE CHURCH.

It is so patent that the church cannot carry on its organized activities without money that it is altogether unnecessary to argue the point. It is necessary, however, that we be constantly reminded that an unfulfilled promise to pay does not meet the requirements of the situation. We have in mind especially now the Centenary and the Christian Education Movements. If the programs of these two great movements be carefully analyzed, it will be seen that they embrace all those operations by means of which the church is to carry out its mission of evangelizing the world. The activities represented by them are not local and temporary, but world-wide in extent and permanent in nature, and the success of all our labors is dependent upon the carrying out of the plans involved in them. It is hard to understand how or why it is that so many of the pledges made to these causes remain so long overdue except upon the assumption that those who made these pledges have not taken time to consider what is involved in them. We believe any other explanation would not reflect credit upon those who have not yet redeemed their pledges; we do not, therefore, hold that they have deliberately failed to meet their obligations. They have not stopped to think what their failure will mean—and wo call upon them to give serious attention to the matter now. If every subscriber will earnestly and prayerfully consider his obligation now, we believe November will bring a response in actual cash that will set forward the Kingdom mightily. It ought to he so.

A BOOK BY BISHOP CANDLER.

For some time we have had on our desk a copy of the Quillian Lectures, delivered by Bishop Warren A. Candler, at Emory University last year. We have recently read it, with both interest and profit, and we commend it as a valuable volume for every preacher's library. The subject of the lectures is, "The Kingdom of God's Dear Son"—a title which, we confess, is a little cumbersome. The book itself, however, is in Bishop Candler's usual perspicuous and epigrammatic style, and it deals with a subject that ought to be of interest to every devout Christian.

The book is not especially easy reading for those who have accustomed themselves to the light literature that is so prevalent in the present day; it presents the profound reflections of a great thinker upon a great theme, and it will yield its richest treasures only to those who read with a determination to think as they go along. This is not so hard, though, for it has the admirable quality of inspiring thought while it requires it.

Bishop Candler treats his subject under the following chapter divisions, which are suggestive of his mastery of the material and of its logical development: "The Kingdom Prepared from the Foundation of the World;" "The Kingdom in the Patriarchal Age;" "Tbe Filial Nation and Its Messianic Hope;" "The Son of God Proclaiming His Kingdom;" "The Kingdom Established by the Death, Resurrection, and Ascension of the Messiah;" "The Heavenly Forces by which the Heavenly Kingdom Is Promoted;" "The Consummation of the Kingdom."

EDUCATIONAL NOTES—LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.

Prof. L. L. Upton, of Slaughter, La., paid his Christian Education pledge in full with the following remarks: "Might not be able later, and life is uncertain. Would not like to go with this sacred debt unpaid. Besides, it may help some to forward the Master's cause." He is our representative in the State Legislaturo from East Feliciana Parish, and can bc depended upon to heartily support all reform measures that stand for the uplift of the people. If all of our legislators were of his typc, our fair State of Louisiana would make wonderful strides in some legislation that seems to be very much needed.

The State Fair at Shreveport has always had many educational features connected with it. But it seems too had that it should be marred by the open desecration of the Christian Sabbath and the prevalence of the gambling mania. Devices for winning by chance were the big rage. Something ought to be done to put a stop to this wrong kind of education. Here is where the youth get their start. After awhile, we have devcloped such a spectacular speculator as Thomas W. Lawson, who has finally come to financial grief. It is glaringly true that the annals of financo reveal mighty few grand-scale gamblers who die rich. Nearly every great plunger gocs to the ticker once too often.

In reading the Kaiser's memoirs, we note another who plunged his final gamble in war, for he says: "For thirty years the army was my pride. For it I lived; upon it I labored." The Bible has truly declared, "Those who live by the sword sball perish by the sword." It is likewise true that those who live by gambling, perish by gambling. Christian Education is the antidote for the gambling mania and will pave the way for world peace.

Georgia is famous for having had the first woman graduate in the history of the world, so she is honored with having the first woman United States Senator, Mrs. W. H. Felton, 87 years of age, who gives the following good advice: "Good laws and good lawmakers, we already have. I shall not strive to win glory in statemanship. If only I can aid in making men and women live cleaner, sweeter and more wholesome lives, I shall be well satisfied. I see a better citizenry coming to America only through efforts to improve our living standards. There must be every encouragement. A strong nation is dependent upon its women, and the manner in which the women of this coutry grasp their opportunities will decide most of the great issues of the future." This well states the argument for the fully equipped girls' school. It would be impossible to estimate in terms of the world's wealth the value to society of the Christian homes which have been established by the graduates of our Christian institutions.

An educational conscience on the part of the church membership is the need of the hour. Quite a number of churches clamor for a better trained ministry, yet they have done nothing to make such a ministry possible. The way to meet this demand is by paying your edueational quota. Every church ought to do what it can. There must be no exceptions. The clear call of God is to educate and especially to give to the world an education that is truly Christian.

Remember Pay-up Week, from November 1 to 8. Hunt up your church collector and hand him your second payment on your pledge.

ALBERT S. LUTZ,
Conference Secretary of Education.

THANKS TO OUR FRIENDS.

We desire to express our thanks to the following friends who have sent us two or more subscriptions recently: Rev. H. P. Lewis, Booneville, Miss., 3; Rev. J. H. French, Evergreen, La., 2; Rev. T. B. Cottrell, Vicksburg, Miss., 4; Rev. J. L. Smith, Gloster, Miss., 2; Miss Emily Cook, Crystal Springs, Miss., 2; Miss Janie Love, Olla, La., 2; Rev. E. C. Sullivan, Arkabutla, Miss., 3.

APPRECIATION.

To the pastors and lay members of the Mississippi Conferences, who responded to the request for co-operation in an effort to make the Methodist Celebration, recently held in Jackson, a creditable and valuable occasion to the church, I take this opportunity of expressing my personal appreciation. Especially do I wish, as director of the Celebration, to thank those who sent valuable and interesting material for the exhibit, and all who joined in the parade on Methodist Day and contributed in any way to make that day the delightful occasion that it was. Fraternally,

J. M. SULLIVAN.

How To Pray: Therefore I say unto you, what things soever ye desire, when ye pray, believe that ye receive them, and ye shall have them.—Mark 11;24.

NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

Admission on Trial.

Applicants for Admission on Trial into the North Mississippi Annual Conference will pleaso meet the Committee of Examination on Tuesday morning, November 7, at 9 o'clock in the Metbodist church, Water Valley, Miss.

J. E. STEPHENS, Chairman.

First Year.

The Committee and Class of tho First Year of the North Mississippi Conference will meet in the Methodist church at Water Valley, Miss., at 2 p.m., November 7. The Committee must have a full report to be presented at the first session of the Conference, which will be on Wednesday morning, November 8. So it is absolutely necessary for all the members of the Committee and for all the members of the Class to be present on Tuesday at 2 p.m.

J. A. HALL,
For the Committee.

Second Year.

The Class of tho Second Year will please meet the Committee at the Methodist church at Water Valley, at 4 p.m., November 7. It is very important that each member of the Class be present at this time, as the Committee must report to the Bishop on every man—whether his work is complete or not complete—at the first session of the Conference.

THOMAS H. MILLS, Chairman.

Third Year.

The Class of the Third Year will please meet the Committee for examination at the Methodist church, Water Valley, Miss., on the evening of November 7, at 7 o'clock.

T. M. BROWNLEE, Chairman.

Fourth Year.

The Committee and Class of the Fourth Year will meet for examination at the Methodist church at Water Valley, Miss., 10 a.m., November 7.

Tbe presence of all the class is necessary, whether or not the whole course has been passed upon by the Correspondence School. If a part or none or all the course has been finished, the Committee desires the presence of all the class, as none will be passed without personal examination.

N. G. AUGUSTUS, Chairman.

Show me tho path! I had forgotten Thee
When I was happy and free,
Walking down here in the gladsome light of the sun;
But now I come and mourn. Oh, set my feet
In the road to thy blest seat!
And for the rest, O God, thy will be done!

—Jean Ingelow.

SECOND PAYMENT PAY-UP-WEEK, NOVEMBER 1st to 8th, CHRISTIAN EDUCATION MOVEMENT, LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.

PAY YOUR LOCAL CHURCH COLLECTOR, OR SEND DIRECT TO CONFERENCE SECRETARY OF EDUCATION.

ALBERT S. LUTZ,
1063 Sheridan Ave.,
Shreveport, La.

WANTED—
IN PONCHATOULA, LA.,
A WEEKLY NEWSPAPER
A PHOTOGRAPHER

Ponchatoula is a thriving town on the Illinois Central R. R., and a newspaper and photograph business will get support of the citizens. Write to J. R. ABELS,
Ponchatoula, La.

Obituaries

Obituaries not over 200 words in length will be published free of charge. All over 200 words must be paid for at the rate of 1 cent a word. Count the words and be sure to send the amount necessary with the obituary. That will save trouble all around. We cannot make discriminations. Memorial resolutions are subject to the same rule as obituaries.

JAMES O. SMITH was born July 16, 1840, and departed this life on August 23, 1922. He joined the Confederate Army in 1861 and served to the close of the war. In 1866 he was married to Miss L. E. Gideon, with whom he lived happily for 20 years; to this union were born nine sons and two daughters, seven of whom survive him, also twenty-seven grandchildren and nine great-grandchildren. In 1887 he was married again to a Miss Estell, who survives him. Brother Smith professed faith in Christ and joined the Methodist Church when a boy, and remained faithful to his profession until death. He had served his church for over forty years as a faithful steward. As a husband, he was loving and kind; as a father, he was devoted and thoughtful; as a man, he was honest, clean, and upright; as a Christian, he was faithful to duty, loyal to bis church, his pastor, and his Master; and he was generous to all worthy causes. He will be greatly missed, not only by his family, but also by his church and community. In my absence the Rev. T. H. Dorsey, P. E., of Aberdeen, Miss., conducted the funeral services, and his body was laid to rest by the side of his first wife near McCondy to awalt the general resurrection.

E. C. DRISKELL, P. C.

HON. J. D. McCALL was born in Vermillion Parish, on Grand Chenier, in 1850, and died in Lake Arthur, Oct. 6, 1922, aged 72 years, 5 months and 27 days. He joined the M. E. Church, Soutb, in childhood. Later, he withdrew from the churcb, but, after some years, tbrough the influence of his son, he united again with the same church, and remained a consistent member until the church blew away and was disorganized. During our revival here last year he again joined the church, and remained a faitbful member until his deatb. He was married twice. By his first wife he had four children—one son and three daughters; by his last wife he had two children—both girls. He is survived by all of his children, and one brother, and many other relatives and a host of friends. He served in the capacity of Sunday school superintendent and teacher a number of years. He was President of the Police Jury in Cameron Parish for twenty years, and member of the State Legislature eight years. He served as justice of tbe peace a number of years, and was serving Ward One of Jefferson Parish in the same capacity when he died. He was a good man, a devoted father, an honorable citizen, a Christian. He stood for the rigbt at all times. A good man has gone from us. He bore his affliction with Christian fortitude. Tbe wrlter visited him many times during his illness. He never complained. May God bless the bereaved.

S. D. HOWARD, Pastor.

MODERN "ACTS OF THE DISCIPLES."

Ten young men and women, who are volunteers for Christian Life service, bave entered Marvin Collegiate Institute this autumn because of what tbe St. Louis District chooses to call its modern "Acts of the Disciples." According to Dr. Marvin T. Haw, who has been the leading spirit of the work in his district, there are many men and women who are happy to invest from five to one hundred dollars in the education of a future missionary. Several individuals have seen fit to give the whole three hundred dollars necessary for one scholarship. These modern "disciples" include churches, business men, missionary societies, Sunday school classes and groups of individuals wbo want a part in the preparation of life service volunteers for the ministry and the mission field. What better investment can man ask? Is there a volunteer from your church who needs financial assistance to get through college? Information as to the needs and the opportunities to invest in a life will be gladly furnished.

GARFIELD EVANS.
810 Broadway, Nashville, Tenn.

REVIVAL SERVICES AT WESLEY CHAPEL, PONCHATOULA, LA.

Wesley Chapel is a little country church about four miles from Ponchatoula on the Madison Road. Following on the heels of the revival services conducted in the Ponchatoula church by Dr. C. W. Crisler, the Rev. C. E. McLean, of the Methodist Churcb at Istrouma, Baton Rouge, was invited to conduct the services. He certainly "delivered the goods." He is a powerful preacher and his sermons gave evidence of thoughtful and careful study, with the true ring of gospel messages. I predict a brilliant future for him in the ministry. There were morning services as well as at night. The church was crowded every nigbt and ten young men and women joined the church. I am told Dr. W. W. Drake began his ministry in this community, and Revs. J. B. Williams, F. N. Sweeney, Wm. Schule and others are held in kind remembrance. Brother McLean was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Howes, not forgetting Miss Lizzie Howes, who not only led the singing, but is the unchallenged leader in this church. A beautiful organ has just been presented to the church by Mrs. Will Howes. The free-will offerings were very good, and on Sunday, being Orphanage Day, the sum of $20 was also raised. It was interesting to me to note among the changes that time has made in the country church, instead of mule teams and buggies, the number of "flivers" and motor trucks bringing the congregation each night. Roads are gravelled and the lovely fall weather helped considerably. God was certainly good to us and His blessing rested upon each service. To Him be all the glory. There were ninety-six scholars at the Sunday school last Sunday. One noticeable thing about the congregations was that there were two men to every woman present at the services. This is unusual..

F. B. HILL, P. C.

He Leadetb Me: I will bring the blind by a way that they knew not; I will lead them in paths that they have not known: I will make darkness light before them, and crooked things straight. These things will I do unto them, and not forsake them.—Isaiah 42:16.

QUARTERLY CONFERENCES.

NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE

Greenwood Dist.—Fourth Round.

Sidon, at Cruger, Sun., Nov. 5, a.m.
Tchula, Sun., Nov. 5, p.m.

A careful and complete report will be expected from the treasurers of the Centenary and Educational Movements, Trustees and Missionary Societies. It will require a little effort on the part of the pastors to secure tbese, but the Conference will not be complete without them, and we must acknowledge we fail, if we fail.

S. L. POPE, P. E.

Greenville Dist.—Fourth Round.

Duncan and Hillhouse, at Duncan, Nov. 5, a.m.

"The District that sounds no retreat" will make a decidedly better report in every way this fall than last unless some man "plays hooky." Surely neither elder, pastor nor lay man will be the guilty party.

JAMES H. FELTS, P. E.

Corinth Dist.—Fourth Round.

Ripley station, Qr. Conf., Friday, Nov. 3, 2 p.m.; preaching, Nov. 5, 11 a.m.
Chalybeate ct., at Mt. Pleasant, Sat., Nov. 4.

N. B.—Let pastors see that written reports are made by Woman's Missionary Society and by Boards of Trustees, answering Questions 13 and 14.

J. B. RANDOLPH, P. E.

WHEELER Business College BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
"WHEELER STUDENTS GET THE BEST POSITIONS"
Call or Write for Free Catalogue

IS IT INSURED?

No body knows when Fire or Lightning or Wind will rage and destroy. Somewhere every day church property is burning.

THE NATIONAL MUTUAL CHURCH INSURANCE COMPANY of CHICAGO

—The Methodist Mutual—has been furnishing protection AT COST upon easy annual payments since 1898. No assessments; legal reserve for protection of policy-holders same as stock companies. No agents. Deal direct. The oldest fire insurance company in the United States is a Mutual organized by Benjamin Franklin. Get the facts.

Write to HENRY P. MAGILL, Sec'ty. & Mgr.
1509 Insurance Exchange, Chicago, Ill.

Mrs. Alice Hargrove Barclay, Agent, M. E. Church, South. 314 Norton Building, Louisville, Ky.

Church Furniture
WORK OF THE HIGHEST QUALITY AT REASONABLE PRICES
Write for Catalogue
BUDDE & WEIS MFG. CO.
JACKSON, TENNESSEE

TOBACCO HABIT BANISHED QUICK, SURE, Lasting Results

Tobacco Redeemer is pleasant to take. Absolutely scientific; thoroughly reliable. We positively guarantee you will have no craving for tobacco after using Tobacco Redeemer. Money back if not satisfied. Write for free booklet and proof.
Newell Pharmacal Co. Dept. 063 St. Louis, Mo.

Rely on Cuticura To Clear Away Skin Troubles
Soap to cleanse, Ointment to soothe, Talcum to powder, 25c. Samples of Cuticura, Dept. V, Malden, Mass.

DEEP-SEATED
FRECKLES
Need attention NOW or may remain all winter. Use the old and time-tried guaranteed treatment that has given satisfaction to millions of women for over 14 years, and rid yourself of these homely spots. Ask for
Othine--Double Strength
At all Druggists and Department Stores.

QUALITY GOODS
AT LOW PRICES
D. H. Holmes Co.,
LIMITED.

STOP ITCHING
Skins with Tetterine
60c at your Druggist's, or from The SHUPTRINE CO., SAVANNAH, GA.

Public Service
HAS BECOME THE ACTIVE PRACTICAL IDEAL OF THE STREET RAILWAY COMPANY WITH ITS REORGANIZATION AS NEW ORLEANS PUBLIC SERVICE, INC. WE SOLICIT HELPFUL SUGGESTIONS AND WISH TO KEEP SERVICE ALWAYS
On the Job

DR. H. B. BARTLETT
National Dental Parlors
Canal and Bourbon Sts.
Over Worner's Drug Store
Entrance on Bourbon Street
Phone Main 2193.
NEW ORLEANS
Crown and Bridge Specialist
Vitalized Air for Painless Extraction
Most Modern and Best Equipped Dental Parlors South.

Epworth League Department

Editor, North Mississippi Conference.....Rev. R. P. Neblett, Durant, Miss.
Editor, Mississippi Conference,
J. H. Weems, 308 Second Avenue, Hattlesburg, Miss.
Editor, Louisiana Conference,
Miss Consuelo Martinez, 314 Broadway, New Orleans, La.

Material for this Department from the several Conferences should be sent to the editors named above. Copy must be in the Advocate office by Thursday preceding the week of publication.

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.

The many League friends and acquantances of Miss Sophie Kuntz all over the State will, I am sure, enjoy reading the words of greeting which were written just for them. Every one knows how niee it is to reeeive mail, and it is hoped that a good many will surprise her and take her up on her last paragraph.

"Louisiana Epworth Leaguers—
"Dear friends:

"At our Assembly in June of this year there were about 130 of us gathered under the roof of Mansfield College for inspiration and study. We remember how full of work and happiness the days were and we cannot forget the friendships of those few days.

"On Monday night, just before the close of the Assembly, a call was made for volunteers for the home and foreign field. There were 28 young people who presented themselves for service in the Master's vineyard, and it was my privilege to be one of that number. As a preparation for the work I hopo to do, I have entered Scarritt Bible and Training School. Because there may be some other Louisiana girls interested in this same thing, I want to tell you something about our school.

"Kansas City is hilly and the school is on one of these hills. All about are beautiful small parks and driveways. Wild flowers grow along the roads and they make walking or riding a pleasure.

"Upon arriving in Kansas City all the new pupils were met by Seniors and taken to the school, where everything was done to make us feel at home. For several days nothing much was done but becoming acquainted. On our first Saturday night we were given a 'get-together' social by the Seniors. We afterwards found out that this was almost necessary to prevent a general spell of homesickness, which usually comes on about that time. However, the charm worked and we had a jolly good time. Since then we have had several such good times, and since they are so much like League socials, I feel almost at home.

"Another feature of our school life is the athletics. Every girl is trying to win a monogram by having a certain number of athletic points to her credit. We have a tennis court, basket-ball and baseball fields for the students. Besides this real hikes are taken, not merely strolls, but genuine hikes which make the blood circulate in the veins.

"However, it is not all play here, but work as well. Our classwork and reading take up most of our time, but we have such nice teachers that it seems easy. Each girl is assigned some sort of practice work which will help her in her future work. This includes Sunday school teaching, Epworth League work, social service work as pastors' assistants, and teaching. All the work is helpful and interesting.

"The student body of Searritt is composed mostly of Southern girls, but there are others here also. Japan and Brazil are represented, as well as the American Indians. I do hope that next year Louisiana will have a few more than are here now. Some States have three and four, but we have only one.

"This letter would not be complete without a mention of Miss Gibson, who has labored so many years to make this school a possibility, and whose entire life has been consecrated to God and to His service at this school. We all love her, as well as Miss Durham, who has us in charge.

"It is because I am enjoying the school and all that it means that I am hoping that there will be more Louisiana Leaguers here next year. I was delighted to find that so many of the girls are Leaguers and were influenced by the League to take up missionary work. Leaguers, remember us in your prayers.

"I would love to hear from some of my friends because I never can forget that I am one of you and always a Leaguer. Yours,

"SOPHIE KUNTZ."

Another New League for the New Orleans District.

On Sunday, October 15th, one more Epworth League was added to the number in New Orleans with the organization of one at the Louisiana Avenue Church, under the auspices of the Rayne Memorial League. The meeting was presided over by Miss Mildred Wheeler, and Miss Flo Dietz, president of the League at Rayne, and Eugene Evans gave inspiring talks on the symbols, the work and the purpose of the Epworth League. This program was followed by the election and installation of officers: Irving McCain, president; George Knight, vice-president, Ollie May Sonier, recording secretary; Elizabeth Riggs, corresponding secretary; Wm. Kleinsehmidt, First Department Superintendent; Miss Ruth Kleinschmidt, Second Department Superintendent. The missionary work of the League will be in charge of Mrs. W. D. Kleinsehmidt, president of the Woman's Missionary Society, until this department is well organized.

On October 22 the first devotional meeting was held, with a large, enthusiastic attendance. It is felt that with such an excellent beginning our youngest Epworth League has a bright future before it.

(Continued on Page 15.)

The Best Cough Syrup is Home-made

Here's an easy way to save $2, and yet have the best cough remedy you ever tried.

You've probably heard of this well-known plan of making cough syrup at home. But have you ever used it? When you do, you will understand why thousands of families, the world over, feel that they could hardly keep house without it. It's simple and cheap, but the way it takes hold of a cough will quickly earn it a permanent place in your home.

Into a pint bottle, pour 2½ ounces of Pinex; then add plain granulated sugar syrup to fill up the pint. Or, if desired, use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup instead of sugar syrup. Either way, it tastes good, never spoils, and gives you a full pint of better cough remedy than you could buy ready-made for three times its cost.

It is really wonderful how quickly this home-made remedy conquers a cough—usually in 24 hours or less. It seems to penetrate through every air passage, loosens a dry, hoarse or tight cough, lifts the phlegm, heals the membranes, and gives almost immediate relief. Splendid for throat tickle, hoarseness, croup, bronchitis and bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, and has been used for generations for throat and chest ailments.

To avoid disappointment ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

PILES Don't Be Cut
Until You Try This Wonderful Treatment

My internal method of treatment is the correct one, and is sanctioned by the best informed physicians and surgeons. Ointments, salves and other local applications give only temporary relief.

If you have piles in any form write for a FREE sample of Page's Pile Tablets and you will bless the day that you read this. Write today.

E. E. PAGE 430J Page Bldg., Marshall, Mich.

ECZEMA
IS CURABLE

Write me today and I will send you a free trial of my mild, soothing, guaranteed treatment that will prove it. Stops the itching and heals permanently. Send no money—just write me—that is all you have to do. Address

Dr. Cannaday, 1225 Park Squire, Sedalia, Mo.

CHAMBERLAIN'S TABLETS
-SOLD EVERYWHERE FOR-
CONSTIPATION
BILIOUSNESS
Headache
INDIGESTION
Stomach Trouble

Quick Relief to BRONCHIAL SUFFERERS

Coughs, nasal and bronchial colds are relieved promptly by the vapor of Cresolene--the standard drugless treatment with forty years of successful use its guarantee. The most widely used remedy for whooping cough and spasmodic croup.

Introduced in 1879

Vapo-Cresolene

"Used While You Sleep"

Send for descriptive booklet 43C. Sold by druggists
Vapo-Cresolene Co., 62 Cortlandt St. N. Y.

SORES BOILS, CUTS and BURNS have been healed since 1820 with

Gray's Ointment

Sold by all druggists. Write for sample to W. F. Gray & Co., 707 Gray Bldg., Nashville, Tenn.

Headaches Vanish

Sick or nervous headaches, backaches, women's aches almost instantly respond to the liquid remedy Capudine. It stops the pain by removing the cause. Every home should keep a bottle handy. Sold by druggists, 10c, 30c, 60c. Insist upon getting CAPUDINE

HOW TWO WOMEN ESCAPED OPERATIONS

Doctor Advised Use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Happy Results in Both Cases

St. Joseph, Missouri.—"Both of my sides swelled and hurt me so that I could not move or do any of my work. There was heavy pressure and pains through my lower organs and the doctor told me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for these troubles. He said I had this one chance, and if the Vegetable Compound did not help me nothing but an operation would. After taking several bottles I felt it was helping me and now I am able to do my own work. If my testimonial will help others I shall be glad for them to read it and hope your Vegetable Compound will do them as much good as it did me." —Mrs. WM. LOCKMAN, 513 N. 4th St., St. Joseph, Mo.

White Plains, N. Y.—"I had such a pain that I could hardly walk and the doctor said that I needed an operation. I was sick for a year before I started taking your medicine and I could not work. I saw your advertisement in a little book and that is how I came to take Lydia E. Pinkham's medicines. I have been taking the Vegetable Compound and Lydia E. Pinkham's Blood Medicine, also Lydia E. Pinkham's Liver Pills and used Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash and the capsules and prescription recommended. I am doing all my work and have gained twenty pounds. I am taking the medicines still, but I feel fine. You have my permission to use this letter for the good of others." —Mrs. MARY MARK, 37 Hamilton Ave., White Plains, N. Y.

Some female troubles may through neglect reach a stage when an operation is necessary. But most of the commoner ailments are not the surgical ones; they are not caused by serious displacements, tumors, or growths, although the symptoms may appear the same.

When disturbing ailments first appear, take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to relieve the present distress and prevent more serious troubles. Many letters have been received from women who have been restored to health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound after operations have been advised by attending physicians.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Private Text-Book upon "Ailments Peculiar to Women" will be sent you free upon request. Write to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Massachusetts. This book contains valuable information.

Sunday School

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE NOTES

For the past week we have been at Georgetown in a training class. There was an average attendance of twenty-five and there seemed to be great interest. I trust that several who attend the classes will take the examination. Brother J. W. Sells is their pastor and is in favor with his folks. They are hoping for a fine report for the year.

Just a month till Conference. If your schools have not observed Sunday School Day, please take an offering and send it in. Pray for the work and the workers.

Yours in Him,
JOHN C. CHAMBERS.

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.

The Conference Board will hold its anniversary on Wednesday night of Conference week. Mr. M. W. Brabham, of the Central Office, Nashville, will be with us. Mr. Brabham is President of the General Sunday School Council, Methodist Episcopal Church, South, and is well known and highly appreciated in Louisiana.

During the year the following Standard Training Schools have been held: New Orleans District school, April 2—fifty students received credits; Baton Rouge school, August 14—thirty-eight certificates or credits were given; Ruston school, August 20, with 48 credits; Shreveport school, September 17, with 44 credits; Alexandria school, September 24, with 48 credits.

The New Orleans District will put on its second school for 1922 on December 10-16, at the First Church. The faculty for this school are as follows: Mrs. W. B. Ferguson, of Oklahoma; Mrs. Clay E. Smith, of Little Rock, Ark.; Rev. C. O. Shugart, of Dallas, Texas; Prof. C. A. Bowen, of Jackson, Miss.; Prof. Harvie Branscomb, Southern Methodist University; Dr. Wade Crawford Barclay, Cincinnati, Ohio.

We have received from our "Emergency Friends" this year nearly as much money for Sunday school work as from the Sunday School Day offering. Let us have a large list of friends next year and an offering from each school; then we can plan and do great things for the Sunday school cause in our Conference.

C. D. ATKINSON,
Conf. Supt.

SUNDAY SCHOOL AT PEARL RIVER, LA.

Dear Brother Carley: Please allow me space in the Advocate to tell you, and the readers of the Advocate, about our Sunday school at Pearl River, La.

We have on roll nine officers and teachers and sixty-six scholars, making a grand total of seventy-five; our general average of attendance for the year up to now is 79 per cent. We have a splendid corps of teachers, all of whom, I believe, are thoroughly consecrated Christians, and are using their very best efforts to lead their scholars to Christ.

I am especially proud of our men's Bible class, composed of ten splendid men, all of whom are intensely interested in the study of the Word, as well as in the general upbuilding of the Sunday school and the church.

We have a Workers' Council, which meets once a month, through which we are trying to bring our school more nearly up to 100 per cent of efficiency according to the programs of our General Sunday School Board.

During our recent revival meeting I am happy to say that among the number that joined the church, seven came through the Sunday school, and they were happy conversions, too.

Pray for us that we may be more faithful and thereby more efficient workers in the Master's vineyard.

Yours fraternally,
J. W. DEAN, Supt.

COLONEL JOHN A. RANDOLPH.

The above worthy soldier and able minister has just spent a week at Blue Mountain preaching and lecturing. He has spent twenty-four years as a chaplain in the United States Army and has proved himself a great soldier and chaplain. He is a magnificent man in appearance, intellectual ability and Christian character. Before joining the army he had been a prominent Methodist pastor and presiding elder. He is now sixty-four years of age, but bids fair, like William E. Gladstone, to make the next twenty years the greatest years of his life in power and usefulness.

Colonel Randolph came to Blue Mountain to hold a meeting in the Methodist Church. Their building was too small to accommodate the congregations and the Baptist people invited him to hold his night services in their building. Each morning he used the chapel hour in the Female College and also the chapel hour in the Mississippi Heights Academy in speaking to the girls and boys. He also conducted several chapel services in the public school.

Colonel Randolph's lecture on his experiences in France at the battle front was a heart-reaching message which I am sure did much good. He ought to give it as a lyceum lecture on many platforms. It would not only melt the hearts of the hearers into new sympathy with the boys who died for us and those who endured privation for us, but it would strengthen their love of peace and fan the fires of their patriotic fervor.

Colonel Randolph's sermons and lectures are especially suited for school towns. I wish that he might have the privilege of spending at least a week with every school in the country. He is sane and sensible, conscientious and consecrated.

The writer is a Baptist but he has enjoyed a privilege which many Methodists ought to arrange to avail themselves of. Of course, after twenty-four years in the army, he has come back a comparative stranger to his own people. The writer knew him as an able and lovable man long before he entered the army service, but he wishes to testify now that he has returned from the army "enlarged and improved." He is chock-full of useful information, memories of rich experiences and interest in all humanity.

Fraternally,
W. T. LOWREY.

Blue Mountain College, Blue Mountain, Mississippi.

MEMORIAL SERVICE OF PEARL RIVER AVENUE, McCOMB.

After having a good meeting, from the standpoint of interest and attendance, of the Missionary Society of Pearl River Avenue on Monday afternoon—the regular time for meeting—they had an extra service the following Thursday afternoon, October 26, in honor of Miss Belle H. Bennett, and it was an unusually good meeting. It met at the home of Mrs. O. L. Fenn. Mrs. A. L. Young had charge of the program. It all bore on the life and labors of this great woman that Southern Methodism gave to the world. There were thirty-four grown people in attendance, besides some children. It was good to be there to take in the interest manifested by this young Missionary Society and gather some great outstanding facts about, perhaps, the greatest woman the South ever produced. Two prominent things, in my mind, made this woman what she was, viz., a clear call, as Paul received, from God to a specific work, and a life of intercessory prayer in the prosecution of the God-given task. Shall we ever see her like again? God grant that thousands of women may be constrained to dedicate their lives to God as she did, during these memorial services!

Just a few more words about our Missionary Society of Pearl River Avenue. It is doing a monumental work indeed. The spirit and consecration of the ladies, as a whole, to their task is just simply superb. They have stood together, worked together, and borne the budens together as one individual, all along through the year, despite the critical year we have had. The attendance and interest have not waned at any time during the year, and they have not missed a single payment on the parsonage furniture—having some money ahead of the promised payments now! Every officer, as well as each member, deserves credit for the noble record made for the year. Let intercessory prayer be made for us all!

J. A. WELLS.

ANGELL'S

COUGH and WHOOPING
Cough Syrup
Easy to Take
No Habit-Forming Drugs. Formula of
DR. RICHARD ANGELL
Prepared by
JAMES R. ANGELL,
New Orleans, La.
PRICE 35c AND 65c
AT ALL DRUGGISTS

ECZEMA
PSORIASIS - ITCH
RU-BON will remove every spot. Ask your Druggist. Made by RU-BON Chemical Co., Kansas City, Mo.

FROM COLUMBUS, MISS.

Dear Brother Carley: Will you allow me to interrupt your valuable time just a moment, while I tell you a bit about the people of Columbus and the new Second Methodist Church? I had already heard that Columbus had the best people of any town; and since my move here, I am more than persuaded to believe it; I find them so kind and generous. Under the supervision of our efficient and much beloved pastor, Brother Gregory, they have erected a handsome brick church on a beautiful corner lot facing the entrance of the M. S. C. W. College. It is beautifully situated, has large and spacious auditorium and Sunday school rooms, has double entrance, one from either street. The large columns are magnificient in appearance, with beautiful capitals. Although the house is not quite compiete, we hold services in it. We have a large and interesting Sunday school, with efficient superintendent and teachers; and a mid-week prayer meeting with good attendance.

Brother Gregory has been pastor for five years. We all love him so dearly we would loath to give him up. I have put in my membership and am enjoying it all so much.

God bless the Advocate and the Editor.

Yours in His name,
F. H. MURPHY.

Columbus, Miss.

Bitter Chillifuge 25c

Has a bitter tonic taste and quick action in routing malaria from the system.

Will quickly stop chills and fever.

Splendid tonic for torpid liver and bracer for poor appetite.

FINLAY, DICKS & CO., INC.,
NEW ORLEANS.

FREE BOOK ABOUT CANCER.

The Indianapolis Cancer Hospital, Indianapolis, Indiana, has published a booklet which gives interesting facts about the cause of Cancer, also tells what to do for pain, bleeding, odor, etc. A valuable guide in the management of any case. Write for it to-day, mentioning this paper.—Adv.

Renew your health by purifying your system with

Calotabs
TRADE MARK REG

The purified and refined calomel tablets that are free from nausea and danger.

No salts necessary, as Calotabs act like calomel and salts combined. Demand the genuine in 10c and 35c packages, bearing above trade-mark.

ROPING THE BOYS INTO SUNDAY SCHOOL.

It does seem a little strange, lassoing boys to get them into Sunday school, doesn't it? First, it took the lariat and a man who could use it; then, too, it took the boys. But in a city like New York there is never a shortage of the latter. The man with the lariat was there, too, far from the Western cow country where he learned to swing it.

Frank Bruno Gigliotti—he's a reverend now—who did the lassoing, was once much that seems incongruous with pastoral work or recruiting Sunday school classes. As a boy he lived on a ranch up along the Dakota-Montana border, learning to ride, then to take part in the round-up and "big drive" to the railroad station. He could rope a steer or a wild horse with the best of the cowboys, and ride so well that when the owner of a string of race horses saw him at a rodeo he coveted the youth as a jockey and hired him forthwith.

He became a good jockey and rode many winning races in the West and Southwest and hung up records which stand. He learned some other things during that time, one of which was to handle cards deftly. Satan thought he had him, but all the while God was preparing the cowboy-jockey for greater things.

One night Gigliotti passed a street meeting in the Northwest, where he was racing. A song and a sentence or two of the speaker's message lodged in his mind and, though he passed on, at the next corner he turned and went back to the meeting, leaving a companion. That night he became acquainted with Jesus Christ.

Next day he quit his job as jockey, went East, found another job, then started a mission, prospering in both. He rose to the position of shearman in a steel mill at good wages, but his success in the mission attracted the attention of preachers and Gigliotti was sent to the Biblical Seminary in New York City to study for the ministry.

His spare time was too valuable to waste and he began street work for the Evangelistic Committee of New York City. His specialty was boys and young men. It will be seen that it was a perfectly natural thing for him to use the lariat on a group of boys fed up on lurid literature. They were startled to find a young fellow who could do the thing they had read and dreamed of, and it caught them in more senses than one.

He found another group of boys on a vacant lot with a deck of cards, saw that they did not know how to shuffle the cards and asked if he might not show them how to do it. Marveling at his dexterity they were ready to listen to Gigliotti as he told of things much more worth while than card-playing. Before they parted they handed over the cards, saying they would have no more use for them.

Another group was playing with dice. Gigliotti proceeded to show them how to shoot craps, for they were bungling. That was his bait to catch alive the fish he was seeking and that lot of boys is in another Sunday school class.

One day on the street he struck an acquaintance with a young Dane—Gigliotti was always doing that—and finally invited him to visit him at the school. The Dane is there now as a student for the ministry. He has been called a genius by the head of the school.

This is but one type of the work which the Evangelistic Committee is doing in tents, shops, on vacant lots and on street corners, touching not only English-speaking folk, but almost every nationality under the sun. Meetings are held in five or six different languages.

Of particular interest to people in other sections of the land is the work among the foreign-speaking folk. Many of these come alienated from the religion of the homeland; some of them are avowed atheists, anarchists, Bolsheviki and red radicals of other sorts. There is a church made up almost wholly of former anarchists, several of whom are either in the ministry already or are preparing for it.

But more important is the vast number who have been won for the Master who have scattered throughout the country with a new hope and a new vision, no longer menaces or problems, but assets to the communities in which they settle. And numbers of them are back in their native lands as missionaries or preachers.

Thus the work in New York City touches all the country and even missionary fields, giving an interest in it far wider than the city limits. The Evangelistic Committee is the concerted work of the churches in behalf of those who do not attend the church services, being classed as "taking the church to the people and bringing the people back to the church."

To August 10, an aggregate of 175,751 people were reached through 1,441 meetings, held in 72 centers, in English, Polish, French, Hungarian, Chinese and Russian. Six tents are now in operation.

Since its work is so widespread in its results, many persons from afar have become contributors to the evangelization of what has been termed the "greatest foreign missionary field in the world." Dr. Arthur J. Smith, the general secretary, would be glad to hear from others similarly inclined, or those who would like further information concerning the work. His address is 5949 Grand Central Terminal, New York City.

This is the portion of those who love God—peace. You remember how, before that august experience of our Master, on the eve of his wondrous suffering, as he sat in loving conversation with his disciples, in one of those matchless discourses which preceded his death, he said to them, although he was under the very impending cloud, and knew it was close at hand, understood the mystery of that world-suffering upon which he was about to enter, "Peace I give to you—my peace."—Beecher.

Antiseptic Mul-en-ol

Favorite for forty years.
Old friends can be trusted.
Stomach pains and nausea quickly relieved.
Also fine application for cuts and burns.
15, 30, 60 cts. Sizes
FINLAY, DICKS & CO., INC.,
NEW ORLEANS.

MOTHER!

Move Child's Bowels with "California Fig Syrup"

Even a sick child loves the "fruity" taste of "California Fig Syrup." If the little tongue is coated, or if your child is listless, cross, feverish, full of cold, or has colic, a teaspoonful will never fail to open the bowels. In a few hours you can see for yourself how thoroughly it works all the constipation poison, sour bile and waste from the tender, little bowels and gives you a well, playful child again.

Millions of mothers keep "California Fig Syrup" handy. They know a teaspoonful today saves a sick child tomorrow. Ask your druggist for genuine "California Fig Syrup" which has directions for babies and children of all ages printed on bottle. Mother! You must say "California" or you may get an imitation fig syrup.—Adv.

CHRISTMAS

Cards Gifts
Folders Decorations
Order Early
Write for Catalog
DAMERON-PIERSON CO.
LIMITED
Social Engravers
New Orleans

QUARTERLY CONFERENCES.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

Jackson Dist.—Fourth Round.

Sharon, at Sharon, Nov. 4, 5, 11 a.m.
Camden, Nov. 5, 3 p.m.-7:30 p.m.
Bentonia, Nov. 12, 11 a.m.-2 p.m.
Satartia, at Satartia, Nov. 12, 7:30 p.m.-13, 10 a.m.
Eden, Nov. 18, 11 a.m.
Yazoo City, Nov. 19, 11 a.m.-2 p.m.
Flora, Nov. 19, 5:30-7:30 p.m.
Monterey, Nov. 25-26, 11 a.m.
Brandon, Nov. 26, 3 p.m.-7:30 p.m.

Let the preachers and laymen put forth every effort, not only to answer the questions of the fourth quarterly conference, but to have full reports. We have had great revivals in all of the charges during the year. "Then let us render unto the Lord thanksgiving for His goodness."

M. L. BURTON, P. E.

Brookhaven Dist.—Fourth Round.

Monticello ct., at Monticello, Nov. 4, 5.
Summit and Topisaw, at Summit, Nov. 5, 6.
Pleasant Grove ct., at Tilton, Nov. 11, 12.
Brookhaven, Nov. 12, 13.
Scotland ct., at Bethel, Nov. 15.
Osyka ct., at Osyka, Nov. 18, 19.
McComb, La Branch st., Nov. 19, 20.
Barlow ct., at Brandywine, Nov. 25, 26.
Georgetown ct., at Georgetown, Nov. 26.

H. M. ELLIS, P. E.

Hattiesburg Dist.—Fourth Round.

Eucutta, at Goodwater, Nov. 7, 11 a.m.
Silver Creek, at New Hebron, Oct. 12.
Lucedale, Nov. 15, 7 p.m.
Lucedale ct., at Merrill, Oct. 16, 11 a.m.
Leakesville, at Winburn Chapel, Nov. 15, 11 a.m.
Hattiesburg, Main St., Nov. 26, 11 a.m.
Sumrall, Nov. 26, 27, 7 p.m.

Pastors, please see to it that your Board of Trustees and your Woman's Missionary Societies have full written reports. W. W. GRAVES, P. E.

Meridian Dist.—Fourth Round.

Daleville, Nov. 11, 12.
Lauderdale, p.m., Nov. 12.
Matherville, at Langsdale, Nov. 17.
Waynesboro ct., at Hebron, Nov. 18, 19.
Waynesboro, p.m., Nov. 19.
DeSoto, Nov. 25, 26.
Shubuta, p.m., Nov. 26.

PAUL D. HARDIN, P. E.

Seashore Dist.—Fourth Round.

Picayune, Nov. 5, 6.
Carriere, Mon., 11 a.m., Nov. 6.
Poplarville, Q. C., Mon., 7:30 p.m., Nov. 6.
Lumberton, 9 a.m., Nov. 7.
Logtown, 11 a.m., Nov. 12.
Bay St. Louis, 7:30 p.m., Nov. 12.
Gulfport, Q. C., Tues., 7:30 p.m. Nov. 14.
Pascagoula, Wed., 7:30 p.m., Nov. 15.
Biloxi, Tues., 7:30 p.m., Nov. 21.
Brooklyn, Wed., 7:30 p.m., Nov. 22.
Wesley Memorial, Nov. 26.

Let the pastors see to it that the trustees have their reports; and let the stewards please collect the pastors' salaries. If the pastors are diligent and the stewards faithful, the district will make a full report at Conference. Let us pray and work together. W. M. SULLIVAN, P. E.

Vicksburg Dist.—Fourth Round.

Oak Ridge, Nov. 5.
Rolling Fork, 11 a.m., Nov. 12.
Mayersville, 11 a.m., Nov. 19.
Anguilla, 7 p.m., Nov. 19.
Louise and Holly Bluff, at Louise, 11 a.m., Nov. 26.
Silver City, at ———, 7 p.m., Nov. 26.

J. R. JONES, P. E.

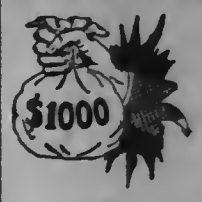
Newton Dist.—Fourth Round.

Carthage, at Bethel, Nov. 4, 5.
Bay Springs, at Bay Springs, Nov. 8, 2:30 p.m.
Laurel, First Church, Nov. 10, 7 p.m.
Laurel, Kingston, Nov. 11, 7 p.m., 12, 7 p.m.
Laurel, West End, Nov. 12, 11 a.m., 2:30 p.m.
Newton, at Newton, Nov. 15.
Chunky, at Suqualena, Nov. 18, 19.
Decatur and Hickory, at Hickory, Nov. 25, 26.

The trustees of church property will please make accurate reports in answer to the disciplinary questions. Reports from Woman Missionary Societies are expected.

J. A. MOORE, P. E.

$1000 For Your Spare Time!



Many ministers, teachers, farmers and merchants with willingness to work, are making this much and more per year selling our monuments in their spare time.

Responsible Men Only

We have some territory open for men who will interest customers in "Time-Proof" monuments and who can give us good references. We require no advance payment because we are confident the monument will please the customer. No investment. Commissions paid in cash.

Write us today for full particulars.

CONSUMERS' MONUMENT CO.
Box 44 BALL GROUND, GA.

Regulates, purely vegetable, Infants' and Children's Regulator, formula on every label. Guaranteed non-narcotic, non-alcoholic.

MRS. WINSLOW'S SYRUP
The Infants' and Children's Regulator

Children grow healthy and free from colic, diarrhoea, flatulency, constipation and other trouble if given it at teething time. Safe, pleasant—always brings remarkable and gratifying results.

At All Druggists

CANCER HOSPITAL. Intra-venous treatment for cancer. Operation, Radium and X-Ray unnecessary. Booklet giving full information upon request. Box 2127, ATLANTA, GA.

Refreshes Weary Eyes
When Your Eyes feel Dull and Heavy, use Murine. It Instantly Relieves that Tired Feeling—Makes them Clear, Bright and Sparkling. Harmless. Sold and Recommended by All Druggists.

MURINE FOR YOUR EYES

Itching PILES

PAZO OINTMENT instantly Relieves ITCHING PILES and you can get restful sleep after the first application.

All druggists are authorized to refund money if PAZO OINTMENT fails to Cure any case of ITCHING, BLIND, BLEEDING or PROTRUDING PILES. Cures ordinary cases in 6 days, the worst cases in 14 days. 60c.

OLD AT 30 OR YOUNG AT 60?

The choice is largely up to you. If your blood lacks red corpuscles, you're going to be fagged and dragged out, you're going to lack "pep," to look sallow and unhealthy, to grow old before your time.

DR. MILES' TONIC

actually increases the number or red corpuscles in the blood. It makes the cheeks plump and rosy, stimulates the digestive organs, creates a healthy appetite, and leads to increased vigor and vitality. First bottle guaranteed to help you or money refunded.

SEE YOUR DRUGGIST

Woman's Missionary Society

All communications for this Department should be sent to Mrs. J. G. Snelling, 1431 Octavia St., New Orleans, La.

NOTICE.

In ordering literature for the Missionary Societies, please send checks or money orders. We can no longer accept stamps, since the post office here requires us to use pre-cancelled stamps on our out-going mail, and the banks will only accept stamps in unbroken sheets for deposit. We ask you to send cash with your orders and thus help the Literature Depository to do away with the necessity of the credit system.

Thanking you for your kindness, and with best wishes for success and happiness in your work, I am,

Yours truly,
ELLASUE WAGNER,
Literature Depository.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

Vicksburg District Meeting.

The conference for the Vicksburg District assembled in the main auditorium of Jefferson Street Methodist Church, of Natchez, Miss., at 2 p.m., September 5, with Mrs. Cottrell, district secretary, in the chair. The devotional service was conducted by Rev. C. C. Evans in a most impressive way, the reading being from Matthew, which referred to our great field of service; this was followed by prayer, led by Rev. B. M. Hunt, and a hymn by the congregation.

The greeting, cordial and sincere, given by Miss Mabel Porter, was responded to by Mrs. Birdsong, of Vicksburg, whose words were full of appreciation of this hearty welcome. The election of a secretary was then in order, and Mrs. Birdsong was elected. Nine delegates answered to their names at roll call, and Mrs. B. F. Lewis, Conference president; Miss Porter, Conference secretary; Miss Hallie Bouie, returned missionary, and many interested guests were present. A telegram was read from Mrs. H. L. McCleskey, sending greetings, and regrets at not being able to attend meeting.

"Our Conference Outlook," the subject given to Mrs. McCleskey, was discussed by Mrs. B. F. Lewis in a masterful way. Her strong points were: (1) That of being able to solve every-day problems; (2) being prepared to receive the immigrants; (3) the illiteracy of to-day in our State; (4) (but by no means the least) the importance of having an auxiliary in every church.

After this, Mrs. Cottrell discussed in a most beautiful way "Our District Outlook," bringing home to each heart the thought, this is our very own work. Her words were well chosen and impressive, for she showed us what the Master would have us do to bring our district into real service, and suggested that we begin with the Baby Roll, and go up through every age, urging organization.

A beautiful and interesting letter was read from Miss Hall concerning the wonderful work being done in the jungles of Africa. This closed the program of the first session, and after a chain of prayers, asking for special guidance through all of our work, by several members of the conference, we adjourned to meet again at 7:30 p.m.

The 7:30 session opened with a selection on the new pipe organ, rendered by Mrs. James, which was much appreciated. Prayer was led by Mrs. Lewis, and the great old hymn, "Oh! for a thousand tongues," followed. Mrs. Healy, in a most pathetic way, sang "Abide with me," and the audience appreciated her sweet, mellow voice. Miss Bouie, our returned missionary, told us many interesting things about Korea and her important work. The Scripture service, read by Mrs. B. F. Lewis from Hebrews, blended beautifully into the all-important subject of the session, "The Bennett Memorial Service." Mrs. Lewis gave a sketch in full of her life—her many deeds of kindness, her work for the education of many workers in the foreign field, her influence in the deaconess movement, her vision of the Scarritt Bible School, how she never tired, and how she said as she passed over into the great beyond, "I go now into the greater field of service in heaven." This closed the session for the day, the next being called at 9 a.m. on the 6th.

The second day's session of the conference was opened with a beautiful hymn. The devotional exercises were conducted by Rev. B. M. Hunt, reading the first chapter of Romans.

The program called for reports from delegates. Owing to the fact that Mrs. Lewis had to leave on the 2 o'clock train, the last part of the program was taken up first. The first question discussed was, "The Mired Wheel of Your Auxiliary;" and the main causes presented by the various delegates were: indifference of adults, school work, and, most of all, our towns are overorganized. Suggestions were then offered to correct this: "First, get the people educated in the work, for ignorance always leads to indifference; have something for every one to do; bring in the new members by having something attractive for them." Good suggestions also were the telephone, groups and birthday parties. Mrs. Lewis urged the strict observance of the Week of Prayer and the necessity of Christian stewardship, reading convincing references. Miss Bouie again told us about the great value of the Bible women, and brought out the point that it is better to give to the school as a whole than by the scholarship method. Reports were then read by four of the delegates, and proved both interesting and helpful. Just here the lunch hour arrived, and the Conference was invited down into the Sunday school room, where, as yesterday, the ladies were served a most delicious lunch. Surely, Natchez Missionary Society has a very competent woman at the head of the social service work, if one can class the lunch question as coming under this head. The conference adjourned until 2:30 p.m.

The closing session opened with devotional exercises conducted by Mrs. Foote, reading from the Psalms. The remaining reports were read by the delegates. Mrs. Cottrell sent messages to all the absent organizations, urging them to go to work. The standard of excellence and the requirements to obtain same, were discussed by Miss Porter. Miss Bouie showed some very interesting pictures and urged all to help in her great undertaking. With well chosen words Mrs. Cottrell thanked the Natchez people for having us here, and the conference closed with sentence prayers.

MRS. J. I. BIRDSONG,
Secretary.

Aspirin

Say "Bayer" and Insist!

Genuine BAYER

Unless you see the name "Bayer" on package or on tablets you are not getting the genuine Bayer product prescribed by physicians over twenty-two years and proved safe by millions for

Colds	Headache
Toothache	Lumbago
Earache	Rheumatism
Neuralgia	Pain, Pain

Accept "Bayer Tablets of Aspirin" only. Each unbroken package contains proper directions. Handy boxes of twelve tablets cost few cents. Druggists also sell bottles of 24 and 100. Aspirin is the trade mark of Bayer Manufacture of Monoaceticacidester of Salicylicacid.—Adv.

TETTERINE
For the Complexion
60c at your Druggist's, or from The
SHUPTRINE CO., SAVANNAH, GA.
FREE BOOK ABOUT CANCER.

Piles

are usually due to straining when constipated. Nujol, being a lubricant keeps the food waste soft and therefore prevents straining. Doctors prescribe Nujol because it not only soothes the suffering of piles but relieves the irritation, brings comfort and helps to remove them.

Nujol is a lubricant—not a medicine or laxative—so cannot gripe. Try it today.

Nujol

REG. U.S. PAT. OFF.

A LUBRICANT—NOT A LAXATIVE

CHAMBERLAIN'S COUGH REMEDY
FOR THE RELIEF OF
Coughs, Colds, Croup
WHOOPING COUGH, HOARSENESS
BRONCHITIS
-SOLD EVERYWHERE-

BOHNE & WILT, Booksellers, and Stationers, 1328 Dryades St., New Orleans, La. Baseball Goods, Religious Articles, Fishing Tackle, Periodicals, School Books.

OUSTS RHEUMATISM.

Here it is. Those awful pains of rheumatism so common during the cold rainy weather are completely forgotten, and the rheumatism is expelled from your system by the very simple treatment of taking Renwar Salts which neutralizes the uric acid in the blood, and Renwar attacks the very cause of this malady and expells the uric acid from the system. Renwar is entirely dependable. It does not in any way injure the stomach or affect the heart. It is prescribed by the best physicians, and your money is refunded if Renwar falls to relieve you of rheumatism. Give Renwar a trial and you will never regret it. Mr. Benagh of the Nashville Railway and Light Company says, "Within two or three days after using Renwar my rheumatism disappeared." Price 50c. Ask your druggist for it, or write Warner Drug Company, Nashville, Tenn.—Adv.

TETTERINE
Makes Low Necks and Short Sleeves Possible. It Clears the Skin.
60c at your Druggist's, or from The SHUPTRINE CO., SAVANNAH, GA.

BLACK DRAUGHT OVER 30 YEARS

"Saved Me Many a Sick Spell," Says Texas Farmer, Who Has Long Known Usefulness of Black-Draught.

Naples, Texas.—"I have used Thedford's Black-Draught for years—I can safely say for more than 30 years," declares Mr. H. H. Cromer, a substantial, well-known farmer, residing out on Route 3 from here.

"I am 43 years old, and when a small boy I had indigestion and was puny and my folks gave me a liver regulator. Then Black-Draught was advertised and we heard of it.

"I began to take Black-Draught, and have used it, when needed, ever since. I use Black-Draught now in my home, and certainly recommend it for any liver trouble.

"I have given it a thorough trial, and after thirty years can say Black-Draught is my stand-by. It has saved me many sick spells."

Mr. Cromer writes that he is "never out of Black-Draught," and says several of his neighbors prefer it to any other liver medicine. "I always recommend Black-Draught to my friends," he adds.

This valuable, old, powdered liver medicine is prepared from medicinal roots and herbs, and has none of the bad effects so often observed from the use of calomel, or other powerful mineral drugs.

Black-Draught helps to keep the liver in trim, helping prevent or relieve such troubles as constipation, biliousness, indigestion, sick headache.

Be sure, to get the genuine.—Adv.

Epworth League.

(Continued From Page 11.)

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

Sunday, October 22, Mr. Harreli, of the Hattiesburg District, went to Purvis with a small company of Hattiesburg Leaguers, to visit the Junior and Senior Leagues at that place. The pastor, Brother Williams, had given his entire preaching hour over to the Epworth Leagues, the occasion being a rally service of both Junior and Senior Chapters. The party arrived early enough to see the League in action in their regular devotional meeting, and we were very favorably impressed with the way in which the program was carried out. There are about 40 members in the Senior Chapter, which seems to be very much alive and hard at work. Brother Williams says he has the best chapter president in the Hattiesburg District; and after seeing his League at work we are inclined to believe this is true.

After the regular devotional service, the meeting was turned over to Mr. Harreli. Miss Crossley, of Court Street League, Hattiesburg, was introduced as the first speaker. She made one of the best Epworth League talks we have ever listened to, and many of the Purvis people said it was the best they ever heard. During her talk she described the value and significance of the League symbols. Mr. Harold Brown, of Broad Street, Hattiesburg, followed with a very impressive talk on the Departmental Work; and Miss Dawson, the assistant district secretary, talked on Junior and Intermediate work. She always makes a good talk and she did not fail on this occasion to impress the importance of this phase of the League work. The writer followed Miss Dawson and made a few remarks on Co-operation, asking for a better co-operation on the part of the older members of the church with the Junior and Senior League.

The house was well filled with people of all ages and all seemed to enjoy the program, and we enjoyed our visit very much.

We hear that the Epworth League made a very good showing at our State Fair. The exhibit from the Central Office was especially good and the maps of some of the districts were fine.

It is indeed hard for us to give you anything of interest each week without the co-operation of the district secretaries and chapter officers. If anything happens in your chapter that would interest the rest of the Conference, let us have it. Some of the district secretaries are making visits from week to week and should be able to give us more intersting Epworth League news. We are getting scarcely anything now except from the Hattiesburg District. Surely all the balance of us are not asleep.

In the Louisiana Conference we have a man traveling over the entire field, and we enjoy reading his column. But in our case we must depend entirely on the different Chapter officers and District secretaries for our news. Will you lend your help? or shall we discontine our efforts and give up our space in the Advocate to some one who can use it to a better advantage? It may be that so few Leaguers are reading the Advocate that we are not interested in what is printed. We can not believe this is true, however. How can you be an efficient church member without your church paper? Come on, subscribe for the Advocate, give us some Epworth League news each week, and ict's do credit to ourselves.

QUARTERLY CONFERENCES.

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.

Alexandria Dist.—Fourth Round.

Marksville ct., at Marksville, Nov. 5, p.m.
Pleasant Hill ct., at Pleasant Hill, Nov. 12.
Natchitoches, Nov. 16, p.m.
Rochelle and Standard, at Rochelle, Nov. 19.

Preachers in charge will please see that the trustees have reports in hand concerning church property. Pastors will also nominate only the number of stewards allowed by the law of the church. Brethren, arrange your nominations accordingly. The law will be enforced. W. L. DOSS, Jr., P. E.

Lake Charles Dist.—Fourth Round.

Many, Nov. 5, a.m.
Sulphur, Nov. 12, a.m.
Lake Arthur, Nov. 12, p.m.
Merryville, Nov. 19, a.m.
Ludington, Nov. 19, p.m.

J. B. WILLIAMS, P. E.

New Orleans Dist.—Fourth Round.

Bogalusa ct., at Sun, Nov. 4, 10 a.m.
Bogalusa sta., Nov. 4, 7:30 p.m.
Covington ct., Nov. 5, 3 p.m.
Slidell, Nov. 5, 7:30 p.m.
Louisiana Avenue, Nov. 6, 7:30 p.m.
St. Mark's, Nov. 7, 7:30 p.m.
Second Church, Nov. 8, 7:30 p.m.
Algiers, Nov. 9, 7:30 p.m.
McDonoghville, Nov. 10, 7:30 p.m.
Epworth, Nov. 13, 7:30 p.m.
Felicity, Nov. 14, 7:30 p.m.
First Church, Nov. 15, 7:30 p.m.
Carrollton Avenue, Nov. 16, 7:30 p.m.
Rayne Memorial, Nov. 17, 7:30 p.m.
Parker Memorial, Nov. 19, 7:30 p.m.

Pastors will please endeavor to have reports from each department of the work. Please do not fail to have the president of the Board of Trustees to answer Question 15.

J. G. SNELLING, P. E.

Dodson's Liver Tone
Instead of Calomel

Calomel is quicksilver. It attacks the bones and paralyzes the liver. Your dealer sells each bottle of pleasant, harmless "Dodson's Liver Tone" under an ironclad, money-back guarantee that it will regulate the liver, stomach and bowels better than calomel, without sickening or salivating you—15 million bottles sold.—Adv.

Does Your Head Ache? Are You Dizzy? Despondent?

Wonderful Relief is Here Told

Atlanta, Ga.—"About a year ago I was preparing to go to the hospital to die. Had been sick and suffering two years, had dizzy spells, suffered from headache, constipation and a despondent feeling all the time. Had tried many different remedies and got no better. I got to a drug store one day and was talking to the druggist about my condition. He handed me a bottle of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and said, 'I think that will help you.' Before I had taken all of that one bottle I felt like a new woman. Now I can say, along with thousands of other women, that Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription cured me."—Mrs. G. W. Tidwell, 67 Hampton St.

The use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription has made many women happy by making them healthy Get it at once from your nearest druggist, in either liquid or tablet form. Write Dr. Pierce, Invalids' Hotel in Buffalo, N. Y., for free medical advice.

Universal Bible Sunday
November 26th, 1922 (or either adjacent Sunday)

THEME: The Bible—Undelivered to the Nations of the World

YOUR Church or Sunday School will welcome the education and the inspiration resulting from the observance of Universal Bible Sunday.

An extremely interesting exercise, a beautiful poster in colors, an informative report together with leaflets for wide distribution furnished free on request to pastors, Sunday School superintendents, teachers and other religious workers. Kindly state size of congregation, school or class in ordering.

AMERICAN BIBLE SOCIETY - - - - - - - Bible House, New York

"PUT THE BEST BEFORE YOUR GUEST"
Henry Clay Brand Coffee
NOT JUST ORDINARY COFFEE
IT IS BETTER
FOR SALE AT ALL FIRST CLASS GROCERS

WINTERSMITH'S CHILL TONIC
SOLD 50 YEARS — A FINE GENERAL TONIC
If not sold by your druggist, write Wintersmith Chemical Co., Louisville, Ky.

FROM OSYKA, MISS.

Dear Brother Carley: The work on the Osyka charge is moving along fine. Our new church here in Osyka will soon be ready for service. It will have pastor's study and six Sunday school rooms. When completed, it will have cost about $7000. The people of Osyka are proud of it. When we dedicate it we want you present to take part in the service. We hope to have this done sometime in December this year.

We have had a good year at every appointment and are now getting things together for Conference.

Yours faithfully,
H. E. RALEY, P. C.

FROM HAYNESVILLE, LA.

Dear Brother Carley: A few things have taken place at Haynesville that might be worthy of notice.

On Sunday, October 15, the cornerstone laying of the new brick church was effected by Rev. R. W. Tucker, of Homer, in the presence of a great audience. Rev. G. S. Sexton, who had planned to come, was delayed because of traffic hold-up on the Mississippi River at Vicksburg. None could have done better than did Brother Tucker, and the audience was pleased with his fine address. Others participating in the service were T. W. Camp, charge lay leader and retiring Sunday school superintendent. Mr. Camp was honored with a handsome gold watch, a gift from the school.

The church is under roof, and much of the plastering has been done. Plans are to enter the building early in December. It is a red brick structure, trimmed in stone. Twenty-two Sunday school rooms, besides the auditorium, pastor's study, kitchen and church office building, make it modern for every class of church work. The Sunday school will operate as a Class A school after we enter the new building.

The cost of the structure alone is about $42,000. This, with the furniture, art glass windows, new parsonage, new parsonage furniture and the cost of ground, brings our church valuation here near the $60,000 mark.

Besides the new buildings, the spiritual growth has been noteworthy. There have been 180 additions to the church; the Sunday school has more than doubled, and all other departments of the church seem to be in fine shape.

Yours truly,
A. J. GEARHEARD.

BIBLE SUNDAY.

Speeial Literature Avaliable.

Once a year every church of every denomination is asked by the American Bible Society to set aside one Sunday as Bible Sunday. This is for the purpose of exalting the place of the Bible in the life of the world and in the program of the church, and also in order that the church itself may be aroused to its responsibility of giving the Bible to the nations of the world.

In spite of the demands made by many causes for special Sundays, the response to this plan has been very generous and increases year after year. It is a matter so fundamental that it finds a ready place in the schedule of thousands of churches.

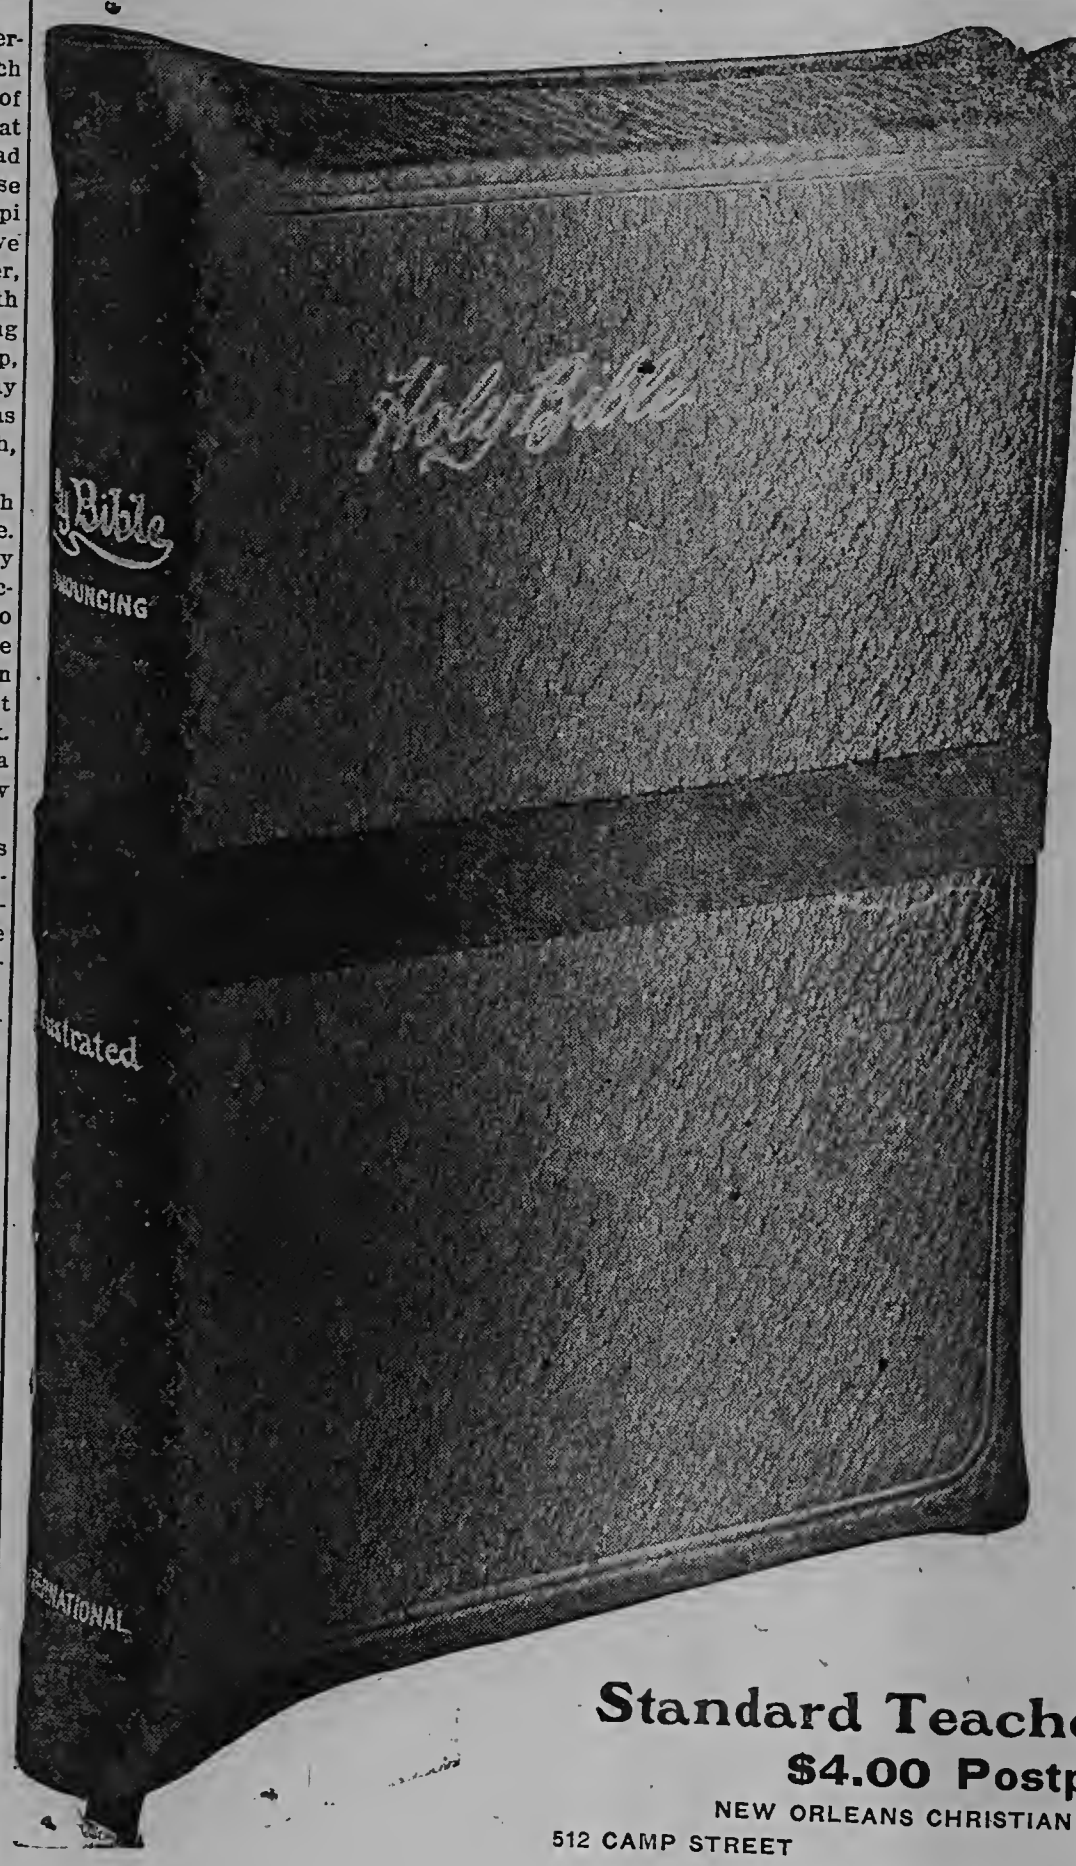
This year the call has gone out to set aside as usual the last Sunday in November or either adjacent Sunday, as shall be most convenient. Complete material for the observance of the day has been prepared by the American Bible Society and is now ready for distribution. This material will consist of three special pieces of literature, which will be sent free, upon request, to all pastors or Sunday school superintendents who propose to observe the day.

The theme selected is, "The Bible, Undelivered to the Nations of tbe World." There will be offered, first of all, a special dramatic service dealing with this theme, and available to Sunday schools, evening services, young people's meetings, or missionary societies. Then there will be offered a small leaflet in colors for wide distribution among tbe people. And, lastly, there is available a poster to be used on the bulletin boards or in the lobby of the church or Sunday school room. All of these will be sent without charge, and will deal with tbe theme announced. A postal card addressed to tbe American Bible Society, Bible House, Astor Place, New York City, N. Y., will bring a supply by return mail.

Newer Form of Iron
Gives Strength and Energy to The Weak and Aged

The remarkable discovery of a newer form of Iron has proved a blessing to thousands who were feeling the weakening effects of advancing years. To be strong, vigorous and active you must have plenty of good rich red blood of the kind that this newer form of iron helps make. It is like the iron in your blood and like the iron in spinach, lentils and apples. If you want something to quickly help make rich red blood, revitalize worn-out, exhausted nerves and give you new strength and energy, your own druggist will furnish you with a bottle of this newer form of iron, sold under the name of Nuxated Iron, and he will guarantee that if you do not feel stronger and years younger in two weeks time your money will be promptly refunded. For sale by all druggists.

NOTE: Nuxated Iron has been used for years whenever needed in the family of the Advertising Representative of this paper with excellent results. We are able to guarantee that if you do not obtain all and even greater benefits than you expect from Nuxated Iron, the manufacturers will promptly refund your money.—Adv.



Standard Teachers' Bible

FLEXIBLE
LEATHER BINDING
5½ x 8½ inches
SELF-PRONOUNCING
EDITION WITH

Concordance

Beautifully Bound with overlapping cover, red under gold edges; 16 colored maps of BIBLE Lands.

LARGE CLEAR PRINT

This is a handsome book and is sold at a very reasonable price.

Price, $4.00

POSTPAID

SEND ORDERS
TO
NEW ORLEANS
CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE

Standard Teachers' Bible
$4.00 Postpaid
NEW ORLEANS CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE
512 CAMP STREET NEW ORLEANS, LA.

School Desks

Opera Chairs,
Folding Chairs,
Kindergarten Chairs,
School Supplies,
Blackboards.

SOUTHERN DESK CO., Hickory, N. C.

NEW ORLEANS

CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE

Vol. 69—No. 45. Official Organ of the Louisiana, Mississippi, and North Mississippi Conferences, Methodist Episcopal Church, South. Whole No. 3483.

HENRY T. CARLEY, Editor. NEW ORLEANS, LA., THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 9, 1922. CHAS. O. CHALMERS, Manager.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

THE OLD SAINTS.

Unresponsive indeed is the man who can come into the presence of those old saints who have served the Lord for many years, without feeling his soul stirred by the jubilant hope and triumphant faith they express. It is a benediction to a young man to hear the ringing testimony of those who have proved the Lord through all the vicissitudes of life and have found him altogether good. Paul was not alone in saying: "I have fought the good fight, I have finished the course, I have kept the faith: henceforth there is laid up for me the crown of righteousness, which the Lord, the righteous judge, shall give to me at that day"—these saints are likewise conscious of their own rectitude and confident of their reward. The words of the Book have been translated in terms of character, and we exclaim with a new fervor, "I know him whom I have believed, and I am persuaded that he is able to guard that which I have committed unto him against that day." Blessings upon the old saints!

THE TEST.

The mettle of a man cannot really be known until he has been put to a test—a test that involves everything in life that he holds dear. It is a blessed thing that the test does not always have to come in its severest form; but if it should come, could we stand it? The following incident, taken from the Central Christian Advocate, tells of one who did stand the test: "We have read of a young American Jewess who, some years ago, became a disciple of Jesus, 'but secretly for fear of the Jews.' It is related that, having at length confessed her faith and having resisted all attempts to make her recant, her father one day asked her to come in her best attire to a banquet he was giving to his friends. This accordingly she did. Choosing a fitting moment he then arose and said: 'I have brought you together for a purpose. My daughter has embraced the religion of that—Jew, Jesus of Nazareth, and I now tell her that she must either, here and now, renounce Christianity, or at once and forever quit my house.' All looked at her. The blow had taken her by surprise. Her head sank on her bosom. For a time she was silent and motionless. She then arose, went to the piano, sat down before it and, playing her own accompaniment, sang:

Jesus, I my cross have taken,
All to leave, and follow Thee;
Destitute, despised, forsaken,
Thou from hence my all shalt be.
Perish every fond ambition,
All I've sought, and hoped, and known;
Yet how rich is my condition!
God and heaven are still my own.

This done, she rose; took off her bracelets and laid them on the piano; unfastened her necklace and put it beside the bracelets; quitted the room; went into her bedroom and put off her gorgeous robes; put on the plainest dress she had, and then, with only a little satchel in her hand, passed forth into the cold dark streets a poor and homeless outcast. She sought out a humble lodging, and ere long found employment in doing Christian work." She stood the test—can we stand it?

THE POT OF GOLD.

We are all familiar with the fanciful story that at the end of every rainbow there is a pot of gold, to become the property of whoever is able to find the spot where the iridescent arch touches the earth. We do not know of anybody who has found the place and secured the gold; but we do know that the story suggests a truth that is not altogether fanciful. One of the most beautiful things in the world is a vision of service, stretching across the future and illuminating the pathway of life with a radiance as soft as the rays of the bow of promise. That vision appears to every man who takes God into his thoughts and is willing to place his life in God's hands. In the light of it, commonplace tasks become suffused with a glory that makes them divine appointments, and whatever of toil appears, is transfigured into the happy opportunity of working in behalf of men. And obedience to that vision means wealth untold to the one who gives his life to its realization—not wealth of gold, but wealth of soul. The year's work may have been hard; difficulties unforseen may have encompassed our way; disappointments and sorrows may have been our portion; not only may enemies have opposed us, but friends also may have misunderstood us; at times the vision may have become dim and we were scarce able to see whither we were going. But if we have gone through the year with courage undaunted, with faith still bright, with hope ever singing its song in our hearts, with love ever urging us onward to the accomplishment of our task, we have "followed the gleam," we are at the place where heaven and earth meet, and a glorious reward is put into our hands. There IS gold at the end of the rainbow.

DISLOYAL PROPAGANDA.

The charge of national disloyalty is not lightly to be brought against any individual or group of individuals; unless the evidence that the charge is true is unmistakably clear, it were better to leave the charge unuttered and lay the blame for the apparent lack of loyalty to some other cause. It seems to us, however, that the persistent propaganda on the part of the opponents of the Eighteenth Amendment is so clearly an appeal to disregard the Constitution that we can find its explanation only upon the assumption that those who are back of it have deliberately determined to promote the sale of intoxicating liquor regardless of the prohibition imposed by the law of the land. There is a vast difference between a legitimate effort to have the prohibition amendment repealed, and the effort to bring the amendment into contempt while it is still in force. We can at least credit with sincerity those who profess to believe that the Volstead Law is too stringent, though we cannot agree with them; but we cannot have much respect for so-called good citizens who either themselves violate the prohibition law or wink at its violation by those whom they know to be engaged in the illegal traffic. If open or tacit disregard of the Constitution is not disloyalty to the nation itself, we do not know what act or attitude would constitute such. The liquor interests are, however, notoriously disdainful of the law.

WASHING THE WINDOWS.

Just across the street from where we sit is a building with four very large plate glass windows. They cost, of course, a great deal of money, but the proprietors of the building evidently thought the expenditure a wise one, since the windows admit the light so necessary for the proper handling of the business carried on inside and because they afford the passers-by an interesting view of what is being done. The dust and grime from the street gather on these windows, greatly marring their beauty and interfering with their purpose; but regularly a man with a pail of water, brushes and cloths comes and washes them clean, restoring them to their original lustre and usefulness. As we make our way through life, it is possible that the windows of the soul—through which we see and through which we are seen—may become dimmed by the dust and smoke of the turmoil and strife; it is well, therefore, for us now and then to pause long enough to cleanse these windows, that we may see and be seen at our best and as we really are. It is unfortunate that the windows should ever become darkened—but it is a happy thing that they do not have to remain so.

IN THE DAY'S NEWS.

Little things like the following now and then relieve the sordidness of much that passes for news in the daily papers: "His name doesn't matter, but he is a traffic officer stationed at St. Charles and Poydras Streets at night. Last night, in the 8 o'clock traffic, this officer, who declined to give his name, halted the traffic of a busy street, picked up a tiny kitten that had strayed in the path of vehicles, held up the traffic while he carried the small feline to the City Cafe on the corner, returned to his post, blew his whistle, and the long lines of traffic moved once more." It is to the credit of human nature in general that the statement is added that not a dissenting voice was heard from the cars that were held back while this act of kindness was performed—"instead, pretty women and stern men smiled."

New Orleans Christian Advocate

OFFICE, No. 512 CAMP STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

Published every Thursday by the Publishing Committee for the Louisiana, Mississippi, and North Mississippi Conferences, Methodist Episcopal Church, South.

Entered at the Postoffice at New Orleans as Second-class Mail Matter. Accepted for mailing at special rate of postage provided for in Section 1103, Act of Oct. 3, 1917, authorized Oct. 30, 1918.

TERMS:

Subscription Rates: One year, $2.00; six months, $1.
To superannuates and widows of preachers, $1.

TO CONTRIBUTORS.

All copy submitted for publication should be legibly written on one side of the paper with pen and ink, or typewritten. Matters written with a lead pencil and rolled manuscripts are unacceptable. No copy will be returned unless postage is enclosed for that purpose. In no case will responsibility be assumed for the loss or non-return of articles—the writers should keep copies of them. We do not purchase matter of any kind.

WHERE IS GOD?

By Mrs. Lemuella Garrett Almond.

He's in the burning bush on hills where gleam
Red fires from tall sumacs that late were green
Along old fences that have rotted down;
In zigzag lines, they lift unto the sun
Their foliage of flame. Transfigured now
They stand, and God is there, to souls that hear
His still, small whispering. From every
Blood-red leaf that shimmers in the sun,
There come grave words of eloquent command
That none who hear would wish to disobey.
Yes, God is in the bush.

In the sunshine flush of the sassafras He is Now visible. From its halo of light
There falls the radiance of His dear eyes
Upon the transfixed soul. Down yellowed leaves
Swift runs the rain of Autumn's glory—
And God is in the sassafras.

He dwells within the purple-blue of veils that wrap
The shoulders of our sun-gold hills. He sails
The amber-colored clouds that dot October's sky,
And breathes upon broad slopes of golden-rod,
Uncurling green-set feathers folded long
Within their leaves. We sense the loving touch
And wait to see His cool white breath sweep through
The maple trees: Behold! Rose tints of morning burn
To red along their line, then hail!—hail!
Bright Autumn, you unfurl the Old Glory
Of God, its red, its gold, its royal blue
Streams down the cloud, is caught upon the bush,
Is draped around the hills—why, God is here.

Oxford, Miss.

ITS EFFECTS IN HOLLAND.

By Bishop Warren A. Candler.

In a recent issue of The Presbyterian of Philadelphia, a minister, who is a native of the Netherlands, tells how German rationalism damaged religion in his country, and how the cause of Christ among his people was eventually rescued from its evil effects. His testimony is most striking and instructive. He says:

"The undersigned was born and educated in the Netherlands, and comes from a lineage of ancestors who were active Presbyterians from the middle of the sixteenth century on. They were members, elders, and ministers, of the old Reformed Church in the Netherlands. In his younger years, he traveled much and visited almost every province in that country, where every village, town, and city has its splendid Reformed churches. These churches were once crowded with people hungry for the simple gospel of Scripture. But German theology entered some eighty-five years ago the ministry of these churches. They claimed to have found new things. The 'golden age' was promised the people. They smiled at those who, as the only hope for this sinful world, believed in the simple gospel of Jesus Christ crucified. Years went on. Whole churches, districts, provinces were swept away from the foundation for which the martyrs had given their life-blood. Churches were literally emptied. Pews vacant. On Sabbath days, all that one could find in those churches, which before counted their worshipers by the hundreds and thousands, were the minister in the pulpit, a few deacons, the sexton, and a few people. This is history. In the seventies and thereabouts, two factors entered that sad condition of affairs. The institution of Van Dyk, at Doetinchem, and Dr. Abraham Kuyper, each in their own way, called the people back to their God, the Bible and the truth. It was a long road to travel. Yet, honesty with God, men and position won out. To-day, the Reformed Churches of all descriptions are again crowded with people. They have come to their senses, they again 'reason,' the unreasonableness of the advocate of New Theology is made manifest."

There we have the effects of the spread of rationalism throughout a nation, and we have also the results of the renunciation of it.

Its prevalence paralyzed preachers in the pulpit, and emptied the pews. What else could have been reasonably expected?

If a man believes no more than the rationalists allow, what motive or message for preaching is left to him? Why should a disciple of Wellhauzen or Kuenon enter the ministry?

The Christian ministry is not a lucrative vocation. It offers small inducements to one who desires gain or fame. It calls for no little self-sacrifice. In a great measure, it separates a man, even as St. Paul said he was "separated unto the gospel of God." (Romans 1:1.) It puts him into a degree of antagonism to the world, for which he must suffer. So Jesus taught: "If the world hate you, ye know that it hated me before it hated you. If ye were of the world, the world would love its own; but because ye are not of the world but I have chosen you out of the world, therefore the world hateth you. Remember the word that I said unto you, The servant is not greater than his Lord. If they have persecuted me, they will also persecute you; if they have kept my sayings, they will keep yours also." (John 15:18-20.) The Christ was called to crucifixion and his ministers are called to martyrdom.

But why should a man who believes little or nothing, enter such a ministry? One can understand why St. Paul preached the gospel; for he says, "Though I preach the gospel, I have nothing to glory of: for necessity is laid upon me; yea, woe is unto me, if I preach not the gospel." (I Corinthians ix:16.) He believed that the proclamation of a saving and indispensable body of truth was committed unto him. He believed strongly, and hence spoke strongly.

But what compelling motive for preaching has a modern rationalist? What message has he that is indispensable to man? To such a person one might repeat the words of Joab to Ahimaaz, "Wherefore wilt thou run, seeing that thou hast no tidings ready?" (II Samuel: xviii:22.) What message from God to men has a rationalist? He scouts the idea of a divine revelation, and the utterance of his own ever-changeful notions and dissolving theories is not worth suffering for.

And why should any one go to church to hear him?

When men go to church, it is supposed that they wish to meet God, find solace for their sorrows, and obtain salvation from their sins. But what solacing element of saving power can be found in rationalism? What help can it offer to burdened souls?

People everywhere turn away from churches in which the consoling and cleansing gospel of Christ is no longer preached. So did they in the Netherlands, and so do they everywhere.

And when the people desert such churches, the poor, misguided preacher, having nothing better to offer, endeavors to draw them back by suppers, shows, and sensations. For a season he seems to succeed, but in the end the people forsake him, as they ought. The poor sheep are not fed by such sorry shepherds, and they turn away from the disappointing performances which for a little while beguiled them.

In the long run, nothing but the gospel will fill the pews of our churches with worshipers.

When the carnal crowd who came to Jesus for loaves and fishes turned away from him, he said to the twelve apostles, "Will ye also go away?" And Simon Peter answered for all his associates when he replied, "Lord, to whom shall we go? Thou hast the words of eternal life." (John vi: 66-68.)

"The words of eternal life," and they alone, hold people to Christ and the churches.

By such words the people of the Netherlands were called back to the churches they had forsaken. Such men as Van Dyk and Kuyper, preaching the gospel with the power of the Holy Ghost sent down from Heaven, felt no necessity for bribing the people with cakes and ale and "movies" to return to the worship of Almighty God. They rescued the shepherdless multitudes with the gospel which is the power of God unto salvation.

So did Luther and Knox in their time. So did Wesley in his day. So did Spurgeon and Liddon in London at a later period.

Can any man conceive of Charles H. Spurgeon resorting to any attraction inferior to the gospel in order to get a congregation? Would Liddon have brought "movies" into St. Paul's in order to draw a crowd? Such a thought is inconceivable.

Rationalism empties the churches whenever it enters them. It requires all sorts of meretricious methods to get a hearing even for a season.

A revival of religion is the supreme need of our country. That will fill the churches with worshipers because it will fill the hearts of men with spiritual life.

But we will have no great extensive revival of religion without a return to the Bible as a "sure word of prophecy, whereunto we do well to take heed as unto a light that shineth in a dark place." (II Peter: 19.)

Incertitude about God, sin, duty and truth never has, and never will bring to pass a revival of religion. All the great revivalists and reformers from Luther to Moody have been preeminently Biblical preachers.

THE MADNESS OF MODERN INFIDELITY.

By H. Walter Featherstun, D. D.

Some men, even in Christian pulpits, are saying: "No intelligent man believes in the Virgin Birth any longer;" "The Virgin Birth bears clear marks of legendary origin." The simple truth is, to deny the Virgin Birth discredits any man's intelligence; and to suggest that the Virgin Birth bears clear marks of legendary origin, displays an amazing credulousness. He who believes this suggestion is capable of believing any old fairy story or fable. Let us see.

Matthew (1:1-25) positively declared it in careful detail, evidently for Jewish readers, and Luke does the same for Greek readers. To deny their statements is to charge these learned men of the Apostolic time—one, Matthew, himself an Apostle, either with crass ignorance or positive falsehood. Every evidence is strongly against the charge of ignorance, and all of it suggests no hint of falsehood, and no reason or motive for telling a falsehood about it.

Mark, evidently writing for Latin readers a more condensed recital of the Gospel history, did not see the necessity of restating the Virgin Birth history already so well recorded by Matthew and Luke, began his recital with the beginning of Jesus' ministry; nevertheless he takes time and space to recognize the fact of the Virgin Birth by saying: "The beginning of the Gospel of Jesus Christ, the Son of God." Mark 1:1. How could he be the Son of God, if only the son of Joseph and Mary? He also records "a voice out the heavens, Thou art my beloved Son;" 1-11—repeating the record in telling of The Transfiguration.

John, like Mark, writing with quite another purpose, found it unnecessary to retell the Virgin Birth so well told by Matthew and Luke, yet tells with great exactness that Jesus is the Word—"the Word was God"—"the Word was made flesh and dweit among us." John, 1:1, 2, 14. Again John wrote of Jesus as "the only begotten Son of God" —John, 3:16, 18. This phrase, "the only-begotten Son of God" points clearly and unequivocally to the Virgin Birth. His truo followers are sometimes called sons: "sons by adoption," as Paul explains; but the phrase "the only-begotten Son" points to Jesus the Virgin-born.

Paul declares: "God sent forth His Son, born of a woman," Gal. 4:4.

Do all these passages and others indicate that "Mark and John and Paul knew nothing of the Virgin Birth," as is declared by these latter-day new-lights who claim to have all the learning "all the latest and best information?" Paul had Luke for a travelling companion—is it possible that Luke kept hidden from him what he knew about the Virgin Birth? Mark was Peter's fellow-worker; did they fail to find it out? Did John, who was Jesus' nearest friend, and became a son to the Virgin Mother of Jesus at the foot of Christ's Cross, maintaining the beautiful relation till her death, not know of the Virgin Birth of Jesus? He who could believe this could believe anything however false and senseless. Evidence means nothing to him.

Dr. G. Campbell Morgan, in his "Crisis of the Christ," p.71, says of these New Testament "annunciations" of the Virgin Birth of Christ: "They must be received, or else the whole superstructure of Christianity totters and falls." Dr. Morgan is absolutely correct. Thousands of the most learned and devout men for nearly twenty centuries havo believed and declared their belief in the Virgin Birth of Christ. Multiplied millions still declaro their belief every Sunday reciting in their worship the Apostles' Creed, which became the universal Christian symbol of belief within less than one hundred years after Christ's crucifixion. Catholics, Eastern and Western, Episcopalians of Europe and America, and Methodists, Presbyterians and Baptists have recorded it in their Articles of Faith. The matter has been thoroughly studied for centuries. Jews in tho first Christian century and half-Jewish Ebionites and sundry rejectors of New Testament Christianity fought against it in the early centuries of our era and were overwhelmingly vanquished. Jews, Ebionites, Mohammedans, Pagans and Infideis reject it: Christians by the many millions believe it as earnestly as did John who fought for it so long ago. Cf. 1 Jno. 4:1-6; 2:18-22; II Jno. 7.

To be told by men whose only claim to evidence is "the latest and best learning" that "No intelligent man believes in tho Virgin Birth," amazes us. Who said that got it wrong: Only the man whose logical faculty is all out of order can deny the Virgin Birth. Matthew, Mark, Luke and John —the Acts of the Apostles and all of Paul's Epistles and James' and Peter's and Revelation—all of the New Testament falls with the Virgin Birth. Falsus in uno falsus in omnibus. Dr. Campbell Morgan is perfectly correct in the matter. "Whom the gods would destroy they first make mad" is an old pagan proverb. The Infideis, calling themselves progressives and claiming higher learning, are certainly very mad, in this furious war they are making on the Virgin Birth; a war it is on the Virgin herself and on the child so born.

SAFETY SIGNALS.

By Rev. S. J. Davies.

"Lord teach us how to pray." Here was a confession of ignorance with an earnest desire to know concerning a matter of supreme importance. To know how to pray is one, if not the greatest of life's lessons. Thero are rules of etiquette when one would approach the court of earthly monarchs. If these rules are not obeyed admittance is denied.

Honor the King, but fear God. Reverence, humility, earnestness, a deep sense of need, joined with simple trust. A faith that covers all things, and yet demands nothing on the ground of personal merit. The heart cry of a wondering child in the wild of human helplessness and human need, and sometimes the need is too deep for utterance, only a longing, an intense yearning from the depths of the soul.

Prayer must have a worthy end—a result or purpose that commends it to the judgment of the Almighty Giver. As a general thing prayer is too general. Real prayer is not eloquence; it is something more. It has a moving appeal all its own.

Thoughtfulness is an essential grace in real prayer. We are bountifully supplied with the things we most need in the divine life. If we but use aright the privileges and opportunities at hand there is precious little need for more.

* * *

Just in relation to the preceding thought there is a weak point about the average Sunday school. Prayer is not taught and so the element of worship is pitifully absent. I do not wish to censure or criticise, but I do venture the question: Are we substituting teaching for worship? Are we making the good enemy to the best? Teaching and preaching go hand in hand throughout the New Testament, but I fear we poor modern mortals are planning to institute divorce proceeding before the court of heaven. If the Sunday school is the nursing home of the children, let them be taught prayer even as it was taught kneeling at mother's knee in the home—the home that lingers in memory's shrine with the best of life. For, hear me, there can be no real worship of God, no service that is worth the name, which does not enlist those mighty spiritual agencies, impersonated in the sacred ministry of the Holy Spirit, whose vital movements come to man through the way of prayer.

Coushatta, La.

JUDGING ONE ANOTHER.

By Rev. James H. Felts.

Perhaps the best test of greatness of mind and heart is found in one's attitude to the supposedly unimportant fellow—the comparative failure. Here may be discovered the REAL man. Mediocre ability is so common, so universal, that, like the poor, it is always with us, nearly always IN US. Waste of small but valuable talents becomes an easy matter. We forget that the one-talent man had a definite place and work.

The mere carpenter is just about as necessary as the contractor and architect. The producer is more important than the consnmer. The tiller of the soil is as surely needed as the toiler in the shops. A king without subjects were a poor king indeed. So it comes to pass that the supposedly important man is largely dependent on the supposedly unimportant man. (A bird-hunt without a dog is not a howling success.) When the head despises the feet, trouble ensues.

It is easy to be courteous to the "higher-up." We do a deal of praying, IN PUBLIC, for the man or men responsible for our appointments. Put "Bishop" in front of a man's name, and off come our hats; Put "Governor" there, and we "kowtow." Call him "President," and we become vociferous. Reverse the shield. Happy is the bishop, governor, president whose personal attitude to his fellow-men is such as to PROVOKE praise. It increases his own efficiency, multiplies his powers for good. Here was found a large part of the popularity of a late well known belligerent who occupied the highest office in tho gift of the nation.

The church should be an "open shop." No man's position, regardless of his ability, should cause him to ignore or be indifferent to the unimportant (?) man. The unimportant man of to-day may be to-morrow's most important man. The man REALLY SERVING the humblest circuit is entitled to as much consideration in his place as a bishop presiding over a Conference.

A man's failure may be very grievous to him. (This wrtier knows from personal experience.) He wants to help. He tries. He may bungle the job. He is willing to be taught. He has some very definite convictions, some marked impulses of merit along with his unquestioned limitations. To ignore him, be indifferent to him, or harshly criticise him is poor business. Numbers considered, there are about as many comparative failures among the supposedly trained pastors as in the "rank and file." Any real or imaginary leader who treats with indifference and offensivo condescension the less known man is courting increasing limitations and decreasing fields of worthwhile activities.

A bishop who is uniformly courteous to the ordinary man, has a smile and a kind word for the unimportant (?) man, who puts his hand on the shoulder of the heart-hungry man—such a bishop is a godsend to a Conference, creating a following so enthusiastic that the furtherance of the kingdom is all but assured.

I remember with unfeigned pleasure the growing love men had for the late Bishop McCoy, and how at his first Conference, the Aberdeen District Conference, meeting at Pontotoc, Miss., his uniform courtesy and kindly Christian attitude to his coworkers provoked a positive enthusiasm. Nor can I forget the remark of a well known circuit rider: "I will accept any appointment at the hands of that man and go to it determined to succeed by the help of God."

Christian courtesy, helpful attitudes, brotherly consideration for the humblest workers, a smile and kindly word—well, there would probably, be fewer failures, certainly less of strife and doubtful disputation, if our PRACTICE at this point equalled our PREACHING.

Speaking of Bishop McCoy, he stopped a certain locomotive engineer on a main thoroughfare in Birmingham, Ala., shook his hand heartily, introduced him to the writer of this article, saying, "This is one of the best friends I ever had. He is every inch a man. There is no dross in him." There beamed in that splendid engineer's face the light of an affection that made one feel that Bienvenu Myriel, whom the peasants called "Monsigneur Welcome," had come that way.

Recently three women were "talking about" a fourth. One of them remarked, "She is entirely too haughty for her station in life." But is there any station in life that justifies haughtiness? Is not the best circuit rider in the North Mississippi Conference as privileged to haughtiness as the poorest station preacher? In judging one another, should not "by their fruits are they known" rather than "by their pastoral charges are they known" be the standard? And should not the law of kindness obtain in each instance?

Brethren, the scriptural injunctions, "Let brotherly love continue," and "Let us consider one another to provoke unto love and good works," are just about final among really Christian men. Selfishness and vainglory have no place in any good man's heart.

A year since, I suddenly found myself guilty of an offence that I had criticised severely in others. It was humiliating. It stung like sin. It rebuked and chastened. My, how the blood mantled my face as I thought of it! It was at a point where I had PRIDED MYSELF on standing absolutely in the clear. It is grievous unto me as I write these words. I wrote an abject apology to my brother and friend against whom I had sinned. I think I got my lesson "good and stout." Sackcloth and ashes are not too much to don at times. It takes a mighty faith to lift us high. When we have thus been lifted we are more like Him whom we try to serve—"meek and lowly in spirit."

"There is so much that is bad in the best of us,
And so much that is good in the worst of us,
That it does not become tho best of us
To deal harshly with the worst of us."

Greenville, Miss.

Not only is Jesus Christ the uniting bond between the churches, but He is tho source of their moral power. The central claim of Christianity on men's attention—its ability to transform character—goes back to Him and is inseparable from Him. It does not lie in theology or rubric or polity; it is found in personal relationship with Christ. He Himself is the productive source of the Gospel's transforming might. When men are in sin, need forgiveness, crave reinstatement and a new chance, want inward strength and the power to carry on—He is bread. The church may well pray for a new grasp on this elemental Christian truth.—Fosdick.

SOME THOUGHTS.

Mr. Editor: In a recent copy of your valuable paper you said if a man had a message he should speak forth that message so the world might hear and, hearing, might receive the truth and catch the inspiration and feel the urge to a forward movement; get new visions of the possibilities of humanity under Divine guidance; feel the touch of the hand of the Son of God, the thrill that comes by that touch; being lifted into fellowship with Him and into sympathy with his brother, he may so live that he will "allure to brighter worlds and lead the way," thus fulfilling his own mission in life and becoming the complement of others, or words to that effect.

Really, now, Doctor, there is so much being said and written these days, one becomes somewhat bewildered, confused in his own mind or concludes some others must be. No, I don't mean the "higher critics" or some who have thought themselves so to be. Little fish should stay near the shore; but it appears that some who thought themselves large have been drowned in their too great ventures. All men cannot be fooled all the time.

I have not heard much preaching lately from the great men of our church. (I hear some mighty helpful sermons from our boy preachers), but I read after some of our splendid writers, good men and true, thinkers whose messages are shot through and through with one thought, one desire, a genuine, life-giving, universal revival of religion. Preachers must preach it, the church must live and pray and work to that end; yea, the whole nation must throw itself with full consecration into the effort to give expression to its faith in God if it would save itself and the world. Then here comes Dr. A. S. Lutz in a series of sermons for ten days, declaring to us the same thing. Those were great sermons, full of Jesus the Christ as the only savior of men, and he, too, tells us not only is this true as to the church at large, but especially so with our own beloved church, to which we believe God has committed a special dispensation and sent it on a most important mission to the world.

All these things have started me to thinking and I have wondered, how can this revival begin and where, if certain things of which we have seen and heard, and a piece has fallen at different times heavily on our hands, be true. Dr. Todd, in his forceful addresses and written articles in seeking to impress the church and arouse it to action in behalf of her forgotten men, would seem to charge the church with a lack of appreciation and gratitude in failing to provide adequately for those who, having served the church, giving their all in that service, are left stranded high and dry to secure for themselves a living as best they may with the aid of the small stipend from the Conference, in their old age and loneliness. Would we feel kindly toward a man who would thus treat his horse that had faithfully served him and his family through the years? Will God, though He be all-wise and all-merciful, feel kindly toward us of his church and send a glorious revival into our lives or help us to reach others and bring them into his kingdom? After all, is there not something back of all the trouble there? Suppose the various churches should meet their voluntarily assumed obligations and pay their preachers a living while they are active; with frugality and economy the most of them would be able to lay by in store for the proverbial rainy day, and not be cast out unsung if not unloved. But when the board of stewards meet and consult together and agree that it will take so much to give their pastor a comfortable living for the year and obligate themselves to see that the amount is paid regularly every month, then close up the year with a deficit of half the allowance unpaid, what then?

I have often thought of this instance: The small sum of three hundred dollars was assessed for the pastor by the stewards of a certain church. A new church being needed, it was decided to build. In order to get matters going smoothly, the pastor subscribed one hundred dollars, which was not a very wise thing to do, thinking, of course, he would get his salary and by close economy make ends meet at the close of the year. Well, he borrowed the hundred dollars to meet his obligations and when he tried to interest the stewards in the balance of a hundred and forty dollars due him, they turned their backs and walked away without a word. The preacher was moved and the church kept its money, or rather his money. Now, Doctor, will the good Lord send a very great revival to that church? Is there such a thing as the law of restitution? Zaccheus seemed to think it the proper thing at any rate—he was not only willing to restore that he had robbed, but to add a good per cent by way of interest. I wonder what some of our stewards would think if you should suggest such an action on their part?

We are all rejoicing over the new life taken on by Centenary College. Suppose Shreveport were to become aroused sure enough, or just the Methodists of Shreveport with their millions, and get a vision of Centenary's possibilities in the near future. I don't know whether you have thought about it or not, but we would all have to do a lot of thinking if that should happen. What a team of strong men and women, what a mighty force for righteousness, would be turned loose upon the world in the next twenty years; what a glorious revival of religion would be seen and felt all over this great land of ours.

These are a few of our thoughts and, thinking, we have talked to the Father about them; and knowing your interest in His Kingdom, felt we would love to talk with you just a little also. If they are worthy—well, if not, you will know what to do with them.

FRANK.

FURTHER DISCLOSURES FROM MILLSAPS COLLEGE.

In view of an article in the New Orleans Advocate of October 19, by Rev. N. G. Augustus, making a vigorous attack on Dr. Rall's New Testament History, and an article by Dr. R. A. Meek, entitled "A Regrettable Disclosure at Millsaps College" in the issue of October 26, it is my duty to make a little contribution to this interesting discussion.

As many of my brethren of the Mississippi Conference know, I have the Rankin Street charge in Jackson and have been pursuing studies at Millsaps College since December, 1920. While I did not have work in the department of Religious Education last year, many of my friends did and I was frequently associated with Prof. Bowen, having the pleasure of hearing him preach in my churches. This year I have 9 hours' work in the Department of Religious Education.

In my thirteen years' experience as a circuit rider in this Conference I have been associated with many godly men among my brethren and I want to say with all earnestness that no man has ever impressed me more with his genuineness and true Christian character than Brother Bowen. I have as much confidence in his orthodoxy and ability to select the proper textbooks for his courses in the college as I have in Dr. Meek or Dr. Augustus or any other critic of the institution.

If I had believed that Brother Bowen was teaching unorthodox and dangerous heresies, I should first of all have gone to him and talked with him about it before giving my opinions to the world, to the hurt of his reputation and to the discredit of Millsaps College.

I did not study Dr. Rall's New Testament History last year, but since I read these articles in the Advocate concerning the book I have secured a copy, and made a comparison of Dr. Augustus' quotations (brief snatches here and there out of all connection) with the text itself, which convinces me that Dr. Augustus has not fairly represented the teaching of Dr. Rall. But be this as it may, I shall certainly wait before condemning either the author or his critics until I have thoroughly read the book. Controversies of this kind cause books to be read that otherwise would not be read.

The fact is, this text, having been tried out last year, is not in the course this year. In its stead a Harmony of the Gospels is used. I take this course and am prepared to say that Prof. Bowen believes and teaches the "Virgin Birth and the Deity of Jesus," and the other fundamental truths which Methodism holds. He has not altered his teachings from last year. May I give the testimony of a student as given to me last year about commencement time—a student who, being a graduate of that conservative institution, Moody Bible Institute, and having taken work in Prof. Bowen's department, should have been in a position to speak with authority (I refer to Rev. M. H. McCall, of Hernando, Miss.)? In conversation with him here in my parsonage, in answer to my question, "How he regarded Prof. Bowen as a teacher?" he replied in substance as follows: "I regard him as being a very strong man." I asked also, "What do you think of his orthoroxy?" He replied, "I find him to be absolutely safe and sound in his theological views." McCall was teacher of a Young People's Bible Class in my Sunday school and I am glad to give this testimony to the world. I could give many such testimonials from Prof. Bowen's students to the same effect, but that is unnecessary. I want it understood that this letter is intended in no sense to be controversial. Prof. Bowen is first of all a brother Methodist preacher, trying hard and conscientiously to do a work for Methodism and for God in Millsaps College. He gives himself without stint to the service of the church apart from and in addition to his regular college duties. His influence with the young preachers and students generally, in Millsaps College, is fine and wholesome, and it is unfortunate that any attack, direct or indirect, should be made upon him and the department which he heads amid the difficulties of its formative period.

F. L. APPLEWHITE.

Jackson, Miss.

A MASS MOVEMENT IN EVANGELISM.

By Elmer T. Clark.

I have been intimately related to evangelistic movements for many years and have actively participated in campaigns of every character and degree of extensive bigness. The effort to win a single individual, the local protracted meeting, the great city-wide revival, the one-to-win-one personal work campaign, the simultaneous general revival covering the whole denomination—I have had something to do with them all. And this experience, re-enforcing the natural inclination that lies upon every Christian's heart, has given me a deep and abiding interest in every enterprise that has for its purpose the winning of men to Christ.

There has recently come under my observation an evangelistic mass movement of unusual import—a district-wide revival in the Charleston District of the St. Louis Conference under the supervision of the presiding elder, Rev. S. M. Robinson. This is a typical country district, composed of rural circuits and good stations. Only one town in the district is large enough to support more than one Methodist church. There are 41 churches in the district, and from August 8 to August 20 a revival was conducted in each of them, each meeting being held by a visiting evangelist.

In this unique campaign Dr. Robinson combined with admirable effect all of the varying methods and agencies of both modern and ancient evangelism. His revivals were conducted along the old accepted lines in that the "protracted meeting" was the central and essential feature in each congregation, large and small. More modern aids, however, were employed.

There was in each community, for example, a preliminary survey and an assembling of "prospects," and not only in the centers of population alone was this canvass conducted. I have now before me the survey sheet of a rural church, located in the open country. Around the point representing this church as a center there are three circles, describing a radius of three miles. The plan shows every road and describes its character, whether concrete, macadam, gravel, or dirt. it shows every house, names the occupants, indicates whether the home is that of renter or proprietor, gives the number in the family with their ages, and lists the religious affiliation of each. The sheet further shows the creeks, railroads, farm boundaries, school houses, and the location of the nearest towns and other churches beyond the 3-mile radius—there being no other church and no post office within it.

Sucb a complete survey showed in its attached tabulation that the 3-mile community had 66 families, 33 of which were Methodist and 10 of which were unchurched. In the 10 uncburched families there were 186 individuals, boarders, servants, and employees included. In this number there were 33 men over twenty-five years old and only 10 women who admitted the same age. Only 15 per cent of all the families owned the land on which tbey lived. It would be difficult to make a more complete and workable survey than this.

In many of the mechanical arrangements preparatory to the revivals, Dr. Robinson adroitly adopted the principle of standardization which is being applied so successfully by the greatest industrial and commercial organizations of the world. There were standard song books, reports, financial methods, publicity, and plans for the visiting evangelists. Each evangelist received $50 for his service; whether the church was large or small, rich or poor, in town or country, he received no more and no less. The preachers were the best to be had; some of the leading pastors in St. Louis and other great cities were sent, some at tbeir own request, to the smallest churches on rurual circuits.

No religious movement in that section of the country—and no other movement so far as I know—ever received such publicity as that given to this district-wide revival. The only daily paper published in the district devoted ten full pages, including the entire front page, of one issue to the movement. Streamers, posters, and similar printed matter bearing the campaign slogan, "Give God a Chance," were distributed everywhere, and thus a terrific impact was made upon the minds of the general public.

It is always difficult to tabulate even the visible results of a revival. Fourteen hundred new members were added to the various churches during the intensive revival period proper—and there were 1,200 conversions. Thus there were added to the church in twelve days about five times the net increase in the district during the past quadrennium. Nor was this all. One hundred life service volunteers were enlisted. Old church debts in the sum of $5,000 were paid. Scholarships in Marvin College were provided by raising $1,200. Not only were all expenses, totaling $10,200, easily paid, but an evangelistic fund for the district was created and left in the hands of the presiding elder for administration. The records showed that a total of 91,640 people heard the Gospel during the progress of the meetings.

To carry through successfully such an intensive plan on such a broad scale required not only a far vision and careful planning on the part of this presiding elder, but it also required an almost unbelievable amount of toil. Seven district committees were employed, and each of these held many meetings in various parts of the district—and perhaps every presiding elder will appreciate the labor involved in the successful holding of so many committee meetings. In this and in every other detail the work demanded was arduous, yet it goes without saying that the laborers had their reward.

Dr. S. M. Robinson has been a presiding elder continuously for twenty years. As such he has distinguished himself. But in this mass movement for the salvation of souls he really "out-eldered" himself. He has dropped a hint which should certainly be followed. With our districts as units, with our district superintendents as generalissimos, may we not make our coming year momentous in evangelistic activity?

THE GENERAL SUNDAY SCHOOL BOARD TAKES ACTION CALLING FOR INCREASED EMPHASIS UPON EVANGELISM IN THE SUNDAY SCHOOL.

By Dr. John W. Shackford.

The General Sunday School Board has by official vote taken the following action:

"WHEREAS, The General Conference has made it one of the specific duties of the General Sunday School Board to 'inaugurate and promote plans of evangelism in tbe Sunday school to the end that each pupil may be led, through the operation of the Holy Spirit, to a knowledge of God's will and to an acceptance of Jesus Christ as personal Savior and Lord'; and

"WHEREAS, Our Sunday schools offer not only the ripest and most inviting field for successful evangelism, but also constitute one of our greatest and most effective organized agencies for the achievement of vital and enduring evangelistic results; and

"WHEREAS, Notwithstanding the fact that during the last quadrennium 304,000 persons were reported as received into our church membership from our Sunday schools, there are nevertheless indications that many of our Sunday schools are neglecting tbe work of evangelism, while others are dealing with their evangelistic problems far too superficially and mecbanically.

"THREREFORE, in order to encourage a more general, consistent and thorough-going evangelism in our Sunday schools and more careful attention to the preparation of Sunday school pupils for church membership, the General Sunday School Board of the M. E. Church, South, gives its hearty approval to the following proposals and suggestions regarding a plan of evangelism in tbe Sunday schools of our church.

Plan.

"That three months of the year, or three periods in consecutive order, be devoted as follows to evangelism in the Sunday school. That the first month or period be given to the preparation of the forces—the training of teachers and other Sunday school workers in mind and in spirit for the work of evangelists. That tbe second montb or period be given to active evangelism in the Sunday school, in the classes and by personal effort, this period culminating with Confession or Decision Day. That the third month or period be given to special preparation of pupils for reception into church membership.

"The Board suggests that the program begin with January as the month of tbe preparation of the forces. That February he devoted to the active evangelistic campaign, leading up to Confession or Decision Day on the last Sunday in February, or the first or second Sunday in March, and that tbe remainder of the time before Easter be used for the careful preparation of those who are to be received into church membership on Easter Sunday.

"This plan is intended to be suggestive only, and is, of course, subject to such modifications as regards the months indicated and minor details as practical considerations may demand. However, the three lines of emphasis represented by the three periods as indicated are regarded as essential to the best and most abiding results."

In connection with the action of the General Sunday School Board as given above, attention is called to tho fact that in the new "Program of work" which the General Board adopted at its last annual meeting, which program is to become the new Standard of Efficiency for Sunday schools, the aim set forth is as follows:

The Aim of this Program of Work is to offer a plan by which the Sunday school may lead each pupil to a knowledge of God's will and an acceptance of Jesus Christ as personal Savior and Lord, and to develop a Christian character that is expressed through worship, right living, and efficient service.

Thus it may be clearly seen that the entire plan of work for our Sunday schools is centrally and essentially evangelistic in aim.

Not only is evangelism the aim of the whole process, but this Program provides specifically that Confession or Decision Day he observed annually.

Attention is called to the three-fold emphasis of the plan as given above: First of all, there must be the preparation of the forces in the Sunday schools. Our teachers and officers need to he trained as evangelists. Attention should be centered upon the vital necessity of establishing personal relationship between the pupils and Jesus Christ and of trying to bring each pupil into an ever enlarging experience of the life of God. It is, therefore, urged that pastors gather their teachers and officers during January to study the meaning and nature of evangelism; to consider the needs of the pupils; to plan and to pray in order that the work of evangelism in the school may not be undertaken hurriedly or mechanically, but that all the available evangelistic leadership in the school may be prepared and brought to bear in a spiritual movement that shall result in the largest and most abiding results in the lives of the pupils.

Second, it is provided during February that there shall be concentration of all the forces upon the active work of evangelism, both in the class and through personal interviews. This should be under the continuous supervision of the pastor and of the committee on evangelism to be appointed by the school. Suggestions regarding the work of this period and concerning preparation for Decision Day are outlined in detail in a series of leaflets provided by the General Sunday School Board.

Third, after Decision Day and before children and young people are recieved into the church, the Board urges that there he a month of careful preparation of these young candidates for church membership. Occasionally one sees a pastor receive little children into the church when neither he, nor any one else so far as he knows, has given any particular care to the preparation of these children for church membership. It is a surprising thing that indicates the utter lack of appreciation of all that is involved, and represents a tendency to discount child evangelism and to rob it of much of its proper significance. We must try to correct this. The Board, therefore, urges that all of our pastors set apart a time when it shall be their first duty to observe the rule of the Discipline regarding the pastoral instruction of children, and by their personal care and training to make the day of reception into church membership an outstanding occasion in the experience of the children and youth who are received at this time.

The following pamphlets are available for those who desire to make use of them in connection with their group studies and their plans for this season of evangelistic effort:

"The Place of the Sunday School in Evangelism".
"The Sunday School Teacher as an Evangelist".
"The Child and Evangelism".
"Graded Lessons and Evangelism".
"Enlistment of the Home in Evangelism".
"The Evangelization of Youth".
"Two Experiences in Evangelism with Young Men".
"Winning Sonls for Christ".
"Confession or Decision Day".
"Preparation for Church Membership".

Any of these pamphlets may be ordered from the General Sunday School Board, 810 Broadway, Nashville, Tenn.

Whoever is to present Jesus Christ as indispensable must not only know Him as such in personal experience but must see Him as necessary to meet tbe concrete needs which afflict the church and the world. For example, He is the one uniting bond between the divided churches. Christians may differ in opinion and creed, ritual and polity, but they all do believe in Jesus Christ as Son of God and Savior. Devotion to His personality is the one strand that holds the entire movement together. Take Him away and nothing is left but chaos. He is the Center around which all His disciples can gather. The understanding and exaltation of Him, therefore, are the great need of the church.—Fosdick.

WANTED—
IN PONCHATOULA, LA.,
A WEEKLY NEWSPAPER
A PHOTOGRAPHER

Ponchatoula is a thriving town on the Illinois Central R. R., and a newspaper and photograph business will get support of the citizens. Write to J. R. ABELS,
Ponchatoula, La.

Acclaimed by the Master Minds of America

Woodrow Wilson

✣

Josephus Daniels

✣

Gen. Leonard Wood

✣

James M. Cox

✣

John R. Mott

✣

Booth Tarkington

✣

John Kendrick Bangs

✣

John G. Hibben

✣

Henry Churchill King

✣

S. D. Gordon

✣

Charles M. Sheldon

✣

Charles L. Goodell

The Master Minds of the nation have publicly acclaimed the greatness of the objectives of the Christian Education Movement of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South.

Men like Wilson, Wood, Daniels, Mott, Cox, Sheldon, Coe, Goodell, Tarkington, King, Hibben, and many others just as distinguished—persons in various vocations and possessing differing ideas on nearly every other matter under the sun—all unite in appraising this mighty enterprise of the Church as one of the greatest of all causes and absolutely essential to our general welfare.

No denominational crusade of modern times ever elicited such unqualified public praise from such a body of statesmen, authors, scholars and religious leaders as this.

Methodists will not let it fail—permit it to be throttled in the very hour of its triumphant consummation.

Pay the Christian Education Pledge

Installments on pledges made to the Christian Education Movement are due and payable November 1st. It is highly important that they be paid promptly. Remit at once through your local church collector or send the amount direct to your Conference Educational Secretary.

Robert W. Chambers

✣

Hamilton Holt

✣

Medill McCormick

✣

Carl E. Milliken

✣

Geo. Trumbull Ladd

✣

George A. Coe

✣

A. S. Burleson

✣

David Warfield

✣

Margaret E. Sangster

✣

S. Parkes Cadman

✣

Robert E. Speer

✣

Frank W. Gunsaulus

BOARD OF EDUCATION
Methodist Episcopal Church, South

© E.T.C.-1922

The Home Circle

"JERRY."

By Frances Elliott Kane.

Each night 'bout eight o'clock or so,
Before to slumberland I go,
Ma says to me; "Now don't forget—
You've not put out the bottles yet."
This is a task that I must do,
'Cause Jerry comes at half past two,
An' brings our milk, so there must be
Some bottles out for him, you see.

Sometimes if I don't feel just right,
I cry "Oh! let 'em go to-night."
And then I get to thinkin' 'bout
The way that Jerry must go out,
Deliv'ring milk in rain and sleet,
While I am safely home in bed,
An' covered up 'most to my head,
An' then I feel ashamed and say;
"All right, I'll get them right away."

'Tis often cold and raining hard,
But still, I hear him in the yard,
For Jerry's never missed a night,
But brings our milk with heart so light,
Oft' times he whistles as he goes,
Altbough I'm sure he's nearly froze.

Again a bit of song I hear,
As Jerry's horses gallop near,
When tasks seem hard an' things go wrong,
I think of Jerry and his song,
An' of how thankful I should be,
For having so much more than he.
Then all the world seems bright and gay,
Just like a lovely summer day,
So I try hard to never pout,
When ma says: "Put the bottles out."

—California Christian Advocate.

BELLS! BELLS! BELLS!

By Jean McIntyre.

The Queen of Bells is the great bell of Moscow, Russia, which is celebrated for its size, weight and workmanship. But, alas, it has never given forth a musical sound. An unfortunate accident happened when it was being recast. The work was completed, and there remained only the wooden frame work to be removed, when a great fire broke out in some shops near by. Fanned by a high wind, the fire spread, and a large part of the city was destroyed, including the great bell in its wooden frame. When the people first saw their splendid bell in danger they thought to save it by throwing water on it—the very thing to insure its destruction. After the fire had passed, a great fracture was found in the bell, and soon a large piece came out, making an opening through which several people may easily pass abreast. The broken piece lay on the ground beside it, and thus the bell stood for a hundred years. Then it was raised to a pedestal, where it stands to-day, a beautiful piece of workmanship. Its form and design make it a work of art. From top to lip the bell stands twenty feet, seven inches. Its diameter is twenty-two feet, eight inches and its weight 193 tons.

The largest hanging bell is the great bell of Mandalay. It is considerably smaller than the "Queen of Bells," being only twelve feet in height. A great deal of ornamentation on the top brings it up to a total of twenty-one feet. It is sixteen feet in diameter and from six to twelve inches in thickness. This bell is high proof of the skill and ingenuity of the Burmese, who attach great importance to their bells, as they are used in connection with the rites and ceremonies of Buddhism.

The third largest bell hangs in a clock-tower in Moscow. It is known as "Big" and weighs sixty-three tons.

The fourth bell was cast 500 years ago and is a marvel of beauty and wonderful work. It is a Chinese bell and is twenty feet in height, and eleven feet in diameter.

The fifth and sixth bells are in Japan. One, in the city of Kioto, is eleven feet high and nine in diameter, and the same weight as the "Big" of Moscow. The building in which it first hung was burned, and the bell was rehung in the tower where it now is. The other Japanese bell weighs seventy-four tons. There is probably nothing remarkable about it, as so little has ever been said about it.

Then comes one of the oldest bells known. It hangs at Kamakura and dates from the year 1200. It is much smaller than those already mentioned, being only eight feet high and four feet, seven inches indiameter. Chinese bells, you will notice, are much higher in proportion to their width, than are European bells.

The largest bell west of Russia is in Vienna. It is ten feet high, nine feet, ten inches in diameter—almost as broad as it is long—weighs eighteen tons and takes twelve men to set it in motion.

After all these, we come to bells of which we have heard more frequently, such as "Great Paul" in St. Paul's Catbedral. It is the heaviest ever cast in the United Kingdom, weighing seventeen tons—a mere nothing compared with the weight of the "Queen of Bells" in Moscow, or any other of the Russian or Japanese bells. About nine feet in height, the same in diameter and nearly the same in thickness, there are twenty-one tons of metal in it, and it took nine hours to melt. "Great Paul" is what is called a Bourbon, or deep-toned, bell. It requires four men to ring it.

"Big Ben" in Westminster Houses of Parliament is seven feet in height and nine feet, five inches in diameter, and weighs sixteen and a half tons. The Chinese bells, we noted, are taller than they are broad, and now we find the English ones broader than they are tall. "Big Ben" was cracked at the trial sounding and had to be recast. It is now a trifle smaller than the original. Its clapper is never used except to toll upon the death of a reigning sovereign, a hammer being used at other times.

There are also two large bells in Montreal, Canada. One is eleven and a half tons, and the other seven and a half tons.

Last, but not least, is our own Liberty Bell, which is in Independence Hall, Philadelphia, Pa. This was the first bell rung in the United States after the Declaration of Independence. An inscription around the shoulder of the bell reads: "Proclaim Liberty throughout all the land, and unto all the inhabitants thereof" (Leviticus 25:10).

There are many other bells of interest, some large, some small. Sometimes they have been made of money, and sometimes they have been broken up to make money. Some to-day would be worth many thousands of dollars only as old metal. The first mentioned, for instance, the "Queen of Bells," is said to be worth more than $332,825 merely as old bronze.—Pittsburgh Christian Advocate.

"JENNY."

By William M. Schultz.

When my uncle was a little boy, his father gave him a horse. The horse's name was "Jenny," and she and my uncle were very great friends. She followed him about the yard like a little dog, and, I think, was sorry that she was too big to go into the house with him. Whenever she saw him, she would whinney, trot up to him, stand with her head over his shoulder and her cheek next to his, and sniff about all his pockets and under his arms to see if he had a piece of sugar or an apple to give her. And generally she was not disappointed.

My grandfather was a physician and had frequently to go on long drives into the country to visit his patients. One day he and my uncle and Jenny were driving and came to a very bad railroad crossing. I have often seen it since. The road going down hill approaches the track at an angle, and the track sweeps around in a sharp curve from behind a high embankment, so that you can neither see nor hear the train until it rushes out over the crossing. On that day, just as Jenny was about to step upon the track, around the curve dashed the train with a tremendous noise and ringing and whistling—enough to frighten any one. If she had taken another step she would have been struck. If she had tried to turn about or to back away, the wheels or the shafts of the phaeton would have been caught by the train, and all three would have been killed instantly. But she knew just what to do and just what was expected of her. Without a tremor she stood perfectly still, turned her head as far to one side as she could so as to be out of reach of the train, and held back the weight of the phaeton until the train had passed. Then she quietly crossed on over the track. She had saved the lives of her friends and her own life, too.

She lived for many years and until her death was an honored and loved member of the family that owed so much to her courage and presence of mind.—Selected.

SPECIAL OFFER

ONE 42 PIECE $12.00 DINNER SET

BLUE BIRD, FLORAL OR WHITE AND GOLD DESIGNS

For $4.98 f. o. b. New Orleans

Cut out this Advertisement and send to WM. B. REILY & CO., New Orleans, La., with Six Coupons from Luzianne Coffee and $4.98, and the Beautiful Set will be Expressed to You at Once.

All three sets consist of: 6 dinner plates, 6 cups, 6 saucers, 6 pie plates, 6 fruit dessert dishes, 6 oat meal dishes, 1 large meat platter, 1 round vegetable bowl, 1 oval vegetable bowl, 1 cream pitcher, 1 sugar bowl, 1 sugar bowl cover.

New Orleans Christian Advocate

HENRY T. CARLEY, Editor.

CHAS. O. CHALMERS, Manager.

PUBLISHING COMMITTEE:

Louisiana Conference—Rev. J. F. Foster, Rev. S. J. Davies, Rev. C. C. Miller.

Mississippi Conference—Rev. J. T. Leggett, Rev J. R. Jones. Rev. W. H. Saunders.

North Mississippi Conference—Rev. J. H. Felts, Rev. T. H. Lipscomb, Rev. J. W. Dorman.

DIRECTIONS.

All checks and money orders should be made payable to the New Orleans Christian Advocate.

Communications pertaining to subscriptions and other business matters should be addressed to the Manager, or to the New Orleans Christian Advocate.

The Printed Label on a paper shows the date to which a subscription is paid. It is as good as a written receipt. When renewal is made, if the date is not moved forward after three or four weeks, notify us, and we will make it right.

Communications intended for the Editor should be directed to him at 512 Camp Street. Correspondents will observe the following rules: 1. Write on only one side of the paper. 2. If you have a typewriter, by all means use it; otherwise use a good quality of black ink. 3. Leave a space of at least two inches at the top of the first page; leave a margin of at least one inch on the left-hand side of the page; do not crowd the words and the lines together. 4. Take special pains to write proper names correctly and legibly. 5. Use letter paper if you can get it—not note paper. No attention will be paid to rolled manuscripts.

CONFERENCE CALENDAR.

Louisiana Conference, November 22, at Shreveport, La.; Dr. H. L. Brooks, pastor; Bishop Warren A. Candler, presiding.

Mississippi Conference, November 30, at Crystal Springs, Miss.; Rev. W. B. Jones, pastor; Bishop William N. Ainsworth, presiding.

THE NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

The fifty-third session of the North Mississippi Conference is being held this week at Water Valley. Bishop William N. Ainsworth is presiding for the first time over this distinguished body; and we dare say he will be as greatly pleased with the record of the year's work as the Conference undoubtedly will be with his able presidency. In his previous official visits to Mississippi, Bishop Ainsworth has laid stress upon the importance of a vigorous campaign of evangelism to meet the religious need of the age, and we may assume that evangelism will be the keynote of the Conference. Let all our people make earnest prayer that this annual gathering may be graciously blessed of God for the promotion and maintenance of his Kingdom.

The Conference is assured of a delightful meeting through the hospitality of the Conference host, Rev. L. P. Wasson, and the fine people of Water Valley. A full report of the proceedings of the Conference will be furnished the Advocate by Rev. H. P. Lewis, who is especially well qualified to render this impoprtant service.

THE NEW DISCIPLINE.

The new Discipline has come from the press of the Publishing House and may be had for fifty cents a copy. Every Methodist preacher will, of course, provide himself with a copy at once; and every member of the church, especially all official members, should procure a copy without delay. The Discipline contains the doctrines, polity, and ritual of Methodism, and a knowledge of it is absolutely essential for those who would be intelligent Methodists. The present edition is cross-indexed, it has a complete index, and it includes a complete directory of the bishops, general officers, boards, commissions, and committees. The price is merely nominal when its real value is taken into consideration.

PERSONAL AND OTHER NOTES.

Rev. W. F. Henderson, Jr., our pastor at Zwolle, La., paid the Advocate office an appreciated call on Thursday of last week.

The residence of Rev. Jno. T. Sawyer, D.D., is now 4016 Prytania Street, this city, and his telephone number is Uptown 6180.

The home of Rev. J. O. Hanes, general evangelist, in Birmingham, Ala., was almost completely destroyed by fire recently.

Rev. H. A. Trimble, of Arkansas, was appointed pastor of McKendree Church, Nashville, at the recent session of the Tennessee Conference.

All pastors are requested to read the Western Methodist Assembly advertisement on page 13, and are urged to call attention of their people to it.

Rev. D. Scarborough, formerly of Victoria, Texas, is now pastor at Kennedy, Texas. His many Mississippi friends will be glad to learn of his new address.

At the recent session of the Pacific Conference, Dr. S. H. Werlein was reappointed presiding elder of the Los Angeles District, and Dr. Chas. D. Bulla was returned to the San Francisco District.

We learn from the Nashville Christian Advocate that Rev. J. A. Poe, of the North Mississippi Conference, has been transferred to the Louisville Conference and appointed to the Brandenburg charge.

Under the caption, "Methodist Stimulations," the Leesville Leader, of Leesville, La., devotes generous space each week to interesting religious notes contributed by Rev. Lastie N. Hoffpauir, the Methodist pastor.

Judge Percy Bell, of Greenville, Miss., who has announced his candidacy for the governorship of Mississippi, is an active member of the Methodist church at Greenville, being teacher of the Big Brothers Class.

The fourth quarterly conference of the Raleigh charge, Mississippi Conference, passed highly complimentary resolutions concerning its pastor, Rev. R. H. Clegg, commending the work he has done and requesting his return for another year.

Rev. Maurice Rubens, a Christian Jew, began a series of addresses at the Felicity Methodist Church, this city, on last Sunday morning. He is president of the Hebrew Christian Mission, and his messages are attracting considerable interest in the city.

Rev. Walt Holcomb, recently returned from an evangelistic tour in Europe, held his first revival meeting since returning at St. Luke's Church, Columbus, Ga. The meeting touched the entire city, and there were 127 additions to the membership of St. Luke's.

Dr. C. M Chapman is very happy in his work at Shelby, Miss. He goes to Conference with a full report in every department of his work. The sum of $12,000 was raised for all purposes during the year. Shelby is one of the leading appointments of the North Mississippi Conference.

The Wednesday evening prayer meeting at Columbia, Miss., is conducted each week by the laymen of the church and the service is always interesting and largely attended. Rev. L. L. Roberts is the pastor who has enlisted this hearty co-operation on the part of his laymen.

Despite crowded conditions which have caused many prospective students to be turned away, the Emory University enrollment for 1922 now totals 1494, an increase of 337 or 28 per cent over 1921, according to figures just announced by the registrar. The Freshman class this fall has 260 members.

We learn from "Methodist Matters," of the Coahoma and Lyon charge, North Mississippi Conference, that the architect is at work on the details of the plan for the new church at Coahoma, and that construction is expected to begin soon after Conference. Rev. Del Longgrear is the pastor.

The editor of the Wesleyan Christian Advocate, Dr. W. P. King, will return to the pastorate at the approaching session of his Conference, but will continue as editor of the Wesleyan without salary. We presume that financial conditions against which all church papers have to struggle have made this unsatisfactory arrangement expedient.

In connection with the week of prayer of the Woman's Missionary Society, Rev. Ellis Smith, pastor of the Carrollton Avenue Methodist Church, this city, is holding a service each evening this week, in which he is being assisted by other pastors of the city. On Friday evening a great get-together meeting of the entire membership of the church will be held.

We adopt as our own the following from the latest issue of the Nashville Christian Advocate: "The Conference paper whose item concerning the reported blessing that had come to the home of Bishop and Mrs. James Atkins was in error. Hence we were in error in reproducing it, and we regret the natural embarrassment through this misleading publicity for those directly concerned."

The average Sunday school attendance of Trinity Methodist Church, Ruston, La., for the month of October was 557, the largest attendance being 587 and the lowest 530. There were 46 new scholars enrolled during the month, and 104 visitors were recorded. The Work Day offering for the Orphanage, including both church and Sunday school, amounted to $1011. Rev. N. E. Joyner is the pastor of this fine congregation.

The Advocate is included in the budget of our church at Holly Springs, Miss., 140 copies of the paper going to that congregation each week. Recently the pastor, Rev. W. R. Lott, wrote us: "This is the third year we have tried the budget plan, and the consensus of opinion is that it is the best way to enlighten church people." He is kind enough to add that the paper is read eagerly by nearly all of those who receive it.

Rev. Ira B. Robertson, the oldest member in point of service of the Mississippi Conference, is in New Orleans on a visit to relatives. He was admitted on trial in 1860, and has been a subscriber to the Advocate since that time. During the sixty-two years of his itineracy he has not missed a meeting of his Conference. It was a benediction to the editor to spend an evening with him recently.

Nearly three hundred people attended the prayer meeting at Hazlehurst, Miss., held by the young men, on Wednesday evening, November 1. On the preceding Sunday, more than forty boys and young men joined a group of the "Flying Squadrons" from Jackson and Wesson for a service at Union Church, where Dr. C. W. Grafton, the distinguished Presbyterian minister, has labored so long. They report a great day at this historic place.

An Epworth League Credit Institute was held at Rayne Memorial Methodist Church last week, with forty-eight delegates in attendance, under the auspices of the New Orleans City Union. The instructors were: Rev. Jas. B. Grambling, State secretary; Rev. E. O. Harbin, of the Central Office; Rev. A. S. Lutz, Conference Secretary of Education; Miss Ruth Wilkins, Miss Nina Collins, Mrs. Philip Munch, of Shreveport; Miss Laura Edwards, of New Orleans. A similar Institute is being held at Shreveport this week.

THANKS TO OUR FRIENDS.

We desire to express our thanks to the following friends who have sent us two or more subscriptions recently: Miss Emily Cook, Crystal Springs, Miss., 2; Rev. W. C. Mattox, Bellefontaine, Miss., 2; Mrs. Dan E. Dulany, Shreveport, La., 3; Rev. E. C. Driskell, Buena Vista, Miss., 3.

NOTES FROM EUROPE.

By Rev. Wait Holcomb, General Evangelist, Cartersville, Ga.

Czecho-Slovakia has been crushed under the iron heel of Austria-Hungary for over four hundred years. However, the martyred soul of John Huss has hovered over this separated and severed land, keeping the religious and independent spirit alive. The heroic hardships endured for centuries were rewarded by the League of Nations in the creation of the Independent Czecho-Slovakian Republic.

The most astonishing and astounding heroism of the world war was the part played by some of the Czech soldiers, who had been drafted into the Austrian Army while Germany was fighting Russia. The Czechs deserted the Austrians, in groups and whole regiments, and went over to the Russians, while the Russian Army was still fighting with the Allies against Germany and Austro-Hungary. While they were branded traitors by the Germans, the Czech people lauded them to the sky for their loyalty to the Czech people.

After the Russian Army became Bolshevik, the Czech soldiers determined to join the Allies on the other frontiers or to die in the endeavor. By the most strategic diplomacy, they worked their way through sympathetic parts of Russia to Siberia, and then started on a seven thousand mile tour, passing through Japan on to the Pacific coast, thence across America, and then braving the treacherous, submarined Atlantic, joining the Allies on the French soil to fight for their independence and freedom. The citizens of Verdun sent a bronze tablet to Prague for their bravery.

With such heroism and patriotism in the bosom of the Czech people, is it any wonder that they have won such concessions from the League of Nations, and have become a united people and one of the most civilizing influences, in Continental Europe? They have lived over again the spirit of John Huss, who was condemned to death for his independent, democratic and religious preaching, and burned at the stake at Constance, where his ashes were thrown into the Rhine, that the Czechs might not have a burial spot where they could journey to revere his sacred and sainted dust.

President Thomas Garrick Masaryk from his youth has dreamed of a reunited Czech nation. His persecution, which culminated in the Austrian Government's passing the sentence of death upon him, has been rewarded by an over-ruling Providence, through the people of his Czech blood, by the Presidency of the newest, youngest and best nation in Central Europe. President Masaryk is the Woodrow Wilson of Europe. The names of Wilson and Masaryk are emblazoned on the largest railway stations, and their pictures hang side by side in public buildings, universities, schools and private homes.

As there is a similarity in the life of President Masaryk and ex-President Wilson, both having been students of history and government, and having taught in the great universities of Princeton and Prague; so there is a striking likeness in the life-work of John Huss and John Wesley. Huss and Wesley were both college graduates and preached and prayed for vital religion in the Roman and English churches. Neither one desired to leave his church but longed to see it purified from within. The English Church was more liberal to Wesley, as he died a member; while the Romish Church killed Huss. From Wesley has sprung a world Methodism, and from Huss has come the Moravian Church, which gave Wesley his experience of a strangely warmed heart.

Into this Protestant nation of centuries of persecution and martyrdom, the seeds of the martyrs have germinated, and Protestanism is being reborn in Bohemia and Moravia. The Methodist Church was the first to enter this favored nation, and has made most wonderful progress. Dr. John Lambert Neill is the Superintendent of our work in Czecho-Slovakia. Having had successful experience in our Cuban work, and serving our church in the Sunday School Centenary Department in Nashville, he is admirably fitted and suited for this difficult and encouraging field. His work among the Czech people has won respect and confidence, and the greatest success is sure.

Our Central buildings are as commanding as those in Brussels and Warsaw. Our church buildings are superior to those in Belgium and Poland. Rev. Josef Dobes, a native Bohemian, is pastor of the congregation in Vrsovice, where the most infamous brothel has been turned into the most famous Bethel in Europe, with a membership of over two thousand, and a building that houses the congregation, Sunday school and apartment-parsonage for the pastor and his family. The work is a modern miracle of grace divine.

What was formerly the most beautiful marble dance hall in Europe, Rev. Josef Paul Bartak has converted into a singing, praying and preaching hall, which is known as the Central Methodist Church. The first Methodist altar erected in Czecho-Slovakia is in front of the pulpit in the Marble Hall. From this same altar wood our pastors presented Bishop Beauchamp with a gavel to use in the organization of the Czecho-Slovakian Mission. Evangelistic meetings are held every night in the Marble Hall, and regular preaching services are conducted twice each Sunday. Penitents kneel at this new altar.

In this same immense ten-story building, in the very heart of the city of Prague, is the wonderful underground theatre, which has no rival since the days of the underground theatres in Rome. It is located three stories underground and has a seating capacity of four thousand people. The marble entrance is followed by a winding marble stairway, until the entrance of the top gallery is first reached; and then the second gallery is entered from a lower stairway; finally the lowest stairway leads into the dress-circle gallery and the main auditorium. The walls are solid marble with gold railings and trimmings, elaborately lighted with hundreds of electric bulbs and handsome Bohemian chandeliers, making the hall one of the most beautiful in the world.

The name of the hall in the Czech language is "Velky Sal Lucerna," and in English would be "Big Hall of Lanterns." It is in this majestic hall that we are holding our revival services. The acoustics are perfect and a conversational tone is easily heard in every corner and crevice of the immense building. Brother Dobes, the wonderful interpreter, and I stand side by side, preaching the gospel to the hundreds of upturned faces from the first floor and dress-circle; while from the upper galleries are the leaning, down-turned faces of those who are eager to see and hear. At the close of the sermon we invite them to the front, just as we do in America, and pray and explain the way of salvation. Only eternity can reveal the results of the efforts that have been put forth in these services.

The City of Prague, Czecho-Slovakia.

THE STORM CENTER OF CHRISTIAN CIVILIZATION.

By Bishop W. B. Beauchamp.

I am writing these lines in sight of the spires of the House of Commons and almost in a stone's throw of No. 10 Downing Street. Yesterday the British Cabinet was in session on the Irish situation—far from being settled. Also the papers here are full of accounts of the meeting of the League of Nations at Geneva, where Lord Balfour seems to be the great spirit. The Greek-Turkish war is on with unabated fury. Every European nation has a huge budget for military affairs, but none for even paying interest on the great war debts. You meet in all these lands, as you go about, training and marching soldiers. Russia is a horror by day and by night. Austria is miserable and bankrupt. Patriotic Poland lies in daily dread of Russia and changes cabinets over night. Germany is tense with a divided government and no neighbor seems to have confidence in her. One feels that anything may happen at any time.

No man seems to see the way out of this Continental illness. Nationalism may save some of these nations for a while, but not for long. The economic conditions are such that the leaders throw up their hands. The working people are distressed at the high prices and cannot get sufficient wages to satisfy them. A brilliant Englishman said yesterday: "Things are in a bad way; we just seem to move in a sort of dazed and uncertain fashion." Dr. Jowett has given up his pulpit to devote himself and his gifts to stir the churches to see the situation and to have courage to face it. He believes that conditions in Europe indicate another great upheaval unless the church can lead the world out of this horrible nightmare. The World's Alliance of Churches met at Copenhagen; but, to me, was a great disappointment.

To get a statement concerning peace and the responsibility of the churches of Christ in this hour was as difficult as writing a League of Nations. I did not see in the meetings at Copenhagen of these representatives of Protestant groups any great promise of co-operation nor did these groups seem able to frame any adequate plans for the hour. Dr. Robert E. Speer brings a message from the Far East of the Millions among whom the church has been working, but in all too inadequate way. The situation in China, that great nation of four hundred millions of people, demands a much larger plan on the part of the Christian church and a vastly increased number of men who will bring the gospel of peace and salvation. The Near East—what a continuous tragedy is going on there!

Will the church of the living God be equal to this world situation? Will her leaders have vision broad enough to stir the membership to see, to do, and to give?

The Gospel of Christ is the one message that can bring hope in the disrupted brotherhood of the world. More and more the providential character of our Centenary Movement is being revealed. Every man and woman helping and sacrificing in this world movement for spreading the gospel of Christ is helping to meet this world's agony and distress and to bring in the Kingdom of God. This is not the hour to hesitate or grow weary in our world program, but to rally to yet larger service and larger giving. The world's trend to unrest is a call to the church of God—the one organization in the world that has an adequate message to save the world.

Some days ago Dr. Jowett and Lloyd George were in conference when Lloyd George said, "We have not had the requisite religious force behind us, and it is for the churches to supply it."

A little later Dr. John R. Mott reported the Premier of Japan as saying after the Washington Conference, "We must now look to the leaders of religion." What an obligation rests upon the Christian church to-day! Will the Southern Methodist Church bear her part of the burden—and gladly? Surely we will not hesitate to pay our pledges to the Centenary, so essential if we are to do our part in the world's salvation in this hour. Let every one of us, with increasing joy and enthusiasm, pay the pledge. I believe in these million Methodist men and women who gave their promise to pay and to pray.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

Fourth Year.

The Class of the Fourth Year will meet the Committee at the Methodist church, Crystal Springs, Miss., at 2:30 p.m., Wednesday, November 29, prepared for written examinations.

Let members of the Class who have taken the course by correspondence or at the Divinity school, so inform the committee before the Conference meets.

Please let the Class come on time so we can start the examinations at the same time and be ready for the first session of the Conference.

W. H. SAUNDERS, for Committee.

Obituaries

Obituaries not over 200 words in length will be published free of charge. All over 200 words must be paid for at the rate of 1 cent a word. Count the words and be sure to send the amount necessary with the obituary. That will save trouble all around. We cannot make discriminations. Memorial resolutions are subject to the same rule as obituaries.

God, in His all-wise Providence, saw fit to remove from earth to the great beyond, W. W. PITTMAN, the father of two of our best members of the Woman's Missionary Society, Mrs. Zera Lamb and Mrs. Alma Abney. In their sorrow, we can only offer our prayers and sympathy. His long life is before them and they now have to select the greatest examples of his life and try to emulate them. Therefore be it resolved by the members of the Montrose Methodist Woman's Missionary Society:

1. That we extend to each our sincerest love and sympathy in this hour of their deep grief.

2. That a copy of these resolutions be presented to each family, also a copy be sent to the New Orleans Christian Advocate for publication.

Signed by: Mrs. S. O. Barnette, Mrs. O. M. Abney, Committee.

The Woman's Missionary Society of the Montrose Methodist Church sustained a great loss in the death of MRS. JULIA ABNEY, wife of T. F. Abney.

As a church member, she was regular in attendance upon the services of the sanctuary as long as her health permitted. She was loyal to her pastors and a faithful member of the Woman's Missionary Society, of which she was a charter member.

As a wife and mother, she was dutiful and affectionate; as a neighbor, there was no better. She was thoughtful of the sick and poor.

Signed by: Mrs. John U. Gammage, Mrs. Geo. T. Neill.

THE INFLUENCE OF CHARACTER.

By Rev. A. Brulet.

A character may be either a person in a play, or it may mean the reputation of an individual to a certain degree; but, principally, character means the indivuality, the action, or the affection—this is genuine character. Reputation, however, does not constitute true character, for reputation is only what people think of you, and character is all that God has made of you. We have known men and women of great reputation, but whose lives and influence have not counted for anything in the world—they have not enlightened the world to any extent.

Now we cannot make people enlightened, or good, or happy by compulsion. Frederick the Great's principal thought was: "The enlightened must be compelled to be rational and happy." He came to know, with sorrow, that those who had shaken off their prejudices at his command remained in bondage to him.

Influence of character has two great phases: the one for good, and the one for evil. It is only by personal association that we can be influenced in a high and noble way, or, on the other hand, in a worthless and evil way. Every weak boy, girl, man or woman is influenced by the lives of others if they are personally associated with them, somewhere, sometimes. If a good seed is planted, surely the harvest shall be pure; if a bad seed is sown, that seed has its effect, and nowhere has it done good, but evil. Therefore, influence must have its course, and "no one liveth to himself and no one dieth to himself."

One must sacredly respect the personalty of another. One should believe in other men—genuinely respect them—if he is to be influenced by them in a high, a good and wholesome way. He must, first of all, cut himself off at the beginning to obtain the largest influence upon others. This deep and true estimate of others is the only road to a genuine, and not a false, humanity. Many a friendship is broken by this lack of respect. There are limitations to all intimacies, and we should not forget it. We are not to presume upon our friendship; we are not to pry; we are not to scold; we are not to take away the possibility of decision or choice, even with a child. A child will best learn to respect the personality of one by that one's treatment of him. One is not to demand; the door must be opened from within.

The power of personal association upon character cannot be estimated. A person will profit more by daily companionship with an acute observer, be it his teacher or playfellow, than by the systematic attempts to train the senses.

Again, just because character is what it is, its chief and great end for ourselves and for others, cannot be forced or commanded, but by the winning to free choice—to an inner response. One must be attracted towards it, for it can come only by our own will. We are members one of another, and one's influence, therefore, will count direct, as the laws of personal association are carefully observed; character is made, and not taught. And happiness and influence have their highest sources in a perfect character. We cannot learn to love alone. If love is highest of all virtue, then for the highest happiness and the highest sphere of influence and character, happiness and influence alike must come chiefly from association.

Personal association is the one great hopeful means of character; and, in the long-run, this conviction must effect profoundly all our religious conceptions.

The supreme Christ built his kingdom on twelve men and their personal association with Him, facing the problem of character for all times. Your influence and mine is the power of the world, again upon the side of influence. Of course, this principle means that the fundamental condition must be that we should be what we would have others become, that genuine character and conviction must be back of all expressions.

Greensburg, La.

FROM COLUMBIA, LA.

Dear Brother Carley: As you have had no report from the Columbia charge this year, I beg to submit the following report:

If you remember, during the latter part of last February I had a severe attack of pneumonia and have been in a debilitated condition since that time. But my presiding elder, Brother W. L. Doss, Jr., has provided ministerial help and as a consequence the charge has had a variety of personalities to grace her pulpits, which has proved a great help.

Thus far we have had seventeen infant baptisms and twelve adult baptisms. There have been twenty accessions, three by certificate and seventeen by vows.

The Grayson church has had three Sunday school rooms added to their building, while Columbia church is in a splendid condition since they have repaired and beautified it inside, and out and without a doubt it is one of the most up-to-date churches that I have ever had charge of.

Since a short while back I have been able to deliver a few sermons from my chair, but my physical condition will not allow me to continue in the active ministry. I am endeavoring to build a home in Monroe, La., where I expect to reside. With love to all of the brethren, I am, Yours in Christ,

W. J. PORTER, P. C.

PARKER'S HAIR BALSAM
Removes Dandruff-Stops Hair Falling
Restores Color and Beauty to Gray and Faded Hair
60c. and $1.00 at Druggists.
Hiscox Chem. Wks. Patchogue, N. Y.

HINDERCORNS Removes Corns, Callouses, etc., stops all pain, ensures comfort to the feet, makes walking easy. 15c. by mail or at Druggists. Hiscox Chemical Works, Patchogue, N. Y.

Cuticura Soap
—Imparts—
The Velvet Touch
Soap, Ointment, Talcum 25c. everywhere. For samples address: Cuticura Laboratories, Dept. V, Malden, Mass.

WHEELER Business College
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
"WHEELER STUDENTS GET THE BEST POSITIONS"
Call or Write for Free Catalogue

Use MURINE FOR EYES

Irritated by Sun Wind Dust and Cinders
RECOMMENDED AND SOLD BY DRUGGISTS AND OPTICIANS
WRITE FOR FREE EYE BOOK. MURINE CO. CHICAGO

OTHINE
For the treatment of
FRECKLES
In Use for Over 14 Years
Your freckles need attention NOW or may remain all winter. Use Othine—double strength—the old and time-tried guaranteed treatment that has given satisfaction to millions of women, and rid yourself of these homely spots.
At all Druggists and Department Stores.

ROCHE'S HERBAL EMBROCATION
RELIEVES SAFELY AND PROMPTLY
CROUP OR WHOOPING COUGH
Also wonderfully effective in Bronchitis, Lumbago and Rheumatism.
All druggists or
W. EDWARDS & SON, London, England
E. FOUGERA & CO., 90-92 Beekman St. N. Y.

For the HAIR—
To make it soft, fluffy and free from dandruff use
TETTERINE
60c at your Druggist's, or from The
SHUPTRINE CO., SAVANNAH, GA.

QUALITY GOODS
AT LOW PRICES
D. H. Holmes Co.,
LIMITED.

Whatever any one says, I must be good, just as if the emerald were always saying this: Whatever any one does or says, I must be an emerald and keep my color.—Mareus Aurelius.

We may sin against law and maim or mutilate ourselves, but to sin against love is to be cast out of life altogether.—Georgo Adam Smith.

For whatever happens to me each day is my daily bread, provided I do not refuse to take it from Thy hand, and so feed upon it.—Fenelon.

Public Service

HAS BECOME THE ACTIVE PRACTICAL IDEAL OF THE STREET RAILWAY COMPANY WITH ITS REORGANIZATION AS NEW ORLEANS PUBLIC SERVICE, INC. WE SOLICIT HELPFUL SUGGESTIONS AND WISH TO KEEP SERVICE ALWAYS

On the Job

DR. H. B. BARTLETT
National Dental Parlors
Canal and Bourbon Sts.
Over Worner's Drug Store
Entrance on Bourbon Street
Phone Main 2193.
NEW ORLEANS
Crown and Bridge Specialist
Vitalized Air for Painless Extraction
Most Modern and Best Equipped Dental Parlors South.

Epworth League Department

Editor, North Mississippi Conference.....Rev. R. P. Neblett, Durant, Miss.
Editor, Mississippi Conference,
J. H. Weems, 308 Second Avenue, Hattiesburg, Miss.
Editor, Louisiana Conference,
Miss Consuelo Martinez, 314 Broadway, New Orleans, La.

Material for this Department from the several Conferences should be sent to the editors named above. Copy must be in the Advocate office by Thursday preceding the week of publication.

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.

Loyalty Legion Returns.

This week and next week the returns of the Loyalty Legion Campaign, including all funds received from the Fourth Assembly to October 3, 1922, will be shown in this column, by districts. See how your district compares with the other six in the State of Louisiana.

* indicates Chapter was represented at Fourth Assembly;  indicates no representation.

Alexandria District.

Chapter—	Membership Sept. 1st	Cash Raised	Per Cent
*Alexandria	53	$71.00	134
Boyce	35	.....	...
*Bunkie	28	31.79	113
*Colfax (new) ..	15	18.00	120
*Campti	30	2.00	6
Evergreen	30	.....	...
Ellzabeth	40	.....	...
*Glenmora	23	26.00	113
*Jena (new)	34	.....	...
*LeCompte (int.)	22	31.00	136
*Natchiteches ...	10	2.00	5
*Oakdale	35	35.00	100
Pineville	30	10.00	33
Standard	40	7.00	17
*Olla	45	.....	...
*Winnfield	30	30.00	100
	500	$263.79

Last year, $159. This year shows an increase of 66 per cent.

Baton Rouge District.

Chapter—	Membership Sept. 1st	Cash Raised	Per Cent
*Amite	30	31.00	103
*Baton Rouge, First	66	77.50	117
Clinton	30	.....	....
Franklinton ..	21	21.00	100
Kentwood		2.50	....
(Kentwood remitted $16 too late for report).
Fisher	25	.....	....
Ponchatoula ..	20	.....	....
Pine Grove....	15	.....	....
Zachary	17	.....	....
Hammond	25	.....	....
Baker	15	.....	....
Denham Springs (new)	17	.....	....
Live Oak (new)	23	.....	....
Deerford (new)	18	.....	....
Friendship Chapter (new).....	20	.....	....
Montpelier	25	.....	....
Slaughter (new)	17	.....	....
	384	$132.00

Last year $54. This year shows an increase of 144 per cent.

Houma District.

Chapter—	Membership Sept. 1st	Cash Raised	Per Cent
*Ilouma	31	$73.00	235
*Bayou Blue.....	15	2.00	13
	46	$75.00

Last year $8. This year shows an increase of 837 per cent.

Lake Charles District.

Chapter—	Membership Sept. 1st	Cash Raised	Per Cent
Crowley	25	.....	....
*DeRidder	26	26.00	100
*DeRidder (Int.).	32	10.00	31
Estherwood ...	21	.....	....
Indian Bayou..	39	3.00	10
Jeanerette	19	.....	....
Lafayette	35	.....	....
Lake Arthur...	15	.....	....
*Lake Charles...	50	51.00	102
*Many (int.).....	12	12.00	100
Merryville	30	.....	....
New Iberia....	22	.....	....
Opelousas	18	.....	....
*Rayne	15	.....	....
Sulphur	23	.....	....
Vinton	22	.....	....
*Zwolle	20	20.00	100
*Zwolle (int.)...	10	10.00	100
Roherline	28	.....	....
	453	$132.00

Last year $91.75. This year shows an increase of 43 per cent.

Next week, reports of the Monroe-Ruston, New Orleans, and Shreveport Districts will be printed.

Say, girls, did you know Louis Templeman has started up that hill where the girls grow? He is having his hands full trying to entertain McDonoghville and Shreveport.

Fate of the Robber: Behold at eventide trouble; and before the morning he is not. This is the portion of them that spoil us, and the lot of them that rob us.—Isaiah 17:14.

A MESSAGE FROM THE COLLINS CHARGE.

Dear Brother Cariey: A very successful revival was closed here last evening. Rev. G. S. Harmon, evangelist of the M. E. Church, South, Mississippi Conference, did the preaching. Much interest was manifested by the peopie at iarge, and many professed conversion and a very large number of young people offered themseives for iife service.

Brother Harmon is a well-rounded, safe evangelist; he is eioquent, forceful, and pleasing in his delivery; he drives the Gospel straight home to the hearts of the sinners, and they are either compelied to yield, or stiffen their necks and remain in their sins.

The Collins charge is progressing nicely, and indications are that they will send their preacher to Conference with a full report. In many respects this is a very delightful charge; whoever the pastor may be the coming year, whether the old one or a new, he will find many pleasing features about this charge which will more than outweigh the unpleasant features that may arise.

On last Sunday we organized a class in the Discipline, composed of the Junior Board of Stewards. Tho pastor will be the teacher of this class.

I am thoroughly convinced that the officers of our churches throughout Southern Methodism must know more about the doctrines and polity of our great church, in order for us to move forward. One of the causes of the troubles that some pastors have with hard-headed and stubborn superintendents of Sunday schools and other officers is, they are so grossly ignorant as to the requirements laid down in the Discipline concerning their respective offices. Another cause is, pure, unadulterated disloyalty to the authority of their church, backed by laziness. The Junior Board of Stewards studying the Discipline under the tutorship of a well-informed pastor will, to a large extent, remedy this matter. With every officer in Southern Methodism knowing thoroughly what his church requires of him, with God pouring the power of the Holy Spirit into the great, well-organized machinery of our great church, there is no reason why Methodism should not shake this world and save America for Christ. JAS. M. LEWIS, P. C.

Methodist Benevolent Association
Gives Southern Methodist Men and Women Safe
LIFE INSURANCE AT ACTUAL COST
J. M. SHUMAKER, Sec'y
210 Broadway Nashville, Tenn.

TETTERINE
DRIVES AWAY PIMPLES
and leaves your skin soft and spotless. 60c at your Druggist's, or from The SHUPTRINE CO., SAVANNAH, GA

Stomach Trouble? Are You Nervous?

Why Not Enjoy Perfect Health?

Winston-Salem, N. C.—"I suffered for about eight months with nervous indigestion, and had several doctors to see me but found no relief until a friend suggested Dr. Pierce's Medicines. I was not able to sleep at night and could not eat, just lived on sweet milk and bread. I began to take Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and took one bottle of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, with wonderful relief. I am now past 40, but feel just as I did at 19. I also gave the Discovery to my children, and now I am giving it to my grandchildren.

"You will always find a bottle of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery in my home, and I will recommend it to anyone suffering from nervousness." —Mrs. Izie Rierson, 2415 Hege St.

You can quickly put yourself in A-1 condition by going to your druggist and obtaining Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, in tablets or liquid, or write Dr. Pierce, President Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y., for free advice.

Dodson's Liver Tone Killing Calomel Sale

Don't sicken or salivate yourself or paralyze your sensitive liver by taking calomel which is quicksilver. Your dealer sells each bottle of pleasant, harmless "Dodson's Liver Tone" under an ironclad, money-back guarantee that it regulates the liver, stomach and bowels better than calomel without making you sick—15 million bottles sold.

Headaches Vanish

Sick or nervous headaches, backaches, women's aches almost instantly respond to the liquid remedy Capudine. It stops the pain by removing the cause. Every home should keep a bottle handy. Sold by druggists, 10c, 30c, 60c. Insist upon getting CAPUDINE

BOILS Old Sores, Cuts and Burns have been healed since 1820 with
Gray's Ointment
Sold by all druggists. Write for sample to W. F. Gray & Co., 707 Gray Bldg., Nashville, Tenn.

Agents: 90c an Hour

Introduce "Soderese." A new wonder. A pure solder in paste form. Works like magic. Stops all leaks. For mending water buckets, cooking utensils, milk pails, water tanks, tin roofs—everything including granite ware, agate ware, tin, iron, copper, zinc, etc.

Quick Sales—Nice Profit

Everybody buys. Housewives, mechanics, electricians, jewelers, plumbers, tourists, automobilists, etc. No leak too bad to repair. Just apply a little "Soderese," light a match and that's all. Put up in handy metal tubes. Carry quantity right with you. Write for money-making proposition.
AMERICAN PRODUCTS CO., 7204 American Bldg., Cincinnati, Ohio

"Saved my baby"
Zolfor Springs, Fla.
March 5, 1920
Anglo-American Drug Co., 215 Fulton St., New York.
Dear Sirs:
I am using Mrs. Winslow's Syrup. It saved my baby from dying of colic, which she had for three months. Some one advised me to get Mrs. Winslow's Syrup and I did. Yours truly,
(Name on request)
Colic is quickly overcome by this pleasant, satisfactory remedy, which relieves diarrhoea, flatulency and constipation, keeping baby healthy and happy. Non-narcotic, non-alcoholic.
MRS. WINSLOW'S SYRUP
The Infants' and Children's Regulator
Formula on every label. Write for free booklet containing letters from mothers.
At All Druggists.
ANGLO-AMERICAN DRUG CO. 215-217 Fulton Street NEW YORK
General Selling Agents: Harold F. Ritchie & Co., Inc., New York, Toronto, London, Sydney

Sunday School

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE

Harrisville Circuit Notes.

We held our Ninth Sunday Three-Year Organized Sunday School in Minnie for the Harrisville charge at the Harrisville church Sunday, October 15, 1922. Sunday school was conducted by C. L. Hilton, superintendent of the Harrisville Sunday school.

At 11 a.m. Rev. C. L. Hilton, of the Class of Kellogg Junction of Millsaps College, delivered a very fine sermon on "Understanding the Bible."

Church was opened in all Departmental exercises were conducted by Prof. C. Lott.

The regular work of the lessons was taken up.

A very fine paper was read by Mrs. L. V. Kingsmith on "The Cradle Roll Department". Rev. Leroy Hilton made a most interesting talk on the Home Department. Reports were made on the Home and at the last meeting. Three books were read on Teacher Training. Prof. Lancaster made a very earnest talk on "Teacher Training." Rev. C. L. Hilton talked on "An Organized Class and Social Service."

Cards were sent for next quarter as follows: Each school read at least one book on Teacher Training; at least one organized class in each school; that a report of the Sunday school be made to the secretary of the Mississippi once a month and be sent a report to all the schools of that work for the month.

Each school in the charge was represented. The new Institute is to be held at Poplar Springs.

L. T. Bell, Secretary.

TO THE MEMBERS AND FRIENDS OF THE RED CROSS.

It is impossible for me to meet all of you personally as I should like to do, but I am enabled to say a word through you through the courtesy and cooperation of the Editor of the Christian Advocate.

The Annual Red Cross Roll Call will be held November 11-30 this year. Will you not write or speak to surrounding word to Mr. W. F. Simpson, Chairman; Mr. Ben Eastman, Vice Chairman; Mr. W. E. Ivy, Treasurer; Mr. L. H. Harris, Jr. Secretary Tell them you will help with the Roll Call in your neighborhood, or that you will renew your membership.

Your Red Cross Chapter is or should be one of the units for the progressive betterment of your community. Are your Chapter and the national organization are dependent upon public support. Locally and nationally, Red Cross officers will appreciate your active cooperation and pledge you their best efforts to keep the organization efficient to its obligation to the soldier, sailor and to its many other services to the country.

Sincerely yours,
HARRY L. HOPKINS, Manager,
Southern Division, A. R. C.

THE RESIGNATION OF LLOYD GEORGE AS PRIME MINISTER OF ENGLAND.

By Rev. F. E. Hill.

I will allow others to pay tribute to David Lloyd George, but think it may interest your readers to give some facts concerning the Prime Ministers of England. I may be allowed to say, I am an ardent admirer of Lloyd George and will still support him, assured that no other living Englishman can accomplish more for the country's good. Prime Minister is a term belonging to the eighteenth century. The word Premier, an abbreviation of Prime Minister, came into use about the middle of the eighteenth century, and is synonymous with that of Prime Minister. His power, according to Lord Roseberry, is mainly personal, but is often very great. There is all the difference between two Prime Ministers that there is between a Grand Vizier and a chairman. The austere Milton says: "Whoever in a State knows how wisely to form the manners of men and to rule them at home and at war with excellent institutes, him in the first place, above all others, I should esteem worthy of all honor."

The first Premier was Sir Robert Walpole. Thackeray says: "He gave England no conquests, but he gave her peace and freedom; the three per cents nearly at par; and wheat at twenty-six shillings a quarter." In the two centuries from 1721 to 1921 there have been thirty-six Prime Ministers of England. Of those, five have been Scotchmen, three Irishmen, one Welsh, and one of foreign extraction. A Prime Minister's average total tenure of office is five and a half years and the average length of administration a little over four years. Seventeen were at school at Eton, four at Westminster, one at Winchester, one at St. Paul's, seventeen went to Oxford, thirteen to Cambridge, and one to Edinburgh University.

The average age for entering the House of Parliament has been twenty-five. All except three have married, and of the average age of twenty-nine. Eight have married twice. The average age for first becoming Prime Minister was fifty and for last ceasing to hold that office sixty-nine. Twenty-one were Prime Ministers as Whigs or Liberals, and fourteen as Tories or Conservatives. English Prime Ministers seem to keep their place longer. The Scotchmen average only two years, and the Irishmen about fourteen months in their tenure of the Premiership. About ten seem to have been really self-made men. As to character, their most distinguishing trait common to nearly all has been honesty of purpose and straightforwardness. Their average length of life has been seventy years, though one died at forty-four, one at eighty-nine, and six at eighty. One, Spencer Perceval, was assassinated. These facts are taken from a book written by Mr. Olive Eltham and published by Mr. John Murray, of London.

Pensacola, La.

A Morning Prayer—Create in me a clean heart, O God, and renew a right spirit within me.—Psalm li:10.

Bitter Challenge 25c

Has a million uses and quick action in curing malaria from the system.

Will quickly stop colds and fever.

Splendid tonic for weak live and kidney for poor appetite.

FINLAY, DICKE & CO., INC.
NEW ORLEANS

ANGELL'S

COUGH and WHOOPING
Cough Syrup
Easy to Take
No Habit-Forming Drugs. Formula of
DR. RICHARD ANGELL
Prepared by
JAMES E. ANGELL
New Orleans, La.
PRICE 35c AND 65c
AT ALL DRUGGISTS

Wanted—Salesmen

To sell our "Good Will All Time Memorials," made from GRANITE of the famous GEORGIA MARBLE—at reasonable prices. Must be ambitious and responsible—to take an interest. Liberal commission.

Our representative recently sold us 21 orders for one month and we expected 21 orders for him that month—one order per day.

Farmers, Merchants, Bankers, Ministers and others have successfully sold our monuments for more than 25 years—some of full time.

Write Us To-day For Our Proposition.
Roberts Marble Co., Ball Ground, Ga.

Renew your health by purifying your system with

Calotabs

TRADE MARK REG

The purified and refined calomel tablets that are free from nausea and danger.

No salts necessary, as Calotabs act like calomel and salts combined. Demand the genuine in 10c and 35c packages, bearing above trade-mark.

The Church and the Publishing House

In 1854 the General Conference of the Southern Methodist Church established at Nashville, Tennessee, the first unit of the Methodist Publishing House. The Church had seen the vital necessity of controlling the source of its literature supply, and thus was established the "Publishing House of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South."

For almost 70 years the Publishing House has been a manufacturer of Church literature. To-day its periodicals number 12 with a combined annual circulation of over 20,000,000

Yet this Church literature is but one of the large family of products manufactured by the Publishing House!

The RETAIL BOOK DEPARTMENT is one of the largest retailers of books in the South. Books of all classes are sold—fiction, technical, theological, inspirational, etc.—books for children and grown-ups, for the minister, the Sunday school superintendent and teacher, for their wives and their husbands, for their cooks and the yard boy. In fact, the Book Department has books for everybody.

The DEPARTMENT OF SUNDAY SCHOOL SUPPLIES has everything for the Sunday school—Bibles, stationery, office supplies, fountain pens, holiday cards and decorations, Christmas novelties, scrap-books, post card albums, kodaks, kodak albums, novelties and toys.

The MANUFACTURING DEPARTMENT prints anything from cards to books in any size lots from one hundred to one million. Machinery and equipment is the best that money can buy. Skilled artisans produce masterpieces of the printer's trade.

All Methodism should be proud of these achievements, because the Publishing House was founded and is controlled and owned by the Church.

But its past achievements are indicative only in a small way of what it might accomplish if every Methodist in the South gave it their undivided support.

ANTICIPATE YOUR CHRISTMAS NEEDS

Watch the columns of this paper for Christmas opportunities offered you in the advertisements of this House. Or, better still, write us your needs—we will be glad to offer suggestions.

PUBLISHING HOUSE REPRESENTATIVES WILL ATTEND YOUR CONFERENCE

Publishing House M. E. Church, South
LAMAR & BARTON, Agents
Nashville, Tenn. Dallas, Tex. Richmond, Va.

ENCOURAGE YOUR YOUNG PREACHERS.

The following is a statement of some of the work which we have accomplished in Bethel Church, Crowder circuit, Sardis District, North Mississippi Conference, for which we feel profoundly grateful. Rev. M. H. Weed came to us two years ago, this being his first charge. He said he had only two sermons made; though, as he was full of energy and enthusiasm, he went to work making new ones and doing the varied work of a real pastor. We as a church stood by him in all of his undertakings. We have added more than 60 to our church roll; an Epworth League has been organized with thirty enrolled members, nearly all of whom have served on the devotional programs whenever called on; an interesting weekly prayer meeting service has been organized, and the work of our Sunday school has grown both in interest and attendance. Last but not least, Brother Weed has grown wonderfuliy in the ministry—his sermons are all big ones.

MISS SUSIE SIMS,
Sunday School Superintendent.

There are two ways in which to approach the creation of a decent, brotherly world-order. One is to manipulate industrial and political institutions so as to make outward conditions more just and peaceful. The other is to get into men's minds and hearts ideas and principles of life so that good-will may dominate men from within out. All Christians should help with the first method, but it never can be made to work without the second. And those ideas and principles which are desperately needed in men's lives to-day, if this world is going to be redeemed to decency and fraternity, are rightly associated with Jesus Christ. He is not only indispensabie bread for the individual. He is the bread of life for the world in all its relationships.—Fosdick.

MOTHER!

Your Child's Bowels Need "California Fig Syrup"

Hurry Mother! A teaspoonful of "California Fig Syrup" now will thoroughly clean the little bowels and in a few hours you have a well, playful child again. Even a cross, feverish, constipated child loves its "fruity" taste, and mothers can rest easy because it never fails to work all the sour bile and poisons right out of the stomach and bowels without griping or upsetting the child.

Tell your druggist you want only the genuine "California Fig Syrup" which has directions for babies and children of all ages printed on bottle. Mother, you must say "California." Refuse any imitation.—Adv.

QUARTERLY CONFERENCES.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

Jackson Dist.—Fourth Round.

Bentonia, Nov. 12, 11 a.m.-2 p.m.
Satartia, at Satartia, Nov. 12, 7:30 p.m.-13, 10 a.m.
Eden, Nov. 18, 11 a.m.
Yazoo City, Nov. 19, 11 a.m.-2 p.m.
Flora, Nov. 19, 5:30-7:30 p.m.
Monterey, Nov. 25-26, 11 a.m.
Brandon, Nov. 26, 3 p.m.-7:30 p.m.

Let the preachers and laymen put forth every effort, not only to answer the questions of the fourth quarterly conference, but to have full reports. We have had great revivals in all of the charges during the year. "Then let us render unto the Lord thanksgiving for His goodness."

M. L. BURTON, P. E.

Brookhaven Dist.—Fourth Round.

Pleasant Grove ct., at Tilton, Nov. 11, 12.
Brookhaven, Nov. 12, 13.
Scotland ct., at Bethel, Nov. 15.
Osyka ct., at Osyka, Nov. 18, 19.
McComb, La Branch st., Nov. 19, 20.
Barlow ct., at Brandywine, Nov. 25, 26.
Georgetown ct., at Georgetown, Nov. 26.

H. M. ELLIS, P. E.

Hattiesburg Dist.—Fourth Round.

Silver Creek, at New Hebron, Oct. 12.
Lucedale, Nov. 15, 7 p.m.
Lucedale ct., at Merrill, Oct. 16, 11 a.m.
Leakesville, at Winburn Chapel, Nov. 15, 11 a.m.
Hattiesburg, Main St., Nov. 26, 11 a.m.
Sumrail, Nov. 26, 27, 7 p.m.

Pastors, please see to it that your Board of Trustees and your Woman's Missionary Societies have full written reports. W. W. GRAVES, P. E.

Meridian Dist.—Fourth Round.

Daleville, Nov. 11, 12.
Lauderdale, p.m., Nov. 12.
Matherville, at Langsdale, Nov. 17.
Waynesboro ct., at Hebron, Nov. 18, 19.
Waynesboro, p.m., Nov. 19.
DeSoto, Nov. 25, 26.
Shubuta, p.m., Nov. 26.

PAUL D. HARDIN, P. E.

Seashore Dist.—Fourth Round.

Logtown, 11 a.m., Nov. 12.
Bay St. Louis, 7:30 p.m., Nov. 12.
Gulfport, Q. C., Tues., 7:30 p.m. Nov. 14.
Pascagoula, Wed., 7:30 p.m., Nov. 15.
Biloxi, Tues., 7:30 p.m., Nov. 21.
Brooklyn, Wed., 7:30 p.m., Nov. 22.
Wesley Memorial, Nov. 26.

Let the pastors see to it that the trustees have their reports; and let the stewards please collect the pastors' salaries. If the pastors are diligent and the stewards faithful, the district will make a full report at Conference. Let us pray and work together. W. M. SULLIVAN, P. E.

CHRISTMAS

Cards Gifts
Folders Decorations
Order Early
Write for Catalog
DAMERON-PIERSON CO., LIMITED
Social Engravers
New Orleans

Vicksburg Dist.—Fourth Round.

Mayersville, 11 a.m., Nov. 19.
Anguilla, 7 p.m., Nov. 19.
Louise and Holly Bluff, at Louise, 11 a.m., Nov. 26.
Silver City, at ———, 7 p.m., Nov. 26.

J. R. JONES, P. E.

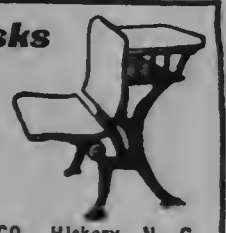
Newton Dist.—Fourth Round.

Laurel, Kingston, Nov. 11, 7 p.m., 12, 7 p.m.
Laurel, West End, Nov. 12, 11 a.m., 2:30 p.m.
Newton, at Newton, Nov. 15.
Chunky, at Suqualena, Nov. 18, 19.
Decatur and Hickory, at Hickory, Nov. 25, 26.

The trustees of church property will please make accurate reports in answer to the disciplinary questions. Reports from Woman Missionary Societies are expected.

J. A. MOORE, P. E.

School Desks



Opera Chairs,
Folding Chairs,
Kindergarten Chairs,
School Supplies,
Blackboards.

SOUTHERN DESK CO., Hickory, N. C.

You Need a Summer Home

AT THE

Western Methodist Assembly

Established by Twelve Methodist Conferences of Missouri, Oklahoma, Texas, Louisiana, and Arkansas.

LOCATED AT FAYETTEVILLE, ARK., IN THE OZARKS, ON MT. SEQUOYAH, AT AN ELEVATION OF 1722 FEET, ITS CONSTITUENCY OF 700,000 METHODISTS WILL MAKE IT THE Greatest Summer Assembly in the Mississippi Valley.

The Climate is Ideal, the Scenic Beauty Charming, the Surrounding Country Famous for Fruit, Poultry, and All Farm Products. The University of Arkansas, in a Community of Substantial Citizens and Rare Culture, Offers Attractive Summer Courses.

TO SECURE THE ASSEMBLY

Fayetteville Donated 400 Acres of Valuable Land, $35,000 in Cash, a Road, and Water, Light, and Sewer Connections.

The Assembly is to be Open Every Summer,

And Will Offer Rare Recreational and Educational Advantages in a Genuine Religious Atmosphere.

Attractive Courses in Missions. Sunday School and Epworth League Methods, and Concerts and Lectures will be offered. There will be Unusual Facilities for Golf, Tennis, Boating, Bathing, and Fishing. A lake will be made, and the Assembbly has one-quarter-mile of clear, swift-flowing White River.

150 Beautiful and Convenient Lots are Offered to Onr People, 150.

They are near the city and around the Assembly. They will have connection with water, light, sewer, and All Front on Picturesque Drives.

December 8, Lots Will be Sold on Favorable Terms. Note the Date—December 8.

All who expect to buy should arrange to buy at that time, as the number of lots is limited. No agents will be employed. No commissions will be paid. All proceeds of sales will be used to make the Assembly Greater.

Literature describing the Situation and showing Location and Prices may be had by writing to Rev. A. C. Millar, President of Trustees, 221 E. Capitol Ave., Little Rock, Arkansas.

WRITE NOW. DO NOT DELAY. THIS IS A RARE OPPORTUNITY TO BECOME ASSOCIATED WITH A GREAT INSTITUTION.

Woman's Missionary Society

All communications for this Department should be sent to Mrs. J. G. Snelling, 1431 Octavia St., New Orleans, La.

NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE

Report of the Tupelo Auxiliary of Woman's Missionary Society (Read at the Fourth Quarterly Conference).

We have nine circles, with an active membership of 166. We have a general meeting at the church the first Monday afternoon in each month, with a short program, and a business meeting, as well as our devotional service. Then each circle works as a separate unit during the remainder of each month, holding their weekly meetings with their respective leaders in charge. At these circle meetings, interesting educational programs are given, which are, of course, missionary in character. These circles are all doing excellent local work. They visit the sick and sorrowing, keep in touch with new members of the church, look after the needy and unfortunate, and help to clean the church, and put flowers in the church on Sundays. One circle meets at the Hospital every month and makes and mends the linen that is used there. One circle sends flowers to the hospital, and one supplies a country neighborhood with good literature to be passed from family to family. The sum of $137.95 has been expended for the needy of our town. Two Sunday school rooms have been redecorated and made fresh and attractive by circles. One circle clothes an orphan in the Home at Jackson.

We had a booth at the Fair, on which we realized $392 to be used on our parsonage. We have paid $18 to one rural worker. We are paying $700 for Missions, and have paid $188.90 for local work.

In this year of organization we have made only a forward step. There are wonderful possibilities in the circle plan, and we hope to do much better next year.

Total for Missions and local work raised during 1922, $1436.85.

Respectfully submitted,
MRS. L. B. WORLEY, Sec.

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.

Third Quarter—A Word To The Auxiliaries.

Listen to what your district secretaries say and see if you can help or hinder them in their efforts to make good reports.

Mrs. H. G. Owen, of the Alexandria District, starts out by saying: "I am sorry to send my report in so incomplete, but hope I can have a report from every auxiliary next quarter." Can she? Thirteen out of twenty-eight auxiliaries did not report. Two new auxiliaries were organized during the quarter.

Mrs. R. E. Stearns, of the Baton Rouge District, says: "I am sending my report a little later this quarter than usual, as I wanted to give my people just as much time as I could, hoping to get reports from all, and I believe this is the fullest report I have ever sent you." Only two auxiliaries out of twenty did not report. One new Junior Division was organized.

Mrs. G. W. Hatch, of the French Mission District, made no comment, but sent reports from four out of five auxiliaries in her district.

Mrs. Joe Wynn, of Lake Charles District, writes: "I am sending my report, but you don't known how disappointed I am not to be able to include Franklin. I am sure something must have happened to it." Something did happen and, if the Secretary will pardon me, I'll tell you what it was, but don't you tell anybody—she sent her report to me instead of to her district secretary. It reached me in time, however, to be included in the report, so that every one of the 29 auxiliaries in the Lake Charles District reported for the third quarter, with one new auxiliary organized. How is that for a new secretary? Ask Mrs. Wynn to tell you of her plan for the Juniors and try it yourself.

Mrs. J. W. Dailey, of the Monroe-Ruston District: "I did try so hard to have every auxiliary reported but three Adult, one Young People's and one Junior are all missing." Let the guilty parties come forth with an apology to these district secretaries and a promise to do better next time. That is only five out of thirty—two auxiliaries not reporting.

Mrs. J. F. Giles, of the Shreveport District, says that eight out of forty-one auxiliaries did not report this quarter and that very few of the Young People's auxiliaries report to her. She is threatening to do some visiting on her district during the fourth quarter; and if you don't want to see her, you had better let her hear from you.

Mrs. J. D. Rumph, of the New Orleans District, has fourteen out of thirty-one auxiliaries not reporting, eleven of which are Junior and Baby Divisions. What is the matter with the superintendents of these divisions? One of the two Young People's did not report.

There are many things in these reports for which to be thankful; yet there is a sad note running through, for some of the secretaries reported that auxiliaries had died and been dropped from the roll. We cannot afford to lose any of our Missionary children, so I hope the secretaries will see that they are nourished on the proper diet and get plenty of exercise.

Statistics.

Number adult auxiliaries 125, new adult auxiliaries 3, number adult auxiliaries dropped from the roll 7; number adult members 3894, new adult members 132; number Y. P. auxiliaries 15, new Y. P. auxiliaries 1; number Y. P. members 277, new members 7; number of Y. P. auxiliaries dropped from the roll 2; number Junior divisions 32, new Junior division 1; number Junior members 532, new Junior members 21, number Junior divisions dropped 3; number Baby divisions 14, number Baby members 79, new Baby members 4.

Subscribers to Missionary Voice 1040—a gain of 144. Subscribers to Y. C. W. 91—a gain of 44; number auxiliaries using Bulletin 125; number Mission Study classes 41; number members in Mission Study classes 1013; number Bible classes 24; number auxiliaries presenting stewardship 13; number Social Service committees 12; number boxes of supplies 15.

Amount paid on pledge $2300.22. Total amount sent Conference Treasurer, $4815.78.

Mrs. S. A. MONTGOMERY,
Cor. Secretary.

Summary of Third Quarter Report.

Alexandria—Dues, $338.05; Pledge, 178.68; Scarritt, $4; Total, $520.73.

Baton Rouge—Dues, $225.10; Pledge, $191.11; Scarritt, $4.20; Total, $420.41.

French Mission — Dues, $36.30; Pledge, $15.75; Total, $52.05.

Lake Charles—Dues, $254.81; Pledge $280.13; Scarritt, $1; School, $17.30; Total, $553.24.

Monroe-Ruston—Dues, $333; Pledge, $249.80; Scarritt, $1; Total, $583.80.

New Orleans — Dues, $229.71; Pledge, $267.63; School, $42; Total, $539.34.

Shreveport—Dues, $804.33; Pledge, $1117.13; Scarritt, $4.75; School, $210; Louisiana Room, $10; Total, $2146.21.

Grand Totals: Dues, $2221.30; Pledge, $2300.23; Scarritt, $14.95; School, $269.30; Louisiana Room, $10; $4815.78.

Besides this, we received $175 on Houma Scholarships sent by individuals, which amount cannot be included in any district report.

MRS. C. C. CARVER,
Conf. Treasurer.

Now, Now: Behold, now is the accepted time; behold, now is the day of salvation.—2 Corinthians 6:2.

CHAMBERLAIN'S TABLETS
-SOLD EVERYWHERE FOR-
CONSTIPATION
BILIOUSNESS
Headache
INDIGESTION
Stomach Trouble

Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic
Is an Excellent Tonic for Women and Children. 60c

Get a Good Night's Rest

Sleep is just as necessary to health as food. The ability to sleep depends on the condition of the nerves. Dr. Miles' Nervine insures a good night's rest. It will help any nervous condition from sleeplessness to epilepsy. Your money back if the first bottle fails to benefit you. You'll find Dr. Miles' Medicines in all druggists.

5,000 CHRISTIAN WORKERS WANTED

to sell Bibles, Testaments, good books and handsome velvet Scripture Mottoes. Good commission. Send for free catalogue and price list.
GEORGE W. NOBLE, Publisher
Dept. D., Monon Bldg., Chicago, Illinois

TETTERINE
ENDS COMPLEXION WORRIES.
Healing, Antiseptic, Soothing, Fragrant.
60c at your Druggist's, or from The SHUPTRINE CO., SAVANNAH, GA.

RECIPE FOR GRAY HAIR.

To half pint of water add 1 oz. Bay Rum, a small box of Barbo Compound, and 1-4 oz. of glycerine. Any druggist can put this up or you can mix it at home at very little cost. Apply to the hair twice a week until the desired shade is obtained. It will gradually darken streaked, faded or gray hair and make it soft and glossy. It will not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy and does not rub off.—Adv.

Aspirin

Say "Bayer" and Insist!

BAYER

Genuine

Unless you see the name "Bayer" on package or on tablets you are not getting the genuine Bayer product prescribed by physicians over twenty-two years and proved safe by millions for

Colds	Headache
Toothache	Lumbago
Earache	Rheumatism
Neuralgia	Pain, Pain

Accept "Bayer Tablets of Aspirin" only. Each unbroken package contains proper directions. Handy boxes of twelve tablets cost few cents. Druggists also sell bottles of 24 and 100. Aspirin is the trade mark of Bayer Manufacture of Monoaceticacidester of Salicylicacid.—Adv.

CHAMBERLAIN'S COUGH REMEDY
FOR THE RELIEF OF
Coughs, Colds, Croup
WHOOPING COUGH, HOARSENESS
BRONCHITIS
—SOLD EVERYWHERE—

BOHNE & WILT, Booksellers, and Statloners, 1328 Dryades St., New Orleans, La. Baseball Goods, Religious Articles, Fishing Tackle, Periodicals, School Books.

Skin Eruptions
Are Usually Due to Constipation
When you are constipated, not enough of Nature's lubricating liquid is produced in the bowel to keep the food waste soft and moving. Doctors prescribe Nujol because it acts like this natural lubricant and thus replaces it.

Nujol is a lubricant—not a medicine or laxative — so cannot gripe. Try it today.

Nujol
A LUBRICANT—NOT A LAXATIVE

WORN OUT AFTER SHE COOKED A MEAL

Took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound—Read the Result

Cincinnati, Ohio.—"I suffered for a year with nervous troubles and irregularities before I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. My back pained all the time and I was unfit for housework. I was worn out if I cooked a meal, and was unable to do my washing. My girl friends and my sister told me if I would take your Vegetable Compound and Liver Pills I would be relieved. After taking the first bottle I felt better, and neglected it awhile, but found I could not do my work until I was stronger. So I took the Vegetable Compound again and now I am the mother of a 19 months old boy. He is fat and healthy and I am sure I could never have carried him if it had not been for your Vegetable Compound. I recommend your medicine to all women although I am young to be advising some one older."—Mrs. CHRIST. PETROFF, 318 W. Liberty St., Cincinnati, Ohio.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound contains no harmful drugs and can be taken in safety by any woman.

SABBATH DESECRATION.

If we expect God's blessings upon our efforts to teach the young people to observe His laws and keep His day holy, we must set the example strictly, or our teaching will be in vain.

No engagements or occasions except sickness or death justify Christian leaders in buying railroad tickets and riding on Sunday trains. This one thing leads to buying Sunday papers, cigars, soft drinks, etc. Rather than travel on the train from one appointment to another on Sunday, it would be much better that one place had a week-day appointment. We can buy ice, bread, and everything we need for Sunday on Saturday if we take the trouble to plan to observe the Fourth Commandment. Oh, let us prayerfully consider these things. A S. S. TEACHER.

QUARTERLY CONFERENCES.

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.

Shreveport Dist.—Fourth Round.

Minden, Fri., Nov. 10, p.m.
First Church, Shreveport, Sun., Nov. 12, a.m. (preaching).
Mooringsport, Sun., Nov. 12, p.m.
Noel Memorial, Mon., Nov. 13, p.m. (conference).
Cedar Grove, Wed., Nov. 15, p.m.
First Church, Shreveport (conference), Fri., Nov. 17, p.m.
R. H. WYNN, P. E.

Baton Rouge Dist.—Fourth Round.

Franklinton et., Fisher, Nov. 12, a.m.
Franklinton, Nov. 12, p.m.
Baton Rouge, First Ch., Nov. 14, p.m.
Hammond, Nov. 15, p.m.
Dunham Springs, Dunham Springs, Nov. 19, a.m. J. W. LEE, P. E.

Monroe-Ruston Dist.—Fourth Round.

Slelly Island, at Slelly Island, Nov. 12, preaching, 11 a.m.
Lake Providence, Nov. 15, 8 p.m.
Monroe, Nov. 17, 8 p.m.
Bernlee, at Bernlee, Nov. 19, preaching, 11 a.m.
Ruston, Nov. 20, 8 p.m.
The Licensing Committee will meet at Monroe Sept. 19, 10 a.m.
K. W. DODSON, P. E.

Alexandria Dist.—Fourth Round.

Pleasant Hill et., at Pleasant Hill, Nov. 12.
Natchitoches, Nov. 16, p.m.
Rochelle and Standard, at Rochelle, Nov. 19.
Preachers in charge will please see that the trustees have reports in hand concerning church property. Pastors will also nominate only the number of stewards allowed by the law of the church. Brethren, arrange your nominations accordingly. The law will be enforced. W. L. DOSS, Jr., P. E.

Lake Charles Dist.—Fourth Round.

Sulphur, Nov. 12, a.m.
Lake Arthur, Nov. 12, p.m.
Merryville, Nov. 19, a.m.
Ludington, Nov. 19, p.m.
J. B. WILLIAMS, P. E.

New Orleans Dist.—Fourth Round.

Algiers, Nov. 9, 7:30 p.m.
McDonoghville, Nov. 10, 7:30 p.m.
Epworth, Nov. 13, 7:30 p.m.
Felicity, Nov. 14, 7:30 p.m.
First Church, Nov. 15, 7:30 p.m.
Carrollton Avenue, Nov. 16, 7:30 p.m.
Rayne Memorial, Nov. 17, 7:30 p.m.
Parker Memorial, Nov. 19, 7:30 p.m.
Pastors will please endeavor to have reports from each department of the work. Please do not fail to have the president of the Board of Trustees to answer Question 15.
J. G. SNELLING, P. E.

CANCER HOSPITAL. Intra-venous treatment for cancer. Operation. Radium and X-Ray unnecessary. Booklet giving full information upon request. Box 2127, ATLANTA, GA.

WINTERSMITH'S CHILL TONIC SOLD 50 YEARS
If not sold by your druggist, write Wintersmith Chemical Co., Louisville, Ky.

This is the time when you must positively use care in selecting foods—when you must use care in selecting articles of food, to be sure that you get the real food values that help build up good health.

You must have the vital elements in foods if you want to keep well. These vital elements cause the food you eat to assimilate—it means health and growth in children—also in grown-ups. It means replacement of worn out tissue, the building of lost bodily vigor. In fact, it is absolutely necessary to life itself.

Many food authorities agree that pure baking powder and good plain flour are much better for food value and health than many self-rising flours.

For the best of health—for the most economical results—use only plain flour and good baking powder.

YOU, AS A GOOD HOUSEWIFE know that the time to add anything to flour is just before you begin your baking, not months before and you also know that no prepared mixtures such as the self-rising flour can be as fresh—can be as certain in results—as the good old fashioned straight flour and pure baking powder.

For best results use—
Calumet Baking Powder and a good plain flour.

FROM POPLARVILLE, MISS.

As a result of the revival meeting which is being conducted at the Methodist church by the Texas general evangelists, Dr. Mark N. Terrell, of Sherman, and Victor W. Harrison, of Greenville, Poplarville is experiencing the greatest spiritual awakening in its entire history. The revival is under the auspices of the Methodists with Rev. A. M. Broadfoot as pastor, yet all denominations are heartily cooperating. Poplarville, being surrounded by large sawmills, affords a great field for Christian workers. The good people of the town had become alarmed at the moral conditions that existed. The devil was dominating in all his heinousness, men's souls were shriveling in that seething rush for the dollar and pleasure. The good pastors of the town, whose hearts were bleeding because of the sins which they were hardly able to combat with, gave a welcoming hand to the evangelists when they came. On their arrival, the evangelists were met on every hand by such expressions as: "This is the hardest town to reach religiously I ever saw;" "You surely are going to have a hard fight in Poplarville;" "The hold sin has on this town is tragical," etc.

The revival campaign began, with but few attending the first services, when lo! the power of the old-time gospel so ably brought by Dr. Terrell in his forceful sermons of tender and appealing massages, has reached, not only the citizens of the town, but also to the sawmills and neighboring towns. People are coming from fifteen to twenty-five miles. The church will barely accommodate all who attend. The soul-thrilling messages, direct from God, are electrifying all who hear them, reminding us that "God is still on His throne" and is victorious in Poplarville, for it is very evident that the devil is in retreat.

Mr. Harrison, an experienced choir director, is showing a marked degree of generalship in conducting the music; verily, the power of God is being felt through the messages in song; besides this, he is a most effectlve personal worker.

Although the meeting—at this writing—is still in its infancy, all the churches have been greatly revived, and many souls are being born into the Kingdom of God in each service. So far, fifty-one souls are caused to rejoice because of acceptance of Christ, and many sinful hearts are being torn asunder by deep conviction of their sins. REPORTER.

A UNIQUE SERVICE AT COLUMBIA, MISS.

Dear Brother Carley: I am sending you herewith a clipping from our local newspaper, "The Columbian," of October 19, concerning the Wednesday evening prayer services which are conducted by the laymen of our church. During the month of October the average attendance on these services was 87; we expect, however, this to be small as compared with the November average, from the fact that we had 197 present to start the month off with last evening. The service last evening was rather unique, in that George Ben Lampton, the youngest member of the board of stewards, and Dr. W. F. Ferrill, the oldest living member of our church, conducted the services; Dr. Ferrill was the first Sunday school superintendent here in Columbia, away back when the world was young and pupils few; Mr. W. E. Lampton, who was recently elected superintendent of our Sunday school for the thirty-seventh time, is the father of George Ben Lampton and was pupil in the Sunday school when Dr. Ferrill was superintendent.

I am sending you this information, believing it will interest you fully as much as the readers of the New Orleans Christian Advocate.

W. E. BARNES, Lay Leader.
November 2.

We little dream of the conflict
Fought in each human soul,
And earth knows not of the heroes
Upon God's honor roll.
—Eben E. Rexford.

I Shall Not Want: The Lord is my shepherd; I shall not want. * * * Surely goodness and mercy shall follow me all the days of my life: and I will dwell in the house of the Lord for ever.—Psalm 23:1, 6.

BROTHER:—I would like to correspond with all who want to overcome tobacco habit easily, inexpensively and without medicine. Just send address.
D. D. Stokes, Mohawk, Florida.

Antiseptic Mul-en-ol

Favorite for forty years.
Old friends can be trusted.
Stomach pains and nausea quickly relieved.
Also fine application for cuts and burns.
15, 30, 60 cts. Sizes
FINLAY, DICKS & CO., INC.,
NEW ORLEANS.

If your blood is thin, pale or watery, you should try this like the iron in your blood and like the iron in spinach, lentils and apples. This remarkable discovery of science often increases the strength and energy of anaemic, nervous, weak, run-down people 100% in two short weeks.

Newer Form of Iron

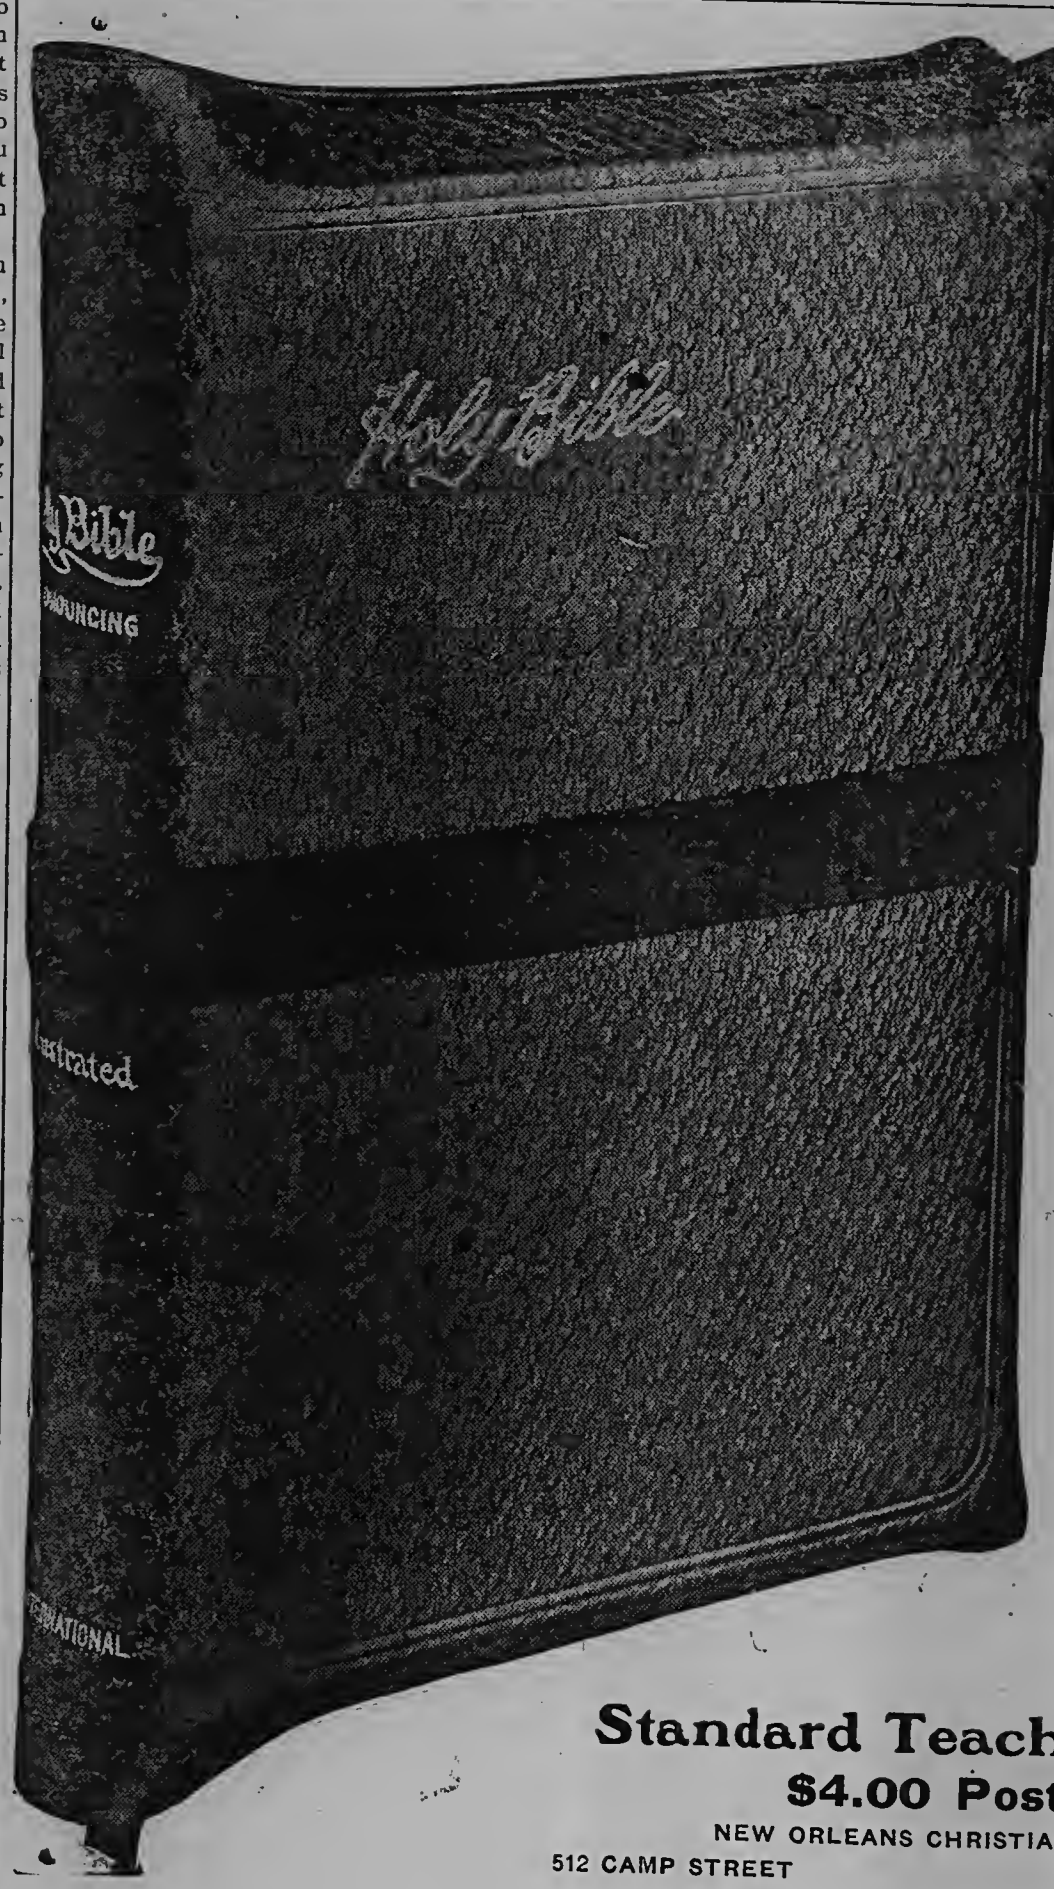
It is the iron in your blood that takes up oxygen from your lungs. It is this oxygenated iron that enables you to get the good out of your food. Without iron nothing you eat does you any good and you may be literally starving on three big meals a day. This newer form of iron, known as Nuxated Iron, is easily assimilated by your blood, and when your blood is rich in iron it has the power to extract tremendous force and energy from your food. Nuxated Iron is sold by all druggists with a guarantee of satisfaction or money back.



Standard Teachers' Bible

FLEXIBLE
LEATHER BINDING
5½ x 8½ inches
SELF-PRONOUNCING
EDITION WITH
Concordance

Beautifully Bound with overlapping cover, red under gold edges; 16 colored maps of BIBLE Lands.

LARGE CLEAR PRINT

This is a handsome book and is sold at a very reasonable price.

Price, $4.00
POSTPAID

SEND ORDERS
TO
NEW ORLEANS
CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE

Standard Teachers' Bible
$4.00 Postpaid
NEW ORLEANS CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE
512 CAMP STREET NEW ORLEANS, LA.

NEW ORLEANS

CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE

Vol. 69—No. 46. Official Organ of the Louisiana, Mississippi, and North Mississippi Conferences, Methodist Episcopal Church, South. Whole No. 3484.

HENRY T. CARLEY, Editor. NEW ORLEANS, LA., THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 16, 1922. CHAS. O. CHALMERS, Manager.

PROCEEDINGS OF THE NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

FIFTY-THIRD SESSION HELD AT WATER VALLEY, MISS., NOV. 8-12, 1922.

(Reported by Rev. H. P. Lewis)

November 8, First Day.

The fifty-third session of the North Mississippi Conference opened at 9 a.m., with Bishop William N. Ainsworth in the chair. He announced and read the great Conference Hymn of Charles Wesley, No. 560, "And are we yet alive, and see each other's face?" Rev. R. P. Neblett, the efficient "tune hister" of the Conference, raised the tune, and all the brethren present joined in singing that grand old hymn. Following this, the Bishop led in prayer. The Bishop then read a lesson from 1 Corinthians, second and third chapters, and also some selections from Wesley in his instructions to preachers.

In accord with the standing rule of the Conference, it was opened with the administration of the Lord's Supper, the Bishop calling to his assistance the four superannuated brethren present, Revs. A. W. Langley, J. W. Bell, R. P. Patterson, and D. W. Wendel, and also Revs. J. A. Randolph and J. T. Lewis.

Proceeding with the organization of the Conference, J. R. Countiss, Secretary of the last Conference, called the roll. J. R. Countiss was elected secretary of this Conference. J. H. Stephens was named assistant secretary, and the following statistical secretaries were selected: W. J. Golding, W. B. Baker, W. I. White, S. H. Caffey, Jesse George, Guy Lord, Mark Guinn, and Clinton Floyd. The Conference bars were fixed, hours for meeting and adjournment settled on, and alternates present were seated Conference Committees.

The following Conference Committees were chosen:

Public Worship—R. A. Tucker, L. P. Wasson, M. E. Scott, S. N. Berryhill.

Spiritual Interests—W. M. McIntosh, R. I. Collins, P. W. Shell, J. A. Biffle, J. H. McKinnon, W. A. Wilson, W. R. Goudelock, F. W. Bullock, T. H. Mills, Mrs. F. C. Whitehead, W. F. Rogers, W. R. Burt, J. D. Wroten, Herbert Holmes.

Sabbath Observance—J. D. Simpson, W. L. Atkins, R. L. Ellis, J. A. Watson, W. G. Burks, Miss Corinne Rogers, Mrs. Jeff. Busby, S. F. Maynard, C. A. Northington, J. A. Goad, Mrs. R. C. Elmore, J. H. Ingram, W. N. Carter.

Orphanage—W. H. Mounger, J. O. Prude, R. S. Lawson, Mrs. T. J. Lee, S. A. Brown, J. W. Robison, D. T. Yates, R. G. Lord, Mrs. A. W. Stokes, R. C. Mayo, N. E. Willroy, J. M. Wyatt.

Conference Relations—J. A. Hall, J. H. Bell, B. P. Fullilove, W. S. Selman, W. W. Hartsfield, M. E. Scott, T. H. Porter.

District Conference Records—S. C. Yates, J. G. Johnson, M. L. Dickerson, M. A. Burns, D. A. Meek, W. R. Akin, A. R. Beasley, H. J. Allen, W. C. Beasley, R. W. Sharp, A. F. Moore, M. C. Dickson, D. R. McDougal.

Quadrennial Boards.

The members of the Quadrennial Boards were elected as follows:

Education—J. R. Countiss, E. H. Cunningham, S. C. Lindsey, T. H. Lipscomb, D. C. Hull, E. R. Smoot, J. A. Cunningham, E. Nash Broyles, Dr. T. M. Dye, W. D. Galceran, G. R. Stokeley, R. W. Sharp, N. G. Augustus, Herbert Holmes.

Missions—V. C. Curtis, J. A. Hall, C. A. Lamb. J. A. Randolph, Dr. N. D. Guerry, S. A. Brown, J. B. Sanders, C. P. Moss, T. J. Mathis, J. M. Forman, J. W. Ward, R. E. Wilbourn, J. D. Wroten, L. L. Minor.

Church Extension—W. W. Woollard, W. B. Baker, W. T. Reeves, T. E. Gregory, W. E. Stokes, W. W. Jones, W. T. Rogers, W. C. Carlisle, F. W. Bullock, J. T. Lockhart, R. L. Ward, L. G. Fant, A. C. McCorkle, N. E. Wilroy.

Epworth League—R. P. Neblett, E. E. McKeithen, L. E. Price, Seaman Rhea, J. H. McKinnon, H. P. Lewis, H. D. Stephens, J. A. George, L. A. French, W. D. Bennett, Mrs. G. C. Jones, S. N. Berryhill, J. M. Guinn, Hudson Kyle.

Sunday School—E. S. Lewis, J. T. McCafferty, J. H. Ledyard, S. H. Caffey, Mrs. R. L. Hood, Melville Johnson, R. M. Weaver, Waddy West, C. A. Parks, A. L. Marshall, J. E. Stevens, A. W. Milden, W. J. Wood, John W. Kyle

Commission on Budget—T. M. Bradley, Ward Allen, W. M. Langley, Percy Bell, W. N. Duncan, T. E. Pegram, Olin Ray, J. R. Brinson, W. L. Storment, Dr. R. C. Elmore.

American Bible Society—E. M. Shaw, R. I. Collins, W. A. Bowling, R. W. Evans, H. N. McKibben, J. H. Smith, A. S. Raper.

Lay Activities—D. H. Hall, W. L. Atkins, N. D. Guerry, J. G. Houston, S. D. Wall, J. M. Foreman, L. G. Fant, L. L. Minor.

Admission—W. M. Young, D. W. Babb, H. M. Young, J. J. Garner, R. O. Brown, J. T. Lewis, R. H. B. Gladney.

Finance—J. E. Cunningham, G. J Leftwich, T. M. Brownlee, W. T. Footvoye, J. L. Nabors, S. S. Finger, W. W. Mitchell, S. J. Owens, J. J. Brooks, W. T. Johnson, W. R. Lott, J. G. McGowen, W. S. Shipman, Warren Stewart.

Christian Literature—J. W. Dorman, A. A. Martin, C. K. Alexander, W. W. McGruder, J. H. Holder, Miss Corinne Rogers, C. M. Chapman, Mrs. J. M. Wyatt, C. L. Oakes, B. G. Hull, L. M. Lipscomb, D. H. Bishop, P. F. Luter, M. E. Merehead.

Temperance and Social Service—J. W. Raper, B. F. Bullard, R. H. Furr, A. L. Davenport, J. J. Gill, G. A. Baker, G. L. Jones, Del Longgrear, A. J. Simmons, E. B. Sharp, A. L. Marshall, W. M. Meek, T. L. Oakes, M. L. Childress.

Memoirs—L. A. McKeown, J. E. Cunningham, Guy Rey, C. W. Baley, W. M. Campbell, B. P. Jaco, N. G. Augustus.

Hospital Board—J. H. Sherard, W. H. Mounger, W. A. Boone, Carroll Varner, Mrs. T. J. Lee, E. R. Smoot, D. H. Hall, C. T. Floyd, W. N. Dodds, Dr. J. E. Coleman, L. P. Wasson, F. A. Howell, E. G. Mohler, T. T. O'Bryant.

Examining Committees.

Admission on Trial—J. E. Stephens, C. A. Parks, V. C. Curtis.

First Year—Olin Ray, L. P. Wasson, Melville Johnson.

Second Year—J. D. Wroten, W. W. Jones, J. T. Lockhart.

Third Year—E. H. Cunningham, P. F. Luter, J. W. Ward.

Fourth Year—T. M. Brownlee, T. H. Lipscomb, E. R. Smoot.

Various communications were properly assigned to the different Boards.

Under the call of Question 21, the names of the presiding elders were called and their characters passed. Following this, the names of the superannuates were called. Two, Thomas Cameron and John Ritchey, were reported to have died, and their names were referred to the Committee on Memoirs. The names of the rest were called, their characters passed and their names referred to the Committee on Conference Relations, excepting W. D. Wendel, whose character was passed, and he was retained on the active list. The superannuates present were called to the front seat, asked to make any remarks they liked to the brethren, and Brother J. W. Bell, A. W. Langley, R. P. Patterson and W. D. Wendel spoke feeling words of love and appreciation to the Conference. The Bishop in return addressed these brethren in tenderest words of appreciation for the service they had rendered the church—words that brought out deep emotions and many tears. Following this, led by the Bishop, the Conference sang, "I am bound for the promised land." And most of the members of the Conference pressed to the front and grasped the hands of these old veterans of the Cross.

The following visiting brethren were introduced to the Conference: R. P. Wilson and J. A. Baskerville of the Publishing House, C. O. Chalmers of the New Orleans Advocate, Prof. J. A. Bowen of Millsaps College and Brother R. G. Moore of the China Conference.

The Bishop here announced a new order for our daily program, that the last half-hour of each morning session should be devoted to devotional exercises; so, after announcements, the Bishop gave a great address on the Atonement, and at its close pronounced the benediction.

The afternoon of the first day was devoted to committee meetings and the preparation of reports from the presiding elders and examining committees. At the evening hour, Rev. E. R. Smoot, of Corinth, preached from Rom. 12:1, 2.

THURSDAY, SECOND DAY.

The Conference convened at 8:45 a.m. Bishop Ainsworth announced and the Conference sang hymn No. 349, "Savior, Thy dying love Thou gavest me." Rev. W. M. McIntosh, general evangelist, led the Conference in prayer. The Bishop read as a Scripture lesson John 10th chapter.

Secretary Countiss read the minutes of the first day, which, on being corrected, were approved. The roll of absentees from the first day's session was called, and some alternates were seated.

Rev. J. H. Holder announced to the Conference the serious illness of Brother R. M. Evans, and expressions of sympathy were wired him and family.

The Bishop called Question 1: "Who are admitted on trial?" William L. Atkins, Robert E. Woodfin and Chester M. Ray, all having met entrance requirements, were received on trial. The Bishop called these applicants to the chancel, and in appropriate and impressive words welcomed them into the Conference.

The class of the first year was called. C. W. Avery, J. R. Murff, R. C. Nanney and T. B. Thomas, having passed examination on the required studies, had their characters passed, and they were advanced to the class of the second year. G. W. Robertson and G. C. Gregory had their characters passed, but remained in the class of the first year.

(Continued on Fourth Page)

New Orleans Christian Advocate

OFFICE, No. 512 CAMP STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

Published every Thursday by the Publishing Committee for the Louisiana, Mississippi, and North Mississippi Conferences, Methodist Episcopal Church, South.

Entered at the Postoffice at New Orleans as Second-class Mail Matter. Accepted for mailing at special rate of postage provided for in Section 1103, Act of Oct. 3, 1917, authorized Oct. 30, 1918.

TERMS:

Subscription Rates: One year, $2.00; six months, $1.
To superannuates and widows of preachers, $1.

TO CONTRIBUTORS.

All copy submitted for publication should be legibly written on one side of the paper with pen and ink, or typewritten. Matters written with a lead pencil and rolled manuscripts are unacceptable. No copy will be returned unless postage is enclosed for that purpose. In no case will responsibility be assumed for the loss or non-return of articles—the writers should keep copies of them. We do not purchase matter of any kind.

TO DO THY WILL.

Poor sad Humanity
Through all the dust and heat turns back with bleeding feet
By the weary road it came,
Unto the simple thought, by the Great
Master taught,
"Not he that repeateth the Name,
But he that doeth the Will."

—Longfellow.

REGENERATION, NOT RECONSTRUCTION, REQUIRED.

By Bishop Warren A. Candler.

Europe has barely escaped the re-kindling of the awful conflagration of the World War. Perhaps war has been postponed only and not really averted.

The recent contentions and controversies concerning the Near East, which were brought to a sharp issue by the overwhelming victory of the Turkish Nationalist Army under the command of Kemal Pasha over the Greek Army, reveal the fact that the Continent is a cauldron of seething selfishness. All professions of high ideals and unselfish purposes are seen to be the merest pretenses, or at best, the transient impulses of righteousness, which were manifested at the close of the World War, have departed from the hearts of the European nations, and the old ambitions have taken their place as diabolic spirits returned to the house swept and garnished for their occupation. From the largest to the smallest powers, all seem actuated by motives of self-interest alone. Considerations of the rights of one another, or the welfare of mankind have no place in their thoughts and policies.

Great Britain, which since the time of the Crimean War has supported the pretensions of Turkey in Europe, reversed this policy, and Mr. Lloyd George incited the Greeks to the war with the Turks, which has turned out so disastrously. In May, 1919, he encouraged Greece to land troops at the historic city of Smyrna, the Greek forces reaching this chief sea-port of Asia Minor on May 19, 1919, and on their arrival falling upon and slaying many Turks in a bloody massacre. The Greek army then marched from Smyrna into the interior on a campaign of conquest, which aroused the Turkish Nationalists to fierce resistance under the leadership of Mustapha Kemal Pasha, and in the conflict the Greek army has met a staggering defeat and the Greek nation has received a wound almost mortal. In the battle of diplomacy which has followed this conflict of arms, the British Premier has come off second best and the British nation has suffered a degree of humiliation.

Why did Mr. Lloyd George reverse the traditional policy of Great Britain with reference to the Turk in Europe? Not from any lofty motives of righteousness, but because he conceived that changed conditions made it no longer a profitable policy.

With equal inconsistency and from similar motives, the controlling statesmen of France and Italy reversed the traditional policies of their governments. Because of their support, the Turk is to recover all that he lost in the World War.

All the leaders of all these great Powers know perfectly well that Turkish rule in Europe should be put down and ended finally and forever. But this will not be done, and the atrocities of the Turk will go on as heretofore with the support of the great nations of England, France, Italy, and the rest as their selfish "interests may appear."

And all the smaller nations will behave in a like selfish manner. Bulgaria will not rest until an outlet upon the Aegean Sea has been secured. Greece will object to the aspirations of Bulgaria as well as oppose the ambitions of Turkey. All the Balkan States have special claims to assert, and their claims are mutually competitive, and charged with explosive contentions. As has been true for years, the Balkans are sulphur matches ready at any time to burst into flame and set all Europe afire.

Russia, under either Soviet or monarchial rule, will not cease to covet Constantinople and demand an outlet through the Black Sea and the Dardanelles. Germany, whether in prostration or in power, has interests affected by the issues in the Near East, and these interests will not be forgotten nor renounced.

Is any man too stupid to see that these conditions of seething selfishness will give rise to strife and wars? The outcomes of them are as inevitable as they are evil.

There would have been war before now if the statesmen of Europe had not been afraid of such a combat just at present. Fear, not pacific principles, restrained them.

Bleeding and impoverished Europe is war-weary, at this time. The people cannot bear the cost of war and will not endure the burdens it would impose and the wounds it would inflict. All this European statesmen know quite well, and, therefore, they confine themselves to games of bluff for the most part and study the fine art of arraying selfishness against selfishness.

But they would not hesitate to make war if conditions were different, and the nations over which they exercise authority would be equally bellicose if they were more prosperous and were a little further removed from the pains and griefs of the World War. Unless their hearts are changed, they will fight again not many years hence. With the amazingly productive devices of modern industry and commerce, a few years of peace will bring vast accummulations of material goods, and when these "sinews of war" have been restored bloody conflicts will follow.

And what a hideous thing the "next war" will be!

It is now known that when the armistice came in 1918 the American government was about to blow Berlin to atoms by the use of torpedoes released from aeroplanes. The coming of peace saved our nation from this monstrous disgrace and the German capital from this horrible destruction.

And let us be sure the Germans would soon have retaliated in kind upon Paris and London, and possibly upon New York and Washington.

Certainly in the "next war" even more fearful agents and destructive devices will be employed. Nor may we indulge the hope that these annihilating inventions will deter men from engaging in another war. Fear is not an adequate force to assure enduring peace. The burglar takes his life in his hands to obtain loot, trusting to his skill to "get the drop" on any who resist his felonious attacks, and slay them before they can kill him. The horrors of the late war have not restrained the Greeks and the Turks from a conflict of arms, and the self-confident selfishness of the larger nations will move them to take the most reckless risks to maintain their interests and extend their power.

What then shall we say about all our talk concerning a "war to end war" and our confident predictions of "a warless world," pacified by the mechanical methods of leagues and treaties!

The facts before us force us to see that whatever good these confederations and covenants may accomplish, and however great that good may be, they cannot assure mankind world-wide and permanent peace. The heart of the human race must be purged of selfishness before wars will cease to the ends of the earth. The Prince of Peace must reign over us, or the god of war will destroy us. We must choose between Christ and Mars, and that means we must have a regenerated world or a ruined world.

We have tried the vain experiment of a reconstructed world, which our mechanics of diplomacy assured us would be shown to be an imperishable "Peace Palace;" but already we have found to our consternation and sorrow that it is not "fireproof."

We must now turn to the Carpenter of Nazareth to erect a structure upon a foundation of inviolable righteousness, in which an affrighted and endangered race may find a refuge from war and enjoy the everlasting peace of God which passeth the understanding of all the princes of this world.

We must have soon a Christian world, or we shall have no world at all.

Drawing new territorial lines within which national selfishness may display itself in new forms and combinations cannot suffice. Making new maps of the earth will not delimit national antagonisms and avert national hostilities. A new mind in the people, not a new map of the world, is required to give tranquility to our war-torn planet.

THE GUIDANCE OF LIFE.

A Study of Newman's "Lead, Kindly Light."

By F. C. Hoggarth.

Few things are more worth while than to have written a great hymn. A great hymn has more power of life than most of the works of men. Hymns flourish while contemporary cathedrals decay. "I would rather have been the author of Charles Wesley's 'Jesus, Lover of My Soul' than have the fame of all the kings that ever sat on the earth," said Beecher. "There is more power and glory in 'Lead, Kindly Light' than in all the fighting anthems of the world," said Colonel Harvey on the eve of his departure to the Court of Saint James.

Newman ultimately went over to Romanism, yet, fortunately, our hymn books practice no excommunication. They are indeed a remarkable evidence to the deeper unities of faith. The spirit of praise soars above sects and names and creeds:

Moravian hymn and Roman chant
In one devotion blend,
To speak the soul's eternal want
Of Him, the inmost friend.

Some ninety years have passed since "Lead, Kindly Light" was written. In that time this little poem has become a recognized part of the world's hymnology. There can hardly be a church anywhere where it is not sung, or a Christian who does not love it. The hymn was the work of a young man. It is no swansong composed "in age and feebleness extreme." Though it has come to be used as a funeral hymn, its main problem is not of death, but of life. It is a prayer, and more than a prayer, at the parting of ways in the life of a youth.

The Background of a Great Hymn.

Newman at the time was a Fellow of Oriel College, Oxford. A book of his, Arians of the Fourth Century, had just been published. Its composition had left him greatly wearied. He went for a holiday in the Mediterranean, was attacked by a fever, and for a time was hardly expected to recover. He even gave instructions for the bestowal of his few possessions. Then came unexpected recovery, the joyous sense of returning strength bringing with it new eagerness of life.

It was after such an escape from the gate of death that Newman booked a passage home. The vessel was an orange boat, a sailing ship, which, instead of dutifully bringing him home, lay becalmed for twelve days. Under those exasperating circumstances other men would have found other relief. Newman found it in poetry. Writing verses was something of a hobby with him. It was a June day in the year 1833 on which he scribbled these three verses, little dreaming that they were to become the world's favorite hymn and give him undying memory in the hearts of men.

The hymn raises the whole problem of guidance—a frequent enough problem for youth. "Oh, for a light from on high!" wrote Gladstone as a young undergraduate of twenty-one. "I have no power, none, to discern the right path for myself."

Newman had made the same discovery. He had imagined that a man might be his own shepherd, but the attempt had disillusioned him. The days as he saw them were evil. Strange new forces, full of threatening to the faith, were gathering power—forces of intellectualism and of democracy with which we have grown more familiar. Newman was impressed by the need of some new champion of the Christian faith. He believed God had a real work for him to do, for which he felt his life had been spared. Yet where his path lay he knew not. He sincerely desired that it might be revealed to him. Hence his prayer to the Kindly Light.

Beneath Italian Skies.

Written on a June day beneath Italian skies, the color tone of the opening lines is a marked contrast to the background of Nature. The very brightness of the sky seems at times to mock the darkness of our mood. On that June day, Newman, with pruned and chosen words, writes of gloom and of night. There was something of mood in it. For the mystery and the burthen weigh at times very heavily upon us—and not least in the days of our youth. When for the first time we face some of the great experiences of life and of death, we almost feel the darkness. Yet the hymn is not melancholy and sentimental. The supreme factor is not the darkness, but the light—light which is kindly. In some ways life might be compared to those orchestras which play in the dark, where the conductor is unseen, yet a spark of electric light at the end of his baton indicates his will. The illustration need not be taken for more than it is worth. It is at least good news to know that a kindly light shines amid the gloom and that life need not lack loving guidance. Everything depends upon our willingness to be led. Newman has come to the moment of surrender. The hymn vibrates with courageous resolve. "Lead," he says, which implies his willingness to follow.

He had not thus prayed aforetime:

> I loved to choose and see my path, but now
> Lead Thou me on.

As he looks back he finds little comfort in his past. Yet he had not been accounted worldly. Nor had he wasted the years of his youth. His past had been industrious and brilliant. He was a youth of most outstanding promise. He had ever been pious. At sixteen there had been a real inner change of heart, described in his great Apologia. Yet that past, with its proprieties, its successes, yielded little satisfaction. It had been too low motived, too much dressed for show—"Pride ruled my will."

Of pride Ruskin once wrote that "often we do not know how inexpressibly subtle and penetrating the principle of pride is, how it mingles itself with and even pretends itself to be and takes the likeness of the noblest feelings in the world; and what a constant struggle it needs even to detect, much more to expel it. It is like oxygen in iron—the hottest fire will not expel it altogether and it steals in with the very air we breathe, turning all our steel into rust." From that past he turns aside with unspeakable relief—"Remember not past years."

Willing To Be Led.

He sought a more excellent way. He no longer desired to be the blundering architect of his own fortunes. He was prepared to be led. Yet as his thought turns toward the future, he finds in those past years just dismissed the ground for confident assurance. Memory becomes the handmaid of hope—"So long Thy power hath blessed me, sure it still. * * *" The outstanding fact of those years was the Divine goodness. God's hand had been upon him for good, not least when least suspected. How much, for instance, in the golden age of childhood suggests another light than that of earth! How often "the unknown Steersman" was at the helm and we knew it not. All the goodness and kindliness of life, all its manifold provisions and protections, all the surprises of the road are in that phrase "So long Thy power." As Zelie points out, even youth may appropriately exclaim, "So long." For long before we come to length of days, most of us have a long and manifold experience of the goodness of God. Newman believed that he could utterly trust that goodness and power, that it would be adequate for all life's varied weather—for uneventful days no less than for hurricane times, for "moor and fen" no less than for "crag and torrent." Whither the light leads he will follow, whether or not the days should be such as he would choose, assured that the way taken will lead on and out, that it will be a true thoroughfare leading toward the sunrise.

The meaning of the last two lines about "angel faces" in the dawn light is not very clear. In later days Newman, when asked concerning their meaning, confessed he did not quite know what his thought was at the time. Christian hope has put its own construction on the words. The road of life has not a few farewells. Of some we take leave in the evening, of others in the morning of their days. Part of the hymn's appeal has been that it set to music the desire for recognition and reunion in that heavenly dawn. The hymn has entered variously and richly into human life. It has itself been a kindly light to countless souls. It has been the chosen expression of men's deepest emotions under almost every circumstance in every part of the world. And not the least of these occasions was one of the most recent, when two hundred blind men, from all parts of England, sang this hymn beside the grave of Sir Arthur Pearson. There was not a tearless eye, we are told, in Hampstead Cemetery, as those sightless victims of the war sang as though they meant it, "The night is dark and I am far from home; lead Thou me on."

Truly it is a great thing to have written words that will thus continue to express the deepest emotions of the soul of man.—The Christian Advocate (N. Y.)

FOR BETTER PREACHING.

We think it was the Watchman-Examiner that recently published the report of a church which had advertised for a pastor and received something like ninety replies.

This would seem to contradict the statistics which show an unprecedented number of pastorless churches, but nevertheless, we think otherwise. Rather does it show that a large number of pastors are seeking a change.

And why are they seeking a change? Many would put the responsibility upon the people they serve, who are difficult to please, parsimonious, etc., and of course there are such things to be said. But recent circumstances have strengthened our conviction that the pastors themselves are frequently to blame because of poor judgment, tactlessness, absence of real interest in their work, and downright indolence.

Pastoral indolence is shown markedly in the poor preaching to which the people are often obliged to listen. We are not thinking of great oratory and culture, but such a practical and primary thing as clear enunciation, avoidance of disagreeable mannerisms, and thoughtful discourse. Dwelling particularly on the last, it is evident that many pastors give very little reading, to say nothing of study, to the Bible, or indeed to any other books that are even relatively worth while. They do not think half through their subjects, and are lacking in definiteness and intelligence of purpose and aim, so that without always being conscious of it, their people have no deep respect for or confidence in them as spiritual leaders.

These are plain words we know, but where they do not apply no offense will be taken, while in the other case we will risk the offense for the sake of the good they may accomplish.

If the criticisms were for the unavoidable, we would pass them over, but given a fair measure of brains and the common opportunities of education and training in these days, there is no excuse for some of the defects we have mentioned. Indeed, brains and effort are all that is needed, for where they are, the education and training will be acquired somehow.

Is not the cause of Christ, the welfare of the people, and for that matter, the betterment of your own prospects, worthy incentives, brethren? Why not turn over a new leaf and begin to exert yourselves this fall as never before?—Editorial in The Moody Bible Institute Monthly for November.

SAFETY SIGNALS.

By Rev. S. J. Davies.

When one writes a good book he bequeaths to posterity a heritage of lasting value. When a man becomes the medium of divine thought, divine purpose, and traces the ways of God through the entangled meshes of human history, and crystallizes this in form that others may share it, he becomes a real benefactor to the world. The best we may build in material structure will pass away. The teeth of time know no decay. But real, vital thought has in its innate being the pledge of immortality. It owns the succession of the ages, for it passes through the vista of years, untarnished, with the vigor of ever recurring youth. Deliver me from a commonplace book, or one that is a mere compilation of other men's thoughts by the man who framed the thing.

If a friend betrays us by proving false to a sacred trust, the wound is deep and its hurt lingers; so it is when one who holds the seat of the prince among men palms off on the literary world cold hash for the food of the gods. No honest man should do it and no guilty man should escape. Mind your steps, brother.

* * *

I have recently read a book by Charles Edward Jeffeson that should be read by all preachers. it is to me a book for the times. I hold no brief for advertising this little volume, yet I do not know of one that has given me so much satisfaction. The doctor says so well, in such forceful, impressive way, many, and more of the things I have been trying to say about preaching, that he struck a responsive chord in my soul that set all the arteries tingling. If I were a rich man, I would purchase "The Minister as a Prophet" by the hundreds and send one to every preacher of our patronizing Conferences. Those statements may seem dogmatic, but the truth is ever so, and if my judgment is born of conceit or egotism, I bear the blame willingly. Reading this book will settle many wavering ones as to their true relation to the kingdom, and put the needed note of authority, born of convincement, in his message. For, hear me, the pulpit is the throne of the King's ambassador who hears the credentials of heaven's court, and not the cave of winds, nor the desk of the dilettanti. I shall preach better for having read this book. Perchance my experience will be helpful to others.

Coushatta, La.

Man is God's Image: And God said, Let us make man in our image, after our likeness: and let them have dominion  over all the earth.  So God created man in his own image, in the image of God created he him; male and female created he them.—Genesis 1:26, 27.

PROCEEDINGS OF THE MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

(Continued From First Page)

The second year class was called, and R. G. A. Carlisle, G. D. Burk, W. O. Hunt and J. W. York, having passed examinations, were advanced to the class of the third year. N. D. Guerry, W. T. Phillips, O. A. Clark and L. H. Floyd had their characters passed and were retained in the class of the second year. G. D. Burk and W. O. Hunt were elected to deacon's orders.

The Bishop announced that W. A. Langley had transferred from the Alabama Conference in the class of the first year.

The class of the third year was called, and W. R. Liming, W. A. Wilson had their characters passed and were advanced to the fourth year class. R. L. Ellis, J. J. Henry, J. S. Maxey, and R. C. Mayo were passed in character, but retained in the class of the third year.

T. M. Browniee read the report of the Committee on Distribution appointed at a previous Conference, recommending that distribution of the benevolent collections be made to the districts on the basis of 75 per cent on preacher's salary and 25 per cent of membership. The report was adopted.

Jas. F. Owens was elected to local deacon's orders, and E. C. Driskell was elected to local elder's orders.

Under Question 8, "Who are re-admitted?" Jas. A. Wilson was re-admitted. Then Question 12 was called, "Who are withdrawn?" and it was announced that Jas. A. Wilson had withdrawn. Brother Wilson, who once was a member of this Conference, requested that this action be taken so he could become a member of the Rock River M. E. Conference, where he has been working for some years as a supply with his membership still in the M. E. Church, South.

R. O. Brown offered a resolution against increased assessments, which was referred to Committee on Finances.

The Bishop called for reports of the charges by districts, having previously had placed on the blackboard certain data of accessions on profession, per cent of pastor's salary and benevolences paid, amount of Centenary and Christian Education reported paid from each charge. He called names of the charges, having the presiding elders make reports. Then the characters of all pastors were passed, and they added such report as they deemed advisable. In this way reports were heard from all the charges of tho Sardis and Grenada Districts.

Question, "Where shall the next session of the Conference be held?" Greenville was selected.

Secretary Countiss read greetings sent by telegraph from three young ladies of this Conference who are now in training to be missionaries at Scarritt Bible and Training School. They are Misses Willie Weisinger, Ruby Barkley, and Ruth Kellogg. He was instructed to return the greetings.

The following visiting brethren were introduced: Dr. A. F. Watkins, Prof. Ferguson of Millsaps, Dr. H. T. Carley of the New Orleans Christian Advocate, Mr. A. L. Dietrich, Dr. Estes of the Memphis Conference, Brother Hollingsworth of the Mississippi Conference, Rev. B. F. Lewis, Manager of the Orphans' Home, Mrs. Riley of the Orphanage, and Rev. R. A. Clark of the Memphis Conference, but a former member of this Conference.

Conference Treasurer J. D. Turley made his report to the Conference.

Announcements were made and the second day's session was brought to a close by a devotional address given by the Bishop on Eph. 3:1-12. Brother W. D. Babb pronounced the benediction.

Afternoon.

The Sunday School Board held its anniversary at 3 p.m., when A. L. Dietrich addressed the Conference.

Evening.

At the evening hour, the anniversaries of the Boards of Education and Finance were held. Dr. R. H. Bennett was the speaker for the evening.

FRIDAY, THIRD DAY.

The session of the Conference opened at 8:45 a.m. Bishop Ainsworth announced hymn No. 492, "O for a closer walk with God." After the singing of this hymn, Dr. T. W. Lewis of the Memphis Conference led the Conference in prayer. The Bishop read as a Scripture lesson John 17. At this point Brother J. W. Dorman requested, in behalf of Brother J. H. Bell, that the Conference make special prayer in behalf of Brother Bell's afflicted child. The Bishop offered a most feeling and comprehensive prayer for the child and the family.

Secretary Countiss read the minutes of the previous session, which were approved.

A telegram of greetings was read from Mr. W. F. S. Tatum, mayor of Hattiesburg, Miss. The Secretary was requested to reply with suitable words of greeting in the name of the Conference.

Question 9 was called: "Who are received by transfer from other Conferences?" R. T. Hollingsworth, in the class of the first year, from the Mississippi Conference; C. L. Rogers, an elder, from the South Georgia Conference; B. F. Hammon, an elder, from the North Alabama Conference; W. A. Langley, in the class of the first year, from the North Georgia Conference; R. G. Moore, a deacon in the class of the third year, from the China Conference.

Question 13, "Who have transferred?" J. A. Poe, an elder, to the Louisville Conference.

Question 21 was resumed, and reports were heard from the Columbus and Greenwood Districts, the pastors giving such items of special interest not tabulated on the blackboard report. The characters of all the preachers were passed, and the name of H. E. Carter was referred to the Committee on Conference Relations for superannuation.

The class for the fourth year was called, and the following having finished the course, were elected to elder's orders: M. A. Burns, J. S. Duncan, J. A. George, N. J. Golding, C. L. Oakes, Seaman Rbea and S. C. Yates.

W. J. Wood, an elder, passed examination and finished the course. W. W. Bruner and A. F. Moore had their characters passed and were continued in the class of the fourth year.

The class of the first year was called, and R. T. Hollingsworth, a transfer from the Mississippi Conference, having passed the examination successfully, was advanced to the class of the second year.

The tabulated reports from the districts as placed on the blackboard showed the following progress in the districts:

Districts—	Accessions on Profession.	Total Paid Centenary.	Total Paid Education
Aberdeen	565	$ 62,472	$ 5,747
Sardis	296	34,084	5,179
Grenada	483	57,333	10,654
Columbus	472	40,588	4,925
Greenwood	582	40,960	5,880
Greenville	317	45,660	9,206
Corinth	772	57,203	17,473
Totals.....	3467	$338,300	$59,064

Rev. H. T. Carley, D.D., editor of our Conference organ, the New Orleans Christian Advocate, gave an account of himself and his work to the Conference. The Bishop added an exhortation to the remarks made by Brother Carley, stressing the importance of placing the Advocate in every home of the church. In promoting the interests of the Kingdom, he placed its importance next to the baptism of the Holy Spirit for service.

Rev. B. F. Lewis, Manager of the Orphans' Home, made report of his work, which was followed up by earnest words from Brother Herbert Holmes concerning the support of our Orphans' Home work.

Brother W. C. Childress, representing the Memorial Home in New Orleans, was introduced, and after B. P. Jaco read report No. 1 of the Mission Board, relative to the work of the Home, Brother Childress added some remarks about his work.

The following sisters, members of the Woman's Missionary Society, were introduced: Mrs. T. M. Clark, Miss Corinne Rogers, who is also a delegate to the Conference, and Mrs. G. C. Jones.

Our Conference Secretary of Education, Rev. J. H. Holder, submitted his report to the Conference. It showed the following:

Ninety-seven names of Full-time Volunteers have been enrolled for the Ministry and Mission service. Total amounts collected are as follows:

Cash and bonds sent in.....	$55,743.00
Stock on hand	5,000.00
Specials reported from Millsaps College.	12,455.00
Specials reported from Grenada College.	9,800.00
Recent gifts not charged against Institutions	2,500.00

Total to November 7, 1922, $80,490.

Following the reading of this report, Dr. R. H. Bennett and Bishop Ainsworth gave stirring addresses on the importance and necessity of the success of the Christian Education Movement.

Announcements were made and the Conference adjourned with the benediction by Brother W. W. Mitchell.

Evening.

The Mission Board held its anniversary at 7:30 p.m. When the Conference was organized 52 years ago, it had only two Boards, one of which was the Mission Board and the other the Joint Board of Finance. Then, the assessment made was 6 cents per member, while now, including the Centenary offerings, we are paying an average of $1.50 per member.

Dr. L. E. Todd, chairman of the General Board of Finance, was present and was given a place on the program for the evening, during which time he presented the great cause of the Superannuate Endowment Fund.

The main speaker for the evening was Dr. W. G. Cram, director general of the great Centenary Movement, who told about what some of the Centenary money is doing to help evangelize the world. He spoke particularly about the Mission work in Korea, where he for a number of years has been a missionary.

SATURDAY, FOURTH DAY.

Morning Session.

The Bishop announced Hymn No. 279, "Rock of Ages," which was sung, the Conference repeated in concert the 23d Psalm, and was led in prayer by Bishop W. B. Beauchamp.

The Secretary read the minutes of the third day, which were approved.

Question 17 was reopened, and B. H. Adams, a local preacher from the Greenville District, was elected to local deacon's orders. W. A. Langley, a local preacher for four years and in the traveling connection for one year, having met the requirements, was elected to local deacon's orders.

H. H. Ahrens, of the Publishing House, in charge of the distribution of our Church Literature, was introduced and addressed the Conference on matters pertaining to his work.

The Bishop called for reports from the Corinth District. These reports revealed that New Albany had paid its full quota to date on both Centenary and Christian Education—the only charge that has done so. It was brought out, however, that Tupelo had paid up to date in Centenary pledges, and Ripley was about up. Booneville Methodism, with the co-operation of a few from other denominations, purchased a tent during the year, and, besides having a great revival in Booneville, the laymen helped to finance two other great revivals in the rural sections that resulted in over 300 professions of conversion and reclamation. Ripley has organized the young members into a junior congregation of 52 members, with six stewards, all being trained in religious devotions and church activities. A parsonage valued at $16,000 has been built at First Church, Corinth. B. P. Fullilove at his own request had his name referred to the Committee on Conference Relations for the Superannuate Relation. All the preachers of this district were reported as being blameless in their lives and administration.

The Greenville District was called and reports were made. Besides the showing on the blackboard, the following inspiring facts were brought out: J. A. George, on Duncan and Hillbouse charge, has placed the Methodist Armor at his own expense in ever home on his work. His was the only charge that reported an excess on collections for pastor and the benevolences. E. S. Lewis, who has been pastor for five years at Greenville, reported more then 500 members added to the roll during that time and that the Big Brothers' Class was doing extension work in holding services where called upon in other charges and places. L. A. McKeown, our pastor at Merigold, having finished his third year, reported that not a woman of his church now belongs to a card club, and not a young lady of the church dances. He also had 15 laymen organized, who go out, organize and establish Sunday schools and give other assistance needed to advance the interests of the Kingdom. The characters of all the preachers in this district were passed.

The Bishop announced that the reports showed that 3443 had joined the church on profession during the year. He also appealed to the members of the Conference to make the two columns on the blackboard display representing pastor's salary and the benevolences show up 100 per cent paid another year. The Greenville District made the best showing of the charges paying up all assessments.

A resolution read by R. P. Nesbett, requesting that Brother J. W. Bell, who will have been for fifty years a member of this Conference, preach at the next session a semi-centenial sermon, was unanimously passed.

Question 11, "Who are located?" was called. W. V. Shearer, at his own request.

E. H. Mounger read the Hospital report, and, pending its adoption, L. H. Estes, of the Memphis Conference, spoke concerning our Methodist Hospital soon to be built in Memphis.

The class for admission into full connection was called to the front, composed of Guy Dean Burt, W. O. Hunt and J. W. York. The Bishop, after earnest words of exhortation and admonition, submitted the disciplinary questions to them; these being answered, the Conference voted unanimously to receive them into full connection.

The next order of the day, the Centenary Movement, was taken up. B. P. Jaco, the Conference secretary for the movement, reported that there had been about $80,000 collected on the pledges this year. Dr. W. G. Cram, present director general of the Centenary, was introduced and addressed the Conference. He said that this Conference still owes $300,000 on pledges that are now due and past due, and that in order to carry on the plans first laid out, at least $75,000 more would have to be realized on the past due pledges, or else embarrassment and disaster face the future plans of the church. A campaign some time in December will be put on to collect at least this amount.

Bishop W. B. Beauchamp, in charge of the episcopal district in Europe, delivered a thrilling address on "What the Centenary is Doing" in that ripe field.

Dr. L. E. Todd, Dr. Brown, rector of the Episcopal Church, Hon. G. W. Lowrey, congressman,

Rev. Mr. Allison, pastor of the Baptist Church, C. L. Rogers, a transfer from Georgia, and Brother Morelock, the new general secretary of the Laymen's Movement, were introduced to the Conference.

An afternoon session was called, and the Conference was adjourned till 2:30 p.m., with the benediction pronounced by Chaplain J. A. Randolph.

Afternoon Session.

The Conference convened in afternoon session at 2:30 p.m., with Rev. W. W. Woollard in the chair.

The Conference was favored with the presence of the members of the Glee Club of Grenada College under the direction of Miss Dexter, who favored the Conference with several beautiful songs. Brother Woollard read I Peter 1 for a lesson, and Brother W. D. Babb led the Conference in prayer.

Secretary Countiss read the minutes of the morning session, which were approved.

Bishop Ainsworth assumed the chair, and S. A. Brown read the report of the Orphans' Home Committee. J. H. Sherard addressed the Conference pending the report of the Committee. Upon recommendation of the Orphans' Home Committee, V. C. Curtiss, Mrs. T. M. Clark, and R. W. Sharp were elected to succeed themselves on the Board of Trustees.

The name of W. D. Wendel was referred to the Committee on Conference Relation for the superannuate relationship.

Mr. D. L. Morelock, the new General Secretary of Lay Activities, was introduced to the Conference and gave an address relative to the work of laymen in the church.

At this time, Bishop Ainsworth introduced a "Book Hour" into the Conference session, something new and refreshing. He called on three of the brethren who previously had prepared themselves by having examined the books, to give short reviews of what they considered the best book they had read during the year.

J. R. Countiss spoke of the Cole Lectures for 1921, "Foundations of Faith," by John Kelman. He also recommended Fosdick's "The Meaning of Faith," and Elwood's "Reconstruction of Religion." T. H. Lipscomb gave a short review of "The Minister As Shepherd," by Chas. E. Jefferson. J. H. Holder reviewed Bishop Ellicott's "Christus Comprobator," with introduction by Bishop Candler. The Bishop exhorted the ministers to habits of reading, stating that their growth and success are dependent upon it.

Reports were read from several of the Boards—Missions, Church Extension, Epworth League, Sunday School, Board of Finance—all of which were adopted. The Committee on Evangelism recommended the appointment of W. A. Wilson as Conference Evangelist and J. W. Robertson and W. M. Campbell as Conference Missionary Evangelists.

The Committee on Evangelism for the new quadrennium was named, composed of J. A. Randolph, J. A. Hall, J. D. Wroten, J. W. Ward, R. O. Brown.

W. N. Duncan read the report of the Committee on Finance, which showed the distribution of assessments to the districts as follows:

District—	Gen. Work.	Conf. Work.	Total
Aberdeen	$8,638	$8,792	$17,420
Columbus	8,398	8,558	16,956
Corinth	8,078	8,233	16,311
Greenville	9,235	9,410	18,645
Greenwood	8,407	8,566	16,973
Grenada	8,345	8,505	16,850
Sardis	7,024	7,136	14,160
Grand Total.....			$117,295

D. H. Hall was elected Lay Leader for the year.

Reports were read and adopted from the Bible Board, Committee on Lay Activities, and Committee on Conference Relations.

Our superannuates are: D. L. Cogdell, A. W. Langley, J. W. Bell, W. J. O'Bryant, E. Johnson, C. N. Terry, Jas. Porter, J. M. Huggin, J. W. Anderson, R. I. Allen, O. L. Savage, E. H. Rook, W. J. Burt, B. P. Patterson, W. D. Wendel, H. G. Roberts, B. P. Fullilove.

At his own request, Dr. R. A. Meek was granted a location. Dr. Meek has been a strong figure for over 30 years in this Conference, and the brethren thoroughly appreciate the service he has rendered, and voted him a standing vote of appreciation.

J. H. Felts read the following resolution, which was adopted:

"Whereas our cabinet work has been uniformly happy and helpful, not so much as a moment of even seeming irritation; and whereas consideration was shown not only the pastors and supplies, but their wives and children—no appointment being made without the spirit of prayer and brotherly love, the utmost fairness and mutual forbearance obtaining; and whereas we believe the fine brotherly spirit all the while manifest was provoked by the consecration, absolute fairness and utter freedom from personal bias on the part of our presiding officer, Bishop Ainsworth; therefore, be it

"Resolved, That we, the members of the cabinet, express our personal appreciation of his administration and our growing love for the man, and our purpose to co-operate with him in his plans to the fullest, and our faith in the coming of a new and happy day under his leadership."

The resolution was signed by all the presiding elders, and adopted by the Conference.

Before the benediction, the Conference was favored with another beautiful selection by the Grenada College Glee Club, to the delight of all the brethren.

Conference then adjourned to meet in evening session at 7:30 o'clock.

Evening Session.

Conference was called to order by the Bishop, who announced hymn No. 355, "Love Divine, all love excelling," which was sung, and Rev. L. H. Estes, of the Memphis Conference led in prayer.

Secretary Countiss read the report of the Board of Education, in which E. R. Smoot and J. H. Holder were recommended as members of the Methodist Education Association; J. H. Holder, Educational Secretary; J. R. Countiss, President of Grenada College; J. H. Stevenson, Director of Religious Education at Grenada College; J. T. Lewis, Trustee of Millsaps College; J. E. Cunningham, J. H. Felts, B. P. Jaco, E. M. Fant, D. H. Hall, Trustees of Grenada College.

The report of the Board of Christian Literature was read. J. H. Felts, T. H. Lipscomb and J. W. Dorman were named for the Publishing Committee. J. H. Felts spoke of plans for making the Advocate more interesting with reports from districts, and J. W. Dorman spoke concerning the work of the Christian Literature Committee.

In announcing the apportionment for the Conference Claimants, W. R. Lott reported that six of our claimants had died during the year: T. Cameron, J. Ritchey, Mrs. G. W. Brown, Mrs. M. H. Honnoll, Mrs. J. W. Honnoll, Mrs. W. G. Lester.

Reports were read and adopted from Committees on Spiritual State of the Church, by W. M. McIntosh; Sabbath Observance, by W. G. Baker, and on District Conference Records.

T. M. Browniee was made a trustee of the Hospital Board in place of Dr. R. A. Meek, who had located.

Dr. Watkins called the attention of the members of the Conference to the extension work being undertaken by Millsaps College in order to get the books of the college library circulated and read by the preachers.

Mr. Parham Williams exhorted in behalf of the meeting of the Methodist preachers of the State and leading laymen planned to be held in Jackson, Miss., January 16-17.

Mrs. Jones, recording secretary of the Woman's Missionary Society, made a short report of the work the Society is doing.

In making the statistical report, the following figures of the growth and development of the Conference were shown:

We have 7 Districts, 171 pastoral charges, 698 societies; we have licensed 17 to preach, have 79 local preachers, and 65,761 members; our pastors have baptized 526 infants and 2,629 adults; we have 93 Epworth Leagues with 3075 members. There are 484 Sunday schools, 4,206 officers and teachers, and 44,694 enrolled in Sunday school; we have 224 Woman's Missionary Societies with 6,205 members; 2 educational institutions with 33 instructors and 589 students. This property is valued at $835,500, and endowment amounts to $852,138. The charges of the Conference paid $7,343 for Education, $7,551 for Home and Conference Missions, $10,291 to Conference Claimants, $7343 to Superannuate Endowment Fund, and $77,281 through the Woman's Missionary Societies. Our presiding elders have been paid $28,655, and the pastors $240,164, making a grand total of above named items of $793,400. We have 539 churches, valued at $2,439,741; 8 district parsonages, valued at $63,500, 164 parsonages for pastors, valued at $515,497; we carry $926,830 insurance on this property.

Following are the organizations of the new Quadrennial Boards:

Epworth League—R. P. Neblett, President; H. P. Lewis, Secretary and Treasurer.

Missions—V. C. Curtis, President; S. A. Brown, Secretary; J. B. Sanders, Treasurer.

Sunday School—E. S. Lewis, President; C. A. Parks, Secretary; J. E. Stephens, Treasurer.

Finance—J. E. Cunningham, President; W. R. Lott, Secretary; W. W. Mitchell, Treasurer.

Education—E. N. Broyles, President; E. R. Smoot, Secretary; W. C. Galceran, Treasurer.

Bible Society—E. M. Shaw, President; A. S. Raper, Secretary; J. H. Smith, Treasurer.

J. T. McCafferty was appointed by the Bishop to preside over the session of the Memorial service that convenes at 3 p.m., Sunday.

Our Conference host, L. P. Wasson, announced the services for the Sabbath and the names of the preachers to fill the pulpits of the city, after which the Conference adjourned, but was delighted with several numbers by the Grenada College Glee Club. It was a delight to have these young women with us. Among them were nine young women with us. Among them were nine daughters of preachers of the Conference. They show in their faces the marks of culture and refinement that make us proud of our girls and the work our woman's college is doing for them.

SUNDAY, FIFTH DAY.

The Conference assembled in annual Love Feast at 9:30 a.m. Rev. D. W. Babb conducted the service. It is a benediction to look upon the face of Brother Babb and hear him talk. The Conference sang "Jesus, lover of my soul," Brother Babb read Psalms 121, and Brother W. W. Woollard led in prayer. Brothers E. P. Craddock, E. C. Sullivan, R. H. B. Gladney and W. M. Young served the bread and water, and during the more than an hour's time spent in testimony some thirty-five of the brethren and sisters testified to the love of God and the victories of the Way.

Some of the striking things noted in the service were the testimonies of Brother F. A. Howell, the oldest layman in attendance on the Conference, who was followed by Rev. J. J. Brooks, the oldest active member of the Conference. Brother Brooks has given 54 years of service to the church. His father was active in the ministry for fifty-two years, and he has a son who has served nine years. This one family has given 115 years of service to the church. Another beautiful scene was the testimony of J. R. Countiss, who, with his wife, has given 28 years to the church. She stood by his side as when they married, and said "Amen" to every word of his testimony.

Bishop Ainsworth preached at 11 a.m., from the text, "But who say ye that I am?" He showed that Christ holds the supreme place in the history of mankind.

I. He is supreme in his own consciousness. He made the most astounding claims for himself. He lifted himself above the Scriptures.

II. Jesus is supreme in character. Pilate said: "I find no fault in Him;" John the Baptist said, "Behold the Lamb of God;" Peter said, "He did no sin, neither was any guile found in his mouth;" Paul said, "Tempted in all points like as we are, yet without sin," while the best of saints mentioned in the Scriptures and church history decry their sinfulness.

III. Christ is supreme in the realms of achievement. He wrote no book, painted no picture, chiseled no monumens; but all but one of his disciples died for him. More would die for him today than for any other mortal. Millions are gathering to his standard. God has given him a name which is above every name.

You ask, "Who is he?" He has inspired the literature, poetry and statesmanship of the world. The best of philosophers, greatest of warriors, poets and statesmen, John and Paul pronounce him the Christ. The Bishop closed with quoting a verse of hymn No. 511, "I know Thee, Savior, who thou art."

Following the sermon, the Bishop ordained G. D. Burt, W. O. Hunt, J. F. Owen, W. A. Langley, and B. H. Adams into the office of deacon.

Memorial Service.

The Memorial Service was held at 3 p.m., Rev. J. T. McCafferty in the chair. After the preliminaries, Brother M. Johnson read the memoir of Rev. Thomas Cameron, and Rev. J. T. Lewis read the memoir of Rev. John Ritchey. Both these veterans were over 80 years of age when God called them home. Many of the brethren spoke in soft and gentle tones of their lives and service for God and man.

Evening Session.

Hymn 317, "More Love, O Christ, to Thee," was sung by the congregation, and J. H. Felts offered the prayer. Rev. E. S. Lewis read a lesson from the 19th chapter of Acts, and used as a text Col. 2:10, preaching the sermon of the evening. Following the sermon Bishop Ainsworth ordained to the office of elder the following: M. A. Burns, J. S. Duncan, J. A. George, N. G. Golding, C. L. Oakes, Seaman Rhea, S. C. Yates and E. C. Driskell.

After the ordination of elders, the Bishop called the Conference to order, and concluded the remaining routine work of the session.

E. N. Broyles read resolutions of thanks and appreciation, which were adopted by a rising vote.

Rev. Melville Johnson was elected treasurer for the Conference.

After the reading of the minutes, the Bishop unfolded something of the program and the plans set for the coming year. Special stress was laid upon the importance of the great conference to be held in Jackson, Miss., Jan. 16-17, a Conference on Home Missions and Evangelism. Every pastor in Mississippi and a thousand of the leading laymen of the State are expected to be there. Similar district conferences of the presiding elder and pastors are to be held in every district, to make constructive plans for evangelization in the district. After further remarks, the Bishop read the appointments, the doxology was sung, the benediction was pronounced, and the fifty-third session of the North Mississippi Conference adjourned sine die.

(See Eighth Page for Appointments)

THE POWER OF PRECEDENT.

By Payton A. Sowell.

Looking back over "three score years and ten," I cannot help being impressed with the power of "precedent."

This week, turning the leaves of a scrapbook, I found what I must have clipped and pasted many "moons" ago. It is a humorous poem by Sam Walter Foss. I send it with this caption:

THE CALF PATH

One day through the primeval wood
A calf walked home as good calves should,
But made a trail all bent askew,
A crooked trail, as all calves do.
Since then three hundred years have fled,
And I infer the calf is dead.

But still he left behind his trail,
And thereby hangs my moral tale.
The trail was taken up next day
By a lone dog that passed that way;
And then a wise bellwether sheep
Pursued the trail o'er vale and steep,
And drew the flock behind him, too,
As good bellwethers always do.
And from that day o'er hill and glade
Through those old woods a path was made.

And many more wound in and out,
And dodged and turned and bent about
Aud uttered words of righteous wrath
Because it was such a crooked path:
But still they followed—do not laugh—
The first migrations of that calf,
And through this winding wood way stalked,
Because he wobbled when he walked.

This forest path became a lane,
That bent and turned and turned again;
This crooked lane became a road,
Where many a poor horse with his load
Toiled on beneath the burning sun,
And traveled—some three miles in one.
And thus, a century and a half
Were trod the footsteps of that calf.

The years passed on in swiftness fleet,
The road became a village street;
And this, before men were aware,
A city's crowded thoroughfare;
And soon the central street was this
Of a renowned metropolis,
And men two centuries and a half
Trod in the footsteps of that calf.

Each day a hundred thousand rout
Followed this zigzag calf about,
And o'er his crooked journey went
The traffic of a continent.
A hundred thousand men were led
By one calf near three centuries dead.
They followed still his crooked way,
And lost one hundred years a day;
For thus such reverence is lent
To well established precedent.

A moral lesson this might teach,
Were I ordained and called to preach;
For men are prone to go it blind
Along the calf-paths of the mind,
And work away from sun to sun
To do what other men have done.
They followed in the beaten track
And out and in, and forth and back,
And still their devious course pursue,
And keep the path that others do.
They keep the path—a sacred groove—
Along which all their lives they move;
But how the wise old wood-gods laugh,
Who saw that first primeval calf.
Ah! many things this tale might teach—
But I am not ordained to preach.

Get the pattern of your life from God, and then go about your work and be yourself.—Phillips Brooks.

FREE CARS.

We are glad to announce to our friends that we have again arranged with the railroads for free cars for the Methodist and Baptist Orphanages and the Mississippi Children's Home Society, to be run as follows:

Illinois Central to leave Horn Lake, Miss., on Tuesday, November 28, and pick up donations for these institutions at all intermediate points into Jackson. To leave Osyka on Tuesday, November 28, and receive donations for those institutions at intermediate points for Jackson.

The Gulf, Mobile and Northern will run a car on the 22d and 23d from Falkner to Newton.

The Gulf and Ship Island will run a car from Gulfport to Maxey on Monday, December 4; from Maxey to Hattiesburg, Tuesday, December 5; from Hattiesburg to Mendenhall, Wednesday, December 6; from Mendenhall to Jackson, Thursday, December 7.

The Mobile and Ohio will run a car into Meridiau, leaving Corinth, Saturday, November 18.

Brother W. H. Patton, of Shubuta, is arranging for car on the south end of the Mobile and Ohio and Northeastern. Dates will be given later.

We would be glad if all our friends along the lines of these roads would take note of these dates and schedules and arrange their donations accordingly. Anything in the way of farm produce and clothing of all kinds will be acceptable.

Please mark everything intended for the Methodist Orphanage clearly and definitely, "METHODIST ORPHANAGE;" that for the Baptist Orphanage, "BAPTIST ORPHANAGE;" that for the Mississippi Children's Home Society, "MISSISSIPPI CHILDREN'S HOME SOCIETY." Upon the arrival of these donations in Jackson, these three institutions will receive and receipt for these donations if return addresses are placed upon each box.

Our friends have been very thoughtful and liberal in the days which have gone and we feel sure they will be as thoughtful this year. With 400 children to be cared for in these three institutions, everything in the way of food and clothing will be most acceptable. Any information which may be desired concerning these cars will be given.

B. F. LEWIS,
Supt. Miss. Methodist Orphans' Home.
Jackson, Miss.

CONCERNING REV. W. W. HOPPER.

Having been called yesterday to Montrose, Miss., to perform the funeral service of Mr. Wesley Abney, brother of Rev. J. T. Abney of the Mississippi Conference, it was the privilege of Rev. E. H. Cooley, of Bay Springs, Miss., and myself to call upon Rev. W. W. Hopper, our pastor at Montrose, who, by illness, has been hindered for some weeks from attending to his pastoral duties. Upon invitation of Brother Hopper and his wife, we held a little worship, all the while realizing that we were in the presence of one of the modern heroes of the Cross. Brother Hopper stated that he had experienced moments of great joy during his illness. He stated that life and salvation by faith were both precious to him, that it might be God's will for him to get well, and work on, that in any event he was relying upon the Father. His brightness of spirit and confident trust were an inspiration to the two younger men.

H. G. HAWKINS.

Newton, Miss.

LAYMEN, LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.

Mr. Editor: I wish you would announce in next week's Advocate that the annual meeting of laymen will be held at the Annual Conference on Thursday, November 23, at 2 p.m., and that Bishop W. B. Beauchamp will be present and address us on the laymen's work and that the report of the Conference Lay Leader will be made at that time, and some other addresses will be made, including one by Dr. R. H. Wynn and one by Mr. S. S. Thomas.

At 3:30 the Conference Board of Lay Activities will meet.

At 6 o'clock there will be our annual laymen's banquet, at which Bishop Beauchamp will be our guest and will deliver an address. We will also invite Bishop Candler to be present at these meetings if his duties as presiding officer of the Conference will permit him to attend.

Of course, the brethren know that Bishop Beauchamp was a long time at the head of the Laymen's Missionary Movement and that he was Director-General of the Centenary. He will speak on Thursday night, so I understand, at the Missionary Anniversary.

I would like to call the attention of all the laymen in the Conference to the fact that the Board of Lay Activities has now been made a coordinate Board of the General Conference and of the Annual Conferences, and we hope there will be a large attendance at Shreveport and that our work in this Conference next year in helping to fill unfilled pulpits, in helping to raise the Centenary and Educational pledges, in helping to raise the usual assessments and in helping to bring about more adequate compensation for the ministry, and in any other things that it may fall our lot to do, will be one hundred per cent done.

T. W. HOLLOMAN,
Conference Lay Leader.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

Admission on Trial.

The Class for Admission on Trial into the Mississippi Conference will please meet the Committee in the Methodist Church at Crystal Springs, on Wednesday afternoon, November 29, at 1 o'clock.

H. M. ELLIS, Chairman.

Class of First Year.

The Class of the First Year, Mississippi Conference, will meet the Committee at the Methodist Church, Crystal Springs, Miss., at 3 o'clock p.m., Wednesday, November 29.

Let those who have and those who have not taken the correspondence course meet the Committee, promptly.

HERVIE MELLARD,
For Committee.

Fourth Year.

The Class of the Fourth Year will meet the Committee at the Methodist church, Crystal Springs, Miss., at 2:30 p.m., Wednesday, November 29, prepared for written examinations.

Let members of the Class who have taken the course by correspondence or at the Divinity School, so inform the committee before the Conference meets.

Please let the Class come on time so we can start the examinations at the same time and be ready for the first session of the Conference.

W. H. SAUNDERS, for Committee.

TO THE MEMBERS OF THE MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

Dear Brethren: No report blanks will be sent out by the auditing committee. Order same from Lamar & Barton, Nashville, Tenn.

Please hand in your reports the first day, not later than the morning of the second day of the session of the Conference, so as to facilitate work, and assist the statistical secretaries to get in their reports early.

Fraternally,
T. B. COTTRELL,
For Auditing Committee.

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.

Fourth Year Class.

The Fourth Year Class will please meet the Committee Tuesday, November 21, at 3 p.m., in the Sunday School Department, room No. 10, at the First Methodist Church, Shreveport, La.

R. S. WALTON, Chairman.

Difficulty, struggle, progress—this is the law. By this we conquer; by this it is that the spirit gradually obtains ascendency over the flesh; by this we aspire to be children of God.—J. Walker.

The Home Circle

"OLD FOLKS FIRST."

There was a crowd waiting for one of the suburban cars before a street railway station. The greater part of the crowd seemed to consist of girls with boxes and baskets, indicating that they were out for a picnic. When the car appeared the girls made a rush for it, and two old ladies were unable to get near the door. Then a young girl directly in front of the car door held out her arms to keep the girls back and cried out:

"Wait, girls! Wait a minute! Old folks first!"

Then she made a motion toward the two old ladies, indicating that they were to enter the car before the girls did.

"Thank you, my dear," said one of the old ladies. "It is very kind of you to think of us."

It was kindness that is always delightful to see on the part of a girl. It was proof of a kind heart, and it is safe to say that the girl who has the real "old folks first" spirit is a girl of a fine and generous spirit. The incident was not lost on those who witnessed it, and it is possible that some of the girls of the party who witnessed it will remember it when some other old lady or ladies are trying to board a car in which there is little room. The "old folks first" spirit obtains, it is said, in some lands more than it does in our own, and it is always a pleasure to discover it, as it was shown on the part of this young girl in a public place. There is no better or kindlier motto for a girl to adopt than "Old Folks First."—J. L. Harbour.

MY COUNTRY'S LANGUAGE.

Pledges of good citizenship, Americanism, and the like are common, and perhaps if they were all observed we would be better folk. But here is one that is a trifle different. It is a pledge to speak our language correctly, and is sponsored by the Chicago Women's Club. It reads as follows:

I love the United States of America; I love my country's flag; I love my country's language; I promise:

1. That I will not dishonor my country's speech by leaving off the last syllable of words;
2. That I will say a good American "yes" and "no" instead of an Indian grunt, "umhum" and "nup um," or a foreign "ya" or "yeh" and "nope;"
3. That I will improve American speech by enunciating distinctly and by speaking pleasantly and sincerely;
4. That I will try to make my country's language beautiful for the many boys and girls of foreign nations who come here to live;
5. That I will learn to articulate correctly one word a day for one year.—Exchange.

A TROPICAL FOREFST

By Jean McIntyre.

A tropical forest is not what many suppose—a great mass and tangle of palm-trees and other foreign-looking foliage—most of it is made up of trees very like our own, only much higher.

On close inspection one may see the broad leaves of the palms shining against the lighter green of the other trees.

Many of the largest trees are great bouquets of flowers, their tops being covered with bloom, sometimes blue, sometimes yellow and sometimes white or purple.

Trees as tall as the tallest trees of our forests are like great haystacks of bloom.

The yellow ones are like our buttercups and tiger-lilies, with a little more red in them. Others, again, are blue and very beautiful, rising a hundred feet above us in the air.

Creepers and vines of all kinds cling to the limbs and climb among the highest branches, while long swaying strands of vines hang to the ground, making a tangled mass through which it is almost impossible to cut one's way.

The bark of the trees is a whitish gray color, and so twisted and ribbed (where you can see it) that it looks like great white cables of pulled taffy.

The highest tree among them all is the one from which we get the Brazil-nut. It is often 150 feet in height, with magnificent foliage of dark green. The fruit when on the tree is larger than a base-ball. It has an outer skin, then a hard shell, and inside of that the three-sided nuts known to us. There are many nuts in one shell, sometimes as many as twenty; they are not pleasant things to have fall on one's head as he walks beneath.

There is another nut tree of which some of us have never even heard. Its fruit is as big as a football, and is of a peculiar shape, almost like an urn with a well fitting lid. When the fruit is ripe, the lid falls off and the nuts drop to the ground.

The Amazon, flowing amid all this riot of green in all shades, runs for 3,500 miles across the continent of South America—almost from the Pacific to the Atlantic. In it there are more than 1,100 kinds of fish. Monkeys innumerable are in the trees, and on the shores are snakes, among them the great anaconda, which is said to be sometimes forty feet long and, although not poisonous, crushes its victim to death by wrapping the folds of its body around its victim and squeezing the breath out of him.

Then there are wild animals, chief among them the puma, or panther, also called the American lion, and the jaguar, the largest of all American beasts of prey. The jaguar is called the American tiger; he is swift of movement and strong enough to capture and kill a horse.

The Indians called this river the "Amassona" which means, "boat destroyer," because when the incoming tide and the swift flowing river meet there is often a tidal wave many feet in height which is very destructive and has wrecked many of their boats.—Exchange.

CONSIDER THE CAT.

If you are one of those morbid persons who hate cats, while your barn, and even your own residence, are turned into rat and mouse incubators, from which the whole neighborhood is supplied; and you keep your premises strewn with "rat poisons" which are usually eaten by some innocent animal—your neighbor's cat, for instance—or your own chickens, rather than by Mr. Rat, then you are a nuisance to your neighborhood, and your mind is like a moldy garret, badly in need of fresh air and sunshine.

No other domestic animal has been so much abused as the cat; and yet, with the exception of the useful birds, she is the farmer's and suburbanite's best friend.

Some persons, whose humane instincts are confined to one channel, have gone so far as to advocate killing the cat in defense of the birds; but from my own observation I have known one misguided boy to destroy more birds in one day with a slingshot or gun than are destroyed by a dozen cats in a whole year. And yet not even the most fanatic have hinted at a campaign against the life of the small boy.

The cat that preys on birds is usually one that was left to starve by her superstitious owner when he moved away and, quite naturally, seeks her food wherever it can be found.

When treated kindly and fed properly, the cat very seldom leaves her haunts around the house and barn to seek the lives of birds.

There are never less than a score of birds' nests among the vines and shrubbery around our home in the spring; and not one has yet been destroyed by our cat. But one night we heard a great commotion on the front porch, and on investigating found Mr. Rat with the remains of a small wren, which he had taken from the nest in the clematis vine, still in his mouth; while he struggled in the firm grip of Buddy, our cat. Before Buddy became a member of our family it was almost impossible to raise any kind of fowls on the place. Brood after brood were destroyed by Mr. Rat, and even the eggs were taken from the nests. But not one little chick or egg has been lost in this way since Buddy's reign.

Besides the usefulness of the cat, there is no pet more cleanly, more affectionate or more satisfactory to have in one's home. And when she is not at all this, it is due to improper training or ill-treatment, rather than to her own instincts.—Ollie Barnes in Our Dumb Animals.

A Strength and Refuge: O Lord, thou art my God; I will exalt thee, I will praise thy name, for thou hast done wonderful things. * * * Thou hast been a strength to the poor, a strength to the needy in his distress, a refuge from the storm, a shadow from the heat.—Isaiah 25:1, 4.

SPECIAL OFFER

ONE 42 PIECE $12.00 DINNER SET

BLUE BIRD, FLORAL OR WHITE AND GOLD DESIGNS

For $4.98 f. o. b. New Orleans

Cut out this Advertisement and send to WM. B. REILY & CO., New Orleans, La., with Six Coupons from Luzianne Coffee and $4.98, and the Beautiful Set will be Expressed to You at Once.

All three sets consist of: 6 dinner plates, 6 cups, 6 saucers, 6 pie plates, 6 fruit dessert dishes, 6 oat meal dishes, 1 large meat platter, 1 round vegetable bowl, 1 oval vegetable bowl, 1 cream pitcher, 1 sugar bowl, 1 sugar bowl cover.

New Orleans Christian Advocate

HENRY T. CARLEY, Editor.

CHAS. O. CHALMERS, Manager.

PUBLISHING COMMITTEE:

Louisiana Conference—Rev. J. F. Foster, Rev. S. J. Davies, Rev. C. C. Miller.

Mississippi Conference—Rev. J. T. Leggett, Rev. J. R. Jones, Rev. W. H. Saunders.

North Mississippi Conference—Rev. J. H. Felts, Rev. T. H. Lipscomb, Rev. J. W. Dorman.

DIRECTIONS.

All checks and money orders should be made payable to the New Orleans Christian Advocate.

Communications pertaining to subscriptions and other business matters should be addressed to the Manager, or to the New Orleans Christian Advocate.

The Printed Label on a paper shows the date to which a subscription is paid. It is as good as a written receipt. When renewal is made, if the date is not moved forward after three or four weeks, notify us, and we will make it right.

Communications intended for the Editor should be directed to him at 512 Camp Street. Correspondents will observe the following rules: 1. Write on only one side of the paper. 2. If you have a typewriter, by all means use it; otherwise use a good quality of black ink. 3. Leave a space of at least two inches at the top of the first page; leave a margin of at least one inch on the left-hand side of the page; do not crowd the words and the lines together. 4. Take special pains to write proper names correctly and legibly. 5. Use letter paper if you can get it—not note paper. No attention will be paid to rolled manuscripts.

NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE APPOINTMENTS.

Aberdeen District.

T. H. Dorsey, Presiding Elder.

Aberdeen—J. E. Cunningham.
Algoma—W. L. Atkins.
Amory—J. T. McCafferty.
Bellefontaine—W. C. Mattox, supply.
Buena Vista—E. C. Driskell, supply.
Calhoun City—B. F. Bullard.
Eupora and Maben—W. B. Baker.
Fulton—J. A. Young, supply
Greenwood Springs—W. M. Hester, supply.
Houlka—A. A. Martin.
Houston—E. E. McKeithen.
Mathiston—J. E. Lawhorn, supply.
Nettleton—G. C. Gregory.
Okolona—E. H. Cunningham.
Pontotoc—W. H. Mounger.
Prairie and Strongs—D. W. Babb.
Shannon and Nettleton—R. I. Collins.
Randolph—J. A. Brody, supply.
Salem and Ecru—R. M. Papasan, supply.
Smithville—J. R. Murff.
Tocopola—W. M. Commander, supply.
Tremont—L. Betterton, supply.
Tupelo—J. A. Hall.
Verona—R. M. Evans.
Vardaman—D. H. Crowson.
Woodland—J. G. Johnson.
Assistant Editor of Sunday School Literature, J. W. Boswell.
Chaplain United States Navy, J. H. Brooks.

Columbus District.

A. T. McIlwain, Presiding Elder.

Ackerman and Weir—W. L. Storment.
Artesia—H. M. Young.
Brooksville—A. L. Davenport.
Caledonia—R. T. Hollingsworth.
Cedar Bluff—O. A. Clark.
Chester—J. A. Biffle.
Columbus, First Church—E. S. Lewis.
Columbus, Central Church—A. S. Raper.
Crawford and Shafers—C. W. Avery.
Ethel—R. L. Ellis.
High Point—Wade Heath, supply.
Kosciusko Station—Olin Ray.
Kosciusko Circuit—W. A. Bowlin.
Louisville—J. W. Dorman.
McCool—Guy Ray.
Macon Station—S. H. Caffey.
Macon Circuit—M. A. Burns.
Mashulaville—T. J. Hopper.
Mayhew and Sessums—J. R. James, supply.
Noxapater—W. R. Goudelock.
Shuqualak—Seamon Rhea.
Starkville—W. W. Woollard.
Sturgis—R. S. Lawson.
West Point—T. H. Lipscomb.
Agent Superannuate Endowment, J. H. Bell.
Missionary Evangelist for Columbus, Aberdeen and Grenada Districts, W. M. Campbell.
Missionary to Poland, W. A. Langley.

Corinth District.

J. H. Randolph, Presiding Elder.

Baldwyn—J. J. Garner.
Belmont Circuit—C. W. Baley.
Blue Mountain Circuit—B. P. Hammond.
Booneville Station—E. G. Mohler.
Booneville Circuit—J. T. Gullett, supply.
Burnsville—E. P. Craddock, supply.
Chalybeate—M. L. Ward.
Corinth, First Church—E. R. Smoot.
Corinth, South Side—J. D. Boggs, supply.
Corinth Circuit—D. R. McDougal.
Dumas—W. R. Williams.
Guntown—W. M. Langley.
Hickory Flat—R. C. Nanney.
Iuka Station—W. W. Jones.
Iuka Circuit—C. M. Ray.
Kossuth—W. G. Burks.
Mantachie—G. B. Love, supply.
Marietta—L. B. Wimberly, supply.
Mooreville—R. C. Mayo.
Myrtle—L. H. Floyd.
New Albany Station—J. D. Wroten.
New Albany Circuit—J. W. York.
Paden—W. T. Bazzell.
Potts Camp—R. W. Evans.
Rienzi—W. I. White.
Ripley—S. A. Brown.
Sherman—J. L. Nabors.
Silver Springs—J. M. Spires, supply.
Tishomingo—W. T. Phillips.
Wheeler—E. C. Sullivan, supply.
Conference Secretary of Education, J. H. Holder.
Conference Evangelist, W. A. Wilson.

Greenville District.

James H. Felts, Presiding Elder.

Boyle and Pace—W. W. Hartsfield.
Boyle Circuit—H. D. Suydam, supply.
Clarksdale—T. M. Brownlee.
Cleveland—W. W. Mitchell.
Coahoma and Lyon—Del Longgrear.
Evansville and Dubbs—T. H. Mills.
Friars Point and Bobo—J. H. Smith.
Glen Allen and Benoit—A. R. Beasley.
Greenville—E. Nash Broyles.
Gunnison and Sherard—E. B. Sharp.
Hollandale and Arcola—E. M. Shaw.
Jonestown and Duncan—J. A. George.
Lake Cormorant—J. B. Conner.
Leland—T. E. Gregory.
Lula and Dundee—J. M. Wyatt.
Merigold and Alligator—L. A. McKeown.
Rosedale—W. N. Dodd.
Shaw and Litton—J. D. Simpson.
Shelby—C. M. Chapman.
Tunica—C. A. Parks.
Chaplain United States Army, J. M. Moose.
Missionary Evangelist for Greenwood, Greenville and Sardis Districts, J. W. Robertson.

Greenwood District.

S. L. Pope, Presiding Elder.

Acona—J. A. Patterson.
Black Hawk—W. S. Selman.
Belzoni—H. P. Lewis.
Carrollton—S. C. Yates.
Coila—A. S. Brisco.
Drew—W. N. Duncan.
Dublin—N. J. Golding.
Greenwood—V. C. Curtis.
Indianola—W. C. Galceran.
Inverness—W. C. Carlisle.
Itta Bena—J. T. Lockhart.
Lambert—C. A. Northington.
Minter City—C. L. Rogers.
Moorehead—W. D. Bennett.
Ruleville—R. O. Brown.
Schlater—J. J. Brooks.
Sidon and Cruger—C. L. Oaks.
Sunflower—F. H. McGee.
Swiftown—J. C. Nelson supply.
Tchula—H. N. McKibben.
Tutwiler—C. P. Moss.
Webb—C. T. Floyd.

Grenada District.

R. A. Tucker, Presiding Elder.

Abbeville, R. G. Lord.
Ashland—B. E. Crowson, supply.
Coffeeville—G. A. Baker.
Duck Hill—G. D. Burt.
Durant—R. P. Neblett.
Ebenezer—A. J. Henry.
Grenada—Melville Johnson.
Holcomb—W. F. Rogers.
Holly Springs—W. R. Lott.
Kilmichael—J. A. Goad.
Lamar—W. C. Beasley.
Lexington—J. W. Ward.
Oxford—L. M. Lipscomb.
Paris—G. W. Russell, supply.
Pickens—J. S. Duncan.
Poplar Creek—G. W. Robertson.
Red Banks—W. W. Bruner.
Sallis—R. G. A. Carlisle.
Tie Plant—H. G. Roberts, supply.
Vaiden and West—J. W. Raper.
Waterford—W. R. Liming.
Water Valley, First Church—L. P. Wasson.
Water Valley, Main Street—M. E. Scott.
Winona Station—Carroll Varner.
Winona Circuit—J. S. Maxey.
President Grenada College, J. R. Countiss.
Professor in Grenada College, J. E. Stephens.
Conference Missionary Secretary, B. P. Jaco.
Assistant Secretary, Board of Missions, R. H. Ruff.

Sardis District.

J. T. Lewis, Presiding Elder.

Arkabutla—R. E. Woodfin.
Batesville—W. M. Young.
Byhalia—N. G. Augustus.
Charleston—T. M. Bradley.
Cockrum—B. G. Whitehurst, supply.
Coldwater—R. G. Moore.
Como—A. C. McCorkle.
Courtland—W. O. Hunt.
Crenshaw and Sledge—J. M. Guinn.
Hernando—P. F. Luter.
Horn Lake—J. H. Ingram.
Longtown—A. F. Moore.
Oakland—W. J. Wood.
Mount Pleasant—W. L. Graves.
Olive Branch—H. H. Wallace.
Pleasant Hill—T. L. Oakes.
Sardis Station—J. A. Randolph.
Sardis Circuit—M. H. Weed, supply.
Senatobia—W. S. Shipman.
Shuford—T. B. Thrower.
Tyro—N. M. Maxey, supply.
Crowder—T. H. Porter.
Sunday School Field Secretary, R. H. B. Gladney.
Student at Drew Theological Seminary, N. D. Guerry, Jr.

Transfers In.

R. T. Hollingsworth, in the class of the first year, from the Mississippi Conference.

C. L. Rogers, an elder, from the South Georgia Conference.

B. F. Hammond, an elder, from the North Alabama Conference.

W. A. Langley, in the class of the first year, from the North Georgia Conference.

R. G. Moore, a deacon, from the China Conference.

Transfers Out.

J. A. Poe, an elder, to the Louisville Conference.

CONFERENCE PERSONALS.

Among the laymen present, no more faithful servant of the church or cause could be found than the gallant Confederate veteran, now more than 80 years old, who was present at the organization of the North Mississippi Conference 52 years ago—Capt. F. A. Howell, of Durant.

We were pleased to note the presence of Sister J. J. Beck, of Drew, who, with her good husband, a choice layman, who went to heaven a few years ago, has been almost as regular in attending the Annual Conference as the preachers.

Though arriving after roll call, Rev. W. J. Burt, one of the superannuates, who has been residing in Arkansas, is present, mingling with the brethren.

The attendance of the officers of the Woman's Missionary Society upon the sessions of the Conference is gratifying. Mrs. T. M. Clark, of Tupelo, honors us with her presence.

Having been privileged to attend only a few sessions of the Conference for the past twenty years, on account of his health, Rev. B. P. Patterson, a superannuate, is telling us of the triumphs of his faith.

Rev. L. H. Estes, having in charge the matter of erecting our splendid new Hospital in Memphis, is spreading good cheer among the delegates.

The presence of Rev. and Mrs. W. D. Wendel, whose faces have been missed during the past three years, greatly delights the many friends these choice servants of the church have in North Mississippi.

The "tie that binds" brings back, as visitors, two of the brethren who were loaned a few years ago to the Memphis Conference, Rev. T. W. Lewis and Rev. R. A. Clark. Both are pastors of strong churches in the city to the north of us which really belongs to Mississippi.

Notable among the laymen at the Conference is Brother William Carter, of Tyro, and Hon. Herbert H. Holmes, from Senatobia, the capital of Tate County.

Rev. B. P. Jaco, Centenary secretary, always genial and happy in his remarks and diligent in all his work, is placing before the Conference the cause of the Centenary in a telling way by charts and otherwise.

Several of the preachers' wives are in attendance at the Conference. Among them are noted: Mrs. W. W. Woollard, Mrs. M. Johnson, Mrs. J. J. Garner, Mrs. E. S. Lewis, Mrs. S. A. Brown, Mrs. R P. Neblett, Mrs. G. D. Burt, and others.

The Sunday school interests are safe in the hands of Rev. R. H. B. Gladney, the faithful Field Secretary, who is doing a really great work in the field of teacher training. His Board and the Conference appreciate his work.

Rev. J. H. Holder, always untiring, never knowing when to quit or where to spare himself in the work of Christian Education and every other good cause, is putting heart-life into his messages and real interest into all those who will give him a chance to get into touch with them.

Among the pleasant happenings between pastor and people is the presentation of a fine gold watch by the members of First Church, Columbus, to T. H. Lipscomb, who has been their pastor for two years. Also, he is showing a beautiful gold pen presented to him by the Leaguers of his church.

Rev. R. O. Brown is held in high esteem by the young men of Ruleville, who, after the officials had secured his salary, in token of their appreciation, presented Brother Brown with a purse of $50.

The following were delightfully entertained during the Conference by Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Miller: Dr. L. H. Estes, of the Memphis Conference; Rev. Del Longgrear, of Coahoma; Rev. A. R. Beasley, of Jonestown; Mr. Chas. O. Chalmers, Business Manager of the New Orleans Christian Advocate.

The Editor of the Advocate was delightfully entertained in the elegant and hospitable home of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Addington. His fellow-guests were Dr. A. W. Milden, of the State University; Rev. J. W. Bell, and Mr. Simmons, a loyal layman.

We are greatly indebted to Rev. H. P. Lewis for his kindness in reporting the proceedings of the Conference for the Advocate, and to Rev. R. P. Neblett for valuable assistance in securing items of personal interest.

Bishop Ainsworth's blackboard method of presenting the work of the pastoral charges held the interest of the Conference throughout. It was something new to us, but we like it—it is a vivid presentation of the year's work, and it is a great time-saver.

We heard only the highest commendation of Bishop Ainsworth's presidency over the Conference. His devotional addresses at the close of the morning sessions were greatly enjoyed.

The hospitality of the people of Water Valley was unstinted. Their homes were the preachers' homes, and their automobiles were at the command of their guests at all times. Rev. L. P. Wasson, the Conference host, left nothing undone that would contribute to the comfort of the visitors.

The convenience of the members of the Conference was greatly served by the kindness of the Masonic Lodge of Water Valley in placing its beautiful building entirely at their disposal. A great many of the brethren used and appreciated this courtesy.

As early as Monday, the delegates began to arrive at Water Valley to attend the session of the North Mississippi Conference. Several Boards and Committees had meetings on Tuesday in preparation for the coming session.

L. P. Wasson, the Conference host, with his co-pastor, M. E. Scott, had made excellent preparation to the last detail for the entertainment of the delegates and the dispatch of the business of the Conference. The chairman of the entertainment committee, K. R. Sissell, and his helpers were untiring in their efforts to accommodate and make comfortable all attending the Conference.

This is the fifth time that Water Valley has entertained the North Mississippi Conference. It was organized here 53 years ago. Methodism has always been strong here. There are now two Methodist churches in the city with a membership of around 1000.

The Historical Society of the Conference held a session on Tuesday evening, during which time three papers were read: one concerning Methodism in Water Valley, read by Judge J. G. McGowen; one on Methodism in Holly Springs, by W. R. Lott, and one on Methodism in Sunflower County, by W. C. Galceran.

The spirit of the Conference session has been one of the most harmonious and spiritual the writer has ever attended. There have been no sharp debates or clashes on the floor of the Conference. The reports of the Boards were all adopted without a word of contention. We have had more of addresses along spiritual lines that brought visions of service to inspire us.

A new day in the progress of Methodism in Mississippi seems to be upon us. The brethren are resolved to make the coming year the best in their ministerial lives. Bishop Ainsworth in his masterful way has won the heart and leadership of the entire Conference.

Revs. L. A. McKeown, E. R. Smoot and J. W. Ward preached during the Conference week. The following preachers filled the pulpits of the Water Valley churches on Sunday: First Methodist Church, 11 a.m., Bishop Ainsworth; 7:30 p. m., E. S Lewis; Main Street Methodist Church, 11 a.m., E. N. Broyles; 7:30 p.m., Olin Ray; Baptist Church, Dr. A. F. Watkins and W. M. McIntosh; Presbyterian Church, L. H. Estes and M. Johnson; Christian Church, Dr. C. M. Chapman and J. W. Robinson; Episcopal Church, J. E. Cunigham and R. O. Brown; C. M. E. Church, L. A. McKeown and W. M. Young; A. M. E. Zion, A. J. Henry and R. I. Collins.

The Orphans' Home, maintained by the two Conferences in Mississippi, is doing a fine work, and was ably represented by Rev. B. F. Lewis, the Superintendent, Mrs. Alma G. Riley, Field Representative, and Miss Maude Lee, Mrs. Riley's assistant.

Hon. Parham Williams, of Lexington, was among the laymen present at the Conference and spoke in the interest of the evangelistic conference which is to be held at Jackson, January 16-17, 1923, as being a forward and significant movement in the plan of the laymen to take "Mississippi for Christ."

Dr. and Mrs. W. T. Johnson, of Greenwood, attended the Conference, as did also Dr. T. M. Dye, of Clarksdale. Dr. Dye is a son of Rev. T. W. Dye, who for many years was a member of the Conference.

Rev. J. W. Bell, of the class of 1873, now one of the honored superannuates of the Conference and one of the few of this number attending, was, by resolution, asked to preach his semi-centennial sermon at the next session of the Conference, at Greenville, on the occasion of the meeting of the Historical Society.

B. F. Bullock and H. D. Suydam, of Shelby, are among the splendid lawmen who are present from the delta section, as is also Dr. J. B. Marshall, from Drew.

Hon. S. S. Finger of Ripley, Albert Eudy, of Eupora, and Hon. P. M. Elmore, of Durant, visited the seat of the Conference Saturday and Sunday.

Miss Martha DuBerry, one of the Grenada College girls who came as a member of the Glee Club to brighten the Conference with their music, played a violin solo. She is the granddaughter of a Methodist preacher and a niece of one of the members of the Conference, Rev. R. P. Neblett.

Their many friends were pleased to see Lieut. Col. J. A. Randolph, who is a retired chaplain of the United States Army, with his wife, and daughter, Mrs. McDonald, present at the Conference. The chaplain is looking well and his 24 years of army life do not seem to have unfitted him in any way for service, as he takes work again.

Rev. J J. Brooks, who joined the traveling connection as a preacher in 1869, and who was present at, and a charter member of, the organization of the North Mississippi Conference in Water Valley in 1870 and who has been a member of the Board of Missions for 40 years, seems as young as he did 30 years ago.

Several of the preachers' wives are noted among the "Week End" visitors to the Conference, among them: Mrs. H. P. Lewis, Mrs. B. P. Jaco, Mrs. R. A. Tucker, Mrs. J. R. Countiss, Mrs. T. H. Dorsey, Mrs. W. N. Duncan, Mrs. J. E. Stephens, Mrs. B. F. Bullard.

We were pleased to note the presence of Rev. and Mrs. E. H. Rook, who live on their farm near Como. Brother Rook is one of the superannuates and has not been a regular attendant at the Conference for the past few years

One of the preacher's wives is an officer of the Woman's Missionary Conference, Mrs. R. P. Neblett, is attending the Conference and attending the meetings of the executive committee of that organization. Mrs. Neblett is among the workers who are in touch with every department of the church's activity and is very efficient wherever she is found.

Dr. W. L. Duren, one time a member of this Conference, but now pastor of Rayne Memorial Church in New Orleans, looked in on the Conference during the first days of its sessions.

DEATH OF REV. W. W. HOPPER.

Just as the Advocate was going to press, we received the sad news, in a telegram from Rev. J. A. Moore, of Newton, Miss., that Rev. W. W. Hopper, our pastor at Montrose, Miss., had passed to his reward about eight o'clock on Monday morning, November 13. The sympathy of the church will go out to the bereaved loved ones of our deceased brother, who wrought long and well in the Kingdom of God. We hope to have a suitable memoir for publication in due time

CONFERENCE CALENDAR.

Louisiana Conference, November 22, at Shreveport, La.; Dr. H. L. Brooks, pastor; Bishop Warren A. Candler, presiding.

Mississippi Conference, November 30, at Crystal Springs, Miss.; Rev. W. B. Jones, pastor; Bishop William N. Ainsworth, presiding.

IMPORTANT NOTICE—CHANGE OF ADDRESS.

All those who wish their Advocates sent to a new address should notify us at once of the change desired, giving the old post office as well as the new. We can make no changes without this authority. This notice is especially important to the preachers of the three Conferences.

BUSINESS MANAGER.

CROWDED OUT.

The usual department, "Personal and Other Notes," had to be omitted this week on account of the space required for the proceedings of the North Mississippi Conference.

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.

Admission on Trial.

The Class for Admission on Trial will please meet the Committtee Tuesday morning, November 21, at 10 o'clock, at the First Methodist Church, Shreveport, La. PAUL M. BROWN.

First Year.

The Class of the First Year will please meet the Committee on Tuesday, November 21, at 4 p.m., at the First Methodist Church, Shreveport, La. R. H. HARPER, Chairman.

Concerning Reports.

Pastors of the Louisiana Conference are urged to have their statistical reports in good form and ready to submit to the statistical secretary at the opening of he session. This will greatly facilitate his work. Reports blanks are the same as during the last quadrennium. R. H. HARPER.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

Second Year.

The Class of the Second Year of the Mississippi Conference will please meet the Committee in the Methodist church at Crystal Springs at 9 o'clock a.m., November 29.

It is necessary that all the members of the Class meet the Committee, whether they have taken the course of study by correspondence or otherwise. J. EARLY GRAY,

For the Committee.

Fourth Year.

The Class of the Fourth Year will meet the Committee at the Methodist church, Crystal Springs, Miss., at 2:30 p.m., Wednesday, November 29, prepared for written examinations.

Let members of the Class who have taken the course by correspondence or at the Divinity School, so inform the committee before the Conference meets.

Please let the Class come on time so we can start the examinations at the same time and be ready for the first session of the Conference.

W. H. SAUNDERS, for Committee.

Meeting of the Board of Missions.

An important meeting of the Board of Missions of the Mississippi Conference will be held at Crystal Springs on Wednesday, November 29, at 7:30 o'clock p.m., in advance of our Conference session. We expect Dr. C. G. Hounshell to be present as the representative of our General Board. The presence of every member is earnestly requested. M. M. BLACK, President.

J. EARLY GRAY, Secretary.

FORTY THOUSAND DOLLAR CHRISTMAS PRESENT.

Who would not like to receive such a present, and who would not like to make such a gift as this? Yet this is just what Dr. W. G. Cram, Directing Secretary of the Missionary Centenary, has requested of the Mississippi Conference. He has requested that we PAY ON OUR PLEDGES as OUR PART of the TWO and ONE-HALF MILLION DOLLARS needed to pay what is DUE the Boards in full on December 31.

The sum of FORTY THOUSAND DOLLARS! It looks like a huge task, yet it can be done if all the Pastors and Treasurers, with the hearty cooperation of the subscribers, do their very best.

If we do this, it will be our "Christmas Present" to those who will not have Christmas because they have never heard of Christ, without whom there is no Christmas.

Let us do all we can, each and every one of us doing our VERY BEST to collect EVERY DOLLAR possible, and in this way, express our appreciation of what the Gospel has done for us.

Yours for service,

W. D. HAWKINS.

Conference Missionary Secretary.

Conference Centenary Treasurer.

Obituaries

Obituaries not over 200 words in length will be published free of charge. All over 200 words must be paid for at the rate of 1 cent a word. Count the words and be sure to send the amount necessary with the obituary. That will save trouble all around. We cannot make discriminations. Memorial resolutions are subject to the same rule as obituaries.

Whereas, on October 6, 1922, it pleased Almighty God to remove from our midst by death MRS. A. R. HOLCOMBE, President of the Woman's Missionary Society of Jackson, La.; therefore be it resolved:

1. That in the death of Mrs. Holcombe, whose fellowship it was an honor and pleasure to enjoy, we have sustained the loss of a friend and leader, and the community an honored member.

2. That we bear willing testimony to her many virtues. and her sincere Christian life.

3. That the Woman's Missionary Society of the M. E. Church, South, Jackson, La., offer to the bereaved family and mourning friends our heartfelt sympathy.

4. That a page of our minutes be set aside for these resolutions, and that a copy be sent to the family of our deceased friend, also to the New Orleans Christian Advocate for publication.

Signed by: Mrs. G. D. Dawson, Mrs. J. M. Norsworthy, Mrs. J. W. Lea, Committee.

WINIFRED ELIZABETH CUNNINGHAM.

WINIFRED ELIZABETH, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. H. T. Cunningham, was born at Vaiden, Miss., March 4, 1901. Rev. J. F. Evans baptized her. At nine years of age she joined the Methodist church at Marshall, Texas. Dr. W. F. Packard was the pastor. Her father was the presiding elder. Completing the High School, she spent two years in Alexander College with a view to taking the university course at Rice Institute, Houston, Texas. In this purpose she was disappointed, because of failing health. For this and other reasons, the family moved to Southwest Texas, her father taking the pastorate of the church at Dilley.

The young lady's health having been restored, apparently, she yielded to the solicitations of the trustees to accept a position in the Millett Public School, to which she had been elected without having applied for the place. In the vacation period she pursued her studies, hoping to complete the University course. Under the strain her health was broken. Specialists said she must undergo a major operation. This was done in a hospital in San Antonio, August 14. A complete physical collapse followed. She died on August 18. Her body was buried at Dilley the following day.

The above are the facts of the life of a girl who was born twenty-one years ago; who lived and died and was buried. The important truths of her life are not recorded here. They cannot be. They are written only in the hearts of those who knew her intimately—the splendid, beautiful, accomplished young women that she was.

As daughter and sister, she was a model of devotion and unselfishness. As a teacher, she wove the golden threads of her own pure nature into the lives of her pupils. In her example, every day, they saw visions—glorious in aspiration and secure in integrity and everlasting in influence. "Faith, Hope, Charity"—this was her religion. It is the only religion that can ever save the world.

Of her time and means she gave liberally to the church. One of her last acts was to see to it that a crippled, poor boy be given a chance to go to school. Born of such parentage as she was, and reared in such an environment, she had unusual advantages. They might have "spoiled" some girls. To her they were but reminders that the life that is crowned with blessing is happy and useful in proportion as it contributes to the happiness of others; that "Treasures in Heaven," uncorrupted, are the simple, thoughtful things of every day that bring cheer to the disconsolate and relief to the suffering.

Of the grief that enshadows the home I may not speak, but of the peace and hope that must be theirs, because of the peace and hope that were hers in life and hers in death; of the memory that will linger in their hearts, always, because of her love, her thought, her care—to these I would call attention, that other young women might model their lives like hers.

By and by we will see her again. She will meet us when we cross the river, dark, and lead us up the shining way, for like a child at home she goes in and out in the Father's House, diffusing beauty and love and blessedness. After all, when we think of those who have gone to Heaven, the place doesn't seem to be very far away. "Blessed are the dead which die in the Lord." It's a glorious thought! Amen.

J. E. CUNNINGHAM.

Aberdeen, Miss.

PROGRESS IN BRAZIL.

Bishop H. M. Dobbs, in charge of the Conference in Brazil, has returned to the United States after a stay of several months in his episcopal district. He goes again in January to his field and will probably spend the greater part of 1923 in Brazil. Concerning the situation in his episcopal district, he says:

"Methodism in Brazil will celebrate its semi-centennial in 1926. A half-century has passed since this great field was opened. We have now the satisfaction of knowing once more that other men have labored and that we have entered into their labors. More than 200 churches are now daily engaged in spreading the Gospel, and eleven thousand people delight to call themselves Methodists. Parochial schools, institutional churches, community houses, and schools and colleges for boys and girls and men and women are now distributed over the three Annual Conferences, extending from Bello Horizonte at the north to Porto Alegre at the south of Brazil.

"It is worthy of note that there is a distinct intellectual awakening among the Brazilian people at this time. This is due to a number of causes: 1. Greatly improved facilities for travel and communication; 2. The stimulus of reconstruction; 3. The increasing demand for education; 4. The steady advance of the cause of Christianity; and, 5. The growing trade relations with the United States and other great peoples of the world. In 1921 our South American trade was larger than our combined foreign trade before the Spanish American war. We bought last year from South America $1,560,000,000 worth of raw material and sold to South America $1,364,000,000 worth of manufactured products.

"The history of Missions in Brazil records a half century of heroism and sacrifice, all of which has resulted in a fruitage of which the world knows. The future is assured and will be in keeping with all that has gone before. Education, religion, and commerce are the three emphatic words in Latin-American life just now.

"The Centenary has marked a new era in the religious life of the people who live in Brazil, and its effects and influences will be permanently felt and recognized by all the world. Until its coming our work in Brazil had been making slow progress, especially as compared with the remarkable growth of the last several years. As a result of the Centenary a great building program has been carried forward in Brazil. Buildings for eight colleges and schools are now in course of construction and for the first time in the history of our work in this territory our congregations are adequately housed. The Centenary has not furnished all of the money for these building enterprises or even the larger part. The Brazilian Methodists have met the challenge of the Centenary program and are giving liberally to all church enterprises."

The people of Brazil are eager for the gospel of evangelical Christianity. Especially are they friendly toward the United States and the churches of our country. The Centenary has made possible a larger service on the part of Southern Methodism to these people. To fail to carry through the Centenary program our cause and our church would suffer such hurt as could not for a generation be remedied. We must carry through what we have planned for Brazil.

DESTROYED BY LIGHTNING
SAVED BY INSURANCE

That is the story of many churches and yet many are damaged or destroyed—and no insurance whatever. THE NATIONAL MUTUAL CHURCH INSURANCE COMPANY OF CHICAGO—The Methodist Mutual—has since 1898 been impressing upon Church Officials everywhere the need of this protection. Insures against Fire, Lightning and Tornado. No assessments: legal reserve for protection of policy-holders same as stock companies. No agents. Deal direct. Write to
HENRY P. MAGILL, Sect'y. & Mgr.
1509 Insurance Exchange, Chicago, Ill.
Mrs. Alice Hargrove Barclay, Agent, M. E. Church, South, 314 Norton Building, Louisville, Ky.

Shave With
Cuticura Soap
The New Way
Without Mug

WHEELER Business College R
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
"WHEELER STUDENTS GET THE BEST POSITIONS"
Call or write for Free Catalogue

Rodeheaver's Gospel Songs
Our New Book ready Oct. 1st.
Also: Victory Songs,
Awakening Songs
Songs for Service
For all religious occasions. Shaped or round notes
Singly prepaid. 45c Cloth, 35c Limp, 30c Manila (Quantities Not Prepaid) 40c, 30c, 25c
Catalog of Sheet Music, Song Books, Bibles—Books and Folding Organs on request.
Rainbow Sacred Records
Favorite Gospel Selections 75c each not postpd.
Ask for Complete List
THE RODEHEAVER COMPANY
Chicago, Ill. 677 McClurg Bldg.
Philadelphia, Pa. Dpt. 22—814 Walnut St.

QUALITY GOODS
AT LOW PRICES
D. H. Holmes Co.,
LIMITED.

TETTERINE
CLEARS BABY'S SKIN
and drives off the Rash and Pimples.
Harmless, Soothing, Fragrant.
60c at your Druggist's, or from The
SHUPTRINE CO., SAVANNAH, GA.

Public Service
HAS BECOME THE ACTIVE PRACTICAL IDEAL OF THE STREET RAILWAY COMPANY WITH ITS REORGANIZATION AS NEW ORLEANS PUBLIC SERVICE, INC. WE SOLICIT HELPFUL SUGGESTIONS AND WISH TO KEEP SERVICE ALWAYS
On the Job

DR. H. B. BARTLETT
National Dental Parlors
Canal and Bourbon Sts.
Over Worner's Drug Store
Entrance on Bourbon Street
Phone Main 2193.
NEW ORLEANS
Crown and Bridge Specialist
Vitalized Air for Painless Extraction
Most Modern and Best Equipped Dental Parlors South.

Epworth League Department

Editor, North Mississippi Conference.....Rev. R. P. Neblett, Durant, Miss.
Editor, Mississippi Conference, J. H. Weems, 308 Second Avenue, Hattiesburg, Miss.
Editor, Louisiana Conference, Miss Consuelo Martinez, 314 Broadway, New Orleans, La.

Material for this Department from the several Conferences should be sent to the editors named above. Copy must be in the Advocate office by Thursday preceding the week of publication.

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.

Loyalty Legion Returns
(Continued)

In last week's issue the Alexandria, Baton Rouge, Houma and Lake Charles Districts returns were shown, and below is shown the remaining districts in the Louisiana Conference. How does your District compare with the others?

* indicates Chapter was represented at Fourth Assembly;  indicates no representation.

Monroe-Ruston District.

Chapter—	Membership Sept. 1st	Cash Raised	Per Cent
*Bastrop	15	.....	...
Crew Lake	27	.....	...
*Calhoun	27	.....	...
Crowville (new)	20	.....	...
Mer Rouge ...	18	6.75	37
*Monroe	23	78.00	387
*Ruston	20	.....	...
*Ruston (Int.)...	60	29.00	48
Wilhite	15	.....	...
*W. Monroe (Int.)	..	8.85	...
*Winnshoro (Int.)	18	1.25	...
*Jonesboro	20	5.00	25
Oak Grove.....	10	7.00	70
	298	$135.85

Last year $124. This year shows an increase of 9 per cent.

New Orleans District.

Chapter—	Membership Sept. 1st	Cash Raised	Per Cent
*Algiers	35	35.00	100
*Bogalusa	28	17.50	62
*Carrollton Ave.	46	46.00	100
*First Church...	43	43.00	100
*McDonoghville .	23	34.50	150
*Rayne Memorial	32	32.00	100
*Second Church .	26	14.00	53
*St. Mark's Hall.	16	16.00	100
Pearl River ...	15	18.00	120
Parker Memorial	27	28.00	103
*Slidell	21	.....	...
	312	$284.00

Last year $163. This year shows an increase of 174 per cent.

Shreveport District.

Chapter—	Membership Sept. 1st	Cash Raised	Per Cent
*Arcadia	31	$31.00	100
*Bossier City...	21	.....	...
*Cedar Grove (Int.)	16	16.00	100
Cousinatta	25	.....	...
*Grand Cane.....	20	20.00	100
Gibsland (new)	10	.....	...
*Haynesville	28	61.00	217
Homer	21	.....	...
*Logansport	32	21.00	65
Gilliam (Int.)..	..	.....	...
Mooringsport ..	22	.....	...
*Mansfield	27	.....	...
*Mansfield (Int.)	42	16.00	38
*Minden	24	27.50	114
*Pelican	25	25.00	100
Ringgold	..	8.00	...
Stonewall	..	3.00	...
*Sibley	15	.....	...
Greenwood (int.)	..	3.00	...
*Vivian	32	32.20	100
*First Church Spt.	51	52.00	102
*Noel Memorial Spt.	52	79.00	152
*Mangham Memorial Spt. ..	31	42.55	137
Texas Ave. Spt.	12	6.00	50
Bayou LeChuce	9	8.25	...
	546	$451.50

Last year $336.10. This year shows an increase of 35 per cent.

TOTALS.

	Members	Amount Raised
Alexandria District...	500	$263.79
Baton Rouge District..	384	132.00
Houma District	46	75.00
Lake Charles District.	453	132.00
Monroe-Ruston District	298	135.85
New Orleans District.	312	284.00
Shreveport District...	546	451.50

We wish to congratulate all the above League, both those who went over the top and those who made an effort, but you will note that there were a large number of chapters that did not make any effort. I would also like to call your attention to the fact that the Leagues which went over were practically all represented at the Fourth Assembly.

Our original goal was $2,000 as included in the budget. We increased this to $3,000 in order to take care of a note for $1,000 from last year. As it stands you note that we only lacked a little over $500 in reaching our original budget asking. If every chapter would do their part we could easily carry on the work. The receipts to date have paid for our work to date and paid about $600 on old bills, but we are without funds to go any further. We still have outstanding bills of last year amounting to about $1,300 and our only hope on this is the Conference appropriation, which will not cover this item.

What are we going to do with our Great Advance Field Program? We are doing our part, have you done yours? STATE HEADQUARTERS.

The banners will be ordered at once for all chapters going over the 100 per cent line, and you will receive yours before long.

LET US KNOW WHAT IS BEING DONE.

Dear Mr. Editor: I have often wondered if our people (the Methodist) were as persistent in their work as some of our sister denominations, and I have been made to believe that we are not. We have two churches in our little town—our Methodist and our Baptist. We also have a few numbers of other churches here.

I have watched both these churches with interest for nearly two years. The Baptists have the same preacher now they had at first. He preaches one Sunday and Sunday night in each month. It is not often that he preaches but something is said by him regarding what progress the Baptists are making, what wonderful things they are doing with their $75,000,000, etc. They are rebuilding their church and their preacher preached them a sermon on building. They have just had an Association here and much was said about what great things they had done and are doing, from the time they came until they left. They have workers who lay down everything to go or do in their interest.

These things are not to their discredit, but rather to their credit, as they keep the people enlightened as to their progress.

But, on the other hand, the Methodists have had two preachers, who preach one Sunday and Sunday night in each month. They, too, are planing to rebuild real soon. If the preacher has mentioned it in his pulpit, I do not recall it, and we scarcely hear one word said about the Centenary Movement or the Educational Movement—what they have done and what they are doing. We do hear men say, "What is going with all this money that's being paid in?"

Now is it not high time that our people, who are second to none, should begin to tell from our pulpits of the wondrous works we are doing, thereby not only keeping our members informed, but letting the world know what we are doing and where we stand? Are we ashamed of what we are about? (We should be, we do so little sometimes.) May God speed the time when we may become so much interested that we will all keep informed along these great lines of our work. If we do not blow our horn, who will? These things exist not only here, but everywhere.

A LAYMAN.

COULD NOT TURN IN BED

Operation Avoided by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Dayton, Ohio.—"I had such pains that I had to be turned in bed every time I wished to move. They said an operation was necessary. My mother would keep saying: 'Why don't you take Pinkham's, Henrietta?' and I'd say, 'Oh, mamma, it won't help me, I've tried too much.' One day she said, 'Let me get you one bottle of each kind. You won't be out very much if it don't help you.' I don't know if you will believe me or not, but I only took two bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and one of Lydia E. Pinkham's Blood Medicine when I began to get relief and I am regular ever since without a pain or a headache.

When I lie down I can get up without help and without pain. I can't begin to tell you how I feel and look. I have begun to gain in weight and look more like I ought to. I think every day of ways I have been helped. Any one who does not believe me can write to me and I will tell them what shape I was in. I am ready to do anything I can to help your medicine."—Mrs. HENRIETTA MILLER, 137 Sprague St., Dayton, Ohio.

If you have any doubt write to Mrs. Miller and get her story direct.

Universal Bible Sunday

November 26th, 1922 (or either adjacent Sunday)

THEME: The Bible—Undelivered to the Nations of the World

YOUR Church or Sunday School will welcome the education and the inspiration resulting from the observance of Universal Bible Sunday.

An extremely interesting exercise, a beautiful poster in colors, an informative report together with leaflets for wide distribution furnished free on request to pastors, Sunday School superintendents, teachers and other religious workers. Kindly state size of congregation, school or class in ordering.

AMERICAN BIBLE SOCIETY - - - - - - - Bible House, New York

Aspirin

Say "Bayer" and Insist!

BAYER

Genuine

Unless you see the name "Bayer" on package or on tablets you are not getting the genuine Bayer product prescribed by physicians over twenty-two years and proved safe by millions for

Colds	Headache
Toothache	Lumbago
Earache	Rheumatism
Neuralgia	Pain, Pain

Accept "Bayer Tablets of Aspirin" only. Each unbroken package contains proper directions. Handy boxes of twelve tablets cost few cents. Druggists also sell bottles of 24 and 100. Aspirin is the trade mark of Bayer Manufacture of Monoaceticacidester of Salicylicacid.—Adv.

WINTERSMITH'S CHILL TONIC

SOLD 50 YEARS
A FINE GENERAL TONIC

BUY 25 POUND FEATHER BED $7.95

30 POUND BED $8.95

Pair Pillows, $1.95. New feathers. Best ticking. $1,000 in Charlotte Bank & Trust Company as guarantee. MAIL ORDER TODAY. Free Catalog.
SANITARY BEDDING CO., Dept. F
CHARLOTTE, N. C.

SORES

BOILS, CUTS and BURNS have been healed since 1820 with

Gray's Ointment

Sold by all druggists. Write for sample to W. F. Gray & Co., 707 Gray Bldg., Nashville, Tenn.

Headaches Vanish

Sick or nervous headaches, backaches, women's aches almost instantly respond to the liquid remedy Capudine. It stops the pain by removing the cause. Every home should keep a bottle handy. Sold by druggists, 10c, 30c, 60c. Insist upon getting CAPUDINE

Whooping Cough

Asthma, Spasmodic Croup, Bronchitis Coughs and Influenza.

The most widely used remedy for whooping cough and spasmodic croup. The little lamp vaporizes the remedy while the patient sleeps.

Introduced in 1879

Vapo-Cresolene

"Used While You Sleep"

Send for descriptive booklet 43A. Sold by druggists
Vapo-Cresolene Co., 62 Cortlandt St., N. Y.

Sunday School

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE NOTES

The fifth Sunday was spent at Center Point on the Bayou Pierre charge in a Four Times a Year Circuit Institute. Brother S. B. Watkins, the pastor, had a fine program arranged and it went off well. Four schools were represented and many of the folks took part in the work. The open discussion was real helpful. Those who took part performed their duties well and made a fine impression upon all. They organized by electing S. B. Watkins, President; H. F. Funches, Vice-President; and, Mrs. Flora Barrington, Secretary and Treasurer The place of meeting for the next quarter was fixed at Pleasant Ridge. Points 5 and 6 on Program of Work "C" were adopted as the Goals between now and the next meeting. This was a good meeting and means well for all.

Sunday night I had the pleasure of preaching for the Presbyterians at Hazlehurst. This was a union service. From Monday night till Friday night I taught "Organization and Administration" at Rankin Street Church. We had an average attendance of ten. There was good interest and we hope much was accomplished.

Sunday was spent on the Pachuta charge. We visited Pachuta, Porto Rico and Orange. This was a good day. These folks are making progress under the leadership of Brother Beasley; it was indeed a pleasure to be here and visit with old friends. There is a great future for the churches on this circuit, may the Lord lead them forward.

Three weeks till Conference. Please send us some Sunday School Day money. Pray for the work and the workers.

Yours in Him,
JOHN C. CHAMBERS,
Field Secretary.

Mississippi Conference Sunday School Treasurer's Report.

If your school doesn't appear and it should, please see us at the Annual Conference.

Brookhaven District.

Ebenezer	$ 5.00
McCalls	2.50
Brandywine	7.00
Bogue Chitto	3.70
Crystal Springs	11.10
Kokomo	10.00
Sandy Hook	8.00
Thompson's Chapel	1.00
Centenary	22.96
La Branch	6.46
Tilton	4.15
Bethel	6.00
Gallatia	10.00
Hawkins Chapel	2.00
Topisaw	7.15
Tylertown	14.00
Beauregard	5.80
Adams	11.00
Bethel	2.50
Bayou Pierre Circuit	10.00
Brookhaven	23.94
Fernwood	39.85
Foxworth	4.00
Mt. Pleasant	4.06
Magnolia	25.00
Pearl River Avenue	20.00
Pleasant Grove	3.45
Mallalieu	1.80
Bethesda	6.83
New Hope	6.25
Summit	5.30
Pisgah	2.16
Wesson	10.00
Total	$312.96

Hattiesburg District.

Bon Hommie	$ 8.68
Bethel	4.00
Mt. Zion	2.40
Boyles Chapel	3.09
Eucutta	3.28
Vossburg	4.34
Main Street	12.32
Prentiss	10.00
Talawah	2.50
Sandford	2.00
Collins	14.76
Ellisville	4.00
New Hope	3.00
Good Water	2.00
Heidelberg	4.87
Philadelphia	5.14
Pine Grove	7.20
Purvis	14.80
Union Grove	2.35
Good Hope	5.00
Total	$115.73

Jackson District.

Benton	$ 12.10
Pelahatchie	6.80
Camden	5.00
Canton	25.00
Edwards	3.83
Andrews Chapel	1.25
Rexford	1.65
Capitol Street	102.98
Rankin Street	5.00
Pocahontas	3.85
Mt. Olivet	8.00
Forest Hill	3.67
Byram	2.32
Brandon	12.50
Greenfield	2.20
Forest Grove	2.50
Pleasant Hill	6.00
Fannin	4.20
Flora	7.05
Galloway Memorial	71.00
Millsaps Memorial	1.00
Madison	14.90
Mendenhall	4.65
Terry	3.60
Spring Ridge	5.06
Campbell	5.00
Total	$321.21

Meridian District.

Bucatunna	$ 4.51
Bethel	3.12
Andrews Chapel	7.20
Stonewall	2.63
Lauderdale	9.35
Central	20.00
Seventh Avenue	14.25
Sageville	8.88
Langsdale	12.67
State Line	4.25
Popiar Springs	5.71
Pachuta Charge	10.70
Daleville	1.65
Pleasant Ridge	2.35
Manassa	10.80
Mellen	1.50
Lockhart	3.58
East End	15.00
Oak Grove	3.28
Lost Gap	2.09
Salem	3.25
Chapel Hill	4.00
Theadville	10.62
Quitman	14.00
Shubuta	15.00
Cokers Chapel	6.60
Big Rock	1.00
Wahalak	3.50
Harper	4.07
Total	$246.48

Newton District.

Kingston	$ 10.55
Montrose	3.50
Mars Hill	5.50
Sand Town	8.27
Philadelphia	11.28
Rose Hill	2.90
Johns	3.65
Independence	5.00
Union	7.00
Chunkey	4.70
Hickory	4.00
Forest	20.00
High Hill	3.00
Conehatta	3.00
Lawrence	5.00
West End	3.33
Cooks Chapel	9.16
North Bend	5.00
Newton	8.70
Raleigh	5.36
Finkbine	12.50
Shiloh	9.31
New Prospect	5.50
Bay Springs	2.65
Suqualena	5.50
Decatur	4.77

(Continued on Next Page)

Turns Night Into Day

New Lamp Has No Wick, No Chimney, No Odor, Most Brilliant Light Known.

A new lamp which experts agree gives the most powerful home light in the world is the latest achievement of W. H. Hoffstot, 456 Factory Bldg., Kansas City, Mo. This remarkable new lamp beats gas or electricity—gives more light than three hundred candles, eighteen ordinary lamps or ten brilliant electric lights, and costs only one cent a night. A blessing to every home especially on farm or in small town. It is absolutely safe and gives universal satisfaction. No dirt, no smoke, no odor. A child can carry it. It is the ambition of Mr. Hoffstot to have every home, store, hall or church enjoy the increased comfort of this powerful, pleasing, brilliant white light and he will send one of his new lamps on free trial to any reader of The New Orleans Christian Advocate who writes him. He wants one person in each locality to whom he can refer new customers. Take advantage of his free offer. Agents wanted. Write him to-day.—Adv

Renew your health by purifying your system with

Calotabs

TRADE MARK REG

The purified and refined calomel tablets that are free from nausea and danger.

No salts necessary, as Calotabs act like calomel and salts combined. Demand the genuine in 10c and 35c packages, bearing above trade-mark.

Bitter Chillifuge 25c

Has a bitter tonic taste and quick action in routing malaria from the system.

Will quickly stop chills and fever.

Splendid tonic for torpid liver and bracer for poor appetite.

FINLAY, DICKS & CO., INC.,
NEW ORLEANS.

ANGELL'S

COUGH and WHOOPING

Cough Syrup

Easy to Take
No Habit-Forming Drugs. Formula of
DR. RICHARD ANGELL

Prepared by
JAMES R. ANGELL,
New Orleans, La.

PRICE 35c AND 65c
AT ALL DRUGGISTS

Good Book Suggestions
For The Minister's Library

Wit and Wisdom of Warren Akin Candler

EDITED BY ELAM FRANKLIN DEMPSEY

"The selections covering a wide range of topics will be valued by the many friends of the eloquent and wise Bishop, and it will be a strange thing indeed if they do not occasionally reappear in the pulpit and forensic deliverances of the younger brethren of the ministry throughout the Southland." (New York Christian Advocate.)

$1.50

Shorten The Line

BY ARTHUR MADISON SHAW

The reasonable plea of this book is that preachers and other religious teachers should cease to waste their energies in defending points of indifferent value and concentrate upon the vital facts and truths of the Christian religion. Any preacher of any denomination will profit by giving it a careful reading, and no Methodist minister can afford to miss it.

$1.00

Christianity and the Man of To-Day

BY REV. GEORGE STANLEY FRAZER, Litt.D.

"The nuthor has an unusual understanding of those thoughts which lie hidden in the heart of man and has portrayed those vast secrets in vivid word pictures. Brilliancy of thought and brilliancy of expression are both present in this book." (Robert H. McPherson, in Nashville Christian Advocate.)

$1.00

Methodism: Its History, Teaching, and Government

BY REV. GEORGE STANLEY FRAZER, Litt.D.

"I welcome the publication of this book. The author has proven himself to be a true interpreter of the spirit and genius of Methodism. This book shows a vast amount of reading and a clear insight into the significance of history, the meaning of doctrine, and the value of institutons." (Bishop Edwin D. Mouzon.)

75c.

LOOK FOR OUR REPRESENTATIVE AT CONFERENCE

Publishing House M. E. Church, South

LAMAR & BARTON, Agents, Dept. B-30, Nashville, Dallas, Richmond

Mississippi Conference Sunday School Treasurer's Report.

(Continued from Page 12)

Gasque Chapel	3.47
Homewood	3.46
Lake	2.87
First Church	40.00
Total	$208.73

Seashore District.

Biloxi	$ 19.33
Columbia	25.00
Escatawpa	5.41
Gulfport	15.00
Moss Point	13.21
Pascagoula	7.08
Vaucleave	15.00
New Prospect	4.35
Wiggins	5.41
Bay St. Louis	17.98
Coalville	4.38
Orange Grove	3.00
Logtown	9.57
Pine Grove	4.70
Ocean Springs	6.00
Picayune	7.06
Mt. Pleasant	21.00
Baek Bay	16.67
Total

Vicksburg District.

Sunflower	$ 3.00
Fayette	19.00
Lorman	9.15
Natehez	18.89
Oak Grove	6.00
Silver City	7.50
Gibson Memorial	15.00
Centerville	7.00
Liberty	6.00
Mayersville	6.00
Nebo	7.00
Rolling Fork	14.06
Crawford Street	20.00
Washington	5.00
Holly Bluff	8.86
Total	$119.46

By eomparing this with the Conference Journal you will see that we are $384 behind last year. We hope and pray this will be changed in these last few days. Yours sincerely,

GARNER M. LESTER.
P. O. Box 548, Jackson, Miss.

THE HOME BETTERMENT CONGRESS.

It is a very significant fact that the Southern Co-operative League for Edueation and Social Work is calling the moral leadership of the Southland in a great Home Betterment Congress to be held in Nashville, Tenn., December 3 to 6. The entire program for the four days will be devoted to a study of this supremely important subject and how to re-enforce and exait the home above all other institutions in modern society.

The leaders in this movement feel that the American Home is the fountain from which must flow the stream of Christian life which is the one hope of saving elvilization in the next generation. They are calling upon churches and schools and other ageneies in the sixteen Southern States to send delegates to help in leading a crusade for the purification and exaltation of the home. It is felt that the South has a special responsibility in this matter.

Persons desiring to attend may secure programs and other information about this Congress by writing the Secretary, Mr. J. E. McCulloch, 937 Woodward Building. Washington, D. C.

PRAYER.

O Thou, who art the God of all grace, enable us now to come in simplicity and with all our heart, to Thee who art the Fountain of Life. Help us to aecept the life that is offered to us in Christ Jesus, and to realize the great things that are given us in Him. Espeeially may we believe that the life He lived in eommunion with Thee may be ours also, a life forgiven, at peace, an energetie and hopeful fulfiment of God's will.—Marcus Dods.

A LOVE TOKEN.

Nina M. Langford.

In every woodland tree,
Each wayside flower,
My eyes behold thy goodness, Lord.
In each glad shower
And softly-singing breeze, I see
A love token, dear God, from Thee.

The friend who came to me
From out the night,
Was Thy hand reaching out, O Lord,
To point the Light.
Even the dark was meant to be
A love token, dear God, from Thee.

For every gift so free,
Or large or small,
I ne'er can show my gratitude.
But here's my all,
A joyful heart—each day to be
A love token, dear God, to Thee.

—Selected.

DO GOOD.

Do all the good you can,
By all the means you ean,
In all the ways you can,
In all the places you can,
At all the times you can,
To all the people you ean,
As long as ever you can.

—John Wesley.

QUARTERLY CONFERENCES.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

Meridian Dist.—Fourth Round.

Matherville, at Langsdale, Nov. 17.
Waynesboro ct., at Hebron, Nov. 18, 19.
Waynesboro, p.m., Nov. 19.
DeSoto, Nov. 25, 26.
Shubuta, p.m., Nov. 26.

PAUL D. HARDIN, P. E.

Brookhaven Dist.—Fourth Round.

Osyka ct., at Osyka, Nov. 18, 19.
MeComb, La Branch st., Nov. 19, 20.
Barlow ct., at Brandywine, Nov. 25, 26.
Georgetown ct., at Georgetown, Nov. 26.

H. M. ELLIS, P. E.

Hattiesburg Dist.—Fourth Round.

Lucedale ct., at Merrill, Oct. 16, 11 a.m.
Leakesville, at Winburn Chapel, Nov. 15, 11 a.m.
Hattiesburg, Main St., Nov. 26, 11 a.m.
Sumrall, Nov. 26, 27, 7 p.m.

Pastors, please see to it that your Board of Trustees and your Woman's Missionary Societies have full written reports. W. W. GRAVES, P. E.

Vicksburg Dist.—Fourth Round.

Mayersville, 11 a.m., Nov. 19.
Angulila, 7 p.m., Nov. 19.
Loulse and Holly Bluff, at Louise, 11 a.m., Nov. 26.
Silver City, at ———, 7 p.m., Nov. 26.

J. R. JONES, P. E.

Newton Dist.—Fourth Round.

Chunky, at Suqualena, Nov. 18, 19.
Deeatur and Hlekory, at Hickory, Nov. 25, 26.

The trustees of church property will please make aeeurate reports in answer to the diseiplinary questions. Reports from Woman Missionary Societies are expected.

J. A. MOORE, P. E.

Seashore Dist.—Fourth Round.

Biloxi, Tues., 7:30 p.m., Nov. 21.
Brooklyn, Wed., 7:30 p.m., Nov. 22.
Wesley Memorial, Nov. 26.

Let the pastors see to it that the trustees have their reports; and let the stewards please colleet the pastors' salaries. If the pastors are diligent and the stewards faithful, the district will make a full report at Conference. Let us pray and work together. W. M. SULLIVAN, P. E.

Jackson Dist.—Fourth Round.

Eden, Nov. 18, 11 a.m.
Yazoo City, Nov. 19, 11 a.m.-2 p.m.
Flora, Nov. 19, 5:30-7:30 p.m.
Monterey, Nov. 25-26, 11 a.m.
Brandon, Nov. 26, 3 p.m.-7:30 p.m.

Let the preachers and laymen put forth every effort, not only to answer the questions of the fourth quarterly conferenee, but to have full reports. We have had great revivals in all of the eharges during the year. "Then let us render unto the Lord thanksgiving for His goodness."

M. L. BURTON, P. E.

Enrich Your Blood With This Newer Form of Iron

For many years physicians and chemists experimented to produce a newer form of iron, like the iron in your blood, because they realized that the old metallic irons often blackened the teeth and upset the stomach. Their examinations proved that three people out of every four were deficient in iron content in the blood and that thousands were weak, sick, nervous, ailing and run-down, and suffering from all sorts of alarming symptoms, when as a matter of fact their trouble was all due to iron starvation of the blood. At last they discovered this newer form of iron, like the iron in spinach, lentils and apples in highly concentrated form. It quickly helps put strength into your muscles and color into your cheeks. Get your doctor to take your red blood count today, then take this newer form of iron known as Nuxated Iron for a few weeks and watch your red blood corpuscles increase; see how much purer and richer your blood becomes; how much stronger and better you feel; what difference it makes in your nerves. Over 4,000,000 people annually are using Nuxated Iron. Your money will be refunded if you do not obtain satisfactory results. In tablet form only. At all druggists.

NOTE: Nuxated Iron has been used for years whenever needed in the family of the Advertising Representative of this paper with excellent results. We are able to guarantee that if you do not obtain all and even greater benefits than you expect from Nuxated Iron, the manufacturers will promptly refund your money.—Adv.

Wanted—Salesmen

to sell our "Good For All Time Monuments," made from GRANITE or the famous GEORGIA MARBLE—at reasonable prices. Must be competent and responsible—no risk—no investment. Liberal commission.

One representative recently sent us 31 orders for one month and we executed 31 orders for him that month—one order per day.

Farmers, Merchants, Bankers, Ministers and others have been successfully selling our monuments for more than 20 years—spare or full time.

Write Us To-day For Our Proposition.

Roberts Marble Co., Ball Ground, Ga.

ECZEMA

PSORIASIS - ITCH

RU-BON will remove every spot. Ask your Druggist. Made by RU-BON Chemical Co., Kansas City, Mo.

FREE BOOK ABOUT CANCER.

The Indianapolis Caneer Hospital, Indianapolis, Indiana, has published a bookiet which gives interesting facts about the cause of Cancer, also tells what to do for paln, bleeding, odor, etc. A valuable guide in the management of any case. Write for it to-day, mentioning this paper.—Adv.

CHRISTMAS

Cards Gifts
Folders Decorations
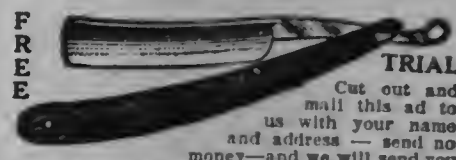
Order Early
Write for Catalog
DAMERON-PIERSON CO., LIMITED
Social Engravers
New Orleans

Look to Your Eyes

Beautiful Eyes, like fine Teeth, are the result of Constant Care. The daily use of Murine makes Eyes Clear and Radiant. Enjoyable. Harmless. Sold and Recommended by All Druggists.

MURINE FOR YOUR EYES

FREE TRIAL



Cut out and mail this ad to us with your name and address — send no money—and we will send you this fine Razor for 30 days' FREE trial. When satisfied after using, send $1.95 or return razor. Order today.
American Razor Works, Dept. N37, 1575 Ogden Av., Chicago

School Desks

Opera Chairs.
Folding Chairs,
Kindergarten Chairs.
School Supplies,
Blackboards.

SOUTHERN OESK CO., Hickory, N. C.

BROTHER:—I would like to correspond with all who want to overcome tobacco habit easily, inexpensiveiy and without medicine. Just send address.
D. D. Stokes, Mohawk, Florida.

CANCER HOSPITAL. Intra-venous treatment for cancer. Operation, Radium and X-Ray unnecessary. Booklet giving full information upon request. Box 2127, ATLANTA, GA.

Headaches

Are Usually Due to Constipation

When you are constipated, not enough of Nature's lubricating liquid is produced in the bowel to keep the food waste soft and moving. Doctors prescribe Nujol because it acts like this natural lubricant and thus replaces it.

Nujol is a lubricant—not a medicine or laxative — so cannot gripe. Try it today.

Nujol

REG. U.S. PAT. OFF.

A LUBRICANT—NOT A LAXATIVE

Woman's Missionary Society

All communications for this Department should be sent to Mrs. J. G. Snelling, 1431 Octavia St., New Orleans, La.

TO EACH WOMAN IN THE MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

Dear Friends: Election time is near and I want a word with you—

"The Child of To-day Makes the Citizen of To-morrow.
The Citizen of To-day Makes the Nation of To-morrow.
The Nation of To-day Makes the World of To-morrow.

Are you Training the Child of To-day?
Are you Teaching Them to Know God?
Are you Giving Them an Interest in Mankind?
Are you Training Them for Christian Service?

Missionary Education Gives World Vision.
Missionary Education Shows Human Needs.
Missionary Education Reveals God's Program.
Missionary Education Enlists in the Work of Christ.

It is Essential to Educate the Youth.
They Make the Church of To-morrow
It is Important to Interest the Youth in Missions.
This Interest developes Sympathy and Character."

So please be very prayerful and careful in your election of Superintendent of Children's work. Select the best woman you have in your auxiliary for this office and then stand by to help her. Give her a good corps of assistants. Magnify this department and you will work wisely and well—building for eternity.

May God direct you in your choice and prepare her who could best serve here.

Very sincerely yours,
ALTHEA JONES,
Superintendent Children's Work
Woman's Missionary Council M. E. Church, South.

IN THE NEW BUILDING.

The Board of Missions is now occupying quarters in the new Lambuth Building. The Woman's Department is enjoying its beautiful and convenient offices, and while not entirely recovered from the horrors of moving day, most of the offices present "lived-in" appearances, and the interrupted routine goes briskly on. In a few more weeks entire order will be achieved and work will be done with much greater ease than was possible in the old, cramped quarters.

A WORD ABOUT "STYLUS."

A good many years ago the Woman's Missionary Council published a leaflet outlining rather fully the work of the Bible women in China. This leaflet has been reprinted many, many times and has served better than anything else to give an adequate report of the Bible woman's work. We have been realizing, however, that something fresh and new was needed to meet the demands of the present time, and, therefore, asked Miss Mary Culler White, because of her splendid literary gifts, to prepare a new pamphlet on Bible women's work in China.

While this thought was developing in our minds another need was realized, and that was that we should be able to get in some more satisfactory form reports of the Bible women and scholarships in China that might be sent to all of the supporters of these specials in that field. It had been decided two years ago that instead of requiring each missionary to write lengthy, personal reports of the Bible women, it would be better to require the mission to appoint some one to write a report of the Bible woman's work as a whole for each year. The Reference Committee on the field was intrusted with this responsibility for the year 1921. When they looked about to see who would be the best one to combine into one report the reports of the different Bible women, they also turned to Miss Culler White to make this compilation.

When Miss White faced the two duties that had been intrusted to her, one by the Woman's Missionary Council and one by the Reference Committee on the field, and attempted to fulfill the desires of each, she realized that possibly the best thing to do would be to combine the two requests into one, and under the inspiration of that thought she has worked out the charming and delightful story of "Stylus." The readers of this delightful story should know that this is a bona fide report of the work of the Bible women and scholarships for the year 1921. It is just as real a report as though it were in conventional form, true to the facts. The imaginary trip taken by Stylus was in the months of December, 1921, and January, 1922. This is not an attempt to make a complete report of the work in China. This also should be remembered by the reader. It is only an attempt to make report of those schools that received scholarships during 1921 and makes mention only of those missionaries who are actually in charge of Bible woman's work.

The Woman's Missionary Council desires to express on behalf of all the women of the missionary societies, and especially on behalf of the supporters of Bible women and scholarships, deep gratitude to Miss Mary Culler White for this labor of love, which we believe will bring keen delight to every one who reads. We would also take this opportunity to express our deep gratitude to the supporters of these specials in the needy China field. MABEL K. HOWELL.

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.

Social Service Meeting at Natchitoches.

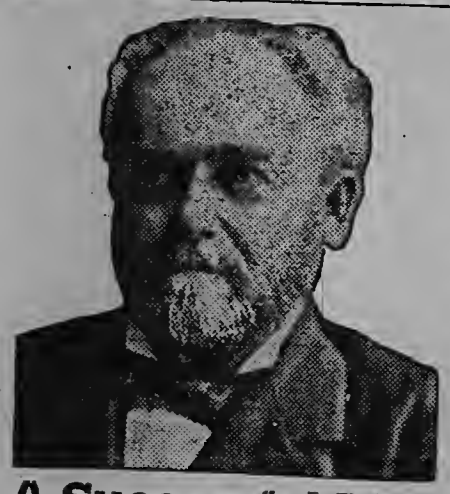
On Thursday, Sept. 14, the W. M. S. of the Methodist Church held a very fruitful Social Service Meeting, conducted by Mrs. H. T. Young. The subject of the program was "The Family as a Social Agency."

A splendid devotional was led by Rev. H. T. Young upon II Tim. 1:5, "When I call to remembrance the unfeigned faith that is in thee, which dwelt first in thy grandmother Lois and thy mother Eunice; and I am persuaded that in thee also"—spiritual heredity and the incalculable value of religious training in the home were earnestly dwelt upon. An eloquent plea was made for spiritual ascendency over all other phases of life. A crystal thought was left for meditation in the instance of the old grey haired mother who sat silently listening to the raptures of how wonderfully John was getting on in the world and quietly asked, "which world is John doing so well in?"

Mrs. Henry Turpin gave a helpful talk upon "The Family, the Foundation Upon which Civilization Rests." She gave a vivid comparison between the family life of ante-bellum days, when the home was the center of activities, all members of the family sharing in the happy work—and the family life of to-day when the mad rush of living and often working away from home had destroyed the sacred family unit and relationship. A plea was made for a return to the spirit of the old custom of family prayer in the home and the patient teaching and training of mother and father, realizing that "What shall it profit man if he gain the whole world and lose his children!"

This was followed by a plea by Mrs. Gaiennie Hyams, who said it was fitting as a culmination of these talks to remember the example of Jesus—how he always "practiced what he preached;" that he not only condemned the destruction of the temple—but he cleansed it; that He said, "I am meek and lowly in heart" and if any one doubted it, let them see Him as he washed the diciples feet; that His heart was not only full of compassion as he heard the cry of the blind man—but He healed him! Jesus was the greatest teacher in the world but He never failed to put that teaching into practice. He did things. As a result of the plea definite plans were made for the social life of the young people of the church and it was decided to have a fine Sunday School Library.

CHAMBERLAIN'S TABLETS
-SOLD EVERYWHERE FOR-
CONSTIPATION
BILIOUSNESS
Headache
INDIGESTION
Stomach Trouble



A Successful Man

Among the notable professional men of this country who achieved great success along strictly legitimate lines was Dr. R. V. Pierce. Devoting his attention to the specialty of women's diseases, he became a recognized authority in that line.

Over fifty years ago this noted physician gave to the world a Prescription which has never been equaled for the weaknesses of women. Dr. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., long since found out what is naturally best for women's diseases. He learned it all thru treating thousands of cases. The result of his studies was a medicine called Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription. This medicine is made of vegetable growths that nature surely intended for backache, headache, weakening pains, and for the many disorders common to women in all ages of life. Women who take this standard remedy know that in Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription they are getting a safe woman's tonic so good that druggists everywhere sell it in both tablet and fluid form.

Send 10c to Dr. Pierce's Invalids Hotel in Buffalo, N. Y., for trial pkg. Write for free medical advice.

TRY RENWAR FOR RHEUMATISM.

It is not necessary any longer for you to suffer those intense pains and aches of rheumatism. Renwar is a salts combination sclentifically prepared to neutralize the uric acid in the blood, and thereby cure rheumatism. Don't wait until those rheumatic pains return. Buy a bottle of Renwar, and forget about that rheumatism. Renwar is an old well-established remedy. It is prescribed by the best physicians, and has thousands of friends. President L. A. Bauman of Varley & Bauman Company, Nashville, says, "Renwar entirely relieved me of my rheumatism." For sale by druggists. Price 50 cents. Positively guaranteed by money-back offer. If your druggist doesn't carry Renwar in stock, tell him to order it for you from Warner Drug Company, Nashville, Tenn.

PILES Don't Be Cut
Until You Try This Wonderful Treatment

My internal method of treatment is the correct one, and is sanctioned by the best informed physicians and surgeons. Ointments, salves and other local applications give only temporary relief.

If you have piles in any form write for a FREE sample of Page's Pile Tablets and you will bless the day that you read this. Write today.

E. R. PAGE 430J Page Bldg., Marshall, Mich.

Dodson's Liver Tone
Instead of Calomel

Calomel is quicksilver. It attacks the bones and paralyzes the liver. Your dealer sells each bottle of pleasant, harmless "Dodson's Liver Tone" under an ironclad, money-back guarantee that it will regulate the liver, stomach and bowels better than calomel, without sickening or salivating you—15 million bottles sold.—Adv.

ECZEMA
IS CURABLE

Write me today and I will send you a free trial of my mild, soothing, guaranteed treatment that will prove it. Stops the itching and heals permanently. Send no money—just write me—that is all you have to do. Address
Dr. Cannaday, 1225 Park Squire, Sedalia, Mo.

DANDRUFF
quickly disappears when
TETTERINE
is applied. Fragrant and Soothing. 60c at your Druggist's, or from The SHUPTRINE CO., SAVANNAH, GA.

A SERMON FOR STEWARDS.

By Elam F. Dempsey, D.D.

Text: "The Lord ordained that they which preach the Gospel should live of the Gospel." First Cor. 9:14.

The pastor's salary is an ordinance of God.

It is an ordinance that is rooted in the distant past, as indicated in Paul's question, "Do ye not know that they which minister about holy things live on the things of the temple, and they which wait at the altar are partakers with the altar?" First Cor. 9:13.

In the Methodist Church, the observance of this ordinance so divine and so historic, is entrusted to the steward.

"Moreover, it is required in stewards, that a man be found faithful." First Cor. 4:2.

He who is unfaithful in observing the ordinance is, also, and thereby, unfaithful to Him who established the ordinance.

Unfaithfulness, therefore, to his financial duties by a steward is infidelity to God.

And to be disloyal to God is to doom one's soul.

On the other hand, "He that receiveth a prophet in the name of a prophet shall receive a prophet's reward." Matt. 10:41.

Even though the faithful steward feels, after he has done all that he can for his pastor, that it is a very much smaller thing than he wished to do, yet let him remember that his pastor's Lord has said, "Whosoever shall give you a cup of water to drink, in my name, because ye belong to Christ, verily I say unto you, he shall not lose his reward." Mk. 9:41.

Brother Steward, shun the woe and gain the weal by "keeping the ordinance as it is delivered unto you." First Cor. 11:2.

BETTER RACE FEELING.

A movement which is working for good and not receiving the appreciation it deserves is that of promoting better feeling and clearer understanding between the white and colored people of the South. The work is being done by what is known as the Southern Commission on Inter-racial Co-operation, with headquarters in Atlanta. Two-thirds of the counties of the thirteen Southern States have local organizations of representatives of the white and colored people, respectively. Kentucky has recently supplied two illustrations of the benefits which accrue.

At Madisonville when a mob formed to seek out a drug-crazed negro who had murdered the sheriff, the commission met and it was soon clear to everybody that the guilt was that of an individual and not that of a class. The negroes joined in the search for the assassin. They deplored the act. Sheriff Hanson had been friendly to the negroes and the friendship had been reciprocal. The guilty man was legally tried and legally executed. The mob had considered burning the negro section and precipitating a race war. The saner course was followed because the inter-racial commission could appeal to public sentiment in a sensible way.

At Corbin a negro was wrongly accused of cutting a white man. The cutting was not even by a member of the race of the accused. The ringleaders of the mob which formed and herded all of the negroes of the town was sent to the penitentiary through the efforts of the inter-racial commission.

Mob law is anarchy. It brutalizes the community. It lowers the standards of whites and blacks. It discourages the ambitions of negroes to be good citizens. It is anarchy and has no place in civilization. Everybody knows these things, but it takes organization to make the knowledge effective.—Louisville Times.

THINGS A PREACHER SHOULD DO.

Grow in grace, power and adaptation to his work.

Keep up the reputation of his class by being just as good a man as possible.

Read the most important new (safe) books if he can possibly buy them or borrow them.

Cultivate habits of punctuality, begin every service on time and close it on time.

Interest himself in the children and young people, for their good and his own.

Take kindly all honest criticism, and learn something from that which is not kindly.

Make a vigorous push for honest success, doing his very very best all the time.

Neglect nothing; small matters neglected by a preacher soon provoke much justifiable fault-finding.

Avoid condemning in haste a brother minister; as carefully avoid defending a bad man because he is a minister.

Take time in deciding difficult questions arising in his church. The silence of the pastor will often convince both parties that they are wrong, and a well-pondered judgment will have weight.—Wesleyan Christian Advocate.

The only way to regenerate the world is to do the duty which lies nearest us, and not to hunt after grand far-fetched ones for ourselves. If each drop of rain chose where it should fall, God's showers would not fall, as they now do, on the evil and on the good alike. * * * Be sure that he who is not faithful in a little will never be fit to be ruler over much. He who cannot rule his own household will never (as St. Paul says) rule the church of God; and he who cannot keep his temper or be self-sacrificing, cheerful, tender, attentive at home, will never be of any real and permanent use to God's poor abroad.—Charles Kingsley.

CHAMBERLAIN'S COUGH REMEDY
FOR THE RELIEF OF
Coughs, Colds, Croup
WHOOPING COUGH, HOARSENESS
BRONCHITIS
—SOLD EVERYWHERE—

BOHNE & WILT, Booksellers, and Stationers, 1328 Dryades St., New Orleans, La. Baseball Goods, Religious Articles, Fishing Tackle, Periodicals, School Books.

TETTERINE
Makes Hair Beautiful, Free from Dandruff and Keeps the Scalp Healthy. 60c at your Druggist's, or from The SHUPTRINE CO., SAVANNAH, GA.

HALF THE FIGHT AGAINST ILLNESS

Keep the Liver Prepared to Do Its Duty in Cleansing the System. Black-Draught Will Help.

Kernersville, N. C.—Mrs. Wesley Mabe, who resides near here, says Thedford's Black-Draught is kept in her home all the time, since it has proved very valuable when used to correct derangements of the liver, stomach and bowels, and to help prevent sickness from developing from such conditions.

"For dizziness, headaches, colds, and similar troubles, Black-Draught is a wonder," according to Mrs. Mabe.

"It helps carry away bile and cold the easiest of any medicine I ever saw.

"I have used Black-Draught with my whole family, and will continue to do so, as it has proven its worth. We are glad to recommend Black-Draught. My health is just fine."

Black-Draught has been found a useful adjuvant in breaking up colds, when the use of a laxative or cathartic medicine is indicated. It acts upon the liver as a tonic, helping it to drive poisons and unhealthful matters from the system.

Biliousness, dizziness, coated tongue, bitter taste in the mouth, often warn you that your liver is out of fix. Don't neglect it. Prevention of illness is better than cure. Take Black-Draught, for your liver. Be sure you get Thedford's.

Most druggists sell Black-Draught. Get a package, to-day—Thedford's.—Adv.

DEEP-SEATED FRECKLES
Need attention NOW or may remain all winter. Use the old and time-tried guaranteed treatment that has given satisfaction to millions of women for over 14 years, and rid yourself of these homely spots. Ask for
Othine--Double Strength
At all Druggists and Department Stores.

Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic
Stops Malaria, Restores Strength and Energy. 60c

Home-made Remedy Stops Coughs Quickly
The best cough medicine you ever used. A family supply easily and quickly made. Saves about $2.

You might be surprised to know that the best thing you can use for a severe cough, is a remedy which is easily prepared at home in just a few moments. It's cheap, but for prompt results it beats anything else you ever tried. Usually stops the ordinary cough or chest cold in 24 hours. Tastes pleasant, too—children like it—and it is pure and good.

Pour 2½ ounces of Pinex in a pint bottle; then fill it up with plain granulated sugar syrup. Or use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup, if desired. Thus you make a full pint—a family supply—but costing no more than a small bottle of ready-made cough syrup.

And as a cough medicine, there is really nothing better to be had at any price. It goes right to the spot and gives quick, lasting relief. It promptly heals the inflamed membranes that line the throat and air passages, stops the annoying throat tickle, loosens the phlegm, and soon your cough stops entirely. Splendid for bronchitis, croup, hoarseness and bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of Norway pine extract, famous for its healing effect on the membranes.

To avoid disappointment ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

"PUT THE BEST BEFORE YOUR GUEST"
Henry Clay Brand Coffee
NOT JUST ORDINARY COFFEE
IT IS BETTER
FOR SALE AT ALL FIRST CLASS GROCERS

You'll feel better as soon as you swallow the first one. Two or three pills usually stop all the pain.
DR. MILES' ANTI-PAIN PILLS
are absolutely free from all narcotics and habit-forming drugs. They relieve without danger and without bad after effects. Your druggist sells them.

FROM SUMRALL, MISS.

Dear Doctor Carley: Our church in Sumrall has just experienced a splendid revival. Some of the brethren feel that it is the best the congregation has ever enjoyed. The entire town has experienced a great spiritual uplift. There were twenty-five accessions to our church, and two united with the Baptists. The Baptist pastor and his congregation co-operated with us, and did much to make the meeting a success. Permanent features of the meeting were the organization of a weekly prayer meeting for business men, and cottage prayer meetings for the women. Evangelist Haynes, and Singer Waltmeyer greatly endeared themselves to the community.

During our pastorate of three years, we have received one hundred and fifteen members, painted the parsonage, put in bath, and organized a Junior League.

Sumrall station is a good place to serve. Pastor's family is almost daily remembered in a substantial way.

One hundred per cent for Conference! Cordially,

H. MELLARD.

FROM MAGNOLIA, MISS.

Dear Brother Carley: On November 7, at 7:30 p.m., we had our fourth quarterly conference. Brother H. M. Ellis, our presiding elder, was with us in his usual good humor.

The business of the conference went off nicely, and we are now ready for Bishop Ainsworth with "Everything in full." We were the first charge in the district (so I am informed) to pay all Conference and General funds. I am glad, because that is not all that Magnolia can lead in.

We have a fine people here, and they have been loyal, and, may I say, working at the job all the year. Our Treasurer reported that $9,148 had been raised during the year up to this time.

There have been quite a number of improvements made on both church and parsonage. The ladies of the W. M. S. began at the first of the year on the parsonage to make it comfortable, so at this time we are very pleasantly situated. By the way, the W. M. S. is composed of as fine a lot of women as I know. Their report shows over $1,200 raised.

Our Sunday school and Epworth League both have a new superintendent and a new president, and are working toward the front. We do not intend to stop until we reach the mark laid down by the church on Standards of Efficiency.

Taking all in all, we are happy, and have had a good year from the preacher's viewpoint. May God's richest blessings rest upon these people and His church at Magnolia is the prayer of the pastor. C. P. JONES.

One of the deepest needs of the Christian movement is a fresh sense of the indispensableness of our Lord. He is bread, without which the world starves. Materialism is leaving the souls of men famished, and our generation—its mind full of facts without spiritual meaning, its hands full of powers without spiritual use—is finding that out. Men everywhere are hungry for a gospel which they can honestly believe to be true and which will feed their souls. Jesus Christ Himself is the answer to that need, if only we can present Him so that His Divine Life will capture men's adoration and His principles command their allegiance.—Fosdick.

The sorrowful acceptance of life's tragedies is of value only when it prompts us to guard more jealously, or to impart more freely, life's benefactions.—Agnes Repplier.

Antiseptic Mul-en-ol

Favorite for forty years.
Old friends can be trusted.
Stomach pains and nausea quickly relieved.
Also fine application for cuts and burns.

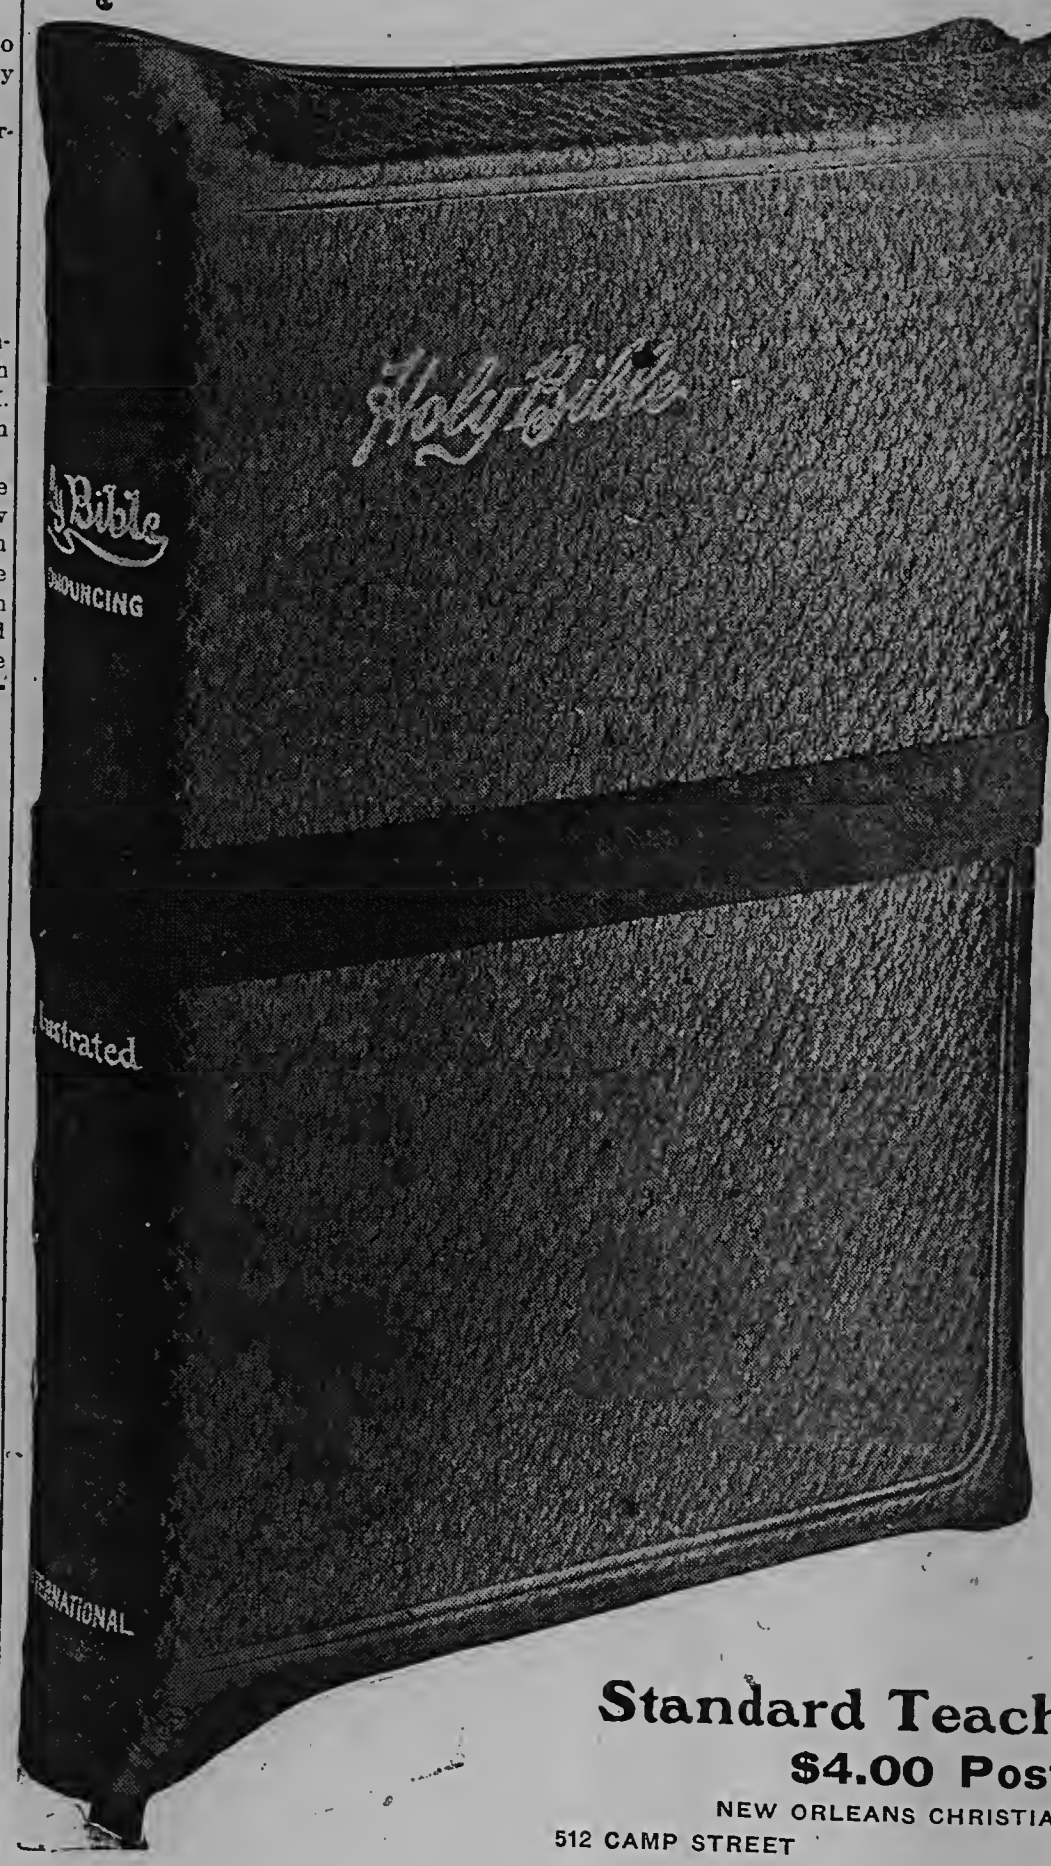
15, 30, 60 cts. Sizes
FINLAY, DICKS & CO., INC.,
NEW ORLEANS.

MOTHER!

Clean Child's Bowels with "California Fig Syrup"

Even a sick child loves the "fruity" taste of "California Fig Syrup." If the little tongue is coated, or if your child is listless, cross, feverish, full of cold, or has colic, give a teaspoonful to cleans the liver and bowels. In a few hours you can see for yourself how thoroughly it works all the constipation poison, sour bile and waste out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again.

Millions of mothers keep "California Fig Syrup" handy. They know a teaspoonful to-day saves a sick child tomorrow. Ask your druggist for genuine "California Fig Syrup" which has directions for babies and children of all ages printed on bottle. Mother! You must say "California" or you may get an imitation fig syrup. —Adv.



Standard Teachers' Bible

FLEXIBLE
LEATHER BINDING
5½ x 8½ inches

SELF-PRONOUNCING EDITION WITH

Concordance

Beautifully Bound with overlapping cover, red under gold edges; 16 colored maps of BIBLE Lands.

LARGE CLEAR PRINT

This is a handsome book and is sold at a very reasonable price.

Price, $4.00

POSTPAID

SEND ORDERS
TO
NEW ORLEANS
CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE

Standard Teachers' Bible
$4.00 Postpaid
NEW ORLEANS CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE
512 CAMP STREET NEW ORLEANS, LA.

NEW ORLEANS

CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE

Vol. 69—No. 47. Official Organ of the Louisiana, Mississippi, and North Mississippi Conferences, Methodist Episcopal Church, South. Whole No. 3485.

HENRY T. CARLEY, Editor. NEW ORLEANS, LA., THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 23, 1922. CHAS. O. CHALMERS, Manager.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

THE ONLY HOPE.

A man may think that he is indifferent to religion—but he thinks so only when he allows the voice of conscience to be hushed by the clamor of materialistic and selfish interests around him. In those quiet moments that come to every person now and then, when he faces the great facts of God, the soul, sin, the future, immortality, heaven, hell, he knows that he is more than of the earth, earthy, and that he is unmistakably bound to the Infinite by ties that are ever pulling him upward. And when the cares of life encompass him, the sorrows of life get hold upon him, the disappointments of life engulf him, the tragedies of life sweep over him, instinctively he turns to God for help. And that help is ever-present! If the consolations of religion in this world were removed, our lot would be most miserable; how much more would it be so if the future presented only an impenetrable wall of black despair!

WE THINK IT IS TIME.

In an official bulletin issued by the Publicity Director of Northwestern University, we find the following: "A campaign of kindness to be conducted by girl students at Northwestern University has been planned and is about to be opened on the Evanston campus. It is to have three major features, as follows: First, all of the eighteen sororities have agreed to give up their regular semester dance this fall and devote the $3 per ticket to the fund for impoverished European students, which will probably furnish a purse of at least $2000. " We do not know anything about the kind of dances the eighteen sororities of Northwestern are in the habit of giving—they may be perfectly harmless, though we know of very few dances that are harmless; but we think it is high time that a custom that certainly must involve a good deal of social dissipation be ended, if not by the voluntary agreement of the sororities, then by the authorities of the university. We are glad that the money thus saved is to be devoted to so worthy a cause.

EXPERIENCE IS THE THING.

The following, taken from an article by Rev. H. S. Wilkenson in a recent number of the Central Christian Advocate, is worth passing along to our readers: "We cannot too strongly emphasize the necessity of a Christian experience. To the early Christian each fellow believer was a wonder to his brethren. He was a 'new creation.' The Spirit of God had created him anew in the image of God. Healings, deliverances, overthrowings of Satan, were, of course, commonly expected achievements in the career of a God-insphering man. Life was lived in the atmosphere of the supernatural. Were they jailed?—their God gave them songs in the night and miraculous deliverance. Were they harassed by demon-possessed?—their God would, of course, cast out the demons. Were they storm-swept on the great sea?—no night so dark but the angel of God could find them and stand by with promise of safety. Naturally the power of sin was deemed to be broken, for the man of sin had been crucified on the cross with the bleeding Christ. Certainly they expected to triumph in their mission. Superhuman tasks need not daunt supernatural men. Hence their lives were perpetual manifestations of the conquest of the 'unconquerable,' the achievement of the impossible. In God they triumphed. They joyed with joy unspeakable, they sang and fought, and fought and sang their victorious way to heaven, for in them and with them by day and by night throughout all the fiery episodes of life was the ineffable glory of the divine presence."

A CLEAN SWEEP.

We saw this the other day: "If a broom doesn't sweep clean when it's new, you might as well get rid of it at once." The application of this thought to our work suggests that the activities of a whole year may be typed by the method of procedure during the first few weeks.

THE OPINION OF A CAPITALIST.

In connection with an article appearing in the November issue of the "Survey Graphic," based on a study of working conditions in the Elk Basin crude oil producing field in Wyoming, Mr. John D. Rockefeller, Jr., one of the best known men of the capitalistic group in America, takes occasion to express his opinion concerning some of the questions that are constantly agitating the industrial world. Coming from the source they do, his words carry great weight, and we give them as an indication that the cause of social justice is steadily gaining ground in quarters where formerly opposition was largely looked for. Mr. Rockefeller says: "I believe that, generally speaking, the twelve-hour day and the seven-day week should no longer be tolerated in industry, either from the viewpoint of public policy or of industrial efficiency; I believe that both have been proved to be unnecessary, uneconomic, and unjustifiable. As a matter of general policy, subject only to the demands of occasional emergency, modern industry is justified in accepting the eight-hour day and the six-day week as a labor standard toward which all the parties interested should steadily press. Even in those industries where the continuous process is an inevitable feature, the routine should be so adjusted that the employes can have at least one day's rest in seven, and can obtain that share of leisure for self-development which accompanies the work day of approximately eight hours.  I welcome every aid from whatever source, as men of like mind and common purpose try to raise industry to a level of public service and thereby to make the world a better place for all men to live in."

JOIN THE RED CROSS.

The following statement by Mr. Herbert Hoover emphasizes the importance of supporting the American Red Cross by responding to its Annual Roll Call: "An appalling situation of suffering, involving hundreds of thousands of people who have been forced to flee from their homes in the Near East and to seek refuge in lands already burdened with care, has emphasized to the people of this country that the American Red Cross is our National Emergency Fund with which to meet great crises in disaster. The accentuation of the fact is the greater in that the particular calamity now appealing to humanity has fallen just in advance of the American Red Cross Annual Roll Call. The resources of the American Red Cross must be annually replenished through the Roll Call. This year the summons is seconded by a concrete emergency of the kind that is ever liable to be precipitated upon the world. It is impossible for the Red Cross to be dependent upon a public appeal for specific objects, because when emergency and disaster face us we have no time to wait until funds can be raised. The Red Cross is our ever-ready agency for responding to the call of calamity the moment the alarm is sounded."

DOES THE COURT KNOW?

According to recent press dispatches, the Supreme Court of California has ruled that since the King James version of the Bible is the accepted Protestant version and therefore sectarian, placing the Bible in the libraries of the public schools of California is a direct violation of the school law of that State. The law generally has many curious turns, and it may be that the statutes of California are so drawn that the Court was correct in its decision. We maintain, however, that the Court could have based its decision only on the law and not upon the facts in the case. If there is a book in the world that is non-sectarian, the Bible is that book. We still have a good many people who will "strain out a gnat and swallow a camel."

NOT EVEN THAT.

"There's nothing to some books except a good title"—and some of them are lacking in even that desirable feature. Still it is true that a man with an ugly face may have a heart of gold.

New Orleans Christian Advocate

OFFICE, No. 512 CAMP STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

Published every Thursday by the Publishing Committee for the Louisiana, Mississippi, and North Mississippi Conferences, Methodist Episcopal Church, South.

Entered at the Postoffice at New Orleans as Second-class Mail Matter. Accepted for mailing at special rate of postage provided for in Section 1103, Act of Oct. 3, 1917, authorized Oct. 30, 1918.

TERMS:

Subscription Rates: One year, $2.00; six months, $1.
To superannuates and widows of preachers, $1.

TO CONTRIBUTORS.

All copy submitted for publication should be legibly written on one side of the paper with pen and ink, or typewritten. Matters written with a lead pencil and rolled manuscripts are unacceptable. No copy will be returned unless postage is enclosed for that purpose. In no case will responsibility be assumed for the loss or non-return of articles—the writers should keep copies of them. We do not purchase matter of any kind.

INCENTIVE TO LIVE.

Yet will I live my life,
Dim though its mystery be,
Not wholly lost to sense, nor yet
Absorbed in what I see.

For me to have made one soul
The better for my birth;
To have added but one flower
To the garden of Earth;

To have struck one blow for truth
In the daily fight with lies;
To have done one deed of right
In the face of calumnies;

To have sown in the souls of men
One thought that will not die—
To have a link in the chain of life
Shall be immortality.

—Edwin Hatch.

AUTHORIZED EVANGELISM.

By Dr. R. L. Russell.

Since the General Conference of 1914, the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, has had "authorized evangelism." We recognize that "some are called to be evangelists," and we are putting the stamp of approval of the church upon them. The last General Conference reaffirmed its belief in authorized evangelism by declaring for an Annual Conference Committee on Evangelism and a General Conference Committee on Evangelism. The first-named committee recommends to the bishop for appointment district and Conference evangelists, and takes cognizance of their work. The General Conference Committee accepts and recommends to the bishop for appointment all evangelists. The character and reports of these authorized evangelists from district and General Conference are looked into annually by their respective committees and on the passage of their characters they receive appointment, just as the itinerant minister receives his appointment.

I do not have at hand the exact information as to the number of Conference evangelists that are in the church, but we have a large number, and I am sure many, if not all of them, are doing a great work for Christ and the church. I do happen to know that there are forty-two general evangelists, for I am dealing with them every week. These men have been carefully selected by a committee of careful, Christ-serving men. Their character and work are closely scrutinized each year, and their appointment made annually by the bishops of the church. I believe they are good men and they are making their contribution to the building of the Kingdom of God.

I believe the evangelists are in favor in the church as they have never been before. They do not deserve the severe criticism thrust at them in a recent number of one of our Conference organs. They recognize that they are called to be aids to the pastors, and none of them, so far as I know, desires to usurp the authority of the pastor, nor rob him of one dollar, or any honors or credit which are due him. One rank of the ministry should not allow itself to reflect upon another rank of the ministry when it is trying to fulfill its mission by doing the work of God in the way they feel called to do it, particularly since they are appointed by our church to do this work. "The hand cannot say to the foot, I have no need of thee; nor the eye to the ear, I have no need of thee, for we are members one of another." I stand for the defense of these men who stand for the defense of the church fully as much as this critic who did not sign his name to his article. I make no defense for the unauthorized evangelist. As a church, we know no evangelists except those appointed to the work. We would urge all of our pastors to use these appointed evangelists. They are of different types, of course, and each can do only his type of work. None of them are suited to every place any more than any one pastor can be suited to every situation. One evangelist would excel another in holding revivals in city churches; another in holding tabernacle meetings; another in good country towns; another in a smaller town, while others would do their best work in rural communities. We have tried to select general evangelists of all types. Before the pastor arranges for his revival meeting, if he does not know the evangelist who would suit him and his particular situation, it would be advisable for him to correspond with me, as the Secretary of the General Committee on Evanglism, as I might render him some assistance in selecting the man who would suit his particular situation. Oftentimes a pastor may be done an injustice by being placed in a charge where he is not suited to the situation. The same thing may be true with reference to our evangelists. All of them can do good work if they have the conditions to which they can adjust themselves. So it would be advisable for the pastors throughout the entire church, when in need of our general evangelists, to take up correspondence with this office, unless they know the men whom they seek.

These men deserve our prayer and our co-operation. If there are criticisms, let us be kind enough to make them to the man himself or to this Committee, and we will promise you that the criticisms will be dealt with in a fair way, but let no man "who lives in a glass house throw stones."

A SUPERANNUATE GOES A-VISITING.

By Rev. T. W. Adams.

At the Conference held at Yazoo City in December, 1884, I was appointed to the Benton circuit in Yazoo County. I did not select the work for myself, nor did the circuit select me for its pastor. Neither the circuit nor I had anything to do with the appointment. It was a genuine Methodist appointment. Bishop Linus Parker made the appointment without let or hindrance. If I had been consulted, I would not have gone to Benton; if Benton had been consulted, some other preacher would have been chosen. Genuine Methodism had the sway in those long-ago times. Would that it were so now! I don't believe in laying selfish and unholy hands on our machinery. If we are going to choose our own appointments, and the churches their pastors, let us do away altogether with our bishops and presiding elders. If they do not function freely and legitimately, we had better lay them aside and let every preacher and every pastoral work have an even and fair chance in the scramble. How many will say AMEN to this proposition? Newfangled Methodism has no attractions for me. I am doing my best to tolerate it; but I am not happy over the present way of running things. The former way of doing things was better by far than the present way, I verily believe.

It is not only not Methodistic, but it is not fair for the bishop to interview some preachers about their appointments and not interview all of them. The same rule ought to work with the churches—if one, then all. May the Lord lead us back to the good old days when the preachers got their appointments from the Lord—at least thought so. And the churches prayed that the Lord would send them the preacher that would do them the most good. I remember quite well that one church in my district was very much concerned about whom it would get for pastor the next year. I delivered myself in the pulpit Sunday morning about the matter. I told the congregation that if they would pray more and wire-pull less, the Lord would do something good for them. They didn't bother me any more. They were intent on getting a young man for their pastor; I sent them the oldest preacher that I could get. At the first quarterly conference, two or three of the stewards arose at the close of the meeting and thanked me for having done so well for them. They were all delighted with their old, experienced and eloquent pastor. When they left it in my hands, the Lord could direct me in the matter of choosing the best man. He will always direct if we give the opportunity. The great trouble is that we too often think we know better than the Lord does as to what is best for us. It is sad to me to see how the church boycotts the old preachers. It is wicked to deal in any such way with these old heroes. It had taken a lifetime to learn how to preach and to direct the activities of a church when they are shelved in favor of some gospel fledgling who knows but little about preaching and less about people.

Although Benton circuit was not chosen by me, I can say very truthfully that I have never served a better charge in my long pastoral life. I came near having two fights, but by a favoring providence I escaped without a scratch. I stayed in the ring to the end and was in nowise disfigured. I considered myself very fortunate. To my way of thinking, that was a wonderful achievement; not every preacher got out so well. I was mighty well satisfied with the Benton circuit. My wife said to me many times after we left Benton that I would never die satisfied until I got back to Yazoo County. The possibility of that pleasure is gone forever. I am too old and worn-out to serve anywhere. I try to even up by visiting my good former parishioners, and very dear friends, in the bounds of that circuit, once in awhile. In these visits I get much cheer and refreshing. I hang in tender and loving memory on the happenings of the years I served the circuit as pastor. I had some rough sledding at the beginning of my work there. It looked at first as if a mistake had been made in my appointment, but after a few weeks a more favorable turn came, and in three or four months it was evident that it was all right. I served the circuit for two years and would have stayed longer, but for fear that it would injure me to do so, as I was suffering from a severe throat trouble. I was sent to Hattiesburg, hoping to get some relief. In my visits to the Benton circuit I have great pleasure in talking about things that occurred thirty-six and thirty-seven years ago. What a wonderful blessing is memory! Sitting by the fireside in my last visit, some of the younger people asked me to tell them of certain happenings in my pastoral career of which they had vague recollections, or of which they had had unsatisfactory reports. A good part of my time was taken up in recitals and explanations of those long-ago happenings.

Those Yazoo Methodists know how to treat their pastors and ex-pastors. Their hospitality is tender and gracious. It would be hard to find anything of the kind to surpass it. The comfort and pleasure of the honored guest is the uppermost thought in the mind of every one in the home. It is according to the best traditions of the glorious Old South. In a recent visit to Yazoo I spent eight days, every one of which was full of delight. I spent two nights at the home of Clayton Swayze, the stirring steward of Midway Church. I took him into the church a few years ago when I was doing the preaching at Midway for my friend, Rev. J. E. Gray. He is the youngest son of Brother H. S. Swayze, who was one of the best friends I ever had, and was one of the best men I ever knew. God took him to Himself several months ago at the ripe age of seventy-eight years. His wife is still living, dividing her time with her children. It was a great pleasure to me that she was visiting her son, Clayton, and her youngest daughter, Mrs. Claude Swayze, at the time of my visit. Sister Swayze has been blind for more than forty-five years, and yet one never hears a word of complaint from her. Her patience is perfect and her Christian character lovely. Pastors have no better friend than she. Among my thousands of parishioners I have never served one whose love for her pastor and devotion to the cause of her Lord and Savior were greater. She never agreed with everything that I preached, and was sure to let me know of her disagreement. We always discussed our differing views in great goodness of spirit, but always wound up our discussions as far apart as when we began. Sister Swayze does her own thinking. No matter who preaches, she weighs everything carefully, and accepts only the truth as she sees it. She is never an indifferent hearer, nor does she accept everything that she hears.

Brother Claude Swayze took me out in his car from Yazoo City, and I spent Saturday night and Sunday in his delightful home. What a wonderful family he has! He and his wife have nine children, only one is married. They were all together. It greatly rejoiced me to see such a large and happy family. Such a sight was worth a trip to see. Sunday morning, Claude carried me to Midway to hear Brother E. A. King preach. I had heard such good things about him as a preacher that I was anxious to hear him. However, King said that I had to preach, and no begging off availed anything; so I preached. I didn't think King did me just right. He had heard me many times, and I had never heard him. There was one unique thing about the meeting—there were three wagons loaded with cotton parked at the church. I had seen many thousands of bales of cotton stored away in various and sundry places in Yazoo, but never till then had I seen any parked at church. I never understood the meaning of it. I suspect that it was Tom Shipp's cotton. He was not at church and it is probable he sent the cotton to church to represent him.

Of course, I couldn't go to Midway without visiting Gabe Swayze. I told him on Sunday that I was going to spend Monday night with him and talk him to sleep. I made good my promise. It is quite an achievement to out-talk Gabe, for he is known far and near as the champion talker of Yazoo County. I won the honors that night. Gabe begged for mercy and retired while I was still wagging my tongue at a lively rate. Gabe told me about a bet he made a friend about a preacher's text. The popular text with the preacher was, "Saul, Saul, why persecutest thou me?" The preacher was called on to preach at a new place and Gabe was present. He said to a friend, "I'll bet you a dollar I can tell his text." He named the text given above. His friend put down a dollar to cover his. The preacher announced his text, "Saul, Saul, why persecutest thou me." His friend pushed the money over to Gabe and said, "Take your money," and left the church in disgust.

I spent two happy days at Benton, visiting several families and preaching at night, Wednesday. King had just closed a great meeting there and I saw the wonderful power of it in the deeply spiritual worship that night. Dr. Jordan told me that it was the most gracious meeting ever held there in his knowledge of the town.

I enjoyed every hour of my visit to Benton circuit, and was sorry when it came to an end.

Brookhaven, Miss.

"THE NEGLECTED MAN."

Some time ago there appeared in the Advocate an article under the above caption. Since that time there have passed through my mind many thoughts pertaining to the above mentioned man. As I am one of them, by reason of the fact that I have the privilege of serving a mission charge, I have been pondering upon ways and means of assistance to him.

If there is in reality such a man, or such a condition, it is not because of any willful neglect, but on account of the thoughtlessness of some, or a failure to realize the need. The people of the poorer charges are not bad, nor are they a people that do not love their church. But it is hard for them to realize that a preacher has expenses that they know nothing about, and therefore it is necessary for him to have as large a salary as the average man if he is to do the necessary work. There is where the whole trouble comes, for, after all, it is not the preacher that suffers so much as it is the churches and people that he serves. A man does not object to doing without himself, but he hates to see his family deprived of the things they need, and, above all else, he does not want to see the work suffer, especially when he knows that he could do better if he had the necessary equipment for the work. It takes money to obtain that equipment.

Again, there is many a man that is handicapped for life because he did not have the facilities for study and growth in the early years of his ministry. I realize that some will say, or may be prompted to say, that the men of old, those who laid the foundation upon which we are building, had nothing but the Bible, a copy of the Discipline and a hymn book for a library, and made preachers. That is true, but if there is such a man reading this, just let him try that for awhile and see if he thinks it good for a man at this time. The man of to-day must have a library with which to work if he is to equip himself for service. He needs that when he starts out. It is true that a few books will suffice for the first year or two, but after that he should add to that few. This he is not always able to do. I know from my own experience that very often a young man has not one cent which he can spare from the absolute necessities. That being the case, where are the books coming from? They are not going to come for awhile, and then when the time does come that he can buy a few, the time of greatest need has passed. There are some men that fail to get off their Course of Study because they are not able to buy the books or they cannot pay the tuition fee of the Correspondence School. If this is the case, and I am sure that it sometimes is, there needs to be found a remedy. May I offer a solution to this problem which we are trying to solve?

I know that the real solution must be found in a method of financing the circuit preacher, but in the interval between now and the time that ideal is reached, may we not strive to solve it temporarily? In the first place, I would suggest that the older or more settled preachers come to the aid of the young men and give them a start in their library whenever possible. I know of one instance where a presiding elder gave a young man a set of commentaries, which have been of untold value to him. If that is not practicable, or desirable, why not offer to lend some of the brethren near by a few books to help out until they can do better? Last but not least, some of us could buy a book or two, and then, after reading it, pass it on, or we could form a kind of partnership and buy the books together. I believe if some such plans were carried out the younger preachers would stand a much better chance than they do now. Why not lend a helping hand to a brother in need?

A CIRCUIT RIDER.

NEW ORLEANS AND THE SOUTHERN METHODIST TRAINING PROGRAM.

Very often, off in a little corner of the world, a person is likely to lose sight of the vast scheme of things of which he is a part; he is likely to think his little world is the whole world and that it is all-sufficient; he fails to realize that all these little parts must co-operate in order that the whole may be harmonious. And so it is in Sunday school work: all Sunday schools are but parts of a great system. If one Sunday school down in one city fails, or if one teacher fails to do her part towards her class, not one person is affected, nor one class, nor one Sunday school, but all Methodism is prevented by such failure from accomplishing its purpose. It is in order that each part may do its work more efficiently and that the success of the work of our church may be assured that the training work in our church was established.

While the history of training for Sunday school work in America dates back to 1821, the educational program in our own Southern Methodist Church on its present comprehensive scale is comparatively recent, having been inaugurated less than a decade ago. Yet so popular has it become that in 1921 every eighth officer and teacher in Southern Methodism was an active student of the Standard Training Course.

Six years ago, Dr. Shackford says, when the question of training Sunday school officers and teachers came up for discussion, some one said that it would be impossible to get volunteer workers to submit to training. Last summer at Junaluska over four hundred certificates for training courses were conferred upon students who had done two weeks of intensive study. In 1918, 3,734 leadership training units were awarded; in 1921, the number awarded was 15,989. In 1918, there were only four standard training schools; in 1921, this number had grown to ninety-one. For 1922, "The Church School" gives the following:

"More than 130 Standard Training Schools are already definitely scheduled for the year and the rapid increase in the enrollment of new students, totaling more than a thousand a month, indicates a largely increased volume of work in the correspondence department during the winter months."

This comprehensive plan includes in its general scheme not only standard training schools, but all gradations of work from college courses to the training class in the local Sunday school.

And New Orleans is not lagging in this great work; she has led in the training work in the State. She had the first standard training school in the State; she awarded a larger number of units than any other in the State; she is setting a high standard in training work for the rest of Louisiana. But New Orleans is falling short of the goal reached by Southern Methodism as a whole. Only one out of every sixteen officers and teachers is taking a training course. This should not be. Though individuals may not realize it, our training schools in New Orleans are part of the great system of training of our Southern church. The work of our entire system is the most thorough that any demnomination has put on. Every course has been worked out on psychological and pedagogical grounds. One week spent at the New Orleans Standard Training School means a wealth of workable material for Sunday school activities.

The New Orleans Standard Training School will hold its second session from December 10 to December 17. The faculty is the best that any Standard Training School has had. Mr. Sensabaugh, the Superintendent of the Department of Training, says it is as good a faculty as Junaluska has had.

In charge of the class in administration is Dr. Wade Crawford Barclay, well known for his books in the field of Religious Education and one of the leading men in this field in North America. Primary and Junior Methods classes, very practical courses, will be taught respectively by Mrs. W. B. Ferguson, Elementary Superintendent for the two Oklahoma Conferences, and Mrs. Clay E. Smith, at present of Little Rock and formerly of the South Carolina Conference. The Intermediate and Senior class in organization will be conducted by Rev. C. O. Shugart, who is pastor of the Highland Park Methodist Church, Dallas, Texas, and who has taught in a number of standard training schools, especially in the West. Prof. Harvie Branscomb, of S. M. U., whose special field is New Testament Study, will have a class on "The Story of the New Testament." Prof. C. A. Bowen, of Millsaps College, was with us in our standard training school last spring. He will follow up his class on "The Pupil" with "Principles of Teaching."

With such a faculty, instead of New Orleans having only one out of every sixteen enrolled, what is to prevent her having one hundred per cent? As we have set a standard for the rest of the State so far in the matter of training schools, let us set one in enrollment. We can if every officer and teacher registers.

New Orleans. CORA PERKINS.

THE NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

By Rev. James H. Felts.

The reports were better, though poor enough; the spirit was fine, though room for improvement. "Hot air" was all but eliminated. Some of us hardly know how it was done to this hour. The writer of these "observations" went "loaded" at about two points. THERE WAS NO EXPLOSION. The work of the Conference was done so easily that it was a surprise to know that we were ready to adjourn. Surely, some magician's wand was waved by an invisible hand.

The reports of the various pastors were "chalked" in sight of gazing multitudes, yet there were heard no adverse criticisms. On the contrary, there were expressions of appreciation, and determination to have better reports the coming year. It was the first time we have actually had the reports before us in such a way as to SEE THEM. "Better than last year" had to be really better to get by.

Committees did their work with scarcely expressed instructions, yet so definite that the brethren knew what was coming, and were ready to approve before the reports were heard. If any work was slighted, it did not appear during the session, nor does it yet appear. There may have been an oversight or two of minor items, but nothing of serious moment seems to have escaped the brethren.

If the political pot boiled, it was a comparatively noiseless affair, disturbing few, if any. Most of us were too busy with things worth while to think of political activities. It would seem that Old Man Politics is a mighty sick "member" of the North Mississippi Conference, and there be some fairly good men among us who pray devoutly for his death and burial.

The spiritual tide was not high, but it was intense. It pervaded the very air we breathed. The chief topic of conversation was the intense earnestness of the presiding officer, coupled with, "this looks like the old-time religion." It is remarkable how isms and scisms die when they are put in the white heat of consecration, the glow of religious fervor. Incidentally, I am provoked to remark that the best cure known for the various isms, including hurtful criticisms, IS A GOOD CASE OF RELIGION.

Some new jokes made their appearance, tickling the fancy and stirring the risibles of groups here and there; some old ones were given new clothes for the occasion that they might pass muster, while some, hoary with years, walked among us without fear. But the most impressive feature was outstanding—the spiritual life of pastors and people. Even the matter of appointments seemed in the background, a matter of secondary importance.

The work in the cabinet room was unlike anything I had ever previously experienced. Instead of sharp debates and arbitrary rulings, coupled with manifest desire to get the better equipped men in this or that district, generating little cauldrons and springing unhappy leaks, the very atmosphere of prayer and brotherly consideration was all the while in evidence. Mr. Politician, if he was there, sure had one hard time at Water Valley. He never had a show. He was ruled out without so much as mentioning his presence. He was ignored. His existence seemed unknown. In his place were earnest desire, hopeful planning, brotherly consideration, patient investigation, mutual concessions, and MUTUAL LOSS OF SLEEP OVER MEN AND THEIR FAMILIES. I thank God for that one cabinet experience in the face of the fact that I came home so utterly tired that a week's sleep looked good.

It was a great Conference without having the word written in big letters on the walls of the church. It was spiritual without the use of ram's horns. It was brotherly without constant assertions of an abiding brotherhood. Wasson and his efficient co-workers handled the ever-increasing numbers without friction or fuss. There seemed no lack of room. There was no hurry, no doubtful disputation, no bickering or strife. If any man had a grievance, he aired it privately, or so nearly so as to disturb the fewest number of people. It was good to be there. Bishop Ainsworth was all he had been represented to be, AND MORE. He really made a profound impression. It is NOW generally understood that we are to be too busy for bluster, and that our Bishop will be working as hard as any of us.

Yes, it was a great Conference, and many of us believe a new day is dawning. God grant it!

AN APPRECIATION OF REV. FRANK LANE.

Mr. Editor: Please allow me a word in regard to my friend and brother, Rev. Frank Lane, of Lorena, Miss., deceased, who left us for the heavenly world above. The first time I met Brother Lane was at old Cato Church, in Rankin County, about the year of our Lord 1888. We were often thrown together in revival work as local preachers on the Shiloh charge. I remember Brother A. D. Miller was our pastor, and a pastor that knew just how to use local men to advantage and profit, and I am glad he found in Brother Lane a willing worker, one that was always ready to do anything in his power for the advancement of God's cause. When I was admitted into the Conference on trial and was assigned to the Philadelphia charge and was there three years, and was sent to the Trenton charge, there I found Brother Lane living at Lorena in the bounds of the Trenton charge; and for two years we labored together as pastor and local preacher. Please allow me to say, a more agreeable and loyal local preacher never lived than Brother Lane. He was ready at any time to assist his pastor in his work; and, by the way, Brother Lane was a good gospel preacher of the old type. A true, good man is gone to Heaven to enjoy the reward of the faithful forever.

May the richest of God's blessings rest upon the loved ones left behind to mourn their loss—this is the prayer of their former friend and pastor,

J. H. FOREMAN.

Flora, Miss.

EDUCATIONAL NOTES—LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.

The educational policy of our church has been well expressed in the preamble of our General Conference Board of Education, as follows:

"The Methodist Episcopal Church, South, stands committed to education sound in principle and Christian in spirit as fundamental to its work, and it accepts the duty and obligation of maintaining institutions dedicated to the diffusion of a distinctively Christian culture. Such institutions are a necessity as special agencies to help the church more effectively to perform its own divinely appointed ministry of service. Central, therefore, at the heart of the supreme educational process in which the church is engaged, the Bible must be placed, as inspired of God, and the sufficient rule of faith and practice."

This puts our case clearly before the world in a clear-cut, concise way. It is what our institutions have stood for in the past, what they are endeavoring to do in the present, and what they contemplate doing in the years to come.

Methodism was born in Oxford University, a Christian institution. The early Methodists immediately went forth to found the Kingswood School in England, Cokesbury College in America, and to-day Methodist institutions are to be found in all parts of the world. Out of these colleges will come the leaders to carry on the enlarged program for a world-wide Methodism in proclaiming that Christian experience is the outstanding credential of Christianity.

We are now in the midst of the second payment period of our Christian Education pledge and we would like these reports to come in as fast as possible.

We received a letter from one of our preachers who paid liberally on the Christian Education pledge and explains how he did it in the following words:

"The explanation of my being able to pay out this pledge is in the fact that I tithe. During the lean years of my ministry I could not pay as I should. During the last two years, I have paid out my tithe. I have paid my Centenary pledge and have paid out thus far on the Educational pledge. While doing this, I have made contributions to other causes also. If our preachers would tithe, then teach the people this, we would have no trouble with any of our finances or different drives." Stressing the tithe and paying it will solve many of our financial problems.

We have been waiting for the era of widespread prosperity and it is upon us now. Cotton has reached the highest point in two years; grain markets have retained most of their recent gain; wool prices continue strong; exports of foodstuff are reported increasing; mail order houses and others dealing largely with our agricultural population report improvement in orders; stores are already daily crowded with Christmas shoppers and are reported to be doing a good business; bank clearings are heavier than at any time since the closing month of 1920. Business in general is the best in two years. With these conditions facing us, our churches ought to bring up a full report. The Lord has certainly blessed us abundantly. Will we now try to render thanks unto him through our gifts?

We appeal to our people who have overlooked the Christian Education pledge. Send on the full amount that you owe the Lord. Do it now!

ALBERT S. LUTZ,
Conference Secretary of Education.

THE KOREA CONFERENCE.

By Dr. W. W. Pinson.

The coming of a bishop to reside in their midst has put new life into the missionaries. They welcome it as ushering in a new era of advance. It is the realization of the desire of long years and it has lifted their hopes and quickened their pulses. When Bishop Boaz speaks of himself as one of them, to be at hand ready to help them and get under their burdens, their faces beam and their delight is boundless. In this the Korean agrees. A bishop can have no warmer welcome and no greater opportunity for service.

Ten years have wrought wonderful changes in Korea. Indeed, it is a new Korea that faces a visitor after that length of time. The greatest of these changes is manifest in the unparalleled intellectual awakening. The old apathy and indifference are gone. The easy-going satisfaction with ancient culture and traditions is no more. These have given way to a keen, eager, determined desire for modern knowledge. It is as if the nation awoke one morning and said, "Let us go to school."

This awakening is being seen in its relation to the common schools as well as to private and mission schools. The following facts are interesting: The total number of schools of all grades in the country in 1920 was 674. In 1921 the number has grown to 1,187. Yet only one in thirty-three of the population is in school, and these schools are so crowded that in some cases two sessions a day are held for two separate groups. Of a total enrollment of 292,625 students in 1921, 53,821, are in Christian schools, or almost one in five. Chosen Christian College in Seoul, the only college of any sort in Korea, is now a going concern and a growing one, with 130 boys enrolled. The opportunity and field for Christian service are well-nigh unlimited.

There are 2,600 in our own schools in Songdo. Ten years ago there were 275 in the Anglo-Korean School. Now there are over 1,400 in its three departments.

This is only a fair beginning of the possibilities, if we only had room. The clamor is for more room, and students are being turned away by the score and hundreds. At our higher Common School here in Songdo we had 464 applicants and could admit 225 only. This was last spring and next year the probability is that we will again be overwhelmed with applicants for admission to this school and then we will be able to admit only enough to fill the places of the graduating class. That so many could be taken was due to the beautiful and spacious new building made possible by the Sunday schools of the North Arkansas Conference. The fees being charged by this school are equal to those in any schools in Korea. They are paid willingly. It is believed by many that the time has come when the Koreans will give financial aid in strengthening our schools.

The oldest son of Baron Yun Chi Ho, who has just returned from America where he graduated from the Ohio State College and then spent one year doing special work in dairying, has offered his services free and one-half of the cost of the equipment to start a department of Agriculturo and Dairying. This offer we have accepted. It will meet a great need of the people and is a most liberal and patriotic offer on the part of this fine young man.

The Textile Department is in full swing and "Mission Cloth" is becoming known and used throughout the Orient.

The second awakening that an observer cannot miss is the spiritual. Nothing like it has ever occurred in the Orient. Our missionaries report some 25,000 new believers and 225 new groups organized in the past two years. The work still goes on. From these groups new members are constantly being baptized. There have heen 1,236 baptisms this year. The increase in membership has not heen in proportion to the vast increase in new believers, due to the fact that the emphasis has been put on the campaign for new believers and the opening of new centers.

Plans for conservation and intensive revival work are being set up for this year. The preaching in this campaign has been done in the main hy hands of native Christians, mostly laymen, who have given themselves to the work with wholehearted enthusiasm. The work is heing followed up in a most thorough and systematic way, as indicated above.

One of the pressing demands of the work here now is the housing of the new groups; 23 new charges and 117 new congregations were added last year; 204 new churches are needed, in addition to 62 built this year. This means that it is possible immediately to set these 204 congregations on the way to become increasing centers of power and self-support. This, judging by what has been done, will cost not over $20,000. This average is, of course, exclusive of the larger centers like Seoul and Songdo. In the Choon Chun District alone 20 new churches were built in the last few months at a total cost to the Board of Missions of $3,000, an average of $150 each. These are pronounced "little gems," and will he sufficient for these village congregations for several years. Can any one imagine a way in which that amount of money could he used to greater purpose? Many other churches have been hullt with Centenary money, and the appropriations are made for many more, but the Centenary money has not heen forthcoming. In every case from one-third to two-thirds is contributed by the local congregation. In some cases within two weeks from the time the first sermon has been preached in a village, work has begun on a new church. The Koreans gather material and make their own contrihutions before money is advanced by the Mission. There are many cases where this already has been done and they have waited and are still waiting with much patience for us to fulfill our promise—some as long as eighteen months. Should wo delay much longer with our Centenary money, the discouragement for these new groups in their fresh enthusiasm will be very damaging. Prompt payment of Centenary pledges will mean permanence and growth instead of discouragement and then apathy in many cases. Instances are given in which materials have been injured by the weather while waiting. These houses are hult by contributions of money, specific pieces of timher and labor. In most cases, in the villages, the land is furnished by the local congregation.

These notes are written during the Conference before the returns are all in. Other facts will be forthcoming later.

We are having a most delightful Conference with a high tide of spiritual fellowship and hopefulness. The chief emharrassment of the situation is the bigness and complexity of the opportunity. Our very success has become an emharrassment. The sowing of thirty-five years is producing a harvest that requires new and larger euqipment in men and money if we are not to come short in reaping the sowing of those who have gone before. Speed up payments. Now is the time to consolidate these marvelous gains.

There is a steady march toward self-support. The Songdo District raised enough for its own support, had it all heen spent in the district. A total of 10,000 yen has been raised as a special fund for self-support. The effort next year will he to clear the decks and release all foreign funds from support of estahlished churches.

I am giving you below the statistics for the year, which have now heen completed. It will be noted that there is a good, healthy increase all along the line. The total income was Y99,783 against Y50,497 last year—very close to 100 per cent increase. Two years ago it was Y37,271. This is an increase of Y62,512 in two years, or 168 per cent. What mission field can beat it? This increase was mostly for 1921-22. For 1920-21 was only Y13,215 and this year Y49,286. There is every reason to expect a large increase this year, with the definite purpose and plans behind the movement.

Since this letter was hegun a most significant thing has happened. The principalship of the Anglo-Korea School has heen tendered to Baron Yun Chi Ho, and he has promised to give it serious consideration. This school was started on money given hy him and his old father. He was its first principal and has always heen its staunch supporter. We are praying and hoping he will accept the place again. He is easily the leading Korean citizen and his leadership of 1,400 Korean boys will be an incalculable hlessing, and will insure the sympathy and active support of the Koreans.

SUMMER SCHOOLS OF MISSIONS.

By Dr. A. C. Zumhrunnen,
Home Cultivation Secretary.

The dates for the two Summer Schools of Missions which will be conducted by the Home Cultivation Department of the General Board of Missions have just been fixed. The one at The Western Assemhly, Fayetville, Arkansas, will he July 7-22, 1923, inclusive. The other one will be at Lake Junaluska, N. C., beginning July 26 and ending August 9, 1923.

For the last two years only one school has heen held and that at Lake Junaluska. The attendance has heen splendid. The grounds are so attractive that some were willing to go such a long distance to attend the school on this account. To many the cost of travel was prohibitive. For this reason, among others, another school is planned for at the new Western Assembly grounds, for those in the central and western areas. Work is already under way on the grounds and every indication is that all will he in readiness for assemhlies early next summer. The grounds are said to he among the most attractive in the country, which will he an added inducement for attending this school.

Courses will be offered in the fields of Missionary Education, the History of Missions, the Philosophy of Missions, the Social Aspects of Missions, Missionary Organization and Administration, etc. A four-year course leading to a diploma is heing worked out. As soon as the texts have been selected and teachers have been secured, definite announcements will be made of them. In addition to the courses of study, there will be platform meetings at which great inspirational addresses will be delivered and the work of our church in the various mission fields will he presented.

What is the purpose of these schools and who should attend? The primary purpose is to train missionary leaders. A secondary purpose is missionary cultivation and education. If our church is to measure up to its missionary task of evangellsm, missionary education and social service, it will havo to have a very large and thoroughly trained missionary leadership. It cannot be done otherwise. How important this work is and the number of leaders required to do it may be somewhat comprehended in the light of the fact that we are responsible for the evangelization of five million people in the home and fifty million in the foreign field. In addition to this task is that of teaching and providing for the "more abundant life" here and now—social service.

Who should attend these schools? All teachers of mission study classes; all missionary volunteers; all returned missionaries; all presidents of missionary secieties; all Conference and district missionary presidents; all heads of missionary departments in the local churches; all who are vitally interested in missions certainly should do so. Are you one of these? If so, plan now to attend one of these schools. Tho programs will be worth while.

TO THE LAYMEN OF THE MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

Dear Brethren: As we approach the time for the session of our Annual Conference, and in view of the more definite and greatly enlarged provision and plan for the activities of laymen under the direction of a General Board of Lay Activities, it is of utmost importance that our laymen familiarize themselves with Chapter XX of the 1922 Discipline, and that every District Lay Leader and all delegates come to the Conference at Crystal Springs with an interest, zeal, and consecration commensurate with the magnitude and seriousness of the tasks and opportunities before us. Let each District Lay Leader be on hand with a report ready for the session of the Board of Lay Activities on Thursday afternoon, November 30.

Fraternally,
J. M. SULLIVAN,
Conference Lay Leader.

HURRAH FOR BROOKHAVEN CHURCH!

Brookhaven Church has the honor of heing the first to collect and report the raising of the emergency quota, allotted on the $40,000 assigned to the Mississippi Conference; in fact, they have reported 30 per cent more than they were given as a quota to collect. Wouldn't it be great if every church would do as well?

I am wondering if it couldn't be done if each church would put on a "Personal Canvass." Who will be the next church to report?

We will have the Roll at Annual Conference showing the amount given the various churches as a quota, and the amount paid on them.

Yours for service,
W. D. HAWKINS,
Conference Missionary Secretary.
Conference Centenary Treasurer.

BOARD OF FINANCE.

There will be a meeting of the Board of Finance on Wednesday, November 29, 2:30 p.m., at Crystal Springs Methodist church. It is important that every member be present.

J. M. MORSE,
Chairman of Board.

TRUSTEES OF THE MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE ENDOWMENT FUND.

You are hereby notified to meet in the Methodist church at Crystal Springs on November 29, at 7 o'clock p.m.

J. M. MORSE, President.

EPWORTH LEAGUE BOARD.

There will he a meeting of the Epworth League Board at Crystal Springs, Wednesday afternoon, November 29, at 2:30 o'clock. All members are urged to be present.

W. D. HAWKINS, Chairman.
W. A. TERRY, Secretary.

SPEEDING THE DEPARTING MINISTER.

By Rev. F. B. Hill.

"Well, good-bye Sister B———; it has been a pleasure to know you during my ministry amoung you". Sister B——— replied: "I have enjoyed your preaching, but wish you had visited us oftener". "Maybe" answered Rev. C———, "maybe they will send a better minister this time." " Yes," replied Sister B———, "That's what they said last time."

The notice board outside a well-known Wesleyan church in the North of England on a recent Sunday read thus:

"Farewell Services

"11 a.m. Rev. ————

"Anthem, 'Sweet is Thy Memory, Lord.'

"6:30 p.m. Rev. ————

"Anthem, 'Glory to God'.

A minister called to say good-bye to an old man who had not concealed his disapproval of the minister's methods, or his poor estimate of his pulpit ministrations. But at the last he relented so far as to say: "Well, good-bye, Doctor. I'm sorry you are going, though I never thought I should be. When you came to the circuit first I felt I should never like you, you were so different from our old minister. But I've been asking the Lord all these three years to make me like you, and I'm real sorry you're going now, because I'm beginning to get the feeling that if you were to stay another three years the Lord would perhaps answer my prayers."

At the last quarterly conference many nice things were said about the retiring minister, when a brother who had fallen foul of him in a matter of circuit policy, rose to pay his tribute. It was a very generous tribute, but towards the end, being the man he was he could not refrain from opening the old sore. He finished by saying that as the meeting knew, he and the "super" had not always seen eye to eye, and so on. When he sat down the Superintendent Minister rose to reply. He thanked the brethren for their kind words and their too generous appreciation, as we all do on these occasion when we must needs sit and hear our virtues proclaimed. And then he came to the brother who had offered his bit of amber with a fly in it. "As for Brother ———, we have had, of course, our little differences. I have no doubt it has been good for me. Do we not read in Holy Scripture that even the Blessed Apostle Paul had a messenger from Satan sent to buffet him?" They gave hard knocks in that English circuit, but if you could knock harder you were at liberty to try; and the story of that little bout is still, I believe, related by the brother who that time was knocked completely out, without malice, and with a healthy and vast delight. I shall wait until another issue to speak of the new minister.

FROM INDIAN BAYOU, LA.

Since Indian Bayou has the distinction of being the only rural station in the Louisiana Conference, and of having the greatest possibilities of any rural church in Southern Methodism, according to the opinion of those who know the church at large, it will doubtless be of interest to the Advocate readers to know of the status of our work at this time, and of the outlook of the church in the future; and so we give the following itemized account of our progress for the two years of the present pastorate. What we have done, however, is but the foundation for the larger things that need to be done, and are now in sight, it would seem, of realizing a long-time need, and of correcting a long-time neglect.

We found the church upon our arrival to have a large, undeveloped membership, with a well-worked Ladies' Aid that had as their aim only the social get-together twice a month, and the raising of funds for parsonage maintenance through ten cents a month dues and other consecrated efforts of the women, and an organized board of stewards, but little more. For, while in name there was a Sunday school, in reality there was nothing in active operation. The church-house was filled with criss-cross benches, had dilapidated steps, poor lights, a little dirt-dauber-stopped-up organ, a few hymn hooks, and none of the conveniences for public assemblies. But the people were teachable and loyal, and responded to leadership, as far as they were financially able, and could be led into doing new things, and we started in to do one thing at a time, until we can sum up to about this list of achievements for the two years' effort: One hundred and fifty-seven members have been added to the church; 124 babies have been baptized; a Sunday school with an attendance that has reached as high as 224, with adult and elementary departments well organized and meeting separately, with eleven regular, well-organized and well-taught classes, and teacher-training classes for both young people and for adults, and using a full supply of lesson helps and story papers for all grades; 160 are on the cradle roll, and a home department of 90 members has been developed; Junior and Senior Epworth Leagues with more than 50 members with a mission study class, and doing good work, have been organized and developed to efficiency; a group from the Ladies' Aid women—fifteen—have organized a good missionary society, with regular twice-a-month meetings, and a mission study class has been organized; a church piano has been bought, the pastor's wife has taught a music class, a summer singing school by a regular singing school teacher, with 75 pupils, has been taught, and a supply of a a hundred songbooks has been bought, with the natural increase of musical interest and congregational singing and special music as the result; a prayer meeting for adults is now held before the Sunday night preaching service at the same time of the Epworth League devotional meeting, and a Wednesday night prayer meeting is held for shut-ins; 35 subscribers, all of whom knew practically nothing of our church papers, and many of them being subscribers to no papers, have been secured to the New Orleans Christian Advocate, 16 to the Nashville Advocate, 9 to the Missionary Voice, and 2 to the Epworth Era (with a club being worked up); a pulpit Bible and 10 pew Bibles (and a regular colportage distribution of Bibles among the people) have been bought; an individual communion set has been bought, regular monthly communion service has been held each first Sunday, with collections taken according to the disciplinary rule for the poor, and handled by the social service committee; a cemetery committee has planned to employ a full-time sexton, to lay off and beautify the graveyard, and is now well organized and is raising funds for their enterprise; in the church the lamps have been doubled, both men's and women's toilets, have been built, a well bored, a cistern bought, five pine trees and some flowers planted, maps, charts, and mottoes have been put on the walls; a bookcase has been made, a library started, and a librarian appointed; a blackboard has been put in the church, and bulletin boards at the leading stores of our territory, to announce our services and church programs; our membership has been districted into 23 circles, and circle leaders appointed for each; new steps have been built to the church, the house curtained off into nine classrooms, and the tabernacle put in order and arranged for the elementary department of six classes of the Sunday school, for the Epworth League services, and for the social meetings of the church, the church organ having been cleaned and made usable for this building; plans are now on to enclose the tabernacle, make it usable in winter as well as in summer, the church work now being carried on for fifty-two Sundays in the year; the budget plan, with weekly giving through the envelopes, has been adopted as the financial system, and we believe in the future will go a long way towards solving our financial needs, which now are the most unsolved of all of our "problems."

At the parsonage all of the fence gates have been remade and reswung, with big gates made for entrance into the yard and patch; most of the fencing has been rebuilt or repaired, a new garden made, and the old one redeemed from weeds and made productive; various walks have been thrown up, drainage made, and low places around the gates and steps filled; a modern, government-planned chicken house and a settery, with chicken coops, have been built; a flower garden, with four palms, a variety of flowers and vines planted and a lawn mower added; some two dozen orange, plum, peach, cherry, pine, and fig trees, and two of Burbank's Wonder Berry vines have been planted; two cow and one horse stall have been made, the harn loft has been floored, the barn made rat-proof, harn doors made or reset, hanging racks made, and a shade oak tree planted; the kitchen flue has been rebuilt for fire risk safety and a better draught; the middle kitchen, dining room wall moved back two feet for more kitchen room; and shelves for stove vessels, groceries, dishwashing table and cooking vessels made; the back gallery screens have been made efficient and on the back gallery shelves for milk vessels, household carpentering tools, and oil cans have been made; the dining room floor has been given a linoleum rug and border paint, the dining table has been remade, the chairs rebottomed, a sideboard added, and a china closet planned; the sitting room center table has been remade, library and typewriter tables have been added, a bookcase made (there being no pastor's study), flue connections for heater made, a heater bought, and a linoleum rug for the sitting room has been donated, the floor painted and a library table added. Most of the rocking chairs have been re-bottomed; washstands have been put into all three of the bedrooms, a mattress and some bed clothing and various pieces of scarfs and other linen have been added; the wardrobe has been re-made, two mantels made, leaks around both chimneys have been stopped, and a whole leaky side of the house has been repaired; needed hitching posts have been built, and a $1621 debt, with the help of a church extension loan, has been paid.

When it is remembered that the children of our membership attend six different public schools, one of which is a regular high school, housed in a $50,000 building and an enrollment of over 400 pupils, and that we have in our membership a Tulane graduate physician, seven mercantile establishments of various grades and a constituency of eighteen public school teachers, either members or church attendants, and a territory practically ten miles square, laid off like a city, the sections being acres instead of "blocks," and eight miles from a railroad, you will then understand some of the "uniqueness" of the Indian Bayou church. Upon the membership that we have of more than five hundred, and the organizations already in operation and workers greatly increased in efficiency, we now have in addition the favorable consideration of the Mission Board to give us for another year the five of the ten horse school vans, and the two auto passenger trucks to gather the people into Sunday school from a distance of eighteen miles between the two farthermost points, it will be seen that we are destined to be an unusual rural church.

P. O. LOWREY.

GIVE THY HEART.

What can I give Him,
Poor as I am?
If I were a shepherd
I would bring a lamb;
If I were a wise man
I would do my part;
Yet what can I give him?
Give my heart.

—Christina Rossettl.

THE OFFICES OF PATIENCE.

The offices of patience are as varied as the ills of this life. We have need of it with ourselves and with others; with those below and those above us, and with our own equals; with those who love us, and those who love us not; for the greatest things, and the least; against sudden inroads of trouble and under our daily burdens; disappointments as to the weather, or the breaking of the heart; in the weariness of the body, or the wearing of the soul; in our own failure of duty, or others' failure to us; in everyday wants, or in the aching of sickness, or the decay of age; in disappointment, bereavement, losses, injuries, reproaches; in heaviness of the heart, or its sickness amid delayed hopes.—E. B. Pusey.

The Home Circle

THE MOON AND THE SANDMAN.

By Helen M. Richardson.

When I go to bed, the moon
  Often visits me;
Makes nice pictures on the wall
  That I like to see!
But the Sandman comes along
  And shuts up my eyes;
And soon I am drifting to
  Where the dream ship lies.

How I wish the moon would chase
  The Sandman away
For a little while; I'd like
  Longer time to stay
Where these pictures dance about
  On my bedroom wall;
But while I am watching them
  Down my eyelids fall. —Exchange.

THE WISE GOOSE.

By Frank A. Secord.

One day a big goose wandered the woods that bordered on a meadow. This goose seldom ventured to the woods where shadows were, but, having eaten his fill, he thought he'd seek a little adventure. Coming suddenly upon a crowd of birds and animals, Mr. Goose civilly enough said, "Good day, friends!"

"As I live and breathe, there is a silly goose!" cried a crow.

"'Silly goose!'" repeated the other, "where do you get the idea, you black rascal. You may be in the woods where you belong and where I do not, but I am not afraid of any crow. 'Silly as a goose,' indeed!"

"I have often heard that all geese are silly," the crow remarked, turning to a hawk who nodded yes.

"If I am silly, I can prove that I am wiser than any of you here!" hotly shouted the gander. "I can make you all look like a lot of weeds after Jack Frost bites them."

"I never looked that way before, and I'm not going to begin now," cawed the crow, following his words with a loud laugh.

"You will, if I am given the chance to show you," Mr. Gander went on.

"And now," said he, "what is going on here? Looks as if you folks are having a picnic."

"Not having one, but we are just talking about getting one up for this evening," the crow answered.

Well, one word led to another until Mr. Gander agreed to be present, at which time, he promised, he would prove that he was wiser than any crow, hawk or anybody else in the crowd, not barring animals.

"That's a lot to say," somebody remarked.

"A lot to say when it means nothing," another ventured.

As Mr. Gander left the spot he heard a bird chirp, "Silly as a goose!"

When sundown came, there gathered at the chosen spot in the woods a great crowd of woodland and meadowland folk, all anxious to find out what the big gander would do.

Now, not so very far from the spot where the picnic was to be held, a road wound along, and the road had nothing to do with the picnic, but it had much to do with the plan of Mr. Gander.

Everything was ready, but no goose appeared.

I knew he would not come," the crow growled. "No goose would dare try what he said."

"Well," the hawk remarked, "there is no reason why we can not have some fun anyway. Let's start things—a game or two. Hurrah, for the picnic, goose or no goose!"

Just at that instant the honking of an automobile horn was heard from the road, and every bird and every animal became very quiet.

"Can't even have a little fun any more, without some real people coming along to spoil it," whispered the big crow. "I suppose they are coming to this very place to eat some lunch and keep cool."

"I hope they will meet the goose and frighten him half to death," the hawk muttered, and everybody else present agreed.

Again the loud honking of the automobile horn was heard, and this time all the picknickers retreated further among the shadows.

"They are coming here!" the crow grumbled. "If the gander does get here, he will probably make fun of us for leaving. He will say that no goose is afraid of people, for he lives with them. Hope he does not come at all."

"Honk, honk, honk!"

"Strange we do not hear any voices of people," observed a bird.

"Oh, they probably think they will be able to capture a rabbit or a squirrel, if they sneak up," a bunny sourly said.

"Honk, honk, honk!"

"The automobile is coming right into the woods! Let's skedaddle!" fearfully cried the crow, taking to his wings and flying a short distance above the ground. He did not wish to appear too greatly frightened, and he also desired to give the others, who were afoot, a chance to keep up with him.

After the crowd had gone so far among the trees and bushes that no light at all from the setting sun entered, all sat down to talk. They were gathered in a circle, and the crow was just making a remark about silly geese when, of a sudden, right behind him, the honk, honk, honk, sounded, and up rose Mr. Gander laughing and flapping his wings.

"I thought you were going to have a picnic!" cried the goose.

"We were, but an auto—" the crow started to say, the truth dawning upon him before finishing his words.

"An auto—oh, yes!" laughed the gander. "Listen." And then he cried loudly:

"Honk, honk, honk!"

"You win!" declared the hawk. "We are fooled completely. Never again will I, for one, claim a goose is silly. You surely played the trick well."

"I take off my hat to you," shouted the big crow, picking up an acorn shell, placing it upon his head and removing it again.—Exchange.

With golden bells, the priestly vest,
  And rich pomegranates border round—
The need of Holiness expressed,
  And called for Fruit as well as Sound.
—Cowper.

THE JUNCO'S SONG.

Merry little juncos
  Flitting here and there
Promise us that snowflakes
  Soon will fill the air.
Twitter, twitter, twitter—
  Hear them softly call:
"We have come to greet you
  Though 'tis early fall.
Robins and the bluebirds
  Like the flowery ways,
But we merry juncos
  Welcome snowy days."

—Selected.

AN HOUR WITH MOODY.

I shall never forget an hour spent in the home of Dwight L. Moody. It was after a Sunday evening service at which he had spoken. I was rooming at one of his cottages near the old Moody homestead. He sent over an invitation to all the boarders there to "come over and help him eat a brick of ice cream." He sat at the head of the table and served us himself. He remarked that his family would not eat it, so he had to "go out in the highways and hedges and compel us to come in" to help him out. He told us all about his dogs and chickens and garden. There was no special religious talk; just a friendly, genial bit of fellowship vouchsafed by the greatest religious leader of the day. We all felt somehow after that hour the simple human reality of his religion. It was more impressive even than his sermon.—Selected.

Ye Will Reap What Ye Sow: Be not deceived; God is not mocked: for whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap. For he that soweth to his flesh shall of the flesh reap corruption; but he that soweth to the Spirit shall of the Spirit reap life everlasting. And let us not be weary in well doing; for in due season we shall reap, if we faint not.—Galatians 6:7-9.

Let your loins be girded about, and your lights burning; and ye yourselves like unto men that wait for their Lord.—Luke 12:35, 36.

SPECIAL OFFER

ONE 42 PIECE $12.00 DINNER SET

BLUE BIRD, FLORAL OR WHITE AND GOLD DESIGNS

For $4.98 f. o. b. New Orleans

Cut out this Advertisement and send to WM. B. REILY & CO., New Orleans, La., with Six Coupons from Luzianne Coffee and $4.98, and the Beautiful Set will be Expressed to You at Once.

All three sets consist of: 6 dinner plates, 6 cups, 6 saucers, 6 pie plates, 6 fruit dessert dishes, 6 oat meal dishes, 1 large meat platter, 1 round vegetable bowl, 1 oval vegetable bowl, 1 cream pitcher, 1 sugar bowl, 1 sugar bowl cover.

New Orleans Christian Advocate

HENRY T. CARLEY, Editor.

CHAS. O. CHALMERS, Manager.

PUBLISHING COMMITTEE:

Louisiana Conference—Rev. J. F. Foster, Rev. S. J. Davies, Rev. C. C. Miller.

Mississippi Conference—Rev. J. T. Leggett, Rev. J. R. Jones, Rev. W. H. Saunders.

North Mississippi Conference—Rev. J. H. Felts, Rev T. H. Lipscomb, Rev. J. W. Dorman.

DIRECTIONS.

All checks and money orders should be made payable to the New Orleans Christian Advocate.

Communications pertaining to subscriptions and other business matters should be addressed to the Manager, or to the New Orleans Christian Advocate.

The Printed Lab l on a paper shows the date to which a subscription is paid. It is as good as a written receipt. When renewal is made, if the date is not moved forward after three or four weeks, notify us, and we will mske it right.

Communications intended for the Editor should be directed to him at 512 Camp Street. Correspondents will observe the following rules: 1. Write on only one side of the paper. 2. If you have a typewriter, by all means use it; otherwise use a good quality of black ink. 3. Leave a space of at least two inches at the top of the first page; leave a margin of at least one inch on the left-hand side of the page; do not crowd the words and the lines together. 4. Take special pains to write proper names correctly and legibly. 5. Use letter paper if you can get it—not note paper. No attention will be paid to rolled manuscripts.

THE LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.

The seventy-seventh session of the Louisiana Annual Conference is in progress this week at Shreveport. Bishop Warren A. Candler, the Senior Bishop of the church, is presiding, which means that all the business of the Conference will be transacted expeditiously but with full regard for all the inerests concerned. Bishop Candler is no stranger in Louisiana, and his presidency will, we are sure, give great pleasure and satisfaction to the brethren. Let all our people make earnest prayer that this annual gathering may be graciously blessed of God for the promotion and maintenance of his Kingdom.

The Conference is meeting in the First Methodist Church, whose pastor, Dr. H. F. Brooks, in co-operation with all the other Methodist pastors of the city and their splendid people, is proving to be a most gracious host. A full report of the proceedings of the Conference will appear in the Advocate.

DR. R. A. MEEK ENTERS THE LOCAL RANKS.

At the recent session of the North Mississippi Conference, Dr. R. A. Meek, for the past four years presiding elder of the Sardis District, editor of the Southern Methodist, former editor of the New Orleans Christian Advocate, and for thirty years a leading member of his Conference, asked for and was granted a location. We were not present when he made the request, and we have seen no statement of the ground on which he made it; but we presume that it was in order that he might devote his whole time to the editorship of the Southern Methodist, an independent religious newspaper established by him "to fight for orthodoxy."

The announcement of Dr. Meek's retirement from the itinerant ranks has been, we are sure, both a surprise and source of regret to many of his friends throughout the connection. A man of unusual ability, of profound convictions, a forceful writer, and an indefatigable worker, he has been an influential figure in the church for many years, and we are sorry that Dr. Meek should feel that a situation has arisen which makes it seem wise to him to withdraw from the traveling connection. While, as stated above, we do not know the grounds upon which he based his action, if it was due to a feeling that the state of the church is such as to require the maintenance of an organ of protest, we heartily disagree with his opinion while we honor him for his courage. We have yet to see any proof that our leadership is unsafe, that our institutions are unsound, that our church-wide program is unwise, that our ministry is unorthodox, or that our people are unsettled in their faith, and we cannot believe that the church will be strengthened or the cause of Christ promoted by a policy of protest. We are perfectly willing, however, to allow to others that degree of liberty of thought that we claim for ourselves; and we earnestly pray that this distinguished minister may have, in his new relationship, great happiness and usefulness. We commend his passionate zeal in defense of the truth as he sees it and his utter unselfishness in giving himself to the work to which he feels he is called.

A BOOK BY A LOUISIANA PREACHER.

The above caption may be slightly misleading in that Rev. Arthur Madison Shaw has been a member of the Louisiana Conference only three years, having come to Louisiana from Arkansas; but he is at present pastor of our church at Oakdale, La., and the book to which we have reference has recently come from the press. The volume, therefore, has special interest to us and it will, we believe, be of special interest to his brethren in the Louisiana Conference.

The title of the book is "Shorten the Line," and its significance is seen in the following quotation from Chapter I: "The main contention of this essay may be stated at once: It is that we are making our battle line too long; we are attempting to defend too much. Reactionary prejudices, and arbitrary interpretations and applications of religious theories, may lose us the great opportunity of an age that, with all its radicalism and skepticism, is intellectually and spiritually plastic."

We have read the book with much interest and profit. While the author does not hesitate to express his opinion concerning matters that are now in controversy in the religious world, from which opinion every reader is at liberty to dissent, his plea is not for the acceptance of his views on controverted subjects, but for an attitude toward such matters as will not divert attention from the fundamentally vital things of the Christian religion; it is this attitude, we believe, that is greatly needed to-day, and one that we heartily commend. In making that attitude clear, the author lays down as the final objectives of the Christian evangel these four things: Personal Salvation, the Building of Character, the Evangelization of the World, and the Establishment of the Kingdom of God; and he pleads that these things be given first place in our thinking and working, while incidental matters about which there can be no absolute certainty be treated as secondary. The following chapter headings will indicate the scope of the work and give a hint of the line of discussion: Save Your Ammunition; Purely Speculative Questions; Sectarian Peculiarities; Historical Questions; Doctrinal Questions; The Case of Science; The Shortened Line; Prayer the Key and Test; The Modern Prophet; The Church of To-morrow; Epilogue.

The literary style of the author is good, the book is well printed and attractively bound, and the price is reasonable, being one dollar. We commend the book as worthy of a careful reading by all those who are interested in present-day religious thinking; we trust that every member of the Louisiana Conference will show his appreciation of the literary activity of a brother minister by buying a copy.

PERSONAL AND OTHER NOTES.

The Y. W. C. A. of New Orleans expects to move into its commodious new building on December 1.

Rev. J. C. Price, of Jonesboro, La., writes that everything is moving along well in his charge.

The work at Picayune, Miss., has made fine progress this year under the leadership of Rev. J. H. Moore.

Rev. C. F. Emery, of Fayette, Miss., paid the Advocate office an appreciated call one day last week. He was in the city with a grandchild for medical attention.

Rev. J. Early Gray, our pastor at Moss Point, Miss., will carry a fine report to the approaching session of the Mississippi Conference.

Rev. A. A. Bernard, our well-equipped and faithful pastor at Gucydan, La., will have a good report to make at Conference this week.

Rev. W. W. Hopper, the beloved member of the Mississippi Conference who recently died at Montrose, Miss., where he was pastor, was buried at Waynesboro, Miss.

The address of the Knights of King Arthur, the church fraternity for boys, is now Media, Pa. Dr. William Forbush, its founder, is still in charge of it.

Rev W. V. Shearer, who has entered the evangelistic field, is making his headquarters at Starkville, Miss. He is ready for work and may be reached by letter, telegram, or telephone message.

Dr. John S. Chadwick, well known throughout the church through his connection with the Centenary Movement, has been appointed presiding elder of the Roanoke District, North Alabama Conference.

Mrs. E. R. Hendrix, wife of Bishop E. R. Hendrix, died at her home, in Kansas City, Mo., on Thursday afternoon, November 2. The sympathy of the whole church goes out to Bishop Hendrix in the great sorrow that has befallen him.

At a recent Sunday morning service, Rev. C. C. Wier, pastor of the Algiers Methodist Church, had a special message for all the couples who have been married during his administration. The congregation was an unusually large one.

Rev. J. A. Knight, pastor of the Lockport charge, in the French Mission District, passed through New Orleans in the early part of the week, en route to Conference at Shreveport, and honored the Advocate office with a call.

The College of Bishops will hold its fall meeting in this city, December 8-9-10. Its distinguished members will find a hearty welcome awaiting them in the Crescent City. It is expected that all the Methodist pulpits will be filled by them on Sunday, December 10.

Rev. W. B. Hogg, recently appointed pastor of the great Trinity Methodist Church of El Paso, Texas, has reached his new field of labor and has received a most cordial welcome. The first act of the congregation was to give him a new Dodge car. Brother Hogg's address is 807 Mesa Avenue, El Paso.

The Advocate office greatly enjoyed a visit recently by Rev. and Mrs. Michael Dickie, of Brazil. Brother Dickie is one of our missionaries in Brazil, now in the States on a year's furlough. Rev. Geo. D. Parker, of New Orleans, also one of our missionaries in Brazil, is expected to be at home in a few days on furlough.

We regret to announce the death of Mrs. Amanda McDonald, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. J. V. Burkes, in New Orleans on November 18. She was a life-long Methodist, born in Union, Miss., to which place the body was taken for interment. The funeral services in New Orleans were conducted by Rev. Ellis Smith and Rev. R. H. Harper.

Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Wardlow, of Montgomery, La., announce the birth of a daughter, Elizabeth Claire, on November 6. The editor of the Advocate has pleasant recollections of Mr. Wardlow when he was a student at Centenary College a few years ago, and he prays the richest blessings of Heaven upon the happy parents and the little one.

The growth of anti-lynching sentiment is indicated by a statement of the Commission on Interracial Co-operation to the effect that while there had been 430 lynchings in Georgia during the thirty-seven years ending with 1921, with only one indictment, during 1922 there have been twenty-two indictments, with four convictions.

The Newton Sunday school recently presented to H. O. Thrash, a beautiful Bible, in appreciation of his services as Sunday school superintendent at Newton for several years, until his recent removal to Laurel, The book was secured through Chas. O. Chalmers, Manager of the New Orleans Christian Advocate, and is a real work of art.

Rev. A. Inman Townsley, in addition to being reappointed as pastor at Columbus, Texas, was also made district evangelist for the Austin District. He assisted in meetings last year in which there were more than 300 conversions. We are glad to learn that Mrs. Townsley, who recently underwent a serious operation in a hospital at San Antonio, is recovering.

The Sunday-school at Bernice, La., has made an unusually fine record this year. It has an enrollment of 99, with seven faithful officers and teachers. The "Work Day" collection in the school amounted to $216.53, while the entire amount credited to the church for the Orphanage this year is $4943. We get this information from Miss Lillian Dawson, the secretary of the Sunday school.

The Building Committee of the Newton Methodist Church are progressing with the new Sunday School Annex; they expect to have this and the remodelling of the whole building completed by January 1. Besides giving additional ten rooms for Sunday school purposes, and a dining-room and kitchen feature, the seating capacity of the auditorium is enlarged, and a modern heating plant for the whole building is being installed.

Rev. L. W. Cain, our efficient and popular pastor at Franklinton, La., was a visitor to the recent session of the North Mississippi Conference, of which he was a member before coming to Louisiana. The high esteem in which he is held at Franklinton is indicated by the fact that his fourth quarterly conference unanimously passed resolutions asking for his return for another year.

The October number of the Methodist Quarterly Review has just come to our table. We have not had time to read it, but we notice that Dr. S. A. Steel, of Mansfield, La., and Dr. D. M. Key, of Millsaps College, are among the contributors. Dr. Steel contribution is a poem, "Athens," and Dr. Key writes of "Omar, the Fugitive Moment, and Americanitis."

Rev. Walter M. Campbell, recently appointed Conference missionary evangelist for the Aberdeen, the Columbus, and the Grenada Districts, North Mississippi Conference, will make his headquarters at West Point, Miss. We have had a happy acquaintance with Brother Campbell dating from our college days together, and we feel sure he will magnify the work to which he has been appointed.

Rev. I. H. Sells has had a good year at Harrisville, Miss. The congregation is worshiping in a new church, which is one of the best of its kind in the Mississippi Conference. Its cost was $3500, with only a small indebtedness. Four revival meetings have been held on the charge during the year, resulting in 39 additions to the membership of the church, most of them on profession of faith. Of course the pastor will carry a good report to Conference.

Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Godat have announced the marriage of their daughter Cora Frances, to Mr. Robert Howard Krone, on Tuesday, November 7. Mrs. Krone is a splendid Christian woman, who has rendered efficient service to the church for several years as a deaconess. Mr. and Mrs. Godat have long been prominently identified with Methodism in the city of New Orleans. The Advocate extends hearty good wishes to the young couple, who will make their home in Cincinnati, Ohio.

The gathering of the New Orleans Methodist Preachers' Meeting on Monday, November 13, was a very delightful meeting. On invitation of Rev. and Mrs. J. G. Snelling, the meeting was held at the district parsonage, and Mrs. Snelling, assisted by Mrs. W. N. Vaught and Mrs. H. T. Carley, served a delicious lunch Resolutions expressing the high esteem in which Brother Snelling is held and commending him for the fine service he has rendered the church as presiding elder of the New Orleans District for four years were heartily and unanimously passed.

Rev. H. G. Hawkins, pastor of our church at Newton, Miss., writes that on a recent Sabbath evening he received into our church on profession of faith a Syrian, Mr. Abraham Kelly, two sons and a daughter. Mr. Kelly himself was born in Damascus, of Asia; his children were born in Newton. He owns a little restaurant, also a small farm near Newton. His daughter is named Sarah. It's a long route from old Damascus to Mississippi. See, also the tenacity of the faith. Here may be, if not the blood itself of the father of the faithful, his kindred or the lineage of his servants.

The fourth quarterly conference of the Carrollton Avenue Methodist Church, this city, passed resolutions expressing its appreciation of its pastor, Rev. Ellis Smith, who has served it efficiently for the past three years. The reports made to the conference showed this to have been one of the best years in the history of the church. During Brother Smith's pastorate, 303 members have been added to the church, this being the exact number on roll when he became pastor.

The Advocate office enjoyed a call from Dr. Mark N. Terrell, general evangelist, of Sherman, Texas, one day last week. He was accompanied by his director of music, Mr. Victor W. Harrison, of Greenville, Texas. They were just out of a great meeting at Poplarville, Miss., in which there were 150 conversions and reclamations, and in which eight young ladies volunteered for Christian life-service. The attendance at the meeting was unusually fine, never fewer than 400 being at the morning services, the evening congregation being much larger.

Plans for development of the Western Methodist Assembly are under way. The grounds at Mount Sequoyah have been laid off, and a sale of lots will take place on December 8. This is undoubtedly destined to be one of the most popular gathering places for Methodists on the continent, and those who are interested in securing homes there should communicate with the authorities at once. An advertisement of the Assembly appears in this issue of the Advocate.

The Daily American-Press of Lake Charles, La., gives, in its issue of November 13, an account of the services at the First Methodist Church on the preceding day to celebrate the fiftieth anniversary of the purchase of the site and the beginning of a church building. Rev. J. B. Williams, the presiding elder of the Lake Charles District, preached the sermon, and Rev. W. W. Holmes, the pastor, and Mr. A. M. Mayo, the superintendent of the Sunday school, made addresses. Many messages of congratulaion were read from former pastors and friends. In connection with this celebration, it is interesting to know that the quarterly conference held on November 10 adopted resolutions looking toward immediate steps for the erection of a new church.

IMPORTANT NOTICE—CHANGE OF ADDRESS.

All those who wish their Advocates sent to a new address should notify us at once of the change desired, giving the old post office as well as the new. We can make no changes without this authority. This notice is especially important to the preachers of the three Conferences.

BUSINESS MANAGER.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

Admission on Trial.

The Class for Admission on Trial into the Mississippi Conference will please meet the Committee in the Methodist Church at Crystal Springs, on Wednesday afternoon, November 29, at 1 o'clock. H. M. ELLIS, Chairman.

First Year.

The Class of the First Year, Mississippi Conference, will meet the Committee at the Methodist church, Crystal Springs, Miss., at 3 o'clock p.m., Wednesday, November 29.

Let those who have and those who have not taken the correspondence course meet the Committee, promptly, HERVIE MELLARD,
For Committee.

Second Year.

The Class of the Second Year of the Mississippi Conference will please meet the Committee in the Methodist church at Crystal Springs at 9 o'clock a.m., November 29.

It is necessary that all the members of the Class meet the Committee, whether they have taken the course of study by correspondence or otherwise. J. EARLY GRAY,
For the Committee.

Third Year.

The Class of the Third Year will please meet the Committee in the Methodist church at Crystal Springs on Wednesday evening, Nov. 29, at 7:30 o'clock. The Committee is requested to be ready to report on Thursday morning, so it is necessary for all members of the Class to be present at this meeting. H. J. MOORE,
For the Committee.

Fourth Year.

The Class of the Fourth Year will meet the Committee at the Methodist church, Crystal Springs, Miss., at 2:30 p.m., Wednesday, November 29, prepared for written examinations.

Let members of the Class who have taken the course by correspondence or at the Divinity School, so inform the committee before the Conference meets.

Please let the Class come on time so we can start the examinations at the same time and be ready for the first session of the Conference.

W. H. SAUNDERS, for Committee.

Meeting of the Board of Missions.

An important meeting of the Board of Missions of the Mississippi Conference will be held at Crystal Springs on Wednesday, November 29, at 7:30 o'clock p.m., in advance of our Conference session. We expect Dr. C. G. Hounshell to be present as the representative of our General Board. The presence of every member is earnestly requested. M. M. BLACK, President.
J. EARLY GRAY, Secretary.

TO THE MEMBERS OF THE MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

Dear Brethren: No report blanks will be sent out by the auditing committee. Order same from Lamar & Barton, Nashville, Tenn.

Please hand in your reports the first day, not later than the morning of the second day of the session of the Conference, so as to facilitate work, and assist the statistical secretaries to get in their reports early. Fraternally,
T. B. COTTRELL,
For Auditing Committee.

THANKS TO OUR FRIENDS.

We desire to express our thanks to he following friends who have sent us two or more subscriptions recently: Rev. J. H. Moore, Picayune, Miss., 13; Rev. S. N. Young, Lake, Miss., 2; Rev. J. C. Price, Jonesboro, La., 3; J. M. Wilson, Hazlehurst, Miss., 2.

Obituaries

Obituaries not over 200 words in length will be published free of charge. All over 200 words must be paid for at the rate of 1 cent a word. Count the words and be sure to send the amount necessary with the obituary. That will save trouble all around. We cannot make discriminations. Memorial resolutions are subject to the same rule as obituaries.

The subject of this sketch is WILLIAM M. FERGURSON. He was released from the cares of this life on October 23, 1922. Brother Furgurson was born in Leake County, Mississippi, May 4, 1843. He was married to Miss Sallie E. Tolbot, of Scott County, Mississippi, on November 26, 1867. She preceded him to her eternal reward twenty-eight years. To this union were born five children. Brother Fergurson moved to Claiborne Parish, Louisiana, in December, 1880, and settled near Alabama Church where he cast his lot, and became a very substantial factor in the church. He was converted in a soldiers' prayer meeting during the Civil War, and joined the Southern Methodist Church soon after the war. Brother Fergurson was a man of rare character. Profane and obscene language never escaped his lips. He was one of the most devoted Christians I ever saw. He lived in perfect readiness to go where the Lord called. The world is better by his having lived in it. Many of his old friends of by-gone days met the funeral procession at the old burying ground and spoke in praise of him. He leaves to the world three noble sons and two queenly daughters to perpetuate his nobility in their lives. It can be truthfully said of him, as David said of Abner, "Know ye not that there is a prince and a great man fallen this day in Israel?" II Sam, 3:38.

J. C. PRICE.

Jonesboro, La.

ELIZABETH COCHRAN, wife of C. W. Cochran, was born near Monroe, La., April 7, 1863. In her girlhood teens she entered school at the Institute, Daleville, Miss. Here she met and afterwards married C. W. Cochran—that school days' friendship resulting in life-companionship—in October, 1881. After their marriage they lived at Daleville for a time, then moved to Meridian, Miss., where they lived, loved, and served together. For thirty-five years Sister Cochran was a faithful, consistent and generous member of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South. Her labors, begun at "Jerusalem, extended through Judea into Samaria and on out unto the uttermost parts of the earth." She and her devoted husband were liberal contributors to the Meridian Wesley House, local charities, current church budgets, home and foreign mission specials, and the present magnificent and beautiful edifice of the Central Methodist Church, to which for years she had belonged. Her health was precarious for some time. All that human skill could do was done to prolong her mission on earth, but it pleased God to call her home on Sunday, September 24, 1922, at Washington, D. C. As she was "crossing the river" she repeated Revelations 14:13, "Blessed are the dead that die in the Lord;" which, without knowing that it had lighted her dying hour, her pastor used as the text of his remarks at the last services at Meridian, Wednesday, September 27. Sister Cochran has gone to be with God, and her beautiful Christian life influences many, many of us who are following on to meet her in the "Father's House." Her pastor,

J. LOYD DECELL.

RESOLUTIONS.

Whereas, our brother and president of the Every Man's Bible Class, M. E. COCHRAN, has been called by our Divine Master to "that inheritance which fadeth not away," and

Whereas, we deem it a privilege and meet that we take note of those who, by their characters, have left an indelible impress for good upon those with whom they came in contact, and whose lives have proved that "For me to live is Christ, and die is gain," Be it resolved by the Every Man's Bible Class:

1. That in all the associations of our late brother with us and notably in his work of organizing this class, we recognize one whose will was dominated by that of Christ, and who, even to the end, despite physical suffering and weakness, pressed forward in the work. Of him, it may be truly said,

"Life's race well run,
Life' work well done,
Life's victory won,
Now cometh rest."

2. That we urge upon the membership of our class to draw from the life of this man the lessons which are so patent and to carry on with renewed zeal the work which he so zealously began.

3. That a copy of these resolutions be sent to the family of our deceased brother, with our most earnest expressions of sympathy.

Signed by: Dr. W. P. Davis, Dr. Geo. L. Wilson, I. L. Flowers, Committee.

RESOLUTIONS.

Whereas our much loved sister, MRS. CLARA MAE JARRETT, just slipped away into the glory land, in answer to the call of our Heavenly Father, who, in his infinite love and wisdom, has only called his own, we must say: "Thy will be done;" therefore be it resolved:

That we, members of the Woman's Missionary Society of Burtonton church, desire to express appreciation of our gifted sister, dearer to us than before these heavy shadows gathered over our sky, and, too, the rich heritage of a lovely life to her dear ones, and lent to us awhile to bear the fruits that manifested her strength of character, her sweetness of nature, her Christ-likeness of spirit, which will linger enshrined in our hearts to beguile and brighten many a lonely hour.

The hushed voice and folded hands evoked inspiring strains of music that fell soothingly upon all hearts, her soul, too, imbibing all of its grandeur and enrichment; this music, so soft and glad that hope, like a winged angel, flew right into the bosom and nestled in the heart. The silver lining to the dark shadows of death reveals the glad side, for the revived voice, with unfolded hands ready to be placed upon heavenly harp-strings vibrating and thrilling all listening ears, bringing forth entrancing rhapsodies of delight in the celestial city.

"God sometimes moves in a mysterious way
His wonders to perform," but
"His purposes are ripening fast,
Unfolding every hour."

If the pattern of life shall be brought into harmony with the Master's great thought, the dark threads must be woven with the highest.

May our Heavenly Father lay his healing touch upon the broken-hearted dear ones, making them know his consolation, and finally unite the divided family in the beautiful home of the soul prepared by our blessed Redeemer.

That a copy of these resolutions be given to the family, a copy spread upon the minutes, and a copy sent to the Reveille and the New Orleans Christian Advocate for publication.

Signed by: Mrs. E. D. Jones, Sr., Mrs. George Shaifer, Mrs. Maggie Howard, Committee.

WHEELER Business College
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
"WHEELER STUDENTS GET THE BEST POSITIONS"
Call or Write For Free Catalogue

Piles

CURED
In 6 to 14 Days

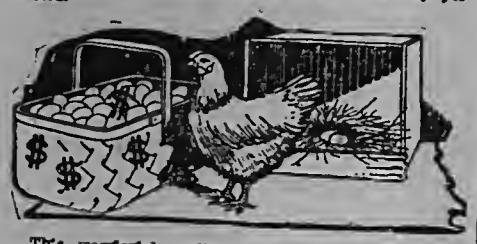
All Druggists are authorized to refund money if PAZO OINTMENT fails to cure any case of ITCHING, BLIND, BLEEDING or PROTRUDING PILES. Cures ordinary cases in 6 days, the worst cases in 14 days.

PAZO OINTMENT instantly Relieves ITCHING PILES and you can get restful sleep after the first application. 60c.

Easy Now to Double Winter Egg Yield

Proven Remedy Gives Remarkable Results—Turns "Boarder" Hens Into Profitable Layers—

Winter egg yields, double and treble those of former years, are now being made by many poultrymen through the use of a compound that science has finally perfected.



This wonderful medicine, which is called "Hick's Egg-Lay," contains rare and expensive ingredients mixed so as to quickly increase the egg yield. The medicine acts on the reproductive organs and causes double and treble the usual number of ova (the germ cell of the egg) to be produced. Thus you get many more eggs and get them during the time they bring the highest prices.

Hick's Egg-Lay is prepared for convenience in tablet form. Simply dissolve one tablet in a quart of water. This is the surest, easiest and quickest way ever discovered to get more eggs.

A Trial Costs You Nothing

Mr. Hick is so confident that Hick's Egg-Lay Tablets will double and treble your egg yield that he is making a special guaranteed offer of one regular double strength $1.00 package of Egg-Lay Tablets and a full size $1.00 package of Hick's famous Lice-Go Tablets all for $1.00.

Lice-Go is added to the drinking water. The medicine taken into the system of the bird comes out through the oil glands of the skin and every louse or mite quickly leaves the body. Keeps the birds always free without the poultry raiser doing any work. If you would rather have two $1.00 packages of Egg-Lay Tablets or two $1.00 packages of Lice-Go instead of one of each, say so on your order. Send $1.00 today (currency, money order, check, etc.) to Chas. M. Hick & Company, Dept. 916, 1018 So Wabash Ave., Chicago, Illinois. If you prefer, send no money. Just your name and address and pay postman $1.00 and postage on delivery. If after thirty days trial, you are not absolutely satisfied, write Mr. Hick and your money will be refunded. This offer is absolutely guaranteed, so don't hesitate to make the test.

TETTERINE
For the Complexion
60c at your Druggist's, or from The
SHUPTRINE CO., SAVANNAH, GA.

QUALITY GOODS
AT LOW PRICES
D. H. Holmes Co.,
LIMITED.

Whoever is to present Jesus Christ as indispensable must in his own personal experience have found Him so. Anything that we cannot live without we can honestly recommend. It is a great day for a Christian, therefore, when he discovers, whether through a tussle with temptation, or a climb on the Hill Difficulty, or a session with real misery, that he cannot get on without Jesus Christ. Nothing else is real bread. Natural science may make us masters over many outward situations, but it does not set men singing, "He restoreth my soul." That is the cry of a vital religion. Supremely, that is the fruit of fellowship with Christ. And without that men may exist, but they do not really live.—Fosdick.

Public Service

HAS BECOME THE ACTIVE PRACTICAL IDEAL OF THE STREET RAILWAY COMPANY WITH ITS REORGANIZATION AS NEW ORLEANS PUBLIC SERVICE, INC. WE SOLICIT HELPFUL SUGGESTIONS AND WISH TO KEEP SERVICE ALWAYS

On the Job

DR. H. B. BARTLETT
National Dental Parlors
Canal and Bourbon Sts.
Over Worner's Drug Store
Entrance on Bourbon Street
Phone Main 2193.
NEW ORLEANS

Crown and Bridge Specialist
Vitalized Air for Painless Extraction

Most Modern and Best Equipped Dental Parlors South.

Epworth League Department

Editor, North Mississippi Conference.....Rev. R. P. Neblett, Durant, Miss.
Editor, Mississippi Conference,
J. H. Weems, 308 Second Avenue, Hattiesburg, Miss.
Editor, Louisiana Conference,
Miss Consuelo Martinez, 314 Broadway, New Orleans, La.

Material for this Department from the several Conferences should be sent to the editors named above. Copy must be in the Advocate office by Thursday preceding the week of publication.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

We have just received a letter from our Conference President, in which he says:

"Just back to the office after a month's absence, and whilo away I had the pleasure of speaking to the following Leagues: Gibson Memorial, Vicksburg; Oak Ridge, Natchez, Washington, and Gloster."

Mr. Hawkins says while all the Leagues he visited are doing very good work, he can see more and more the need of the District Epworth League Institutes, in order that we may more thoroughiy train ourselves and understand better the working of the Epworth League.

Mr. Hawkins has received from the Centrai Office a suggested program for our next Assembiy. The theme of our Assembiy at Brookhaven wiii be, "Let Christ In," and in the carrying out of the program it is intended that a high-tide of spiritual power spread throughout our assemblies and Conference next summer. The program is to give emphasis to "the new iife in Christ."

The date suggested for our Assembly at Brookhaven is Junc 4-9; the dates will be definitely fixed at our Presidents' meeting, which is called for Jan. 9-11, in Nashviiie.

It is not too early for tho different Chapters to begin to pian for the Assembly next June. How many wiii attend from your Chapter? What courses of study will each delegate speciaiize in? and what kind of a "Stunt" will your Chapter and your District have on "Stunt night?" And you can begin now to arrange for the finances for the delegation. We feei sure the the expense will not be more than iast year. And remember this, there will be twice as many in attendance as there were iast year.

Sunday, November 12, Mr. Harrel, the Hattiesburg District Secretary, accompanied by Miss Dawson, Miss Hargrove, and Mr. Truman Lewis, visted the Sumrall Chapter. There were about fifteen local Leaguers present. Miss Dawson, Mr. Lewis, and Mr. Harrei talked to the Leaguers and a good program was rendered. Thc interest in the work seems to be growing and the prospects for a good, iive Chapter at Sumrall are good.

On Sunday, November 5, Broad Street Chapter, Hattiesburg, had the priviiege of listening to one of its former League members, Miss Maude Fail, who is now a deaconess iocated at New Orleans. She used for her subject the words of the Master when he called two of his discipies, "Follow me and I will make you fishers of men." Or "Follow me and I will make YOU." She preached a wonderful sermon from this text—one that we would iike all Leaguers to hear.

BROOKHAVEN, JUNE FOURTH-NINTH—"LET CHRIST IN."

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.

New Orleans District.

The Orleans District Institute was held at Rayne Memoriai Church from October 27 to November 3. The Institute was very weii attended and 45 units were issued to Leaguers who attended every session.

The following splendid faculty taught the various classes:

1st Department—Miss Wilkins and Brother Lutz, both of Shreveport.

2d Department—Miss Laura Edwards, of New Orieans.

3d Department—Mr. E. O. Harbin, Central Office Representative.

4th Department—Miss Nena Collins, of Shreveport.

Junior League—Mrs. Muntz, of Shreveport.

Administration—Mr. Grambling, of Shreveport.

Between the sessions, a social period in charge of Mr. Harbin was also greatly enjoyed by the Leaguers.

The Orleans Institute was not without honors aiso, for Rev. W. D. Kleinschmidt, one of the New Orleans pastors, was the first pastor in Louisiana to obtain a unit, and Brother Lutz was the first Dean in Louisiana to obtain a credit in any Institute.

The Institutc ciosed on Friday night, at which time the pictures of

(Continued on Page 15.)

Aspirin

Say "Bayer" and Insist!

Genuine BAYER

Unless you see the name "Bayer" on package or on tablets you are not getting the genuine Bayer product prescribed by physicians over twenty-two years and proved safe by millions for

Colds	Headache
Toothacho	Lumbago
Earache	Rheumatism
Neuralgia	Pain, Pain

Accept "Bayer Tablets of Aspirin" only. Each unbroken package contains proper directions. Handy boxes of twelve tablets cost few cents. Druggists also seii bottles of 24 and 100. Aspirin is the trade mark of Bayer Manufacture of Monoaceticacidester of Salicylicacid.—Adv.

STOP ITCHING

Skins with Tetterine

60c at your Druggist's, or from The SHUPTRINE CO., SAVANNAH, GA.

WINTERSMITH'S CHILL TONIC

SOLD 50 YEARS — A FINE GENERAL TONIC

If not sold by your druggist, write Wintersmith Chemical Co., Louisville, Ky.

Now is the time to pay close attention and see that your bakings are pure, wholesome and nutritious.

Good flour is all flour with the nutritive value of wheat. Mix it with good baking powder and you have a nutritious, wholesome, palatable baking. No ready mixed substitute will take its place.

For wholesome, nourishing food you should use straight flour and a pure baking powder—

There never was, is not, and never will be anything that will take the place of good straight baking powder and plain flour.

If you are using self-rising flour or any other kind of a substitute for good baking powder or plain flour you had better stop, and consider whether you are practicing real economy, or saving money. You are taking a chance of losing the full nutritious health-building value of a good, plain flour.

For best results use—
Calumet Baking Powder and a good plain flour.

Sunday School

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE NOTES.

The first Sunday in the month was spent on the Pachuta charge. Pachuta, Porto Rico and Orange were visited. This closes Brother Beasley's first year. He has done good work and will have a good report at Conference. He has live Epworth Leagues and other evidences of progress. The Sunday schools need improvement and their workers are anxious to go forward. Methodism has a chance in these communities, and great responsibilites.

Richland, Sinai, Florence, Braxton, and Wesleyana, on the Florence circuit, were visited the past week, closing out Sunday night. Brother Sims has had a good year, and progress has been made. The workers are anxious to go forward and are making plans for larger and better things.

Just a very short time till Conference. We would like so much to get $260, so we could report on our Sunday School Day offering at least the same as last year. If you can help in this important matter, please do so.

Pray for the work and workers.

JOHN C. CHAMBERS.

FROM LAUDERDALE, MISS.

Dear Brother Carley: We are winding up our work on the Lauderdale charge for 1922. Our fourth quarterly conference was held Nov. 12. Our beloved presiding elder, Brother Paul D. Hardin, was present in his usual good spirits, and preached for us a strong gospel sermon.

The Board of Stewards reported salaries for presiding elder and pastor paid in full. We feel sure all assessments will be in full by Conference.

But the above is not the only evidence of the success that has attended the efforts of this good people. They have improved the parsonage at an expense of $950. It is beautiful, and the presiding elder hardly knew where to stop when he came in last Sunday. I do not wonder at his almost passing by, because there is as much change in the looks of the parsonage compared with the old one as there is between an old sinner and one who has become a new creature in Christ Jesus. Brother Carley, just a little more work inside to be done, and we will have one of the best parsonages in the Meridian District.

We have had an increase in all lines of work in both churches this year. These good people believe in doing things to make their pastor and family pleasant and comfortable, and also to advance the cause of Christ. May God bless the people of this charge abundantly!

W. H. LANE, P. C.

"LET US KNOW WHAT IS BEING DONE."

By Rev. J. A. Wells.

The above is the title of an article that appeared in a recent issue of the Advocate by "A Layman." He referred to a Baptist pastor's often telling his congregation "what progress the Baptists are making; what wonderful things they are doing with their $75,000,000," etc. I feel pretty sure this Baptist pastor is not telling all about the $75,000,000. Dr. Frank Norris, pastor of the First Baptist Church, Fort Worth, Texas, is asking those in charge of $2,000,000 of the $75,000,000 fund to give an itemized report as to how it has been spent. Here are the words of Norris as to the gravity of his charge: "The brethren could silence me and put me out of business in three minutes if they would meet the issues squarely, provided these charges were not true." Now, I don't mean that this said pastor referred to by "A Layman" knows anything about this particular $2,000,000 and won't tell it, but I am surmising he doesn't know what Frank Norris knows. One of the liveliest fights that have been staged in many a day is now going on in Texas between the Modernists and Dr. Norris, and it seems that the great $75,000,000 is involved. By the way, they have the largest Sunday school in the world at the First Baptist Church in Fort Worth.

Let me say in this connection that it is so easy to connect the sainted Rev. W. W. Hopper with holiness and Heaven! What a good man, a holy man, an humble man, he was! I was so surprised to hear he had gone. He fought a good fight, he finished his course, he kept the faith, and he is now gone to receive his crown! What a wonderful time he is having now! Blessings on his wife!

McComb, Miss.

REV. W. V. SHEARER READY FOR EVANGELISTIC WORK.

Dear Editor: As per my announcement at the recent Annual Conference at Water Valley, Miss., I am now ready for evangelistic work. For fifteen years I have longed to get into this field of work exclusively, for God called me into it long ago, but, owing to circumstances that I had no control over, I just delayed it from year to year, but now I am in the fight. I am open to engagements with the brethren, and I assure you that I will give you the very best that is in me, plus the help of the dear Lord; and with this valuable help and your earnest co-operation, I know that great and wonderful good can be accomplished over your different fields of work. I am going to have associated with me a great gospel singer, and we are at your service, to do for and with you as the dear Lord might lead. Give us a trial, and let's, together, cooperate with the Lord, and I know that great good will be accomplished over your several charges. Don't delay in making your engagements; let us string them out at different times during the year—don't all wait until the same time to have your meetings. The Lord can save sinners and revive the church any time of the year; so let's begin the fight at once. I am at your service any moment; I am restless unless I am in a revival meeting. Some of you should arrange for a Christmas revival meeting; this is the greatest season to have a revival; try it once. I have been in one meeting during the Christmas holidays, and it appeared to me that the dear Lord revealed Himself more powerfully then than ever. Oh, we had a great time of it!

My headquarters will be Starkville, Miss., and I can be found here either by letter, 'phone, or wire. I am at your service. Call me, any time, anywhere.

Praying God's richest blessings upon you all, and awaiting your communications, I am,

Fraternally,
W. V. SHEARER, Evangelist,
Starkville, Miss.

FROM OLIVE BRANCH CHARGE.

Dear Brother Carley: We are now ready for Conference again, as the years fly by. I have served a real good people this year, with seemingly good results. We have had four revival meetings, conducted by the most able preachers: Rev. J. W. Lee, P. E., and Dr. C. W. Crisler, First Church, Baton Rouge, at the camp meeting; Rev. C. E. McLean, at Gilead; Rev. Victor Clifford, of Centreville, Miss., at Clear Creek; Rev. J. H. Baden, at Olive Branch. These brethren did their best, and it goes without saying that they all did fine. We have had twenty-four accessions this year, and things are going on nicely. The ancient Olive Branch was an emblem of reconciliation and peace, so we still have it. With four churches and four side appointments, a man always has a church to his back, even though the others are leading on.

God bless you.

J. S. RUTLEDGE.

750 BIBLE & GOSPEL STUDIES
Brief Complete Outlines of Sermons, Talks, Studies for Christians, Students, Teachers, Preachers. Covering Old and New Testaments. Ready Help for Leading Meetings. Many Important Questions Answered. Apt References and Short Spiritual Explanations. All Subjects Fully Covered. Vest Pocket Size, 128 pages. Cloth, 25c. Leather 35c, postpaid. Stamps Taken. AGENTS Wanted.
GEO. W. NOBLE, Monon Building, Chicago, Ill.

Bilious Attacks
Are Usually Due to Constipation
When you are constipated, not enough of Nature's lubricating liquid is produced in the bowel to keep the food waste soft and moving. Doctors prescribe Nujol because it acts like this natural lubricant and thus replaces it.
Nujol is a lubricant—not a medicine or laxative — so cannot gripe. Try it today.
Nujol
A LUBRICANT—NOT A LAXATIVE

Renew your health by purifying your system with Calotabs
TRADE MARK REG
The purified and refined calomel tablets that are free from nausea and danger.
No salts necessary, as Calotabs act like calomel and salts combined. Demand the genuine in 10c and 35c packages, bearing above trade-mark.

Bitter Chillifuge 25c
Has a bitter tonic taste and quick action in routing malaria from the system.
Will quickly stop chills and fever.
Splendid tonic for torpid liver and bracer for poor appetite.
FINLAY, DICKS & CO., INC.,
NEW ORLEANS.

ANGELL'S

COUGH and WHOOPING
Cough Syrup
Easy to Take
No Habit-Forming Drugs. Formula of
DR. RICHARD ANGELL
Prepared by
JAMES E. ANGELL,
New Orleans, La.
PRICE 35c AND 65c
AT ALL DRUGGISTS

Don't Wear a Truss

Mr. C. E. Brooks
Be Comfortable—wear the Brooks Appliance, the modern scientific invention which gives rupture sufferers immediate relief. It has no obnoxious springs or pads. Automatic Air Cushions bind and draw together the broken parts. No salves or plasters. Durable. Cheap. Sent on trial to prove its worth. Never on sale in stores as every appliance is made to order, the proper size and shape of Air Cushion depending on the nature of each case. Beware of imitations. Look for trademark bearing portrait and signature of C. E. Brooks which appears on every appliance. None other genuine. Full information and booklet sent free in plain, sealed envelope. BROOKS APPLIANCE CO., 443H State St., Marshall, Mich.

KING'S EARLY IMPROVED COTTON SEED—90-Day Cotton; boll weevil smasher; cotton the wise farmer plants. Makes cotton before boll weevil makes appearance. Wake up, plant King's Early Improved. Seed grown in famous seed districts of North Carolina. Season ideal for saving planting seed. Earliest, quickest maturing, most productive variety known. Write to-day for facts and special prices on early orders. King Cotton Seed Co., Lavonia, Ga.

For Troubled Nerves,
high blood pressure, dyspepsia, neuritis, investigate the new drugless methods now employed at DR. BIGGS' PRIVATE SANITARIUM, Asheville, North Carolina. A specialized treatment adapted to each individual. No tubercular cases accepted. Write for free booklet—interesting and instructive.

DO YOU USE THE STEREOPTICON?

The visual method of instruction is coming into use everywhere. It is the effective method. It is live, simple, direct, impressive, practical. It stimulates thought, gives definite facts, sustains interest, speaks in terms of action and results. Educators no longer doubt the tremendous possibilities of slides in the field of education. Photographs preceded the alphabet. Pictures are the universal language.

Experienced public speakers recognize the psychology of visible objects in their lecture work. Subjects are made clear and vivid by graphic and pictorial presentation. Slides are a great aid to those who are not accustomed to speaking in public. By the use of them the speaker can give a most interesting talk. The slides are the framework. The speaker needs only to fill in the details. The lecturer who illustrates with slides tells a logical story.

The Photographic Department of the Missionary Centenary, Nashville, Tenn., can supply any needs of pastors and others who wish to use the stereopticon in their work. Write to this department if you wish to secure a machine or to have slides made for use in your stereopticon.

MONTHLY PAPER FOR PASTORS.

The Publicity Department of the Centenary has a very attractive offer for pastors who wish to use a monthly paper. The only expense in this service is the cost of printing two pages locally—all else furnished free of charge. If interested write Publicity Department, Missionary Centenary, Box 600, Nashville, Tenn.

Abundantly Satisfied: How excellent is thy loving kindness, O God! therefore the children of men put their trust under the shadow of thy wings. They shall be abundantly satisfied with the fatness of thy house; and thou shalt make them drink of the river of thy pleasures.—Psalm 36: 7, 8.

QUARTERLY CONFERENCES.

NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE

Aberdeen Dist.—First Round.

Amory, Nov. 19, 20.
Aberdeen, Nov. 26, 27.
Okolona, Dec. 2, 3.
Tupelo, Dec. 3, 4.
Houston, Dec. 9, 10.
Pontotoc, Dec. 10, 11.
Prairie and Strong, at S., Dec. 17, 18.
Buena Vista, at B. V., Dec. 30, 31.
Verona, at Verona, Jan. 6, 7.
Shannon and Nettleton, at S., Jan. 7, 8.
Woodland, at Mantee, Jan. 13, 14.
Nettleton, at Carolina, Jan. 20, 21.
Greenwood Springs, at G. S., Jan. 24.
Vardaman, at V., Jan. 27, 28.
Calhoun City, at C. C., Jan. 28, 29.
Houlka, at Houlka, Feb. 3, 4.
Salem and Ecru, at E., Feb. 10, 11.
Randolph, at Randolph, Feb. 13.
Tocopola, at Thaxton, Feb. 14.
Fulton, at Van Buren, Feb. 17, 18.
Tremont, at Tremont, Feb. 18, 19.
Smithville, at Smithville, Feb. 20.
Bellefontaine, at B., Feb. 23.
Eupora and Mabin, at Eupora, Feb. 24, 25.
Mathiston, at Mathiston, Feb. 25, 26.
Algoma, at Algoma, March 3.

The district stewards will meet at Tupelo, Monday, Dec. 4, at 2 o'clock p.m.

T. H. DORSEY, P. E.

Corinth District—First Round.

Corinth ct., at Box Chapel, Dec. 2, 3.
Kossuth ct., at Wesley Chapel, Dec. 8.
Corinth, First Church, Dec. 10, 11.
Corinth, South Side, Dec. 10, 12, at night.
Dumas ct., at New Hope, Dec. 14.
Blue Mountain, at B. M., Dec. 15.
New Albany ct., at Union Hill, Dec. 16, 17.
New Albany sta., Dec. 17, night; 18, a.m.
Guntown, at Guntown, Dec. 19.
Baldwyn, at Baldwyn, Dec. 30.
Booneville ct., at Oak Grove, Dec. 22.
Booneville sta., Q. C., Dec. 22, night; preaching, Dec. 31, night.
Wheeler ct., at Wheeler, Dec. 30, 31, a.m.
Potts Camp, at P. C., Jan. 3.
Hickory Flat, at H. F., Jan. 4.
Myrtle, at Myrtle, Jan. 5.
Mooreville ct., at Allen's Chapel, Jan. 6, 7.
Mantachie ct., at Shiloh, Jan. 9.
Marietta ct., at Marietta, Jan. 10.
Rienzi ct., at Rienzi, Jan. 11.
Chalybeate ct., at Camp Ground, Jan. 12.
Ripley sta., Jan. 12, 14, night.
Silver Springs ct., at Mt. Carmel, Jan. 13, 14.
Great State Conference on Evangelism, for all pastors and church officials, to be held at Jackson, Miss., Jan. 16 and 17.
Burnsville ct., at Hebron, Jan. 19.
Iuka ct., at Snow Down, Jan. 20, 21.
Iuka sta., Jan. 21, p.m.; Jan. 22, a.m.

All pastors of the Corinth District are called to meet the presiding elder in Corinth for special conference, Tuesday and Wednesday, Jan. 23 and 24.
Paden ct., at Westt Side, Jan. 26.
Belmont ct., at Golden, Jan. 27.
Tishomingo ct., at Tishomingo, Jan. 28, 29.

The district stewards for the Corinth District are called to meet at the First Methodist Church in Corinth at 11 a.m., Nov. 28, 1922.

J. B. RANDOLPH, P. E.

Greenwood Dist.—First Round.

Dublin, at Dublin, Nov. 19.
Carrollton, at Carrollton, Nov. 26, a.m.
Colla, at Poplar Springs, Dec. 3.
Acona, Dec. 10, a.m.
Black Hawk, at Black Hawk, Dec. 10, p.m., at 2:30.
Lambert, at Lambert, Dec. 17.
Itta Bena, Dec. 24, a.m.
Greenwood, Dec. 24, p.m.
Moorehead, Dec. 31, a.m.
Indianola, Dec. 31, p.m.
Inverness, at Inverness, Jan. 7, a.m.
Belzoni, Jan. 7, p.m.
Tutwiler, at Tutwiler, Jan. 14, a.m.
Drew, at Drew, Jan. 14, p.m.
Great Rally for Home Missions and Evangelism at Jackson, Jan. 16 and 17, five laymen from each charge, and every pastor in the district to attend.
Swift, at Morgan, Jan. 10, the pastor to set the hour.
Webb, at Webb, Jan. 21, a.m.
Minter City, at Minter City, Jan. 21, at 3 p.m.
Schlater, at Schlater, Jan. 24, p.m.
Tchula, Jan. 28, a.m.
Sidon and Cruger, at Sidon, Jan. 28, p.m.
Sunflower, at Sunflower, Feb. 4, a.m.
Ruleville, at Doddsville, Feb. 4, 3 p.m.

S. L. POPE, P. E.

Sardis District—First Round.

Charleston, 11 a.m., Nov. 26; Q. C., evening, Jan. 2, 1923.
Oakland, preaching p.m., Nov. 26; Q. C., 11:30 a.m., Jan. 2.
Hernando, 11 a.m., Dec. 3; Q. C., a.m., Dec. 11.
Senatobia, preaching Dec. 3, evening; Q. C., a.m., Dec. 12.
Batesville, 11 a.m., Dec. 10; Q. C., p.m. Dec. 13.
Sardis station, evening, Dec. 10; Q. C., a.m., Dec. 13.
Byhalia, at B., 11 a.m., Dec. 17; Q. C., 2 p.m., Dec. 17.
Olive Branch, at O. B., evening, Dec. 17; Q. C., 11 a.m., Dec. 18.
Como, 11 a.m., Dec. 24; Q. C., evening, Dec. 12.
Coldwater, evening, Dec. 24; Q. C., evening, Dec. 11.
Shuford, at Eureka, Dec. 30; preaching and Q. C., 11 a.m.
Courtland, at Courtland, Dec. 31; Q. C. in afternoon.
Crowder, at Crowder, evening, Jan. 3.
Cockrum, at Palestine, 11 a.m., Jan. 6.
Pleasant Hill, at P. H., 11 a.m., Jan. 7.
Horn Lake, at H. L., preaching, p.m., Jan. 7; Q. C., 11 a.m., Jan. 8.
Sardis ct., at Terza, 11 a.m., Jan. 10.
Arkabutla, at Hunter's Chapel, 11 a.m., Jan. 12.
Longtown, at Longtown, 11 a.m., Jan. 13.
Crenshaw, at Sledge, Jan. 14.
Mt. Pleasant, at M. P., Jan. 20, 21.
Tyro, at Free Springs, Jan. 27, 28.

The district stewards will please meet at Sardis, Miss., at 11 a.m., on Tuesday, Dec. 5. Please let all the district stewards who can possibly do so be present for this conference. Any preachers who so desire may come, but we will have a special preachers' meeting soon after our great meeting in Jackson, Jan. 16 and 17.

It is important that all of the stewards meet their Q. C., that we may start our year's work off right.

J. TILLERY LEWIS, P. E.

MOTHER!

Open Child's Bowels with "California Fig Syrup"

Hurry mother! Even a sick child loves the "fruity" taste of "California Fig Syrup" and it never fails to open the bowels. A teaspoonful today may prevent a sick child tomorrow. If constipated, bilious, feverish, fretful, has cold, colic, or if stomach is sour, tongue coated, breath bad, remember a good cleansing of the little bowels is often all that is necessary.

Ask your druggist for genuine "California Fig Syrup" which has directions for babies and children of all ages printed on bottle. Mother! You must say "California" or you may get an imitation fig syrup.

"I'll be all right in the morning"

"When I feel like this—dizzy, black spots before my eyes, bad taste in my mouth, stupid and lazy—I know what's the matter. I'm bilious, I just take a couple of

DR. MILES' LIVER PILLS

They fix me up in short order. Why don't YOU try these little wonder workers? You'll find them easy to take and mild but effective in operation.

Your Druggist sells Dr. Miles' Laxapalettes

School Desks

Opera Chairs,
Folding Chairs,
Kindergarten Chairs,
School Supplies,
Blackboards.

SOUTHERN DESK CO., Hickory, N. C.

CANCER HOSPITAL. Intra-venous treatment for cancer. Operation, Radium and X-Ray unnecessary. Booklet giving full information upon request. Box 2127, ATLANTA, GA.

BOILS Old Sores, Cuts and Burns have been healed since 1820 with

Gray's Ointment

Sold by all druggists. Write for sample to W. F. Gray & Co., 707 Gray Bldg., Nashville, Tenn.

MURINE FOR YOUR EYES You Cannot Buy New Eyes

But you can Promote a Clean, Healthy Condition
Use Murine Eye Remedy "Night and Morning."
Keep your Eyes Clean, Clear and Healthy.
Write for Free Eye Care Book.
Murine Eye Remedy Co., 9 East Ohio Street, Chicago

Reader Takes Newer Form of Iron—Feels Years Younger

"Six weeks ago I saw a special offer in the paper telling how thousands of people grow old in looks and energy long before they are really old in years, because, as examinations by physicians have shown, an enormous number of people do not have enough iron in their blood. I have been taking Nuxated Iron for two weeks: the results are simply astounding. The roses have come back in my lips and cheeks, and I can conscientiously say that I feel ten years younger."

The above is a typical hypothetical case showing the results that have been achieved by a great many people since we started this "satisfaction or money back" offer on Nuxated Iron. We will make you the same guarantee. If, after taking the two weeks' treatment of Nuxated Iron, you do not feel and look years younger, we will promptly refund your money. At all druggists.

NOTE: Nuxated Iron has been used for years whenever needed in the family of the Advertising Representative of this paper with excellent results. We are able to guarantee that if you do not obtain all and even greater benefits than you expect from Nuxated Iron, the manufacturers will promptly refund your money.

Stamp collections and accumulations of old postage stamps, wanted for cash. Dr. Samuel Kleinman, 243 West 99th St., New York City.

Woman's Missionary Society

All communications for this Department should be sent to Mrs. J. G. Snelling, 1431 Octavia St., New Orleans, La.

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.

Carrollton Avenue Woman's Missionary Society Celebrates Annual Meeting.

October 4, 1922, will long be remembered by the members of the Carrollton Avenue Auxiliary and their friends who enjoyed with them an "All-Day" meeting, which is an annual event.

Mrs. Jacob Cohen, the beloved president, presided and, after the opening exercises, explained that the main purpose of the meeting was a better knowledge of the Council Minutes. Mrs. Cohen gave an interesting report of the various foreign fields, and told of the wonderful work done by the Council through the auxiliaries. The Treasurer's report showed that a million dollars was raised and distributed this year.

Everybody joined most heartily in singing "Praise God from whom all blessings flow."

Mrs. Jennings read the Constitution and By-Laws and introduced the subject of the Extension Committee, a new field of endeavor. Brother Smith, our pastor, spoke of this Extension Committee, consisting of twenty women from the Society, and of the great good to the church and community which this Committee will accomplish.

Mrs. Thompson, Social Service Superintendent, then made her report, and also called attention to the hope of the Council that the Inter-Racial work might be blessed of God and that we might accomplish great things in this department.

The report from Scarritt Bible and Training School was given by Mrs. Carley, who read a letter from our own Miss Sophie Kuntz, now in training there.

Following the Bible lesson, "The Cloud and the Silver Lining," by Mrs. Brister, a memorial service was held for Miss Belle H. Bennett.

Miss Cora Godat paid a beautiful tribute to Miss Bennett, whose sympathy for and belief in the workers made them love and honor her always.

Mrs. Montgomery spoke of Miss Bennett as an officer and told of her personal association with her, which indeed will be sweet to remember.

At noon, a delicious luncheon was served in the church parlors, and the fact that the ladies were guests of the President made it all the more enjoyable.

The afternoon session began with the Mission Study Class, "The Negro in the South," ably conducted by Mrs. Brister. It is interesting to note that the study was completed in October.

The regular business meeting followed and reports from all departments were most encouraging. An ideally happy day from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Have you had an "All-Day" meeting in your auxiliary? Try it, friends.

The week of prayer just ended has been a spiritual treat; the program was carried out at Carrollton every evening at 7:30 in the church, giving the whole congregation an opportunity to hear ministers and laymen speak on the topic for the week.

The week closed with a large church social on Friday, November 10, to which every church member was invited, and what, with community singing, and good fellowship, every member is closer and more interested in his neighbor than ever before.

A WORKER AT CARROLLTON.

PARKER MEMORIAL, NEW ORLEANS.

When the Bulletin was read at the September meeting of Parker Memorial Missionary Society, and our State President's message asking each auxiliary to have a luncheon the last week in September as a means of getting new members as well as a social getting together after the long summer, plans were at once made for complying with our dear president's request, and September 26 was set aside for the luncheon. The day was a perfect September, and the hall, parlors and lunchcon room were beautiful in their decorations of ferns and flowers.

The members received their guests in the reception hall and Mrs. Ford offered the dainty gold and white guest book that all, old as well as new members, might sign their names giving their new addresses, as some were to move the next week, thus assisting the secretary.

The table was in the shape of a cross and was resplendent in dainty linen, china and silver, with big wicker baskets of fern and yellow golden glow. After thanks had been returned by Mrs. Snelling, our president welcomed each and all in her own inimitable, sweet, bright way, referring to the work of the society in the past and the plans for the future when assisted by the new members she was welcoming so gladly.

Our especial guests of honor were State and district officers, who each gave three-minute talks on subjects dear to the heart of each missionary member present. Mrs. Van Alystine introduced these guests, and they were Mesdames Snelling, Harper, Niebergall and Rumph. Mrs. Van Alystine announced that the new mission study books were here and the first meeting would be at the church on October 17. Thus passed into memory another pleasant gathering at Parker Memorial.

MRS. P. B. TORIAN,
Supt. Publicity.

THE NEW ADULT YEAR BOOK.

Every member will want one of the elegant new adult year books, which will come from the press December 1. It is to be a larger size than usual, and will carry a beautiful picture of Miss Bennett and a wonderfully beautiful poem as a tribute to her. In order to make this book a fitting expression of the honor we wish to pay our great leader, we are putting out a more expensive book this year. The price will be ten cents each. We are sure, however, that no member will object to this on this special occasion.

ESTELLE HASKIN,
Sec'y of Publications,
Woman's Work.

FROM BRANDON AND PELAHATCHIE.

Dear Brother Carley: Brandon and Pelahatchie charge is composed of Brandon, Pelahatchie, and Greenfield. Pastor's and presiding elder's salary and all collections ordered by the Conference will be paid in full. We have three churches, three Sunday schools, three prayer meetings, two Woman's Missionary Societies and two Epworth Leagues. The League at Pelahatchie has just been organized and is not yet in good working order. We hope to have a good League there before long.

We began our revival at Greenfield the fifth Sunday in July. The pastor did the preaching. We had a good meeting, two uniting with the church on profession of faith. Since the third quarterly conference, which was held there, the church has raised and expended more than $100 in improvements on the church.

Our second meeting was at Brandon, beginning the 20th of September, and closing the first Sunday night in October. Brother J. V. Bennett did the preaching after the first day. Bennett is a strong and attractive preacher. He preaches the old gospel, and the membership of all the churches of Brandon heard him gladly. He is sound in Methodist doctrine and Christian experience. He is a safe man for any pastor to have in a

(Continued on Last Page)

ROCHE'S HERBAL EMBROCATION
FOR CROUP OR WHOOPING COUGH FOR
Relieves promptly and safely the Terror and Distress of these dreaded afflictions of Childhood.
120 years of successful use
Applied externally only. Wonderfully effective in Bronchitis, Lumbago and Rheumatism.
All druggists or
W. EDWARDS & SON, London, England
E. FOUGERA & CO., 90-92 Beekman St. N. Y.

BOHNE & WILT, Booksellers, and Stationers, 1328 Dryades St., New Orleans, La. Baseball Goods, Religious Articles, Fishing Tackle, Periodicals, School Books.

CHAMBERLAIN'S TABLETS
-SOLD EVERYWHERE FOR-
CONSTIPATION
BILIOUSNESS
Headache
INDIGESTION
Stomach Trouble

Keep Your Skin-Pores Active and Healthy With Cuticura Soap
Soap, Ointment, Talcum 25c. everywhere. For samples address: Cuticura Laboratories, Dept. V, Malden, Mass.

How's Your Stomach? and Your Liver?
Health is Most Vital to You
Durham, N. C.—"As for Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery which I use constantly, I don't believe there is a better liver medicine made. I use it for headache, stomach disorders and torpid liver. It is not unpleasant to take and does not leave a constipated condition as so many of the liver pills and medicines do. It does its work and leaves one feeling like a new person."—Howard Holden, 1306 Glenn St.
You can quickly put yourself in A-1 condition by going to your druggist and obtaining this Discovery of Dr. Pierce's in tablets or liquid, or write Dr. Pierce, president Invalids' Hotel, in Buffalo, N. Y., for free medical advice.

Headaches Vanish
Sick or nervous headaches, backaches, women's aches almost instantly respond to the liquid remedy Capudine. It stops the pain by removing the cause. Every home should keep a bottle handy. Sold by druggists, 10c, 30c, 60c. Insist upon getting CAPUDINE

GET RID OF THAT FAT

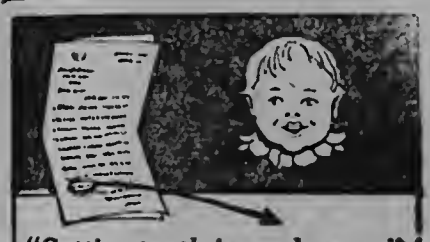
Free Trial Treatment on Request
Ask also for my "pay-when-reduced" offer. My treatment has often reduced at the rate of a pound a day. No dieting, no exercise, absolutely safe and sure method.
Mrs. E. Bateman writes:—Have taken your treatment and it is wonderful how it reduces. It does just as you say. I have reduced a pound a day and feel fine.
Mrs. Anna Schmidt writes:—I weighed 178 pounds before I started your treatment and I now weigh 138 pounds. You may print this if you like.
These are just examples of what my treatment can accomplish. Let me send you more proof at my expense.
DR. R. NEWMAN, Licensed Physician
286 Fifth Avenue, New York. Desk H967.

MRS. LULA VANN FULTON, ARK.
Suggests to Suffering Women the Road to Health

Fulton, Arkansas.—"I used Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for a soreness in my side. I would suffer so badly every month from my waist down that I could not be on my feet half the time. I was not able to do my work without help. I saw your Vegetable Compound advertised in a newspaper and gave it a fair trial. Now I am able to do my work and don't even have a backache every month. I cannot praise your Vegetable Compound enough and highly recommend it to those who have troubles like mine. I am willing for these facts to be used as a testimonial to lead all who suffer with female troubles, as I did, to the right road to health."—Mrs. LULA VANN, Box 43, Fulton, Arkansas.
Its this sort of praise of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, given by word of mouth and by letter, one woman to another, that should cause you to consider taking this well-known medicine, if you are troubled with such symptoms as painful periods, weak, nervous feelings, miserable pains in your back, and cannot work at certain times.
Here is a woman who is so grateful and glad to be relieved from a painful and nerve racking physical condition that she wishes to tell all sick women.

CHAMBERLAIN'S COUGH REMEDY
FOR THE RELIEF OF
Coughs, Colds, Croup
WHOOPING COUGH, HOARSENESS
BRONCHITIS
-SOLD EVERYWHERE-

TETTERINE
Makes Low Necks and Short Sleeves Possible. It Clears the Skin.
60c at your Druggist's, or from The SHUPTRINE CO., SAVANNAH, GA.



"Cutting teeth is made easy"
MRS. WINSLOW'S SYRUP
The Infants' and Children's Regulator
At all druggists
Non-Narcotic, Non-Alcoholic

Oakland, Nebr., Feb. 28, 1920
Anglo-American Drug Co.,
Gentlemen:
I am more than glad to tell you of the experience and result obtained from your wonderful Baby Medicine. Our second baby is now seven months old and has never given us a moment's trouble. The first and only thing she has ever taken was Mrs. Winslow's Syrup. She has four teeth and is always smiling and playing. Cutting teeth is made easy by the use of Mrs. Winslow's Syrup. Most sincerely,
(Name on request)

ANGLO-AMERICAN DRUG CO.
215-217 Fulton Street, New York
Gen. Selling Agents: Harold F. Ritchie & Co., Inc. New York, Toronto, London, Sydney

RECIPE FOR GRAY HAIR.

To half pint of water add 1 oz. Bay Rum, a small box of Barbo Compound, and 1-4 oz. of glycerine. Any druggist can put this up or you can mix it at home at very little cost. Apply to the hair twice a week until the desired shado is obtained. It will gradually darken streaked, faded or gray hair and make it soft and glossy. It will not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy and does not rub off.—Adv.

Methodist Benevolent Association
Gives Southern Methodist Men and Women Safe
LIFE INSURANCE AT ACTUAL COST
J. H. SHUMAKER, Sec'y
810 Broadway Nashville, Tenn.

PARKER'S HAIR BALSAM
Removes Dandruff-Stops Hair Falling
Restores Color and Beauty to Gray and Faded Hair
60c. and $1.00 at Druggists.
Hiscox Chem. Wks. Patchogue, N. Y.

HINDERCORNS Removes Corns, Calluses, etc., stops all pain, ensures comfort to the feet, makes walking easy. 15c. by mail or at Druggists. Hiscox Chemical Works, Patchogue, N. Y.

OTHINE
For the treatment of
FRECKLES
In Use for Over 14 Years
Your freckles need attention NOW or may remain all winter. Use Othine—double strength—the old and time-tried guaranteed treatment that has given satisfaction to millions of women, and rid yourself of these homely spots.
At all Druggists and Department Stores.

Epworth League.

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.

(Continued from Page 11.)

the Fourth Annual Assembly were shown by Brother Grambling; this, too, was grealy enjoyed by all. We are hoping that next year more of our New Orleans Leaguers will be able to attend the Fifth Annual Conference.

The following is a "Scramble," written by Miss Vlolet Wade, one of our Leaguers, which very clearly expresses every Leaguer's feeling toward our faculty:

O here's a cheer to Jimmie,
For he's our dear old pal;
He even makes you love him
Like you love your dearest gal.

And then there's E. O. Harbin;
He is our wonder man;
He lives to play and frolic,
Yet he works to beat the band.

O sing a song to Edgar,
With his funny new mustache!
He makes a first-class villain,
For he's got the pep and dash.

Ruth Wilkins, oh Ruth Wilkins!
We like to see you smile;
We want to keep you with us
Because you're just our style.

Dr. Lutz is jolly,
Dr. Lutz is gay;
Now, girls, if you aren't careful,
He'll steal your heart away.

To you, dear Nena Collins,
With your roguish eyes,
We'll say the fellow's lucky
Who captures such a prize.

O, Mrs. Muntz, we're singing
A song of thanks to you;
We like you when you're laughing,
We like you crying, too.

Of course we all know Laura,
Her name is Maggie, too;
We think that she is dandy;
Now tell the truth, don't you?

John Morris, you're a darling,
John Morris, you're a saint,
But Jimmie he gets mixed up
And calls you what you ain't.

Here's to everybody gathered here for fun—
If you don't like this ditty,
We'll sing another one.

The monthly meeting of the City Union was held on Tuesday, November 14, at Algiers. The Union was very glad to learn that Epworth bad been re-organized with 17 members and are expecting to have a real strong League there in the near future.

Brother Kleinschmidt reported that the newly organized League at Louisiana was getting along first-rate and the devotional meetings were well attended.

Second Church reported having organized an Intermediate League with 19 new members.

Mr. Cayard, our Union President, reported having visited the various Leagues in our District outside of New Orleans, Slidell, St. Tammany, Bush, and Pearl River, and it was his sincere regret that he could not possibly make Bogalusa and Mandeville. He reports that the Leagues visited were doing nicely and very often, when no church service is held, the Leagues still continue to have their services.

It is through the God in man, in the throbbing heart of humanity, the warm, loving, sympathetic soul that realizes its kinship to the lowly and suffering that relief and solace must come, if at all. It is only when prayers are crystallized into deeds that they become true prayers. "If you love me, feed my lambs."—R. T. Watson.

Dodson's Liver Tone
Killing Calomel Sale

Don't sicken or salivate yourself or paralyze your sensitive liver by taking calomel which is quicksilver. Your dealer sells each bottle of pleasant, harmless "Dodson's Liver Tone" under an ironclad, money-back guarantee that it regulates the liver, stomach and bowels better than calomel without making you sick—15 million bottles sold.

You Need a Summer Home
AT THE
Western Methodist Assembly

Established by Twelve Methodist Conferences of Missouri, Oklahoma, Texas, Louisiana, and Arkansas.

LOCATED AT FAYETTEVILLE, ARK., IN THE OZARKS, ON MT. SEQUOYAH, AT AN ELEVATION OF 1722 FEET, ITS CONSTITUENCY OF 700,000 METHODISTS WILL MAKE IT THE Greatest Summer Assembly in the Mississippi Valley.

The Climate is Ideal, the Scenic Beauty Charming, the Surrounding Country Famous for Fruit, Poultry, and All Farm Products. The University of Arkansas, in a Community of Substantial Citizens and Rare Culture, Offers Attractive Summer Courses.

TO SECURE THE ASSEMBLY

Fayetteville Donated 400 Acres of Valuable Land, $35,000 in Cash, a Road, and Water, Light, and Sewer Connections.

The Assembly is to be Open Every Summer,

And Will Offer Rare Recreational and Educational Advantages in a Genuine Religious Atmosphere.

Attractive Courses in Missions, Sunday School and Epworth League Methods, and Concerts and Lectures will be offered. There will be Unusual Facilities for Golf, Tennis, Boating, Bathing, and Fishing. A lake will be made, and the Assembbly has one-quarter-mile of clear, swift-flowing White River.

150 Beautiful and Convenient Lots are Offered to Our People, 150.

They are near the city and around the Assembly. They will have connection with water, light, sewer, and All Front on Picturesque Drives.

December 8, Lots Will be Sold on Favorable Terms.
Note the Date—December 8.

All who expect to buy should arrange to buy at that time, as the number of lots is limited. No agents will be employed. No commissions will be paid. All proceeds of sales will be used to make the Assembly Greater.

Literature describing the Situation and showing Location and Prices may be had by writing to Rev. A. C. Millar, President of Trustees, 221 E. Capitol Ave., Little Rock, Arkansas.

WRITE NOW. DO NOT DELAY. THIS IS A RARE OPPORTUNITY TO BECOME ASSOCIATED WITH A GREAT INSTITUTION.

FROM BRANDON AND PELAHATCHIE.

(Continued From Page 14)

meeting. We had a good meeting.

We began our meeting at Pelahatchie October 23, and closed at high-tide Sunday night, November 5. In many respects, if not in every way, this was the greatest meeting that I have ever been in. While the services were held at the Methodist church, led and conducted, so far as human leadership can go, by a Methodist pastor and evangelist, the revival touched the whole community in a very marvelous way. From the close of the Baptist meeting in July, the Methodist and Baptist ladies held a union prayer meeting once a week for the revival at the Methodist church. On the afternoon of October 15, a division of the Flying Squadron from Jackson came over and held a service. About 1500 people heard them. Their visit was timely and no man knows how much they contributed toward the success of the revival. They held a great service, and made a fine impression on all who heard them. Monday following the visit of the Squadron, the women, regardless of denominational lines, organized group prayer meetings on every street in town where there were enough to hold one. These prayer meetings were from 9:30 to 10 o'clock every morning through the entire week. Dan E. Kelley came to us on Wednesday evening, the 25th, and preached from two to four times a day until the close of the meeting. I had Brother Kelley with me in a meeting at Morton ten years ago. I regard him as being a much stronger preacher now than he was at that time, and as having grown in every way. It would require the pen of a gifted and skillful writer accurately to portray Dan Kelley. He is constantly bubbling over with wit, good humor, and pathos. Those who come to hear him once invariably come to hear him again.

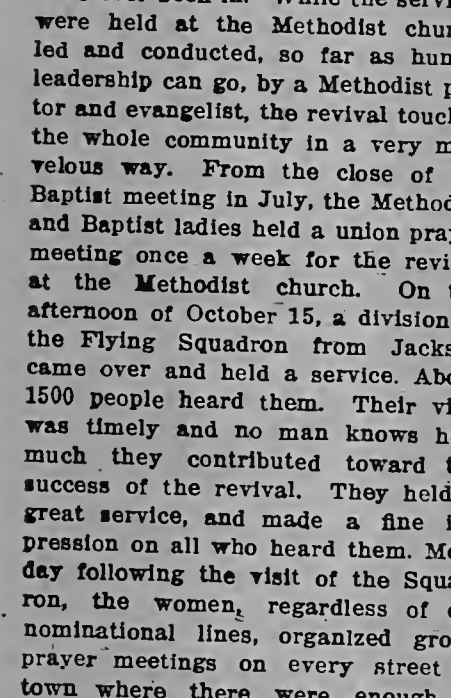
He preaches plainly and simply, dealing faithfully with the word of God and with the souls of men. His sermon to men only at the Baptist church and on social impurity to the entire congregation, and on the baptism with the Holy Ghost were probably the three most effective sermons of the entire series. The interest grew from the beginning. On the last night we could not seat all who came. One service was held at six, and two at 6:30 a.m., and the house was well filled at each. The result of the meeting in additions to the churches were 87 to the Methodist, 66 of whom were new members; some who came by certificate were lost to the church until this revival; 27 went to the Baptist church, and one to the Presbyterian church.

The Sunday school on the last Sunday of the meeting had 173 present, which was the largest attendance ever recorded at Sunday school in Pelahatchie, so far as I am able to learn. On Wednesday night after the meeting closed we had about 150 at prayer meeting, and we made a praise meeting out of it more than a prayer meeting. The men are organized for a week-day prayer meeting and the women will continue their weekly prayer meetings, this in addition to the regular prayer meetings at the churches. We thank God for this meeting and pray that the revival may grow. It was God's meeting, and to Him we reverently give all the praise, the glory and the power.

W. J. DAWSON, P. C.

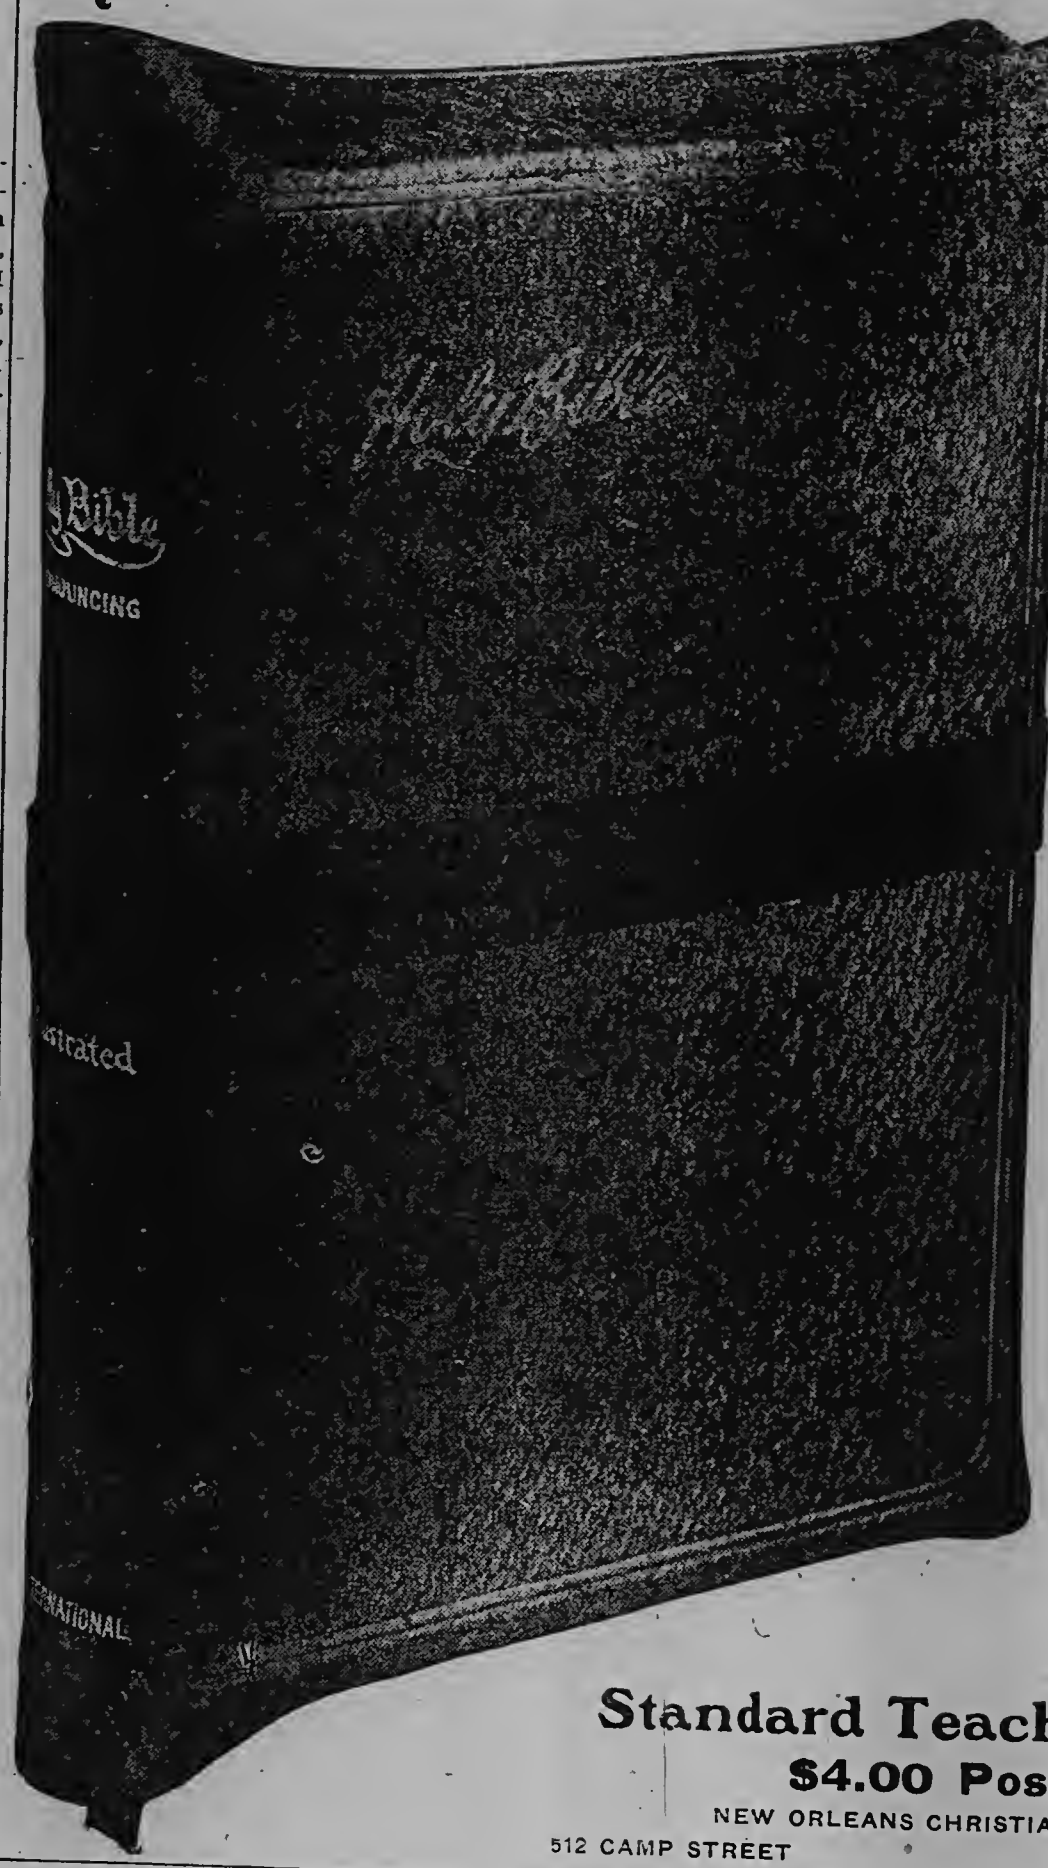
Corns

Lift Off with Fingers



Doesn't hurt a bit! Drop a little "Freezone" on an aching corn, instantly that corn stops hurting, then shortly you lift it right off with fingers. Truly!

Your druggist sells a tiny bottle of "Freezone" for a few cents, sufficient to remove every hard corn, soft corn, or corn between the toes, and the calluses, without soreness or irritation.



Standard Teachers' Bible

FLEXIBLE LEATHER BINDING

5½ x 8½ Inches

SELF-PRONOUNCING EDITION WITH

Concordance

Beautifully Bound with overlapping cover, red under gold edges; 16 colored maps of BIBLE Lands.

LARGE CLEAR PRINT

This is a handsome book and is sold at a very reasonable price.

Price, $4.00

POSTPAID

SEND ORDERS TO NEW ORLEANS CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE

Standard Teachers' Bible

$4.00 Postpaid

NEW ORLEANS CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE

512 CAMP STREET NEW ORLEANS, LA.

A soul occupied with great ideas best performs small duties; the divinest views of life penetrate most clearly into the meanest emergencies. —James Martineau.

Death or Life: For if ye live after the flesh, ye shall die: but if ye through the Spirit do mortify the deeds of the body, ye shall live.—Romans 8:13.

Antiseptic Mul-en-ol

Favorite for forty years.

Old friends can be trusted.

Stomach pains and nausea quickly relieved.

Also fine application for cuts and burns.

15, 30, 60 cts. Sizes

FINLAY, DICKS & CO., INC.,

NEW ORLEANS.

NEW ORLEANS

CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE

Vol. 69—No. 48. Official Organ of the Louisiana, Mississippi, and North Mississippi Conferences, Methodist Episcopal Church, South. Whole No. 3186.

HENRY T. CARLEY, Editor. NEW ORLEANS, LA., THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 30, 1922. CHAS. O. CHALMERS, Manager.

PROCEEDINGS OF THE LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.

FIRST DAY.

The seventy-seventh annual session of the Louisiana Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, convened in the First Methodist Church, Shreveport, La., on November 22, at 9 o'clock a. m., Bishop Warren A. Candler in the chair. Bishop Candler conducted the opening exercises, which consisted of singing hymn No. 222, "Jesus: the name high over all," prayer, Scripture reading taken from II Corinthians 2, an address by the Bishop, and singing "All hail the power of Jesus' name."

The roll was called by R. H. Harper, secretary of the preceding session of the Conference and, with the exception of quite a number of delegates from the southern part of the State who came in late on account of a delayed train, but whose presence was afterward noted, a large number of the members of the Conference answered to their names.

The organization of the Conference was effected by the election of R. H. Harper as secretary, who named as his assistants Jno. F. Foster and W. D. Kleinschmidt, and R. W. Vaughan as statistical secretary, who were duly elected.

R. T. Moore, a layman of Shreveport, was presented to the Conference and he delivered a most cordial address of welcome, which was appropriately responded to by Bishop Candler.

The hour of meeting was fixed at 9 o'clock, a. m., and of adjourning at 12, noon. The bar of the Conference was fixed as the first ten rows of pews, counting from the front of the church. Dr. H. F. Brooks, pastor of the First Methodist Church, announced that lunch would be served each day in the basement at 12:30 o'clock.

R. H. Wynn, on behalf of the presiding elders, nominated the following annual committees, and quadrennial boards and committees, which were duly elected:

Annual Committees.

Public Worship—H. F. Brooks, W. W. Drake, R. H. Wynn.

Conference Relations—H. W. Rickey, R. T. Ware, A. A. Bernard, A. H. Parker, T. J. Holladay, L. N. Hoffpaulr, J. F. Waltman.

District Conference Records—P. H. Fontaine, G. D. Purcell, J. W. Faulk, Mrs. L. M. White, Mrs. R. E. Smith, T. B. Carré, L. C. Wilson.

Sabbath Observance—A. W. Waddill, L. E. Crooks, H. C. Murphy, P. O. Lowrey, F. J. McCoy, C. F. Sheppard, H. B. Thomason

Prison Reform—H. S. Johns, W. C. Childress, D. C. Barr.

Memoirs—R. S. Walton, for W. A. Mangum; J. C. Price, for J. H. Brown; C. W. Crisler, for Mrs. C. C. Miller; F. N. Parker, for J. D. Harper.

Admissions—W. W. Drake, H. N. Brown, I. T. Reames, H. W. Cudd, R. S. Walton, J. A. Alford, W. H. Jordan.

Memorial Home—W. C. Childress, R. W. Vaughan, Ellis Smith.

Quadrennial Boards and Committees.

Admission on Trial—J. G. Snelling, P. M. Brown, J. W. Booth.

First Year—C. C. Miller, E. C. Gunn, J. C. Rousseaux.

Second Year—C. W. Crisler, L. I. McCain, J. A. McCormack.

Third Year—Jno. F. Foster, J. W. Pearson, Wm. Schuhle.

Fourth Year—W. L. Duren, R. S. Walton, S. J. Davies.

Committee on Admissions—W. W. Drake, H. N. Brown, I. T. Reames, H. W. Cudd, R. S. Walton, J. A. Alford, W. H. Jordan.

Bible Society Board—S. S. Bogan, J. D. Nesom, H. N. Harrison, S. L. Riggs, J. S. Rutledge, A. J. Bonnett.

Board of Christian Literature—H. W. May, A. M. Shaw, S. J. Davies, S. A. Seegers, J. A. Alford, F. B. Hill, L. R. Sparks.

Conference Commission on Budget—Clerical: W. R. Harvell, H. N. Brown, A. S. J. Neill, R. W. Tucker, W. D. Kleinschmidt.

Lay: S. M. Russ, C. O. Chalmers, K. I. Bean, W. H. Moore, Harry McKenzie.

Board of Finance—Clerical: W. W. Drake, J. F. Foster, G. A. Morgan, W. H. Jordan, R. S. Walton, H. W. Rickey, L. W. Cain.

Lay: W. L. Calhoun, J. C. Foster, H. H. White, J. R. Abels, Walter Fontenot, W. C. Barnette, T. L. James.

Sunday School Board—Clerical: J. W. Pearson, J. L. Evans, R. M. Brown, O. W. Bradley, J. C. Price, A. J. Coburn. (One to be named later.)

Lay: C. V. Breithaupt, Miss Ella Hooper, W. S. Holmes, J. H. Carter, S. M. Collins, A. M. Mayo, C. O. Beauchamp.

Epworth League Board—Clerical: W. W. Holmes, Leland Clegg, J. M. Boykin, F. J. McCoy, H. W. Ledbetter, A. D. George, C. C. Wier.

Lay: J. P. Bond, A. R. Wallis, Edgar Cayard, Miss Nettie Brunet, Miss Grace Cook, J. B. Grambling, J. H. Cain.

Board of Education—Clerical: H. T. Carley, N. E. Joyner, Briscoe Carter, F. N. Parker, D. B. Boddie, C. W. Crisler, J. A. McCormack, A. S. Lutz.

Lay: R. W. Oglesby, J. H. Thatcher, E. M. Decker, R. T. Moore, C. A. Ives, C. S. Williamson, H. T. Liverman, E. L. Joyner.

Board of Missions—Clerical: J. G. Snelling, R. F. Harrell, A. W. Turner, H. T. Young, W. F. Henderson, Jr., J. W. Booth, Louis Hoffpaulr.

Lay: S. S. Thomas, R. C. Holt, R. T. McClendon, R. E. Bobbitt, O. H. Cline, Dr. H. S. Joseph, S. H. Meyer; T. W. Holloman, ex officio.

Board of Church Extension—Clerical: F. M. Freeman, Geo. Fox, H. W. Bowman, W. L. Duren, B. H. Andrews, T. D. Lipscomb, E. C. Gunn.

Lay: R. O. Randle, R. J. O'Neal, John D. Saint, P. K. Abel, T. D. Connell, Mrs. L. M. White, K. I. Bean.

Board of Temperance and Social Service—Clerical: C. C. Miller, W. C. Childress, W. W. Perry, R. H. Harper, D. B. Raulins, A. W. Waddill, Wm. Schuhle.

Lay: E. E. Williamson, J. H. Pullen, L. Herman, F. M. Ragsdale, L. L. Upton, J. J. Davidson, J. L. Pitts.

Orphanage Board—Clerical: E. L. Cargill, J. M. Alford, L. C. Wilson, S. D. Roberts, A. J. Martin, Geo. P. White, W. S. Henry.

Lay: J. M. Robinson, L. Higginbotham, Dr. Rex Singletary, E. T. Matherne, J. L. Ballard, Dr. W. D. Haas.

Board of Lay Activities—Conference lay leader, district lay leaders and associate district lay leaders from each presiding elder's district.

The following, proposed by the presiding elders, was made a Standing Rule of the Conference concerning the composition of the Orphanage Board: A Conference Orphanage Board, composed of one lay member from each district, and an equal number of clerical members, shall be elected at the first session following the General Conference, to serve during the ensuing quadrennium.

Various communications were referred, without reading, to appropriate boards and committees.

Dr. Thos. N. Ivey, of Nashville, Tenn., editor of the Christian Advocate, the general organ of the church, was presented to the Conference, and he spoke concerning his work. Dr. Ivey's address was re-enforced by remarks by the Bishop concerning the value of the church papers.

W. C. Everett, of Dallas, Texas, representing the Publishing House, and Chas. O. Chalmers, Business Manager of the New Orleans Christian Advocate, were presented, and they addressed the Conference concerning their work.

Question 21, "Are all the preachers blameless in their life and official administration?" was called by the Bishop. The names of W. L. Doss, Jr., presiding elder of the Alexandria District; J. W. Lee, presiding elder of the Baton Rouge District; Martin Hebert, presiding elder of the French Mission District; J. B. Williams, presiding elder of the Lake Charles District; K. W. Dodson, presiding elder of the Monroe-Ruston District; J. G. Snelling, presiding elder of the New Orleans District, and R. H. Wynn, presiding elder of the Shreveport District, were called, they reported their work, and their characters were passed. The reports of the presiding elders showed that this has been a year of splendid progress throughout the State. Rev. J. G. Snelling, who is closing a quadrennium as presiding elder of the New Orleans District, presented the following written summary of the work of the district for four years:

"To the Bishop and Members of the Louisiana Conference.

"Dear Brethren: We believe that the New Orleans District embraces one of the most important fields in which our church is working today. There is an opportunity for all phases of missionary enterprises, on account of the large and cosmopolitan population of the city. We are indeed glad to report that at last Protestantism is making some advances in the district. We are not, however, claiming our full share of the new fields to be occupied. This can be charged, we believe, to the lack of a definite policy of a building program, wherein there would be full co-operation on the part of the Board of Church Extension and the Board of Missions, for without substantial help from the Boards, the church is too weak financially to accomplish the task, working as New Orleans Methodists alone.

"Some of our bishops and secretaries, who have been acquainting themselves with the field, have assisted in getting substantial aid for the New Orleans churches in recent years. The preachers of the New Orleans District are all effective men and full of the Holy Spirit—ready to do every good work. Our laymen are loyal, liberal and responsive. The women are doing a magnificent work, and their annual reports show the fruits of their ever-increasing labors. Our Sunday schools are pressing hard toward the Standards of Efficiency, many of them having already reached these

(Continued on Page 4)

New Orleans Christian Advocate

OFFICE, No. 512 CAMP STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

Published every Thursday by the Publishing Committee for the Louisiana, Mississippi, and North Mississippi Conferences, Methodist Episcopal Church, South.

Entered at the Postoffice at New Orleans as Second-class Mail Matter. Accepted for mailing at special rate of postage provided for in Section 1103, Act of Oct. 3, 1917, authorized Oct. 30, 1918.

TERMS:

Subscription Rates: One year, $2.00; six months, $1.
Tc superannuates and widows of preachers, $1.

TO CONTRIBUTORS.

All copy submitted for publication should be legibly written on one side of the paper with pen and ink, or typewritten. Matters written with a lead pencil and rolled manuscripts are unacceptable. No copy will be returned unless postage is enclosed for that purpose. In no case will responsibility be assumed for the loss or non-return of articles—the writers should keep copies of them. We do not purchase matter of any kind.

THY WILL.

All those who journey soon or late
Must pass within the garden's gate;
Must kneel alone in darkness there,
And battle with some fierce despair.
God pity those wbo cannot say,
"Not mine, but tbine;" who only pray,
"Let this cup pass," and cannot see
The purpose in Gethsemane.

—Ella Wheeler Wilcox.

NOTES FROM EUROPE.

By Rev. Walt Holcomb, General Evangelist, Cartersville, Ga.

Praising the City of Prague is the habit of everyone who comes within its ancient walls. It is a golden capital witb a hundred and thirty-five gilded and glorious towers, grouped upon seven series of hills, reminding one of old Rome. Seven clusters of towns surround the central part of tbe city. The prominent divisions are Old Town, New Town, Small Town, and Castle Town.

St. Charles' bridge is the connecting link between the Old Town and the big hill, where Hradcany is located. The bridge spans tbe Vltava river, which runs through tbe heart of the city. A huge pile of polished stone buildings, including castles and cathedrals, monasteries and monuments, makes a wonderful palace city within itself. During the Hussite wars the towns of the castle were used as state prisons.

In the council chamber of the castle, while the Imperial councillors were plotting against the Protestants, tbe outraged Bohemian nobles entered the chamber and hurled the Austrian officials through the windows to the ground. This was tbe beginning of the Thirty Years' Wars. The event is known in history as the Defenestration of Prague. Since the organization of the Czecho-Slovakian Republic, President Masaryk has lived in the castle on Hradcany. The offices of Foreign Affairs are also located in the castle grounds.

Centuries ago, John Huss was exiled by the Catholic Church because of his Protestant and independent leaning, and was conducted to Constance in Germany, with the promise of safe return by Emperor Sigismund, who forsook him and left him to burn at the stake, on the square in the city of Constance. However, the city of Prague now honors him with a great statue in the heart of the city, facing the spot where the twenty-seven noblemen were executed because of their loyalty to the Protestant cause.

In this old Protestant city, where the Romish church has controlled the religious life until the birth of the new Republic, we closed Sunday night in the Big Hall of Lanterns the second evangelistic campaign undertaken by the people called Methodists. The crowded buildings and religious enthusiasm were a revelation to the inhabitants. Over one hundred persons from the old established churches came forward on the last night.

Just as I was ready to announce my text, a young lady with an armful of fragrant flowers stepped to the front and presented tbem witb timely remarks. Then, a little boy came with bis flowers in one hand and speech in tbe other. Two or three little girls representing our churches followed with bouquets for Drs. Neill, Dobes, and Bartak. A handsome Bohemian ring, necklace and brooch were presented to me for my wife and children. To me it was the most touching scene I ever witnessed.

We began another revival at Slany, preaching from the wrecked monument of John Nepomuk, that was torn down by the Bolsheviks after the establishment of tbe Czech nation. Slany is the home of Bolshevism in Bohemia. Alois Muna, who was a tailor before entering the Austrian Army, was taken prisoner by the Russians, afterward joined the Bolshevik Army, and fought against the Czech legionnaires. After tbe Armistice, he returned to Bobemia and began to agitate and advocate the theories of Bolshevism.

The Russian Bolshevik Government supported his propaganda witb Russian gold and succeeded, secretly, in organizing a little Soviet in Slany. After he had secured all kinds of weapons and ammunitions, early one cold morning, in the adjoining industrial centers they proceeded to occupy the City Hall and factory and start their Bolshevik rule. They made a common laborer president of the big sugar mill, and the former President had to obey orders from his new Bolshevik boss. In two days two tons of sugar were missing.

The Bolsheviks also took charge of large farms and estates, and when tbey wanted some beef they proceeded to kill the best milch cows; notwithstanding, milk was one of the scarcest commodities. Tbe Bolshevik renters of apartments made the owners pay rent to the Bolsheviks who occupied the apartments. The Czecho-Slovak government, upon being apprised of the Bolshevik reign and terror, immediately dispatched soldiers to the scene and seized the agitators and gave them a thorough thrashing, bound them with chains and locked them up in prison.

Alois Muna was one of the Bolshevik birds that got whip-lashing. Soon after his return from Russia, he was delivering a lecture on Bolshevism, when two Czech legionnaires arose and went to the platform and told the lecturer that they owed him something. Muna soon realized what the soldiers had in mind, and he crawled under the piano to protect himself; the soldiers grabbed him by his boots and pulled him out before the crowd and administered such a thrashing that the lecturer had to go to the hospital. Since then, the Bolsheviks have been very meek and mild.

We have a large tent in Slany where the revival services are being held. Preaching to Bolsbevists and Methodists is a combination that I am not used to. However, the Methodists are enthusiastic and the Bolshevists are respectful. I have been wondering if they would decide to turn the meeting into a Bolshevik revival, and come up and occupy the pulpit and send the American evangelist to the back seat, and call him to the mourners' bench. That would be practical Bolshevism.

Slany is thirty-five kilometers from Prague and we make the trip daily by auto. Travel is great in Czech country. The maps show colored routes, and the mile posts are painted with the color indicated in the guidebook. When you approach a zigzag road, the letter "z" is painted on the sign; a railroad grade crossing is indicated by a section of railroad ties and track pictured on the sign.

The road bed is built on boulders as big as your body, covered with small gravel, and is as level as glass in most places. Both sides are lined with apple and cherry trees, and the blossoms remind you of the apple blossoms of Normandy and the cherry blooms of Japan. Little thatched-straw, dog-like houses are scattered along the road, where the peasants watch and guard the ripening fruit.

Goose ponds are in every village and all the geese are brought to the pond for a socialistic swim and jabbering commune. Socialism is really a goose pond where communistic geese congregate. The geese follow the children home each evening, and it is amusing to watch the spreading white-winged geese and the red-faced children, dodging the passing automobiles. The boys, with the milk goats, also add a touch of the natural to the picture.

At eventide the public highways are strewn witb returning gleaners, mostly old, decrepit women, who have followed the reapers and gleaned the scattered grain from the field. Their bent forms are covered with bundles of straw and wheat, while their kindly, wrinkled faces beam with smiles as they chatter along the way. The picture reminds you of Bible scenes of long ago and of the gleaners mentioned in the Scriptures.

Slany is a town of ten thousand inhabitants. We are preaching under the tent that was first used in Methodist evangelism in Czecho-Slovakia. All of the preachers except one, who was given work by Bishop Beauchamp, at the recent conference, were converted under this sacred canvas. This will be my last revival campaign in Europe. As I bid my readers good-bye, I hope to renew our acquaintance, sometime, in our beloved Southland.

Prague, Czecho-Slovakia.

AN APPEAL IN BEHALF OF EASTERN CHRISTIANS.

Secretary Hughes, in his reply to Bishop Cannon's cablegram, urging that our Government take necessary steps to put an end to Turkish rule over the Christians, stated, in substance, that the abstention of the Executive from greater exertions in behalf of the Eastern Christians was due to no lack of sympathy, but to the lack of a mandate from the people. In the light of the candid declaration of tbe Secretary of State, the duty of those of us who agree witb Bishop Cannon is self-evident. We must assure the Executive and Legislative branches of our Government that they will have our full support in any action they find necessary to effectuate the freedom of Armenia and the liberation of the Greeks from the rule of tbe Turks.

We, therefore, ask you to: (a) write to the President, to the Secretary of State, to your Senators and Congressman along the lines indicated above; (b) urge every member of your church to do likewise, and (c) if possible, hold mass-meetings, adopt resolutions, and send them to Washington.

We are asking 100,000 churches and 25,000 lay organizations to act upon the foregoing suggestions. The efficiency of your effort will depend upon the number of letters—not collective but individual—that you send to Wasbington. We are asking each person to write five letters: one to the President, one to the Secretary of State, two to the Senators of his or her State, and one to the Congressman of his or her District. Thus, if fifty persons in each church and lay organization, to which we make this appeal, were to write, we would be reasonably certain of achieving our aims. We earnestly bope that you may favor us with an affirmative reply.

Signed by: James W. Gerard, Chairman, Ex-Ambassador to Germany; James R. Angell, President, Yale University; Edward Capps, Ex-Minister to Greece; Charles W. Eliot, President Emeritus, Harvard University; Bradley A. Fiske, Rear Admiral, U. S. N. (Retired); Samuel Gompers, President, American Federation of Labor; Patrick J. Hayes, Archbishop of New York; John Grier Hibben, President, Princton University; Harry Pratt Judson, President, University of Chicago; William T. Manning, Bishop of New York; Henry Morgenthau, Ex-Ambassador to Turkey; John R. Mott, General Secretary, International Committee, Y. M. C. A.; Benj. Ide Wheeler, President Emeritus, University of California; Geo. W. Wickersham, Former U. S. Attorney-General.

New Every Morning: It is of the Lord's mercies that we are not consumed, because his compassions fail not. They are new every morning: great is tby faithfulness.—Lamentations 3:22, 23.

THE GOLDEN CROSS SOCIETY.

By Dr. C. C. Selecman, Secretary Hospital Board.

Those who are interested in the promotion of the Hospital Movement in the M. E. Church, South, will be gratified to note that paragraphs 574 and 575 of the 1922 Discipline are devoted to hospital enterprises and the Golden Cross Society.

The language of the Discipline is as follows: "The organization of the Golden Cross Society as an auxiliary of the General Hospital Board is hereby authorized. This society, based upon the plan of annual memberships, shall be maintained for the purpose of interesting the entire membership of our church in the work of building and maintaining hospitals and in raising funds annually under the direction of the Hospital Board."

The purpose of the Golden Cross Society is to promote kindness in thought and speech, charity and generosity in giving, helpfulness and mercy in daily service to the unfortunate, and love to one's fellow-men.

According to the paper adopted at the recent meeting of the General Hospital Board at Atlanta, Ga., "It shall be auxiliary to the General Board of Hospitals in the Methodist Episcopal Church, South."

Any one desiring to aid needy and suffering humanity may become a member of the Golden Cross Society by the payment of one dollar ($1.00) per year. Children under fourteen years of age may enroll as junior members by paying twenty-five cents (25c) per year. Other memberships are as follows: Supporting membership, $10 per year; sustaining membership, $25 per year; service membership, $50 per year; life membership, $100; life patron, $500; Knight of the Golden Cross, $10,000.

Let us emphasize the fact that the Golden Cross Society is not an organization that will require stated meetings and add to the machinery of the church unnecessarily.

It is designed simply to give an opportunity, once a year, for every man, woman and child in the Southern Methodist Church to enroll in a great movement for the promotion of hospitals under the direction of our church.

The period beginning Thanksgiving Day and extending to and including Christmas Day of each year has been designated for the annual enrollment of members. However, members may enroll at any time or place.

A beautiful membership card, with a cross of gold set upon a circular field of blue, has been designed for enrollment purposes.

The simple pledge which one is required to sign in order to become a member by the payment of the fee is: "Desiring to manifest my love to Christ by serving and helping the sick, the needy and the unfortunate, I hereby enroll as a member of the Golden Cross of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South."

It is the duty and function of the Annual Conference Hospital Board to supervise and encourage the enrollment in the Golden Cross in every church. The first enrollment will begin Thanksgiving Day, which is November 30, 1922.

For carrying out of this enrollment it is provided that the pastor shall appoint a Church Director of the Golden Cross Society, subject to the confirmation of the quarterly conference. This director should be appointed at once and either he or the pastor should secure from the office of our General Hospital Board, 416 Wesley Memorial Building, Atlanta, Ga., a sufficient number of membership cards and leaflets to supply the membership of the charge.

Each membership should be paid in cash in order that no unnecessary trouble be laid upon the pastor and Charge Director for the collection of these amounts.

There are thousands of loyal members in our great church who will desire to be identified with the very first enrollment of this society, and who will, thereafter, take a pious joy in being listed with each subsequent enrollment.

The possibilities of this Golden Cross Movement can scarcely be over-stated. A similar plan in the Methodist Episcopal Church has raised hundreds of theusands of dollars in various episcopal areas. Some of the definite results may he stated as follows:

First—It will crystalize the dormant sympathy which now exists in the hearts of our people in actual deeds and gifts.

Second—It has a large advertising and educational value. If properly used, it will carry to the last man, woman and child in our membership the appeal for a definite service to this great cause.

Third—There will he a constant suggestion of the possibility of larger things. In other words, the person who becomes an annual member by the payment of one dollar, will have suggested to him by our literature the possibility of service membership, or life patron, or Knight of the Golden Cross. There will be held out the prospect of being able in coming years to give a large amount to some hospital.

Fourth—It will yield itself readily to enterprises that are under way, and will secure funds to help support those hospitals that are in operation, and that, because of doing a large amount of charity work, have a deficit.

In one area of the Methodist Episcopal Church a similar movement secured three hundred thousand dollars last Christmas time in actual cash. All of this came in small amounts.

To use the words of Bishop Atkins at the recent General Conference: "We have lingered too long in the way. Living in the midst of a population of more than two million members, and twenty-five million people in sympathy with us, in a country prosperous beyond all other countries, we have neglected our sick and have not, as a communion, availed ourselves of what modern advance in medicine and surgery has made available for the relief and the life of our people."

SAFETY SIGNALS.

By Rev. S. J. Davies.

Cecil Rhodes, empire builder, the man who won for his country Britain's vast colonial possession in South Africa, was a man of world-wide vision. Old Oxford university had nourished and trained him. He did not forget his Alma Mater in the day of his prosperity, for he dedicated a goodly portion of his great wealth to the maintenance of scholarships throughout the nations which would be the means of extending the English-speaking peoples' ideals of life and conduct. He gave us the idea that, since God loved to create, man was much like God—when in his sphere he, too, was creating. Rhodes' money will follow the pathway of all money, for at its best it is only an evanescent thing; but his empire will live and the knowledge and love of learning implanted in the heart of youth will live on through the enduring years.

That brings me to the thought—the joy of creation. God must look down in merciful approval on his children's efforts to create things useful and beautiful. The child builds its playhouse, and the smile that wreathes its face is a dawning and promise of achievements of greater worth, as its little feet go on life's way. The boy finds unalloyed pleasure in his wigwam in the forest and dreams of mighty conquests; and his dreams, perchance, may find expression in coming life. Men and women in this sense are busy in upbuilding, or bent on destroying. Herein lies the baleful curse of war—it destroys the things that represent life's most treasured ideals. Cathedrals, cities, homes in hamlets and countryside, busy marts of industry, mines and fields, are wrecked, blasted, ruined; but worst of all, the dread aftermath that comes from lost ideals of noble, true, upright manliness. And, furthermore, never does man fall to a lower level, but that woman follows. They rise together nor do they fall, asunder. God has joined them together in more ways than in marital bonds. Here is the present task for all who love God and his fellowman—to create anew a higher standard of life than now exists, with emphatic assurance to restate those imperishable agencies that have made civilization possible and life worth the living. To this stupendous task we must apply ourselves; and surely He who is continually creating all things anew will supplement every worthy effort for a better world.

* * *

There are few things in this world of sin and sorrow that men esteem and love more than the approval of others. The plaudits of the crowd from the grandstand nerve the player to more strenuous and heroic endeavor. "Come on! Come on!" has won many a game when hope was forlorn and expectation dim. The yell of the "fan" is sometimes as momentous as the speed and skill of the athlete.

"Attaboy!" is music to his soul and lends wings to his feet. Paul saw this centuries ago, when the Grecian youth contended on Olympian fields, and not infrequently does he employ the truth, deep-seated in human nature, to emphasize yet deeper truths. The "cloud of witnesses" are an approving, if not an applauding crowd. The apostle sounds the cry back over the ages to summon them, for his roll call rings from Ahraham to Christ. No small company is this. Whether Paul or some other wrote Hebrews 12:1-2, I am not here to decide; but of one thing I am sure—whether or not he used Paul's language or style, he undoubtedly uses this apostle's figure of speech. So much for the things that puzzle us; we will follow the main lead.

Adulation, flattery, is the devil's weapon; deserved praise and well won approval belong to the armory of the saints. Many a weary one, no douht, in the great struggle for a better world today needs the answering sympathy that comes from the heart of a friend. Don't let the grandstands do all the cheering. There are a great many people in the world who are not playing ball. Write a letter to the one who has helped you, speak the words—"apples of gold in pictures of silver"—and God and man will bless you. Have you tried it lately?

Coushatta, La.

WHAT IS IN THY HAND?

The chief question is not what the other person is doing with his gift, it is what you are doing with your own. We need to remember that no talent exists merely for its owner's enjoyment. Every gift has a social meaning. You are robbing society of something when you are withholding your gift. Can you sing? Thank God for a good voice and use it. Be ready and willing to sing when your League calls for help, and do it at once without coaxing. Do you ever take part in the League discussions? Do you just listen while others make tthe meetings fruitful by bringing to the subject their best experience and thought? Break through that silence. Stand on your feet and say what you think. Your words may seem simple to you but they will prove helpful to the others. Are you one of those who "never pray in public?" We must blaze new paths of prayer for the feet of modern men. Stir up the prayer gift for what it will mean to your League. Have you a business instinct? Do you know how to manage and administer? Express it in your work for Christ. We must break through our reserve. We must overcome our self-consciousness. We must ignore our embarrassment. For the work of the kingdom is important, and it needs our very gift.—Zion's Herald.

To shape the whole future is not our problem, but only to shape faithfully a small part of it according to rules already known. It is perhaps possible for each of us who will with dne earnestness inquire, to ascertain clearly what he, for his own part, ought to do; this let him, with true heart, continue to do. The general issue will, as it has always done, rest well with a higher intelligence than ours.—Carlyle.

PROCEEDINGS OF THE LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.

(Continued From Page 1)

Standards. The young people of the Epworth League are thoroughly organized, and the number of volunteers for Life Service indicates a high degree of spirituality.

"The following statistics voice the actual material condition of the district:

"On the Missionary Centenary quota of $100,000—Pledged, $150,000; paid, $64,323.27.

"On the Educational quota of $130,000—Pledged, $101,135; paid, $12,489.

"For church buildings and parsonages, expended by Board of Church Extension, Board of Missions, and Woman's Council, $180,000; appropriated by the Board of Church Extension and yet on the calendar, $12,500; raised by local churches for church buildings and parsonages, $65,000. Total for church buildings and parsonages, $257,500. This amount covers five new churches, one large social service institution, and six parsonages. The Memorial Home, established with one house valued at $5,000, now has $12,000 worth of property, and has been running with a budget of from $10,000 to $12,000 per year. The Home is supported by the three patronizing Conferences—the North Mississippi, the Mississippi, and the Louisiana. We have maintained during the four years a business office in the heart of the commercial district of the city of New Orleans, known as the Methodist Headquarters. This office is said by the preachers and laymen who have co-operated and contributed toward its maintenance to have been one of the strongest contributing factors in the work that has been accomplished. Revivals have been carefully planned and faithfully conducted, which, being augmented by personal efforts, have resulted in nearly 4,000 additions to the church. The salaries of the preachers of the New Orleans District have been raised from $19,000 to $31,000, and the presiding elder's from $3,200 to $4,200, and a district parsonage has been provided, valued at $15,000, with only a $5,000 debt on a 5-year note at 6 per cent.

"Speaking personally, I want to express my appreciation of the splendid assistance that has been rendered to me by the bishops and general secretaries of our church, as well as for the loyalty of the preachers of the New Orleans District and the splendid co-operation of the men and women who have helped in all the work. It has been a pleasure to me to have been permitted to serve the church in the capacity of presiding elder of this important district during the past four years.

"Respectfully submitted,

"J. G. SNELLING."

Following the reports of the presiding elders, Bishop Candler spoke of the great work the church is doing throughout the world, during which he made this striking statement: "I do not know of any organization in the world that is bringing about greater results or better results than the Christian church."

Announcement was made to the Conference that Mrs. C. C. Miller, wife of the pastor of Keener Memorial Church, Baton Rouge, had just passed to her reward, and, upon motion of C. W. Crisler, the Conference adopted resolutions of sympathy for Brother Miller.

The hour of adjournment having arrived announcements were made, the song, "Come, ye that love the Lord," was sung, and the benediction was pronounced by Dr. Thos. N. Ivey.

SECOND DAY.

The Conference convened promptly at 9 o'clock, Bishop Candler in the chair. The opening exercises consisted of singing, prayer led by Robert Randle, Scripture reading and appropriate remarks thereon hy the Bishop.

The roll of absentees from yesterday's session was called, and, upon motion, further calling of the roll was dspensed with. The minutes of yesterday's session were read and approved.

Bishop W. B. Beauchamp, recently returned from Europe, was presented to the Conference.

Various communications were referred to appropriate boards and committees.

Question 9, "Who are received by transfer?" was called, and the Bishop announced the transfer of D. W. St. John, a deacon in the fourth year, from the Texas Conference, and J. W. Pearson, an elder, from the Tennssee Conference.

A telegram from W. H. Sullivan, mayor of Bogalusa, La., inviting the Conference to hold its next annual session in Bogalusa, was read.

The call of Question 21, "Are all the preachers blameless in their life and official administration?" was resumed. The names of J. M. Brown, R. A. Davis, W. F. Henderson, F. G. Hocutt, S. S. Holladay, R. S. Isbell, J. F. Patterson, Robert Randle, J. T. Sawyer, S. A. Steel, F. N. Sweeney, and H. B. Vandenburg were called, their characters were passed, and their names were referred to the Committee on Conference Relations for the superannuate relation. The names of W. J. Porter, J. G. Sloane, and B. T. Crews, who have been on the active list this year, were called, their characters were passed, and they were referred to the same Committee for the superannuate relation.

Bishop Candler presented Bishop W. B. Beauchamp, who addressed the Conference concerning the work in Europe, and the necessity of meeting our Centenary obligations in order that the work may not suffer serious hindrance. Following Bishop Beauchamp, Bishop Candler spoke to the same subject. Seldom are two such great addresses given at one time as the Conference heard on this occasion.

On motion of Briscoe Carter, W. W. Drake was added to the Board of Education.

The hour of adjournment having arrived, announcements were made, the doxology was sung, and the benediction was pronounced hy Bishop Beauchamp.

The announcements included the meeting of the laymen; at 2 o'clock, to be addressed hy Bishop Beauchamp, preaching at 3 o'clock, hy Rev. A. W. Waddill, and the Missionary Anniversary at 7:30 o'clock, to he addressed hy Bisbop Beauchamp.

THIRD DAY.

The Conference convened promptly at 9 o'clock, Bishop Candler in the chair. The devotional exercises consisted of singing, prayer led by Dr. A. J. Weeks, Scripture reading by the Bishop and remarks thereon, and singing.

The minutes of the previous session were read and approved.

Question 9, "Who are received hy transfer from other Conferences?" was called, and the Bishop announced the following: William Thomas, an elder, from the Belgian Mission; Archibald K. McLeland, on trial in the Class of the First Year, from the Alabama Conference; Alonzo Early, an elder, from the North Texas Conference.

Upon nomination of R. H. Wynn for the presiding elders, Alonzo Early was added to the membership of the Sunday School Board, and C. J. Bolin was elected a member of the Board of Education in place of H. T. Liverman.

Dr. A. J. Weeks, editor of the Missionary Voice, and H. H. Ahrens, of the Department of Circulation of Periodicals, of the Publishing House, were presented to the Conference, and they spoke concerning their work.

The following pastors of Shreveport were presented to the Conference: Dr. Owens, St. Mark's Episcopal Church; Dr. Jasper K. Smith, First Presbyterian Church; Dr. McKenzie, Dunlap Memorial Presbyterian Church; the Rev. Mr. Maynard, Cedar Grove Baptist Church; the Rev. Mr. Theus, Church of the Nazarenes.

Dr. C. C. Selecman, of the North Texas Conference, and Dr. H. C. Morrison, of the Kentucky Conference, were presented to the Conference.

Upon motion of R. H. Wynn for the presiding elders, F. S. Parker was elected a member of the Board of Finance in place of W. W. Drake.

A communication from the General Hospital Board was read, and Dr. C. C. Selecman and Bishop Candler spoke concerning the necessity of establishing hospitals throughout the connection.

Upon nomination of R. H. Wynn for the presiding elders, the following were named as the Hospital Board: Clerical—H. F. Brooks, A. J. Gearheard, L. I. McCain, Ellis Smith, S. D. Howard, G. S. Sexton, W. E. Akin; Lay—Dr. Luther Sexton, T. L. Freeman, Carl McHenry, F. T. Whited, J. W. Warren, L. D. McGehee, T. W. Holloman.

Dr. R. H. Bennett, Secretary of the Department of Ministerial Supply and Training, addressed the Conference.

Question 17, "What traveling preachers and what local preachers have been elected deacons?" was called. The name of B. D. Watsen, a traveling preacher, was called, he reported his work, his character was passed, he was elected to deacon's orders and passed to the Class of the Third Year. The name of D. F. Anders, on trial in the Class of the First Year, was called, his character was passed, and he was elected to deacon's orders.

The name of J. L. Greenway, Jr., was called, his character was passed, and he was passed to the Class of the Second Year.

Question 4, "Who else is in the Class of the Second Year?" was called. Answer: J. L. Greenway, Jr., and D. C. Bennett. The name of Frank Collins was called and it was reported that he had been transferred to Mexico.

Question 1, "Who are admitted on trial?" was called. Answer: Charles E. McLean, Aristile Brulet, Jay Coburn, Charles K. Smith, Don E. Dulaney, and Robert A. Bozeman.

Question 3, "Who remain on trial?" was called. The names of H. L. Johns, Ollie Lee Tucker, L. R. Sparks (an elder), and C. H. Mayo were called, their characters were passed, and they were advanced to the Class of the Second Year; the names of E. V. Duplantis, D. F. Anders, H. B. Hines, and W. F. Chase were called, their characters were passed, and they were continued in the Class of the First Year.

Question 21, "Are all the preachers blameless in their life and official administration?" was resumed. The name of Geo. S. Sexton was called, his character was passed, and he presented his report as president of Centenary College, which was referred to the Board of Education.

The hour of adjournment having arrived, announcements were made, and the benediction was pronounced by Rev. E. L. Shettles, of the Texas Conference.

Dr. H. C. Morrison preached at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, and the anniversary of the Board of Education was held at 7:30, with addresses by Dr. Geo. S. Sexton and Dr. J. H. Reynolds.

FOURTH DAY.

Conference convened promptly at 9 o'clock, with Bishop Candler in the chair. The devotional exercises consisted of singing, prayer by R. H. Harper, Scripture reading and comment thereon by the Bishop, and singing.

The minutes of yesterday's session were read and approved.

The call of Question 21, "Are all the preachers blameless in their life and official administration?" was resumed. When the name of P. M. Brown was called, he reported his work and requested that his name he referred to the Committee on Conference Relations, for the supernumerary relation. His request was granted. When the name of S. J. Davies was called, he reported his work and requested that his name be referred to the same Committee for the superannuate relation. His request was granted.

The report of the trustees of the Western Methodist Assembly was read by Briscoe Carter and referred to the Board of Education.

The hour of ten o'clock having arrived, the Bishop called to the chancel Rev. B. D. Watson for admission into full connection. After an address by the Bishop and after Brother Watson had answered the disciplinary questions, he was, by vote of the Conference, admitted into full connection.

Rev. Claude Jones, pastor of the Central Christian Church, was presented to the Conference.

Prof. G. L. Morelock, General Secretary of the Board of Lay Activities, was presented to the Conference, and he spoke concerning his work.

Dr. T. D. Ellis, General Secretary of the Board of Church Extension, was presented to the Conference and he spoke concerning his work.

Question 15, "Who are the deacons of one year?" was called. The name of Porter M. Carraway was called, he reported his work, and he was advanced to the Class of the Fourth Year.

Question 8, "Who are readmitted?" was called. Answer: W. F. Roberts.

Question 19, "What traveling preachers and what local preachers have been elected elders?" was called. Answer: Leland Clegg, W. H. Giles, J. E. Selfe, A. J. Martin, S. A. Seegers.

Question 10, "Who are received from other churches as traveling preachers?" was called. Answer: E. W. Day, from the Baptist Church; F. M. Miller, from the Methodist Episcopal Church.

Rev. J. C. Alvord and Rev. A. L. McQueen were recognized in orders without reimposition of hands upon their furnishing a certified subscription to our doctrines and discipline, and to our ordination vows.

Question 21 was resumed. The names of the following were called and their characters were passed: O. W. Bradley, Geo. Fox, L. E. Crooks, S. S. Bogan, J. F. Waltman, D. B. Boddie, A. E. Barrett, J. W. Faulk, H. T. Young, A. M. Shaw, E. L. Cargill, W. W. Perry, B. H. Sheppard, W. H. Jordan, C. D. Atkinson, J. W. Booth, J. L. Cady, C. W. Crisler, C. C. Miller, L. C. Wilson, C. H. Mayo, L. W. Cain, H. W. Ledbetter, A. J. Coburn, J. S. Rutledge, F. B. Hill.

The Bishop called Question 9, "Who are received by transfer from other Conferences?" and announced the transfer of Rev. R. T. Pickett from the Mississippi Conference.

A motion which prevailed, was made that when we adjourn, we adjourn to meet at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon in Memorial Session.

Announcements were made, including preaching at 3 p.m., by Dr. H. C. Morrison, and the Epworth League Anniversary at 7:30 p.m., and the Conference adourned with the doxology, and the benediction pronounced hy H. N. Brown.

FIFTH DAY—SUNDAY.

The Conference met in Memorial Session on Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock, Dr. F. N. Parker presiding by appointment of the Bishop. Dr Parker conducted the devotional exercises, which consisted of singing, prayer, and Scripture reading.

Question 14, "What preachers have died during the year?" was called, and answered as follows: J. D. Harper, W. A. Mangum, J. H. Brown. Announcement was also made of the recent death of Mrs. C. C. Miller, wife of a member of the Conference. Memoirs of the deceased were read as follows: of J. D. Harper, by F. N. Parker; of W. A. Mangum, by R. S. Walton; of J. H. Brown, by J. C. Price; of Mrs. C. C. Miller, by C. W. Crisler. After the memoirs were read, appreciative remarks concerning the deceased were made by the following: J. M. Brown, R. H. Wynn, R. W. Tucker, F. S. Parker, J. B. Williams, W. W. Holmes, J. I. Hoffpauir, P. M. Brown, W. F. Henderson, A. D. Brulet, J. C. Rousseaux, J. C. Price.

The session adjourned with singing, and the benediction pronounced hy Dr. Parker.

SIXTH DAY—MONDAY.

The Conference convened promptly at 9 o'clock, with Bishop Candler in the chair. The Bishop conducted the devotional exercises, which consisted of singing, prayer led by J. B. Williams, Scripture reading and comment thereon by the Bishop, and singing.

The minutes of Saturday's session and of the Memorial Session were read and approved.

Question 18, "What traveling preachers and what local preachers have been ordained deacons?" was called, and Bishop Candler certified to the ordination, following the sermon Sunday morning, of B. D. Watson and D. F. Anders.

Question 20, "What traveling preachers and what local preachers have been ordained elders?" was called, and the Bisbop certified to the ordination, following the sermon Sunday evening, of W. H. Giles, J. E. Seife, S. A. Seegers, A. C. Martin, Leland Clegg. A. L. McQueen. F. M. Miller, from the M. E. Church, and E. W. Day, in orders in the Baptist Church, assumed the ordination vows. The orders of Prof. Alvord were recognized and he took his place in the local ranks.

Question 5, "Who are discontinued?" was called, and the answer was, None.

The call of Question 21 was resumed. The name of C. A. Battie was called, and his presiding elder stated that he desired to surrender his credentials, withdrawing from the ministry and membership of the church. Upon motion, his credentaiis were accepted, and the Conference joined in prayer, led by J. W. Lee, for his spiritual welfare.

The names of those who had not previousiy been called were called, those present made reports of their work, and the characters of all were passed.

Question 11, "Who are located this year?" was called. Answer: E. W. Day, at his own request.

Question 42, "Where shall the next session of the Conference be held?" was called. Bogalusa was put in nomination by E. C. Gunn, and Bogaiusa was unanimously chosen.

A telegram of greeting from Rev. R. A. Davis, of New Orleans, an honored superannuate member of the Conference, was read, and the Secretary was instructed to make a fitting reply.

The Committee on Conference Relations made its report, recommending W. J. Porter, J. G. Sloane, B. T. Crews, and S. J. Davies for the superannuate relation, and P. M. Brown for the supernumerary relation. The report was adopted.

On motion of R. H. Wynn, the time was extended until the business of the Conference be concluded.

On nomination of R. H. Wynn, for the presiding elders, W. L. Duren was added to the Board of Education in place of D. B. Boddie, and D. B. Boddie was added to the Board of Church Extension in place of W. L. Duren.

Reports of boards and committees were made as follows, the reports being adopted or ordered to record according to rule: Board of Finance; Board of Lay Activities, by which T. W. Holloman was elected Conference Lay Leader; Board of Education, by which A. S. Lutz was recommended for reappointment as Conference Secretary of Education, R. H. Harper, H. T. Carley, and C. W. Crisler were appointed to the Board of Managers of the Seashore Divinity School, C. C. Miller, R. E. Bobbitt, R. H. Wynn, T. W. Holloman, W. W. Holmes and S. H. Meyer were made trustees of the Seashore Camp Ground School, and Briscoe Carter, Geo. S. Sexton, and F. T. Whited were made trustees of the Western Methodist Assembly; Commission on Budget; District Conference Records; Board of Church Extension; Commission on Finance; Committee on Evangelism; Orphanage Board; Committee on Prison Reform; Board of Christian Literature; Sunday School Board; Committee on Sabbath Observance; Legal Conference; Bible Society Board; Memorial Home; Hospital Board; Board of Missions; New Orieans Depository; Treasurer, Woman's Missionary Society; Epworth League Board; Board of Temperance and Social Service.

Bishop Candier called the presiding elders to meet him for a last look at the appointments, and appointetd Briscoe Carter to preside over the Conference during his absence.

A rule concerning the membership of the district conference was adopted, by which it is composed of all those mentioned in Paragraph 90 of the Discipline, and in addition thereto one lay delegate from each church in the charge, to be elected by the quarterly conference; provided, however, that each charge shall have not fewer than five delegates.

The following were nominated and elected as the Committee on Evangelism: H. T. Young, J. G. Sneiling, W. F. Henderson, Jr., T. W. Holloman, S. S. Thomas.

Resolutions of thanks for the many courtesies extended to the Conference by the pastors, churches, and the people generally of Shreveport were adopted, the minutes of the closing session were read and approved, and the Bishop, after devotional exercises, read the appointments, pronounced the benediction, and the Conference, at 2:30 p. m., stood adjourned sine die.

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE APPOINTMENTS.

Alexandria District.

W. L. Doss, Jr., Presiding Elder.

Alexandria—O. W. Bradley.
Boyce—E. L. Cargill.
Bunkie—A. D. George.
Campti—L. E. Crooks.
Cheneyville—W. F. Chase.
Coushatta—Louis Hoffpauir.
Colfax Circuit—H. B. Thomason.
Elizabeth Circuit—W. S. Henry.
Glenmora—D. B. Boddie.
Jena and Jonesville—B. H. Sheppard.
Le ompte and Woodruff—H. W. Bowman.
Livonia Circuit—George P. White.
Marksville—To be supplied by J. H. French.
Melville—To be supplied by Charles W. Lahey.
Melder Circuit—To be supplied by F. P. Moss.
Natchitoches—H. W. Rickey.
Oakdale—A. M. Shaw.
Opelousas—S. L. Riggs.
Pineville—Claude K. Smith.
Plaquemine and Donaldsonville—H. B. Hines.
Rochelle and Standard—W. W. Perry.
Trout and Goodwine—J. F. Waltman.
Conference Sunday School Secretary—C. D. Atkinson.
Chaplain Veterans' Hospital at Alexandria—W. F. Chase.

Baton Rouge District.

J. W. Lee, Presiding Elder.

Amite—J. W. Booth.
Baker—J. L. Cady.
Baton Rouge, First Church—Charles W. Crisler.
Baton Rouge, Istrouma Church—Charles E. McLean.
Baton Rouge, Keener Memorial—C. C. Miller.
Bogalusa Station—E. C. Gunn.
Bogalusa Circuit—To be supplied.
Covington—W. O. Wagoner.
Clinton—L. C. Wilson.
Denham Springs—A. L. McQueen, supply.
Franklinton—L. W. Cain.
Franklinton Circuit—Jay Coburn.
Gonzales—Aristile Broulet.
Greensburg—J. T. McVey.
Hammond—J. E. Seife.
Jackson and Ethel—B. D. Watson.
Kentwood—A. J. Coburn.
Natalbany and Pine Grove—To be supplied by B. W. Waltman.
Olive Branch—J. S. Rutledge.
Pearl River—To be supplied by H. W. Jamieson.
Ponchatoula—J. M. Boykin.
Slidell—W. H. Giles.
Springfield—To be supplied by J. L. Frazier.
St. Francisville—To be supplied by W. J. Newsom.
Tickfaw Mission—To be supplied by H. C. Murphy.
Zachary and Slaughter—B. H. Andrews.
Chaplain State Penitentiary—H. S. Johns.

Lake Charles District.

J. B. Williams, Presiding Elder.

Abbeville and Kaplan—F. M. Miller.
Branch Circuit—J. H Hoffpauir, supply.
Carson Circuit—E. S. Williams, Supply.
Crowley—Alonzo Early.
DeRidder—H. T. Young; P. M. Brown, Supernumerary.
Eunice Circuit—J. I. Hoffpauir.
Gueydan and Estherwood—A. A. Bernard.
Hornbeck and Peason—A. E. Barnett.
Indian Bayou—P. O. Lowrey.
Lafayette—L. I. McCain.
Lake Arthur and Thornwell—S. D. Howard.
Lake Charles—A. W. Waddill.
Leesville—L. N. Hoffpauir.
Many and Robeline—J. A. McCormack.
Merryville—R. M. Brown.
Neame and Pickering—C. H. Mayo.
New Iberia—H. N. Harrison.
Rayne—A. K. McLeland.
Sulphur and Vinton—S. D. Roberts.
Zwolle Circuit—W. F. Henderson, Jr.

Monroe District.

W. D. Kleinschmidt, Presiding Elder.

Bastrop—G. A. Morgan.
Bonita—P. H. Fontaine.
Calhoun—R. V. Fulton.
Chatham—To be supplied by S. N. Jordan.
Columbia—G. D. Purcell.
Eros—W. H. Young.
Ferriday and Vidalia—P. M. Carraway.
Gilbert—H. W. May.
Lake Providence—T. J. Warlick.
Mangum—J. D. Nesom.
Mer Rouge—J. R. Roy.
Midway and Epps—To be supplied by P. B. McCullin.
Monroe—F. M. Freeman.
Oak Grove—George Fox.
Rayville—W. R. Harvell.
Sicily Island—R. T. Pickett.
Tallulah—R. F. Harrell.
Waterproof—H. W. Cudd.
West Monroe—J. L. Evans.
Winnsboro—J. M. Alford.

New Orleans District.

W. W. Drake, Presiding Elder.

Missionary Evangelist—Martin Hebert.
Bayou Blue—George A. LaGrange, supply.
Franklin—L. R. Sparks.
Houma—F. J. McCoy.
Lafourche Mission—To be supplied.
Lockport and Raceland—James E. Knight, supply.
Lydia Circuit—To be supplied.
McDonoghville—F B. Hill.
Ville Platte Circuit—E. V. Duplantis.
Morgan City and Berwick—William Schuie.
Algiers—C. C. Wier.
Carrollton Avenue—Ellis Smith.
Epworth—J. B. Grambling, supply.
Felicity—H. T. Carley.
First Church—R. H. Harper.
Louisiana Avenue and Superintendent Memorial Home—J. G. Snelling.
Parker Memorial—H. N. Brown.
Rayne Memorial—W. L. Duren.
Second Church—J. A. Alford.
St. Mark's and Mary Werlein—J. F. Foster and one to be supplied for the Italian congregation.
Patterson and Jeanerette—S. A. Seegers.
St. Martinville and Port Barre Circuit—A. J. Martin.
Dean School of Theology, Emory University—F. N. Parker.
Editor Epworth Era and General Secretary Epworth League Board—F. S. Parker.
Editor New Orieans Christian Advocate—H. T. Carley.
Chaplain United States Army—A. F. Vaughan.

Ruston District.

K. W. Dodson, Presiding Elder.

Arcadia—H. W. Ledbetter.
Athens—C. F. Sheppard.
Bernice—O. L. Tucker.
Bienville—L. P. Moreland.
Castor—E. J. Buck, supply.
Cotton Valley Circuit—D. F. Anders.
Dubach—J. W. Faulk.
Farmerville—To be supplied.
Gibbsland—S. S. Bogan.
Haughton and Doyline—J. O. Bennett.
Haynesville—A. J. Gearheard.
Homer—R. W. Tucker.
Jonesboro—J. C. Price.
Marion Circuit—To be supplied.
Minden—W. C. Childress.
Ringgold—A. L. Harper.
Ruston—N. E. Joyner.
Sibley—J. F. Dring, supply.
Springhill—T. W. St. John.
Wesley Circuit—D. C. Bennett.
Winnfield—W. H. Jordan.
Winnfield Circuit—E. W. Day, supply.
Superintendent of Louisiana Methodist Orphanage—R. W. Vaughan; Financial Secretary—Briscoe Carter.
Student Southern Methodist University—J. L. Greenway, Jr.

Shreveport District.

R. H. Wynn, Presiding Elder.

Bayou LaChute—D. B. Rawlins.
Belcher Circuit—A. S. J. Neill.
Bossier City—A. H. Parker.
Cedar Grove—H. L. Johns.
Grand Cane Circuit—T. D. Lipscomb.
Greenwood Circuit—D. E. Dulaney.
Ida Circuit—W. E. Aiken.
Logansport—Leland Clegg.
Longstreet Circuit—W. F. Roberts.
Mansfield and Mission—J. W. Pearson.
Mooringsport—I. T. Reames.
Oil City—R. A. Bozeman.
Pelican—T. J. Holladay.
Plain Dealing—A. J. Bonnett.
Pleasant Hill—J. L. Lay.
First Church, Shreveport—H. F. Brooks.
Mangum Memorial—J. Cudd Rousseaux.
Noel Memorial, Shreveport—W. W. Holmes.
Texas Avenue, Shreveport—R. S. Walton.
Shreveport Circuit—To be supplied.
Vivian—R. T. Ware.
Centenary College—President, George S. Sexton.
Centenary College—Professors, R. E. Smith and Roy Moore.
Conference Secretary of Education—A. S. Lutz.
Superintendent of Anti-Saloon League—A. W. Turner.
District Evangelist—G. D. Anders.

Transfers.

Transferred out: To New Mexico Conference, Frank Collins, J. W. Rayner; to West Texas Conference, S. J. McLean; to Northwest Texas Conference, Alonzo Early.

Transferred in: Alonzo Early, from Northwest Texas Conference; R. T. Pickett, from the Mississippi Conference; A. K. McLeland, from the Alabama Conference; T. W. St. John, from the Texas Conference.

Greater Works: Verily, verily, I say nnto you, He that believeth on me, the works that I do, shall he do also; and greater works than these shall he do.—John 14:12.

FROM THE PELICAN PINES.

By Rev. S. A. Steel, D.D.

The people of Mansfield have recently received a great spiritual blessing in a good meeting, conducted in the Methodist church, by the pastor, Rev. J. W. Pearson. According to every one, it was one of the best meetings ever held in Mansfield. I reached home in time to be at some of the services, and can add my own testimony to the fact of its deep and far-reaching influence. The whole community is on higher ground, and the moral life of the little city on the hills is more vital and vigorous. There were between sixty and seventy conversions and additions to the church, and many reclamations.

Pearson did his own preaching, and no one could have done it better. He has religion, and enjoys it. He is an evangelist himself and preaches a gospel that is veritable "good news." He does not try to prove it to be true, but preaches it in the belief that it will be its own demonstration; and it is. His theme during the whole meeting was the work of the Holy Spirit, and his messages were aflame with the energy of grace. His strong, broad, and brotherly ministry has captured the heart of this people, and if Bishop Candler doesn't send him back here, he had better give Mansfield a wide berth.

He was ably assisted by those sweet singers in Israel, the Wisdom Sisters. What a trio they are! I heard them when they were just starting on their musical mission, and have always been made a better man by hearing them. They sing their way into the hearts of every community where they go and allure many a wandering soul back to God by their melodious strains. Why in the name of common sense can't our choirs learn from their example to sing the dear old familiar hymns that move the heart instead of the operatic airs that do nothing but display the skill of the vocalist? They change the poet's solemn words:

"O may my heart in tune be found,
Like David's harp of solemn sound"

into the pious jazz:

"O may my heart go diddle diddle
Like Uncle David's holy fiddle!"

Everybody enjoyed the Wisdom Sisters. They slipped off from here to their home in Macon, Mo., for a much-needed little season of rest; but they left a blessed impression behind.

Of course, Mansfield College came in for a large share of the blessing. President Bobbitt, and all his teachers, are in hearty sympathy with the work of the meeting, and gave it their earnest support and co-operation. While this is what one might expect in a Methodist college, it is not always that the whole student body, and the President and his teachers, will attend every service for ten successive days, and take an active part in the meeting. But they did it here, and it means that those in charge of this college put religion first and give it the right of way over the lessons of the class room. As a result, many of the young women in Mansfield College were led to Christ and the whole institution felt a new quickening and spiritual inspiration. The Methodists of Louisiana cannot send their girls anywhere where they will receive a finer culture than at Mansfield, and they ought to give this noble college a more generous support and equip it as it deserves. Great improvements have been made, but these call for more. Bobbitt insists that, being on the highest ground in the State, it is the nearest to heaven; but ask his girls about that about examination time!

All the Steels got a big blessing out of the meeting. Pearson closed it with a love-feast, and it so happened that our soldier, Captain T. B. Steel, got home that day from over-sea service. We had special reason to enjoy the occasion. When he went to the army, I promised the Lord if he would bring him home safe, I never would fuss about anything. He has done his part, and now I am going to try to keep my part, even if I hit my finger instead of the nail! I did that some time ago, and I may do it again, for I am now doing the carpenter act; building me a study, where I can get away from the piano and the noise and the telephone, and enjoy my books. If I build it, it is a rough affair, of course; but the fairies will find it, and I will adorn it with vines, and in it I will keep company with the intellectual aristocrats of the ages. Mrs. MacNabors—ever been in her delightful home, Carley?—invited me to enjoy the first birds of the season the other day; but I was so tired with an eight-hour day working on my literary shack that I had to decline. My, but a horizontal position felt good!

So Dr. Meek has located! I suppose that means he will give his time to his paper, The Southern Methodist. By the way, when I reached home recently I took my bundle of papers and my scissors to clip from them what I desired to preserve; but bless you, I found so much solid matter in Meek's paper that I filed them uncut for future reference. He's a brainy man, and "heresy" had better take to its heels! I hope he will be sure of his game before he shoots, for it is easy to hurt friends while aiming at foes. And it is easy sometimes to mistake a mouse for an elephant; their hides are about the same color. While the danger of rationalism may not be the serious menace to us that some think, he is blind who cannot see how it is pressing in; and also how reticent some of our official organs are about it. As long as preachers recommend Fosdick's books, we need Meek's paper. That man Fosdick has sown dragon's teeth among us.

I found on my table the life of Dr. H. C. Morrison, by Wimberly. It is a charming story of a good and great man. Some time ago my friend, Dr. J. E. Harrison, of Arizona, paid me the compliment of saying in print that I am the most loyal Southern Methodist preacher of my generation. I have stood a sight from the "authorities," there is no doubt about that; and am still paying the penalty of being persona non grata to the bishops. But Dr. Morrison has been just as loyal, or more so; for there was a time when he might have led a large following out of the Southern Methodist Church, but he stood loyally by his church. The story of Dr. Morrison's life is a valuable contribution to the religious literature of the day, for religion has made him the leader and man of power that he is. I have known him a long time, and loved him, stood by him when he was under fire, and am happy to know he is rounding out his period of active service with such wide acceptability and usefulness.

Mansfield, La.

LET ALL PRESIDING ELDERS GIVE ATTENTION!

The General Conference at Hot Springs, Ark., in May, 1922, authorized the Board of Finance to carry on a special effort to raise ten million dollars for Superannuate Endowment, as follows:

1. The Board was authorized to submit its plan in detail to the Annual Conferences in the fall of 1923, so that the whole church could begin taking pledges under the plan for Superannuate Endowment in the spring of 1924.

2. The said General Conference authorized certain questions concerning Superannuate Endowment placed in the quarterly conference blank used in the quadrennium of 1922-26, but these questions concerning Superannuate Endowment may be disregarded by the presiding elders during the Conference year 1922-23, or until the special effort for Superannuate Endowment is formally launched in the Annual Conferences in the fall of 1923.

This notice is given in answer to a number of inquiries from presiding elders throughout the church, asking whether the questions in the quarterly conference blank concerning Superannuate Endowment shall be asked during the current Conference year, 1922-23. I trust I have made the matter clear in the foregoing, but if any presiding elder feels he is still in doubt on the subject, let him write the Board of Finance, 510-13 Security Building, St. Louis, Missouri.

LUTHER E. TODD.

WHY THE TOY WAS DROPPED.

By F. B. Meyer.

There is an old Dutch picture of a little child dropping a cherished toy from its hands; and, at first sight, its action seems unintelligible, until, at the corner of the picture, the eye is attracted to a white dove winging its flight toward the emptied outstretched hands. Similarly we are prepared to forego a good deal when once we catch sight of the spiritual acquisitions which beckon to us. And this is the true way to reach consecration and surrender. Do not ever dwell on the giving up side, but on the receiving side. Keep in mind the meaning of the old Hebrew word for consecration, to fill the hand. There will not be much trouble in getting men to empty their hands of wood, hay, and stubble if they see that there is a chance of filling them with the treasures which gleam from the faces or lives of others, or which call to them from the page of Scripture. The world pities us, because it sees only what we give up; but it would hold its sympathy if it could also see how much we receive—"good measure, pressed down, and running over given into our bosoms." "Let us lay aside the sin which doth so closely cling to us" (R. V.)

There will, of course, be difficulties in all our lives to impede our heavenward progress: difficulties from the opposition of our foes; difficulties from within our own hearts. We shall need patience and long forbearance as we tread our appointed track. But there are two sources of comfort open to us.

Let us remember that the course is set before us by our heavenly Father, who therefore knows all its roughness and straightness, and will make all grace abound toward us, sufficient for our need. To do His will is rest and heaven.

Let us "look off unto Jesus." And away from past failure and success; away from human applause and blame; away from the gold pieces scattered on the path, and the flowers that line either side. Do not look now and again, but acquire the habit of looking always, so that it shall become natural to look up from every piece of daily work, from every room, however small, from every street, however crowded, to His dear, calm, sweet face; just as the sojourner on the northern shores of Geneva's lake is constantly prone to look up from any book or work on which the attention may have been engaged, to behold the splendor and glory of the noble range of snow-capped summits on the further shores. And if it seems hard to acquire this habitual attitude, trust the Holy Spirit to form it in your soul.

Above all, remember that where you tread there your Lord once trod, combating your difficulties and sorrows, though without sin; and ere long you shall be where He is now. Keep your eye fixed, then, on Him as He stands to welcome and reward you; and struggle through all, animated by His smile, and attracted to His side, and you will find weights and unbelief dropping off almost insensibly and of themselves.

This is the only way by which souls can be persuaded. Argue with them; urge them; try to force them—and they will cling the closer to the encumbrances which are clogging their steps. But present to them Jesus in the beauty and attractiveness of His person and work, and there will be a natural loosening of impediments, as the snow which had been bending the leaves to the earth drops away when the sun begins to shine. And God never takes aught from us, without giving us something better. He removes the symbol, to give us the reality; breaks the type, to give us the substance; releases us from the natural and human, to give us the divine. Oh, trust Him, soul: and dare let go, that thou mayest take; to be stripped, that thou mayest become clothed!—Selected.

It is thou, O my God, who hast conducted me; I have not run hither of my own accord, but would rather have declined the call, if thy unseen hand had not retained me. O therefore help, and bestow upon me all necessary wisdom, grace and strength.—Christian Schwartz.

The Home Circle

MY EVENING PRAYER.

If I have wounded any soul to-day,
If I have caused one foot to go astray,
If I have walked in my own willful way—
Good Lord, forgive!

If I have uttered idle words or vain,
If I have turned aside from want or pain,
Lest I myself should suffer through the strain—
Good Lord, forgive!

If I have craved for joys that are not mine,
If I have let my wayward heart repine,
Dwelling on things of earth, not things divine—
Good Lord, forgive!

If I have been perverse, or hard or cold,
If I have longed for shelter in the fold
When Thou hast given me some part to hold—
Good Lord, forgive!

Forgive the sins I have confessed to Thee,
Forgive the secret sins I do not see,
That which I know not, Father, teach Thou me—
Help me to live.

—C. Maude Battersby, in Indianapolis News.

MOTHER SQUIRREL'S ADVENTURE.

Last fall when the frost loosened the nuts in their hulls the squirrels, as usual, ran a race with the children to see who could get the bigger share. It was fun for the children, but hard work for the squirrels.

One day Biddy Squirrel said to Peter, her mate, "We must begin to store nuts."

"We must," Peter agreed. "I'm glad we picked out our hollow tree in time."

Biddy told the little squirrels to take a nap, and then she and Peter went off to work. For a while they ran busily back and forth between the nut trees and the hollow ash tree that they had chosen for their winter storehouse, and that had fallen against a high bank. But they soon found that nuts were not plentiful that year; it was discouraging.

Biddy said she thought she had better go home and see how the children were getting on. "And you," she said to Peter, "must go down into the field and see if there are any stray ears of corn left. Now hurry up."

Peter dashed off obediently, but after he had gone Biddy decided to linger awhile and look for acorns.

She was fortunate enough to find a few. After she had put the acorns away she thought she would go down into the storeroom herself and see if it was safe. Whisking into the hole, she was soon rattling round in her poor little store of nuts.

All at once the hole grew very dark. Biddy looked up in fear; the hole was close to the top of the high bank, and she thought at first that some large animal was standing at the entrance. Then she saw that something had closed the hole completely. She gave a terrified leap and bumped her head so hard that she fell back to the floor. There she sat and scratched her bruised head, whimpering and wondering what under the sun could have happened.

What really had happened was this: Peter had found a large ear of corn in the field and had managed somehow by carrying, pushing and rolling it to get it to the edge of the bank. When he got it there, with a mighty shove he pushed it endwise into the hole. He felt well satisfied with himself; how pleased Biddy would be with the new addition to their winter stock. How clever he was!

But the ear went in half-way and then stopped; no matter how hard he pushed he could not budge it.

Peter had an even disposition. He did not worry about his mishap, but merely sat down and waited for Biddy. With her help, he said to himself, all would be well.

Suddenly, however, he heard a great scratching and gnawing inside the hollow tree. It sounded so exactly like the scratching and gnawing of Biddy Squirrel that he knew at once what had happened.

The next instant he was gnawing away at the ear of corn with might and main. It seemed a dreadful pity to waste all those precious golden grains, but there was nothing else to do. He worked so hard that by the time the ear was small enough to be moved he had just strength enough to give it a last shove.

As it fell to the bottom with a thud, out hopped the angriest mother squirrel that was ever seen. She came out with such a rush that she knocked poor Peter over; then away she went, spluttering and chattering loudly in squirrel language, and disappeared among the trees.

Peter did not follow at once; he thought it wiser to wait until she had cooled down. When he did start for home his cheeks were stuffed with a peace offering of sweet acorns. They made him look as if he had the mumps.

By the time he got home Biddy had found her temper again, and she took the nuts very graciously. But somehow the story leaked out. Probably a crow saw it all and spread word of it through the woods; at any rate, the little squirrels thought it the best joke they had ever heard. Whenever they wanted to tease they would squeak mischievously:

"Squirrel in a hole and can't get out;
Take a little ear of corn and stir her all about!"

But Peter and Biddy would only laugh. Biddy had forgotten how angry she was that day, and Peter wisely did not remind her of it.—Lucy N. W. Brockman, in The Youth's Companion.

THE SPONGE THAT KEPT HIS PROMISE.

He was the little sponge of them all, and he loved his mother dearly; yet it was a proud day when he floated away with all the other little sponges. How proud the mother was of them, these tiny, soft sponges that floated gently away through the clear, still water deep down in the great ocean. For baby sponges set out in the world at once for themselves, till they come to a good-looking place, then they simply settle down and grow there for keeps. They never see their dear mother again as little girls and boys do.

Although this littlest sponge was very proud to go sailing away out into the great ocean, he was very sorry to leave his dear mother.

"I'll come back some day," he called to her, but mother sponge smiled sadly, for well she knew that soon the precious babies would all be growing tight to some rock far from her.

On and on these babies rode through the green water, past all the neighbor sponges, through a school of tiny fishes, on through the deep, still water where rocks were larger than any they had ever seen before.

"I'm tired," said one of them. "I'm going to rest awhile on this nice white rock; I can easily catch up with the rest of you if you go slowly."

But he never caught up, for he never got up. The stone held him fast, and the soft lacy edges of him grew tough and clung so fast he could not pull loose.

"Oh, well," he said, "this isn't so bad; it might have been worse." Which, after all, is a very good way to look at trouble.

The other babies finally got tired swimming around waiting for him and decided to rest on the pretty clean rocks they were passing. And they, too, stayed where they landed.

It was the littlest sponge of them all who chose the prettiest rock. It was round-shaped and marked all over with the prettiest markings, giving it a panel effect. And the little sponge surely needed a place to cling, for after a while he felt a shiver run through the rock.

Up around the edges of the rock appeared six funny waving things that paddled along, taking the rock and the littlest sponge with it. Four of the paddles had sharp claws, one was simply pointed at the end and stuck straight up, while the one in front had two little eyes that saw everything. Yes, you have guessed it. The littlest sponge was growing fast to the back of a turtle!

"Good-by," he shouted to the rest as he rode away, "I'm going back to visit mother."

How surprised mother sponge was, for she never dreamed of seeing any of her babies again. And she loved the littlest sponge more than ever because he kept his promise.—Ann Robinson.

SPECIAL OFFER

ONE 42 PIECE $12.00 DINNER SET

BLUE BIRD, FLORAL OR WHITE AND GOLD DESIGNS

For $4.98 f. o. b. New Orleans

Cut out this Advertisement and send to WM. B. REILY & CO., New Orleans, La., with Six Coupons from Luzianne Coffee and $4.98, and the Beautiful Set will be Expressed to You at Once.

All three sets consist of: 6 dinner plates, 6 cups, 6 saucers, 6 pie plates, 6 fruit dessert dishes, 6 oat meal dishes, 1 large meat platter, 1 round vegetable bowl, 1 oval vegetable bowl, 1 cream pitcher, 1 sugar bowl, 1 sugar bowl cover.

New Orleans Christian Advocate

HENRY T. CARLEY, Editor.

CHAS. O. CHALMERS, Manager.

PUBLISHING COMMITTEE:

Louisiana Conference—Rev. J. F. Foster, Rev. S. J. Davies, Rev. C. C. Miller.

Mississippi Conference—Rev. J. T. Leggett, Rev J. R. Jones, Rev. W. H. Saunders.

North Mississippi Conference—Rev. J. H. Felts, Rev T. H. Lipscomb, Rev. J. W. Dorman.

DIRECTIONS.

All checks and money orders should be made payable to the New Orleans Christian Advocate.

Communications pertaining to subscriptions and other business matters should be addressed to the Manager, or to the New Orleans Christian Advocate.

The Printed Lab l on a paper shows the date to which a subscription is paid. It is as good as a written receipt. When renewal is made, if the date is not moved forward after three or four weeks, notify us, and we will mske it right.

Communications intended for the Editor should be directed to him at 512 Camp Street. Correspondents will observe the following rules: 1. Write on only one side of the paper. 2. If you have a typewriter, by all means use it; otherwise use a good quality of black ink. 3. Leave a space of at least two inches at the top of the first page; leave a margin of at least one inch on the left-hand side of the page; do not crowd the words and the lines together. 4. Take special pains to write proper names correctly and legibly. 5. Use letter paper if you can get it—not note paper. No attention will be paid to rolled manuscripts.

THE MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

The Mississippi Conference is in session this week in the beautiful town of Crystal Springs. Bishop W. N. Ainsworth, who has already won the love and confidence of Mississippi Methodism, is presiding. There is every reason to believe that the reports will show this to have been a prosperous year for the church, and Thanksgiving Day will he appropriately celebrated hy the Conference. We are sure prayer will he made hy many that the gathering may he the occasion of great spiritual blessing, not only to those in attendance, hut also to the church throughout the Conference.

A gracious hospitality is being extended the Conference by the pastor, Rev. W. B. Jones, and the splendid people of Crystal Springs. A full report of the proceedings of the Conference will appear in the Advocate.

THE DEATH OF MRS. C. C. MILLER.

The news of the death of Mrs. C. C. Miller, wife of Rev. C. C. Miller, pastor of Keener Memorial Church, Baton Rouge, on Monday of Conference week, hrought great sorrow to the members of the Conference. It was known that Mrs. Miller was in poor health, hut it was not known that she was critically ill. The Conference officially expressed its sympathy with Brother Miller in his sorrow, and its members individually extended him the assurance of their sympathy and prayers. Brother Miller asked the editor of the Advocate to express to the hrethren his deep appreciation of their cordial sympathy and love.

We trust we shall have a suitable memoir for publication in due time.

PERSONAL AND OTHER NOTES.

The address of Bishop James Cannon, Jr., is 50 Bliss Building, Washington, D. C. This is also the address of the Commission on Temperance and Social Service of our church.

Rev. J. A. Poe, formerly of the North Mississippi Conference, hut now pastor at Brandenburg, Ky., writes that he is delighted with his new home and is looking forward to a good year.

Professor C. A. Bowen, of Millsaps College, has been elected a member of the General Sunday School Council of our church. He is well qualified to render efficient service in that responsible position.

The citizens generally of Bay Springs, Miss., signed a petition to Rev. J. A. Moore, presiding elder of the Newton District, to have Rev. E. H. Cooley returned as pastor of the Methodist church—so we learn from the Meridian Star.

Rev. G. D. Parker, who went to Brazil as a missionary from New Orleans many years ago, arrived in the city on Nov. 22. Brother Parker is here on furlough, and is at present visiting his sister, Mrs. Ada Brown, 5611 Woodlawn.

At the recent session of his Conference, Rev. W. L. Broome, pastor of the University M. E. Church, South, Norman, Oklahoma, was appointed Centenary Secretary for the East and the West Oklahoma Conferences. He will make his home at 920 N. Geary Street, Oklahoma City.

The recent death of Dr. James Hastings, the great Biblical scholar, will not interfere with the publication of the Speakers' Bible, a work upon which he had been engaged for several years. He left much manuscript ready for the press, and the work will he hrought out according to his original plans.

January 16, 1923, will he the third anniversary of the enactment of constitutional prohibition in the United States. In honor of that event, the Anti-Saloon League is asking the pastors of the country to hold a special service on Sunday, January 14, at which the blessings of prohibition will he presented. The Anti-Saloon League will be glad to furnish suitable material for that service.

J. O. Lanfair, for more than twenty-five years superintendent of the Methodist Sunday school at Durant, Miss., died on Tuesday morning, November 7. He was, at the time of his death, teacher of a Wesley Bible class. He was a faithful and useful man, serving on the Conference Sunday School Board and the Epworth League Board for the past four years. His death is a great loss to our church. He is survived hy his wife and two sons.

CONFERENCE PERSONALS.

The hospitality of Shreveport in entertaining the Conference was unstinted. Dr. H. F. Brooks, papstor of the First Methodist Church, was "on the job" all the time, and he was ably assisted hy a corps of efficient helpers. We know of nothing that was left undone that would minister to the comfort or convenience of the visitors. The great First Church is an ideal place for holding an Annual Conference.

Dr. Thos. N. Ivey, editor of the Nashville Christian Advocate, was present for the first time as a visitor to the Louisiana Conference. He was a welcome visitor, and the Conference greatly enjoyed his sermon on Wednesday afternoon.

Dr. F. N. Parker, dean of the Candler School of Theology, Emory University, and professor of Systematic Theology in the same, is a member of the Louisiana Conference. He was present throughout the session, doing his full share of the work of the Conference. He is one of the trusted leaders of the church. Dr. Parker will preach the Thanksgiving sermon at the First Methodist Church in New Orleans on Thanksgiving Day.

Bogalusa was determined to secure the next meeting of the Conference if possible—and it succeeded. Rev. E. C. Gunn, the pastor at Bogalusa, assisted hy those staunch laymen, Flanders, Bean, and Jennings, led the winning campaign.

Among the New Orleans laymen attending the Conference, we noted H. F. Foster, S. H. Meyer, T. B. Carre, and I. J. Gautier.

The attendance of laymen upon the Conference was good. Among them we noted the following: H. H. White, T. W. Holloman, A. M. Mayo, Dr. F. C. Wrenn, Dr. Rex Singletary, W. S. Holmes, S. M. Russ, R. O. Randle, R. T. McClendon, R. T. Moore, R. E. Bohlitt, J. R. Ahels. There were many others, fully as worthy, whose names do not occur to us at the moment.

Rev. R. A. Bozeman, well known throughout Louisiana as an evangelist, was admitted on trial into the traveling connection.

The evenings during the Conference session were given over to the anniversaries of the various Boards. On Wednesday evening, the Sunday School Board was in charge, the principal address heing delivered hy Mr. M. W. Brabham. On that occasion, Dr. Luther E. Todd, representing the Board of Finance, was given a division of time, in which he outlined hriefly the plans of the Board. On Tuesday evening, the Board of Missions was in charge, with addresses hy Bishop W. B. Beauchamp and Dr. A. J. Weeks. On Friday evening, the Board of Education was in charge, with addresses hy Dr. Geo. S. Sexton and Dr. J. H. Reynolds. On Saturday evening, the Epworth League Board was in charge, with the principal address hy Dr. F. S. Parker.

Rev. E. N. Evans, formerly a prominent member of the Conference hut now in the local ranks, was in attendance upon the sessions. Brother Evans is always ready to respond to any call of the church, and he has rendered fine service during the year in behalf of the Memorial Home.

Both the local newspapers, the Times and the Journal, gave fine accounts of the daily proceedings. The representative of the Journal, Mr. W. W. Moore, is a son of Rev. Waldo W. Moore, of the Mississippi Conference, and formerly a professor in Centenary College. He demonstrated the fact that he is a first-class newspaper man. The editor of the Advocate greatly enjoyed the renewal of the pleasant associations of other days.

Rev. J. T. McVey, one of the most faithful members of the Conference, was under the necessity of carrying his right arm in a sling during Conference, having recently suffered hoth a dislocation and a fracture of his wrist, caused hy the kick of an obstreperous Ford.

The connectional visitors were: Dr. R. H. Bennett, Department of Ministerial Supply and Training; Dr. Luther E. Todd, of the Board of Finance; Mr. M. W. Brabham, of the Sunday School Board; Dr. A. J. Weeks, of the Missionary Voice; Dr. T. N. Ivey, of the Christian Advocate; Dr. C. C. Selecman, of the Hospital Board; Dr. T. D. Ellis, of the Board of Church Extension; Dr. F. S. Parker, of the Epworth League Board (a member of the Conference); Prof. G. L. Morelock, of the Board of Lay Activities.

Mr. S. S. Thomas, Conference Centenary Secretary-Treasurer, had on display during the Conference a fine set of charts showing just what the charges have done during the year for the Centenary cause. We doubt if any Conference in the connection has a more efficient Centenary official than the Louisiana Conference has.

Dr. H. C. Morrison was late in reaching the Conference on account of sickness and delayed trains, but interest in his address seemed to he intensified by the delay. Great congregations heard him whenever he spoke.

Rev. Jno. L. Sutton, formerly of the Louisiana Conference, but now of the Mississippi, looked in upon the proceedings for a few days. Brother Sutton is greatly beloved in Louisiana.

The editor of the Advocate was entertained in the home of old friends, Mr. and Mrs. C. Y. Brandau. Their kindness and hospitality turned the strenuous days of the session into a very delightful occasion.

The manager of the Advocate was delightfully entertained during the Conference hy Mrs. S. J. Russell, of 980 Jordan street. His fellow-guests were the Revs. A. J. Martin and A. K. McLeland.

On Friday afternoon, the president and the faculty of Centenary College gave a reception in honor of the members of the Conference. Many of the delegates attended, and there were many expressions of delighted surprise at the great development of the college. Centenary has already reached the place where it must be considered one of the strong institutions of the church, and it is "going on to perfection." President Sexton and his able faculty are doing a great work.

A very delightful feature of the Board of Education anniversary on Friday night was a solo by Miss Mary Justice, of the musical faculty of Mansfield College. Mansfield has a great president and a fine faculty, and it is doing a magnificent work for the education of girls in Louisiana.

Rev. H. N. Harrison, of Felicity, and Rev. J. E. Selfe, of Epworth, who were assigned to New Iberia and Hammond, respectively, will he greatly missed hy their many friends in New Orleans.

Rev. R. H. Harper is as efficient a secretary as the Conference could desire. His records are always accurate and "up to the minute." He was ably assisted in his work hy Rev. W. D. Kleinschmidt and Rev. Jno. F. Foster.

The pastor and congregation of the First Baptist Church very graciously extended the privileges of their magnificent building to the Conference. The meeting of the laymen on Thursday afternoon and their banquet that evening were held in that building.

Rev. J. A. Alford was appointed for the eighth consecutive time as pastor of the Second Methodist Church, New Orleans. In this case it has been demonstrated that the law which permits a preacher to serve a charge for more than four years is an eminently wise one.

New Orleans Methodism is greatly the gainer hy reason of the fact that Rev. J. G. Snelling, after having served the district four years as presiding elder, is to remain in the city as pastor of Louisiana Avenue and Superintendent of the Memorial Home.

The new presiding elders are W. W. Drake and W. D. Kleinschmidt, hoth of whom are admirably fitted for this office.

Rev. C. C. Wier, after six years of faithful service at the Algiers Metbodist Church, this city.

was returned for the seventh year—greatly to the delight of his people.

The announcements for the Sunday services were as follows:

First Methodist Church—9 a.m., Love Feast, conducted by Rev. Robert Randle; 11 a.m., Bishop Warren A. Candler; 3 p.m., memorial service; 7:30 p.m., Dr. F. N. Parker.

Noel Memorial Church—11 a.m., N. E. Joyner; 7:30 p.m., Rev. O. W. Bradley.

Texas Avenue Church—11 a.m., Rev. L. I. McCain; 7:30 p.m., Rev. J. F. Waltman.

Mangum Memorial Church—11 a.m., Rev. J. W. Lee; 7:30 p.m., Rev. H. N. Brown.

Cedar Grove Church—11 a.m., Rev. H. S. Johns; 7:30 p.m., Rev. H. T. Young.

Bossier City Church—11 a.m., Rev. J. L. Evans; 7:30 p.m., Rev. Geo. Fox.

First Baptist Church—11 a.m., Dr. H. C. Morrison; 7:30 p.m., Dr. W. L. Duren; 3 p.m., great union meeting, sermon by Dr. H. C. Morrison.

Highland Baptist Church—7:30 p.m., Rev. L. E. Sparks.

Parkview Baptist Church— 11 a.m., Rev. J. W. Pearson; 7:30 p.m., Rev. F. M. Freeman.

Queensborough Baptist Church—11 a.m., Rev. K. W. Dodson; 7:30 p.m., Rev. H. W. Rickey.

Cedar Grove Baptist Church—11 a.m., Rev. Ellis Smith; 7:30 p.m., Rev. Leland Clegg.

Ardis Memorial Baptist Church—11 a.m., Rev. Alonzo Early; 7:30 p.m., Rev. Martin Hebert.

St. Mark's Episcopal Church—7:30 p.m., Dr. Fitzgerald S. Parker.

First Presbyterian Church—11 a.m., Rev. C. W. Crisler; 7:30 p.m., Rev. Briscoe Carter.

Dunlap Memorial Church—11 a.m., Rev. W. W. Holmes; 7:30 p.m., Rev. C. D. Atkinson.

Central Christian Church—11 a.m., Rev. H. T. Carley; 7:30 p.m., Rev. John G. Snelling.

Nazarene Church—11 a.m., Rev. A. D. George; 7:30 p.m., Rev. J. M. Alford.

C. M. E. Temple—11 a.m., Rev. R. W. Tucker; 7:30 p.m., Rev. H. W. Cudd.

The pastor of the First Methodist Church, Shrevepoprt, Dr H. F. Brooks, made a magnificent report to the Conference, as is indicated by the following facts: there wer 445 additions to the membership of the church during the year—142 on profession of faith, and 303 by certificate and otherwise, the net gain being 354: there are three Woman's Missionary Societies, with a membership of 374, which raised during the year $12,985; four missionaries are supported by the church—two at home and two abroad; the enrollment of the Sunday school is 2306, the average attendance was 1063, and the total budget was $5968; all assessments were met, with an excess, the grand total raised during the year being $86,378.

A TRIBUTE TO THE REV. W. W. HOPPER.

Dear Brother Carley: In the passing of Rev. W. W. Hopper, a very rare man has gone from us. He was of fine fiber, delicate intellect, great in sainthood and in brotherliness. Withal, he was no ordinary preacher. I have known him since his second year in the Conference, and loved him through all the years, even when we did not see eye to eye in viewing one of the great and vital doctrines of our church. When a young man, he had more evangelistical power than any young man that I have ever known. He was ever a faithful and painstaking pastor, and in this work was greatly aided by the cultured and saintly wife who is left to mourn his loss. "He was a good man, full of the Holy Ghost and of faith."

M. B. SHARBROUGH.

REV. BEN P. JACO MAKES FULL CONFESSION AND ASKS FOR RETIREMENT IN ACCORDANCE WITH ACTION OF THE NORTH MISSISSIPPI ANNUAL CONFERENCE:

According to Dr. W. G. Cram's statement, he was holding a revival meeting in Korea when many were arising in his audience and making confession of their evil doings. One man, who had been employed by Dr. Cram to sell a cow, arose and confessed that he had paid the Doctor more than he got for the cow, thus misrepresenting the facts. For this he was sorry and rose to acknowledge that the Doctor owed him one dollar.

In humble imitation of this good example, I rise to say that I am sorry if in any way or in any measure I have not disclosed all the facts as to payment of Centenary subscriptions, and do now confess that the persons making Centenary pledges in North Mississippi owe three hundred thousand dollars.

I now ask the retirement of this arrearage by payment according to Conference action, whereby December 10 to 17, next, was set apart for a thorough canvass to be made of all persons to secure balance due on four installments. In this canvass the Conference asks that all presiding elders, pastors, Sunday school superintendents, lay leaders, presidents of missionary societies, and other leaders, co-operate to make this collection full and complete.

We must raise at least seventy-five thousand dollars in December to save our mission work already begun. Quotas have been assigned to the several districts and those will be distributed to the charges.

If this money is collected and should be used in our simplest form of mission work in securing native evangelists at $150 each per year we could employ two thousand persons, who, according to such workers' success in Korea, could lead twenty or more to believe on Christ in one year, hence the harvest would be forty thousand souls! What an investment! Who does not want to take part in it by giving thought, time, prayer, pleading, money to it!

One district owes fifty thousand dollars, and all of them not much less; what a wonderful opportunity for this elder and the pastors to achieve a great success in the salvation of souls! All the others could join them, and all might rejoice together.

Statements of amounts due and helpful literature will be sent to proper persons.

Let every church organize a team and distribute names of persons in arrears and make careful approach to each subscriber. Call on me for any help I may be able to give.

Yours for success,

BEN P. JACO.

FREE THANKSGIVING CAR.

The free Thanksgiving car for the Baptist Orphanage, Methodist Orphanage and Old Women's Home, Jackson, Miss., will leave State Line to Waynesboro on Friday, December 1; thence to Meridian, Saturday, December 2, 1922.

If the Woman's Missionary Unions and the Ladies' Missionary Societies will champion this worthy cause in their respective churches and give the public a chance to contribute, and some man will get it to the depot, it will be a success. The car plan is a great success in the northern part of the State; they fill the cars.

Sack the corn, peas, velvet beans, and lightwood splinters (they have no kindling there); collect up flour, sugar, rice, grits, cured meat, lard, all kinds canned goods, clothing, shoes, hosiery, elastic, soap, pins, needles, school supplies, bed linen, molasses in barrels and cans; if possible, crate the cans. They use about fifteen gallons of molasses a day.

Mark every package plainly: Baptist Orphanage, Jackson; Mississippi Methodist Orphanage, Jackson, and Old Womens' Home Association, Jackson. Take bills lading and forward to: Rev. J. R. Carter, Superintendent Baptist Orphanage; Rev. B. F. Lewis, superintendent Methodist Orphanage; Old Ladies' Home Association, Jackson, Miss.

Thanking you in advance, I am,

Yours fraternally,

W. H. PATTON, President
Board of Trustees Baptist Orphanage.

INDIAN TALK.

By Alice L. Paerson, in the Christian Herald.

The Indian languages of the Pacific Coast are said to be more diverse than in any other section of the country. Some of these, however, are rapidly dropping out of use. In some cases a language is known to scarcely more than a half dozen survivors of a dying tribe. From year to year one or another dialect or language lapses because death has stilled the last tongue able to speak it. Great effort is made to preserve the records of these languages, as they have much historical value.

The dialects in use among Indians often become curious mixtures of unrelated tongues. For example, an English writer describing the language spoken in early days at a trading-post near Fort Vancouver says it was a mixture of English, Hawaiian, Canadian, French, Chinese, Iroquois, and Cree.

The Indians had an old fashion of making their own additions to the vocabulary in use. An American they called Boston. An Englishman was Kintshosh, which was as near as the Indian ear caught the words King George. The common form of salute among them was the term, Clakhohoyah. The origin of this is explained as follows: It seems that a man by the name of Clark had been for many years a trader in the village. The Indians heard white men address him in the words: "Clark, how are you?" and assumed that this was the correct way in which to greet a white man.

MEN AS EPISTLES.

Some men are themselves Epistles, written not with ink but with the spirit of the living God. It is in communion with God that men attain unto saintship, and that evangelists are born. There is no other way of bringing them to the birth. We shall always lack candidates for the ministry, and find small satisfaction in the candidates we have, if the ardor of the quest for God chances to die down. We shall certainly lack saints.

I saw a saint. How canst thou tell
That he thou sawest was a saint?
I saw one like to Christ so luminously.

We need not go further than that. "One like to Christ so luminously." Truly Christina Rossetti had seen a saint, one shining with the glory of Christ. George Fox rides through the Cambridge streets, a howling mob of raging undergraduates at his heels, and as he passes men cry: "He shines!" "He glistens!" Perhaps it can hardly be expected that there will be about the features and garments of us common men and women the glistening beauty which distinguished, and still characterizes, the great mystics and saints of the Church, but we can expect the Christian to be different from those around him who are strangers to the high fellowship he enjoys, for no man can hold communion, direct and constant, with One whose life is the secret of all beauty as the source of all power without being gradually and surely changed into the same image, from glory to glory, even as by the Spirit of the Lord. This is the unanswerable argument of the Christian religion, the open secret of victory.—Ernest F. H. Capey.

IMPORTANT NOTICE—CHANGE OF ADDRESS.

All those who wish their Advocate sent to a new address should notify us at once of the change desired, giving the old post office as well as the new. We can make no changes without this authority. This notice is especially important to the preachers of the three Conferences.

BUSINESS MANAGER.

It is the deeds of pure honesty, pure goodness, pure love that are built like precious stones into the fabric of our lives. And when all the other things, the mixed mass of flimsy makeshifts, have been burned away, like the woodwork of a building, these beautiful deeds will remain our imperishable treasure.—Willard Brown Thorp.

WANTED—
IN PONCHATOULA, LA.,
A WEEKLY NEWSPAPER
A PHOTOGRAPHER

Ponchatoula is a thriving town on the Illinois Central R. R., and a newspaper and photograph business will get support of the citizens. Write to J. R. ABELS,
Ponchatoula, La.

Obituaries

Obituaries not over 200 words in length will be published free of charge. All over 200 words must be paid for at the rate of 1 cent a word. Count the words and be sure to send the amount necessary with the obituary. That will save trouble all around. We cannot make discriminations. Memorial resolutions are subject to the same rule as obituaries.

The subject of this sketch, MRS. WILLIAM RICHARDS, was born January 13, 1840; she was the wife of Capt. Richards, of Satartia, Miss., who died December 13, 1899; she died at the home of J. D. Setzler, near Jackson, Miss., August 15, 1922. Sister Richards lived quite a number of years after her husband's death on her plantation in Satartia, Miss. She joined the Methodist Church in early girlhood and lived a consistent member up to her death. She was a true and loyal friend to the Methodist preachers, and no one was ever her pastor who failed to enjoy her hearty support and faithful co-operation in all Christian service. She made her home in the latter years of her life with Brother J. D. Setzler, near Jackson, Miss., who, for a numher of years, lived with Sister Richards and managed her farm at Satartia. She leaves an only sister, now in her eighty-fourth year, and many nieces and nephews in different States. She died as she had lived, and was huried hy the side of her hushand in Vicksburg, August 16, 1922. It is not so sad to see one of our loved ones pass to the heyond who had lived such a long and useful life as Sister Richards. We have no douht of meeting her again where there will he no parting, pain, or death. Her former pastor,

W. J. FERGUSON.

Yazoo City, Miss.

The suhject of this sketch, Brother ED ROBINSON, was born July 3, 1872. He left this world Octoher 23. 1922, after a protracted illness. The end came with him at his home in Rankin County, Mississippi, near the hlstorical old Shiloh church. Brother Robinson was a life-long meniher of the Methodist Church, having joined in his early childhood. I don't think I have known a man who lived a cleaner life than did this man. His word was his hond. His desire seemed to be to llve the 15th Psalm. He leaves a wife, four children, mother, father, several brothers and slsters, and a host of friends to mourn his death. Let us not grieve as those who have no hope, but in a spirit of suhmission let us say, "Thy will he done." May God bless and comfort the bereaved ones.

PAUL H. GRICE.

The Shiloh community in Rankin County, Mlss., was saddened by the news that reached us, Octoher 30, 1922, of the accldental death of RICHMOND T. ROBINSON, in the Texarkana, Tex., oil fields. His death was especlally sad, as only one week hefore his brother, ED ROBINSON, dled. Brother Robinson was 46 years old. He had not lived among us for many years, and little is known of his life since leaving Mississippi. In his chlldhood he united with the Methodist Church, and was converted at the age of 15 years. We are told by those who knew him that he had many frlends, and lived for them, and, too, that he was the soul of honesty. I am sorry that it was not my privilege to have known this man personally, especlally with reference to his activities in church affairs. May God comfort and sustain the father, mother, brothers, sisters and many friends of the deceased, is my prayer.

PAUL H. GRICE.

RESOLUTIONS.

Whereas it has pleased the Divine will to call from the stage of actlon our dearly heloved neighbor, friend and teacher, JESSE O. LANFAIR, we, the Wesley Daughters' Bihle Class do here make the following resolutions:

1. That the Wesley Daughters' Bible Class, while uniting with them in the keen sense of their loss here on earth, point them to the blessed promlses made to those who trust the Lord.

2. That we as a class will try to emulate the example set forth by our departed leader, whose llfe was a shining light before us.

3. That we extend to the bereaved family our deepest sympathy, whose broken hearts we will help to heal with words of comfort.

4. That a copy of these resolutions he sent to the family, a copy to the Durant News, and one to the New Orleans Christian Advocate for publication.

Signed by: Mrs. L. C. Lipsey, Mrs. J. J. Ross, Mrs. G. A. Guess, Committee.

THE ORIGIN OF THE METHODIST HYMNAL.

By Rev. Charles S. Nutter, D.D.

In 1784, when John Wesley revised the Church of England Prayer Book for the Methodists of America, he at the same time edited and published a Hymn Book for the new church. It contained only 118 selections. It was adopted, of course, hut it was inadequate and unpopular.

In 1781 Mr. Robert Spence, a Wesleyan local preacher and bookseller of York, England, edited and published a "Pocket Hymn Book" containing 230 selections. It became popular, and several editions were published. A ninth edltion of this hook was printed in Philadelphia in 1788, and in Baltimore in 1790. In some way the book came into the hands of Bishops Coke and Ashury; they liked it so well that they dellherately adopted it, wrote a preface for it recommending it to the church, and had large editions puhlished.

In 1802 Ezekiel Cooper, who had become hook steward, slightly enlarged and revised the hook sufficiently to secure a copyright. In 1808 Bishop Ashury edited a supplement as large as the original book. Later these were put together and with several revlsions and large additions formed the Methodist Hymnal of to-day.

Robert Spence's "Pocket Hymn Book" has continued in all the series, and eighty-two of its hymns are found in the latest edition. The discovery of the origin of the Hymn Book was first announced in Zlon's Herald of April 25, 1883.—Zlon's Herald.

Epworth League.

AN ARMENIAN CHRISTMAS GIFT.

There is a good deal of uncertainty as to whether the 25th day of December is really the anniversary of the birth of our Lord Jesus Christ, but that doesn't matter; it is not even of importance that Milton's verse be right:

"It was the winter wild,
While the heaven-horn child,
All meanly wrapt in the rude manger lies,"

but it is supremely important that we keep Christmas in the spirit of Him who gave Himself for us and of whose humiliation his lowly birth was the heginning. Among the Christians of the Near East, Christmas will be celehratcd on January 21 of our calendar, which corresponds with the date of the uncorrected calendars still in use in the Greek Church. Throughout all this region, the scene of ancient Christianity of the Apostollc Missions; triumphs in cities that still hear the very names hy which they were addressed by the risen Christ In the book of Revelation; in the land of the anclent Chaldeans, where there is still the remnant of the Chaldean Church; in Armenia, where the direct connection hetwecn the church of to-day and the church of the Apostles has heen maintained; in Syria where Saul of Tarsus journeyed to Damascus "hreathing out threatenings and slaughter" and where he was stricken to the earth and heard the voice saying: "Saul, Saul, why persecutest thou me;" In Palestine, of sacred memory, in Cilicia, the native land of Saul, the Apostle, with its great city, Tarsus, In which the Apostle ever retained affectionate pride, and in Greece to which the refugees fled before triumphant Turkish armies, as cruel as the armies of Nebuchandnezzar 2500 years ago—there

(Continued on Next Page.)

IT IS A BURNING SHAME

That so many Churches are without sufficient insurance and not properly safe-guarded against Fire, Lightning and Tornado.

THE NATIONAL MUTUAL CHURCH INSURANCE COMPANY OF CHICAGO—The Methodist Mutual—in successful operation since 1898—furnishes protection AT COST upon easy annual payments. No assessments; legal reserve for security of policy-holders same as stock companies.

No agents. Deal direct. For applications and particulars address

HENRY P. MAGILL, Sec'y. & Mgr.
1509 Insurance Exchange, Chicago, Ill.

Mrs. Alice Hargrove Barclay, Agent, M. E. Church, South, 314 Norton Building, Louisville, Ky.

WHEELER Business College BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
"WHEELER STUDENTS GET THE BEST POSITIONS"
Call or Write For Free Catalogue

PELOUBET'S
Select Notes
The World's Greatest Commentary on the International Sunday-School Lessons
By AMOS R. WELLS, Litt D., LL.D.
It combines everything essential and has become a necessity to teachers who wish to obtain the most for themselves and in turn pass it along. Great pains and study are put in the mechanical appearance of the volume, for it is illustrated by over 150 pictures, comprehensive maps and charts and colored full-page illustrations.
Let us send you a pamphlet containing the best lesson taken from the volume of 1923
Price $1.90 Net. $2.00 Delivered
W. A. WILDE COMPANY
120 BOYLSTON STREET, BOSTON, MASS.
Madison Terminal Building, Chicago
FOR SALE AT ALL BOOKSTORES

QUALITY GOODS
AT LOW PRICES
D. H. Holmes Co.,
LIMITED.

For the HAIR—
To make it soft, fluffy and free from dandruff use
TETTERINE
60c at your Druggist's, or from The
SHUPTRINE CO., SAVANNAH, GA.

Public Service
HAS BECOME THE ACTIVE PRACTICAL IDEAL OF THE STREET RAILWAY COMPANY WITH ITS REORGANIZATION AS NEW ORLEANS PUBLIC SERVICE, INC. WE SOLICIT HELPFUL SUGGESTIONS AND WISH TO KEEP SERVICE ALWAYS
On the Job

D. H. B. BARTLETT
National Dental Parlors
Canal and Bourbon Sts.
Over Worner's Drug Store
Entrance on Bourbon Street
Phone Main 2193.
NEW ORLEANS
Crown and Bridge Specialist
Vitalized Air for Painless Extraction
Most Modern and Best Equipped Dental Parlors South.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

(Continued From Page 10.)

are over a million people who must be kept alive and be put in the way of self-support through American charity or they will perish. Our church in the congregations, the Sunday school and the Epworth Leagues is to observe the Armenian Christmas, January 21, with a great Christmas gift which is to be used by the Near East Relief Committee for the preservation of these victims of Turkish atrocities.

The plan is this: In every congregation on Sunday morning, January 21, an offering is to be made; in every Epworth League chapter, a special program dealing with the Near East is to be carried out, and in every Sunday school a special offering is to be made for the same cause. It has not seemed wise for the Epworth Leagues to make a separate and special offering, but it is extremely important that every Epworth Leaguer, through self-denial and forethought, give as much as possible either through the Sunday school or through the offering made in the congregation. The amount will be sent to the Near East Relief Committee, and will at once go on its way of salvation. The Epworth Era for January will contain further material and to each Chapter a booklet, giving facts for use in the Chapter meeting, will be sent.

In proportion to our own joy what Christmas means, may we generously contribute, not with the expectation of creating joy, but in hope of supporting life for those who without our gifts will be condemned to death by starvation and disease.

In the orphanages operated by the Near East there are over 50,000 children, and 50,000 more of these little ones are supported outside the orphanages; $5 a month will take care of a child and provide for its schooling. Many League Chapters could at least assume the responsibility for one child, and some for more. A number of these little ones who have been made blind through disease are being taught so that they may take their places among the happy toilers. For the children our hearts especially go out, as life is yet before them if we will but give them an opportunity.

There need be no fear that the money contributed will fail to achieve its utmost usefulness, as the Near East Relief Committee has been thoroughly investigated; it reports to the Congress of the United States, by which it has been chartered, and has the endorsement of our own church.

Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic

A Body Builder for Pale, Delicate Children. 60c

UNCOMFORTABLE AFTER MEALS?

Then Try a Pinch of Black-Draught. This White-Haired Alabama Lady Says It Helps Her.

Dutton, Ala. — In recommending Thedford's Black-Draught to her friends and neighbors here, Mrs. T. F. Parks, a well-known Jackson County lady, said:

"I am getting up in years; my head is pretty white. I have seen medicines and remedies come and go, but the old reliable came and stayed. I am talking of Black-Draught, a liver medicine we have used for years—one that can be depended upon and one that will do the work.

"Black-Draught will relieve indigestion and constipation if taken right, and I know, for I tried it. It is the best thing I have ever found for the full, uncomfortable feeling after meals.

"Sour stomach and sick headache can be relieved by taking Black-Draught. It aids digestion, also assists the liver in throwing off impurities. I am glad to recommend Black-Draught, and do, to my friends and neighbors."

For simple, common ailments, due to disordered stomach, liver and bowels, you will find Thedford's Black-Draught a useful and valuable remedy. The purely vegetable ingredients of which Black-Draught is composed gently stimulate the liver, increasing the flow of digestive juices, thereby helping to prevent or relieve constipation in an easy, natural way.

Insist upon Thedford's, the original and only genuine Black-Draught powdered herb and root liver medicine.—Adv.

NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE

Report of the Epworth League Board.

We rejoice in the progress that has been made in the work for our young people through the Epworth League. The reports of the pastors reveal the fact that there have been many new chapters organized and others being planned for.

There was held, in June, at Grenada College, an inspirational summer conference attended by choice workers from every section of North Mississippi. We are hoping soon to be able to organize this part of the work into a Summer Assembly where the several phases of Epworth League work will be conducted on a large scale.

District Institutes, presided over by the secretaries in their territory, have proven to be beneficial and we urge all our pastors and people to cooperate with the Board and the Conference Epworth League Organization in perfecting the plans for these institutes.

We request every pastoral charge and congregation to observe Epworth League Anniversary Day, or Young Peoples' Day in charges where no Leagues have been chartered, take an offering and send it to the Treasurer, Mr. Victor H. Stephenson, at Booneville, that it may assist the work of promoting the Epworth League.

A policy has been adopted and placed in the hands of the officers of every chapter with a request that they shape their local work in accord with these plans. We trust the pastors will use our district secretaries in the organization of new chapters and in any way to strengthen the Epworth League Work at any point.

R. P. NEBLETT,
For the Board.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

Wray Bowie recently held a District Epworth League Institute at Lorman, Miss., of which he writes us as follows:

"We had a wonderful one day institute and I am sure our district has been benefited by it. Lorman has a fine League organized in June and as they were small and not fully acquainted with the work, they were glad to have us, in order that they might build up their chapter.

Our Vicksburg delegation left at 7:20 a.m. Sunday in the highest spirits that I ever saw a delegation leave Vicksburg on any mission. Crawford Street League had "seven" and Gibson Memorial had "eleven" which explains our success. Arriving at Port Gibson we were greeted by John Statterfield and Leon Wheeless. With these twenty on board, we called on Willie Rodgers, "The boy with the Mandolin" for the Music and made all the League songs ring.

We were met at Lorman by a fine bunch of Lorman Leaguers, and their very handshake was a message of welcome. They were glad to have us, was the expression of every voice, and the atmosphere spoke in its way "Make yourself at home." On the train from Natchez was Miss Janet Head and Eva Stanley. And we all turned toward the church where at 10:30 the Institute opened with "Onward, Epworth Leaguers," followed by prayer and scripture reading and an address by the District Secretary as to the purpose of the Institute. Mr. Coker, President of the Crawford Street Chapter, Vicksburg, made a most interesting talk on the First Department work; many good points were brought out, by which the Leaguers were much benefited.

We were assured further of our welcome by an address of welcome by Mr. Dawkins of the Lorman chapter. And to show them how glad we were to be there Miss Theodore Bowers from Gibson Memorial responded with one of her usual broad smiles and good natured expressions.

Reports from Natchez Junior and Senior, Lorman Junior, Gibson Memorial Junior and Senior and Port Gibson Senior were read and it made us feel good over the work the Leagues in the Vicksburg District are doing.

At 12 o'clock we held a consecration service. The Chapter Presidents, Brother Ainsworth, pastor in charge, and the District Secretary were at the rostrum. Brother Ainsworth made a talk on the importance of standing out for Christ; after which we asked those desiring to re-consecrate their lives to his service to pass by and shake hands with those at the rostrum. There was certainly a spirit of "old-time religion" with us, and may God direct us that we may put into practice the promises made by so many. This service was closed by the League benediction, after which we partook of a most bountiful dinner 'neath the trees in front of the church. Those good people certainly must believe in tithing. It seemed they tried to cook everything in Lorman—I didn't know there was as many chickens in the State as they had. And everything else that goes with a good dinner. We all ate together and the spirit of fellowship was wonderful.

The afternoon session was opened with a devotional by Crawford Street League, Vicksburg, and was in the form of a model devotional service. The arrangement of the program was fine and a variation of programs was brought out by Mr. Coker, for the program was opened with a vocal solo by Miss Junita Levi and the attention of the entire congregation was gathered, thereby making it much easier for the program to be presented. The idea was brought out to first get the attention of the congregation. With the sweet voice of Miss Levi it was not difficult to obtain the attention from the beginning. Next on the program was an address by Miss Head of Natchez, who brought a message on Social Service. And being a trained nurse, not only with the purpose of healing the sick body, but also of healing the sin-sick soul, we were brought to think more clearly on our much neglected part of League work, for with a strongly emphasized message from a Leaguer as true as Miss Head, we are awakened with a call to our duty to go help with such force that I hardly think there will be a slacker in the District from now on.

Next was an address by an old, experienced Chapter President, Mr. Henry Sullivan, President Gibson Memorial, Vicksburg, in which many

(Continued on Page 15.)

Refreshes Weary Eyes

When Your Eyes feel Dull and Heavy, use Murine. It Instantly Relieves that Tired Feeling—Makes them Clear, Bright and Sparkling. Harmless. Sold and Recommended by All Druggists.

MURINE for your EYES

Famous Old Recipe for Cough Syrup

Easily and cheaply made at home, but it beats them all for quick results.

Thousands of housewives have found that they can save two-thirds of the money usually spent for cough preparations, by using the well-known old recipe for making cough syrup at home. It is simple and cheap but it has no equal for prompt results. It takes right hold of a cough and gives immediate relief, usually stopping an ordinary cough in 24 hours or less.

Get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any druggist, pour it into a pint bottle and add plain granulated sugar syrup to make a full pint. If you prefer, use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, it tastes good, keeps perfectly, and lasts a family a long time.

It's truly astonishing how quickly it acts, penetrating through every air passage of the throat and lungs—loosens and raises the phlegm, soothes and heals the membranes, and gradually but surely the annoying throat tickle and dreaded cough disappear entirely. Nothing better for bronchitis, spasmodic croup, hoarseness or bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, known the world over for its healing effect on the membranes.

Avoid disappointment by asking your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with full directions and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

FREEDOM FROM LAXATIVES

Discovery by Scientists Has Replaced Them.

Pills and salts give temporary relief from constipation only at the expense of permanent injury, says an eminent medical authority.

Science has found a newer, better way—a means as simple as Nature itself.

In perfect health a natural lubricant keeps the food waste soft and moving. But when constipation exists this natural lubricant is not sufficient. Medical authorities have found that the gentle lubricating action of Nujol most closely resembles that of Nature's own lubricant. As Nujol is not a laxative it cannot gripe. It is in no sense a medicine. And like pure water it is harmless and pleasant.

Nujol is prescribed by physicians; used in leading hospitals. Get a bottle from your druggist today.—Advertisement.

MARRIED.

A pretty, quiet wedding took place on Wednesday, November 15, at the Methodist parsonage, Leland, Miss., Rev. W. M. Young performing the solemn ceremony that united MR. JESSE REED and MISS VIVIAN CRONIAN in holy wedlock, in the presence of a company of kindred and friends. All were of Tralake, Miss. The couple will make their home at Tralake.

QUARTERLY CONFERENCES.

NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE

Corinth District—First Round.

Corinth ct., at Box Chapel, Dec. 2, 3.
Kossuth ct., at Wesley Chapel, Dec. 8.
Corinth, First Church, Dec. 10, 11.
Corinth, South Side, Dec. 10, 12, at night.
Dumas ct., at New Hope, Dec. 14.
Blue Mountain, at B. M., Dec. 15.
New Albany ct., at Union Hill, Dec. 16, 17.
New Albany sta., Dec. 17, night; 18, a.m.
Guntown, at Guntown, Dec. 19.
Baldwyn, at Baldwyn, Dec. 30.
Booneville ct., at Oak Grove, Dec. 22.
Booneville sta., Q. C., Dec. 22, night; preaching, Dec. 31, night.
Wheeler ct., at Wheeler, Dec. 30, 31, a.m.
Potts Camp, at P. C., Jan. 3.
Hickory Flat, at H. F., Jan. 4.
Myrtle, at Myrtle, Jan. 5.
Mooreville ct., at Allen's Chapel, Jan. 6, 7.
Mantachie ct., at Shiloh, Jan. 9.
Marietta ct., at Marietta, Jan. 10.
Rienzi ct., at Rienzi, Jan. 11.
Chalybeate ct., at Camp Ground, Jan. 12.
Ripley sta., Jan. 12, 14, night.
Silver Springs ct., at Mt. Carmel, Jan. 13, 14.
Great State Conference on Evangelism, for all pastors and church officials, to be held at Jackson, Miss., Jan. 16 and 17.
Burnsville ct., at Hebron, Jan. 19.
Iuka ct., at Snow Down, Jan. 20, 21.
Iuka sta., Jan 21, p.m.; Jan. 22, a.m.

All pastors of the Corinth District are called to meet the presiding elder in Corinth for special conference, Tuesday and Wednesday, Jan. 23 and 24.

Paden ct., at Westt Side, Jan. 26.
Belmont ct., at Golden, Jan. 27.
Tishomingo ct., at Tishomingo, Jan. 28, 29.

The district stewards for the Corinth District are called to meet at the First Methodist Church in Corinth at 11 a.m., Nov. 28, 1922.

J. B. RANDOLPH, P. E.

Greenwood Dist.—First Round.

Dublin, at Dublin, Nov. 19.
Carrollton, at Carrollton, Nov. 26, a.m.
Coila, at Poplar Springs, Dec. 3.
Acona, Dec. 10, a.m.
Black Hawk, at Black Hawk, Dec. 10, p.m., at 2:30.
Lambert, at Lambert, Dec. 17.
Itta Bena, Dec. 24, a.m.
Greenwood, Dec. 24, p.m.

Cuticura Soap Clears the Skin and Keeps it Clear

Soap, Ointment, Talcum, 25c. everywhere. Samples free of Cuticura Laboratories, Dept. V. Malden, Mass.

SORES BOILS, CUTS and BURNS have been healed since 1820 with

Gray's Ointment

Sold by all druggists. Write for sample to W. F. Gray & Co., 707 Gray Bldg., Nashville, Tenn.

Bitter Chillifuge 25c

Has a bitter tonic taste and quick action in routing malaria from the system.

Will quickly stop chills and fever.

Splendid tonic for torpid liver and bracer for poor appetite.

FINLAY, DICKS & CO., INC.,
NEW ORLEANS.

Moorehead, Dec. 31, a.m.
Indianola, Dec. 31, p.m.
Inverness, at Inverness, Jan. 7, a.m.
Belzoni, Jan. 7, p.m.
Tutwiler, at Tutwiler, Jan. 14, a.m.
Drew, at Drew, Jan. 14, p.m.
Great Rally for Home Missions and Evangelism at Jackson, Jan. 16 and 17, five laymen from each charge, and every pastor in the district to attend.
Swift, at Morgan, Jan. 10, the pastor to set the hour.
Webb, at Webb, Jan. 21, a.m.
Minter City, at Minter City, Jan. 21, at 3 p.m.
Schlater, at Schlater, Jan. 24, p.m.
Tchula, Jan. 28, a.m.
Sidon and Cruger, at Sidon, Jan. 28, p.m.
Sunflower, at Sunflower, Feb. 4, a.m.
Ruleville, at Doddsville, Feb. 4, 3 p.m.

S. L. POPE, P. E.

Grenada Dist.—First Round.

Grenada, Nov. 19, Dec. 15.
Oxford, Nov. 26, Dec. 19.
Water Valley, First Church, Dec. 3, Dec. 20.
Water Valley, Main Street and Taylor, at Main Street, Dec. 3, Dec. 20.
Red Banks ct., at Red Banks, Dec. 10, a.m.; Dec. 11, a.m.
Holly Springs, Dec. 10, p.m.; Dec. 11, p.m.
Winona ct., at Bethlehem, Dec. 16.
Pickens and Goodman, at Pickens, Dec. 17, 18.
Durant, Dec. 17, 18.
Coffeeville ct., at Coffeeville, Dec. 24, Jan. 10.
Sallis ct., at Sallis, Dec. 30, 31.
Holcomb ct., at Holcomb, Jan. 7.
Tie Plant ct., at Tie Plant, Jan. 7, 8.
Poplar Creek ct., at Shiloh, Jan. 13.
Vaiden and West, at Vaiden, Jan. 14.
Duck Hill ct., at Duck Hill, Jan. 14, 15.
Winona sta., Jan. 21, a.m.; Jan. 22, p.m.
Kilmichael ct., at Kilmichael, Jan. 21, p.m.; Jan. 22, a.m.
Waterford ct., at Waterford, Jan. 26.
Ashland ct., at Ashland, Jan. 27.
Lamar ct., at Lamar, Jan. 28.
Paris ct., at Paris, Feb. 3.
Abbeville ct., at Abbeville, Feb. 4.
Lexington, Feb. 9, 11.
Ebenezer ct., at Hebron, Feb. 10.

District stewards' meeting at Grenada, Dec. 7, at 2 o'clock p.m.

R. A. TUCKER, P. E.

Greenville Dist.—First Round.

Greenville, preaching, Nov. 19.
New Salem, preaching, Nov. 26, a.m.
Boyle, preaching, Nov. 26, p.m.
Shipman's Chapel, preaching, Dec. 3, a.m.
Cleveland, preaching, Dec. 3, p.m.

Conferences.

Evansville and Dubbs, at Evansville, Dec. 10, a.m.
Tunica, Dec. 10, p.m.
Coahoma and Lyon, at Coahoma, Dec. 17, a.m.
Lula and Dundee, at Lula, Dec. 17, p.m.
Merigold and Alligator, at Merigold, Dec. 24, a.m.
Lake Cormorant and R., at Hollywood, Dec. 31, a.m.
Clarksdale, Dec. 31, p.m.
Friars Point and Bobo, at Bobo, Jan. 7, a.m.
Shelby, Jan. 7, p.m.
District Stewards meet at Shaw, Jan. 8, 2 p.m.
Cleveland, Jan. 10, p.m.
Gunnison and Sherard, at Gunnison, Jan. 14, a.m.
Rosedale and Hillhouse, at Rosedale, Jan. 14, p.m.
Laymen and Pastors meet at Jackson, Jan. 16, 17.
Glen Allan and Benoit, at Benoit, Jan. 21, a.m.
Glen Allan and Benoit, at Glen Allan, Jan. 21, p.m.
Hollandale and Arcola, at Hollandale, Jan. 28, a.m.
Leland, Jan. 28, p.m.
Greenville, Jan. 31, p.m.
Jnestown and Duncan, at Jonestown, Feb. 4, a.m.
Jonestown and Duncan, at Jonestown, Feb. 4, p.m.
Boyle and Pace, at Boyle, Feb. 11, a.m.
Boyle circuit, at New Salem, Feb. 11, 3 p.m.

The mass meeting at Jackson, Jan. 16, 17, is of sufficient importance to provoke a record attendance from this territory. Make your plans NOW, brethren. It will be the best money and time you have ever invested for your church. The district stewards' meeting at Shaw should have the individual attention of every district steward. Due personal notice will be given later. The Shaw quarterly conference will be held in connection with the district stewards' meet. District Conference at Jonestown, May 8-11. In arranging your meetings, brethren, give this fact due attention.

JAMES H. FELTS, P. E.

Sardis District—First Round.

Charleston, 11 a.m., Nov. 26; Q. C., evening, Jan. 2, 1923.
Oakland, preaching p.m., Nov. 26; Q. C., 11:30 a.m., Jan. 2.
Hernando, 11 a.m., Dec. 3; Q. C., a.m., Dec. 11.
Senatobia, preaching Dec. 3, evening; Q. C., a.m., Dec. 12.
Batesville, 11 a.m., Dec. 10; Q. C., p.m. Dec. 13.
Sardis station, evening, Dec. 10; Q. C., a.m., Dec. 13.
Byhalia, at B., 11 a.m., Dec. 17; Q. C., 2 p.m., Dec. 17.
Olive Branch, at O. B. evening, Dec. 17; Q. C., 11 a.m., Dec. 18.
Como, 11 a.m., Dec. 24; Q. C., evening, Dec. 12.
Coldwater, evening, Dec. 24; Q. C., evening, Dec. 11.
Shuford, at Eureka, Dec. 30; preaching and Q. C., 11 a.m.
Courtland, at Courtland, Dec. 31; Q. C. in afternoon.
Crowder, at Crowder, evening, Jan. 3.
Cockrum, at Palestine, 11 a.m., Jan. 6.
Pleasant Hill, at P. H., 11 a.m., Jan. 7.

ANGELL'S

COUGH and WHOOPING
Cough Syrup
Easy to Take
No Habit-Forming Drugs. Formula of
DR. RICHARD ANGELL
Prepared by
JAMES E. ANGELL,
New Orleans, La.
PRICE 35c AND 65c
AT ALL DRUGGISTS

Horn Lake, at H. L., preaching, p.m., Jan. 7; Q. C., 11 a.m., Jan. 8.
Sardis ct., at Terza, 11 a.m., Jan. 10.
Arkabutia, at Hunter's Chapel, 11 a.m., Jan. 12.
Longtown, at Longtown, 11 a.m., Jan. 13.
Crenshaw, at Sledge, Jan. 14.
Mt. Pleasant, at M. P., Jan. 20, 21.
Tyro, at Free Springs, Jan. 27, 28.

The district stewards will please meet at Sardis, Miss., at 11 a.m., on Tuesday, Dec. 5. Please let all the district stewards who can possibly do so be present for this conference. Any preachers who so desire may come, but we will have a special preachers' meeting soon after our great meeting in Jackson, Jan. 16 and 17.

It is important that all of the stewards meet their Q. C., that we may start our year's work off right.

J. TILLERY LEWIS, P. E.

(Continued on Page 13)

KING'S EARLY IMPROVED COTTON SEED—90-Day Cotton; boll weevil smasher; cotton the wise farmer plants. Makes cotton before boll weevil makes appearance. Wake up, plant King's Early Improved. Seed grown in famous seed districts of North Carolina. Season ideal for saving planting seed. Earliest, quickest maturing, most productive variety known. Write to-day for facts and special prices on early orders. King Cotton Seed Co., Lavonia, Ga.

Child's tongue shows if bilious, constipated

MOTHER, CLEAN CHILD'S BOWELS WITH "CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP"

Even Cross, Feverish, Sick Children Love its Taste and it Never Fails to Empty Little Bowels

Hurry mother! A teaspoonful of "California Fig Syrup" today may prevent a sick child tomorrow. If your child is constipated, bilious, fretful, has cold, colic, or if stomach is sour, tongue coated, breath bad, remember a good liver and bowel action is often all that is necessary.

Ask your druggist for genuine "California Fig Syrup." It never cramps or overacts. Full directions for babies and children of all ages are printed on each bottle. Say "California" or you may get an imitation fig syrup.

Sunday School

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE SUNDAY SCHOOL NOTES.

I spent from the 13th to 20th on the Fannin circuit. I visited each church and administered the communion and spoke on the need for more money and for the collections and the need of young life. I enjoyed the week much. I had the pleasure of speaking to the schools of each community except one. This was also a privilege and pleasure that was enjoyable.

So far as I can gather, Brother Barrett is coming out in full. I was glad to know this. We did some Sunday school work. Three Cradle Rolls; the schools promised to observe the evangelistic campaign outlined by the Board and to make a definite effort to get each person due to be in Methodist Sunday schools enlisted.

The Four Times a Year Circuit-wide Institute was enjoyed. There was a good program rendered and fine officers elected for the coming year. All were young folks and we bid them Godspeed in this new work for them. They are as follows: President, Mr. Walter Smith, Jr., Fannin, Miss.; Vice President, Mr. Francis Garver, Brandon, Miss.; Secretary, Miss Edna McKay, Pelahatchie, Miss.

Rev. J. L. Ferguson, Jr., went to the Circuit Institute on the Prentiss charge for me and reports a great meeting. I did not receive a report of the work done in time for this issue of the Advocate.

The D'Lo Sunday school has all of its classes above the Junior organized now and have sent for charters. This is a fine forward step and one that I pray will bring great blessing to the whole school.

The Centenary Commission is asking that the Sunday schools of the Mississippi Conference make a Christmas offering of $1,500. This will apply on the Centenary allotment from their Sunday school if they so desire. I trust God will put it into the hearts of the people to respond to this request. Pray for the work and the workers.

Yours in Him,
JOHN C. CHAMBERS.

Safe and Sane Salvation: My soul, wait thou only upon God; for my expectation is from him. He only is my rock and my salvation; he is my defence; I shall not be moved.—Psalm 62:5, 6.

Dick's Antiseptic

Kills Germs

For Cuts, Wounds and Burns. Especially fine for mouth diseases, pyorrhoea and sore throat.

25 CTS.

ECZEMA

IS CURABLE

Write me today and I will send you a free trial of my mild, soothing, guaranteed treatment that will prove it. Stops the itching and heals permanently. Send no money—just write me—that is all you have to do. Address

Dr. Cannaday, 1225 Park Squire, Sedalia, Mo.

Never did man so become the contemporary of all the ages as Jesus Christ. Jesus Christ belongs to the twentieth century as truly as he belonged to the first century. No man of any other nation ever became the contemporary of all nations and all ages as did Jesus Christ.—R. J. Campbell.

Back to Normalcy In Nutrition

By MARIAN COLE FISHER

In the issue of the Grower of December 10th under the above title, the writer related as briefly as possible some sources of food esscntials, citing the importance of meats as an example of protein or muscle building food. Cereals and their products follow as easily available in preparation and assimilation. The eggs, milk and fats that go into the preparation of breads increases their importance in the dietary.

When I see the new slogan, "A quart of milk a day," I always want to add, "with a loaf of bread."

By bread I mean good breads made with good, strong, wholesome flour, made in any form desired, yeast breads, baking powder breads, hot biscuits, muffins, pancakes, etc.

I have never tasted better light bread than that put out by bakers in several Florida cities, but for all of that we will have to yield the palm to Florida as the home of the Quick breads and baking powder biscuit.

This being the case, especial care must be taken in the selection of cereals for that purpose. I would like to see more of the whole wheats and oatmeal used. Too many housewives think that their biscuits, etc., must be as white as the driven snow. This is a mistake. The spring wheat flour, rich in gluten, the meat of the wheat, is a creamy flour, not bleached.

Public Health reports, Medical Journals, and State Legislatures, through State Food Commissions are making educational campaigns against the bleached and self-rising flours.

Since the action taken in July by President Harding to stamp out Pellagra, public attention has been focused on its causes. Medical Science has quite definitely and positively determined that Pellagra is a nutritional disorder, and have singled out as one of its direct causes the constant use of self-rising flours. Many families confine themselves to an almost exclusive use of these preparations. The Journal of the Florida Medical Association reporting the investigations by the New York Standard Commission states: "It came out that ——— a great deal of sulphate of lime is really used in self-rising flours, sometimes running as high as 25 per cent."

The claim is made and seems well substantiated, that the continued diet of these devitalized flours among the poorer and perhaps indolent is the main source of many diseases. Among the poor not enough fruits and other foods are taken to offset the loss of nutrition.

The writer happened in a grocery in Kentucky, some seven years ago, when the agent for a self-rising flour was obliged to take back a lot of sacks that had become infested with weevils and on account of damp and temperature had lost its leavening strength. I remarked about the loss, and the agent blithely assured me that there would be no loss, as it would be ground over, more leavening put with it and resacked for the market. Up to that time, I confess I had been indifferent, but such methods were a revelation.

QUARTERLY CONFERENCES.

NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE

Aberdeen Dist.—First Round.

Amory, Nov. 19, 20.
Aberdeen, Nov. 26, 27.
Okolona, Dec. 2, 3.
Tupelo, Dec. 3, 4.
Houston, Dec. 9, 10.
Pontotoc, Dec. 10, 11.
Prairie and Strong, at S., Dec. 17, 18.
Buena Vista, at B. V., Dec. 30, 31.
Verona, at Verona, Jan. 6, 7.
Shannon and Nettleton, at S., Jan. 7, 8.
Woodland, at Mantee, Jan. 13, 14.
Nettleton, at Carolina, Jan. 20, 21.
Greenwood Springs, at G. S., Jan. 24.
Vardaman, at V., Jan. 27, 28.
Calhoun City, at C. C., Jan. 28, 29.
Houlka, at Houlka, Feb. 3, 4.
Salem and Ecru, at E., Feb. 10, 11.
Randolph, at Randolph, Feb. 13.
Tocopola, at Thaxton, Feb. 14.
Fulton, at Van Buren, Feb. 17, 18.
Tremont, at Tremont, Feb. 18, 19.
Smithville, at Smithville, Feb. 20.
Bellefontaine, at B., Feb. 23.
Eupora and Mabin, at Eupora, Feb. 24, 25.
Mathiston, at Mathiston, Feb. 25, 26.
Algoma, at Algoma, March 3.

The district stewards will meet at Tupelo, Monday, Dec. 4, at 2 o'clock p.m.

T. H. DORSEY, P. E.

Columbus Dist.—First Round.

Macon sta., preaching, Dec. 3, a.m.; Q. C., Dec. 26.
Brooksville, preaching, Dec. 3, p.m.; Q. C., Feb. 7.
West Point, preaching, Dec. 10, a.m.; Q. C., Jan. 31.
Columbus, First Church, preaching, Dec. 10, p.m.; Q. C., Dec. 19.
Caledonia, at Steens, Q. C., Dec. 15; preaching at Steens, Dec. 17, p.m.
Columbus, Central Church, preaching, Dec. 17, a.m.; Q. C., Jan. 11.
Artesia, preaching, Dec. 24; Q. C., Feb. 1.
Chester, at Nebo, Dec. 30, 31.
Ackerman and Wier, at Wier, Dec. 31, Jan. 1.
Kosciusko ct., at East Union, Jan. 6.
Kosciusko sta., Jan. 7, a.m.
McCool, at Bowie's, Jan. 7, 8.
Macon ct., at ———, Jan. 13, 14.
Crawford and Shafers, at Crawford, Jan. 14, 15.
Mashulaville, at Mashulaville, Jan. 20, 21.
Shuqualak, at Shuqualak, Jan. 21, 22.
High Point, at White Hall, Jan. 27.
Louisville, Jan. 28, a.m.
Noxapater, at Noxapater, Jan. 28, 29.
Starkville, Feb. 4, a.m.
Ethel, at Ethel, Feb. 4, 5.
Sturgis, at Sturgis, Feb. 10, 11.
Cedar Bluff, at Cedar Bluff, Feb. 17, 18.
Mayhew and Sessums, at Sessums, Feb. 25, 26.

The District Stewards are called to meet at West Point, in the Methodist church, at 1 p.m., December 12.

A. T. McILWAIN, P. E.

School Desks

Opera Chairs,
Folding Chairs,
Kindergarten Chairs,
School Supplies,
Blackboards.

SOUTHERN DESK CO., Hickory, N. C.

CANCER HOSPITAL. Intra-venous treatment for cancer. Operation. Radium and X-Ray unnecessary. Booklet giving full information upon request. Box 2127. ATLANTA, GA.

HOW FAR.

How far from here to heaven?
Not very far, my friend;
A single hearty step
Will thy journey end.
Hold there! Where runnest thou?
Know heaven is in thee!
Seekest thou for God elsewhere?
His face thou'lt never see.

—Angelus Selesius.

Be careful for nothing, but in everything by prayer and supplication with thanksgiving let your request be made known unto God.—Phil. iv. 6.

Are You a Weak and Ailing Woman?

Beauty and Health Go Hand in Hand

Fort Thomas, Ky. — "Several years ago I had become so poor and weak from trouble of a feminine character that I could not walk around in my room without holding to the furniture or having some one to assist me. I was so nervous at times I could hardly endure any one walking across the floor. Finally I began taking Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and in three months' time I gained 20 pounds. I continued taking the medicine until I was entirely well. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription certainly saved my life."—Mrs. Laura Klepfer, 15 Oak St.

Health is most important to you. Do not neglect it. Obtain this Prescription of Dr. Pierce's now, in liquid or tablets, from your druggist, or send 10c for trial pkg. of tablets to Dr. Pierce's Invalids' Hotel in Buffalo, N. Y., or write for free medical advice.

The Most Beautiful Calendar

OF ITS KIND EVER ISSUED

A Most Beautiful and Artistic Religious Calendar for You

Size 9½" x 14". One page for each month and a cover, all printed from beautiful color plates. There are seven Biblical and five Missionary pictures, with Scriptural quotations for daily Bible readings.

An Easy, Delightful Way
—to—
Earn Extra Funds For Your Society

Every Christian home needs one of these calendars. By introducing them into the homes of your community you can easily earn extra funds for your society. Prices and profits on Christian Home Calendars in quantities of 25 or more are as follows:

Number	Cost	Sell	Profits
25	$ 7.50	$ 8.75	$ 1.25
50	12.50	17.50	5.00
100	20.00	35.00	15.00
250	46.50	87.50	41.25
500	82.50	175.00	92.50

Single Calendars, 35c

Combine your order with others and secure the greater discount. Payment for the calendars you order can be made 30 days after delivery. So that you require no capital to start!

LAMAR & BARTON, Dept. B12, NASHVILLE, DALLAS, RICHMOND

Woman's Missionary Society

All communications for this Department should be sent to Mrs J. G. Snelling, 1431 Octavia St., New Orleans, La.

WEEK OF PRAYER UNION SERVICE AT FIRST CHURCH, NEW ORLEANS.

The opening day of the "Week of Prayer," November 6, was celebrated with a fine union service at First Church. Cards had been sent out well in advance to all of the women of all of the auxiliaries in the Methodist churches of the city, giving them a cordial invitation to be the guests of First Church auxiliary on that day. The invitation was heartily accepted judging hy the fine company of ladies who gathered at the appointed time and spent a pleasant half hour chatting before lunch was announced. There was a feast of good things ready in the banquet room, ror, while the dainty courses were being served there were interesting addresses made by church and club women. Mrs. Harper, who had arranged the program, was toastmistress and introduced the speakers with fitting words. Mrs. Parker, president of the City Mission Board, had been assigned for her topic: "The Woman of Yesterday." She drew a picture with words before the mindseye of the women of past generations through whicb our heritage has come, of her sphere of what she had wrought and why. In the most natural course of events, women's relations toward the world around her had changed or enlarged.

Mrs. Virgil Browne, Americanization Chairman for Federation of Woman's Clubs, in speaking of the "Woman of To-day" paid a tribute to the mothers of America, and urged tbe women to help build up true Americanism through the churches and scbools and to give to the foreigner in our midst a church to know American ideals and Christian citizenship. She showed her hearers how, witb the rigbt use of the ballot, we can help the oftimes helpless mothers.

Next was introduced Mrs. Rayden Douglas, a lawyer of our city. This speaker was to imagine the future and give her conclusions of the "Woman of To-morrow." Being conversant with the qualities and attainments of the feminine mind since education has helped it to find its place, she believes that in the future women, here and there, will excel in any science or vocation that she may choose, but that tbe mass of women will always find their chief excellence in the mothers' sphere. Mrs. Douglas helieves tbat it is the duty of women now and in the future to seek to help the State in the making of good laws; especially did she mention just now the uniform divorce law.

Mrs. Favourite, with her happy, wholesome smile, was well selected to bring to all a greeting of fellowship. What she said was heartily indorsed as we were just then enjoying the participation of her suhject.

At two o'clock the devotional service was begun in the church auditorium, then followed selections from the "Week of Prayer" program and later on in the afternoon a memorial service for our late Council president, Mrs. Belle H. Bennett.

The hospitality of the First Church women and the day's cultural and religious exercises were enjoyed and appreciated by all. The "Week of Prayer" services were continued throughout the week in the churches.

Mrs. C. F. Niebergall, our Conference president, is a member of First Church; sbe had not been well recently, but all were pleased to see her out and able to take her seat with the guests of honor wben luncheon was served. Mrs. J. D. Rumph, district secretary, does not spare time or effort in her work and we think she is to be congratulated for her part in the success of the day.

METHODISM AND POLAND.

By Bishop W. B. Beauchamp.

It is a great joy to see how steadily our work has grown in Poland. This is a nation of some tbirty million souls—some two millions of them being Protestant. Although Poland has always been Romanist, she has always guaranteed religious liherty to the people. In the new constitution of the republic of Poland, religious freedom has also heen protected. This does not mean that tbe Roman Catholic Church is not doing all she can to prevent the Protestant people and denominations from having their rights and privileges. Indeed, just now this semi-political and semi-religious organization is most active.

We are just back from a visit to the Minister of Religion, President of the Council of the nation, and the Prime Minister, Mr. Novak, in hehalf of our registration as a church. This will give us full recognition and the right to perform all the ceremonies of our church. Both the Secretary for Education and Religion and the Prime Minister signed the papers and now we await the action of the Council. The Prime Minister, Mr. Novak, was most cordial, though he is a Roman Catholic. In his closing remarks he said: "Before the war we thought that the United States was a material nation. But the war and the years following the war have taught us differently. We now know that the world's greatest moral ideals dwell in America and in her people. I think it is the wonder of the world." He assured us we would have his hearty co operation in securing our full rights as a church.

In justice to the Roman Church in Poland, we ought to state that there are two parties in this church—a liberal party and a fanatical group which would crush out hy any means anything that did not swear allegiance to Romanism.

One learns to love this people, who are so patriotic and so grateful. Yesterday a committee of most representative citizens called on me and asked for an interview. They were all nominally members of the Romanist church. They praised the work of the Methodist Mission in the highest terms, spoke of the fine service we were doing and said, in conclusion, "You are teaching Poland real Christianity." They assured me that the hest people of the land who knew of the Mission and our work were true friends and would stand for us in every way.

I have visited nearly all of our work in Poland, Danzig, Posen, and that district, Silesia, where we have commenced work and built up a fine congregation, and completed a thorough study of all the activities in Warsaw. To-morrow I shall preach to our English congregation at eleven o'clock and Dr. Rawlings will preach to the Polish congregation at 5 p. m. The growtb of our church in Warsaw has been most remarkable during the past year. The orphanage at Klarysew with some hundred and twenty children is equal to anything I have ever seen at home. The new clinic at Smolivor is doing fine service for sick children, of which there are thousands upon thousands in Warsaw alone. It rends one's heart to see the suffering of the children—underfed and orphaned. We leave Sunday night for Baranowicze and Lwow, where we have a most promising centre. We must have a great church in Warsaw. We have found a lot, just a little over a square from our Central Building and the same distance from the Church of the Savior, the leading Catholic church. This lot we are trying to secure. Here we hope to huild our great central church, where the voice of Methodism may be heard hy all these people, declaring salvation through faith in Christ and spreading scriptural holiness throughout this land.

Warsaw, Poland.

Asa's Prayer: Lord, it is nothing with thee to help, whether with many, or with them that have no power: heip us, O Lord our God; for we rest on thee, and in thy name we go against this multitude.—2 Chronicles 14:11.

Rheumatism Relieved

Renwar is guaranteed to relieve Rheumatism by money back offer. This remedy will positively neutralize the uric acid in the blood, which causes Rheumatism. The amount of Renwar required to effect relief depends on the case which ie being treated. Very often one bottle will produce the deeired result. If you suffer with Rheumatism, you should by all means try Renwar. It is harmless, even to the most delicate conetitutions, and thousands will testify to its effectiveness in relieving Rheumatism. Sold by druggists, price 50c, or by mail from Warner Drug Company, Nashville, Tenn.—Adv.

BOHNE & WILT, Booksellers, and Stationers, 1328 Dryades St., New Orleans, La. Baseball Goods, Religious Articles, Fishing Tackle, Periodicals, School Books.

TETTERINE

DRIVES AWAY PIMPLES

and leaves your skin soft and spotless. 60c at your Druggist's, or from The SHUPTRINE CO., SAVANNAH, GA.

CHAMBERLAIN'S TABLETS

-SOLD EVERYWHERE FOR-

CONSTIPATION
BILIOUSNESS
Headache
INDIGESTION
Stomach Trouble

DEEP-SEATED FRECKLES

Need attention NOW or may remain all winter. Use the old and time-tried guaranteed treatment that has given satisfaction to millions of women for over 14 years, and rid yourself of these homely spots. Ask for

Othine--Double Strength

At all Druggists and Department Stores.

BABIES LOVE
MRS. WINSLOW'S SYRUP
The Infants' and Children's Regulator
Pleasant to give—pleasant to take. Guaranteed purely vegetable and absolutely harmless. It quickly overcomes colic, diarrhoea, flatulency and other like disorders. The open published formula appears on every label.
At All Druggists

Headaches Vanish

Sick or nervous headaches, backaches, women's aches almost instantly respond to the liquid remedy Capudine. It stops the pain by removing the cause. Every home should keep a bottle handy. Sold by druggists, 10c, 30c, 60c. Insist upon getting CAPUDINE

ASTHMA

The attack is relieved at once and comfortable rest assured simply by vaporizing Cresolene near the bed at night.

Introduced in 1879

Vapo-Cresolene

"Used While You Sleep"

It is the drugless treatment for bronchial ailments—coughs, colds, spasmodic croup, whooping cough and bronchitis.

Send for descriptive booklet 438. Sold by druggists

Vapo-Cresolene Co., 62 Cortlandt St., N. Y.

Aspirin

Say "Bayer" and Insist!

BAYER

Genuine

Unless you see the name "Bayer" on package or on tablets you are not getting the genuine Bayer product prescribed by physicians over twenty-two years and proved safe by millions for

Colds	Headache
Toothache	Lumbago
Earache	Rheumatism
Neuralgia	Pain, Pain

Accept "Bayer Tablets of Aspirin" only. Each unbroken package contains proper directions. Handy boxes of twelve tablets cost few cents. Druggists also sell bottles of 24 and 100. Aspirin is the trade mark of Bayer Manufacture of Monoaceticacidester of Salicylicacid.—Adv.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

(Continued From Page 11.)

valuable ideas were discussed, stressing the importance of the President co-operating with the local chapter, helping to push forward every good thing.

The Missionary Department was discussed by Mrs. T. M. Ford, President of the Lorman League, and the missionary spirit was aroused, as the inspiring remarks of an experienced Leaguer rang clearly through the assembled hearers. She discussed the missionary work from the most interesting view that I have ever heard, pointing out the fact that no matter what kind of literature one wanted they could find it in the mission study book—Romance, Lives of Heroes, History, Geography, or any other feature that one might enjoy reading. Her talk left with the Leaguers a deeper desire to study missions.

Last on the program was a round table talk, in which all Leaguers present took a part and many problems were discussed A suggestion was offered that since we had re-consecrated our lives to God's service that we enter into a spirit of home mission work by offering to the presiding elder and pastors of the district our Leagues and ourselves to go to places where no services are being held and see that service is held in every community each Sunday. And as District Secretary I am offering the Leagues of the district for the advancement of God's Kingdom and as we enter into it, we are holding aloft our Banner, "All for Christ."

The Institute was closed by prayer by Brother Ainsworth. Every one present expressed a desire to have another Institute real soon. It gives me great pleasure to say that the district was greatly benefited by the Institute and we have made many good friends, thereby feeling that it was good that we had been together.

Our Conference Treasurer's books show that very few Leagues paid their African Special pledges in full last year; a great many paid a part and some paid nothing at all. Our Centenary Treasurer is putting on a drive to raise forty thousand dollars by December 31, and the Epworth Leagues have been asked to raise five hundred of this amount.

The Conference Vice President, who is helping the Treasurer, Brother Alford, in this drive asks that we do even better than this and make it one thousand. If you will do your part and the other fellow will do his part this can be done easily. Every chapter is asked to co-operate to the fullest extent. Truman Lewis says: "These pledges are debts that we owe and should be paid, and this year every chapter must pay in full." These are solemn obligations, the money is badly needed. Our work in Africa is suffering for the lack of funds and there are workers who can not go because of the shortage of funds. Won't you start an active campaign at once to make a substantial remittance to Brother Alford between now and December 31?

In raising your African special pledge, Mr. Lewis recommends that each fourth Sunday be made a day for a special drive for African Special money; and that every Leaguer make his payments on that day. This will be the duty of the Fourth Department Superintendent to see that every member has a chance to pay his pledge each fourth Sunday. Begin now with your plan of paying monthly and avoid coming out at the end of the League year with no African Special paid.

Truman says, "We are off-bound for one thousand before December 31. Must have it, will get it, the Epworth League will not fail."

Are you ready? Let's go.

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.

To the Louisiana Epworth Leaguers:

Dear Leaguers: I am sure you have all studied carefully the new Standard of Efficiency and are acquainted with the ninth point which states that at least 5 per cent of your chapter membership should be studying for the Christian Culture Diploma. If we will comply with this point it will mean a new church and a new League in every community, so let us enter into the new plan with all of our heart.

Louisiana is at the top as far as credits are concerned, for we have the largest number of Christian Culture diplomas of any Conference in Southern Methodism, and besides we have the only Efficient Epworthian Graduate in the church. I am listing below the record of Christian Culture diplomas, in order that you may see just where they are located. Read this list carefully and see where your District stands in regard to trained workers:

Alexandria District—(3) Miss Ruth Bryan, Alexandria, La., First Church; Miss Mary Lyles, Bunkie, La., Bunkie Church; Mr. J. P. Bond, Oakdale, La., Oakdale Church.

Baton Rouge District—(1) Miss Monita Goldsby, Amite, La., Amite Church.

Houma District (French Mission)—None.

Lake Charles District—None.

Monroe-Ruston District—(1) Miss Maida Green, West Monroe, La., West Monroe Church.

New Orleans District—(11) Miss Alma McNamara, New Oleans, La., Mary Werlein Mission; Miss Robina Vaught, Mandeville, La., Mandeville Church; Miss Emma Gessner, New Orleans, La., Second Church; Miss Laura Edwards, New Orleans, La., McDonoghville Church; Miss [illegible] Cayard, New Orleans, La., Algiers Church; Mr. Edgar Cav[illegible] New Orleans, La., Algiers Church; Mr. John Morris, New Orleans, La., Parker Memorial; Mr. Louis [illegible]pieman, New Orleans, La., Second Church; Miss Vivian Corbin, New Orleans, La., Parker Memorial; Miss Flo Dietz, New Orleans, La., Rayne Memorial; Mr. Leonard Nash, New Orleans, La., Algiers Church.

Shreveport District — (17) Miss Ruth Fraser, Mansfield, La., Mansfield Church; Mr. Joe Bobbitt, Mansfield, La., Mansfield Church; Miss Marion Hudson, Cedar Grove, La., Cedar Grove Church; Mr. Jas. B. Grambling, Shreveport, La., Mangham Memorial; Miss Louise McMeans, Shreveport, La., Mangham Memorial; Miss Mary Katharine Holder, Shreveport, La., Noel Memorial; Miss Doris Gump, Shreveport, La., Noel Memorial; Miss Annette Richardson, Shreveport, La., Noel Memorial; Mrs. Philip Munch, Shreveport, La., Noel Memorial; Mrs. Paul M. Brown, Jr., Shreveport, La., Noel Memorial; Miss Nena Collins, Shreveport, La., First Church; Miss Margaret Garland, Haynesville, La., Haynesville Church; Miss Maurice Garmany, Logansport, La., Logansport Church; Miss Mary Purcell, South Mansfield, La., South Mansfield Church; Miss Maude Nelson, Mansfield, La., Mansfield Church; Miss Marianna Alford, Bossier City, La., Bossier City Church; Miss Minnie Lee Craig, Vivian, La., Vivian Church.

Efficient Epworthian Degree—Miss Laura Edwards, New Orleans, La., McDonoghville Church.

Let us "Study to show ourselves approved unto God, a workman that needeth not to be ashamed."

When you organize your local chapter Study Class this winter, write Central Office and have them recommend a credit book. Have a live class and then take the Nashville examination and earn one unit to your C. C. D.

We as a State organization recommend the immediate study of Hudson's "Methodist Armor" in every chapter. This is a credit book. Don't forget our Goal, "Trained Workers."

Yours for Christ,
JAS. B. GRAMBLING,
Field Secretary.

Dodson's Liver Tone

Instead of Calomel

Calomel is quicksilver. It attacks the bones and paralyzes the liver. Your dealer sells each bottle of pleasant, harmless "Dodson's Liver Tone" under an ironclad, money-back guarantee that it will regulate the liver, stomach and bowels better than calomel, without sickening or salivating you—15 million bottles sold.—Adv.

"PUT THE BEST BEFORE YOUR GUEST"

Henry Clay Brand Coffee

NOT JUST ORDINARY COFFEE
IT IS BETTER
FOR SALE AT ALL FIRST CLASS GROCERS

WINTERSMITH'S CHILL TONIC SOLD 50 YEARS

If not sold by your druggist, write Wintersmith Chemical Co., Louisville, Ky.

CHAMBERLAIN'S COUGH REMEDY

FOR THE RELIEF OF
Coughs, Colds, Croup
WHOOPING COUGH, HOARSENESS
BRONCHITIS
-SOLD EVERYWHERE-

TETTERINE

ENDS COMPLEXION WORRIES.
Healing, Antiseptic, Soothing, Fragrant.
60c at your Druggist's, or from The
SHUPTRINE CO., SAVANNAH, GA

PILES Don't Be Cut
Until You Try This Wonderful Treatment

My internal method of treatment is the correct one, and is sanctioned by the best informed physicans and surgeons. Ointments, salves and other local applications give only temporary relief.

If you have piles in any form write for a FREE sample of Page's Pile Tablets and you will bless the day that you read this. Write today.

E. R. PAGE 430J Page Bldg., Marshall, Mich.

FREE BOOK ABOUT CANCER.

The Indianapolis Cancer Hospital, Indianapolis, Indiana, has published a booklet which gives interesting facts about the cause of Cancer, also tells what to do for pain, bleeding, odor, etc. A valuable guide in the management of any case. Write for it to-day, mentioning this paper.—Adv.

YOUNG GIRLS NEED CARE

Mothers, watch your Daughters' Health

Health Is Happiness

From the time a girl reaches the age of twelve until womanhood is established, she needs all the care a thoughtful mother can give.

The condition that the girl is then passing through is so critical, and may have such far-reaching effects upon her future happiness and health, that it is almost criminal for a mother or guardian to withhold counsel or advice.

Many a woman has suffered years of prolonged pain and misery through having been the victim of thoughtlessness or ignorance on the part of those who should have guarded her through the dangers and difficulties that beset this period.

Mothers should tell their girls what danger comes from standing around with cold wet feet, from lifting heavy weights, and from overworking. Don't let them over-study. If there is pain of headache, pains in the back and lower limbs, they need a mother's thoughtful care and sympathy.

Household Word in Mother's House writes Mrs. Lynd, about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"My mother gave me Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound when I was 14 years old for troubles girls often have and for loss of weight. Then after I married I took the Vegetable Compound before each child was born and always when I felt the least run-down. Both my sister and sister-in-law take it and have only the highest praise for it. It has been a household word in my mother's house for years." — Mrs. KATHERYN LYND, 2431 Gladys Ave., Chicago, Ill.

A Little Book Helped Her to Decide

Wankee, Wis.—"My daughter Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as she was so weak and did not feel like going to school. She was like that for a whole year before taking your Vegetable Compound. I found a little book of yours in our mail-box and decided to give her your medicine. She is now strong and well and attends school every day. We recommend your Vegetable Compound to all mothers with weak daughters. You may use this letter as a testimonial."—Mrs. E. KLUCZNY, 917 20th Ave., Milwaukee. Wis.

"I was always feeling tired and sleepy, was losing in weight and would faint at times. I had other troubles too, that made me feel badly. I read your little books and heard friends talk about the good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had done them, so I have taken it too. The results are most satisfactory, for I have gained in weight and my bad symptoms are gone. I recommend your Vegetable Compound to all my friends and you may make whatever use you like of this letter."—GLORIA RAMIREZ, 1116 9th Ave., Tampa, Florida.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Private Text-Book upon "Ailments Peculiar to Women" will be sent you free upon request. Write to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Massachusetts. This book contains valuable information.

LA BRANCH STREET, McCOMB.

The fourth quarterly conference of La Branch Street Church, McComb, Miss., was held Monday evening, Nov. 20, at 7 o'clock, with a splendid crowd of the membership assembled, also a number of visitors. Rev. G. H. Thompson of Centenary Church, Rev. J. A. Wells of Pearl River Avenue, and Rev. W. A. Terry of Summit were present.

The meeting was a success in every respect, as the reports were good and encouraging in every department of the Church work.

The report of the Woman's Missionary Society was excellent for so small a band of workers. God is surely leading them.

Mr. Alton McKnight was granted a recommendation for license to preach, and went before the Licensing Committee in Brookhaven on Tuesday. Two other young men, Messrs. Audrey Smith and William Morrow, are also preparing for the ministry. One young lady, Miss Anna Bowen Gillis, feels the call of God to the mission fields, and expects to prepare herself for the work. Seldom do we see God's blessings so lavishly poured out on our churches of to-day.

A committee was appointed to sell the parsonage property and purchase a lot and build a new parsonage, which is a good step in the right direction. They hope to begin work soon.

The stewards assured their pastor, Rev. A. S. Oliver, that he would have a full report to carry to Conference.

All present gave expression to the fact that this was the best quarterly conference that they had ever attended, and Brother B. S. Alford said that he has been going to quarterly conferences for nearly fifty years. Rev. H. M. Ellis, the presiding elder, observed that every one seemed to be in such good humor. A MEMBER.

A GOOD BEGINNING AT TUPELO.

Sunday, Nov. 19, was a great day for Methodism in Tupelo, Miss. The Memorial Service in honor of Dr. Belle H. Bennett had been postponed until the return of our pastor from the Annual Conference, and this service was held in the evening, while the 11 a.m. service was an outstanding one in interest and importance. The church was beautiful in its setting of ferns and white chrysanthemums, in honor of both services, and special music by a well trained choir featured each service.

A large crowd greeted our pastor, Rev. J. A. Hall, at the morning service, to listen to his first sermon of the Conference year, and it was an able and impressive one on the text Luke 22:27, "I am among you as he that serveth." At its close almost the entire audience responded to a call for better service during the coming year, and two new members were received into the church.

At the evening service, which was presided over by Mrs. J. H. Ledyard, president of the Woman's Missionary Society, beautiful and impressive music again featured the occasion, and tributes to the life and character of Miss Bennett were given by the two members of the church who had been associated with her in the Woman's Missionary Council, Mrs. Vic Thompson Hoyle and Mrs. T. M. Clark. Her favorite poem was read by Mrs. F. G. Camp, and her favorite songs were sung. At the close of this service two young women, Miss Regina Trapp and Miss Virginia Thomas, volunteered for life service. These young women are both teachers in the school here, and are college graduates. They make five volunteers from this church this year, while there were three in 1921, making a total of eight for the two years. Never before in the history of the church has there been such a religious awakening among its young life.

MRS. VIC THOMPSON HOYLE.

REVIVAL AT ELLISVILLE, MISS.

Dear Brother Carley: We have recently closed an eight-day revival at the Ellisville church, conducted by Rev. W. T. Griffin. The congregations from the beginning were unusually good and the interest increased until the last service. All of the sermons were good and those at the morning hour were unusually helpful to the Christian people who attended, while the services at night were strongly evangelistic and made a profound impression upon the young people of the community and those of the Agricultural High School located here. I have had Brother Griffin in three communities where conditions were altogether different from each other and his services have been most satisfactory in all three. Members are being received at the regular services following the meeting.

I am closing a rather active half-year at Ellisville. We are confident of reporting our benevolences in full. Much had been done before my coming in church and parsonage repair and furnishing, so that all the property of the church is in good shape. Brother Moore was a workman that needeth not to be ashamed.

Sincerely,

J. B. CAIN.

Prayer is the burden of a sigh,
The falling of a tear—
The upward glancing of an eye
When none but God is near.

—Montgomery.

Speak to him thou, for he hears, and spirit with spirit can meet;
Closer is he than breathing, and nearer than hands and feet.

—Tennyson.

Stamp collections and accumulations of old postage stamps, wanted for cash. Dr. Samuel Kleinman, 243 West 99th St., New York City.

For Troubled Nerves,

high blood pressure, dyspepsia, neuritis, investigate the new drugless methods now employed at DR. BIGGS' PRIVATE SANITARIUM, Asheville, North Carolina. A specialized treatment adapted to each individual. No tubercular cases accepted. Write for free booklet—interesting and instructive.

Renew your health by purifying your system with

Calotabs

TRADE MARK REG.

The purified and refined calomel tablets that are free from nausea and danger.

No salts necessary, as Calotabs act like calomel and salts combined. Demand the genuine in 10c and 35c packages, bearing above trade-mark.

WIN CASH $2000 IN PRIZES

Enjoy Yourself at the Same Time—COSTS NOTHING TO TRY—You Only Have to Solve a Very SIMPLE PUZZLE to Win $1000 IN CASH.

THE SOUTHERN FARM AND DAIRY

makes you the most liberal offer ever made by any Southern Farm Journal

HERE IS THE PROPOSITION

I.—Give the Names of the Five Following Southern Crops

1. My first syllable is a domestic animal; my second is a letter of the alphabet.
2. My first is slept on; my second is a weight.
3. My first is part of the foot; my second is another part of the body; my third stands for company.
4. My first part is a costly fabric; my second is slang for head.
5. My first is a spice; my second makes sweet sweeter and sour sourer.

EXAMPLE. The name of the domestic animal for the first syllable is "cow." The letter of the alphabet for the second syllable is "P." The name of the crop is "cowpea." The other four answers are equally simple crop names.

Each correct answer will count 10 points toward winning a prize. If you name all five crops correctly, as you can easily do, you have won 50 points in the contest.

II.—The other points for winning the prize are to be obtained as follows: Make the largest possible number of words from the letters composing the words: THE SOUTHERN FARM AND DAIRY.

RULES. Only nouns, names of objects, count. Words occurring in the above name of the paper will not count. Compound words may not be used. Letters may be used as many times in any single word as they occur in the words: THE SOUTHERN FARM AND DAIRY. Foreign or obsolete words may not be used. Words spelled alike but with different meanings may be used only once. Both singular and plural of the same word must not be used.

Write your answers on one side of paper only. Give crop names by number only. Number each word consecutively in your list. Write your name and address on the upper right hand corner of each sheet of paper used. Webster's Dictionary will be the final authority in judging. Competition is open to any one not connected with The Southern Farm and Dairy.

Prizes awarded to new subscribers to The Southern Farm and Dairy are larger than those offered to other persons. Therefore it is well worth while to qualify for the largest prizes by becoming a subscriber to the paper.

Every word in your list will count 1 point toward a prize. The total number of points made by words spelled added to the number of points obtained by naming the puzzle crops will constitute the total score of each contestant. The highest score wins the highest prize, and the next lower wins the next prize and so on down through the twenty-two prizes. In event of a tie for any prize offered, the full amount of the prize will be awarded to each tying contestant.

The final decision will be left to three competent judges who will be distinguished public officials of one or more states. Their decision will be announced in the February 1st issue of The Southern Farm and Dairy. All answers must be mailed not later than December 31, 1922.

Every person sending in a subscription with their reply will receive a reward on one simple condition. Here it is! With your reply (and subscription) send us the names of three owners of cows or persons who should be interested in a rural, farm or dairy paper.

For this service you will receive a valuable reward. The same will be mailed to you without further trouble or expense on your part.

THE PRIZES OFFERED:

	With No Cash Subscription	With $1.00 Cash For Three Year Subscription
First Prize	$10.00	$1,000.00
Second Prize	5.00	500.00
Third Prize	4.00	200.00
Fourth Prize	3.00	100.00
Fifth Prize	2.00	50.00
Sixth & Seventh Prizes—$1.50 each	3.00	$25.00 each 50.00
Eighth to Twelfth Prizes—$1.00 each	5.00	10.00 each 50.00
Thirteenth to Twenty-second Prizes—$0.50 each	5.00	5.00 each 50.00
Total		$2,000.00

THE SOUTHERN FARM AND DAIRY is one of the best farm and household papers in the entire country. It is the only paper in the South making the dairy interests of this section its leading feature. It is edited by Dr. H. E. Stockbridge, who made the SOUTHERN RURALIST a great paper. He has over and over been publicly proclaimed the best agricultural editor in this country. He has a national reputation as scientist, educator, writer and leader of practical farmers. He is now a member of the National Board of Farm Organizations. Associated with him is a competent staff of experts in every phase of agriculture, dairying and rural life.

If you cultivate a farm, a lot or a flowerbed; if you own a cow, chickens or other livestock; if you use milk, or its products, if you are a home maker; if you belong to an agricultural organization or club The Southern Farm and Dairy will help you and be worth many times its cost. It is published semi-monthly at 50c per year or $1.00 for 3 years.

All money should be sent by either Post Office or Express Money Order. Personal checks cannot be accepted.

GET BUSY! ENTER THE CONTEST; HAVE SOME FUN. SEND IN YOUR ANSWERS. WIN YOUR PRIZE. SEND $1.00 FOR SUBSCRIPTION AND QUALIFY FOR THE BIG PRIZES. ADDRESS THE SOUTHERN FARM AND DAIRY, ATLANTA, GA.

NEW ORLEANS

CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE

Vol. 69—No. 49. Official Organ of the Louisiana, Mississippi, and North Mi[ss]issippi Conferences, Methodist Episcopal Church, South. Whole No. 3487.

HENRY T. CARLEY, Editor. NEW ORLEANS, LA., THU[R]SDAY, DECEMBER 7, 1922. CHAS. O. CHALMERS, Manager.

Proceedings of the Mississippi Annual Conference.

FIRST DAY.

The one hundred and ninth session of the Mississippi Annual Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, convened in the Methodist church at Crystal Springs, Miss., at 9 o'clock a.m., Thursday, November 30, 1922, Bishop William N. Ainsworth presiding. Hymn No. 560 was sung, Bishop Ainsworth led the Conference in prayer and read a Scripture lesson from the fourth chapter of the Second Epistle to the Corinthians. The Bishop also read extracts from John Wesley's writings on the conduct of preachers, and spoke to the Conference relative to the work of the session.

The secretary of the previous Conference called the roll, and most of the clerical and many of the lay delegates answered to their names. On nomination, A. F. Watkins was elected secretary; G. S. Harmon and Claude P. Jones were elected assistant secretaries; John D. Ellis, C. E. Downer, and S. F. Harkey were elected statistical secretaries; C. F. Emery was elected railroad secretary for the quadrennium.

The bar of the Conference was fixed to include the auditorium of the church, and the hours of meeting and adjourning were fixed at 9 o'clock a.m. and 12:30 p.m.

The roll of districts was called for suhstitutions of alternate lay delegates, and the following substitutions were made: in the Meridian District, N. D. Chatham in place of C. W. Cochran; in the Seashore District, Mrs. H. W. Featherstun in place of T. S. Ford; in the Vicksburg District, Mrs. Paulne Sharbrough in place of Mrs. Z. D. Clark.

Miss Clara Mortimer was presented to the Conference; she spoke words of welcome, and, on behalf of the Woman's Missionary Society, presented Bishop Ainsworth with a gavel made from a piece of timber taken from the historic old church building which formerly stood upon the site now occupied by the handsome new church, in which three sessions of the Mississippi Annual Conference were held. The Bishop accepted the gavel with appropriate remarks.

Conference Committtees.

On nomination of the presiding elders, the following Standing Committees were elected:

State of the Church—M. B. Sharbrough, C. M. Crossley, W. W. Nelson, H. M. Johnson, J. L. Decell, T. B. Winstead, C. F. Emery, Mrs. H. M. Ellis, M. M. Satterfield, C. E. Bennett, H. Ogden, C. G. Stokes, W. A. Davenport, J. C. Hardy.

Conference Relations—J. T. Leggett, F. B. Ormond, A. A. Sims, T. H. King, J. F. McClelland, J. H. Grice, C. A. Schultz.

Sabbath Ohservance—George H. Thompson, F. L. Applewhite, I. O. Brown, W. C. Mabry, C. Y. Higginbotham, H. S. Westbrook, O. S. Lewis, John H. Green, A. M. Broadfoot, Mrs. T. B. Cottrell, H. B. Rush, Mrs. R. W. Hare, John A. McLeod, A. Joe Beasley.

District Conference Records—J. T. Abney, W. L. Blackwell, J. S. Decell, H. V. Waits, J. H. Jolly, H. O. Middleton, J. H. Currie, J. W. Price, M. A. Massey, S. W. Sharbrough, T. A. Rawls, J. M. Corley, M. K. Miller, J. J. Houston.

Orphans' Home—W. D. Davis, Miss Bessie Hardee, C. P. Jones, L. L. Roberts, Jas. Hand, J. A. Lindsey, J. F. [W]atson, Rolfe Hunt, D. R. Weston, R. E. Rutled[ge], R. H. Clegg, W. H. Jones, W. S. F. Tatum, [A]. M. Ainsworth.

Memoirs—B. F. Jon[es], J. E. J. Ferguson, L. Carley, J. W. Ramsey, H. A. Wood, J. G. Galloway, L. A. Darsey.

Admissions—W. H. [H]untley, N. B. Harmon, H. L. Norton, J. H. F[i]sman, W. W. Moore, P. H. Grice, J. W. Thompso[n].

On motion, the pres[i]ng elders were authorized to nominate a Hosp[ital] Board for the quadrennium, consisting of [on]e preacher and one layman from each presi[ding] elder's district.

Various communic[ati]ons were referred, without reading, to appropriate hoards and committees.

The Bishop requested that a blackboard be placed at a convenient p[la]ce, upon which notices, telegrams, and other m[at]ter could be p[os]ted, obviating a public call.

Question 21, "Are all t[he] preachers blameless in their life and official [a]dministrati[on]" was called. The names of the [fo]llowing were called, they reported their work, [and] their characters were passed: H. M. Ellis, p[re]siding elder of the Brookhaven District; W. [H.] G[ib]s, presiding elder of the Hattieshurg Di[st]rict; J. L. Burton, presiding elder of the Jack[son] District; P. D. Hardin, presiding elder of the Meridian District; J. A. Moore, presiding elder of the Newton District; W. M. Sullivan, presiding elder of the Seashore District; J. R. Jones, presiding elder of the Vicksburg District.

The folowing were passed in examination of character, several of them addressed the Conference, and their names were referred to the Committee on Conference Relations for the superannuate relation: Ira B. Rohertson, R. Bradley, L. Carley, J. T. Nicholson, W. W. Cammack, R. F. Witt, J. W. Brown, G. R. Ellis, G. W. Huff, E. D. Phillips, C. M. Martin, W. D. Dominick, B. H. Rawls, C. T. Noble, J. B. King, I. L. Peebles, C. H. Ellis, H. B. Perritt. Bishop Ainsworth addressed these veterans in appropriate words, "I am Bound for the Promised Land" was sung, and the members of the Conference gathered about them and gave them affectionate greeting.

The names of T. W. Adams, J. M. Massey, and R. H. Barr were called, it was announced that they had died during the year, and their names were referred to the Committee on Memoirs.

Bishop Ainsworth stated that he had invited Rev. Arthur J. Moore, pastor of the Travis Park Church, San Antonio, Texas, formerly one of the general evangelists of the church, to be present and to preach at a suitable hour each day. He also announced that Dr. Moore would preach the Thanksgiving sermon at the close of the morning session, after which the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper would be administered.

Announcements, and calls for meetings of the various boards and committees were made. The Committee on Puhlic Worship announced that Dr. Moore would preach at 3 o'clock p.m., and that the Board of Education and the Sunday School Board would ohserve their anniversaries at 7:30 o'clock.

The following were presented to the Conference: Rev. Mark N. Terrell, one of the general evangelists; Rev. H. W. Stough, an evangelist from Chicago; Dr. R. H. Bennett, of the Department of Mnisterial Supply and Training; Rev. Percy Vaughan, of the Arkansas Conference; Miss Minnie Kennedy, of the General Sunday School Board; Rev. B. P. Jaco, [qu]itenary Secretary of the North Mississippi C[on]ference; C. O. Chalmers, Business Manager [of] the New Orleans Christian Advocate; Pres[ident] Joe Cook, of the Mississippi State Normal [Co]llege; Rev. E. K. Means, transferred at th[e] last session of the Conference from the Louis[iana] Conference; Rev. A. J. Leggett, of the Metho[dist] Protestant Church in Mississippi.

The Conference listened [to] a sermon hy Dr. Moore from the text, Josh[ua] 24:13-14, the Sacrament of the Lord's Suppe[r] was administered by Bishop Ainsworth, assiste[d] by Mark N. Terrell, K. Means, P. D. Hardin and J. R. Jones, and Conference adjourned [wi]th the benediction the Bishop.

SECOND [DA]Y.

The second day's sessi[on] was called to order h[ere] Bishop Ainsworth pro[mp]tly at nine o'clock a[.m.] The devotional exer[cis]es, conducted by the Bi[sho]p, consisted of the s[ing]ing of hymn No. 492, pri[ye]r led by W. H. Hu[ey], the reading of a Scr[ip]ture lesson from 1[st] Corinthians 5, and appro[pri]ate remarks by the [Bis]hop.

Th[e] minutes of the fi[rst] day's session were read [an]d approved. The [ro]ll of absentees from the fi[rst] day's session was [ca]lled, and, on motion, furth[er] calling of the roll [wa]s dispensed with.

Bis[hop] W. B. Beauch[amp], recently returned from [Eu]rope, was presen[ted] to the Conference. Later [in] the session Bish[op] Beauchamp addressed the C[on]ference concerning [th]e work of the church in Eu[rope].

Rep[ort] No. 1 of the B[oa]rd of Missions and the report [of] the Legal Cor[mi]ttee of Port Gibson Female [C]ollege were rea[d] and adopted.

Dr. J. P. Wilson, rep[re]senting the Puhlishing House, [wa]s presented t[o] the Conference, and he spoke c[on]cerning his w[or]k.

J. G. [Ca]lloway and W. T. Griffin were appointed "[ta]lk secreta[ri]es" to prepare the blackboards c[on]taining the reports from the districts.

A resol[uti]on concer[ni]ng the establishing of a Methodist [he]adquarte[rs] in Jackson was read and referred to a special [co]mmittee consisting of one representati[ve] from each presiding elder's district.

The report of the [Se]ashore Divinity School was read and received; the report of the Board of Directors of the Methodist Orphans' Home was read and referred to the Committee on Orphans' Home; the report of the editors of the Conference Journal was read and received; the report of the Mortmain Committee was read and referred to the Board of Education.

On motion, the Conference Treasurer was instructed to pay a $25 expenso item incurred by the Legal Committee of Port Gibson Female College.

The Bishop announced the following committee to act under the resolution concerning the establishing of church headquarters in Jackson: W. H. Lewis, H. F. Tolle, W. S. F. Tatum, J. L. Decell, H. J. Moore, M. B. Sharbrough, C. C. Evans.

Question 17, "What traveling preachers and what local preachers have been elected deacons?" was called, and John C. Jackson, L. J. Snelgrove, Martin L. McCormick, and T. C. Cooper, having stood an approved examination on the Course of Study, were elected to deacon's orders and advanced to the Class of the Third Year. None was elected to local deacon's orders.

(Continued on Fourth Page)

New Orleans Christian Advocate

OFFICE, No. 512 CAMP STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

Published every Thursday by the Publishing Committee for the Louisiana, Mississippi, and North Mississippi Conferences, Methodist Episcopal Church, South.

Entered at the Postoffice at New Orleans as Second-class Mail Matter. Accepted for mailing at special rate of postage provided for in Section 1103, Act of Oct. 3, 1917, authorized Oct. 30, 1918.

TERMS:

Subscription Rates: One year, $2.00; six months, $1.

To superannuates and widows of preachers, $1.

TO CONTRIBUTORS.

All copy submitted for publication should be legibly written on one side of the paper with pen and ink, or typewritten. Matters written with a lead pencil and rolled manuscripts are unacceptable. No copy will be returned unless postage is enclosed for that purpose. In no case will responsibility be assumed for the loss or non-return of articles—the writers should keep copies of them. We do not purchase matter of any kind.

A SUPERANNUATE RUNNING AROUND.

By Rev. T. W. Adams.

(This article was in type before Brother Adams was called to his reward. Many tender memories of this good man will crowd in upon many of our readers as they peruse these lines.—Editor.)

The third Sunday in October was spent by me in Canton, Miss., on closing my visit to Yazoo County. I have some kinfolks living there whom I love to see. I was reared in Madison County, and married there nearly forty-eight years ago. By the old Sharon circuit I was sent up to the Mississippi Conference with recommendation for admission on trial. These things greatly endear me to that county, and to Canton, its county town. I always enjoy a visit there, however short it may be. On this occasion I visited my kinfolks, and preached twice for the pastor, my good friend, Rev. H. A. Gatlin. That was a full day's work. In the afternoon, I rode out in a car to see my sister, Mrs. W. I. Smith, and spent about two hours with her family. Her home is twelve miles from Canton. I found Gatlin very much absorbed in his new church building.

When completed, this church will be one of the handsomest in the Conference. It will cost about sixty thousand dollars. It is a wonder to me how a building so commodious and so beautiful can be built at such a cost. It will be a most magnificent tribute to the zeal and liberality of the Methodism of Canton. The congregation had outgrown the old frame building, and a new up-to-date building to accommodate the rapidly growing membership and to give them their rightful standing in their prosperous little city was needed. In this handsome new church they will have all of their needs fully met. The building will be a splendid monument to Brother Gatlin's wisdom in planning, and his indomitable will to do. By the way, Gatlin is a great success at this kind of work. In his last pastorate, when at Tylertown, he succeeded in building a handsome church that is a great credit to that town. Gatlin is a great success in leading his churches in the important work of providing for themselves suitable houses of worship. This is a great work, worthy of any preachers' best efforts. There are not many of us gifted in this way. The ones who do succeed in it are apt to be put where much of it is needed to be done. Gatlin is in danger when his time comes to leave Canton. In my imagination I can see him about three years from now wrought up over building plans and blue prints. Look out, friend Gatlin!

Gatlin is now using the hall of the public school building for preaching services. It is well to have a place to use, but it is mighty uncomfortable work to preach where your congregation is lined up before you in rows, two on a little narrow desk seat. I know, for I tried it. I am sure that Gatlin will be glad when he can preach in his beautiful new church. May it be soon! I think that I might have preached a little longer sermon if we had been holding services in the new church. As we were all uncomfortable, I could not afford to preach longer than one hour and a half. I was unwilling to impose too much on the patience of my congregation. I am persuaded, however, that not a soul in my congregation found fault with me for not preaching a longer sermon. I wouldn't be surprised to learn that some of them would have been perfectly willing for me to have made the sermon a little bit shorter. It is very hard to please everybody. In preaching I never try to please anybody, but try my best to please the Lord.

About two weeks later, my nephew, Hon. Frank P. Smith, was taken desperately ill of pneumonia, and I was called back to Canton. He lingered for more than a week and died on Tuesday morning, the 12th instant. He was my sister's eldest son and was an honorable man. At the age of 35 years he was elected sheriff of Madison County over four other candidates seeking the same office. The men opposing him were strong and popular men. From this fact, his winning was a notable achievement. He had a wide circle of devoted friends. He was nearly ending his third year in this important office, in which he had given exceptionally fine service. As a public officer he had made an enviable reputation for courage and faithfulness. He will be greatly missed in the county. He was a manly and upright citizen. His was the first death in my sister's family. The bereavement to her and the entire family was almost more than they could bear. Frank left a dear good wife and a sweet little daughter of three years. To me, personally, his death was an added sorrow. In the last five months death has invaded my circle three times—taking away my dear wife, my only brother, and my eldest nephew. Since last June I have felt as if I were living in a cemetery. When will the clouds be lifted, and I can see the sunshine to gladden my heart! It is human to die, but that we must all die doesn't assuage the grief when it comes. Our prayer is for grace to sustain us in these hours of sorrow.

During the illness of my nephew I went to the Shiloh Camp Ground to fill an engagement I had with my young friend, Rev. Paul Grice, the popular pastor of the Johns charge, to preach for him at 11 o'clock Sunday morning. It was a great day at Shiloh. It was an all-day meeting occasion. In the afternoon the Flying Squadron from Jackson held a meeting, lasting two hours and a half. There were many hundreds of people present and every one's interest in the services was held fast from beginning to the end. It was a rare treat to attend a meeting in which the presence and power of the spirit was so manifest. The leaders in this great work are some of the most forceful men in the public life of the city of Jackson. The leader of the Squadron is the Hon. Julian Alexander, a brilliant young lawyer, the gifted son of the late Hon. C. H. Alexander, who was for many years the great leader in all moral and civic movements in Mississippi. In his leadership in the great prohibition campaigns, he greatly distinguished himself. He was a great Mississippian, and gave largely of his time and brilliant intellect to promote the best interests of his native State. The son is now honoring his father by devoting much of his time in leading the activities of the Christian forces of the laity of Jackson. Hon Fred Sullens is a very active and gifted member of the Flying Squadron. Mr. Sullens is, without doubt, the most brilliant newspaper man in Mississippi. Having gotten a genuine case of the old-time religion in the Gipsy Smith meeting, held several months ago in Jackson, is now a flaming evangelist in a layman's way. No one who hears him can doubt his sincerity. In giving his testimony, one easily catches the ring of the genuine. It is wonderful to see these busy laymen drop their work and go from place to place bearing personal testimony to the saving grace of God. The meeting at Shiloh was full of power, and the fruits of it will show for good to that section for years to come. It was truly a very great day.

The Shiloh community is one of the best in the State, having a homogenous population. There are no hyphenates to be found. The people are all 100 per cent Americans. They are American in birth ideals and traditions. The homes are full of young Americans. If all the country were like Shiloh, there would be no danger of an exhausted population. All honor and praise to Shiloh! Long life and great success to her!

I left Shiloh a little after 5 o'clock and drove to Canton, going through Jackson, and got there about 9 o'clock. The trip was about fifty miles. Mr. Patterson, of Jackson, very kindly carried me in his car the entire trip. We stopped at Mr. Patterson's home, rested about an hour and got a good cup of coffee. I shall never forget the great kindness of this hospitable and obliging family. May the Lord greatly bless them! We sometimes find angels unawares.

I am now at home, trying to recuperate from my strenuous trip. It was almost too much for me. The old man must go more moderately, or he will fall by the wayside. I have gone in such a rush for so long a time, Henry, that I just don't know how to slow down. I find it a hard thing to change my gait. I make a whole lot of good resolutions, but I can't keep them all. I don't know what to do about it.

Brookhaven, Miss.

NATIVE CHURCH LIFE IN THE CONGO.

By H. P. Anker.

Not so entertaining and interesting perhaps as some subjects is the presentation of this phase of the work in our Mission, namely—the regulation of church life in the Congo. Yet this relates to the heart of the work. No matter how much we may prosper and grow along other lines of activity and work among the natives, failure in this sphere of the work means failure in winning souls, which ought to be, and we trust is, our great objective. The attention to all matters of native church life, therefore, should receive the missionaries' best efforts of mind and heart at all times. This work means constant labor; the preaching of the Word of God out on the path and in our churches; the continual oversight of church members, and the ceaseless endeavor to make Christ attractive to naturally a spiritually dull people. There is not so much glamour and romance attached to this work as is sometimes imagined, but we can say, as Paul said, "The love of Christ constraineth us."

Some one has ridiculed all missionary work in heathen lands and pictured a missionary with a Bible, a hymn book, and an umbrella standing under a solitary palm tree trying to say something to a little crowd of cannibals grouped before him. While some of us have frequently stood under a tree for lack of a church shed in which to preach, our experiences have been greatly different from that picture and a great deal more varied. Nowhere can Christianity be made more practical and lived more openly before men than in a mission field such as this. Some days it means feeding the hungry and providing for the helpless; some days it means to redeem a slave from his master; some days to straighten out a family quarrel, and sometimes to help make a coffin of rough boards and conduct a funeral at the native cemetery. The door of the missionary who would win souls must always be open to those who come with their needs and appeals and we suppose that as many natives are won to Christ by little deeds of assistance and kindness on the missionary's part as by the formal preaching of the Gospel.

To give a little idea of church life in our Congo work, we will describe rather briefly the following three points—Our Rules for Church Membership, Church Discipline, and Church Organization. Some of the rules and practices which guide us in the present may not be permanent, as many of these matters naturally are still in an experimental stage in a Mission as young as ours.

Rules For Becoming Church Members.

The first thing the native enquirer is asked to do is to attend the Catechism class until he or she is able to answer the questions asked therein. On our station at Wembo Nyama there are two such classes of the same kind held daily, offering two chances to any and all who may desire to become Christians. The times for these classes are so arranged that all Mission workmen, students and villagers have opportunity to attend either one or both of them. The Catechism used consists of 122 simple questions and answers to them, explaining very briefly and simply rudiments of the plan of salvation. The leading native evangelists residing at the various stations, as well as those located in outpost work, always conduct these classes and not the missionaries themselves. The method of teaching these classes is for the leader to go through the book asking the questions and having the entire class answer in concert to each question.

The average native who faithfully attends these classes soon knows the Catechism by heart and upon examination can answer every question by himself. Once or twice each month the evangelists test out the members of their classes to see if any have learned the entire book. Now and then there are elderly or real stupid people in these classes and they are of course passed if they have given ample evidence of their desire to learn.

Christian people in the homeland might wonder why we impose such a rule upon the natives who desire to accept Christ, and say that Jesus himself did not teach any such test. But they must remember that enlightenment goes hand in hand with conviction and repentance. The native must be told what repentance is and what to repent from before he can really intelligently do so. One day after preaching an evangelistic sermon in our church here, we asked all those who wanted to accept Christ to raise their hands. A number did so. Later we discovered that that meant nothing to their minds except that perhaps some day they would want to be saved and that they did not desire to be lost eternally. One man in particular we remember, who raised his hand and did not become a church member as long as we had charge of the work. A few other experiences of this kind taught us that Billy Sunday's methods would not do here. Teaching the native enquirer the Cathechism is necessary, it seems, first of all in order to help them understand what the "Palaver of God" really involves. Furthermore it is a pretty good test of a native's sincerity and anxiety to be saved for him or her to come day after day at some personal inconvenience and sacrifice to the Catechism. A test like this in some of our American churches would sift out some of the false from the true who had slipped in by a handshake or a Decision Day rally.

After the seeker has graduated from the Catechism class he is enrolled as a Probationer. The law of our church here is that a native must be on probation for a period of no less than six months after completing the Catechism class work. During this time he is supposed to tithe, show evidences of sincerity or purpose and change of heart before he can be baptized. If he gets into "a bad palaver" as his sin is often designated here, his period of probation of course is extended. In the early years of our Mission work here we had no such rule. The natives began to get the idea that knowing the Catechism mentally meant automatically that they should be baptized. They would come to us and say, "Now I know the Catechism, when do I receive baptism?" So, to correct this prevailing opinion in the simple minds of the natives, that baptism was simultaneous with completing Catechism—this rule of probation was adopted in 1918. We would like to see more results from the probation period but believe that it has had some effect in counteracting this native idea. Some of our stations have classes for probationers at which the missionary himself gives weekly instruction on vital matters of Christian living.

Another rule that has come into effect here is that the candidate for baptism must be in the First Reader class as known here, i.e., having completed syllable and letter classwork. In other words, he must show some desire to learn to read the Word of God for himself. Without this rule, we found that many who were in a position to learn made no attempt at all to attend school and made lazy, ignorant Christians.

Other Missions in the Congo have been compelled to do likewise. Here again as in the matter of Rule 1, due allowances are made for those unable to learn.

Tithing is another requirement asked of the native who would enter the native church body. We believe that this rule is entirely in harmony with the teachings of the Scriptures. We believe it is well to have this requirement in effect as a definite rule rather than appealing to the generosity of the native in the matter of giving. The African church member is like a child and cannot be expected to give because of generous motives, or high ideals such as may govern those who have long known the Gospel. The collection of the tithe here means no little effort and time spent by the missionaries in charge. If the native woman has a farm and her husband is otherwise employed, they both tithe separately of their earnings. The American Presbyterian Mission has long had a rule that no man could be a member of their native church body unless he worked or had a farm. This was to break up the native custom of the woman only working while the husband took life easy at home.

Besides these definite requirements, the native of course is expected to give up polygamy, his fetishes and idols and whatever customs or worship or conduct which are taught as sinful and detrimental to his Christian experience. Some have gone through real sacrifices in matters of this kind. Some of our strongest native Christians here, such as Kimbulu and Fadiala for example, are men who have given up other wives to become baptized. Quite recently one of the head men of Chief Wembo Nyama's village gave up all but one wife and wanted to come to school and become an evangelist even at the rather advanced age of about 50 years, or over. It may seem to some that such standards as these for church membership are unnecessarily high, but the experiences of older Missions have been that when lower standards have been adopted sooner or later failure has resulted in keeping a live church. Rapid baptism with inadequate teaching and consecration is always at the risk of subsequent apostasy. Simply calling a man a Christian and reporting him as such to the Home Board does not make him one. Careful training is necessary, especially in working with such raw material as the African native.

Discipline in the Native Church.

Here again we may seem to be more strict and severe than is the church in the homeland, and well we may be these days. In many individual churches in the homeland, church discipline is extinct and members live as they please while retaining their official good standing in the church. Such policy would work havoc with the native church, the same as it is slowly doing in the homeland wherever allowed. Sin being exposed, it must be dealt with or the standard of church membership is at once lowered and it is exceedingly difficult to raise it again. We cannot go into detail on this subject, but it is exceedingly interesting. At our next Mission meeting we shall probably plan more definitely as to modes of discipline to be used for the various common offences in the native church.

Before Communion day services, the missionary in charge of that department has what we might almost call a "Protestant Confessional." Natives confess their grievances and faults before the stewards of the church and the missionary. Each case is handled separately. Oftentimes public confessions of guilt are made at a prayer meeting or preparatory services before Communion Sunday.

Oftentimes it is thought best for members not to partake of the Lord's Supper when they are guilty of gross sins. Commonest of causes which prevent the native from partaking of Communion are perhaps cases of immorality and failure to tithe. Our African Christian falls very easily into sin oftentimes, but one virtue that he has is that he is usually quite willing to make amends and confess his sin. If he has had a quarrel with a friend or neighbor, he will go and make up with him in a real forgiving spirit such as would sometimes shame American Christians.

Church Government.

While we read with interest of native churches in other lands becoming self-supporting and self-governing, such a day we believe is still quite distant in our church in this field. Self government in Africa is hard to attain, as experiences in West Coast colonies have proved. Still if the tribe with whom we are working is to be won for Christ, it must be through the natives themselves largely that this is to be done. On our older stations we have organized some form of native government in the church. Here at Wembo Nyama we have five stewards—guardians, is the translation of their native name. These stewards or guardians reside in different sections of the village and meet regularly with the missionary in charge to handle all church matters. One of them serves as treasurer and keeps a record of all tithes and monies collected, another keeps a record of attendances at the various religious services on the station, while still another is really doing work as a presiding elder of this district. He visits the churches in the outposts, drops in on the evangelists unexpectedly, checks up on their work, and collects tithes. So we have the steward idea working and a beginning of the presiding elder system, which ought to develop quite fully within another year at this station.

In line with this subject, there is one wrong conception that people often have in the homeland and that is that converts are gained and kept with ease and that they all make wonderful Christians. We, too, in the homeland sometimes had the idea that if the raw heathen only heard the Gospel presented a few times, they would at once welcome and receive it. But we had not reckoned with the power of Satan and the chains of custom and habit. Another African missionary has written: "When out itinerating, usually not many heathen will attend our services excepting as we go to them with pressing invitations. As we try to tell them of Jesus, they look at us and perhaps will answer, 'Oh that is for white people, not for us.'" Some people in Wembo Nyama's village would not walk across the street to hear the Gospel preached. Yet this, as the Scriptures tell us, will be true wherever the Gospel is presented. "To the one we are the saviour of death unto death; and to the other the saviour of life unto life." Converts are not too easily gained and often we are discouraged by the fall of some upon whom we had counted the most. In times of sickness or moral weakness the old superstitious ideas often reassert themselves.

Two other matters of absolute importance have been brought to our attention. One is that the missionary himself must live the Christ he presents to the native; his Gospel for the African must be the Gospel for himself, too. The other matter is, the absolute futility of winning souls from heathenism in our own strength, with education, advanced methods, organization, etc. We must feel our dependence upon the Holy Spirit. It must be through His power that we are to work and not our own. "Not by might nor by power, but by my Spirit, saith the Lord of Hosts."

Wembo Nyama, Congo Belge

LIKE CHRIST.

To become like Christ is the only thing in the world worth caring for, the thing before which every ambition of man is folly, and all lower achievement vain. Those only who make this quest the supreme desire and passion of their lives can ever begin to hope to reach it. • • •

The image of Christ that is forming within us—that is life's one charge. Let every project stand aside for that. "Till Christ be formed" no man's work is finished, no religion crowned, no life has fulfilled its end. Is the infinite task begun? When, how, are we to be different? Time cannot change men. Death cannot change men. Christ can. Wherefore put on Christ.—Drummond.

Watch: What I say unto you I say unto all, Watch.—Mark 13:37.

PROCEEDINGS OF THE MISSISSIPPI ANNUAL CONFERENCE.

(Continued From Page 1)

Question 4, "Who else is in the Class of the Second Year?" was called. Warren N. Ware was passed in examination of character and continued in the Class of the Second Year.

Question 3, "Who remain on trial?" was called. A. J. Boyles, B. M. Hunt, D. P. Yeager, G. L. McNeese, E. A. King, and W. C. M. Baggett, having stood an approved examination on the Course of Study, were passed in examination of character and advanced to the Class of the Second Year.

Question 5, "Who are discontinued?" was called and, on motion of the presiding elder of the Jackson District, J. W. O'Neil was discontinued.

Question 2, "Who else is in the Class of the First Year?" was called, and Van R. Landrum was passed in examination of character and continued in the Class of the First Year.

Question 19, "What traveling preachers and what local preachers have been elected elders?" was called. John B. Stringer, having passed an approved examination, was passed in examination of character and elected to elder's orders. Robert B. McGehee, duly recommended by the Seashore District, was elected to local elder's orders.

Question 16, "Who else is in the Class of the Fourth Year?" was called, and Thomas M. Ainsworth was passed in examination of character and continued in the Class of the Fourth Year.

Question 15, "Who are the deacons of one year?" was called. John L. Carter, I. H. Sells, and John L. Ferguson, Jr., having passed an approved examination on the Course of Study, were passed in examination of character and advanced to the Class of the Fourth Year.

Question 7, "Who else is in the class of the Third Year?" was called. S. W. Johnson, B. H. Williams, L. M. Sharp, M. K. Miller, Otto Porter, E. M. Allen, and J. F. Watson were passed in examination of character and continued in the Class of the Third Year.

Dr. Luther E. Todd, Secretary of the General Board of Finance, was presented, and he addressed the Conference concerning his work; Miss Minnie Kennedy, of the General Sunday School Board, was presented, and she addressed the Conference; Prof. G. L. Morelock, Secretary of the General Board of Lay Activities, was presented, and he addressed the Conference.

Announcements, and calls for meetings of boards and committees were made. It was announced that Dr. A. J. Moore would preach at 3 o'clock p.m., and that the Board of Missions would observe its anniversary at 7:30 o'clock, with addresses by Bishop W. B. Beauchamp and Dr. G. C. Hounshell. Bishop Ainsworth announced that the class for full connection would be received at 11 o'clock on Saturday morning.

The following were presented to the Conference: Dr. G. C. Hounshell, of the Board of Missions; Mrs. Alma G. Riley, Field Secretary of the Orphanage; Rev. J. P. Harrington, pastor of the local Baptist church; Revs. R. P. Neblett, E. H. Cunningham, and W. C. Galceran, of the North Mississippi Conference.

Bishop Ainsworth presented Mr. W. D. Hawkins, Centenary Secretary-Treasurer of the Conference, who made a report of his year's work. Following his report, Bishop Beauchamp and Bishop Ainsworth spoke concerning this great interest.

The doxology was sung and the Conference adjourned with the benediction pronounced by Bishop Beauchamp.

THIRD DAY—MORNING SESSION.

The Conference convened promptly at nine o'clock, with Bishop Ainsworth in the chair. The devotional exercises, conducted by the Bishop, consisted of singing hymn No. 489, reading of Psalm 46 responsively, and prayer led by J. M. Moore.

The minutes of the previous day's session were read and approved.

Question 21, "Are all the preachers blameless in their life and official administration?" was answered. The names of all the preachers of the Jackson District were called, their reports were presented on the blackboard, and their characters were passed.

Question 18, "Who are received from other churches as traveling preachers?" was called. Rev. Albert Jackson Leggett in elder's orders, was received from the Methodist Protestant Church after he had satisfied his willingness to accept the ordination vows without the reimposition of hands.

Question 21 was resumed. The names of all the preachers in the Vicksburg District were called, their reports were presented on the blackboard, and their characters were passed.

Question 1, "Who are admitted on trial?" was called. The following having met all discipline requirements, were admitted on trial: Charles Warren Weaks, from the Jackson District; Jim Cecil Jackson Burnham, from the Greenwood District; Hoke Hunt, from the Vicksburg District; Albert Enoch Methvin and Harvey Judson Hubbs, from the Meridian District, and Nicholas Smuts Loftus, from the Vicksburg District, having met all other requirements, but not being up to the educational standard, were admitted on trial by the necessary two-thirds vote.

The report of the Committee on the Lambuth Monument was read and received, and the report of the Trustees of Port Gibson Female College was referred, without reading, to the Board of Education.

On motion, the secretary of the Conference was requested to send a telegram of sympathy to the family of Dr. Luther Sexton, who died yesterday in New Orleans, and who is to be buried to-day at Hazlehurst. Dr. Sexton, himself a Methodist, was a brother of Hon. J. S. Sexton, an honored layman of Hazlehurst.

Question 21 was resumed. The names of all the preachers of the Meridian District were called, their reports were presented on the blackboard, and their characters were passed.

Rev. Crawford Jackson, of Atlanta, Ga., connected with the Juvenile Protective Association of the South, was presented and he addressed the Conference; Prof. Will Jacobs, Superintendent of the Mississippi Industrial and Training School, at Columbia, was presented, and he addressed the Conference.

Bishop Ainsworth announced that a great Conference on Home Missions and Evangelism for Mississippi Methodism would be held at Jackson, January 16-17, 1923, and urged a large attendance. He stated that many outstanding leaders in the religious world would be there, and that it was desired to have an attendance of all the preachers, and at least five laymen from all charges with fewer than five hundred members, and ten laymen from all charges with more than five hundred members. The Bishop also urged the Conference and the Board of Missions to provide for at least three evangelists for needy rural fields. A motion to support the Bishop in all the plans outlined was adopted by a rising vote.

Report No. 2 of the Board of Missions was read and referred to the Commission on Finance; the report of the trustees of the Methodist Hospital was read and adopted. The report recommended the appointment of Rev. W. B. Jones as financial agent for the Hospital at Hattiesburg. In connection with the report, Mr. W. S. F. Tatum stated that he and his wife would care for, in the the Methodist Hospital, curable afflicted children between the ages of 8 and 18 who could not otherwise be provided for. A standing vote of thanks was tendered Mr. and Mrs. Tatum for their generous offer.

A delightful feature of the Conference at this point was the rendition of a vocal selection by a quartet of young ladies from Whitworth College, with violin accompaniment.

Question 6, "Who are admitted into full connection?" was called. John Carl Jackson, Lemuel John Snelgrove, Martin Luther McCormick, and Thomas Commander Cooper were called to the chancel, charged by the Bishop, and, having met all disciplinary requirements, were admitted by vote of the Conference into full connection.

A motion that when the Conference adjourn it adjourn to meet at 3 o'clock in the afternoon was adopted.

Upon request, leave of absence was granted to W. S. F. Tatum.

Announcements and calls for meetings of boards and committees were made.

The following were presented to the Conference: H. T. Carley, editor of the New Orleans Christian Advocate; Rev. J. E. Stephens, of the North Mississippi Conference, a member of the faculty of Grenada College; Rev. R. E. Simpson, of the North Arkansas Conference; President Hogg, of Port Gibson Female College; Rev. L. H. Estes, of the Memphis Conference, representing the General Hospital Board; President J. R. Countiss, of Grenada College, a member of the North Mississippi Conference; Mrs. Gayle C. Bennland, formerly Miss Lillian Williams, daughter of W. M. Williams, an honored member of the Mississippi Conference, now a missionary of the Presbyterian Church in Africa.

The Conference adjourned with the benediction pronounced by H. T. Carley.

THIRD DAY—AFTERNOON SESSION.

The Conference met promptly at three o'clock, Bishop Ainsworth in the chair. The devotional exercises consisted of singing hymn No 317, and prayer led by Dr J R Countiss. The minutes of the morning session were read and approved. The presence of several members of the Conference who had not previously been present was noted.

Question 21 was resumed. The names of all the preachers in the Hattiesburg District were called, their reports were made on the blackboard, and their characters were passed.

The names of all the preachers in the Seashore District were called, their reports were made on the blackboard, and their characters were passed.

At their own request, the names of H Walter Pemberton and of J C Pitts were referred to the Committee on Conference Relations for the superannuate relation.

The report of the special committee on Methodist headquarters at Jackson was read and adopted. The report recommended the establishment of such headquarters, each participating interest to bear its proportionate part of the expens involved.

Question 8, "Who are readmitted?" was called. Answer, none.

Question 42, "Where shall the next session of the Conference be held?" was called. Yazoo City and Gulfport were placed in nomination, and Gulfport was chosen.

The Bishop announced at this time a new feature in the Conference proceedings—a "Book Hour." At his request, certain brethren had prepared a review of books of their own selection, and they were given to the Conference as follows: Dr. A. F. Watkins reviewed "Christus Comprobator," by Bishop J. C. Ellicott; Rev. N. B. Harmon reviewed "The Scriptures—God's Living Oracles;" he also called attention to W. J. Bryan's "In His Image," and Robert Dick Wilson's "Studies in the Book of Daniel;" Professor C. A. Bowen reviewed "Ambassadors of God," by S. Parkes Cadman. Rev. J. T. Legget was to have reviewed a volume, but he was not able to be present on account of a board meeting. Bishop Ainsworth emphasized the necessity of a preacher's studying, and advised all to read again during the year Arthur's "Tongue of Fire."

The Board of Missions submitted a report in which it agreed to provide for the support of one of the three evangelists previously recommended for service in needy rural sections. After considerable discussion the Conference, by vote, requested the Board to devise some way by which the three could be supported.

Rev. L. H. Estes, of the Memphis Conference, representing the General Hospital Board, addressed the Conference concerning the work of the Board, emphasizing especially the Golden Cross Society.

The name of W. W. Hopper was called. It was announced that he had died during the year, and his name was referred to the Committee on Memoirs.

At his own request, the name of W. B. Waldrop was referred to the Committee on Conference Relations for the supernumerary relation.

On motion, it was agreed that when the Conference adjourn, it adjourn to meet in Memorial Session at 3 o'clock on Sunday afternoon.

On nomination of the presiding elders, the following Quadrennial Committees and Boards were elected:

Examining Committees.

On Trial—C. P. Jones, T. J. O'Neil, C. A. Bowen.

First Year—H. J. Moore, H. M. Johnson, J. M. Lewis.

Second Year—W. A. Hays, J. T. Weems, J. H. Moore.

Third Year—W. H. Saunders, H. W. Featherstun, A. J. Beasley.

Fourth Year—H. Mellard, Victor G. Clifford, O. S. Lewis.

Admissions—H. L. Norton, J. M. Corley, N. B. Harmon, J. T. Leggett, W. E. Dickens, P. H. Grice, J. H. Foreman.

Boards.

Commission on Budget—W. T. Denman, J. A. Lindsay, J. T. Leggett, C. B. Gates, T. J. O'Neil, Henry Hilbun, T. H. King, W. T. Griffin, G. W. Holloway, W. J. Ferguson.

Board of Missions—W. H. Saunders, V. D. Youngblood, A. M. Broadfoot, H. B. Rush, T. B. Winstead, P. L. Blackwell, W. S. F. Tatum, C. M. Crossley, M. M. Black, G. L. Harrell, C. C. Evans, W. A. Price, C. W. Cochran, J. L. Sells.

Board of Finance—W. B. Alsworth, Hugh Junkin, G. H. Thompson, S. E. Moreton, H. Mellard, H. Ogden, J. F. McClellan, S. M. Jones, R. E. Rutledge, D. W. Heldelberg, L. L. Roberts, D. R. Weston, J. M. Morse, J. C. Wood.

Board of Education—O. S. Lewis, A. S. McClendon, E. L. Alford, B. Z. Welch, W. D. Davis, H. L. Norton, Robert Selby, M. M. Satterfield, E. K. Means, W. M. Bule, Joe Cook, J. L. Greenway, L. E. Alford, J. J. Houston.

Board of Church Extension—W. M. Williams, John A. McLeod, E. H. Cooley, J. E. Gray, E. W. Wright, J. D. Ellis, J. C. Darnell, E. D. Simpson, A. R. Artz, A. S. Oliver, S. D. McMullen, H. A. Gatlin, G. W. Mars, C. S. Bennett.

Sunday School Board.—W. L. Linfield, J. C. Hardy, T. B. Cottrell, J. R. Bankston, J. M. Wood, J. L. Carter, H. F. Tolle, A. B. Campbell, J. R. Baynes, H. R. McKee, R. H. Clegg, Dr. W. P. Davis, J. B. Holland, M. L. White.

Epworth League Board.—J. O. Ware, J. W. Broom, J. B. Cain, K. T. Moore, L. F. Alford, J. F. Campbell, W. E. Barnes, J. L. Decell, W. G. Hawkins, J. L. Smith, W. M. Bule, S. F. Harkey, J. E. Carruth, R. C. Peebles.

American Bible Society Board.—J. M. Corley, H. H. Hilton, D. E. Vickers, J. D. Fatheree, T. A. Ferguson, J. L. Ash, J. A. Wells, R. E. Bennett, H. M. Johnson, I. O. Brown, P. H. Howse, Dr. G. C. Terrell, J. W. Price, W. H. Jones.

Temperance and Social Service Board.—C. Y. Higginbotham, J. W. Sharbrough, W. W. Nelson, J. T. Jackson, W. J. Dawson, H. O. Middleton, A. J. Davis, H. V. Walts, J. S. Purcell, O. S. Hopkins, W. W. Moore, J. H. Grice, W. D. Chatham, J. E. Williams.

Board of Christian Literature.—W. F. Baggett,

H. H. Goza, B. W. Lewis, J. M. Bush. J. W. Thompson, M. U. Mounger, S. F. Harkey, H. G. Hawkins, M. B. Sharbrough, H. C. Castles, W. G. Forsyth, C. F. Emery, W. H. Lane, Lynn Barrier.

Board of Lay Activitles.—J. M. Sullivan, Conference Leader; District Leaders: Brookhaven—J. E. Carruth, Summit, Miss.; Hattiesburg—K. T. Moore; Jackson—O. H. Wingfield; Meridian—S. M. Graham; Newton—W. A. Davenport; Seashore—R. B. McGehee; Vicksburg—M. M. Satterfield.

Hospital Board—I. W. Cooper, T. E. Enochs, C. A. Shultz, S. W. Sharbrough, H. J. Moore, W. A. Davenport, W. S. F. Tatum, James Hand, H. A. Wood, Dr. H. F. Tatum, Dr. W. A. Dearman, W. L. Blackwell, Dr. H. R. Shands, B. F. Jones.

Announcements were made and the Conference adjourned with the benediction pronounced by J. Loyd Decell.

FOURTH DAY—SUNDAY.

The annual Love Feast was conducted, beginning at 9:30 o'clock, on Sunday morning by Rev. M. B. Sharbrough. This service was a great blessing to all those who were privileged to be present.

At 11 o'clock Bishop Ainsworth preached what was universally said to be a great sermon. The church was crowded to its capacity, many people being unable to find even standing room. After the sermon the following were ordained deacons: T. C. Cooper, J. C. Jackson, M. L. McCormick, L. J. Snelgrove.

After the sermon at the evening hour, preached by Dr. Arthur J. Moore, the following were ordained elders: J. B. Stringer, R. B. McGehee (local).

Memorial Session.

Pursuant to adjournment on Saturday afternoon, the Conference met in Memorial Session on Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock, Rev. W. J. Ferguson presiding by appointment of the Bishop. After the devotional exercises conducted by W. J. Ferguson, it was announced that R. H. Barr, J. M. Massey, W. W. Hopper, and T. W. Adams had died during the year. Affectionate tribute was paid the departed by their brethren. Special music was appropriately rendered by Brothers Nelson and Wells, and by O. S., J. M., and B. W. Lewis, and J. S. Duke.

Upon motion, the Conference adjourned to meet at 8:30 o'clock Monday morning, the benediction being pronounced by Rev. M. L. Burton.

Other preaching appointments for Sunday were as follows:

First Baptist Church—11 a.m., Rev. Mark N. Terrell; 7 p.m., Rev. J. L. Decell.

Presbyterian Church—11 a.m., Rev. E. K. Means; 7 p.m., Rev. C. M. Crossley.

Baptist church at Gallman—7 p.m., Rev. J. S. Purcell.

Hazlehurst Methodist church—11 a.m., Rev. Crawford Jackson.

New Zion Methodist Episcopal Church (colored)—11 a.m., Rev. Jas. G. Galloway; 7 p.m., Rev. W. J. Ferguson.

FIFTH DAY.

The Conference convened promptly at 8:30 o'clock, Bishop Ainsworth in the chair. The devotional exercises consisted of singing, prayer led by B. F. Lewis, and Scripture reading.

The minutes of the Saturday afternoon session and of the Memorial Session on Sunday afternoon were read and approved.

The Bishop reported the ordination of deacons and of elders on Sunday, thus answering Questions 18 and 20.

Question 9, "Who are received by transfer from other Conferences?" was called, and the Bishop announced the transfer of Rev. Percy Vaughan, an elder, from the Little Rock Conference.

Question 13, "Who are transferred to other Conferences?" was called, and the Bishop announced the transfer of R. T. Pickett to the Louisiana Conference, and of R. T. Hollingsworth to the North Mississippi Conference.

The report of the Committee on Conference Relations was read and adopted. By this report H. W. Featherstun and J. C. Ellis were added to the roll of superannuates, and W. B. Waldrop was added to the supernumerary list.

Question 21 was resumed. The names of all the preachers in the Newton District were called, their reports were shown on the blackboard, and their characters were passed.

Rev. J. S. Duke, engaged in Y. M. C. A. work, was, at his own request, granted an honorable location.

Question 21 was resumed, and the names of all the preachers in the Brookhaven District were called, their reports were shown on the blackboard, and their characters were passed. This completed the call of the question, and a tabulation of the reports showed that 3859 members had been added on profession of faith to the church during the year, this being an increase of 297 over last year.

Upon motion, M. N. Hildebrand was allowed to withdraw from the ministry and membership of the church.

The report of the Board of Lay [illegible] read and adopted. Rev. [illegible] was elected Confernce Lay Leader. By vote, the Conference requested the publication of the report in the New Orleans Christian Advocate.

At this point the Bishop asked the cabinet to meet him, and J. T. Leggett took the chair by appointment of the Bishop.

The following reports were read and adopted: Board of Christian Literature; reports Nos. 1 and 2 of the Board of Education (pending the adoption of Report No. 2, President A. F. Watkins, of Millsaps College, and President I. W. Cooper, of Whitworth College addressed the Conference).

Bishop Ainsworth resumed the chair.

Reports were read and adopted as follows: Board of Finance; reports No. 3 and 4 of the Board of Missions (W. D. Hawkins was highly commended for his work as Centenary Secretary-Treasurer).

The Secretary of the Conference was instructed to send to J. L. Neill, superintendent of our mission work in Czecho-Slovakia and a member of the Mississippi Conference, affectionate greetings from the body.

Reports were read and adopted as follows: Board of Finance; Board of Church Extension; Sunday School Board.

A. F. Watkins addressed the Conference concerning the mortmain sections to the Constitution of the State of Mississippi, urging the members of the Conference to help in amending them so as to make possible bequests to church enterprises.

Reports were read and adopted as follows: Epworth League Board; American Bible Society Board; Board of Temperance and Social Service; Orphans' Home Board.

On motion of A. F. Watkins, W. T. Griffin, T. B. Cottrell, and W. H. Lane were elected as Auditing Committee for the ensuing quadrennium.

Reports were read and adopted as follows: Committee of Spiritual State of the Church (this report was read by Mrs. H. M. Ellis, Secretary); Committee on Sabbath Observance; Committee on District Conference Records.

The special committee appointed last year to consider the location of the Mississippi Conference Training School, stated that it was not ready to report and asked for an extension of time, which was granted.

The report of the Statistical Secretary was read. This report showed that the present membership in the Mississippi Conference is 63,252.

Resolutions of thanks were presented by C. F. Emery and they were unanimously adopted by a rising vote of the Conference.

Miss Hallie Bule, a missionary to Korea, Mrs. B. F. Lewis, President of the Conference Woman's Missionary Society, and Mrs. H. L. McCleskey, Corresponding Secretary of the same, were presented to the Conference.

Upon motion, the Conference ordered adjournment sine die after the reading of the appointments.

The minutes of the morning session were read and approved. The Bishop, after appropriate remarks, read the appointments and pronounced the benediction, after which the Conference stood adjourned sine die.

(For Appointments see Eighth Page)

CONFERENCE PERSONALS.

If we may judge from the expressions we have heard, Bishop W. N. Ainsworth has succeeded in gaining the respect, confidence, and love of the Mississippi brethren. His presidency was eminently satisfactory.

So far as we recall, Rev. W. B. Jones was acting for the first time as a Conference host; but he was as perfect in his courtesies and arrangement of details as a veteran could have been. His splendid people co-operated heartily with him in the entertainment of the Conference, as did all the citizens of Crystal Springs—the "Tomatopolis of the world."

The Conference was served by an exceptionally efficient corps of secretaries. The editor of the Advocate is under especial obligations to Rev. G. S. Harmon for innumerable courtesies.

Quite a number of North Mississippi preachers were visitors to the Conference. Among them we noted the following: President J. R. Countiss, of Grenada College; Rev. R. P. Nesbitt, Rev. E. H. Cunningham, Rev. A. T. McIlwain, Rev. J. E. Stephens, Rev. B. P. Jaco, Rev. W. C. Galceran.

The editor of the Advocate was delightfully entertained, taking his meals with Dr. and Mrs. T. J. Hargrave and having a most comfortable room at the spacious home of Dr. and Mrs. J. M. Dampeer. Fellow-guests at Dr. Hargrave's were Rev. J. T. Leggett, Rev. L. E. Alford, Rev. L. H. Estes, Mr. and Mrs. Burn Hillbun, and Mr. and Mrs. O. H. Wingfield. Two beautiful little daughters, Helen and Ann, are a joy to the home, as is a niece, Miss Thomas Dwyer. Enjoying the hospitality of Dr. Dampeer's home were Rev. P. D. Hardin, Rev. Geo. H. Thompson, Rev. J. T. Leggett, Dr. J. M. Sullivan, and Mr. Jno. A. McLeod.

The new church, in which the sessions were held, is not altogether complete, but no inconvenience was experienced on that account. The [illegible] been installed and cold [illegible] the situation somewhat embarrassing; but a gracious providence furnished a week that was as balmy as can be found in June. The Methodists of Crystal Springs are proud of their new church, as they may well be.

The manager of the Advocate was delightfully entertained by Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Folkes and daughter, his fellow-guest being the Rev. W. J. Dawson, pastor of the Brandon and Pelahatchie charge.

Rev. Ira B. Robertson, the Nestor of the Conference, was in regular attendance, greatly to the delight of his brethren. His testimony at the love feast had the confident ring of one who knows whereof he speaks.

We heard one of the secretaries say on the second day that all but four of the preachers in active service were present—and some of them came in later. The attendance of the laymen was also very gratifying.

Among the connectional visitors and speakers were Bishop W. B. Beauchamp, Dr. G. C. Hounsheli, Miss Minnie Kennedy, Dr. R. H. Bennett, Dr. Luther E. Todd, Prof. G. L. Morelock, and Mr. H. H. Ahrens.

The preaching on the night preceding the opening of Conference was done by the Rev. Mr. Stough, the evangelist who recently held a very successful meeting at Brookhaven.

The singing of Rev. J. A. Wells and Rev. W. W. Nelson was one of the features of the Conference—their singing was always looked forward to with pleasure.

Rev. W. H. Saunders, of Hazlehurst, was unable to be present on the opening day on account of illness, but he was later able to be in attendance.

Rev. H. E. Raley was called to Meridian on account of the death of his father, on December 1, at his home in that city. The sympathy of the brethren went out to Brother Raley.

Rev. W. C. Childress, of New Orleans, who represented the Memorial Home at the Conference, was called home on Saturday by the illness with diphtheria of one of his children. The Conference assumed an assessment of $5000 for the support of the Home—one of the most useful institutions of the church.

The Conference greatly appreciated the generous offer of Mr. and Mrs. W. S. F. Tatum to take care of any child between the ages of 8 and 18 who might need the service of the Methodist Hospital at Hattiesburg, provided the expense could not otherwise be met. The Conference expressed its appreciation by a vote of thanks.

Her many friends were delighted to see Mrs. Gayle C. Beanland, daughter of Rev. W. M. Williams, who has recently returned from Africa on a year's furlough, she, with her husband, Rev. Gayle C. Beanland, being missionaries under the Presbyterian Board of Missions.

Dr. H. Walter Featherstun, after fifty-one years of active service in the itinerancy, asked for and was granted the superannuate relation. Dr. Featherstun has been for many years one of the prominent members of the Conference.

The "Book Hour" was an interesting feature of the proceedings on Saturday afternoon. Bishop Ainsworth laid consistent emphasis upon the necessity of a preacher's reading good books.

Dr. R. P. Wilson represented the Publishing House with a fine selection of books. He reported that business was good.

The editor, with several others, had the privilege of "listening in" on the radio at the hospitable home of Mr. and Mrs. B. D. Avery one evening. Atlanta, Ga., and Havana, Cuba, were both "picked up," and music, both vocal and instrumental, was clearly heard.

Dr. Rolfe Hunt, who served the church effectively for several years as a local preacher and who was formerly president of Port Gibson Female College, was admitted on trial into the Conference.

Bishop Ainsworth suggested that it would be a good thing to introduce into the preachers' Institutes a course on how to make out reports to the Annual Conference. We fully agree with him.

According to the reports from the districts, thirteen young men were licensed to preach during the year.

The Conference attracted many visitors from neighboring towns, good roads and automobiles making it possible for them to come long distances. The number of visitors was especially large on Sunday.

Dr. Mark N. Terrell, one of our general evangelists, was present throughout most of the Conference. Dr. Terrell recently held a fine meeting at Poplarville.

The preaching of Dr. Arthur J. Moore, of San Antonio, Texas, was greatly enjoyed by the Conference. Dr. Moore came upon the invitation of Bishop Ainsworth and preached each day of the Conference except the closing day.

President Watkins reported that the Freshman class at Millsaps has more than 200 members this year.

The editor of the Advocate feels very much at home with the Mississippi brethren, and it was a great joy to him to meet so many of them, both laymen and preachers. Just twenty years ago he himself was admitted on trial in the Mississippi Conference.

North Mississippi Methodists,

DON'T FORGET

PAY-UP-WEEK, DEC. 10-17

FOR HOSPITAL PLEDGES

Let's Open the Hospital

FREE OF DEBT

This has been printed up-side down. Let Every Subscriber help make it right-side up by Paying their Subscription in Full.

The Home Circle

AMERICA'S THANKSGIVING.

By Mary Tarver Carroll.

America, beloved land,
On this Thanksgiving Day,
Kneel humbly at the holy shrine
And lift your heart to pray—
For worthiness to wear that robe,
That fair, star-spangled gown,
And God will gem each shining star
And add to its renown.
America, beloved land,
As at God's throne you kneel,
Do you not feel the pleading hands
That into your hands steal?
That clinging touch, that trusting touch,
That begs you to look down?
America, beloved land,
Be worthy of your crown!

—Zion's Herald.

KEEPING GUARD.

Harold had never lived on a ranch before and was not used to walking a mile and a half to school.

But when his father and mother left their home in the East and came to Hill Top ranch to live, Harold was very happy. He found so many interesting things about the country that he said that he did not mind his long walk in the least. Although no other children lived near, Harold never went to school alone.

Mischief, who had been Harold's pet ever since he was a mischievous puppy, always went with him. Sometimes Mischief would carry Harold's book, fastened with a strap around his neck. Sometimes he would carry the bright new lunch pail in his mouth. When Harold went into the schoolhouse, Mischief would trot off to the woods or fields, coming back at noon to play with the children and to get what was left from their lunches.

One morning Harold was going to school, reading from his book as he walked. Mischief was carrying the lunch pail. As he neared the schoolhouse, Harold heard the bell sounding. Closing his book quickly, he ran as fast as he could, and slipped into his seat just in time for Miss White to say: "Good! Our record isn't broken yet."

When noon came and the boys and girls took their lunch pails from the shelf, Harold's was not with the others. He wondered where it could be. He felt sure he had set it on the shelf in the entry. He looked again, but it was not there.

"Maybe you didn't bring any," said Charles Moore.

"Yes, I did," replied Harold. "I remember mother's saying, when she gave it to me, that I'd find something in it I liked."

"Well, it's not in here," declared Charles.

"Let's look out on the steps," suggested one of the girls.

They went outside to see, but it was not on the steps. The children were all puzzled.

"Where is Mischief?" asked some one.

"Why, where is Mischief?" exclaimed Harold. "He carried the lunch pail this morning, and I was hurrying on so fast to be on time that I must have forgotten to take it from him."

What an exciting time they had looking all about the yard and calling for Mischief!

"Here he is!" shouted one of the boys.

There under a tree lay Mischief, one paw on top of the lunch pail, wagging his tail, and looking up at Harold as though he would say: "Come, get your lunch; I've taken care of it long enough."

Then, of course, every one had to pet Mischief, laughing and calling him "good Mischief." If he had not been a dog, I'm sure he would have been spoiled.

"Mischief can teach a lesson, even though he can't read or solve problems," said Miss White; "and I think he deserves another name, don't you?"

"Yes, and a big share of this lunch, too," laughed Harold.—Bertha C. Williams, in Christian Leader.

BABY BEAR'S PARTY.

Baby Bear loved the birds, and so Mother Bear was not much surprised when Baby Bear dropped his wee porridge spoon at the breakfast table and said in a shrill voice: "Let's invite all the birds to a party."

"We will give the party to-morrow," said Mother Bear, "But what shall we offer the birds to eat?"

"Blackberries and honey," replied Father Bear.

"Once I saw a robin eat a wiggly worm," said Baby Bear.

"I'll tell you what we'd better do, Father Bear," said Mother Bear. "You take a walk around the edge of the woods and find out what the birds like best to eat."

Father Bear set out gayly enough, but he came back looking sad and discouraged.

"We can't have the party," he said. "I have been asking questions, and what do you suppose I have learned? The robins eat worms, and they eat so many that we couldn't dig enough to satisfy one robin."

"Then suppose we give a little party and invite only catbirds," said Mother Bear.

"Catbirds!" exclaimed Father Bear, in a big, gruff voice. "Catbirds eat grasshoppers—thirty grasshoppers at a time! You can't buy jumping grasshoppers by the quart."

"How about the handsome kingbirds?" asked Mother Bear.

"Kingbirds must have gadflies," grumbled Father Bear—"gadflies by the peck."

"How about the swallows?" questioned Mother Bear. She had noticed that Baby Bear was winking hard to keep back the tears.

"Swallows must have flies," roared Father Bear, for he was all out of patience—"and spotted squash beetles. I'd look well stooping over in our garden five or six hours trying to catch squash beetles for company!"

"We might ask chickadees," ventured Mother Bear. She saw two big tears rolling down Baby Bear cheeks, and that is why she mentioned chickadees. "They like crumbs."

"One chickadee," said Father Bear, in gentle tones, "would much prefer five thousand five hundred and fifty cankerworm eggs in a day. I think we'll not invite chickadees."

"Cedar birds?" murmured Mother Bear.

"Cedar birds dine on caterpillars. We could fill the washtubs, I suppose, and pass them around!"

"Hummingbirds spend their time [illegible] insects and eating wood [illegible] the pileated bird works for the [illegible] weevils that spoil wood and [illegible] wood peewees eat house flies. Woodpeckers and meadow larks, hawks, and [illegible] owls have strange appetites."

Baby Bear covered his face and wailed.

This would be a sad story if it ended here, but it does not.

The birds loved Baby Bear, and when they found out why he cried so loud they came in flocks to comfort him.

After that, when Baby Bear awoke, he always saw hundreds of birds in the garden searching for bugs, worms, and grass hoppers.

And that is the reason why the Three Bears have such a wonderful garden.—Frances Margaret Fox.

BERT'S SALT-WATER CURE.

Bert was sitting on the floor, looking over his pictures, and baby toddled up and tore one of the prettiest. Bert called out, "Oh, mother, see what baby has done!" and began to cry.

"Bert," said mother, as she took baby away, "did you know that tears are salt water?"

Bert choked a sob and looked up.

"No," he said; "are they? How did you find out, mother?"

"Oh, somebody told me so when I was a little girl, and I tasted a tear, and found it was true."

"Real salt water?" said Bert.

"Yes, try and see."

Bert would very gladly have tried if he could have found a tear. But, by that time there was not one left. He looked at the torn picture, but it did not make him feel badly any more.

All he could think of was whether tears tasted like salt water.

"Next time I cry I will find out," he said.

That very afternoon, while climbing over the top of the rocking-chair, he fell and got a great bump. It seemed too much for Bert, and he was just beginning to cry loudly when he happened to think what a good chance this was going to be to catch some tears. He put up his finger, too quickly, in fact, for there had not a tear come yet, and now that his thoughts had wandered from the bump, he could not cry about it any more. So, you see, that chance was lost.

"I can't get a single tear to taste, mother!" he said. Which was perhaps, just what mother had expected.—Exchange.

SPECIAL OFFER

ONE 42 PIECE $12.00 DINNER SET

BLUE BIRD, FLORAL OR WHITE AND GOLD DESIGNS

For $4.98 f. o. b. New Orleans

Cut out this Advertisement and send to WM. B. REILY & CO., New Orleans, La., with Six Coupons from Luzianne Coffee and $4.98, and the Beautiful Set will be Expressed to You at Once.

All three sets consist of: 6 dinner plates, 6 cups, 6 saucers, 6 pie plates, 6 fruit dessert dishes, 6 oat meal dishes, 1 large meat platter, 1 round vegetable bowl, 1 oval vegetable bowl, 1 cream pitcher, 1 sugar bowl, 1 sugar bowl cover.

New Orleans Christian Advocate

HENRY T. CARLEY, Editor.

CHAS. O. CHALMERS, Manager.

PUBLISHING COMMITTEE:

Louisiana Conference—Rev. J. F. Foster, Rev. S. J. Davies, Rev. C. C. Miller.

Mississippi Conference—Rev. J. T. Leggett, Rev. J. R. Jones, Rev. W. H. Saunders.

North Mississippi Conference—Rev. J. H. Felts, Rev. T. H. Lipscomb, Rev. J. W. Dorman.

DIRECTIONS.

All checks and money orders should be made payable to the New Orleans Christian Advocate.

Communications pertaining to subscriptions and other business matters should be addressed to the Manager, or to the New Orleans Christian Advocate.

The Printed Lab l on a paper shows the date to which a subscription is paid. It is as good as a written receipt. When renewal is made, if the date is not moved forward after three or four weeks, notify us, and we will make it right.

Communications intended for the Editor should be directed to him at 512 Camp Street. Correspondents will observe the following rules: 1. Write on only one side of the paper. 2. If you have a typewriter, by all means use it; otherwise use a good quality of black ink. 3. Leave a space of at least two inches at the top of the first page; leave a margin of at least one inch on the left-hand side of the page; do not crowd the words and the lines together. 4. Take special pains to write proper names correctly and legibly. 5. Use letter paper if you can get it—not note paper. No attention will be paid to rolled manuscripts.

MISSISSIPPI ANNUAL CONFERENCE APPOINTMENTS.

Brookhaven District.

H. M. Ellis, Presiding Elder.

Adams—W. W. Nelson.
Barlow—A. T. Long.
Bayou Pierre—S. B. Watkins.
Bogue Chitto and Norfield—J. T. Weems.
Brookhaven—A. M. Broadfoot.
Crystal Springs—W. B. Jones.
Fernwood—H. L. Norton.
Foxworth—J. W. Price; W. B. Waldrop, supernumerary.
Gallman—J. T. Abney.
Georgetown—Jas. W. Sells.
Hazlehurst—W. H. Saunders.
Magnolia—C. P Jones.
McComb: Centenary—G. H. Thompson.
LaBranch Street—A. S. Oliver.
Pearl River Avenue—J. A. Wells.
Meadville and Bude—S. F. Harkey.
Monticello—R. A. Allums.
Osyka—H. E. Raley.
Pleasant Grove—F. J. Jones.
Scotland—J. L. Carter.
Summit and Topisaw—J. E. J. Ferguson.
Tylertown—F. B. Ormond.
Wesson and Beauregard—J. S. Purcell.
President Whitworth College—I. W. Cooper.
Chaplain in United States Navy—W. N. Thomas.
Conference Evangelist—W. T. Griffin.

Hattiesburg District.

W. W. Graves, Presiding Elder.

Avera—M. W. Porter.
Bon Hommie—A. J. Boyles.
Collins—J. W. Thompson.
Ellisville—J. B. Cain.
Eucutta—J. C. Jackson.
Hattiesburg: Broad Street—A. J. Davis.
Court Street—C. M. Crossley.
Main Street—J. T. Leggett.
Heidelberg—W. G. Forsytb.
Leakesville—J. H. Jolly.
Lucedale—B. E. Meigs.
Lucedale Circuit—To be supplied.
Mt. Olive and Magee—J. L. Greenway.
New Augusta—H. S. Westbrook.
Oloh—C. C. Griffin.
Petal—S. C. Moody.
Prentiss—H. R. McKee.
Purvis—W. M. Williams.
Richton—A. W. O'Bryant.
Seminary—H. J. Maddox.
Silver City—P. H. Howse.
Sumrall—H. Mellard.
Taylorsville—A. J. Leggett.
Williamsburg—W. J. Walters.
Conference Evangelist—D. E. Kelley.

Jackson District.

M. L. Burton, Presiding Elder.

Benton—E. A. King.
Bentonia—J. F. Watson.
Bolton and Raymond—H. M. Johnson.
Brandon and Pelahatchie—W. J. Dawson.
Camden—G. E. Allen.
Canton—H. A. Gatlin.
Eden—B. W. Lewis.
Edwards—B. F. Jones.
Fannin—W. D. Barrett.
Flora—J. H. Foreman.
Florence—A. A. Sims.
Harrisville—I. H. Sells.
Jackson: Capital Street—H. F. Tolle.
Galloway Memorial—E. K. Means; J. L. Ferguson, Junior Preacher.
Rankin Street—F. L. Applewhite.
Madison—Percy Vaugban.
Mendenhall and D'Lo—J. C. Ware.
Monterey—L. M. Sharp.
Satartia—B. H. Williams.
Sharon—W. N. Ware.
Terry—C. E. Downer.
Vaughn—A. S. Byrd.
Yazoo City—W. J. Ferguson.
Yazoo City Circuit—G. H. Boyles.
President of Millsaps College—A. F. Watkins.
Professors in Millsaps College—J. L. Ferguson, C. A. Bowen.
Commissioner of Millsaps College—M. M. Black.
Secretary of Education—J. M. Morse.
Sunday School Secretary—J. C. Chambers.
Manager of Orphans' Home—B. F. Lewis.
Manager Mississippi Home Finding Society—J. L. Sutton.
Student in Emory University—Otto Porter.
Superintendent Czecho-Slovakia Mission—J. L. Neill.
Student in Emory University—W. C. Wesley.
Conference Evangelist—J. V. Bennett.
Syrian Mission—Chas. Assaf, supply.
Missionary Evangelist, Jackson, Vicksburg, and Brookhaven Districts—Rolfe Hunt.

Meridian District.

P. D. Hardin, Presiding Elder.

Bucatunna—C. M. Baggett.
Cleveland—L. J. Snellgrove.
Daleville—W. E. Dickens.
DeKalb—M. L. White
DeSoto—M. A. Massey; J. H. Flemming, Junior Preacher.
Enterprise—T. M. Ainsworth.
Lauderdale and Electric Mills—W. H. Lane.
Matherville—D. P. Yeager.
Meridian: Central—J. L. Decell.
East End—W. H. Lewis.
Fifth Street—J. L. Sells.
Hawkins Memorial—J. M. Lewis.
Poplar Springs—W. A. Hays.
Seventh Avenue—D. E. Vickers; E. D. Snellgrove, Junior Preacher.
Pachuta—R. E. Rutledge.
Porterville—H. J. Oakley.
Quitman—J. D. Ellis.
Scooba—D. W. Ulmer.
Shubuta—W. A. Terry.
Vimville—O. B. Matheney.
Waynesboro—H. A. Wood.
Waynesboro Circuit—R. A. Sibley.

Newton District.

J. A. Moore, Presiding Elder.

Bay Springs—E. H. Cooley.
Carthage—T. B. Winstead.
Chunky—S. E. Flurry.
Decatur and Hickory—C. H. Straight.
Forest and Morton—H. J. Moore.
Harperville and Lena—W. W. Murray.
Homewood—J. F. McClellan.
Lake—S. N. Young.
Laurel: First Church—O. S. Lewis.
Kingston—T. A. Ferguson.
West End—J. W. Ramsey.
Montrose—M. R. Jones.
Neshoba—T. C. Cooper.
Newton—N. B. Harmon.
North Neshoba—J. C. Long.
Philadelphia—L. E. Alford.
Raleigh—R. H. Clegg.
Rose Hill—G. G. Yeager.
Shiloh—P. H. Grice.
Trenton—G. L. McNeece.
Union—W. F. Baggett.
Walnut Grove—C. H. Herring.

Seashore District.

W. M. Sullivan, Presiding Elder.

Americus—V. R. Landrum.
Bay St. Louis—J. G. Galloway.
Biloxi—M. B. Sharbrougb.
Brooklyn—W. L. Blackwell.
Carriere—E. J. Coker.
Coalville—S. W. Johnson.
Columbia—L. L. Roberts.
Escatawpa—J. B. Stringer.
Gulfport—W. L. Linfield.
Long Beach—H. C. Castles.
Logtown—E. L. Alford.
Lumberton—J. M. Corley.
Mentorum—R. G. Williams.
Moss Point—J. E. Gray.
Ocean Springs—J. H. Grice.
Pascagoula—L. F. Alford.
Pass Christian—L. A. Darsey.
Picayune—J. H. Moore.
Poplarville—J. E. Williams.
Saucier—T. H. King; E. J. Rutledge, Junior Preacher.
Vancleave—E. M. Allen.
Wesley Memorial—W. W. Moore.
Wiggins—J. F. Campbell.
President Seashore Camp Ground School—H. W. Van Hook.
Conference Evangelist—G. S. Harmon.
Missionary Evangelist, Seashore, Hattiesburg, Meridian, and Newton Districts—J. M. Smith.

Vicksburg District.

J. R. Jones, Presiding Elder.

Anguilla—C. A. Shultz.
Centreville—V. G. Clifford.
Fayette—C. F. Emery.
Gloster and Liberty—J. L. Smith.
Harriston—B. M. Hunt.
Hermanville—M. K. Miller.
Louise and Holly Bluff—C. Y. Higginbotham.
Mayersville—M. J. Miller.
Natchez—C. C. Evans.
Nebo—J. H. Sharp.
Oak Ridge—E. D. Simpson.
Port Gibson—W. H. Huntley.
Rocky Springs—Wesley Ezell.
Rolling Fork—T. J. O'Neil.
Rosetta—N. S. Loftus.
Roxie—M. L. McCormick.
Silver City—G. P. McKeown.
Utica—W. B. Alsworth.
Vicksburg, Crawford Street—Robert Selby.
Vicksburg, Gibson Memorial—T. B. Cottrell.
Washington—A. J. Beasley.
Woodville—H. G. Hawkins.

PERSONAL AND OTHER NOTES.

Rev. R. G. A. Carlisle has reached his new home at Sallis, Miss., and is delighted with the outlook.

Rev. B. T. Crews, who took the superannuate relation at the recent session of tbe Louisiana Conference, will make his home at 2612 Edgar Street, Route 22, Shreveport, La. Brother Crews has rendered fine service to the church in Louisiana.

Rev. M. F. Johnson, formerly pastor of the Carrollton Avenue Church of this city, but for some years holding pastorates in Arkansas, has recently been changed from Hardy, Ark., to Salem, Ark. Brother Johnson still has many friends among the older members of tbe Carrollton congregation.

Rev. R. P. Neblett began the new year's work at Durant, Miss., with a reception to the membership of the church in the church parlors on Friday evening, November 24. The work of the church begins well—the pastor's salary has been increased, and the budget system adopted for all church obligations.

At the recent session of the North Arkansas Conference, Rev. E. D. Simpson was changed from Leachville to Lake Street, Blytheville, Ark. Brother Simpson reports tbat Methodism in Arkansas is growing by leaps and bounds—58,000 members last year, 67,000 tbis year. That marks magnificent progress.

Mrs. Alice Cary McKinney, of Ruston, La., State president of the W. C. T. U., Mrs. A. D. Eglin, of Alexandria, La., and Mrs. W. N. Collins, of Sbreveport, La., attended the Law Enforcement Conference held in New Orleans tbis week. They went from here to Ponchatoula, La., to attend the State Convention of tbe W. C. T. U.

We call attention to the following changes in tbe first round of quarterly conferences for the Corinth District, North Mississippi Conference, received too late for insertion in the regular list: Corinth, South Side, quarterly conference on Monday night, Dec. 11; Sherman circuit, at Belden, Tuesday, Dec. 12; Baldwyn, at Baldwyn, Dec. 20.

Rev. E. C. Driskell, of Buena Vista, Miss., writes: "The good people of McCondy remember us with a fine Tbanksgiving offering, which was very much appreciated." Brother Driskell says he is going to make an effort to put the Advocate into every Methodist hom on his charge this year, and he makes a good beginning by enclosing a fine list with his letter.

We take the folowing from the Era-Leader, of Franklinton, La., in its issue of November 30: "The community is rejoiced over the account seen in to-day's paper that the Methodist church will be served another year by Rev. L. W. Cain. He is thoroughly loved here as a pastor and as a citizen, and his family is so greatly appreciated as residents that it is a joy to all to have him retained on the work."

In the list of appointments of the North Mississippi Conference in our issue of November 16, the name of the presiding elder of the Corinth District was given as J. H. Randolph; of course the "H" was a typographical error which we failed to detect in the proof reading—everybody knows that Rev. J. B. Randolpb is the efficient presiding elder of the Corinth District. We trust our old schoolmate will forgive us for the error.

The Advocate is in touch with the widow of a Methodist preacher who is anxious to secure work as a stenographer or private secretary. She is a graduate of a first-class business college, has had considerable experience in office work, and is thoroughly qualified to do the kind of work she desires. She would expect a salary of at least $100 a month. We shall be glad to put any person or firm who may need such assistance in correspondence with this experienced worker.

We regret to earn that Mrs. J. W. Lee, wife of the presiding elder of the Baton Rouge District, Louisiana Conference, has had to undergo a serious operation at the Baton Rouge Sanitarium. She is doing nicely after the operation, but it is necessary for Brother Lee to be with her until she is out of danger. The brethren will thus understand why Brotber Lee may not be able to give immediate attention to correspondence, etc., and we are sure they will remember him and Sister Lee in their prayers.

BISHOPS IN NEW ORLEANS.

The College of Bishops will hold its annual fall meeting in New Orleans this week, beginning on Friday, and continuing through Saturday. Most of them will remain over and preach on Sunday. The sessions will be held in Rayne Memorial Church. New Orleans is honored in having these distinguished church leaders as visitors, and the Methodism of the city will give them a most cordial welcome.

SUNDAY SCHOOL GOALS

Adopted at the Recent Meeting of the Louisiana Annual Conference.

I. ORGANIZATION.

1. During the quadrennium, new Sunday schools organized to make the number of scbools equal the number of church organizations in the Conference. We now have eighty-four more congregations tban Sunday schools.
2. The Sunday schools of at least ten additional circuits each year organized according to the "Four Times a Year Circuit Institute Plan."
3. A minimum of twenty-four additional schools each year, achieving recognition on "Program of Work C."
4. A minimum of eighteen additional schools each year, achieving recognition on "Program of Work B."
5. At least two schools each year attaining to the full recognition as "Standard A" schools.
6. Fifty new Wesley classes organized each year.

II. MEMBERSHIP.

1. The Sunday school membership to equal the church membership by the end of the quadrennium.
2. The number of Sunday school pupils uniting with the church on profession of faith to equal the number of new Sunday school members added yearly.
3. Every baby in a Methodist home enrolled on the Cradle Roll and every Cradle Roll baby baptized.

III. FINANCIAL.

1. Every congregation to see to it that enough money is available to supply the needed Sunday school literature within its own charge.
2. An intelligent emphasis placed upon Missionary giving in every school through Missionary programs and other forms of instruction.
3. A minimum of twenty-five hundred dollars each year for Sunday School Day offering.

IV. TRAINING.

1. Six Standard Training Schools held during 1923, with an increase over this number each succeeding year.
2. Fourteen One-week One-teacher and other non-standard training schools held during 1923, with an increase each year.
3. Not less than fifty preachers completing one or more units of credit in the Standard Training Course each and being recognized on the Conference Honor Roll, annually.
4. Not less than fifty superintendents completing one or more units of credit each year.
5. A minimum of five hundred credits issued to workers during 1923, with an increase over this number each succeeding year.
6. Children's Week regarded as a training feature of our work and observed in at least fifty schools during 1923.

DOES OUR RELIGION NEED RECONSTRUCTION.

By Rev. I. L. Peebles.

If our religion is not Bible religion, reconstruction will not do it any good, for no religion saves from sin and hell but Bible religion; therefore, if our religion is Bible religion, it needs no reconstruction, nor anything else but our possessing and living it. It is even sufficient for the limited brain, heart and life of the most professed and advaneed scientist. It will even normalize the heart of the most pronounced sinner in any department of life, if he will meet its terms. However, it makes no compromises with skeptics nor any other kind of sinners. It does not even concede that God, in creating the first man and woman, had to make an infinitesmal cell and then watch, protect and nurture it until it finally became a fetus, then an infant, and then a child, and then a youth, and then a matured man or woman. Neither its existence nor integrity depend on any concessions whatsoever. Its God is able and did create a complete man and complete woman without the delays of the reproductive processes. It does not have to concede to the professed geologist one thing for its claim that its God created tbis world in six literal days and rested the seventh, as it declares in Ex. 20:9, 10, 11. It does not waste time with the pratings of those who know nothing about the three-fourths of this earth that is under water, and very little about tbe one-fourth tbat is out of water. In truth, beyond nearly two miles from its surface, they know nothing, only that its diameter is nearly eight thousand miles. If the speculations of geology were as well established as the slow process of reproduction that we see, the God of Bible religion could and did create our world in the six days it declares; and, too, with as much ease and consistency as he created a complete man and woman independent of the processes of reproduction.

The religion of the Bible consists of faith, a birth by the Holy Ghost, supreme love to God, love for God's people superior to that for one's self, love for sinners and even love for one's enemies, holiness, peace, joy, righteousness, humility, gentleness, meekness, self-control, forbearance, forgiveness, mercy, rigid justice, honesty, diligence, unselfishness, patience, wisdom, endurance, perseverance, tenderness, frankness, truthfulness, law-loving, obedience, prayerfulness, seriousness, dignity, courtesy, profitable and holiness of words, holy thoughts, knowledge, hatred for all sins, heavenly-mindedness, cleanness, sinlessness, helpfulness, etc. It is as God himself said: "O, that there were such an heart in them, that they would fear me and keep all my commandments always, that it might be well with them, and with their children forever." Deut. 5:29. Fearing God means the great change of one's heart as well as reverence and a purpose to obey. Bible religion needs nothing but one's possessing and living it. Let everyone see rigidly to that more than anything else.

Meridian, Miss.

THANKS TO OUR FRIENDS.

We desire to express our thanks to the following friends who have sent us two or more subscriptions recently: Rev. E. C. Driskell, Buena Vista, Miss., 10 (five for three months); Mrs. Mary P. Lanford, Alpine, Texas, 2; Rev. C. W. Baley, Belmont, Miss., 2; Mrs. F. W. Sharbrough, Holly Bluff, Miss., 4.

IMPORTANT NOTICE—CHANGE OF ADDRESS.

All those who wish their Advocate sent to a new address should notify us at onee of the change desired, giving the old post office as well as the new. We can make no ehanges without this authority. This notice is especially important to the preachers of the three Conferences.

BUSINESS MANAGER.

USE THESE EVANGELISTS.

To the Brethren and Pastors of the Louisiana Conference:

Our Bishop has appointed to the Conference evangelistie work our good Brother George D. Anders; and Brother D. L. Griffin has been endorsed by our committee as an evangelist. We all know and love these brethren, and let's keep them busy. Having had considered evangelistic experienee, I know that the winter and early spring afford great evangelistic opportunities. Where it is possible, we ean safely plan our meeting for winter, as we have longer nights, people are usually less busy, and their minds are much more alert than in the summer. Then, too, we can hold our meetings without being rushed for time as we are in the mid-year. Brother Anders can be reached at Goodwill, La., and Brother Griffin at Shreveport, La., Route 1.

Brethren, let's pray God to give us the greatest revival year of all our history, and go to work NOW to bring it about. Yours in Him,

HENRY T. YOUNG,
Cbairman Evangelistic Committee.

THE ELECTION AND PROHIBITION.

Prohibition scored great victories and suffered serious defeats at the ballot box. In Ohio, where the people voted on a clear-cut proposal to legalize the sale of beer and wine, they answered "No!" by 188,000 majority. A similar question in Illinois was answered "Yes," the Anti-Saloon League leaders having advised their friends to abstain from voting on tbe ground that such a referendum was tainted with illegality. Yet even in tbat State (which never has been dry) it appears that the wet vote on the referendum was less tban one-half the total vote cast in the last Presidential election.

In Massachusetts and California there was a referendum on the adoption of enforcement codes in coneurrent support of the Amendment. In California returns from seven-eighths of the precincts indicate a dry majority of 27,000. Massachusetts went emphatically wet—as usual.

New Jersey went "wet" on both senator and governor. This cannot be interpreted as a change of heart, for New Jersey elected a wet governor three years ago. The Dutch are celebrating over taking Holland!

The next Congress will doubtless be the scene of a vigorous attempt of the nullifiers and modifiers of Prohibition to break down the Amendment. But there is nothing yet to indicate that they can do so. Careful students of the results of the elections give their opinion that botb branches are still safely dry, though the wine and beer proposal will have increased support in the House.

The lesson of the election ought not to be lost on the enemies of alcoholism. It is that tbe battle was not won by the adoption of the Eighteenth Amendment. Some of the heaviest fighting is yet to come. Where the urgency of the situation is realized, as in Obio and California, so tbat the moral forces, as organized in the Christian churches, feel that it is "do or die," and accordingly proceed to "do," and leave the rest to the other side, the dry side has the advantage. Where the dry element is only half aroused, or indifferently led, it cannot expect victory. And it must be admitted that in the large industrial centers, where the customs of Europe prevail among a preponderant element of foreign blood, or birth, the struggle will be prolonged.

On the general result we see no reason to be down-hearted. Representative Volstead whose name takes its place in the language beside such expressive words as Boycott and Pinchbeck and Burke, has gone, but his conqueror, a preacher named Kvale, is, in his own phrase, "dryer than Volstead."

The sneer that the Amendment was "slipped over" without a vote of the people ean now be met by pointing to the Ohio referendum. It seems probable that the same organization and fighting spirit which won that major battle would win on that issue in nearly every State in the Middle West.—Christian Advocate (New York).

Obituaries

Obituaries not over 200 words in length will be published free of charge. All over 200 words must be paid for at the rate of 1 cent a word. Count the words and be sure to send the amount necessary with the obituary. That will save trouble all around. We cannot make discriminations. Memorial resolutions are subject to the same rule as obituaries.

On the evening of July 11, 1922, in the little town of Anguilla, Miss., ROBBERT M. HENRY heard the call of God to come up higher. He was born July 16, 1856, near Philadelphia, Neshoba County, Miss. He was the son of Huldah and Andrew Henry. On Sept. 3, 1876, he was happily married to Miss Lou Teat, of Vaiden, Miss. He leaves his sorrowing wife and seven children to mourn his going away—four daughters: Mrs. H. M. Norris, of Plain Dealing, La.; Mrs. G. P. McKeown, of Madison Station, Miss.; Mrs. W. O. Sylvester, of Rolling Fork, Miss., and Mrs. E. H. Barwick, of Greenville, Miss., and three sons: Messrs. Rodney and Merlein Henry, of Anguilla, Miss., and W. M. Henry, of Greenville, Miss. He joined Woodland Presbyterian Church, in Neshoba County, Miss., at the age of 34. After moving to Sharkey County, Miss., he cast his lot with the Methodist people, and was a worthy member of Mattie Fields Memorial Church at Anguilla, Miss., when the summons came. He was a loyal citizen, a good husband, and a tender father. Those who knew him intimately highly regarded his integrity and piety of life. He had been afflicted, and was a constant sufferer for more than two years. His was the first link in the family chain to be broken. His body was tenderly laid to rest in Golden Link Cemetery, near Anguilla, to await the resurrection. May the bereaved loved ones realize that "God moves in a mysterious way His wonders to perform," and ever look to Him who alone can comfort them in this dark hour.

"As the star goes down
To rise upon some fairer shore,
So bright in heaven's jeweled crown,
He will shine forever more."

A FRIEND.

The Montrose Epworth League extends love and sympathy to Sister Hopper, whose dear husband, Rev. W. W. Hopper, passed away to be with Jesus, November 13, 1922.

On the afternoon of November 14, services were conducted in the cemetery in Waynesboro, Miss., by Rev. H. A. Wood, after which the remains were tenderly laid away there. Many flowers lay as a cover, as an expression from those who loved them.

God granted us the privilege of working with him for two years. His life will shine as a beacon light to lead us on to a higher and nobler life.

Sister Hopper, we commend you to the dear Father who "doeth all things well."

Signed by: Mrs. J. R. Mapfa, Mrs. E. A. Sartor and Miss Lyda Sartor.

DEATH OF MRS. F. WHITED.

The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. FRANK T. WHITED, of Shreveport, La., will deeply sympathize with Mr. Whited and his family on account of the recent death of Mrs. Whited. After two years of illness, Mrs. Whited was called to rest in the midst of the entire family connection and friends in the Whited home on Fairfield Avenue on November 10. She had lived three-score years and ten, and, having known her and serving her as pastor for a number of years and also knowing the testimony given by friends, I can say that her three-score years and ten were spent in conformity to the teachings of the Master. She was a faithful member in the fullest sense of the word of the First Methodist Church in Shreveport. After meeting all obligations to the church, in a silent and unobserved way, she made many needy homes happy by her kindly deeds. A rather small woman, gentle and quiet in life, yet she was the center and power of her own home and of the entire Whited connection.

Dr. Thomas Carter, of Vanderbilt University, in a letter of sympathy to Mr. Whited had the following to say:

"My Dear Cousin Frank:

"I have just learned of the sorrow that has come into your life and home through the passing of Cousin Katie.

"I simply want to express to you my deep sympathy in your great bereavement and at the same time to pay a slight tribute to the loving tenderness and deeply Christian character of your dear wife.

"It was not my good fotune to see her often, but I never got a glimpse of her but that it brought to me an inspiration. Her sympathy, kindness and evident sincerity of soul were convincing proofs of her companionship with the Maker. Her character was Christ-like; her presence in the Eternal Home is guaranteed; her memory is a perennial benediction to all that knew and loved her.

"God's blessing on you and the children who have such a forerunner who has entered within the veil!

"Sincerely,
"THOMAS CARTER."

The friends who gathered to do honor to her memory and the floral offerings which they sent were the largest of any funeral that I have observed in a ministry of thirty-five years.

GEO. S. SEXTON.
Shreveport, La.

RESOLUTIONS.

Whereas we have heard with profound sorrow of the death of one of our faithful members, Brother J. O. Lanfair; and whereas he was earnest and sincere as an official and a Christian, living his experience in unquestioned piety, exerting an influence for good, as well as standing for the teachings of his church and practicing its doctrines; therefore, be it

Resolved, That we, the members of the official board of the Durant church, Methodist Episcopal Church, South, do hereby express our personal loss in the going away of Brother Lanfair, and assure his wife, children and family of our appreciation of him, pledging them our prayers and commending them to Him who is the great burden-bearer of and for us all.

Resolved further, That a copy of these resolutions be spread upon the minutes of our proceedings, a copy sent the family, and a copy be given to the newspapers.

Signed by: R. C. Elmore, Chairman; T. P. Ramsey, Secretary; R. P. Neblett, Pastor.

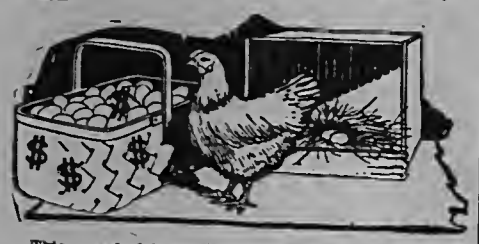
TAKE WARNING.

Just listen to this: A woman who was too "economical" to subscribe for the Baptist State paper sent her little son to borrow her neighbor's copy. In his haste he ran over a four-dollar stand of bees and in ten minutes looked like a warty summer squash. His cries reached his father, who ran to his assistance and failing to notice a barbed wire fence, ran into it and ruined a five-dollar pair of pants. The old cow took advantage of the gap in the fence and got into the cornfield and killed herself on green corn. Hearing the racket, the mother ran, upsetting a four-gallon churn of milk into a basket of kittens and drowning the whole litter. In her hurry she dropped and broke her twenty-five dollar set of false teeth. Taking advantage of the excitement, the eldest daughter ran away with the hired man, the dog broke up eleven sitting hens, and the calves got out and chewed the tails off of four fine shirts. The moral is plain: Subscribe for the Baptist Advance, so you won't have to borrow.—Baptist Advance.

Rodeheaver's Gospel Songs
Our New Book ready Oct. 1st.
Also: Victory Songs, Awakening Songs, Songs for Service
For all religious occasions. Shaped or round notes
Singly prepaid. 45c Cloth, 35c Limp, 30c Manila (Quantities Not Prepaid) 40c, 30c, 25c
Catalog of Sheet Music, Song Books, Bibles—Books and Folding Organs on request.
Rainbow Sacred Records
Favorite Gospel Selections 75c each not postpd.
Ask for Complete List
THE RODEHEAVER COMPANY
Chicago, Ill. 877 McClurg Bldg. Philadelphia, Pa. Dpt. 22—814 Walnut St.

WHEELER Business College
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
"WHEELER STUDENTS GET THE BEST POSITIONS"
Call or Write for Free Catalogue

Easy Now to Double Winter Egg Yield
Proven Remedy Gives Remarkable Results—Turns "Boarder" Hens Into Profitable Layers—
Winter egg yields, double and treble those of former years, are now being made by many poultrymen through the use of a compound that science has finally perfected.



This wonderful medicine, which is called "Hick's Egg-Lay," contains rare and expensive ingredients mixed so as to quickly increase the egg yield. The medicine acts on the reproductive organs and causes double and treble the usual number of ova (the germ cell of the egg) to be produced. Thus you get many more eggs and get them during the time they bring the highest prices.

Hick's Egg-Lay is prepared for convenience in tablet form. Simply dissolve one tablet in a quart of water. This is the surest, easiest and quickest way ever discovered to get more eggs.

A Trial Costs You Nothing

Mr. Hick is so confident that Hick's Egg-Lay Tablets will double and treble your egg yield that he is making a special guaranteed offer of one regular double strength $1.00 package of Egg-Lay Tablets and a full size $1.00 package of Hick's famous Lice-Go Tablets all for $1.00.

Lice-Go is added to the drinking water. The medicine taken into the system of the bird comes out through the oil glands of the skin and every louse or mite quickly leaves the body. Keeps the birds always free without the poultry raiser doing any work. If you would rather have two $1.00 packages of Egg-Lay Tablets or two $1.00 packages of Lice-Go instead of one of each, say so on your order. Send $1.00 today (currency, money order, check, etc.) to Chas. M. Hick & Company, Dept. 916, 1018 So. Wabash Ave., Chicago, Illinois. If you prefer, send no money. Just your name and address and pay postman $1.00 and postage on delivery. If after thirty days trial, you are not absolutely satisfied, write Mr. Hick and your money will be refunded. This offer is absolutely guaranteed, so don't hesitate to make the test.

DANDRUFF
quickly disappears when
TETTERINE
is applied. Fragrant and Soothing. 60c at your Druggist's, or from The SHUPTRINE CO., SAVANNAH, GA.

QUALITY GOODS
AT LOW PRICES
D. H. Holmes Co.,
LIMITED.

BOHNE & WILT, Booksellers, and Stationers, 1328 Dryades St., New Orleans, La. Baseball Goods, Religious Articles, Fishing Tackle, Periodicals, School Books.

If Ye Obey: If ye will obey my voice indeed, and keep my covenant, then ye shall be a peculiar treasure unto me above all people: for all the earth is mine: and ye shall be unto me a kingdom of priests, and a holy nation.—Exodus 19:5, 6.

Public Service

HAS BECOME THE ACTIVE PRACTICAL IDEAL OF THE STREET RAILWAY COMPANY WITH ITS REORGANIZATION AS NEW ORLEANS PUBLIC SERVICE, INC. WE SOLICIT HELPFUL SUGGESTIONS AND WISH TO KEEP SERVICE ALWAYS

On the Job

DR. H. B. BARTLETT
National Dental Parlors
Canal and Bourbon Sts.
Over Worner's Drug Store
Entrance on Bourbon Street
Phone Main 2193.
NEW ORLEANS
Crown and Bridge Specialist
Vitalized Air for Painless Extraction
Most Modern and Best Equipped Dental Parlors South.

Epworth League

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.

Orleans District Has a "Shower."

Mrs. J. G. Snelling was hostess at a very novel kitchen shower on Friday, November 24. The "shower" was the gift of the Union League to the new presiding elder, Rev. W. W. Drake.

Almost every League was well represented, Parker Memorial having the most present.

All Leaguers enjoyed the evening with a real old-fashion "family reunion." Some of the features of the program were: The Kitchen Shower, a Family Bawl, Observation, En Famillee, Family Secrets, a Family Argument, and Family Whit.

Blue ribbons were awarded each successful family, the Ware Family having the most ribbons to their credit, received a "handsome" set of kitchen utensils.

Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. Ware, Miss B. Ware, Silver Ware, Dele E. Ware, Mr. Hard Ware, Tin Ware, N. E. Ware, Mr. and Mrs. Green, Miss Jade Green, Eva Green, Olive Green, Mr. Bowling Green, Winter Green, P. Green, Mr. and Mrs. Age, Miss Bever Age, Marie Age, Mucil Age, Mr. M. Age, Mile Age, Foley Age, Mr. and Mrs. Berry, Miss Dew Berry, June Berry, Blue Berry, and others.

On Tuesday, November 28, the Carrollton Avenue League entertained the men at the Seamen's Bethel. The playlet entitled "Parliament of Servants" was given and greatly enjoyed by all. The Leaguers then sang some of their "pep" songs. This was followed by several solos and piano selections by the men themselves, which the Leaguers in turn greatly enjoyed. After the program the men were served with tea and home-made cakes, this closing the program of a very delightful evening. Every year the League is invited to the Bethel and is always glad to accept the invitation.

The New Orleans Leaguers wish to extend their best wishes to the new pastors who have come to the district, Brother Drake, Brother Hill, Brother Foster and hope they may often be with us at our district meetings. One other we especially wish to welcome and since we all know Brother Grambling so well we can't call him new, but nevertheless every Leaguer in the Orleans District is mighty glad he is going to be with us this year.

Shreveport District.

The Shreveport District Institute was held one week later than the New Orleans Institute and this was also a wonderful blessing to all the Leaguers who took the course. Thirty-five credits were issued.

RESOLUTIONS OF APPRECIATION.

At the fourth quarterly conference of the Logtown charge, a committee was apponited to draft resolutions of appreciation of Mr. J. S. Otis for his most excellent service rendered to the Methodist Sunday school of the Logtown church.

Resolved, That this committee express its appreciation in behalf of the congregation to Brother Otis for faithful service given to the church and Sunday school for more than forty years.

Resolved, That his loyalty to duty as an officer in the church is worthy of emulation.

Resolved, That we express our regreat that ill health compels him to retire from active service among us, and pray that God may restore him if in His wisdom he sees fit.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be spread on the Sunday school record, and a copy sent to the New Orleans Christian Advocate for publication.

Signed by: Mrs. E. L. Alford, Mrs. John Weston, Miss Annie Johnson, Committee.

Logtown, Miss.

FROM BILOXI, MISS.

Dear Brother Carley: We have just closed a series of evangelistic services in Main Street Church, Biloxi. Rev. J. M. Smith, one of our Conference evangelists, did the preaching, and Mr. C. E. Edwards led the singing.

Our congregations were much interfered with by many and varied attractions which, during the season, were crowded into the life of the city, together with some bad weather, and a great deal of sickness from the dengue. But with all, we had a good meeting. We had about twenty accessions to the church on profession of faith, our people who attended regularly were edified, and we believe were left more loyal to Christ and the church.

Brother Smith is a good evangelist and for a young man is an excellent preacher. Indeed, some of his sermons were of a high order both from a religious and an intellectual standpoint. His impression upon the bulk of our people, as well as upon others who head him, was very favorable. As a preacher he is fluent, has an attractive manner, and is in dead earnest. He believes in the Holy Scriptures and makes good use of them in all of his sermons. Withal, he is a man of deep convictions, and has the courage of the same. Brother Edward, his helper, is a man of a very fine spirit and is an efficient leader of song.

M. B. SHARBROUGH.

Turns Night Into Day

New Lamp Has No Wick, No Chimney, No Odor, Most Brilliant Light Known.

A new lamp which experts agree gives the most powerful home light in the world is the latest achievement of W. H. Hoffstot, 456 Factory Bldg., Kansas City, Mo. This remarkable new lamp beats gas or electricity—gives more light than three hundred candles, eighteen ordinary lamps or ten brilliant electric lights, and costs only one cent a night. A blessing to every home especially on farm or in small town. It is absolutely safe and gives universal satisfaction. No dirt, no smoke, no odor. A child can carry it. It is the ambition of Mr. Hoffstot to have every home, store, hall or church enjoy the increased comfort of this powerful, pleasing, brilliant white light and he will send one of his new lamps on free trial to any reader of The New Orleans Christian Advocate who writes him. He wants one person in each locality to whom he can refer new customers. Take advantage of his free offer. Agents wanted. Write him to-day.—Adv

ECZEMA

PSORIASIS - ITCH

RU-BON will remove every spot. Ask your Druggist. Made by RU-BON Chemical Co., Kansas City, Mo.

TETTERINE

CLEARS BABY'S SKIN

and drives off the Rash and Pimples. Harmless, Soothing, Fragrant.

60c at your Druggist's, or from The SHUPTRINE CO., SAVANNAH, GA.

Stomach Trouble?

Health is Most Important to You.

Columbus, Ga.—"Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is certainly a grand medicine for stomach trouble. I have suffered greatly all my life from a disordered stomach. My food seemed to set so heavy, no matter what I ate. I have taken many of the medicines advertised for this trouble, but none of them has ever come up to Golden Medical Discovery for giving prompt and lasting relief. Whenever I have a sluggish liver, with sick-headaches and constipation, I have found Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets a very efficient remedy. They do not gripe or cause any other distressing condition such as a great many pills do."—Mrs. Laura Kimbrough, 3503 Erlene Avenue.

Obtain this Medical Discovery of Doctor Pierce's at your nearest drug store, in tablets or liquid, or send 10c. to Doctor Pierce's Invalids Hotel in Buffalo, N. Y., for trial package, and write for free medical advice.

Dodson's Liver Tone Killing Calomel Sale

Don't sicken or salivate yourself or paralyze your sensitive liver by taking calomel which is quicksilver. Your dealer sells each bottle of pleasant, harmless "Dodson's Liver Tone" under an ironclad, money-back guarantee that it regulates the liver, stomach and bowels better than calomel without making you sick—15 million bottles sold.

$1000 For Your Spare Time!

Many ministers, teachers, farmers and merchants with willingness to work, are making this much and more per year selling our monuments in their spare time.

Responsible Men Only

We have some territory open for men who will interest customers in "Lime-Proof" monuments and who can give us good references. We require no advance payment because we are confident the monument will please the customer. No investment. Commissions paid in cash.

Write us today for full particulars.

CONSUMERS' MONUMENT CO.

Box 44 BALL GROUND, GA.

AGENTS $6 A DAY

taking orders for Non-Alcoholic Food Flavors. Every variety. Put up in collapsible tubes. Always fresh. Three times the strength of bottled flavors. Not sold in stores. Fast repeaters. Big income every day.

Men and Women

devoting full time can make $6 to $20 a day. Big money for spare time. Largest concern of its kind in the world. Over two million dollars' worth of orders taken last year by our Representatives for Zanol Pure Food Products, Toilet Preparations, Soaps, Laundry and Cleaning Specialties and Household Supplies. Every article guaranteed. Write for Sample Outfit and Money Making Proposition.

American Products Co.

7205 American Building, Cincinnati, Ohio

Child's tongue shows if bilious, constipated

MOTHER, CLEAN CHILD'S BOWELS WITH "CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP"

Even Cross, Feverish, Sick Children Love its Taste and it Never Fails to Empty Little Bowels

Hurry mother! A teaspoonful of "California Fig Syrup" today may prevent a sick child tomorrow. If your child is constipated, bilious, fretful, has cold, colic, or if stomach is sour, tongue coated, breath bad, remember a good liver and bowel action is often all that is necessary.

Ask your druggist for genuine "California Fig Syrup." It never cramps or overacts. Full directions for babies and children of all ages are printed on each bottle. Say "California" or you may get an imitation fig syrup.

Sunday School

NOTES FROM NORTH MISSISSIPPI

By Rev. R. H. B. Gladney, Sardis, Miss.

The session of our Conference held at Water Valley marked a new era for Methodism in Mississippi. Bishop Ainsworth, under God, unified our forces and we shall do the work we should have done four years ago. It is not easy for a church to go ahead of its appointed leaders. In this case we shall have to quicken our pace to keep in calling distance of the man who stands like a plumed knight at the head of our wavering columns. "Lightning struck a tree at Water Valley, we saw fire," and we are now going to do what the Lord has called us to do.

During the past year the Sunday schools made greater progress than at any time in our history, but we have barely begun to teach our people the things our risen Lord commanded us to teach; more than that, we are not teaching half our people anything. A careful survey will confirm this fact. It is true we haven't room (church buildings) to care for them when we reach them, but we can add to our buildings and teach these untaught multitudes.

The first thing that every Sunday school should do is to take the Program of Service and check up the work that is being done and go to work to do the things laid down in this program. One of the important points is to make a survey of the territory halfway to the next Methodist church, north, south, east, and west. As Bishop Ainsworth said, "Every man must break some new ground this year." When this is done, the church can see the field it is to work. Too long we have worked on the church instead of putting the church to work. We have nothing else to do but go after the unsaved and show them Christ.

When the new Sunday School Board was organized, each member present agreed to get the Program of Service and begin to work it through until each point is covered in full. There are three of these programs: the "C" program is adapted for the one-room church; the "B" program for the church that has three or more rooms and fairly well equipped; the "A" program is for the large city church. Write to me for programs and leaflets explaining these programs. Call upon me if you need me. The main thing is to begin at once.

The Conference gave the Sunday School Board permission to ask all our schools for the offering the fifth Sunday in December, 1922. This offering is to be used for Leadership Training in the district where it is given. We mean by leadership training, the holding of a standard training school in the district for the teachers, preachers, officers, and young people. Send the check to J. E. Stephens, Treasurer, Grenada, Miss. Only the Greenwood and Greenville Districts contributed a sufficient amount last year to finance these schools. The minimum amount needed for each school is about $200 when we have four teachers. The Sunday School Board expects to hold the Conference Standard Training School at Grenada early in June, and at least one school in each of the districts.

The teachers at Ebenezer, on the Buena Vista circuit, agreed to take "C" program of service and the first point they are to cover is a training class for the teachers. Our people at Boone's Chapel, on the same circuit, promised to organize a school to be conducted in our own church. Heretofore they have been helping run a union school. Our people ought to keep house for themselves and their own children.

The first official act of Rev. John A. Randolph, pastor at Sardis, was to call a meeting of the officers and teachers of the Sunday school to get acquainted and to lay plans for the new year. They adopted the "B" program of service and expect to carry it out to the last point.

FROM OLIVE BRANCH, MISS.

Dear Brother Carley: We arrived here in good shape, found a good, hot supper waiting, prepared by our most congenial people, which, after a hard day's work of moving in the cold, was indeed very appetizing. Then, a few nights later, it seemed that most of the people in town came to see us and filled our pantry with flour, lard, sugar, coffee, soda, molasses, soup, matches and various and sundry other articles too numerous to mention here, but nevertheless necessary and valuable.

Though our hearts ached at leaving a people we so much loved and never shall forget, those about our new home are leaving nothing undone to make us comfortable and happy, and our anticipation is that 1923 is going to be a great year in the Master's work.

We covet your prayers.

Very sincerely,

H. H. WALLACE, P. C.

Bitter Chillifuge 25c

Has a bitter tonic taste and quick action in routing malaria from the system.

Will quickly stop chills and fever.

Splendid tonic for torpid liver and bracer for poor appetite.

FINLAY, DICKS & CO., INC.,
NEW ORLEANS.

IS PROHIBITION A FAILURE? SOME FACTS.

1. Two years of National Prohibition has reduced the number of drinkers of alcoholic beverages from 20,000,000 to 2,500,000, a decrease of 17,500,000 says Federal Prohibition Commissioner Haynes.

2. Only 15 per cent of former drinkers are drinking now and these are drinking but five per cent the quantity of liquor that was formerly consumed, says Federal Prohibition Commissioner Haynes.

3. The same authority states that the entire drink bill of the nation has decreased $2,000,000,000 a year. This money formerly spent for drink has gone into savings banks or has been spent in legitimate lines for necessary commodities.

4. The year 1921, the second of the Prohibition regime, was the healthiest in the United States, according to figures submitted by thirty-seven leading insurance companies transacting about 80 per cent of the life insurance business of the country.

(Continued on Next Page)

Church Furniture
WORK OF THE HIGHEST QUALITY AT REASONABLE PRICES
Write for Catalogue
BUDDE & WEIS MFG. CO.
JACKSON, TENNESSEE

ANGELL'S

COUGH and WHOOPING
Cough Syrup
Easy to Take
No Habit-Forming Drugs. Formula of
DR. RICHARD ANGELL
Prepared by
JAMES R. ANGELL,
New Orleans, La.
PRICE 35c AND 65c
AT ALL DRUGGISTS

PARKER'S HAIR BALSAM
Removes Dandruff-Stops Hair Falling
Restores Color and Beauty to Gray and Faded Hair
60c. and $1.00 at Druggists.
Hiscox Chem. Wks. Patchogue, N. Y.

HINDERCORNS Removes Corns, Callouses, etc., stops all pain, ensures comfort to the feet, makes walking easy. 15c. by mail or at Druggists. Hiscox Chemical Works, Patchogue, N. Y.

Use MURINE FOR EYES
Irritated by Sun Wind Dust and Cinders
RECOMMENDED & SOLD BY DRUGGISTS & OPTICIANS
WRITE FOR FREE EYE BOOK. MURINE CO. CHICAGO

WINTERSMITH'S CHILL TONIC
SOLD 50 YEARS
A FINE GENERAL TONIC

Christmas Is Almost Here!

MAKE SOME FRIEND HAPPY

By Selecting One of These Good Books for your Christmas Remembrance. They are the Very Best Gifts that You Can Make.

CHIMNEY SMOKE—A BOOK OF LYRICS
By CHRISTOPHER MORLEY

Beneath the sparkling surface of these beautiful little bits of rhyme runs an emotion that transfixes the "tremendous trifles" of life. It is described as "Lyrics for Households of Two or More," but it appeals as well to all who love to see the beauties of our everyday life portrayed in gay and intimate verse. $1.50.

OLD MAN DARE'S TALKS TO COLLEGE MEN
By HOWARD BEMENT

Do you know any young man going to college? Would you like to give him a Christmas gift that he will remember for years to come? Would you spend 75 cents for it? If so, you can do no better than this.

WHEN WINTER COMES TO MAIN STREET
By GRANT OVERTON

When winter comes to Main Street, in the warm homes behind the lighted windowpanes people will be wishing for something good to read. For just these thousands Mr. Overton has written these lively chapters on the foremost authors and their latest books. The publishers recognize it as a means of popularizing the books of these authors and have set the price within reach of all. 384 pages. 35 cents.

THE MASTER'S METHOD OF WINNING MEN
By DWIGHT MALLORY PRATT

A plea for "personal evangelism." Dr. Pratt gives pride of place to personal contact as the most effectual method of winning souls. We heartily recommend this as a gift book for all Christian workers. $1.00.

THE STORY OF GRENFELL OF THE LABRADOR
By DILLON WALLACE

Having braved the perils of the Labrador country and understanding his boy audience, Dillon Wallace has produced a story of the great Labrador missionary, Dr. Wilfred T. Grenfell, which should quickly take a front place among his popular stories. Like all other Revell books, it is "clean as a hound's tooth." For boys. $1.50.

THE MOST WONDERFUL STORY
By AMY LEFEUVRE

The story of the life of Christ is told by the famous author of "Probable Sons" in a simple, narrative form that will appeal to the little tots of the ages from three and four upward. $1.50.

ORDER NOW TO INSURE PROMPT DELIVERY

Publishing House M. E. Church, South
MENTION CHRISTIAN LIST No. 5—IMPORTANT
Lamar & Barton, Agents, Nashville, Dallas, Richmond

CHURCH AND PARSONAGE PROPERTY PROTECTION.

By Rev. T. D. Ellis, Secretary Board of Church Extension.

The statistics of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, as published in the General Minutes of 1921, disclose the following facts:

1. We have:
   (a) 253 district parsonages, valued at $1,808,500.
   (b) 6,786 pastoral charges with 5,856 parsonages, valued at $18,942,929.
   (c) 17,464 church houses, valued at $96,143,159. This makes a total investment for parsonages and church houses of $116,894,588.

2 On this property we are now carrying $42,653,911 insurance. This means that our church has $74,240,677 worth of property unprotected against fire and storm.

3. During the year 1921 our losses by fire and storm amounted to $170,102, and we collected against this loss only $75,155. This means that $94,947 worth of property destroyed during 1921 was unprotected against fire and storm.

4. In 1921 we paid in premiums $249,777, and collected for losses sustained only $75,155, or we paid premiums in excess of losses amounting to $144,622. Add this amount to the $94,947 property destroyed which was unprotected, and hence a total loss, and it is seen that the loss of Southern Methodism from premiums paid in excess of losses collected, and in the loss of property unprotected from fire and storm, amounts to a total of $249,569.

The Board of Church Extension, acting under authority granted by the General Conference, is now arranging to protect the property of the church against loss by fire and storm. It is believed by those who have studied the question that an amount equal to the figures given above can be saved to the church each year, and in addition to this, by proper methods of publicity, bring our people to see the necessity of protecting the $74,240,677 of uninsured property.

It is not the purpose of the Board of Church Extension to make money through the operation of the Department of Property Protection. Parsonage and church property will be protected when listed with the Board at as reasonable cost as practical, and at stated periods, say three or five years, all earnings over and above the actual expense of conducting the Department, and the laying aside of a sufficient fund to meet payments when losses are sustained, will be turned back to those who protect their property with us in dividends in extended insurance.

The Secretary of this Department is already in office, and the first policies will be issued on April 1, 1923. Let every church house and parsonage be protected against fire and storm in the Property Protection Department of the Board of Church Extension. Write for application blanks and all other information with reference to this Department to REV. W. M. BLITCH, Secretary Property Protection Department, Board of Church Extension, 1115 Fourth Avenue, Louisville, Ky.

Great $2 Mystery Novel for 15c

You Must Not Miss Reading "Suspense"—the Most Exciting and Absorbing Story Published In Years.

Washington, D. C.—(Special)—You can see right through the plot of most stories, but "Suspense" will baffle you; it will hold you spellbound from start to finish and keep you guessing. This unusual story is by one of the most popular authors—Isabel Ostrander; it is original, thrilling, satisfying. The Pathfinder, in accord with its policy of giving the best in everything, will publish this great story as a serial complete in 15 issues starting December 16th. This paper is chuck full of just the kind of reading you want—unequalled digest of the world's news, including affairs at Washington; best stories you can find anywhere; stunts, tricks and amusements for the children. You can get this splendid illustrated national home weekly on trial 13 weeks for only 15 cents, coin or stamps, including "Suspense." You can also order for your friends at 15 cents each; but send at once so as not to miss start of new story. This offer costs the editor a lot of money but he says it pays to invest in new friends. Address Pathfinder, 276 Langdon Sta., Washington. —Adv.

PASTORS
SUNDAY SCHOOL TEACHERS AND HOME DEPARTMENT SUPERINTENDENTS

As a Christmas or New Year's token of remembrance to your members and pupils our distinctly Southern Methodist MISSIONARY CALENDAR is appropriate and inexpensive in price. Don't Miss It!

Prices: 10 for $2.30; 25 for $5.25; 50 for $9.50; 100 for $17.

Order at once to avoid delay and disappointment.

MISSIONARY VOICE, Box 509, Nashville, Tenn.

IS PROHIBITION A FAILURE? SOME FACTS.

(Continued From Page 12)

5. The Federal Comptroller of the Currency is authority for the statement that more than 600 mutual savings banks show gains both in number of depositors and volume of deposits during the last fiscal year. Prominent banks in every section of the country testify that Prohibition has promoted the thrift movement as shown by increased savings.

6. Judge Kent Greene, president of the Washington Home Association, the oldest operating association of its kind in America, is reported to have said that the Chicago homo is the only one out of sixty or more in the country to survive and that its slim patronage makes its future doubtful.

7. The report of the Board of Charities of the District of Columbia for the fiscal year 1921 shows a continued decline in the population of the workhouse and other correctional and reform institutions. The chairman of the committee on Reformatories and Correctional Institutions and others, says: "The most encouraging fact to be noted in connection with the workhouse is that during the past year, the daily average of prisoners was only 208 as compared with 334 the preceding year. This is the lowest number recorded since the establishment of the new workhouse at Occoquan, eleven years ago."—Exchange.

Say thou thy say and I will do my deed.—Tennyson.

QUARTERLY CONFERENCES.

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.

Alexandria District—First Round.
(In Part.)

Boyce, at Boyce, Dec. 12, p.m.
Cheneyville, Dec. 14.
Elizabeth, at Elizabeth, Dec. 17.
Le Compte and Woodworth, at Le-Compte, Dec. 19, p.m.
Pineville, Dec. 31.
Campti, at Campti, Jan. 7, a.m.
Coushatta, Jan. 7, p.m.
Alexandria, Jan. 8, p.m.
Melder Ct., at Melder, Jan. 11.
Marksville Ct., at Evergreen, Jan. 14, a.m.
Bunkie, Jan. 14, p.m.

The District Stewards will please meet at Alexandria Church on Jan. 2, at 11 a.m.

W. L. DOSS, Jr., P. C.

Lake Charles Dist.—First Round.

Indian Bayou, Dec. 10, 11 a.m.
Rayne, Dec. 10, 3 p.m.
Hornbeck and Peason, at Hornbeck, Dec. 17, 11 a.m.
Leesville, Dec. 17, 7:30 p.m.
Zwolle, Dec. 24, 11 a.m.
Many and Robeline, at Many, Dec. 24, 3 p.m.
Neame and Pickering, at Neame, Dec. 31, 11 a.m.
Carson, Dec. 31, 7:30 p.m.
Abbeville and Kaplan, at Abbeville, Jan. 7, 11 a.m.
Gueydan and Estherwood, at Gueydan, Jan. 7, 7:30 p.m.
Crowley, Jan. 14, 11 a.m.
Eunice Ct, at Eunice, Jan. 14, 7:30 p.m.
New Iberia, Jan. 21, 11 a.m.
Lafayette, Jan. 21, 7:30 p.m.
Merryville, Jan. 28, 11 a.m.
De Ridder, Jan. 28, 7:30 p.m.
Sulphur and Vinton, at Vinton, Feb. 4, 11 a.m.
Lake Arthur, Feb. 4, 7:30 p.m.
Branch Ct., at Branch, Feb. 11, 11 a.m.

J. B. WILLIAMS, P. E.

NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE

Aberdeen Dist.—First Round.
(In Part)

Pontotoc, Dec. 10, 11.
Prairie and Strong, at S., Dec. 17; 18.
Buena Vista, at B. V., Dec. 30, 31.
Verona, at Verona, Jan. 6, 7.
Shannon and Nettleton, at S., Jan. 7, 8.
Woodland, at Mantee, Jan. 13, 14.
Nettleton, at Carolina, Jan. 20, 21.
Greenwood Springs, at G. S., Jan. 24.
Vardaman, at V., Jan. 27, 28.
Calhoun City, at C. C., Jan. 28, 29.
Houlka, at Houlka, Feb. 3, 4.
Salem and Ecru, at E., Feb. 10, 11.

The district stewards will meet at Tupelo, Monday, Dec. 4, at 2 o'clock p.m.

T. H. DORSEY, P. E.

Columbus Dist.—First Round.
(In Part)

Brooksville, preaching, Dec. 3, p.m.; Q. C., Feb. 7.
West Point, preaching, Dec. 10, a.m.; Q. C., Jan. 31.
Columbus, First Church, preaching, Dec. 10, p.m.; Q. C., Dec. 19.
Caledonia, at Steens, Q. C., Dec. 15; preaching at Steens, Dec. 17, p.m.
Columbus, Central Church, preaching, Dec. 17, a.m.; Q. C., Jan. 11.
Artesia, preaching, Dec. 24; Q. C., Feb. 1.
Chester, at Nebo, Dec. 30, 31.
Ackerman and Wier, at Wier, Dec. 31, Jan. 1.
Kosciusko ct., at East Union, Jan. 6.
Kosciusko sta., Jan. 7, a.m.
McCool, at Bowle's, Jan. 7, 8.

The District Stewards are called to meet at West Point, in the Methodist church, at 1 p.m., December 12.

A. T. McILWAIN, P. E.

Corns

Lift Off with Fingers

Doesn't hurt a bit! Drop a little "Freezone" on an aching corn, instantly that corn stops hurting, then shortly you lift it right off with fingers. Truly!

Your druggist sells a tiny bottle of "Freezone" for a few cents, sufficient to remove every hard corn, soft corn, or corn between the toes, and the calluses, without soreness or irritation.

School Desks

Opera Chairs,
Folding Chairs,
Kindergarten Chairs,
School Supplies,
Blackboards.

SOUTHERN DESK CO., Hickory, N. C.

GET RID OF THAT FAT

Free Trial Treatment on Request

Ask also for my "pay-when-reduced" offer. My treatment has often reduced at the rate of a pound a day. No dieting, no exercise, absolutely safe and sure method.

Mrs. E. Bateman writes:—Have taken your treatment and it is wonderful how it reduces. It does just as you say. I have reduced a pound a day and feel fine.

Mrs. Anna Schmidt writes:—I weighed 175 pounds before I started your treatment and I now weigh 138 pounds. You may print this if you like.

These are just examples of what my treatment can accomplish. Let me send you more proof at my expense.

DR. R. NEWMAN, Licensed Physician
286 Fifth Avenue, New York. Desk H967.

CANCER HOSPITAL. Intra-venous treatment for cancer. Operation, Radium and X-Ray unnecessary. Booklet giving full information upon request. Box 2127, ATLANTA, GA.

Stammering Cured

YOUR MONEY BACK IF NOT SATISFIED. Here are the names and addresses of prominent people to whom you may write and learn if we really do cure stammering: Rev. Quincy Ewing, Napoleonville, La.; J. Q. Mahaffey, attorney, Texarkana, Texas; W. W. Callahan, attorney, Decatur, Ala.; any bank or pastor of any church in Tyler. Many other names furnished on request.

SCHOOL FOR STAMERERS, Tyler, Tex.

CHAMBERLAIN'S TABLETS
-SOLD EVERYWHERE FOR-
CONSTIPATION
BILIOUSNESS
Headache
INDIGESTION
Stomach Trouble

Ladies Keep Your Skin Clear, Sweet, Healthy With Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Talcum

BOILS Old Sores, Cuts and Burns have been healed since 1820 with
Gray's Ointment
Sold by all druggists. Write for sample to W. F. Gray & Co., 707 Gray Bldg., Nashville, Tenn.

TOBACCO HABIT BANISHED QUICK. SURE. Lasting Results
Tobacco Redeemer is pleasant to take. Absolutely scientific; thoroughly reliable. We positively guarantee you will have no craving for tobacco after using Tobacco Redeemer. Money back if not satisfied. Write for free booklet and proof. Newell Pharmacal Co. Dept. 963 St. Louis, Mo.

Headaches Vanish
Sick or nervous headaches, backaches, women's aches almost instantly respond to the liquid remedy Capudine. It stops the pain by removing the cause. Every home should keep a bottle handy. Sold by druggists, 10c, 30c, 60c. Insist upon getting CAPUDINE

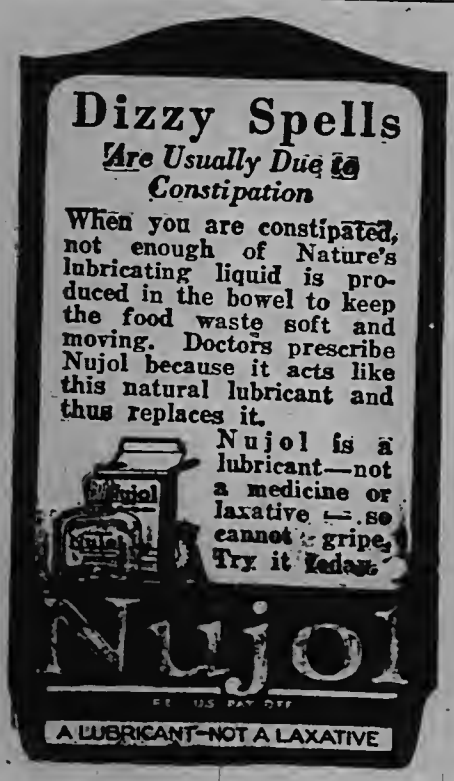
OTHINE
For the treatment of
FRECKLES
In Use for Over 14 Years
Your freckles need attention NOW or may remain all winter. Use Othine—double strength—the old and time-tried guaranteed treatment that has given satisfaction to millions of women, and rid yourself of these homely spots.
At all Druggists and Department Stores.

Dizzy Spells
Are Usually Due to Constipation
When you are constipated, not enough of Nature's lubricating liquid is produced in the bowel to keep the food waste soft and moving. Doctors prescribe Nujol because it acts like this natural lubricant and thus replaces it.
Nujol is a lubricant—not a medicine or laxative—so cannot gripe. Try it today.



QUARTERLY CONFERENCES.

NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE

Corinth District—First Round.

Kossuth ct., at Wesley Chapel, Dec. 8.
Corinth, First Church, Dec. 10, 11.
Corinth, South Side, Dec. 10, 12, at night.
Dumas ct., at New Hope, Dec. 14.
Blue Mountain, at B. M., Dec. 15.
New Albany ct., at Union Hill, Dec. 16, 17.
New Albany sta., Dec. 17, night; 18, a.m.
Guntown, at Guntown, Dec. 19.
Baldwyn, at Baldwyn, Dec. 30.
Booneville ct., at Oak Grove, Dec. 22.
Booneville sta., Q. C., Dec. 22, night; preaching, Dec. 31, night.
Wheeler ct., at Wheeler, Dec. 30, 31, a.m.
Potts Camp, at P. C., Jan. 3.
Hickory Flat, at H. F., Jan. 4.
Myrtle, at Myrtle, Jan. 5.
Mooreville ct., at Allen's Chapel, Jan. 6, 7.
Mantachie ct., at Shiloh, Jan. 9.
Marietta ct., at Marietta, Jan. 10.
Rienzi ct., at Rienzi, Jan. 11.
Chalybeate ct., at Camp Ground, Jan. 12.
Ripley sta., Jan. 12, 14, night.
Silver Springs ct., at Mt. Carmel, Jan. 13, 14.
Great State Conference on Evangelism, for all pastors and church officials, to be held at Jackson, Miss., Jan. 16 and 17.
Burnsville ct., at Hebron, Jan. 19.
Iuka ct., at Snow Down, Jan. 20, 21.
Iuka sta., Jan 21, p.m.; Jan. 22, a.m.

All pastors of the Corinth District are called to meet the presiding elder in Corinth for special conference, Tuesday and Wednesday, Jan. 23 and 24.

Paden ct., at Westt Side, Jan. 26.
Belmont ct., at Golden, Jan. 27.
Tishomingo ct., at Tishomingo, Jan. 28, 29.

The district stewards for the Corinth District are called to meet at the First Methodist Church in Corinth at 11 a.m., Nov. 28, 1922.

J. B. RANDOLPH, P. E.

Greenwood Dist.—First Round.

Acona, Dec. 10, a.m.
Black Hawk, at Black Hawk, Dec. 10, p.m., at 2:30.
Lambert, at Lambert, Dec. 17.
Itta Bena, Dec. 24, a.m.
Greenwood, Dec. 24, p.m.
Moorehead, Dec. 31, a.m.
Indianola, Dec. 31, p.m.
Inverness, at Inverness, Jan. 7, a.m.
Belzoni, Jan. 7, p.m.
Tutwiler, at Tutwiler, Jan. 14, a.m.
Drew, at Drew, Jan. 14, p.m.
Great Rally for Home Missions and Evangelism at Jackson, Jan. 16 and 17, five laymen from each charge, and every pastor in the district to attend.
Swift, at Morgan, Jan. 10, the pastor to set the hour.
Webb, at Webb, Jan. 21, a.m.
Minter City, at Minter City, Jan. 21, at 3 p.m.
Schlater, at Schlater, Jan. 24, p.m.
Tchula, Jan. 28, a.m.
Sidon and Cruger, at Sidon, Jan. 28, p.m.
Sunflower, at Sunflower, Feb. 4, a.m.
Ruievilie, at Doddsville, Feb. 4, 3 p.m.

S. L. POPE, P. E.

Grenada Dist.—First Round.

Grenada, Nov. 19, Dec. 15.
Oxford, Nov. 26, Dec. 19.
Water Valley, First Church, Dec. 3, Dec. 20.
Water Vaiiey, Main Street and Taylor, at Main Street, Dec. 3, Dec. 20.
Red Banks ct., at Red Banks, Dec. 10, a.m.; Dec. 11, a.m.
Holiy Springs, Dec. 10, p.m.; Dec. 11, p.m.
Winona ct., at Bethlehem, Dec. 16.
Pickens and Goodman, at Pickens, Dec. 17, 18.
Durant, Dec. 17, 18.
Coffeeville ct., at Coffeeville, Dec. 24, Jan. 10.
Sallis ct., at Sallis, Dec. 30, 31.
Holcomb ct., at Holcomb, Jan. 7.
Tie Plant ct., at Tie Plant, Jan. 7, 8.
Poplar Creek ct., at Shiloh, Jan. 13.
Vaiden and West, at Vaiden, Jan. 14.
Duck Hill ct., at Duck Hill, Jan. 14, 15.
Winona sta., Jan. 21, a.m.; Jan. 22, p.m.
Kilmichael ct., at Kilmichael, Jan. 21, p.m.; Jan. 22, a.m.
Waterford ct., at Waterford, Jan. 26.
Ashland ct., at Ashland, Jan. 27.
Lamar ct., at Lamar, Jan. 28.
Paris ct., at Paris, Feb. 3.
Abbeville ct., at Abbeville, Feb. 4.
Lexington, Feb. 9, 11.
Ebenezer ct., at Hebron, Feb. 10.

District stewards' meeting at Grenada, Dec. 7, at 2 o'clock p.m.

R. A. TUCKER, P. E.

Greenville Dist.—First Round.

Evansviiie and Dubbs, at Evansville, Dec. 10, a.m.
Tunica, Dec. 10, p.m.
Coahoma and Lyon, at Coahoma, Dec. 17, a.m.
Luia and Dundee, at Lula, Dec. 17, p.m.
Merigoid and Ailigator, at Merigold, Dec. 24, a.m.
Lake Cormorant and R., at Hollywood, Dec. 31, a.m.
Clarksdale, Dec. 31, p.m.
Friais Point and Bobo, at Bobo, Jan. 7, a.m.
Shelby, Jan. 7, p.m.
District Stewards meet at Shaw, Jan. 8, 2 p.m.
Cieveland, Jan. 10, p.m.
Gunnison and Sherard, at Gunnison, Jan. 14, a.m.
Rosedale and Hiilhouse, at Rosedale, Jan. 14, p.m.
Laymen and Pastors meet at Jackson, Jan. 16, 17.
Gien Ailan and Benoit, at Benoit, Jan. 21, a.m.
Gien Ailan and Benoit, at Glen Allan, Jan. 21, p.m.
Holiandaie and Arcola, at Hollandale, Jan. 28, a.m.
Leland, Jan. 28, p.m.
Greenville, Jan. 31, p.m.
Jnestown and Duncan, at Jonestown, Feb. 4, a.m.
Jonestown and Duncan, at Jonestown, Feb. 4, p.m.
Boyie and Pace, at Boyle, Feb. 11, a.m.
Boyie circuit, at New Salem, Feb. 11, 3 p.m.

The mass meeting at Jackson, Jan. 16, 17, is of sufficient importance to provoke a record attendance from this territory. Make your plans NOW, brethren. It will be the best money and time you have ever invested for your church. The district stewards' meeting at Shaw should have the individuai attention of every district steward. Due personal notice will be given later. The Shaw quarterly conference will be heid in connection with the district stewards' meet. District Conference at Jonestown, May 8-11. In arranging your meetings, brethren, give this fact due attention.

JAMES H. FELTS, P. E.

Sardis District—First Round.

Charleston, 11 a.m., Nov. 26; Q. C., evening, Jan. 2, 1923.
Oakland, preaching p.m., Nov. 26; Q. C., 11:30 a.m., Jan. 2.
Hernando, 11 a.m., Dec. 3; Q. C., a.m., Dec. 11.
Senatobia, preaching Dec. 3, evening; Q. C., a.m., Dec. 12.
Batesville, 11 a.m., Dec. 10; Q. C., p.m. Dec. 13.
Sardis station, evening, Dec. 10; Q. C., a.m., Dec. 13.
Byhaiia, at B., 11 a.m., Dec. 17; Q. C., 2 p.m., Dec. 17.
Olive Branch, at O. B., evening, Dec. 17; Q. C., 11 a.m., Dec. 18.
Como, 11 a.m., Dec. 24; Q. C., evening, Dec. 12.
Coldwater, evening, Dec. 24; Q. C., evening, Dec. 11.
Shuford, at Eureka, Dec. 30; preaching and Q. C., 11 a.m.
Courtland, at Courtland, Dec. 31; Q. C. in afternoon.
Crowder, at Crowder, evening, Jan. 3.
Cockrum, at Palestine, 11 a.m., Jan. 6.
Pieasant Hill, at P. H., 11 a.m., Jan. 7.
Horn Lake, at H. L., preaching, p.m., Jan. 7; Q. C., 11 a.m., Jan. 8.
Sardis ct., at Terza, 11 a.m., Jan. 10.
Arkabutla, at Hunter's Chapel, 11 a.m., Jan. 12.
Longtown, at Longtown, 11 a.m., Jan. 13.
Crenshaw, at Sledge, Jan. 14.
Mt. Pleasant, at M. P., Jan. 20, 21.
Tyro, at Free Springs, Jan. 27, 28.

The district stewards will please meet at Sardis, Miss., at 11 a.m., on Tuesday, Dec. 5. Please let all the district stewards who can possibly do so be present for this conference. Any preachers who so desire may come, but we wiii have a special preachers' meeting soon after our great meeting in Jackson, Jan. 16 and 17.

It is important that aii of the stewards meet their Q. C., that we may start our year's work off right.

J. TILLERY LEWIS, P. E.

(Continued on Page 13)

Methodist Benevolent Association
Gives Southern Methodist Men and Women Safe
LIFE INSURANCE AT ACTUAL COST
J. M. NEUMAKER, Sec'y
810 Broadway Nashville, Tenn.

RECIPE FOR GRAY HAIR.
To half pint of water add 1 oz. Bay Rum, a small box of Barbo Compound, and 1-4 oz. of glycerine. Any druggist can put this up or you can mix it at home at very little cost. Apply to the hair twice a week until the desired shade is obtained. It will gradually darken streaked, faded or gray hair and make it soft and glossy. It will not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy and does not rub off.—Adv.

Don't Wear a Truss

Mr. C. E. Brooks
Be Comfortable—wear the Brooks Appliance, the modern scientific invention which gives rupture sufferers immediate relief. It has no obnoxious springs or pads. Automatic Air Cushions bind and draw together the broken parts. No salves or plasters. Durable. Cheap. Sent on trial to prove its worth. Never on sale in stores as every appliance is made to order, the proper size and shape of Air Cushion depending on the nature of each case. Beware of imitations. Look for trademark bearing portrait and signature of C. E. Brooks which appears on every appliance. None other genuine. Full information and booklet sent free in plain, sealed envelope. BROOKS APPLIANCE CO., 441H State St., Marshall, Mich.

Aspirin
Say "Bayer" and Insist!
BAYER
Genuine
Unless you see the name "Bayer" on package or on tablets you are not getting the genuine Bayer product prescribed by physicians over twenty-two years and proved safe by millions for

Colds	Headache
Toothache	Lumbago
Earache	Rheumatism
Neuralgia	Pain, Pain

Accept "Bayer Tablets of Aspirin" only. Each unbroken package contains proper directions. Handy boxes of twelve tabiets cost few cents. Druggists also seil botties of 24 and 100. Aspirin is the trade mark of Bayer Manufacture of Monoaceticacidester of Salicylicacid.—Adv.

FROM ARKABUTLA, MISS.

Dear Brother Carley: I must tell you about what a pleasant move I have had this time. We (wife and I) reached Arkabutla on Sunday morning, Nov. 19, just in time for Sunday school, which we enjoyed very much.

We have met lots of people here, and we believe we have met the best people in the world. Why? Listen! Last night, just after we had retired from the dining room to the parlor, the voices of some 25 or 30 men and women were heard just outside of the parsonage singing, "Showers of blessings." The door was opened and the front room was filled with people, with some in the hall; but that is not it! The greatest pounding I have ever heard of followed. It was not a pounding in the back, either—it was one of the right kind. First, in came two strong young men, bearing a very large box. I thought they needed some more help. Following them were two more, with another large box. Both boxes were filled with good things to eat. Then there were lots of smaller packakges, containing "eats." After all was calmed, good Sister Moore said: "This is to certify that we are glad to have you both with us, and we hope you will be a blessing to our people." After a few words from the pastor, Brother Homer Metcalf was asked to read a chapter, which he gladly did. He read the twenty-sixth chapter of the Acts of the Apostles, after which the pastor led in prayer; then, with a hearty handshake, the band of Christian soldiers returned home. May God bless our good people in and around Arkabutla!

R. E. WOODFIN, P. C.

CHAMBERLAIN'S COUGH REMEDY
FOR THE RELIEF OF
Coughs, Colds, Croup
WHOOPING COUGH, HOARSENESS
BRONCHITIS
-SOLD EVERYWHERE-

CROUP OR WHOOPING COUGH
ROCHE'S HERBAL EMBROCATION
Relieves promptly and safely. Effective in Bronchitis, Lumbago and Rheumatism.
W. EDWARDS & SON, London, England
All druggists or E. FOUGERA & CO. 90-92 Beekman St. N.Y.

TETTERINE
Makes Hair Beautiful, Free from Dandruff and Keeps the Scalp Healthy. 60c at your Druggist's, or from The SHUPTRINE CO., SAVANNAH, GA.

GIRL HAD PAINFUL TIMES

Mothers—Read This Letter and Statement Which Follows

Portland, Indiana.—"I was troubled with irregularity and constipation and would often have to lie down because of pains. One Sunday my aunt was visiting us and she said her girls took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and got well, so mother said she guessed she would let me try it. It is doing me good and I praise it highly. You are welcome to use this letter as a testimonial." —STELLA NEWTON, R. R. 8, Portland, Indiana.

Mothers—You should carefully guard your daughter's health. Advise her of the danger which comes from standing around with cold or wet feet, from lifting heavy articles, or overworking. Do not let her overstudy.

If she complains of headache, pains in back or lower limbs, or if you notice a slowness of thought, nervousness or irritability on the part of your daughter, give her careful attention.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is an excellent medicine for your daughter to take, as it is especially adopted to relieve just such symptoms. Remember it contains nothing that can injure and can be taken in safety.

A NOTE FROM AN OLD MISSISSIPPIAN.

Dear Brother Carley: We are all delighted to have Rev. W. B. Hogg as pastor of our greatest church, Trinity, El Paso, which has 1500 members. His over-sea experiences as chaplain add much to his influence and natural ability, making him one of our greatest preachers.

I have been appointed again as one of the evangelist in the New Mexico Conference.

Our oldest son, Hawkins Golden, graduated last May with highest honors from the El Paso High School, which is the third best high school in the United States. He also won a $300 scholarship, which helps him to pay his way this year at the Southern Methodist University at Dallas, Texas. Our daughter, Eloise Golden, is also attending the Southern Methodist University at Dallas. She will graduate from that institution next June.

It would give me great pleasure if I could be at Crystal Springs next week and enjoy the fellowship of my brethren in my home Conference.

The Advocate is good reading aud we are glad to get it 52 times a year.

Yours very cordially,
J. J. GOLDEN.
720 N. Estrella St., El Paso, Tex.

THEN EVERY ONE SMILED, WE HOPE.

Before the war an American girl and a group of friends, all of whom were tourists, visited the old home of the composer Beethoven. Finding the great man's piano oppen to view, several of the party asked the girl to play for them; and she played Beethoven's Moonlight Sonata.

When she had finished she asked the guide whether many famous people came to the place.

"Oh, yes," he replied. "Paderewski was here not long ago."

"And I suppose he played also," said the young lady coloring. "Was it the same Moonlight Sonata?"

"Oh, no," the guide replied quietly. "He did not play at all. He said he did not feel worthy to touch the master's piano."—Youths' Companion.

The peace of God came down to meet
The throng that laid their labor by
And rested weary hands and feet.
—J. G. Holland.

Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic
Purifies the Blood and makes the cheeks rosy. 60c

To help promote good health see that the articles you use in your bakings give you—

Food containing gluten which is vital to your vitality.

Gluten is the soul of flour—the real nutritive element. It is gluten that builds health, strength, and makes robust children and healthy men and women.

Why take a chance on losing the full value of this gluten? Good, wholesome bakings can be made only from good materials—no other way—so use only good baking powder and plain flour for best results.

Don't use substitutes such as self-rising flour, Cake Mixes, and Egg Savers (so-called).

The safe course which is pointed out to the family physician is to recommend pure plain flour and a baking powder of standard quality, and to be especially watchful in all cases of malnutrition to be sure the diet carries strength giving properties.

For best results use—
Calumet Baking Powder and a good plain flour.

EPWORTH CHURCH HONORS REV. J. E. SELFE.

When we reflect on the work done in Epworth Church for the past three years and realize the change about to take place, we cannot refrain from saying, although with a pang of sorrow, that our loss is another's gain and we bow in submission to His holy will, and will greet our new pastor with a glad hand and a willing heart.

Three years ago the number on the church roll was 158; during the past three years 166 new members have been admitted and to-day the membersbip stands 265.

The church is fully organized and has a fine board of stewards. The Woman's Missionary Society is doing a splendid work and the Epworth League, recently reorganized, is composed of an interested group of young people.

Our pastor, Rev. J. E. Selfe, and wife have been an inspiration to many of us, and it is tbrough their prayers and zeal that the church and its auxiliaries have attained tbeir present splendid status.

On Wednesday evening, after the prayer meeting at the church, quite a number of the members of the Missionary Society and some of the cburch members repaired to the parsonage and surprised our pastor and wife, presenting Mrs. Selfe with a beautiful silk parasol, and remembering Brother Selfe with a pair of fine kid gloves.

We trust that in their new field of labdr at Hammond tbeir efforts to establish the "Kingdom of God on earth" may meet witb a union of forces which will redound to "God's glory."

G. CARTY.

Woman's Missionary Society.

From Elizabeth, La.

We, the members of the Elizabeth auxiliary of the Woman's Missionary Society, are grateful for the opportunity afforded us in having had as our leader for the past year Sister J. F. Waltman, and take this means of thanking her, and of expressing the benefit we bave derived from her splendid work.

Sister Waltman served as our leader in the study of the Missionary work for tbe first part of tbe year, and led our ciass in a splendid Bible study each Wednesday of tbe latter half. In both studies her efforts were untiring, and ber work conscientious. Never failing to be on time, and with kindly criticism and a splendidly prepared lesson, she was an incentive to good work, and enthusiastic membership.

In appreciation of ber efforts, her co-workers and friends, on the eve of her departure presented Sister Waltman with a beautiful parasol and purse.

We shall miss our sister and her splendid work, but we want to congratulate tbe community fortunate in having ber as leader, worker and friend.

Signed by: Mrs. J. W. Whittle, Mrs. George Peck, Mrs. M. D. Fridge.

SUGGESTIONS FOR BIBLE STUDY GROUPS.

For Bible study classes the discussion method is urged ratber than the lecture method.

A Bible discussion group differs from an ordinary Bibie class in the method by which it is conducted.

In tbe ordinary Bible ciass the lecture method is used, and the leader, in as effectuai a way as sbe can, presents the truth in the Scripture passages.

This method brings to bear on the group the personality of a strong woman who has thought the lessons through. If the message is strong, it causes women to think for themselves.

In the discussion group a problem is presented or a topic chosen, questions are asked, and the members of the group are led to see how such a situation was met in Bible times and to relate the truth in the Word to present-day lif.

Tbe dicsussion method is preferable because:

1 It is easier for the average leader to secure and hold interest.

2. It is tbe more democratic method.

3. It is more likely to lead to personal thinking.

4. It is more effective in leading to action.

The secret lies in the questions. Questions should go to the heart of the problems under discussion. Not the kind which can b answered by "Yes" or "No," but questions on which there is more than one possible basis of opinion or action.

Patience and tact will secure discussion.

A leader should avoid doing all the talking. Sometimes a brief lull in the discussion is the most fruitful part of the period because people are thinking earnestly on the questions for discussion.

The leader should state the question or topic for discussion. Sbe should guide the discussion and hold it to the point.

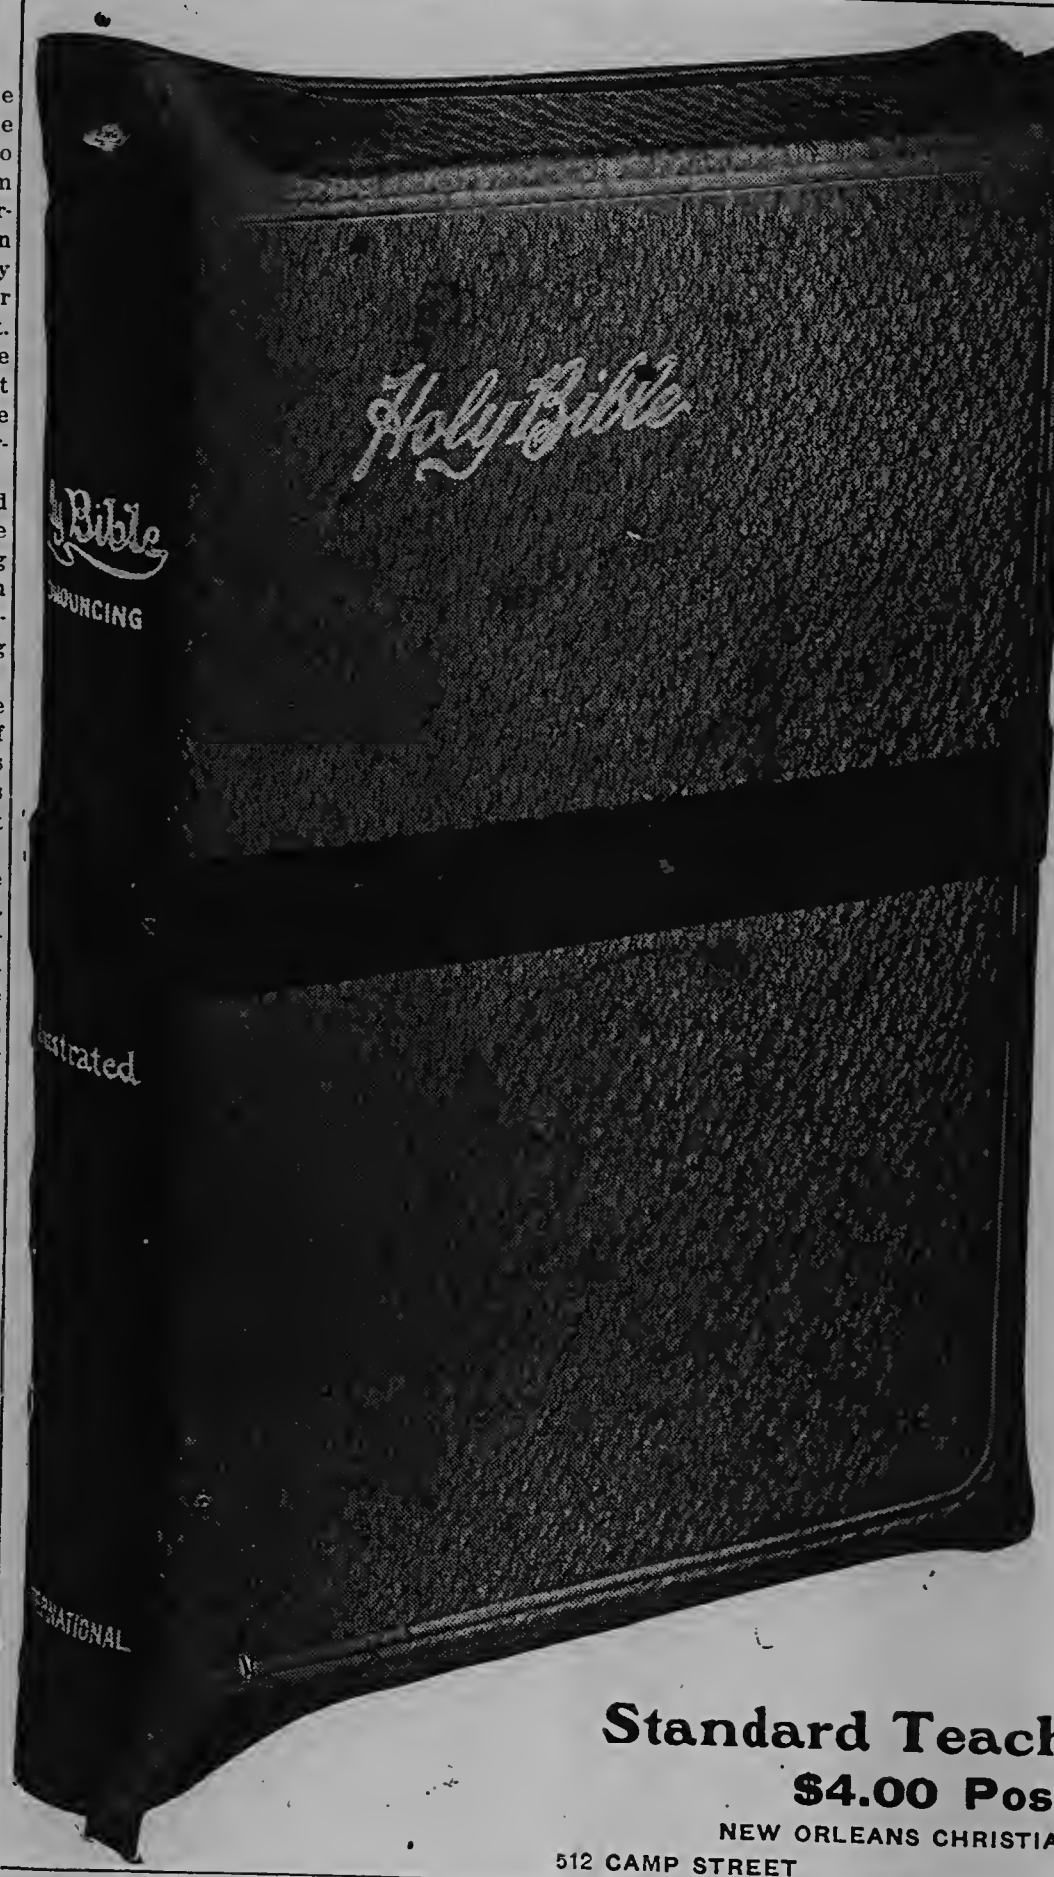
She should summarize the discussion. Definite conclusons sbould be reached. A group will tbink and talk its way through to united conviction. liberty of expression should be encouraged. Some of the best questions for discussion will come from tbe group itself. If possible, bring everybody into the discussion. If there is a difference of opinion, or if there are real queries in the discussion, the leader should summarize them frankly.

Know the group. Know the truth to be presented. Be prepared with leading questions whicb will promote discussion. Work out tbe application.

Work out the introduction or approach, how to capture the interest of the group at the opening, make the probiem live, and lead up to the main ponts in the examination of the Scriptures. Use tbe blackboard and write down the topics for discussion and the suggestions of the group.

Things to Remember.

Report your class to your Conference Superintendent of Study and Publicity. Fiil out an enroliment card and maii it to Mrs. H. R. Steele, Lambuth Building, Nasbville, Tenn.



Standard Teachers' Bible

FLEXIBLE LEATHER BINDING

5½ x 8½ Inches

SELF-PRONOUNCING EDITION WITH

Concordance

Beautifully Bound with overlapping cover, red under gold edges; 16 colored maps of BIBLE Lands.

LARGE CLEAR PRINT

This is a handsome book and is sold at a very reasonable price.

Price, $4.00

POSTPAID

SEND ORDERS TO NEW ORLEANS CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE

Standard Teachers' Bible

$4.00 Postpaid

NEW ORLEANS CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE

512 CAMP STREET NEW ORLEANS, LA.

Dick's Antiseptic

Kills Germs

For Cuts, Wounds and Burns. Especially fine for mouth diseases, pyorrboea and sore throat.

25 CTS.

NEW ORLEANS

CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE

Vol. 69—No. 50. Official Organ of the Louisiana, Mississippi, and North Mississippi Conferences, Methodist Episcopal Church, South. Whole No. 3488.

HENRY T. CARLEY, Editor. NEW ORLEANS, LA., THURSDAY, DECEMBER 14, 1922. CHAS. O. CHALMERS, Manager.

The College of Bishops.

Front row, from left: Bishop W. B. Murrah, Bishop John M. Moore, Bishop Warren A. Candler, Bishop W. B. Beauchamp, Bishop W. F. McMurry.
Back row: Bishop Hoyt M. Dobbs, Bishop James E. Dickey, Bishop James Cannon, Jr., Bishop E. D. Mouzon, Bishop Collins Denny.

MEETING OF THE COLLEGE OF BISHOPS.

The annual fall meeting of the College of Bishops of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, was held in Rayne Memorial Church, New Orleans, on Friday and Saturday, December 8 and 9. The following bishops were in attendance: Warren A. Candler, Collins Denny, Wm. B. Murrah, Edwin D. Mouzon, John M. Moore, Wm. F. McMurry, James Cannon, Jr., Wm. B. Beauchamp, James E. Dickey, Hoyt M. Dobbs. Bishops James Atkins, U. V. W. Darlington, H. M. DuBose, W. N. Ainsworth, S. R. Hay, and H. A Boaz, of the active bishops, found it impracticable to be present. None of the retired bishops was in attendance.

New Orleans Methodism was delighted to have these chief pastors of the church as its guests, and it will feel for a long time the helpful influence of their presence. The meetings of the College were executive in nature, but the record of their proceedings will be given to the church in due time through the secretary, Bishop Collins Denny. In a general way, the reports from the various episcopal districts indicated that the work of the church is making splendid progress throughout all our territory, the reports from the foreign fields being especially encouraging. It was our great privilege to come into touch with every one of the bishops at the meeting, and we bear record that not from one of them was a single pessimistic note heard concerning the state of the church. The Methodist Episcopal Church, South, is to be congratulated upon the fact that it has as leaders forward-looking men of world-wide vision, who are giving themselves unreservedly to the work to which the church has called them. The bishops are all exceedingly busy men—but they are busy about the affairs of the church and they do not spare themselves in performing the functions of their high office.

There was no time during their stay in the city for social functions in honor of the distinguished visitors, but at noon each day they were the guests of the pastors of the city at a luncheon at one of the hotels. At these luncheons various local and visiting laymen and preachers were also guests. These gatherings were very delightful occasions, informal but thoroughly enjoyable in every way. It is a rare privilege to spend an hour in the company of a group of men who are distinguished alike for their exalted Christian character, their intellectual capability, their executive skill, their wide experience, and their unflagging zeal in promoting the Kingdom of God. All of them are delightful socially, and most of them have a keen sense of humor that makes a social hour entertaining as well as profitable.

On Sunday the bishops filled appointments in the city as follows: Carrollton Avenue, 11 o'clock a.m., Bishop Warren A. Candler; Parker Memorial, 11 a.m., Bishop Hoyt M. Dobbs; Rayne Memorial, 11 a.m., Bishop James E. Dickey; Louisiana Avenue, 11 a.m., Bishop Collins Denny; First Methodist Church, 11 a.m., Bishop W. F. McMurry; Felicity, 11 a.m., Bishop Wm. B. Beauchamp; Epworth, 11 a.m., Bishop W. B. Murrah; Algiers Methodist Church, 11 a.m., Bishop Jno. M. Moore; Rayne Memorial, 3 p.m., address at the opening of the Standard Training School, Bishop Edwin D. Mouzon; First Methodist Church, 3 p.m., address to mass meeting in the interest of the Near East, Bishop James Cannon, Jr.; First Methodist Church, 7:45 p.m., union service of all the Methodist churches, address by Bishop Wm. B. Beauchamp.

New Orleans Methodism was so delighted with the visit of these chief pastors that it would be glad to have them make this city their permanent meeting place for both their fall and their spring meetings.

FORWARD MOVEMENT IN MISSISSIPPI METHODISM.

We do not hesitate to express the opinion that the great Conference on Home Missions and Evangelism, to be held in Jackson, Miss., January 16-17, 1923, will mark an epoch in the history of Methodism in that State. Bishop Wm. N. Ainsworth, who has already proved himself to be a leader in the work of the church and who is in charge of the two Mississippi Conferences, has planned the meeting to inaugurate a new and larger program of Christian evangelism that will meet the challenge of the world in a time when forces have been let loose that threaten everything that our civilization holds dear. Among the speakers who are expected to be present are the following: Dr. C. L. Goodell, of New York; Dr. A. W. Taylor, of Indianapolis; Bishop Warren A. Candler; Bishop W. F. McMurry; Dr. Andrew Sledd; Dr. R. L. Russell; Dr. G. L. Morelock. The mere calling of these suggests a program that will appeal to every man who is concerned about the spiritual welfare of the people. It is expected that every Methodist preacher in Mississippi will be present at this meeting, together with at least five laymen from every charge of fewer than five hundred members and ten laymen from every charge with more than five hundred members. With a full delegation from every church in the State, this Conference will mark the beginning of the greatest forward movement Methodism in this territory has yet known.

New Orleans Christian Advocate

OFFICE, No. 512 CAMP STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

Published every Thursday by the Publishing Committee for the Louisiana, Mississippi, and North Mississippi Conferences, Methodist Episcopal Church, South.

Entered at the Postoffice at New Orleans as Second-class Mail Matter. Accepted for mailing at special rate of postage provided for in Section 1103, Act of Oct. 3, 1917, authorized Oct. 30, 1918.

TERMS:

Subscription Rates: One year, $2.00; six months, $1.
To superannuates and widows of preachers, $1.

TO CONTRIBUTORS.

All copy submitted for publication should be legibly written on one side of the paper with pen and ink, or typewritten. Matters written with a lead pencil and rolled manuscripts are unacceptable. No copy will be returned unless postage is enclosed for that purpose. In no case will responsibility be assumed for the loss or non-return of articles—the writers should keep copies of them. We do not purchase matter of any kind.

THE SPOKEN WORD.

A word fitly spoken is like apples of gold in pictures of silver.—Prov. 25:2.

Words are lighter than the cloud foam
Of the restless ocean spray,
Vainer than the trembling shadow
That the next hour steals away.
By the fall of summer raindrops
Is the air as deeply stirred;
And the rose leaf that we tread on
Will outlive a word.

Yet, on the dull silence breaking,
With a lightning flash, a word
Bearing endless desolation
On its blighting wings I heard.
Earth can forge no keener weapon,
Dealing surer death and pain,
And the cruel echo answered
Through long years again.

—Adelaide Proctor.

PERHAPS AND PERHAPS AND PERHAPS.

By Bishop Warren A. Candler.

Sydney Smith said of Whewell, "His forte is omniscience." This witicism may be applied with qualifications to Mr. H. G. Wells. It cannot be said of him that his forte is science; for in matters scientific he is the veriest tyro, holding little accurately and very much incorrectly. But he assumes omniscience. He has written novels, in some of which he aimed to be theological, and in one of which he made for himself a god that did not possess attributes as high as those which intelligent pagans give to their idols. He affects statesmanship also. He was recently a candidate for a seat in the British Parliament, but his neighbors who know him best refused to vote for him. He was defeated overwhelmingly, polling a mere handful of ballots and running far behind any other candidate in the field.

His most ambitious work—laughably ambitious—has been the writing and publishing of an "Outline of History." It is such a work as no sensible historian from Herodotus to Lecky would have dreamed of undertaking. To write it implies a claim to accurate knowledge of universal history. If one had such knowledge (and nobody unless it be Mr. Wells would claim to possess it), a lifetime would be required to mold it into the form of accurate and readable history. Gibbon took twenty-three years to write his great work, "The Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire," but Mr. Wells required scarcely as many months to compose a universal history of the human race from the beginning of time. He is a very jitney driver in history, who engages to carry his readers from one end of history to the other between sun-up and sun-down at small cost. He turns the trick by transporting them through a fairy-land created by his own imagination working on a rather scanty stock of facts.

The first section as his "Outline" appears in the newspapers (to which it has been sold as syndicated matter) is headed very properly as "The Romance of Mother Earth." That is the way to handle it. It is romance, no better as history than the "Arabian Nights", and not half so entertaining.

One of the instalments of this romance lies before me, and every determinative proposition in it rests on a "perhaps" or a "probably" or some other such uncertain word or phrase. Upon these hypothetical propositions he then proceeds to hang a series of positive statements every one of which is bent by an unfriendly bias against Christianity as it has been believed and preached by the church of Christ since the days of the apostles. But how can any statement of fact which hangs on a "perhaps" proposition ever be accepted as history?

The dealing of Mr. Wells with the history contained in the Old Testament is notably agile and tricky. When it suits his purpose to accept any of its statements as correct, he asserts them as history; but when they lie across his preconceived theories, he rejects them as fictions made by priests to promote priestcraft.

The world as it now is could never have been at all if the currents of history had run in the shallow channels mapped by the "Outline" of Mr. Wells. He himself could not have arrived if the human race had journeyed by the route over which he says it came. It is necessary that youthful and uneducated readers should be warned against this "Outline" of history. It is not history at all, but is an anti-Christian document composed and published with a manifest purpose to discredit orthodox Christianity. Once this fact is pointed out, it will appear clearly to even the casual reader.

The "perhaps" process of which Mr. Wells is so fond, and to which he resorts so often for the misleading of his readers, is the favorite method of the modern rationalists. A book published recently by one of them is on my desk; and opening it at random I find the first page examined is fairly black with "perhaps" and synonymous terms of equivalent uncertainty. "It was probably," etc., occurs twice. "Perhaps" is used once, and "it is supposed" once. Out of this mass of suppositious stuff a confident assertion finally emerges in which the words "it must have been" are employed. But just why anything dependent upon his "perhapses" and "probablys," "must have been" is not very clear to a logical mind. In fact, the thing which he affirms "must have been" could hardly have been at the time he says or at any other time known to human history. The only "must have been" which occurred to me when reading this piebald page of "perhapses" was that the author "must have been" in grave error, and that he merely wrote what, on account of his liberalistic prepossessions, he wished had been but which never was.

These men, and others like Mr. Wells, should frankly confess that their stuff is not history, but simply handy hypotheses from which to make disguised assaults on orthodox Christianity.

The great archeologists who, with spades in hand, have exhumed ancient ruins and prehistoric remains, are against these purveyors of spurious history. For example, Prof. A. H. Sayce, of Oxford University, England, says: "The witness of ancient monuments to the Old Testament Scriptures is of a two-fold nature. It is positive, inasmuch as it proves they are in agreement with actual facts; and negative, inasmuch as it shows how far this is from being the case with documents which lay claim to the same amount of credibility, and deal with the same subject matter, but which really belong to a later age. The witness is therefore complete. Difficulties, no doubt, may still exist here and there, since as long as our knowledge is imperfect there are things which cannot be satisfactorily explained; but difficulties enough have been already cleared away, confirmations of the truth of Biblical records have been produced, to banish such doubts as may have found place in our minds, and to inspire us with a calm confidence that, with the increase of knowledge and the discovery of fresh monuments, the difficulties which still remain will be diminished and the great body of verifying facts continually enlarged." Again he says, "The narratives of the Old Testament, wherever they can be tested by confessedly contemporaneous documents, are accurate even to the most minute details."

The average reader will recall how the discovery of "The Moabite Stone" and later the uncovering of the "Siloam Inscription" confounded the rationalists.

All their confident theorizings about the Hittites have been exploded within recent years.

The explorations of Sir William Ramsay have overthrown all their skeptical conclusions concerning the history covered by the Acts of the Apostles.

The explorations of M. Neville, Flinders Petrie, Eustace Conder, Rawlinson, Banks, and others, have tended to confirm the Old Testament Scriptures, which the liberalists once truculently attacked.

So many of the impossibilities of the critics have become, through the labors of the archeologists, the established facts of history, the confident dogmatism of the critics is increasingly amusing and amazing. So much of what they said "must have been" has been shown never to have been, and so much of what they said could never have been has been proved to have been, an informed man is likely to acquire the habit of laughing at their continued cock-sureness. Will they never learn how to be modest? Are they incurably conceited?

Returning to the case of "The Romance of Mother Earth" by Mr. Wells, it remains to be said that all his glaring errors and monstrous inaccuracies can not be pointed out within the space of one brief paper. This article is designed simply to warn a large class of readers against trusting too confidingly in Mr. Wells as a historian. He is not worthy to be called a historian, and in a few years his ambitious "Outline" will be utterly discarded and forgotten. Unless one has far more leisure for reading useless stuff than serious minds can spare from our brief lives, he may well skip the "Outline" of Mr. Wells and read the doings of the "Lion-Tamers' Club" or the adventures of Mr. Jiggs and Dinty Moore on their voyage to China. Life is too short to be devoted to an excessive reading of fiction.

Time flies too rapidly for one to expend much of that precious property upon Mr. Wells with his "Perhaps and Perhaps and Perhaps."

At last, perhaps, or peradventure, or probably, Mr. H. G. Wells is a mere pretender who writes foolish and false things in a vivacious style. Perhaps! Perhaps! Perhaps! Who knows except Mr. Wells himself, who claims to know everything. But, mercy me, how much he knows that is not so!

REPORT OF CONFERENCE BOARD OF LAY ACTIVITIES, MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

(Published by Request of the Conference.)

To the Bishop and Members of the Mississippi Annual Conference.

Dear Brethren: In compliance with the instructions of our Discipline, your Lay Leader begs to submit the following report for the Board of Lay Activities:

It is with profound gratitude to God that we note an unprecedented response of our men to the appeals of the Gospel and an appreciation of the opportunities offered by the church for spiritual development and Christian service. While we recognize the greatness of the achievements of other denominational bodies, we rejoice with religious pride in the glorious history of our beloved Methodism, and the results with which God has so wonderfully blessed the plans and labors of those who have devoted themselves to the work of our great church. There has been an awakening particularly with reference to attendance on Bible classes, the habit of prayer, and personal evangelism. Just at this time there seems to be a very great opportunity for progress and achievement in the hearty co-operation of preachers and laymen in putting into execution the splendid plans and provisions for lay activities as set forth in Chapter 20 of our Discipline and in the Manual of Lay Activities recently issued under the authority of the General Board of Lay Activities.

In view of the action of our last General Conference in providing a more definite and enlarged scope of work for the lay members of the church, we should be stirred to a deeper sense of responsibility and more willing devotion of time, effort and material resources to the affairs and progress of the Kingdom of God.

To the presiding elders and pastors we would make an earnest appeal for the wisdom and inspiration of your leadership and counsel and your willing co-operation in putting into effect all the provisions of Chapter 20 of the Discipline.

We note with emphasis that the presiding elder is now a member of his District Board of Lay Activities and that each pastor is a member of his church or circuit board, and that the work of these boards is co-ordinated and correlated with every other board of the church, and that it is the prescribed duty of these Boards of Lay Activities "to consider, promote and execute plans for larger activities of laymen in all the work of the Annual Conference and to co-operate with all other Conference Boards in executing their plans for larger service in the work of the church." It is our desire to aid the ministry:

In promoting evangelism, especially in providing services for congregations who would otherwise be without service on the Sabbath, and in new territory to be cultivated.

In emphasizing the importance of the family altar and the public prayer meeting.

In aiding in all the work of the Sunday school.

In educating our people to the Importance and necessity for more adequate provision for the support of the ministry.

In administering the business affairs of the church, with the definite determination that the collection of every assessment in every church should be brought to 100 per cent and our efforts directed enthusiastically to that end.

In the offer of our services through the proper committees to see that the amounts pledged during the Centenary and Educational Campaigns are collected in full, as well as counting it a sacred privilege to aid in every way possible to secure the full amount assigned for the support of our beloved superannutes. May we not with one voice proclaim, "These Movements shall not pass out of our program, except in glorious completion?"

In encouraging stewardship and the practice of tithing as the guarantee of achievements and blessings.

In promoting the circulation of our Conference and General Organs.

In supporting our educational institutions.

In carrying out plans for larger social service.

We would urge that each District, Charge and Church Leader observe diligently the requirement that a report be made monthly of the work being done, and it is desirable that every leader and preacher make it convenient, as soon as possible, to read carefully the entire Manual of Lay Activities.

A meeting of the Conference Board was held early in the year and it is necessary that such a meeting be held as soon as possible after the session of this Conference and at such time that the presiding elders may be present. We would urge the attendance of as many laymen as possible on the great Conference to be held in Jackson on January 15, 16 and 17, and the Triennial Conference to be held at Lake Junaluska, N. C., on August 10 to 15, 1923.

Realizing that many of the demands and plans for our work cannot be executed or realized without some financial provision for correspondence, visitation, and group consultation and deliberation, your Board of Lay Activities requests that this Annual Conference, in accord with the action of other Conferences already held, appropriate the amount of $1000 for the use of Conference and District Lay Leaders in the carrying on of their work.

Brethren, whether we are at the dawn of a new day, as some express it, or not, we are certainly facing the greatest responsibilities of our lives, are in a position to see as never before the needs of the Gospel of Jesus Christ, and that the fields are white unto harvest, while the laborers are not sufficient, funds are inadequate and the consecrated zeal of the laymen is not commensurate with the largeness of the work to which we are called.

Let us not waste time seeking and advertising the faults and imperfections of our brethren and institutions, but, while neither blind nor indifferent to views and measures that are unsound and unsafe, let us cultivate the habit of recognizing and expressing our appreciation of the effective qualities and true worth of our brethren of the ministry and fellow-lay members, as well as the great institutions of the church. It is of the utmost importance that we discountenance and discourage a spirit of personal criticism, and that we demonstrate to our brethren of the ministry that we are in love and charity with our brethren and anxious to participate in a co-operative, intelligent and zealous spirit, in all the enterprises of the church, and count it a glorious privilege to be called on by our pastors for such participation in the evangelization of the world.

We commend the practice of daily prayer and Bible study, with an undisturbed adherence to the faith of our fathers. Your Board has considered the declaration of our General Conference of 1922 in regard to the doctrinal standards of the church and we heartily agree that our Standards of Doctrine are "amply set forth in our Articles of Religion and in the Apostle's Creed."

We also wish to endorse the splendid resolutions from the General Board of Lay Activities adopted at their meeting in August, 1922, as follows:

"The Bible should be the basis of all religious teachings and no book or literature of any kind which discredits or is in conflict therewith should be used in our Sunday schools, church schools, or other church organizations.

"We have the assurance that 'All Scripture Is by inspiration,' and no part thereof should be subtracted from, added to, supplanted or modified to conform to the mere opinions or theories of men. 'Man cannot by reasoning find out God.'

"The Bible is the true Science of Life and the key that unlocks its mysteries is FAITH."

Respectfully submitted,

J. M. SULLIVAN,
Conference Lay Leader.

WILLIAM WALLACE HOPPER—A MEMORIAL.

By Rev. H. A. Wood.

One of God's noblemen has crossed life's ocean, experienced its storms and fogs, fought his battles, vanquished his foes, run his race, reached the goal, entered the haven of everlasting rest, received his crown and now exults in Victory.

He was born in Mobile, Ala., May 20, 1852, and passed to his eternal reward from Montrose, Miss., on the morning of November 13, 1922. Thus a soul and body parted for a time, which had lived together in mystic union for more than seventy years; and a busy life closed upon earth forever.

Birth and death define the extremes of life, but it is the filling in of the years that counts, that really interprets life and its profound meaning.

He whose body we laid to rest in Waynesboro cemetery on the 14th of November started in life with many advantages, among which were a vigorous body, physical courage, a mind well balanced, and enough of family history to beget a healthy self-respect. His boyhood and youth were not enervated by easy circumstances; instead, he was trained to labor and to wrestle with difficult affairs, thus gaining strength and the safe consciousness of its possession.

W. W. Hopper was converted at Frost Bridge Camp Meeting on the night of October 14, 1872; licensed to preach in July, 1874; received on trial in the Mississippi Conference in December, 1874. His first appointment was Decatur Mission, which includes parts of Newton and Neshoba Counties.

He labored faithfully as minister of the Gospel in the M. E. Church, South, for forty-eight years, nineteen of which were given to evangelistic work.

It was in November, 1881, at Stanford, Ky., he received the blessing of entire sanctification. In the first twelve years of his ministry, following this blessed experience, there were 3305 conversions, 1198 accessions to the church and 1455 sanctifications. Among this number were men who are now prominent ministers in Southern Methodism.

He was married to Miss Hattie Renfrow, of Georgia, May 1, 1879. In 1907 she passed to her eternal reward. His second marriage was in 1915 to Miss Dora V. Stone, of Leitchfield, Ky., who proved a very efficient helpmeet and a devoted companion in his declining years. This bereaved wife, three brothers, Dr. Henry P., James T., Hugh L., and one sister, Miss Annie Hopper, survive him.

Brother Hopper was a man of remarkably candid and clear intelligence. He was never hurried in his mental progress toward conclusions, but when carefully, deliberately and prayerfully reached, his conclusions were decided, dispassionate, final and there was nothing that could disturb the equipoise of his mind.

His knowledge of the rich, beautiful things of Scripture was wonderful. How steeped his mind was in Scriptural idioms, both in sermon and in prayer! His clear apprehension and vivid conception of Christ as Heavenly Lord was the power of his ministry, as it was of his character.

His presentation of the experience of holiness was most fascinating. Men and women who heard him on this theme desired to go to their knees in prayer that they might find Christ as a present and complete Savior. He urged the necessity of the Baptism of the Holy Ghost upon all believers with the sweetness of constraining love and the solemnity of Divine Authority. Filled by its bliss and inspired by its power, he was constantly telling of its charms and inviting to its pursuit. He was ever faithfully, actively and ceaselessly engaged in portraying the glories of the subject to the vision of the church, until many, ravished by its attractions, would aspire to its attainment and by faith enter into its enjoyment. He was a great preacher of all the fundamental doctrine of Methodism—justification, regeneration, adoption and santification; and the beauty of it all is that his life, his every-day walk and talk fitted as smoothly and perfectly into his teaching and preaching as a rosebud into its calyx.

One of the most deeply spiritual and useful men of our Conference wrote: "It is so easy to connect the sainted Rev. W. W. Hopper with holiness and heaven! What a good man, a holy man he was!"

W. W. Hopper was a man with a message, not a theorist, not simply a doctrinaire, nor a mere instructor in theological propositions. He was here for the Master, whose glory was in all the Scripture and whose presence he felt in all his personal life and work. He had a message to deliver and was straitened in his spirit until it was delivered. Every fiber of his being, physical and moral, came in to contribute to the intensity and power of his utterance. While stern toward iniquity as the flintest rock, his spirit was tender as the soft and sunny meadow in summer.

The Lord's gentleness made him great. His kindness of speech about those who misunderstood him was marvelous. He seemed, like Moses, to possess the majesty of meekness that belongs to one who dared to talk face to face with God. So it was indeed that he became the eloquent and powerful preacher whom we knew.

As pastor of a parish or charge, he was always highly honored and beloved by those to whom he ministered; and they who are left behind testify to the affectionate reverence with which in childhood, youth, mature years and old age they met his benignant presence. The unselfishness, the generosity, the quiet unconsciousness, power, the purity of thought and speech of W. W. Hopper, attracted his people to him and won for him a high place in their hearts.

There are some lives that are disappointing, but the impressions which I formed of W. W.

Hopper at the first continued unchanged to the end of his life. I have known him in periods of tranquility, of undisturbed progress in his work; and I have known of him in times of strenuous and vehement controversy, and always he was the same.

It is good to have known him in our youth when impressions upon us were immediate and most vivid. It is good to feel the blessed influence of his holy and beautiful life upon us still.

The secret of his magnificent life was revealed in a statement to a friend who visited him in his last illness. With a glow akin to heaven upon his brow, he said, "For me to live is Christ, to die is gain." The maiden whose name is Peace was in the death chamber. He was in the land of Beulah, where the shining ones walk, and was looking forward from the summit of the Delectable Mountains to the land and the city which are beyond. He longed to live that he might still further serve God and his Son in the ministry of the truth; yet he was willing and ready to depart and be with Christ, which for him was far better. A voice from heaven said, "Come, servant of God, well done," and his soul passed into the presence of Him who gave it.

How strengthened and enriched is the cause of Christ by such a life which leaves behind it a radiance of purity, goodness and peace, such as few bequeath to those who survive them! So lived, so loved, so triumphed, through faith in our Lord, and in the power of the Holy Spirit, one of the noblest men whose life ever touched the silver trumpet of the temple service. That life with its many achievements has passed into history, its record is closed, the book is sealed, but its glory and influence shall live forever.

We may forget many lessons of truth learned from his lips and many inspirations to nobler work which we received from his spirit, but we shall never forget the benediction of that blessing which was ours, as we gazed for the last time into that tranquil face transfigured as by the light of heaven. Truly he had met his Pilot face to face as he had crossed the bar.

OUR EMERGENCY QUOTA.

To the Pastors and Centenary Treasurers.

Dear Co-workers: Of the Forty Thousand Dollar Quota assigned our Conference to be collected by December 31, 1922, more than one-half has been reported to me. The following churches have paid their quota:

Brookhaven, Magnolia, Sandy Hook, Fernwood, Flora, Hawkins Memorial, Bay St. Louis, Centerville, Holly Bluff, and Louise. Several more have reported nearly "over."

Please continue your work until each subscriber is seen personally and every dollar collected that is possible; then be sure to send direct to me or deposit in bank to John E. Edgerton, and report to me the amount deposited. Pastors are urged to see that their Treasurers do not forget to make report. Let your report reach me by December 26.

If your church was not given a quota in this Emergency Campaign, collect all you possibly can, and send it to me; even if your church has collected the quota assigned, continue to collect every dollar you can, for the need is very great.

For your splendid co-operation during the year closing, I thank you, and with the hope that your church will do for the Centenary that which will be pleasing to Him whose birthday we are so soon to celebrate, and that it may be a Season of Good Cheer to you, I am,

Yours for better service,

W. D. HAWKINS,

Conference Centenary Treasurer.

Make Your Choice: Lay not up for yourselves treasures upon earth, where moth and rust doth corrupt, and where thieves break through and steal: But lay up for yourselves treasures in heaven, where neither moth nor rust doth corrupt, and where thieves do not break through nor steal: For where your treasure is there will your heart be also.—Matthew 6:19-21.

NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE APPOINTMENTS

(For the convenience of all concerned, we are giving in this issue the appointments made recently by our patronizing Conferences.—Editor.)

Aberdeen District.

T. H. Dorsey, Presiding Elder.
Aberdeen—J. E. Cunningham.
Algoma—W. L. Atkins.
Amory—J. T. McCafferty.
Bellefontaine—W. C. Mattox, supply.
Buena Vista—E. C. Driskell, supply.
Calhoun City—B. F. Bullard.
Eupora and Maben—W. B. Baker.
Fulton—J. A. Young, supply
Greenwood Springs—W. M. Hester, supply.
Houlka—A. A. Martin.
Houston—E. E. McKelthen.
Mathiston—J. E. Lawhorn, supply.
Nettleton—G. C. Gregory.
Okolona—E. H. Cunningham.
Pontotoc—W. H. Mounger.
Prairie and Strongs—D. W. Babb.
Shannon and Nettleton—R. I. Collins.
Randolph—J. A. Brody, supply.
Salem and Ecru—R. M. Papasan, supply.
Smithville—J. R. Murff.
Toccopola—W. M. Commander, supply.
Tremont—L. Betterton, supply.
Tupelo—J. A. Hall.
Verona—R. M. Evans.
Vardaman—D. H. Crowson.
Woodland—J. G. Johnson.
Assistant Editor of Sunday School Literature, J. W. Boswell.
Chaplain United States Navy, J. H. Brooks.

Columbus District.

A. T. Mellwain, Presiding Elder.
Ackerman and Weir—W. L. Storment.
Artesia—H. M. Young.
Brooksville—A. L. Davenport.
Caledonia—R. T. Hollingsworth.
Cedar Bluff—O. A. Clark.
Chester—J. A. Biffle.
Columbus, First Church—E. S. Lewis.
Columbus, Central Church—A. S. Raper.
[illegible]ford and Shafers—C. W. Avery.
[illegible]—R. L. Ellis.
High Point—Wade Heath, supply.
Kosciusko Station—Olin Ray.
Kosciusko Circuit—W. A. Bowlin.
Louisville—J. W. Dorman.
McCool—Guy Ray.
Macon Station—S. H. Caffey.
Macon Circuit—M. A. Burns.
Mashulaville—T. J. Hopper.
Mayhew and Sessums—J. R. James, supply.
Noxapater—W. R. Goudelock.
Shuqualak—Seamon Rhea.
Starkville—W. W. Woollard.
Sturgis—R. S. Lawson.
West Point—T. H. Lipscomb.
Agent Superannuate Endowment, J. H. Bell.
Missionary Evangelist for Columbus, Aberdeen and Grenada Districts, W. M. Campbell.
Missionary to Poland, W. A. Langley.

Corinth District.

J. B. Randolph, Presiding Elder.
Baldwyn—J. J. Garner.
Belmont Circuit—C. W. Baley.
Blue Mountain Circuit—B. P. Hammond.
Booneville Station—E. G. Mohler.
Booneville Circuit—J. T. Gullett, supply.
Burnsville—E. P. Craddock, supply.
Chalybeate—M. L. Ward.
Corinth, First Church—E. R. Smoot.
Corinth, South Side—J. D. Boggs, supply.
Corinth Circuit—D. R. McDougal.
Dumas—W. R. Williams.
Guntown—W. M. Langley.
Hickory Flat—R. C. Nanney.
Iuka Station—W. W. Jones.
Iuka Circuit—C. M. Ray.
Kossuth—W. G. Burks.
Mantachie—G. B. Love, supply.
Marietta—L. B. Wimberly, supply.
Mooreville—R. C. Mayo.
Myrtle—L. H. Floyd.
New Albany Station—J. D. Wroten.
New Albany Circuit—J. W. York.
Paden—W. T. Bazzell.
Potts Camp—R. W. Evans.
Rienzi—W. I. White.
Ripley—S. A. Brown.
Sherman—J. L. Nabors.
Silver Springs—J. M. Spires, supply.
Tishomingo—W. T. Phillips.
Wheeler—E. C. Sullivan, supply.
Conference Secretary of Education, J. H. Holder.
Conference Evangelist, W. A. Wilson.

Greenville District.

James H. Felts, Presiding Elder.
Boyle and Pace—W. W. Hartsfield.
Boyle Circuit—H. D. Suydam, supply.
Clarksdale—T. M. Brownlee.
Cleveland—W. W. Mitchell.
Coahoma and Lyon—Del Longgrear.
Evansville and Dubbs—T. H. Mills.
Friars Point and Bobo—J. H. Smith.
Glen Allen and Benoit—A. R. Beasley.
Greenville—E. Nash Broyles.
Gunnison and Sherard—E. B. Sharp.
Hollandale and Arcola—E. M. Shaw.
Jonestown and Duncan—J. A. George.
Lake Cormorant—J. B. Conner.
Leland—T. E. Gregory.
Lula and Dundee—J. M. Wyatt.
Merigold and Alligator—L. A. McKeown.
Rosedale—W. N. Dodd.
Shaw and Litton—J. D. Simpson.
Shelby—C. M. Chapman.
Tunica—C. A. Parks.
Chaplain United States Army, J. M. Moose.
Missionary Evangelist for Greenwood, Greenville and Sardis Districts, J. W. Robertson.

Greenwood District.

S. L. Pope, Presiding Elder.
Acona—J. A. Patterson.
Black Hawk—W. S. Selman.
Belzoni—H. P. Lewis.
Carrollton—S. C. Yates.
Coila—A. S. Briseo.
Drew—W. N. Duncan.
Dublin—N. J. Golding.
Greenwood—V. C. Curtis.
Indianola—W. C. Galceran.
Inverness—W. C. Carlisle.
Itta Bena—J. T. Lockhart.
Lambert—C. A. Northington.
Minter City—C. L. Rogers.
Moorehead—W. D. Bennett.
Ruleville—R. O. Brown.
Schlater—J. J. Brooks.
Sidon and Cruger—C. L. Oaks.
Sunflower—F. H. McGee.
Swiftown—J. C. Nelson supply.
Tchula—H. N. McKibben.
Tutwiler—C. P. Moss.
Webb—C. T. Floyd.

Grenada District.

R. A. Tucker, Presiding Elder.
Abbeville, R. G. Lord.
Ashland—B. E. Crowson, supply.
Coffeeville—G. A. Baker.
Duck Hill—G. D. Burt.
Durant—R. P. Neblett.
Ebenezer—A. J. Henry.
Grenada—Melville Johnson.
Holcomb—W. F. Rogers.
Holly Springs—W. R. Lott.
Kilmichael—J. A. Goad.
Lamar—W. C. Beasley.
Lexington—J. W. Ward.
Oxford—L. M. Lipscomb.
Paris—G. W. Russell, supply.
Pickens—J. S. Duncan.
Poplar Creek—G. W. Robertson.
Red Banks—W. W. Bruner.
Sallis—R. G. A. Carlisle.
Tie Plant—H. G. Roberts, supply.
Vaiden and West—J. W. Raper.
Waterford—W. R. Liming.
Water Valley, First Church—L. P. Wasson.
Water Valley, Main Street—M. E. Scott.
Winona Station—Carroll Varner.
Winona Circuit—J. S. Maxey.
President Grenada College, J. R. Countiss.
Professor in Grenada College, J. E. Stephens.
Conference Missionary Secretary, B. P. Jaco.
Assistant Secretary, Board of Missions, R. H. Ruff.

Sardis District.

J. T. Lewis, Presiding Elder.
Arkabutla—R. E. Woodfin.
Batesville—W. M. Young.
Byhalia—N. G. Augustus.
Charleston—T. M. Bradley.
Cockrum—B. G. Whitehurst, supply.
Coldwater—R. G. Moore.
Como—A. C. McCorkle.
Courtland—W. O. Hunt.
Crenshaw and Sledge—J. M. Gulnn.
Hernando—P. F. Luter.
Horn Lake—J. H. Ingram.
Longtown—A. F. Moore.
Oakland—W. J. Wood.
Mount Pleasant—W. L. Graves.
Olive Branch—H. H. Wallace.
Pleasant Hill—T. L. Oakes.
Sardis Station—J. A. Randolph.
Sardis Circuit—M. H. Weed, supply.
Senatobia—W. S. Shipman.
Shuford—T. B. Thrower.
Tyro—N. M. Maxey, supply.
Crowder—T. H. Porter.
Sunday School Field Secretary, R. H. B. Gladney.
Student at Drew Theological Seminary, N. D. Guerry, Jr.

Transfers In.

R. T. Hollingsworth, in the class of the first year, from the Mississippi Conference.
C. L. Rogers, an elder, from the South Georgia Conference.
B. F. Hammond, an elder, from the North Alabama Conference.

W. A. Langley, in the class of the first year, from the North Georgia Conference.

R. G. Moore, a deacon, from the China Conference.

Transfers Out.

J. A. Poe, an elder, to the Louisville Conference.

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE APPOINTMENTS.

Alexandria District.

W. L. Doss, Jr., Presiding Elder.

Alexandria—O. W. Bradley.
Boyce—E. L. Cargill.
Bunkie—A. D. George.
Campti—L. E. Crooks.
Cheneyville—W. F. Chase.
Coushatta—Louis Hoffpauir.
Colfax Circuit—H. B. Thomason.
Elizabeth Circuit—W. S. Henry.
Glenmora—D. B. Boddie.
Jena and Jonesville—B. H. Sheppard.
Lecompte and Woodruff—H. W. Bowman.
Livonia Circuit—George P. White.
Marksville—To be supplied by J. H. French.
Melville—To be supplied by Charles W. Lahey.
Melder Circuit—To be supplied by F. P. Moss.
Natchitoches—H. W. Rickey.
Oakdale—A. M. Shaw.
Opelousas—S. L. Riggs.
Pineville—Claude K. Smith.
Plaquemine and Donaldsonville—H. B. Hines.
Rochelle and Standard—W. W. Perry.
Trout and Goodpine—J. F. Waltman.
Conference Sunday School Secretary—C. D. Atkinson.
Chaplain Veterans' Hospital at Alexandria—W. F. Chase.

Baton Rouge District.

J. W. Lee, Presiding Elder.

Amite—J. W. Booth.
Baker—J. L. Cady.
Baton Rouge, First Church—Charles W. Crisler.
Baton Rouge, Istrouma Church—Charles E. McLean.
Baton Rouge, Keener Memorial—C. C. Miller.
Bogalusa Station—E. C. Gunn.
Bogalusa Circuit—To be supplied.
Covington—W. O. Wagoner.
Clinton—L. C. Wilson.
Denham Springs—A. L. McQueen, supply.
Franklinton—L. W. Cain.
Franklinton Circuit—Jay Coburn.
Gonzales—Aristile Broulet.
Greensburg—J. T. McVey.
Hammond—J. E. Selfe.
Jackson and Ethel—B. D. Watson.
Kentwood—A. J. Coburn.
Natalbany and Pine Grove—To be supplied by B. W. Waltman.
Olive Branch—J. S. Rutledge.
Pearl River—To be supplied by H. W. Jamieson.
Ponchatoula—J. M. Boykin.
Slidell—W. H. Giles.
Springfield—To be supplied by J. L. Frazier.
St. Francisville—To be supplied by W. J. Newsom.
Tickfaw Mission—To be supplied by H. C. Murphy.
Zachary and Slaughter—B. H. Andrews.
Chaplain State Penitentiary—H. S. Johns.

Lake Charles District.

J. B. Williams, Presiding Elder.

Abbeville and Kaplan—F. M. Miller.
Branch Circuit—J. H. Hoffpauir, supply.
Carson Circuit—E. S. Williams, Supply.
Crowley—Alonzo Early.
DeRidder—H. T. Young; P. M. Brown, Supernumerary.
Eunice Circuit—J. I. Hoffpauir.
Gueydan and Estherwood—A. A. Bernard.
Hornbeck and Peason—A. E. Barnett.
Indian Bayou—P. O. Lowrey.
Lafayette—L. I. McCain.
Lake Arthur and Thornwell—S. D. Howard.
Lake Charles—A. W. Waddill.
Leesville—L. N. Hoffpauir.
Many and Robeline—J. A. McCormack.
Merryville—R. M. Brown.
Neame and Pickering—C. H. Mayo.
New Iberia—H. N. Harrison.
Rayne—A. K. McLeland.
Sulphur and Vinton—S. D. Roberts.
Zwolle Circuit—W. F. Henderson, Jr.

Monroe District.

W. D. Kleinschmidt, Presiding Elder.

Bastrop—G. A. Morgan.
Bonita—P. H. Fontaine.
Calhoun—R. V. Fulton.
Chatham—To be supplied by S. N. Jordan.
Columbia—G. D. Purcell.
Eros—W. H. Young.
Ferriday and Vidalia—P. M. Carraway.
Gilbert—H. W. May.
Lake Providence—T. J. Warlick.
Mangum—J. D. Nesom.
Mer Rouge—J. R. Roy.
Midway and Epps—To be supplied by P. B. McCullin.
Monroe—F. M. Freeman.
Oak Grove—George Fox.
Oak Ridge—D. C. Barr.
Rayville—W. R. Harvell.
Sicily Island—R. T. Pickett.
Tallulah—R. F. Harrell.
Waterproof—H. W. Cudd.
West Monroe—J. L. Evans.
Winnsboro—J. M. Alford.

New Orleans District.

W. W. Drake, Presiding Elder.

Missionary Evangelist—Martin Hebert.
Bayou Blue—George A. LaGrange, supply.
Franklin—L. R. Sparks.
Houma—F. J. McCoy.
Lafourche Mission—To be supplied.
Lockport and Raceland—James E. Knight, supply.
Lydia Circuit—To be supplied.
McDonoghville—F. B. Hill.
Ville Platte Circuit—E. V. Duplantis.
Morgan City and Berwick—William Schule.
Algiers—C. C. Wier.
Carrollton Avenue—Ellis Smith.
Epworth—J. B. Grambling, supply.
Felicity—H. T. Carley.
First Church—R. H. Harper.
Louisiana Avenue and Superintendent Memorial Home—J. G. Snelling.
Parker Memorial—H. N. Brown.
Rayne Memorial—W. L. Duren.
Second Church—J. A. Alford.
St. Mark's and Mary Werlein—J. F. Foster and one to be supplied for the Italian congregation.
Patterson and Jeanerette—S. A. Seegers.
St. Martinville and Port Barre Circuit—A. J. Martin.
Dean School of Theology, Emory University—F. N. Parker.
Editor Epworth Era and General Secretary Epworth League Board—F. S. Parker.
Editor New Orleans Christian Advocate—H. T. Carley.
Chaplain United States Army—A. F. Vaughan.

Ruston District.

K. W. Dodson, Presiding Elder.

Arcadia—H. W. Ledbetter.
Athens—C. F. Sheppard.
Bernice—O. L. Tucker.
Bienville—L. P. Moreland.
Castor—E. J. Buck, supply.
Cotton Valley Circuit—D. E. Anders.
Dubach—J. W. Faulk.
Elmore—L. W. Smart.
Farmerville—To be supplied.
Gibbsland—S. S. Bogan.
Haughton and Doyline—J. O. Bennett.
Haynesville—A. J. Gearheard.
Homer—R. W. Tucker.
Jonesboro—J. C. Price.
Marion Circuit—To be supplied.
Minden—W. C. Childress.
Ringgold—A. L. Harper.
Ruston—N. E. Joyner.
Sibley—J. F. Dring, supply.
Simsboro—H. J. Boltz.
Springhill—T. W. St. John.
Wesley Circuit—D. C. Bennett.
Winnfield—W. H. Jordan.
Winnfield Circuit—E. W. Day, supply.
Superintendent of Louisiana Methodist Orphanage—R. W. Vaughan; Financial Secretary—Briscoe Carter.
Student Southern Methodist University—J. L. Greenway, Jr.

Shreveport District.

R. H. Wynn, Presiding Elder.

Bayou LaChute—D. B. Rawlins.
Belcher Circuit—A. S. J. Neill.
Bossier City—A. H. Parker.
Cedar Grove—H. L. Johns.
Grand Cane Circuit—T. D. Lipscomb.
Greenwood Circuit—D. E. Dulaney.
Ida Circuit—W. E. Aiken.
Logansport—Leland Clegg.
Longstreet Circuit—W. F. Roberts.
Mansfield and Mission—J. W. Pearson.
Mooringsport—I. T. Reames.
Oil City—R. A. Bozeman.
Pelican—T. J. Holladay.
Plain Dealing—A. J. Bonnett.
Pleasant Hill—J. L. Lay.
First Church, Shreveport—H. F. Brooks.
Mangum Memorial—J. Cudd Rousseaux.
Noel Memorial, Shreveport—W. W. Holmes.
Texas Avenue, Shreveport—R. S. Walton.
Shreveport Circuit—To be supplied.
Vivian—R. T. Ware.
Centenary College—President, George S. Sexton.
Centenary College—Professors, R. E. Smith and Roy Moore.
Conference Secretary of Education—A. S. Lutz.
Superintendent of Anti-Saloon League—A. W. Turner.
District Evangelist—G. D. Anders.

Transfers.

Transferred out: To New Mexico Conference, Frank Collins, J. W. Rayner; to West Texas Conference, S. J. McLean; to Northwest Texas Conference, Alonzo Early.

Transferred in: Alonzo Early, from Northwest Texas Conference; R. T. Pickett, from the Mississippi Conference; A. K. McLeland, from the Alabama Conference; T. W. St. John, from the Texas Conference.

MISSISSIPPI ANNUAL CONFERENCE APPOINTMENTS.

Brookhaven District.

H. M. Ellis, Presiding Elder.

Adams—W. W. Nelson.
Barlow—A. T. Long.
Bayou Pierre—S. B. Watkins.
Bogue Chitto and Norfield—J. T. Weems.
Brookhaven—A. M. Broadfoot.
Crystal Springs—W. B. Jones.
Fernwood—H. L. Norton.
Foxworth—J. W. Price; W. B. Waldrop, supernumerary.
Gallman—J. T. Abney.
Georgetown—Jas. W. Sells.
Hazlehurst—W. H. Saunders.
Magnolia—C. P. Jones.
McComb: Centenary—G. H. Thompson.
LaBranch Street—A. S. Oliver.
Pearl River Avenue—J. A. Wells.
Meadville and Bude—S. F. Harkey.
Monticello—R. A. Allums.
Osyka—H. E. Raley.
Pleasant Grove—F. J. Jones.
Scotland—J. L. Carter.
Summit and Topisaw—J. E. J. Ferguson.
Chaplain in United States Navy—W. N. Thomas.
Conference Evangelist—W. T. Griffin.
Tylertown—F. B. Ormond.
Wesson and Beauregard—J. S. Purcell.
President Whitworth College—I. W. Cooper

Hattiesburg District.

W. W. Graves, Presiding Elder.

Avera—M. W. Porter.
Bon Hommie—A. J. Boyles.
Collins—J. W. Thompson.
Ellisville—J. B. Cain.
Encutta—J. C. Jackson.
Hattiesburg: Broad Street—A. J. Davis.
Court Street—C. M. Crossley.
Main Street—J. T. Leggett.
Heidelberg—W. G. Forsyth.
Leakesville—J. H. Jolly.
Lucedale—B. E. Meigs.
Lucedale Circuit—To be supplied.
Mt. Olive and Magee—J. L. Greenway.
New Augusta—H. S. Westbrook.
Oloh—C. C. Griffin.
Petal—S. C. Moody.
Prentiss—H. R. McKee.
Purvis—W. M. Williams.
Richton—A. W. O'Bryant.
Seminary—H. J. Maddox.
Silver City—P. H. Howse.
Sumrall—H. Mellard.
Taylorsville—A. J. Leggett.
Williamsburg—W. J. Walters.
Conference Evangelist—D. E. Kelley.

Jackson District.

M. L. Burton, Presiding Elder.

Benton—E. A. King.
Bentonia—J. F. Watson.
Bolton and Raymond—H. M. Johnson.
Brandon and Pelahatchie—W. J. Dawson.
Camden—G. E. Allen.
Canton—H. A. Gatlin.
Eden—B. W. Lewis.
Edwards—B. F. Jones.
Fannin—W. D. Barrett.
Flora—J. H. Foreman.
Florence—A. A. Sims.
Harrisville—I. H. Sells.
Jackson: Capital Street—H. F. Tolle.
Galloway Memorial—E. K. Means; J. L. Ferguson, Junior Preacher.
Rankin Street—F. L. Applewhite.
Madison—Percy Vaughan.
Mendenhall and D'Lo—J. C. Ware.
Monterey—L. M. Sharp.
Satartia—B. H. Williams.
Sharon—W. N. Ware.
Terry—C. E. Downer.
Vaughn—A. S. Byrd.
Yazoo City—W. J. Ferguson.
Yazoo City Circuit—G. H. Boyles.
President of Millsaps College—A. F. Watkins.
Professors in Millsaps College—J. L. Ferguson, C. A. Bowen.
Commissioner of Millsaps College—M. M. Black.
Secretary of Education—J. M. Morse.
Sunday School Secretary—J. C. Chambers.
Manager of Orphans' Home—B. F. Lewis.
Manager Mississippi Home Finding Society—J. L. Sutton.
Student in Emory University—Otto Porter.
Superintendent Czecho-Slovakia Mission—J. L. Neill.
Student in Emory University—W. C. Wesley.
Conference Evangelist—J. V. Bennett.
Syrian Mission—Chas. Assaf, supply.
Missionary Evangelist, Jackson, Vicksburg, and Brookhaven Districts—Rolfe Hunt.

(Continued on Ninth Page)

A RETROSPECT.

By Rev. Jno. W. Boswell, D.D.

November 30, 1922. I am this day 83 years of age. I was born in Gibson County, Tennessee, November 30, 1839, but lived there only a short while, as my father was a preacher and was sent that year to La Grange Station. I was licensed to preach at Whiteville, Tennessee, by the La Grange circuit quarterly conference, February 13, 1859; joined the Memphis Conference the following fall, and went to my first circuit the day I was 20 years old, arriving at the home of Rev. J. H. Brooks, my presiding elder, in the afternoon. Thus began an itinerant career which has lasted sixty-three years. It has been unbroken save by two spells of protracted sickness, the last of which, but for the goodness of the church at Morrillton, Arkansas, and the kindness of Bishop Galloway, would have put me on the superannuate list thirty-five years ago. I recovered sufficiently to maintain my place in the ranks, and am still in the active work, and take my appointment at the hands of the Bishops from year to year, as do all other preachers.

According to the figures, I am the oldest man in active service in either the Memphis or the North Mississippi Conference, and the oldest in point of membership except Brother D. C. Johnson, of the Memphis Conference. He and I are the only survivors of the Memphis Conferenee of 1859, which at that time embraced about half of the North Mississippi territory. Brother Lewis, who wrote an account of the proceedings of the late session of our Conference, among other things reported Brother J. J. Brooks as being "the oldest man in active service in the Conference." All honor to Brother Joe; he has done his part well and faithfully for fifty-three years, but I am ahead of him ten years, in both age and service, and am yet doing my appointed work according to the Discipline, the work advised by the authorities, "at those times and places which they judge most for the glory of God."

As I look back and recount the scenes of other days, I note nothing to regret except my shortcomings and failures. These I deplore. Could I live my life again, I would not decline to take the same path and follow its windings even over the hills of the Oxford and Hickory Flat circuits, in Mississippi, and through the slashes of the White River country in Arkansas. I did many years of hard work and went through great trials. Especially during the early years of my ministry, while the great war was being waged between the North and the South, and immediately after, did I experience trouble and hardships, but they were only such as befell the majority of preachers of that day.

In pastoral work I have had a full share of the poorest circuits in the Connection; likewise a full share of richer and larger churches than I deserved. Besides, I have been honored with other positions of responsibility, including editorial work covering a period of more than thirty years. This work, which is looked upon by many as outside "the regular service," I do not count as lost.

In every position intrusted to me I have tried to maintain the character of an evangelical preacher. In doing this I have ever found the Word of God sufficient to furnish me texts and subject matter for my preaching. To the best of my ability I have upheld the doctrines, polity and usages of Episcopal Methodism; and to-day I am loyal to the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, and am always happy in co-operating with my brethren who are working to advance her interests. I would not blot out a single page of her history, nor cast a reflection on those of the past generation, who, under the Lord's guiding hand, made possible her wonderful success.

In the great day of final accounts, among many regrets, the greatest will be the smallness of the returns to the Master for the advantages and opportunities I have received at his hands. But his mercy is great. In that I trust.

Rev. A. H. Williams, formerly of the North Mississippi Conference, but recently pastor at Montevallo, Ala., was appointed at the recent session of his Conference to Cherokee, Ala.

A WHITE MONUMENT OF LOVE AND HOPE.

By Sidney M. Reid.

In telling you something of the Women's Central Plant in Songdo I have a sense of awe that one feels in contemplating a century tree; one thinks of the roots in the dark earth trying to reach to the sky, and I have wondered if I could begin to describe this building in the main street of Songdo, planted in the dirt, surrounded by the mean thatched cottages and narrow lanes of which the city is composed, but looking to Heaven, a white monument of love and hope for our Korean sisters.

We have, of course, the schools, the hospitals, and other Mission buildings, but how can I express to you what it means to have a home for Korean women, all ages, all classes, mothers and wives, who never have had and never can have the advantage of a school?

Here they can come and take a single class in sewing or cooking, music or singing, if their time is limited. (Bible classes are always included with any other kind.) Being a social center, they will meet each other and the missionaries in a friendly, informal way, and so we can get in contact with them, and they will find an atmosphere in which their hearts and souls can expand.

But can you see this from the Korean man's point of view? Something done entirely for women is new to their reasoning, and I noticed they leaned forward with eager attention during the opening entertainment, and were completely fascinated with the interesting program presented by the women for the women of Songdo and Korea.

I felt sure when I observed them that some of the charm of the pageant, and its deep spiritual message, would move those hard-headed parents and grandparents to be more lenient with their daughters-in-law, and allow them to engage more freely in the Christian privileges they are reaching out to.

But to come back to the Central Plant, or the "Yaw ja gwan," as the Koreans call it. For years Miss Agnes Graham has been carrying on her work under great difficulties. It has been like a soul struggling to express itself without a body. She has had no nucleus for the members of her classes and Bible women. She has had to borrow school rooms in the evenings for her night evangelistic classes, and the hindrances have been many. Some have found them insuperable. Now with the help of this building, perfectly planned and executed, she will have unlimited means to reach women of Songdo.

Situated right in the heart of the city, near South Gate, the "Yaw ja gwan" makes a striking and handsome appearance. It is fronted by a stone wall of granite from the mountain. The building of the same granite is three stories high, steam heated, electric lighted, and has an abundant water supply furnished by well and electric pump.

On the main floor there are classrooms, a dispensary and drug room, with a Korean doctor, nurse and druggist in attendance every day. These are supplied by Ivey Hospital.

Other parts of the building are devoted to various classrooms, an auditorium seating five hundred people, bathroom, a diet kitchen, rest room and offices. All the rooms are spacious, light and airy; in fact, the sunshine is plentiful enough for a sanitarium.

Dr. W. T. Reid made the plans last year, and Ki-tai carried them out under his direction. Dr. Reid also supervised the making of the well and installation of the electric pump and steam heat. The latter was put in by a Japanese mechanic.

It was a great joy for Dr. Reid to help in this work, for apart from the wonderful future the "Yaw ja gwan" represents, he wanted to have a dispensary in the city and had been looking forward for years to establishing one. The Woman's Council having agreed to giving it room in the Central Plant, he was able to see his great desire materialize, and it was doing well when we left.

Now I would like to tell you something about Miss Mary Viek Mauk, who has come to help Miss Graham. She is very sweet and we all love her. She is going to teach music, singing and calisthenics. She was a big help to Miss Graham in preparing the girls for the pageant.

The official opening and ceremony took place in the second week of April. It was celebrated in the evening. First, Miss Mauk gave us some delightful music, then the pageant began.

A figure dressed symbolizing Non-Christianity, and another dressed in white and gold, who is Christianity, appear upon the stage and talk to each other. Christianity tries to make the heathen girl feel the need of all that she has and rejoices in.

To make this appeal, Christianity calls in the trained nurse, who tells what Christ has done for her, and the school teacher, who tells how happy she is in leading young minds in the right path.

The sewing class then, prettily dressed, sings some songs and goes through some exercises with music and flowers. The cooking class the same. The little tots have a delightful performance, and in between these acts Christianity exhorts her companion to rouse from her apathy and despair.

The climax is reached when Non-Christianity is asked to show what her people do. The curtain drawn back displays her followers crouching on the floor and shrouded in black. They appear very sad and hopeless. It is a touching scene and there was breathless silence in the auditodium during this final scene. Christianity calls in her girls and they kneel beside each dark figure and do personal work. While they are engaged in this a big cross appears above their heads and they all turn to it in appeal and sing, "In the Cross of Christ I glory." The curtains are drawn.

Erlanger, Ky.

TO THE PASTORS AND CHARGE LAY LEADERS, MERIDIAN DISTRICT, MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

Dear Brethren: I would call your especial attention to the great Evangelistic and Home Mission Conference to be held in Jackson, January 16-17, 1923.

These are the great days in the calendar of the year for Mississippi Methodism.

All the pastors will be expected to attend, and we hope to have from five to ten laymen from every pastoral charge.

Let the pastor give the greatest possible publicity to the important meeting, and do his best to work up a full delegation from his charge.

Let the Lay Leaders assist the pastors in advertising the Conference and securing the attendance of the laymen. Where the pastor can not meet the expense of attending without embarrassment, I suggest that the Lay Leader collect sufficient funds from the membership to take care of this. For information as to entertainment, expense, etc., write to Rev. M. L. Burton, Jackson, Miss.

P. D. Hardin, P. E.

"COME UNTO ME."

Never before was there so great need for relaxation, and never before so many ways to relax. But it is well to remember that the tiredest part of a man is not his body but the soul of him. And we need to inquire, oftener than apparently we do, whether our diversions really rest the soul. There was Luther with his favorite musical instrument; and Ole Bull hanging over a cliff that he might catch the deep overtures of the sea; and Gladstone chopping trees in the forest at Hawarden; and Tennyson climbing to the aerie of his favorite house; and my mother with her open Bible and the far-away look in her eyes. Always need for a place of retreat and repair. Personally, I do not think the Atlantic City way is the best way to restore and restock a jaded spirit. Recreation is there, but not true rest. Better a brook to sprawl beside, or a hill to climb, or a good book, or a friend to commune with, and God. The old invitation is unannulled: "Come unto me, all ye that labor and are heavy laden, and I will rest you."—Rev. George Clarke Peck, D.D.

The Home Circle

THE DISCONTENTED FIDDLER CRAB.

By Emily H. Glover.

A funny little fiddler went grumbling every day,
In a sad little, bad little, discontented way;
"Oh, I wsh I were a crab!
How much more I'd surely grab
Of things so nice and juicy that come floating out this way."

But soon he learned a lesson that taught him not to fret.
The great big crab so handsome was drawn up in a net;
And was popped into a pot,
With the water boiling hot,
And made into a salad, to the fiddler's great regret.

Now sings the little fiddler, "I'm glad I'm not so big—
To be a crab so handsome, I do not care a fig.
For I'd rather just be gay,
And be living every day!
I love to be so little, and I'm happy as a grig!"

—Exchange.

LOST—A "GRCUCH."

As Philippa trailed wearily up the stairs with her arms full of packages, various sounds met her ears; father's tired and dragging steps in the library, querulous words from Aunt Luella's room, and from somewhere in the distance, vigorous quarrelling between Ted and Marjory. Philippa tumbled her bundles upon her bed and sank into the nearest chair.

"It's going to be a regular family grouch night," she cried whimsically, "just when I wanted to do all the complaining myself, too!"

For five minutes Philippa sat there, thinking. There had been so many such nights lately, somehow—just because every one was tired out before Christmas. But what a way to get ready for Christmas! Philippa went to the door and called in the direction of the quarreling: "Where are you youngsters?"

The youngsters came tumbling in at once, clamorous and excited.

"O Philippa, did you get my present for mother?" "And mine for dad and Evelyn and—"

"Everything!" Philippa declared. "You shall see after dinner; there isn't time now. But I called you to tell you something. Mother is very tired to-night. I want you children to watch and see that she eats a good dinner. Will you?"

Ted's freckled face sharpened. Marjory's soft eyes filled with anxiety.

"She isn't sick, is she?" Ted asked huskily.

"Not sick, only tired; and you children can rest her, if you will. Run off now. We'll have our secret session after dinner."

The children went obediently. Philippa's heart warmed as she watched them trot off together, all quarrels forgotten. They were such loyal little souls—it was easy with them, but the other two?

She took Evelyn next. "It's one of father's bad nights, isn't it?" she said. "I heard him walking the library floor. Brighten him up if you can, 'Lyn. You can do it better than any one else."

She did not wait for an answer. It was always best to leave the pleading to Evelyn's own conscience. Besides, she must see Kent and beg him to coax Aunt Luella round—poor, nervous Aunt Luella, who adored Kent so! And just then the dinner bell rang.

Philippa nearly spoiled it all by giggling when she saw the quick glances round the table. But they all worked nobly. Kent insisted on getting congratulations from Aunt Luella over the football victory his school had won. Evelyn was at her sweetest with father, and the children were deliciously funny with their earnest care over mother. And they were all working so hard that they never thought of quarreling with one another, and the "grouch" was nowhere in sight. Philippa smiled happily. After all, "grouches" were only on the surface. Beneath was love that would not fail in the great needs of life.—Youth's Companion.

A BABY IN A POCKET.

By Evangeline Weir.

The kangaroo baby is a very tiny creature when he is born. Indeed he is only as big as your thumb, and would get lost if his mother didn't keep him in her pocket until he grew larger. He is born blind, naked, and so helpless that his mother holds him between her lips while she uses her paws to open the pouch so that she can put him inside. She then sticks her mouth into the pocket, being very careful not to let the baby slip, and places his mouth against a nipple. The queer baby clings to it tightly and does not let go—for weeks. Even then he would die of hunger if Mother Kangaroo did not force the milk down his throat.

By working certain muscles in her body the mother pumps the milk into her baby. Then she closes up the pocket and the queer little mite takes care of himself by clinging to the nipple, his mother pumping milk into him as he needs it. This is all the care he gets for several weeks.

The tiny baby inside the nice fur-lined cradle is slowly growing to look like his father and mother. He can see, hear and move. He has a soft coat on his body. Mother Kangaroo now opens her pocket and finds that the ugly mite has grown to be a very nice baby. He is, perhaps, the size of a big kitten. He looks at her with his beautiful soft eyes full of wonder. It is the first time he has seen his mother, but he isn't afraid of her. She is very proud of her baby and coaxes him to put his head outside the cradle. The little fellow is too shy at first, but at last he grows bolder and peeps at the queer world where his mother lives. He looks very funny with his small head and big ears poked through the pocket.

For weeks he is content to remain in the cradle, poking his head out from time to time. If he attempts to push his way out, however, his mother's paw quickly pushes him back again. He is too small to be allowed outside. Mother Kangaroo, leaping and hopping from place to place, carries him with her, his little head sticking out of her big pocket.

Thus he lives and sees life from his cradle until he is the size of a big hare. Then he is allowed to come out, but if there is the slightest danger he climbs into the pocket and hides himself.

When Little Kangaroo is seven or eight months old he is too large to get in his old cradle, but he sticks his head inside to get his milk. He is now learning to care for himself. He hops and leaps and kicks with his feet, which are growing big and strong. He uses his claws, and feeds with his mother and others on grass, leaves and herbs. He is no longer a baby.—Our Dumb Animals.

FINDING CONTENTMENT.

By Julia W. Wolfe.

Of course you know a lot of people who think that the world owes them a living; many times you hear them express themselves. Then there are others of a similar type who seem to think that the world owes them happiness; that unless without any effort on their own part, they automatically find themselves happy and contented, they have been cheated and abused. Amusement and happiness are debts owed to them for having consented to live, but, as for themselves, they owe nothing. Naturally their viewpoint makes for discontent, for it isn't that kind of a world. The old law of compensation is always on the job, and in order to get we are obliged to give.

Primarily happiness is a frame of mind. We speak of people having a happy disposition. That really means that they have the mental habit of contentment. It is a habit which, like all others, is susceptible of cultivation; unless we have been fortunate enough to come by it naturally, we start training our minds to reflect happiness, and break them of their old habits of registering discontent. At first this will have to be accomplished by a conscious effort of the will, but as time goes on less effort will be required, until finally we will arrive at the point where we unconsciously look at the cheerful side of life. Cultivation of our own mental resources will assist in the process, as discontentment is apt to spring from boredom, and one is seldom bored who can find entertainment and amusement within himself.

Refuse to admit to yourself that you are lonesome or unhappy. Insist to yourself that you can find pleasant food for your thoughts without the assistance of others. When you start doing that, the battle for contentment is already half won.—Christian Guardian.

SPECIAL OFFER

ONE 42 PIECE $12.00 DINNER SET

BLUE BIRD, FLORAL OR WHITE AND GOLD DESIGNS

For $4.98 f. o. b. New Orleans

Cut out this Advertisement and send to WM. B. REILY & CO., New Orleans, La., with Six Coupons from Luzianne Coffee and $4.98, and the Beautiful Set will be Expressed to You at Once.

All three sets consist of: 6 dinner plates, 6 cups, 6 saucers, 6 pie plates, 6 fruit dessert dishes, 6 oat meal dishes, 1 large meat platter, 1 round vegetable bowl, 1 oval vegetable bowl, 1 cream pitcher, 1 sugar bowl, 1 sugar bowl cover.

New Orleans Christian Advocate

HENRY T. CARLEY, Editor.

CHAS. O. CHALMERS, Manager.

PUBLISHING COMMITTEE:

Louisiana Conference—Rev. J. F. Foster, Rev. S. J. Davies, Rev. C. C. Miller.

Mississippi Conference—Rev. J. T. Leggett, Rev. J. R. Jones, Rev. W. H. Saunders.

North Mississippi Conference—Rev. J. H. Felts, Rev. T. H. Lipscomb, Rev. J. W. Dorman.

DIRECTIONS.

All checks and money orders should be made payable to the New Orleans Christian Advocate.

Communications pertaining to subscriptions and other business matters should be addressed to the Manager, or to the New Orleans Christian Advocate.

The Printed Label on a paper shows the date to which a subscription is paid. It is as good as a written receipt. When renewal is made, if the date is not moved forward after three or four weeks, notify us, and we will make it right.

Communications intended for the Editor should be directed to him at 512 Camp Street. Correspondents will observe the following rules: 1. Write on only one side of the paper. 2. If you have a typewriter, by all means use it; otherwise use a good quality of black ink. 3. Leave a space of at least two inches at the top of the first page; leave a margin of at least one inch on the left-hand side of the page; do not crowd the words and the lines together. 4. Take special pains to write proper names correctly and legibly. 5. Use letter paper if you can get it—not note paper. No attention will be paid to rolled manuscripts.

DEATH OF BISHOP R. G. WATERHOUSE.

It is with great sorrow that we record the death of Bishop Richard Green Waterhouse, in Knoxville, Tenn., on Saturday afternoon, December 9. According to the press dispatches, Bishop Waterhouse was struck by an automobile as he was crossing a street in Knoxville on Thursday night, and he never regained consciousness, his skull being fractured and his right arm broken in two places. If we may judge by the press accounts of the accident, it was one of those tragedies that are recorded as "unavoidable."

Bishop Waterhouse was a native of Tennessee and was born in 1855. He was elected and consecrated bishop in 1910, when he was fifty-four years old. Overtaken by ill health soon after his election, he was never able to render full service in the episcopal office, and he was placed upon the retired list several years ago. He attended the General Conference at Hot Springs last May, and it was evident then that his strength was failing. In all probability, the decay of his natural powers would have taken him away from his loved ones and friends within a comparatively short time, and they must have been prepared for that sad event; but his tragic end comes as a shock to the whole church.

It was not our privilege to have a close personal acquaintance with Bishop Waterhouse, but those who knew him intimately bear unqualified and unanimous testimony to his sweetness of spirit, his interest in the church, and his great zeal in promoting the cause of righteousness. A good man, a distinguished minister of the church, a faithful servant of the Lord has gone to his reward. We pay reverent tribute to his memory and pray the blessings of God upon those who are in sorrow because of his going away.

DEATH OF REV. T. W. ADAMS.

The sudden death of Rev. T. W. Adams at Lexington, Miss., on November 26, brought great sorrow to a large circle of friends throughout Mississippi and other sections of the church. Brother Adams was well known to readers of the Advocate through his frequent communications, which were written in a vivacious style and were always interesting; they will sadly miss these contributions in the future.

Brother Adams was a man of great energy, intense earnestness, and deep devotion to the doctrines and polity of the church. He always stood unflinchingly for what he thought to be right, and in so doing he sometimes encountered strong opposition; but men admired him for his courage and respected and loved him for his faithfulness in the performance of his duty. He had a wide experience in the ministry, serving as circuit preacher, station preacher, and presiding elder, and from the wealth of that experience he drew, in his later years, many useful lessons, especially for his younger brethren. He was a great believer in young men, and he took special pains to help them so far as he could in all their work.

Brother Adams was one of the "Old Guard" of the Mississippi Conference, the ranks of which are gradually being depleted. Great sorrow came to him in his declining years in the death of his son, a very promising young minister of the church, in the death of his wife, and in the passing of other loved ones and friends; but he bore his sorrows heroically and maintained to the last his spirit of courage and cheerfulness. We speak tenderly of his memory and rejoice in the assurance that he is enjoying the reward of a useful life in the "land that is fairer than day."

We hope to have soon a suitable memoir for publication from the pen of some one who was familiar with his life and labors.

PERSONAL AND OTHER NOTES.

The annual meeting of the Executive Committee of the Federal Council of Churches will be held in Indianapolis, Dec. 13-15.

Bishop Edwin D. Mouzon has announced that a meeting of the Joint Commission on Unification will be held in Cincinnati on January 18, 1923, at 10 a.m.

In the article, "Death of Mrs. F. T. Whited," in last week's Advocate, the date of her death should have been given as November 3, instead of November 10.

Dr. Rolfe Hunt, Mississippi Conference evangelist for the Jackson, the Vicksburg, and the Brookhaven Districts, will make his headquarters at Lorman, Miss.

We are glad to learn that Mrs. J. W. Lee, wife of the presiding elder of the Baton Rouge District, who recently underwent a serious operation, is rapidly improving.

Bishop James M. Thoburn one of the greatest missionary bishops Methodism ever had, died at his home in Meadville, Pa., on November 28. He was eighty-six years old.

Bishops Denny, Murrah, and Dickey were accompanied in their visit to New Orleans by their wives. It was a great piasure to the Methodists of the city to meet these distinguished and charming women.

Edwin White, son of Rev. G. P. White, of Plaquemine, La., was operated on at the Touro Infirmary, this city, on Wednesday, December 6. It is hoped that he will soon be completely restored to health.

Rev. Jas. B. Grambling, the newly appointed pastor of Epworth, and Rev. F. B. Hill, the newly appointed pastor of the McDonoghville Methodist Church, have reached the city and are hard at work in their respective charges.

Rev. J. W. Faulk reports that he received a royal reception upon arrival at his new home, Dubach, La. A great "pounding" was in store for him, and many other marks of appreciation. He is expecting to have a great year on the charge.

Dr. Chas. W. Crisler, of Baton Rouge, Rev. W. H. Saunders, of Hazlehurst, and Rev. E. C. Gunn, of Bogalusa, were among the out-of-town visitors to the city during the meeting of the College of Bishops.

We take the following from "Methodist Matters": "The Clarksdale people certainly gave their pastor, Rev. T. M. Brownlee, and his wife a fine reception on Monday evening, at the church. The Coahoma pastor and his wife were in the receiving line."

Brother P. M. Franklin, of Oxford, Miss., in renewing his subscription to the Advocate, says that he has been taking it for twenty years and that he expects to continue to take it as long as he lives. We greatly appreciate his kindly words of commendation.

Rev. C. C. Evans was warmly welcomed back as pastor at Natchez, Miss. The report from Natchez at the recent session of the Annual Conference showed that substantial progress had been made during the year. The outlook for the new year is encouraging.

Dr. D. M. Key and Dr. J. Reese Lin, of Millsaps College, and Dean R. E. Smith, of Centenary College, were in attendance upon the meetings of the Southern Association of Colleges held in New Orleans last week. We greatly enjoyed spending a little while in their company.

In the announcements of the appointments in the Louisiana Conference, the following were inadvertently omitted, the fault being with the copy furnished the Advocate: in the Monroe District, Oak Ridge, D. C. Barr; in the Ruston District, Elmore, L. W. Smart, and Simsboro, H. J. Boltz.

We are delighted to be able to report that Mrs. C. C. Wier, wife of the pastor of the Algiers Methodist Church, who has been seriously ill for several months, has shown marked improvement recently. The friends of Brother and Sister Wier throughout the Conference will rejoice at this good news.

Rev. Hilary S. Westbrook writes: "We arrived at New Augusta, Miss., on the afternoon of the 7th, and we found everything in readiness to receive us at the hands of these splendid people. We are comfortably domiciled in the parsonage here. The way looks bright for a great year in His service. We are happy and hopeful."

The Crowley (La.) Signal of December 2, pays a well deserved editorial tribute to Rev. F. M. Freeman, pastor of the Methodist church, who was transferred to the First Methodist Church of Monroe, La., at the recent session of the Louisiana Conference. A great congregation assembled at the Methodist church to hear Brother Freeman's farewell sermon.

Rev. H. M. Ellis, presiding elder of the Brookhaven District, Mississippi Conference, in a business note to the Advocate, says: "We are ready for the greatest year's work the district has ever known." The Brookhavn District made a great record last year, and there is every reason to believe that Brother Ellis's prediction for the new year will come true.

Rev. John A. Randolph, the new pastor at Sardis, Miss., says he has the finest lot of people at Sardis we ever heard of—which means that they are second to none in the land. Brother Randolph is happy in his work and we predict for him great success as a pastor. As a means of widening his influence for good, he will conduct a column in the Sardis Reporter every week.

Since going to Central Church, Columbus, Miss., as pastor, Rev. Standifer Raper has negotiated the purchase of a very desirable piece of property just across the street from the Mississippi State College for Women and on the opposite corner from the church, for a parsonage. The house has been refurnished and it is now a most comfortable home for the preacher.

A remarkable book, prepared by Canon William F. Chase, D.D., has just come from the press. It is entitled, "The Movie Peril Exposed" and it contains an amazing amount of information concerning the whole subject. It is not published for profit, but is issued at cost, and it may be had of the New York Civic League, Albany, N. Y., for 25 cents a copy in paper covers.

Dr. W. L. Duren, pastor of the Rayne Memorial Church, was the efficient chairman of the entertainment committee that provided so well for the bishops during their stay in the city. Rev. J. G. Snelling arranged the delightful luncheons that were held at a local hotel on Friday and Saturday. All the pastors of the city found great pleasure in rendering any service possible.

At the recent meeting of the board of stewards of the Carrollton Avenue Methodist Church, this city, Brother A. H. Ahten, who has served as chairman of the board for many years, asked to be relieved of that office on account of his inability to attend the meetings with regularity. The board acceded to his request, but, as a mark of appreciation for the magnificent service he has rendered the church, elected him chairman emeritus for life. Mr. John H. Carter was elected active chairman.

The good people of Greenville, Miss., gave their old pastor, Rev. E. S. Lewis, a touching farewell reception, and their new pastor, Rev. E. Nash Broyles, a cordial welcome, on Tuesday evening, November 21. The account of the meeting in the "Big Brother" shows that Greenville Methodism is a mighty force for righteousness that any pastor might be glad to be associated with. Brother Lewis had a great pastorate there, and we venture to predict that Brother Broyles will likewise do a notable work.

Dr. John A. Rice, at the recent session of his Conference, was moved from Okmulgee to Tulsa and appointed pastor of the Boston Avenue Church. The weekly bulletin of the Okmulgee Rotary Club says concerning Dr. Rice: "Officially, John Rice was pastor of the M. E. Church, South; unofficially, he was minister to the spiritual wants of a congregation ten times as large as that church claims. He is loved, respected, and admired by every one in the city, and he is an inspiration to all of us." The official board at Boston Avenue, so we learn from the Texas Christian Advocate, fixed the salary at $7200.

While in the city, the bishops were entertaind in elegant and hospitable homes, as follows: Bishop Warren A. Candler, by Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Meyer; Bishop and Mrs. Collins Denny, by Mrs. L. S. Clark; Bishop and Mrs. W. B. Murrah, by Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Gunter; Bishop W. F. McMurry, by Dr. and Mrs. P. H. Saunders; Bishop E. D. Mouzon, by Mr. and Mrs. Edward Alvis; Bishop John M. Moore, by Mr. and Mrs. M. F. Petty; Bishop James Cannon, Jr., by Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Meyers; Bishop W. B. Beauchamp, by Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Domergue; Bishop and Mrs. J. E. Dickey, by Mr. and Mrs. Donelson Caffery; Bishop Hoyt M. Dobbs, by Mr. and Mrs. J. Alonzo Woodville.

The editor of the Advocate lost a very dear friend, the Methodist Church a staunch supporter, and the city of New Orleans one of its foremost citizens when Mr. S. A. Montgomery died at an early hour on Tuesday morning of this week. He was a faithful member of Rayne Memorial Church, and had been for years a leader in every movement for the civic and moral betterment of the city and State. The funeral services were conducted at the residence at 4 o'clock Tuesday afternoon by his pastor, Dr. W. L. Duren, assisted by Rev. Ellis Smith and Rev. H. T. Carley, after which the body was carried to Hearne, Texas, for interment. The sympathy of a large circle of friends will go out to the bereaved wife and daughter.

Dr. R. L. Russell, of the Board of Missions, writes: "Mr. Homer E. Jenkins, of East Point, Georgia, has been associated with Rev. Luther E. Bridgers for a number of years in the evangelistic work. Mr. Jenkins is without any doubt a great director of revival music. He has genius in organizing choruses and directing music. He also has a splendid voice for solo work, and with all that, is a fine personal worker in a revival. Owing to the fact that Dr. Bridgers, beginning the 15th of January, is going to give six weeks to the Centenary work, Brother Jenkins will be available for services with local pastors. If you want some one to lead the singing in your revival, you can get no better man than Homer E. Jenkins. Write him direct or communicate with me."

Bishop Warren A. Candler, in charge of the Louisiana Conference, had the presiding elders of the Conference meet him in the city last week for consultation concerning the work of the new Conference year. They were all present, as follows: R. H. Wynn, of the Shreveport District; K. W. Dodson, of the Ruston District; W. L. Doss, Jr., of the Alexandria District; J. B. Williams, of the Lake Charles District; J. W. Lee, of the Baton Rouge District; W. W. Drake, of the New Orleans District; W. D. Kleinschmidt, of the Monroe District. The following were granted the privilege of appearing before the cabinet and speaking of their work: Stephen S. Thomas, Centenary Secretary-Treasurer; H. T. Carley, editor of the New Orleans Christian Advocate; C. D. Atkinson, Conference Superintendent of Sunday School Work.

A press dispatch from Soochow, China, under date of October 16, was as follows: "On Sunday afternoon, Mr. Calvin N. Joyner and Miss Isabelle Powell were married by Dr. W. B. Nance. The wedding was solemnized at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Nance, in the presence of a few friends and representatives from the Consulate. Miss Powell is a niece of Mrs. W. B. Nance and has been teaching in Soochow University. Her home was formerly in Dallas, Texas. Mr. Joyner is connected with the Architectural Bureau of the Southern Methodist Church. They will make their home in Soochow for the present, but later they will probably be assigned to Shanghai." Mr. Joyner is a son of Rev. and Mrs. N. E. Joyner, of Ruston, La., and is a graduate of the Engineering Department of Tulane University. The Advocate prays the richest blessings of heaven upon this fine young couple.

The second Standard Training School for the New Orleans District for this year began its sessions on last Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock, at Rayne Memorial Church, with an address by Bishop Edwin D. Mouzon, who took as his subject, "Christian Education as a Method of Evangelism." That address must be characterized as a great one. The school will continue throughout the week, with the following faculty: Dr. Wade Crawford Barclay, associate edior of Sunday School publications of the M. E. Church; Mrs. W. B. Ferguson, elementary superintendent for the two Oklahoma Conferences; Mrs. Clay E. Smith, formerly elementary superintendent of the South Carolina and the Little Rock Conferences; Prof. C. A. Bowen, of Millsaps College; Rev. C. O. Shugart, pastor of the Highland Park Methodist Church, Dallas, Texas; Prof. Harvie Branscomb, of Southern Methodist University.

The members of the Broad Street Methodist Church of Lake Charles, La., and the citizens generally, tendered Rev. and Mrs. W. W. Holmes and family a farewell reception on Tuesday evening, December 5. Many gracious things were said concerning the pastorate of Brother Holmes during the past four years, resolutions of the official board, expressing its high appreciation, being read. These resolutions included a cordial invitation to Brother Holmes to make Lake Charles his permanent home when he should cease from the active ministry. A notable feature of the gathering was the reading of a resolution of appreciation of Mrs. Holmes, adopted by the Colored Community Club, of which she was organizer and director. Just before their departure for Shreveport, to which Brother Holmes has been assigned as pastor of the Noel Memorial Methodist Church, several of his friends presented Brother Holmes with a beautiful watch and chain as a token of appreciation, the presentation address being made by Judge T. H. Porter, Jr.

APPOINTMENTS OF THE MISSISSIPPI ANNUAL CONFERENCE.

(Continued from Fourth Page)

Meridian District.

P. D. Hardin, Presiding Elder.
Bucatunna—C. M. Baggett.
Cleveland—L. J. Snellgrove.
Daleville—W. E. Dickens.
DeKalb—M. L. White
DeSoto—M. A. Massey; J. H. Flemming, Junior Preacher.
Enterprise—T. M. Ainsworth.
Lauderdale and Electric Mills—W. H. Lane.
Matherville D. P. Yeager.
Meridian: Central—J. L. Decell.
East End—W. H. Lewis.
Fifth Street—J. L. Sells.
Hawkins Memorial—J. M. Lewis.
Poplar Springs—W. A. Hays.
Seventh Avenue—D. E. Vickers; E. D. Snellgrove, Junior Preacher.
Pachuta—R. E. Rutledge.
Porterville—H. J. Oakley.
Quitman—J. D. Ellis.
Scooba—D. W. Ulmer.
Shubuta—W. A. Terry.
Vimville—O. B. Matheney.
Waynesboro—H. A. Wood.
Waynesboro Circuit—R. A. Sibley.

Newton District.

J. A. Moore, Presiding Elder.
Bay Springs—E. H. Cooley.
Carthage—T. B. Winstead.
Chunky—S. E. Flurry.
Decatur and Hickory—C. H. Straight.
Forest and Morton—H. J. Moore.
Harperville and Lena—W. W. Murray.
Homewood—J. F. McClellan.
Lake—S. N. Young.
Laurel: First Church—O. S. Lewis.
Kingston—T. A. Ferguson.
West End—J. W. Ramsey.
Montrose—M. R. Jones.
Neshoba—T. C. Cooper.
Newton—N. B. Harmon.
North Neshoba—J. C. Long.
Philadelphia—L. E. Alford.
Raleigh—R. H. Clegg.
Rose Hill—G. G. Yeager.
Shiloh—P. H. Grice.
Trenton—G. L. McNeece.
Union—W. F. Baggett.
Walnut Grove—C. H. Herring.

Seashore District.

W. M. Sullivan, Presiding Elder.
Americus—V. R. Landrum.
Bay St. Louis—J. G. Galloway.
Biloxi—M. B. Sharbrough.
Brooklyn—W. L. Blackwell.
Carriere—E. J. Coker.
Coalville—S. W. Johnson.
Columbia—L. L. Roberts.
Escatawpa—J. B. Stringer.
Gulfport—W. L. Linfield.
Long Beach—H. C. Castles.
Logtown—E. L. Alford.
Lumberton—J. M. Corley.
Mentorum—R. G. Williams.
Moss Point—J. E. Gray.
Ocean Springs—J. H. Grice.
Pascagoula—L. F. Alford.
Pass Christian—L. A. Darsey.
Picayune—J. H. Moore.
Poplarville—J. E. Williams.
Saucier—T. H. King; E. J. Rutledge, Junior Preacher.
Vancleave—E. M. Allen.
Wesley Memorial—W. W. Moore.
Wiggins—J. F. Campbell.
President Seashore Camp Ground School—H. W. Van Hook.
Conference Evangelist—G. S. Harmon.
Missionary Evangelist, Seashore, Hattiesburg, Meridian, and Newton Districts—J. M. Smith.

Vicksburg District.

J. R. Jones, Presiding Elder.
Anguilla—C. A. Shultz.
Centreville—V. G. Clifford.
Fayette—C. F. Emery.
Gloster and Liberty—J. L. Smith.
Harriston—B. M. Hunt.
Hermanville—M. K. Miller.
Louise and Holly Bluff—C. Y. Higginbotham.
Mayersville—M. J. Miller.
Natchez—C. C. Evans.
Nebo—J. H. Sharp.
Oak Ridge—E. D. Simpson.
Port Gibson—W. H. Huntley.
Rocky Springs—Wesley Ezell.
Rolling Fork—T. J. O'Neil.
Rosetta—N. S. Loftus.
Roxie—M. L. McCormick.
Silver City—G. P. McKeown.
Utica—W. B. Alsworth.
Vicksburg, Crawford Street—Robert Selby.
Vicksburg, Gibson Memorial—T. B. Cottrell.
Washington—A. J. Beasley.
Woodville—H. G. Hawkins.

Obituaries

Obituaries not over 200 words in length will be published free of charge. All over 200 words must be paid for at the rate of 1 cent a word. Count the words and be sure to send the amount necessary with the obituary. That will save trouble all around. We cannot make discriminations. Memorial resolutions are subject to the same rule as obituaries.

MRS. ELLEN BABINGTON (nee Ellis) was born March 10, 1830, and died October 20, 1922, aged 92 years, 7 months, and 10 days. She was the daughter of Rev. Steavens Ellis, a local Methodist preacher, who was also a teacher and business man of this section many years ago. She joined the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, in early life.

In 1852, at the age of 22, she married Mr. Robert Babington, a young Irishman from New Orleans, who was of very fine Christian character, whose memory is precious because of his often repeated gifts and work to the cause of Christianity. He passed away in 1906, at the good old age of 86, and since that time she has almost spent a "shut-in" life. Her Bible was her constant companion. She was a constant reader of the New Orleans Christian Advocate.

She always enjoyed the visits of her pastors. She often had them to administer the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper to her. She always kept up with the progress of her church and after her eyes failed so she could not read, she would have her grandchildren to read for her. She was the mother of nine children; four preceded her to the glory land. She had 32 grandchildren and 40 great-grandchildren. It was a great pleasure to her to have her loved ones visit her. The funeral service was conducted by her pastor, Rev. L. W. Caln, assisted by Rev. H. E. Pettus, the pastor of the Baptist church. She was laid to rest in the Ellis cemetery, in the presence of a large congregation of relatives and friends. A profusion of flowers made a fitting covering of the last resting place of Sister Babington, for she was a dear lover of flowers. She was ready and willing to go when the summons came. May we all so live as to meet her in heaven is my prayer.

F. N. SWEENEY.

RESOLUTIONS.

Whereas, our Heavenly Father in His infinite love and wisdom has taken unto Himself our beloved brother and co-worker, F. P. GALLOWAY, be it hereby resolved by the Board of Stewards of Epworth Methodist Church, New Orleans, La.:

1. That our hearts are deeply grieved and we will miss our beloved brother from our councils, and his genial good nature, yet we bow in humble submission to the will of our Heavenly Father, who doeth all things well.

2. That we extend our sincere sympathy to the bereaved wife and children in their sorrow, commending them for comfort in this hour of trial to a loving Savior, praying that His sustaining hand may gulde and direct them through life.

3. That a copy of these resolutions be spread upon our minutes, a copy be sent to the family, and a copy be sent to the New Orleans Christian Advocate for publication.

Signed by: M. F. Wilson, Chairman; O. J. Dunn, Secretary.

QUARTERLY CONFERENCES.

NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE

Grenada Dist.—First Round.

Water Valley, First Church, Dec. 3, Dec. 20.
Water Valley, Main Street and Taylor, at Main Street, Dec. 3, Dec. 20.
Red Banks ct., at Red Banks, Dec. 10, a.m.; Dec. 11, a.m.
Holly Springs, Dec. 10, p.m.; Dec. 11, p.m.
Winona ct., at Bethlehem, Dec. 16.
Pickens and Goodman, at Pickens, Dec. 17, 18.
Durant, Dec. 17, 18.
Coffeeville ct., at Coffeeville, Dec. 24, Jan. 10.
Sallis ct., at Sallis, Dec. 30, 31.
Holcomb ct., at Holcomb, Jan. 7.
Tie Plant ct., at Tie Plant, Jan. 7, 8.
Poplar Creek ct., at Shiloh, Jan. 13.
Vaiden and West, at Vaiden, Jan. 14.
Duck Hill ct., at Duck Hill, Jan. 14, 15.
Winona sta., Jan. 21, a.m.; Jan. 22, p.m.
Kilmichael ct., at Kilmichael, Jan. 21, p.m.; Jan. 22, a.m.
Waterford ct., at Waterford, Jan. 26.
Ashland ct., at Ashland, Jan. 27.
Lamar ct., at Lamar, Jan. 28.
Paris ct., at Paris, Feb. 3.
Abbeville ct., at Abbeville, Feb. 4.
Lexington, Feb. 9, 11.
Ebenezer ct., at Hebron, Feb. 10.
District stewards' meeting at Grenada, Dec. 7, at 2 o'clock p.m.

R. A. TUCKER, P. E.

Greenville Dist.—First Round.

Coahoma and Lyon, at Coahoma, Dec. 17, a.m.
Lula and Dundee, at Lula, Dec. 17, p.m.
Merigold and Alligator, at Merigold, Dec. 24, a.m.
Lake Cormorant and R., at Hollywood, Dec. 31, a.m.
Clarksdale, Dec. 31, p.m.
Friars Point and Bobo, at Bobo, Jan. 7, a.m.
Shelby, Jan. 7, p.m.
District Stewards meet at Shaw, Jan. 8, 2 p.m.
Cleveland, Jan. 10, p.m.
Gunnison and Sherard, at Gunnison, Jan. 14, a.m.
Rosedale and Hillhouse, at Rosedale, Jan. 14, p.m.
Laymen and Pastors meet at Jackson, Jan. 16, 17.
Glen Allan and Benoit, at Benoit, Jan. 21, a.m.
Glen Allan and Benoit, at Glen Allan, Jan. 21, p.m.
Hollandale and Arcola, at Hollandale, Jan. 28, a.m.
Leland, Jan. 28, p.m.
Greenville, Jan. 31, p.m.
Jnestown and Duncan, at Jonestown, Feb. 4, a.m.
Jonestown and Duncan, at Jonestown, Feb. 4, p.m.
Boyle and Pace, at Boyle, Feb. 11, a.m.
Boyle circuit, at New Salem, Feb. 11, 3 p.m.

The mass meeting at Jackson, Jan. 16, 17, is of sufficient importance to provoke a record attendance from this territory. Make your plans NOW, brethren. It will be the best money and time you have ever invested for your church. The district stewards' meeting at Shaw should have the individual attention of every district steward. Due personal notice will be given later. The Shaw quarterly conference will be held in connection with the district stewards' meet. District Conference at Jonestown, May 8-11. In arranging your meetings, brethren, give this fact due attention.

JAMES H. FELTS, P. E.

Sardis District—First Round.

Charleston, 11 a.m., Nov. 26; Q. C., evening, Jan. 2, 1923.
Oakland, preaching p.m., Nov. 26; Q. C., 11:30 a.m., Jan. 2.
Hernando, 11 a.m., Dec. 3; Q. C., a.m., Dec. 11.
Senatobia, preaching Dec. 3, evening; Q. C., a.m., Dec. 12.
Batesville, 11 a.m., Dec. 10; Q. C., p.m. Dec. 13.
Sardis station, evening, Dec. 10; Q. C., a.m., Dec. 13.
Byhalia, at B., 11 a.m., Dec. 17; Q. C., 2 p.m., Dec. 17.
Olive Branch, at O. B., evening, Dec. 17; Q. C., 11 a.m., Dec. 18.
Como, 11 a.m., Dec. 24; Q. C., evening, Dec. 12.
Coldwater, evening, Dec. 24; Q. C., evening, Dec. 11.
Shuford, at Eureka, Dec. 30; preaching and Q. C., 11 a.m.
Courtland, at Courtland, Dec. 31; Q. C. in afternoon.
Crowder, at Crowder, evening, Jan. 3.
Cockrum, at Palestine, 11 a.m., Jan. 6.
Pleasant Hill, at P. H., 11 a.m., Jan. 7.
Horn Lake, at H. L., preaching, p.m., Jan. 7; Q. C., 11 a.m., Jan. 8.
Sardis ct., at Terza, 11 a.m., Jan. 10.
Arkabutla, at Hunter's Chapel, 11 a.m., Jan. 12.
Longtown, at Longtown, 11 a.m., Jan. 13.
Crenshaw, at Sledge, Jan. 14.
Mt. Pleasant, at M. P., Jan. 20, 21.
Tyro, at Free Springs, Jan. 27, 28.

J. TILLERY LEWIS, P. E.

Quick Relief to BRONCHIAL SUFFERERS

Coughs, nasal and bronchial colds are relieved promptly by the vapor of Cresolene—the standard drugless treatment with forty years of successful use its guarantee. The most widely used remedy for whooping cough and spasmodic croup.

Introduced in 1879 Vapo-Cresolene

"Used While You Sleep"

Send for descriptive booklet 43C. Sold by druggists Vapo-Cresolene Co., 62 Cortlandt St., N. Y.

WHEN IT COMES BE PREPARED

Insurance the only safeguard possible against such destruction.

THE NATIONAL MUTUAL CHURCH INSURANCE COMPANY

—The Methodist Mutual—SERVES AND SAVES Methodism and is now rendering a greater service than ever. In successful operation since 1898.

Insures against Fire, Lightning and Windstorm AT COST. No assessments; easy annual payments; legal reserve for protection of policy holders same as stock companies. No agents. Deal direct. Write for particulars to

HENRY P. MAGILL, Sec't'y. & Mgr.
1509 Insurance Exchange, Chicago, Ill.

Mrs. Alice Hargrove Barclay, Agent, M. E. Church, South, 314 Norton Building, Louisville, Ky.

WHEELER Business College BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

"WHEELER STUDENTS GET THE BEST POSITIONS"

Call or Write for Free Catalogue

Look to Your Eyes

Beautiful Eyes, like fine Teeth, are the result of Constant Care. The daily use of Murine makes Eyes Clear and Radiant. Enjoyable. Harmless. Sold and Recommended by All Druggists.

MURINE FOR YOUR EYES

DEEP-SEATED FRECKLES

Need attention NOW or may remain all winter. Use the old and time-tried guaranteed treatment that has given satisfaction to millions of women for over 14 years, and rid yourself of these homely spots. Ask for

Othine--Double Strength

At all Druggists and Department Stores.

No Soap Better For Your Skin Than Cuticura

Sample each (Soap, Ointment, Talcum) free of Cuticura Laboratories, Dept. V, Malden, Mass.

5,000 CHRISTIAN WORKERS WANTED

to sell Bibles, Testaments, good books and handsome velvet Scripture Mottoes. Good commission. Send for free catalogue and price list.

GEORGE W. NOBLE, Publisher
Dept. D., Monon Bldg., Chicago, Illinois

TETTERINE

For the Complexion

60c at your Druggist's, or from The SHUPTRINE CO., SAVANNAH, GA.

QUALITY GOODS AT LOW PRICES

D. H. Holmes Co., LIMITED.

BOHNE & WILT, Booksellers, and Stationers, 1328 Dryades St., New Orleans, La. Baseball Goods, Religious Articles, Fishing Tackle, Periodicals, School Books.

Public Service

HAS BECOME THE ACTIVE PRACTICAL IDEAL OF THE STREET RAILWAY COMPANY WITH ITS REORGANIZATION AS NEW ORLEANS PUBLIC SERVICE, INC. WE SOLICIT HELPFUL SUGGESTIONS AND WISH TO KEEP SERVICE ALWAYS

On the Job

DR. H. B. BARTLETT
National Dental Parlors
Canal and Bourbon Sts.
Over Worner's Drug Store
Entrance on Bourbon Street
Phone Main 2193.
NEW ORLEANS

Crown and Bridge Specialist
Vitalized Air for Painless Extraction

Most Modern and Best Equipped Dental Parlors South.

Epworth League.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

New Leagues have recently been organized in the Jackson District at Florence, Raymond, and Benton. The work in the Jackson District is moving forward, and Miss Hoskins says she will catch up with Ralph Hayes and the Meridian District folk, or know the reason why.

On Thanksgiving Day, Miss Hoskins held an all-day Epworth League meeting at Rexford church; the forenoon was given over to the service in the church, at which time Miss Hoskins made an address. Dinner was served on the ground and was a great treat to all present. After dinner, the young folks engaged in a program of recreation and play. Everybody had a great time, and the meeting was a great benefit to every one who attended.

Truman Lewis, of Hattiesburg, and a few Hattiesburg Leaguers recently organized a fine chapter at Lumberton. We understand there were something like forty charter members, and their enrollment now counts above sixty. We are expecting great things from the chapter and we know they will be heard from next June.

The hearts of all Leaguers in the Hattiesburg District, as well as in other districts, go out in sympathy to our Secretary, Mr. Harrell, in the recent loss of his brother, who died December 1.

Say, Leaguer! If you can get to Hattiesburg, come hear Gypsy Smith. He will make a better Leaguer of you. It is well worth your time. Services each evening at 7:30, but you will have to come early to get seats.

The Chosen Fast: Is not this the fast that I have chosen? to loose the bands of wickedness, to undo the heavy burdens, and to let the oppressed go free, and that ye break every yoke?—Isaiah 58:6.

Aspirin

Say "Bayer" and Insist!

Genuine BAYER

Unless you see the name "Bayer" on package or on tablets you are not getting the genuine Bayer product prescribed by physicians over twenty-two years and proved safe by millions for

Colds	Headache
Toothache	Lumbago
Earache	Rheumatism
Neuralgia	Pain, Pain

Accept "Bayer Tablets of Aspirin" only. Each unbroken package contains proper directions. Handy boxes of twelve tablets cost few cents. Druggists also sell bottles of 24 and 100. Aspirin is the trade mark of Bayer Manufacture of Monoaceticacidester of Salicylicacid.—Adv.

A LETTER FROM DR. JOHN W. SHACKFORD.

Dear Dr. Carley: An examination of the columns of the New Orleans Christian Advocate shows that during the year you have given very real consideration to the interests of our Sunday school work. I am writing to express my appreciation of this fact, and to say that I do not believe that there is any other channel that so satisfactorily brings the Sunday school work to the attention of our people, and especially our pastors.

From time to time, I hope to supply you with material of interest regarding the development of the Sunday school work in our church.

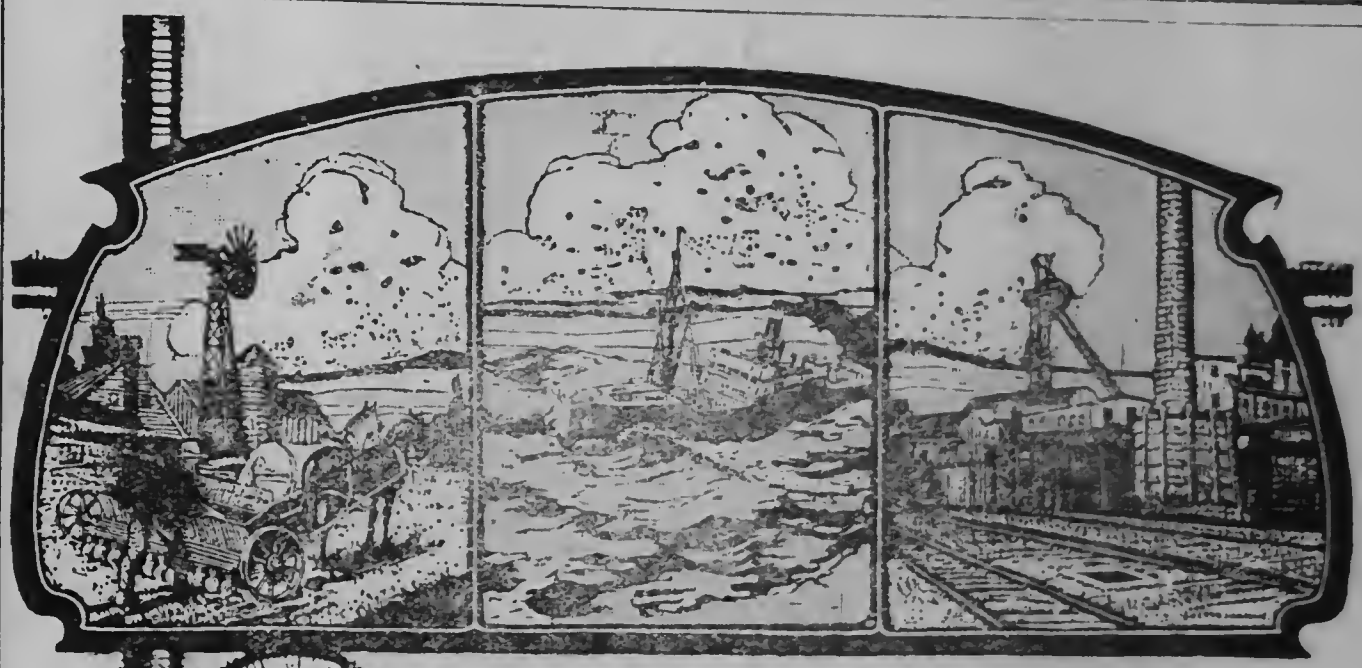
With appreciation of the service you are rendering the Sunday school cause of the church in this matter, I am JOHN W. SHACKFORD,
General Secretary

"To be the thing we seem,
To do the thing we deem
Enjoined by duty;
To walk in faith, nor dream
Of questioning God's scheme
Of truth and beauty."
—Anon

"PUT THE BEST BEFORE YOUR GUEST"

Henry Clay Brand Coffee

NOT JUST ORDINARY COFFEE
IT IS BETTER
FOR SALE AT ALL FIRST CLASS GROCERS



ASK FOR POTASH

The present conditions in the business of the farmer and in the fertilizer industry call for serious thought. Both are going through a readjustment period, with its hardships and doubts.

The farmer may well ask whether he is using the most profitable fertilizer. The fertilizer salesman may well inquire whether he is selling the kind that will do the farmer the most good, and lead to larger sales in the future.

During the war America could not get Potash, and the use of acid phosphate increased. Central Europe could not get phosphates, and the use of Potash Salts increased. Today plenty of Potash can be had at less than pre-war prices. Now is the right time to restore the balance by using more Potash in the fertilizer formulas than the average amount used before, 5 to 10 per cent.

Crops take from the soil very much more Potash than phosphoric acid. On any soil where Potash has been profitable it is not unreasonable now to use at least as much Potash as phosphoric acid. Ask the fertilizer agent for prices on this kind of goods, and rebuild your soil while Potash is cheap.

Recently it has been shown that a lack of available magnesia causes serious injury to important crops on some soils. German Kainit and Manure Salts furnish this soluble magnesia without extra cost.

SOIL & CROP SERVICE, POTASH SYNDICATE
H. A. HUSTON, Manager
42 Broadway New York City

Ask for POTASH—Buy POTASH—Use POTASH

POTASH PAYS

Sunday School

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE SUNDAY SCHOOL BOARD NOTES.

The Annual Conference was the best I have ever attended. The people of Crystal Springs entertained this large body in a noble way and all seemed to enjoy it very much. The preaching could not be beat. Brother Moore delivered stirring messages and the Bishop preached a masterpiece.

The Sunday School Board elected myself and Mr. O. C. Hull, of Lawrence, to do the field work this year. They adopted a great program of work. I trust to have it ready for publication in the next issue of the Advocate. If the brethren will support us with their prayers, we will try to put it over. It will take much prayer and self-sacrifice to do it.

The Honor Roll of the Conference.

This roll is published each year, composed of the names of circuits which observed Sunday School Day at each school: Adams, Bayou Pierre, Fernwood, Gallman, Scotland, Summit, Meadville, Eucutta, Purvis, Prentiss, Silver Creek, Williamburg, Heidelberg, Seminary, Brandon, Harrisville, Terry, Fannin, Florence, Matherville, Seventh Avenue, Neshoba, Carthage, Lake, Mentorum, Vancleave, Hermanville, Louise. Vancleave was the first circuit to report; Fernwood was the largest amount of the circuits reported.

The three highest in amounts are as follows: Fernwood, $52.85; Vancleave, $40.35; Matherville, $36.50.

Brookhaven District had 47 schools out of 57 report an offering for Sunday School Day, with 7 circuits on the Honor Roll.

Hattiesburg reports 41 out of 67 schools with offerings, and 7 circuits on the Honor Roll.

Jackson District reports 33 schools out of 75, with 5 circuits on the Honor Roll.

Meridian reports 35 out of 76 schools with offerings, and 2 circuits on the Honor Roll.

Newton reports 35 out of 85 with offering, and 3 circuits on the Honor Roll.

Seashore District reports 24 out of 60, with 2 circuits on the Honor Roll.

Vicksburg reports 23 out of 50, with 2 circuits on the Honor Roll.

Forty-one more schools observed the Day this year than last. Several schools are to be heard from; $11.72 less was collected on Sunday School Day this year than last.

The Brookhaven District leads in the numher of schools observing the Day in the amount of increase. The Jackson District leads the Conference in the amount of money raised on Sunday School Day.

Everything points to a great year this year. Pray for the work and the workers.

Yours in Him,
JOHN C. CHAMBERS,
Supt. of Schools, Miss. Conference.

School Desks

Opera Chairs,
Folding Chairs,
Kindergarten Chairs,
School Supplies,
Blackboards.

SOUTHERN DESK CO., Hickory, N. C.

666 quickly relieves Colds, LaGrippe, Constipation, Biliousness & Headaches.

Dicks' Antiseptic
Kills Germs

For Cuts, Wounds and Burns. Especially fine for mouth diseases, pyorrhoea and sore throat.

25 CTS.

NOTES FROM NORTH MISSISSIPPI

By Rev. R. H. B. Gladney, Sardis, Miss.

A circular letter has been mailed to all pastors and superintendents calling attention to the resolution adopted by the last Annual Conference, asking that each school give the offering taken on the fifth Sunday in December to he used in paying for District Standard Training Schools. The minimum amount required for such a school is $200. If we get our faculty from a distance, the schools must cost more.

Sardis, Holly Springs, West Point, and Tupelo have asked that schools he held in their midst during the coming year. Three other districts are to be heard from during the next two weeks. It may be hard to secure the money for these schools, but it is more difficult to find the teachers needed to do the teaching. Supply the necessary money and we shall do our hest to employ the teachers.

It is encouraging that several superintendents have asked for the new "Programs of Work." After these programs are carefully studied you will see that they have been thought out with great care. Nothing is required that ought not to be done and that cannot be done by any of our schools. I am willing to work and pray day and night to have ten or more of our schools become 100 per cent in quality and quantity of work done.

A Young People's Wesley Bible class has heen organized at Drew with a membership of six men and nine women. The name of this class is the "Tuxis Band." Mrs. W. N. Duncan is teacher; Miss Margaret McFarlane, president; and Miss Thelma Daniels, secretary.

An Adult class has been organized in the same school with thirty-two women enrolled. Rev. W. N. Duncan, teacher; Miss India Brooks, president; Mrs. B. F. Green, secretary. These classes are enrolled at Nashville in Mr. W. C. Owen's department. Remember that every class above the juniors ought to he organized and enrolled. If we have done some things without organization, what is it we cannot do when we are thoroughly organized?

QUARTERLY CONFERENCES.

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.

Alexandria District—First Round.

Elizabeth, at Elizabeth, Dec. 17.
Le Compte and Woodworth, at Le Compte, Dec. 19, p.m.
Pineville, Dec. 31.
Campti, at Campti, Jan. 7, a.m.
Coushatta, Jan. 7, p.m.
Alexandria, Jan. 8, p.m.
Melder Ct., at Melder, Jan. 11.
Marksville Ct., at Evergreen, Jan. 14, a.m.
Bunkie, Jan. 14, p.m.

The District Stewards will please meet at Alexandria Church on Jan. 2, at 11 a.m.

Colfax, at Colfax, Jan. 16, p.m.
Melville, at Melville, Jan. 21, a.m.
Opelousas, Jan. 21, p.m.
Livonia, at Livonia, Jan. 24.
Plaquemine and Donaldsonville, at ——, Jan. 25.
Oakdale, Jan. 28, a.m.
Glenmore, Jan. 28, p.m.
Natchitoches, Jan. 30, p.m.
Rochelle and Standard, at Standard, Feb. 1, p.m.
Jena and Jonesville, at Jena, Feb. 4, a.m.
Trout and Good Pine, at Trout, Feb. 4, p.m.

The district stewards will please meet on January 2, in the Alexandria Methodist Church, at 11 a.m.

W. L. DOSS, Jr., P. E.

Baton Rouge Dist.—First Round.

Zachary, at Zachary, Dec. 17, a.m.
Istrouma, Dec. 17, p.m.
Denham Springs, at Denham Springs, Dec. 24, a.m.
Keener Memorial, Dec. 24-26, p.m.
Clinton, at Clinton, Dec. 31, a.m.
Jackson and Ethel, at Ethel, Dec. 31, p.m.
St. Francisville, at St. F., Jan. 7, a.m.
Baton Rouge, First Church, Jan. 7, p.m.
Natalbany and Pine Grove, at Natalbany, Jan. 14, a.m.
Hammond, Jan. 14, p.m.
Bogalusa ct., at Bogalusa, Jan. 21, a.m.
Bogalusa, Jan. 21, p.m.
Pearl River ct., at Pearl River, Jan. 28, a.m.
Slidell, at Slidell, Jan. 28, p.m.
Springfield ct., at Springfield, Feb. 4, a.m.
Ponchatoula, at Ponchatoula, Feb. 4, p.m.
Franklinton ct., at Fisher, Feb. 11, a.m.
Franklinton, Feb. 11, p.m.
Olive Branch, at Olive Br., Feb. 18, a.m.
Baker, at Baker, Feb. 18, 3 p.m., 7 p.m.
Tickfaw Mis., at Pine Ridge, Feb. 25, a.m.
Amite, Feb. 25, p.m.
Greensburg, at Days, Mar. 4, a.m.
Kentwood, Mar. 4, p.m.
Covington, at Covington, Mar. 11, a.m.
Gonzales, at Meadows, Mar. 18, a.m.

The district stewards are called to meet at Baton Rouge, First Church, December 20 from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. It is urgent that all the district stewards attend this meeting.

J. W. LEE, P. E.

(Cnntinued on next Page)

ANGELL'S

COUGH and WHOOPING
Cough Syrup
Easy to Take
No Habit-Forming Drugs. Formula of
DR. RICHARD ANGELL
Prepared by
JAMES R. ANGELL,
New Orleans, La.
PRICE 35c AND 65c
AT ALL DRUGGISTS

Christmas Gifts

MAKE SOME FRIEND HAPPY

By Selecting One of These Good Books for your Christmas Remembrance. They are the Very Best Gifts that You Can Make.

THE LAND OF PUNCH AND JUDY
By MARY STEWART

A distinct novelty in children's "make-believe" books. The most fascinating and original gift-book of the year. A succession of delightful excursions into childhood's fairyland, entertaining, instructive, and amusing to youngsters and OLDSTERS too. $1.25.

PUSS JUNIOR AND ROBINSON CRUSOE
By DAVID CORY

Here's another of those fascinating books telling all about Puss Junior's adventures in search of his famous father, Puss in Boots. This time he lands unexpectedly on Robinson Crusoe's Island. Friday and Crusoe do all they can to help Puss find his father and their exciting experiences are a delight to the children. 60 cents.

LITTLE GLAD HEART
By LINDA STEVENS ALMOND

One of the author's many delightful stories for the young girl. For fascinating reading for the girl in her early 'teens, this book is recommended as one of the best. It is wholesome and pure throughout and is just the thing for a Christmas gift. $1.65.

ON TIPTOE, A ROMANCE OF THE REDWOODS
By STEWART EDWARD WHITE

A most beautiful romance, thrilling with excitement and humor. The story of a girl, her father, a young man and an English valet lost in the great Redwood forests of California amid a mountain storm with its lightning and gales. They are found by a youthful stranger in a Ford—but that is the story! It is the kind that all of us enjoy and appreciate. $1.75.

MONEY TALKS, A BOOK FOR MINISTERS AND LAYMEN
By REV. ALBERT F. McGARRAH

Ministers and laymen, who desire to present convincingly the principles and practices which should govern Christians in getting and using money. It is just the thing for the Christian layman. $1.25.

WESLEY'S WORLD PARISH
By DR. GEORGE C. AND MARY GRACE FINDLAY

The doings, sufferings and conquests of Christ's ambassadors sent across the seas make stirring reading; the heroism with which dangers are encountered have the ring of the old Apostolic fervor. The minister's Christmas remembrance.

ORDER NOW TO INSURE PROMPT DELIVERY

Publishing House M. E. Church, South
MENTION CHRISTIAN LIST No. 5—IMPORTANT
Lamar & Barton, Agents, Nashville, Dallas, Richmond

Lake Charles Dist.—First Round.

Hornbeck and Peason, at Hornbeck, Dec. 17, 11 a.m.
Leesville, Dec. 17, 7:30 p.m.
Zwolle, Dec. 24, 11 a.m.
Many and Robeline, at Many, Dec. 24, 3 p.m.
Neame and Pickering, at Neame, Dec. 31, 11 a.m.
Carson, Dec. 31, 7:30 p.m.
Abbeville and Kaplan, at Abbeville, Jan. 7, 11 a.m.
Gueydan and Estherwood, at Gueydan, Jan. 7, 7:30 p.m.
Crowley, Jan. 14, 11 a.m.
Eunice Ct., at Eunice, Jan. 14, 7:30 p.m.
New Iberia, Jan. 21, 11 a.m.
Lafayette, Jan. 21, 7:30 p.m.
Merryville, Jan. 28, 11 a.m.
De Ridder, Jan. 28, 7:30 p.m.
Sulphur and Vinton, at Vinton, Feb. 4, 11 a.m.
Lake Arthur, Feb. 4, 7:30 p.m.
Branch Ct., at Branch, Feb. 11, 11 a.m.

J. B. WILLIAMS, P. E.

Ruston Dist.—First Round.

Jonesboro, at Jonesboro, Jan. 17, preaching, 11 a.m.
Gibsland, at Gibsland, Jan. 24; preaching, 11 a.m.
Arcadia, Jan. 31; preaching, 11 a.m.
Elmore, at Wesley, Jan. 4; Q. C., 2 p.m.
Sibley, at Pine Grove, Jan. 5; Q. C., 2 p.m.
Winnfield, Jan. 7; preaching, 11 a.m; Q. C., 2 p.m.
Winnfield circuit, at Joyce, Jan. 7, preaching, 7:30 p.m.; Q. C., 4 p.m.
Bienville, at Bienville, Jan. 14, preaching, 11 a.m.
Bernice, at Bernice, Jan. 16; Q. C., 2 p.m.
Farmerville, Jan. 17; Q. C., 7:30 p.m.
Marion, at Marion, Jan. 18; Q. C., 2 p.m.
Minden, Jan. 21, preaching, 11 a.m.
Homer, Jan. 23; Q. C., 7:30 p.m.
Haynesville, Jan. 24; Q. C., 7:30 p.m.
Dubach, at Dubach, Jan. 26; Q. C., 2 p.m.
Springhill, Jan. 28, preaching, 11 a.m.
Cotton Valley, Jan. 28, preaching, 7:30 p.m.
Ringgold, at Ringgold, Feb. 4, preaching 11 a.m.
Wesley, at Hall Summit, Feb. 5; Q. C., 2 p.m.
Simsboro, at Simsboro, Feb. 7; Q. C., 2 p.m.
Haughton and Doyline, at Haughton, Feb. 11, preaching 11 a.m.
Ruston, Feb. 12, 7:30 p.m.
Castor, Feb. 14; Q. C., 2 p.m.
Athens, Feb. 18; Q. C., preaching, 11 a.m.
District Stewards' meeting, at Arcadia, Jan. 11, at 10:30 a.m.

K. W. DODSON, P. E.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

Jackson Dist.—First Round.

Galloway Memorial, Dec. 10.
Fannin, at Fannin, Dec. 16, 17, 11 a.m.
Jackson, at Rankin St., Dec. 17, 7 p.m.
Jackson, at Capitol St., Dec. 24.
Terry, at Terry, Dec. 30, 11 a.m., 2:30 p.m.
Florence, at Braxton, Dec. 30, 7 p.m.
Florence, at Braxton, Dec. 31, 11 a.m.
Canton, Jan. 7, 11 a.m., 2 p.m.
Bolton, at Raymond, Jan. 14, 11 a.m., 2 p.m.
Edwards, Jan. 21, 11 a.m., 2 p.m.
Flora, Jan. 21, 7 p.m.
Flora, Jan. 22, 2 p.m.
Madison, Jan. 24, 11 a.m.
Satartia, at Mt. Olivet, Jan. 27, 28, 11 a.m.
Bentonia, Jan. 28, 2 p.m., 7 p.m.
Harrisville, at Rexford, Feb. 3, 4, 11 a.m.
Mendenhall and D'Lo, at D'Lo, Feb. 4, 2:30, 7 p.m.
Camden, at Camden, Feb. 13, 14, 11 a.m.
Sharon, at Sharon, Feb. 11, 2:30 p.m.
Vaughn, Feb. 16, 11 a.m.
Beaton, at Midway, Feb. 17, 11 a.m.
Eden, at Eden, Feb. 18, 2:30 p.m., 7:30 p.m.
Yazoo City circuit, at ———, Feb. 24, 25, 11 a.m.
Yazoo City, Feb. 25, 2:30, 7 p.m.
Brandon, at Pelahatchie, Mar. 4, 11 a.m., 2 p.m.
Monterey, at Mt. Carmel, Feb. 5, 11 a.m.

The district stewards are called to meet in the Sunday school room at Galloway Memorial Church, December 28, at 9 a.m. A full attendance is desired. We will be glad to have the pastors and lay leaders in attendance that we may have a full discussion of the work before us for the year.

M. L. BURTON, P. E.

Meridian Dist.—First Round.

Meridian, East End, Dec. 10.
Meridian, Hawkins Memorial, Dec. 10, p.m.
Meridian, Central, Dec. 17.
Meridian, Poplar Springs, Dec. 17, p.m.
Meridian, Fifth Street, Dec. 31.
Porterville, at Chapel Hill, Jan. 6, 7.
Scooba, Jan. 7, p.m.
Cleveland, at Mellen, Jan. 12.
DeKalb, at Pleasant Ridge, Jan. 13, 14.
Vimville, at Pleasant Hill, Jan. 20, 21.
Meridian, Seventh Ave., Jan. 21, p.m.
Daleville, at Lockhart, Jan. 21, 22.
Lauderdale and Electric Mills, at Elec. M., Jan. 28.
Waynesboro circuit, at Fedora, Feb. 3, 4.
Waynesboro, Feb. 4.
Matherville, at Poplar Springs, Feb. 10, 11.
DeSoto, at Crandall, Feb. 11, 12.
Enterprise, Feb. 15, 16.
Pachuta, Feb. 16, 17.
Quitman, Feb. 18.
Shubuta, Feb. 18, p.m.
Bucatunna, at State Line, Feb. 25.

The district stewards will meet at Central Church, Meridian, on Friday, 10 o'clock a.m., December 29. The pastors are invited to be present.

PAUL D. HARDIN, P. E.

Seashore Dist.—First Round.

Gulfport, 11 a.m., Dec. 10.
Longbeach, 7 p.m., Dec. 10.
Biloxi, 11 a.m., Dec. 17.
District Stewards, Gulfport, 10 a.m., Dec. 28,
Logtown, 11 a.m., Dec. 31.
Bay St. Louis, 7 p.m., Dec. 31.
Americus, Fri., 11 a.m., Jan. 5.
Moss Point, 11 a.m., Jan. 7.
Escatawpa, 3 p.m., Jan. 7.
Pascagoula, 7 p.m., Jan. 7.
Lumberton, 11 a.m., Jan. 14.
Columbia Mission, at Hub, 3 p.m., Jan. 14.
Columbia, 7 p.m., Jan. 14.
Poplarville, 11 a.m., Jan. 21.
Picayune, 7 p.m., Jan. 21.
Carriere, Mon., 11 a.m., Jan. 22.
Vancleave, at Vancleave, 11 a.m., Wed., Jan. 24.
Mentorum, at Alexandria Memorial, 11 a.m., Saturday, Jan. 27.
Brooklyn, 11 a.m., Jan. 28.
Wiggins, 7 p.m., Jan. 28.
Saucier, at Saucier, Wed., 7 p.m., Jan. 31.
Ocean Springs, at Ocean Springs, 11 a.m., Feb. 4.
Back Bay, 7 p.m., Feb. 4.
Gulfport, Q. C., Mon., 7:30 p.m., Feb. 5.
Biloxi, Q. C., Tues., 7:30 p.m., Feb. 6.
Long Beach, Q. C., Wed., 7:30 p.m., Feb. 7.

The district stewards, the district lay leader, and all the charge lay leaders are requested to meet at Gulfport Methodist church at 10 o'clock, December 28. Matters of importance are to be discussed and settled for the year. The pastors are invited to come, but if they cannot make two trips, they will be expected to meet in a Preachers' Institute at Gulfport, Thursday and Friday, January 25, 26. Bishop Ainsworth will arrange matters for consideration. Let no pastor fail to attend. Let us all begin now for a great forward movement. I urge the stewards to collect a part of their pastors' salary at once. He will need it. Some have had long moves. So, brethren, please don't wait until the quarterly conference meets. Let us all begin now working and praying for a thousand souls to be saved, and a level district by Conference. We can have it if we will.

W. M. SULLIVAN, P. E.

Vicksburg Dist.—First Round.

Nebo, 11 a.m., Dec. 31.
Fayette, 7:30 p.m., Dec. 31.
Harriston, at Lorman, 11 a.m., Jan. 7.
Port Gibson, 7:30 p.m., Jan. 7.
Hermanville, 11 a.m., Jan. 14.
Utica, 7:30 p.m., Jan. 14, 15.
Washington, 11 a.m., Jan. 21.
Natchez, 7:30 p.m., Jan. 21.
Rosetta, 11 a.m., Jan. 26.
Gloster, 11 a.m., Jan. 27.
Centerville, 11 a.m., Jan. 28.
Woodville, 7:30 p.m., Jan. 28.
Roeky Springs, at Willows, 11 a.m., Feb. 4.
Vicksburg, Gibson Memorial, 7:30 p.m., Feb. 4, 5.
Roxie, 11 a.m., Feb. 11.
Vicksburg, Crawford Street, 7:30 p.m., Feb. 11, 12.
Oak Ridge, at Flower Hill, 11 a.m. Feb. 14.
Louise and Holly Bluff, at H. B., 11 a.m., Feb. 18.
Silver City, 7:30 p.m., Feb. 18.
Mayersville, Feb. 24.
Anguilla at Delta City, 11 a.m., Feb. 25.
Rolling Fork, 7:30 p.m., Feb. 25.

The district stewards are called to meet in the Crawford Street Church, Vicksburg, at 11:30 a.m., on Friday, Dec. 29, 1922. Please let all of the stewards be present. Matters of importance will come before the meeting.

J. R. JONES, P. E.

Stammering Cured

YOUR MONEY BACK IF NOT SATISFIED. Here are the names and addresses of prominent people to whom you may write and learn if we really do cure stammering: Rev. Quincy Ewing, Napoleonville, La.; J. Q. Mahaffey, attorney, Texarkana, Texas; W. W. Callahan, attorney, Decatur, Ala.; any bank or pastor of any church in Tyler. Many other names furnished on request.

SCHOOL FOR STAMERERS, Tyler, Tex.

A Remedy for Piles

Ask your Druggist (whom you know) what he knows about PAZO OINTMENT as a Remedy for Itching, Blind, Bleeding or Protruding Piles. 60c.

PILES Don't Be Cut Until You Try This Wonderful Treatment

My internal method of treatment is the correct one, and is sanctioned by the best informed physicians and surgeons. Ointments, salves and other local applications give only temporary relief.

If you have piles in any form write for a FREE sample of Page's Pile Tablets and you will bless the day that you read this. Write today.

E. R. PAGE 430J Page Bldg., Marshall, Mich.

ECZEMA

IS CURABLE

Write me today and I will send you a free trial of my mild, soothing, guaranteed treatment that will prove it. Stops the itching and heals permanently. Send no money—just write me—that is all you have to do. Address

Dr. Cannaday, 1225 Park Squire, Sedalia, Mo.

FREE BOOK ABOUT CANCER.

The Indianapolis Cancer Hospital, Indianapolis, Indiana, has published a booklet which gives interesting facts about the cause of Cancer, also tells what to do for pain, bleeding, odor, etc. A valuable guide in the management of any case. Write for it to-day, mentioning this paper.—Adv.

IF SICK TODAY! TAKE NO CALOMEL

"Dodson's Liver Tone" Straightens You Up Better Than Salivating, Dangerous Calomel and Doesn't Upset You—Don't Lose a Day's Work—Read Guarantee

I discovered a vegetable compound that does the work of dangerous, sickening calomel and I want every reader of this paper to buy a bottle for a few cents and if it doesn't straighten you up better and quicker than salivating calomel just go back to the store and get your money back.

I guarantee that one spoonful of Dodson's Liver Tone will put your sluggish liver to work and clean your thirty feet of bowels of the sour bile and constipation poison which is clogging your system and making you feel miserable.

I guarantee that one spoonful of this harmless liquid liver medicine will relieve the headache, biliousness, coated tongue, ague, malaria, sour stomach or any other distress caused by a torpid liver as quickly as a dose of vile, nauseating calomel, besides it will not make you sick or keep you from a day's work.

Calomel is poison—it's mercury—it attacks the bones, often causing rheumatism. Calomel is dangerous. It sickens—while my Dodson's Liver Tone is safe, pleasant and harmless. Eat anything afterwards, because it can not salivate. Give it to the children because it doesn't upset the stomach or shock the liver. Take a spoonful tonight and wake up feeling fine and ready for a full day's work.

Woman's Missionary Society

All communications for this Department should be sent to Mrs J. G. Snelling, 1431 Octavia St., New Orleans, La.

TO THE CORRESPONDING SECRETARIES, LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.

As this is the last month of the 4th quarter, I want to remind you of several items that should be attended to which may slip your memory and cause much inconvenience and delay.

List of Officers.

Last year it took me four months to get the list of new officers—and then the list was incomplete. So the first request is that you will attend to that at once. You have just held your election; and while the matter is fresh in your mind won't you please send it to me? Whether you elected new ones or re-elected the old ones, please send the complete list, with street and post office address.

Also send the names and addresses of the Superintendents of the departments to the Corresponding Conference officers and send the name and address of your president to Mrs. S. A. Steel, Mansfield, La., in order that you may get your literature promptly. It is nearly always the fault of the auxiliary if you do not get the literature and yet you blame the Conference Distributor. I hope and believe I can count on you to comply with this request.

Memorial Roll.

Another item that must be attended to this last quarter is the list of names for the Memorial Roll. We cannot guess who have died, and unless you send us the names they will not appear in the minutes. At the last moment last year many were disappointed that their members were not on the list.

Honor Roll.

Then the list of auxiliaries who have made the Honor Roll must come in this fourth quarter. Turn to your Conference Minutes and note the points to be made and then state to me in your report whether your auxiliary belongs on the Honor Roll. This report, of course, must go to your District Secretary also, as do all the others. You will notice that the Annual Conference at Shreveport changed the boundary line of some of the districts, but the line will hold in your reports till after our annual meeting at Monroe.

Funds.

Of course, Mrs. Carver will be behind you for a full financial report, but I want to add my plea also that you see that your pledge and all other funds are in on time. Last year we had to wind up the collections by telegram and then were a little short. "Now is the accepted time" in material as well as spiritual things.

Specials.

Another request is that you will write on the back of your report a correct list of the Specials supported by your auxiliary, also the name of any individual supporting one that is reported through your auxiliary. Refer to the Minutes again and see how to do it. Report also the scholarships in the French Mission School at Houma.

THANKS.

I want to thank you for your cooperation in the work during this year, for all of our information has come through the faithful secretaries—both district and auxiliary. And as the business men say, "I'm thanking you in advance" for responding to the above requests, for I know you will. Your new secretary will have much to learn, therefore, I'm asking you who have had experience to attend to these matters before I get the list of new officers. Most cordially,

MRS. S. A. MONTGOMERY,
7926 Elm St., New Orleans, La.

NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

Children's Work.

Dear Junior Superintendent: The Fourth Quarter is rapidly slipping away and we must use our very best energies to make our work during this "home stretch" count for the most possible.

If you did not organize a Mission Study class in October, do so now. Do your best to have your study classes embrace the entire membership. Nothing creates interest like information, and study is the key that unlocks the door of information.

Secure subscriptions to the Young Christian Worker, really have a "Y. C. W. Drive." Put it in every Methodist home where there is a child. Interest those who have no children to give subscriptions to those who would otherwise not get it. "Inasmuch as you have done it unto the least of these my brethren, you have done it unto me."

If you did not observe "Week of Prayer" at the date suggested, Nov. 5-11, have the children's service yet. Maybe your pastor would assign you a Sunday evening service. The literature gives a very attractive program. The offering goes to our girls' school in Cuba and the French children in Louisiana.

One thing, perhaps, we have overlooked. There is necessary some expense attached to our work in the Conference. Some time during this quarter ask your Juniors to make free will offering to this Conference expense fund and also to the retirement and relief fund. Report it to me in your Fourth Quarterly Report and send money to Mrs. Wilburn. You have been so loyal to every cause during the year I feel confident each Superintendent will rally to this.

Let me beg you to have full mite box openings this quarter, and quarterly mothers' meetings—these can nicely be turned into one meeting. The mothers enjoy special meetings the children have, and feel quite honored to have meetings held for them. Let us encourage the children in their contributions, for the third quarter's

(Continued on Page 16)

Bitter Chillifuge 25c

Has a bitter tonic taste and quick action in routing malaria from the system.

Will quickly stop chills and fever.

Splendid tonic for torpid liver and bracer for poor appetite.

FINLAY, DICKS & CO., INC.,
NEW ORLEANS.

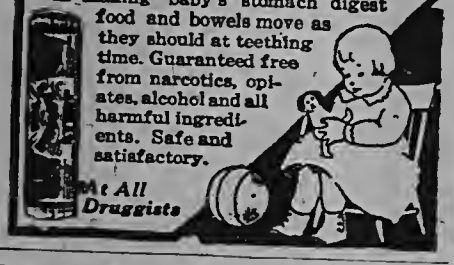
TETTERINE

Makes Low Necks and Short Sleeves Possible. It Clears the Skin.
60c at your Druggist's, or from The
SHUPTRINE CO., SAVANNAH, GA.

CHAMBERLAIN'S TABLETS
-SOLD EVERYWHERE FOR-
CONSTIPATION
BILIOUSNESS
Headache
INDIGESTION
Stomach Trouble

CANCER HOSPITAL. Intra-venous treatment for cancer. Operation. Radium and X-Ray unnecessary. Booklet giving full information upon request. Box 2127, ATLANTA, GA.

Keep Stomach and Bowels Right
By giving baby the harmless, purely vegetable, infants' and children's regulator.
MRS. WINSLOW'S SYRUP
brings astonishing, gratifying results in making baby's stomach digest food and bowels move as they should at teething time. Guaranteed free from narcotics, opiates, alcohol and all harmful ingredients. Safe and satisfactory.
At All Druggists

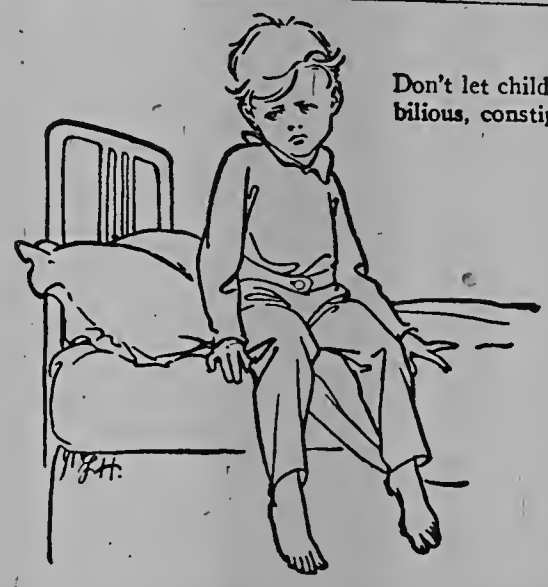


Headaches Vanish
Sick or nervous headaches, backaches, women's aches almost instantly respond to the liquid remedy Capudine. It stops the pain by removing the cause. Every home should keep a bottle handy. Sold by druggists, 10c, 30c, 60c. Insist upon getting CAPUDINE

The Young Mother's Health is Most Vital
Hear What Mrs. Ellis Says About It

Covington, Ky.—"During each expectant period I used Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. My friends were always very anxious about me, but especially the last time, because I was just getting over a case of the flu. But I am happy to say their fears were unfounded. After taking Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription I had no trouble at all and comparatively no suffering. Therefore I know the 'Favorite Prescription' to be good medicine and in my opinion it is the very best thing a prospective mother can take."—Mrs. Alma Ellis, 209 E. 3rd St.

Obtain this famous Prescription now at your nearest drug store, in tablets or liquid, or write Dr. Pierce, president Invalids' Hotel in Buffalo, N. Y., for free medical advice.



Don't let child stay bilious, constipated

MOTHER, MOVE CHILD'S BOWELS WITH "CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP"

Even Cross, Feverish, Sick Children Love its Taste and it Never Fails to Empty Little Bowels

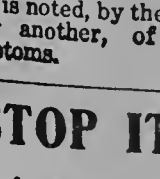
When constipated, bilious, irritable, listless, or full of cold, your little one needs a teaspoonful of "California Fig Syrup" to quickly start liver and bowel action. In a few hours you can see for yourself how thoroughly it works the sour bile and undigested food right out and you have a well, playful child again.

Millions of mothers keep "California Fig Syrup" handy. They know a teaspoonful today saves a sick child tomorrow. It never cramps or overacts. Ask your druggist for genuine "California Fig Syrup" which has directions for babies and children of all ages printed on bottle. Mother! You must say "California" or you may get an imitation fig syrup.

WINTERSMITH'S CHILL TONIC
SOLD 50 YEARS—A FINE GENERAL TONIC
If not sold by your druggist, write Wintersmith Chemical Co., Louisville, Ky.

CHAMBERLAIN'S COUGH REMEDY
FOR THE RELIEF OF
Coughs, Colds, Croup
WHOOPING COUGH, HOARSENESS
BRONCHITIS
-SOLD EVERYWHERE-

Coated Tongue
Nature's Warning of Constipation
When you are constipated, not enough of Nature's lubricating liquid is produced in the bowel to keep the food waste soft and moving. Doctors prescribe Nujol because it acts like this natural lubricant and thus replaces it.
Nujol is a lubricant—not a medicine or laxative — so cannot gripe. Try it today.



Nujol
A LUBRICANT—NOT A LAXATIVE

CRAMPS, PAINS AND BACKACHE
St. Louis Woman Relieved by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

St. Louis, Mo. —"I was bothered with cramps and pains every month and had backache and had to go to bed as I could not work. My mother and my whole family always took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for such troubles and they induced me to try it and it has helped me very much. I don't have cramps any more, and I can do my housework all through the month. I recommend your Vegetable Compound to my friends for female troubles."—Mrs. DELLA SCHOLZ, 1412 Salisbury Street, St. Louis, Mo.
Just think for a moment. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been in use for nearly fifty years. It is prepared from medicinal plants, by the utmost pharmaceutical skill, and superior methods. The ingredients thus combined in the Compound correct the conditions which cause such annoying symptoms as had been troubling Mrs. Scholz. The Vegetable Compound exercises a restorative influence of the most desirable character, correcting the trouble in a gentle but efficient manner. This is noted, by the disappearance, one after another, of the disagreeable symptoms.

STOP ITCHING
Skins with Tetterine
60c at your Druggist's, or from The SHUPTRINE CO., SAVANNAH, GA.

NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE

Aberdeen Dist.—First Round.

Buena Vista, at B. V., Dec. 30, 31.
Verona, at Verona, Jan. 6, 7.
Shannon and Nettleton, at S., Jan. 7, 8.
Woodland, at Mantee, Jan. 13, 14.
Nettleton, at Carolina, Jan. 20, 21.
Greenwood Springs, at G. S., Jan. 24.
Vardaman, at V., Jan. 27, 28.
Calhoun City, at C. C., Jan. 28, 29.
Houlka, at Houlka, Feb. 3, 4.
Salem and Ecru, at E., Feb. 10, 11.
Randolph, at Randolph, Feb. 13.
Tocopola, at Thaxton, Feb. 14.
Fulton, at Van Buren, Feb. 17, 18.
Tremont, at Tremont, Feb. 18, 19.
Smithville, at Smithville, Feb. 20.
Bellefontaine, at B., Feb. 23.
Eupora and Mabin, at Eupora, Feb. 24, 25.
Mathiston, at Mathiston, Feb. 25, 26.
Algoma, at Algoma, March 3.

T. H. DORSEY, P. E.

Columbus Dist.—First Round.

Columbus, First Church, preaching, Dec. 10, p.m.; Q. C., Dec. 19.
Caledonia, at Steens, Q. C., Dec. 28; preaching at Steens, Dec. 17, p.m.
Columbus, Central Church, preaching, Dec. 17, a.m.; Q. C., Jan. 11.
Artesia, preaching, Dec. 24; Q. C., Feb. 1.
Chester, at Nebo, Dec. 30, 31.
Ackerman and Wier, at Wier, Dec. 31, Jan. 1.
Kosciusko ct., at East Union, Jan. 6.
Kosciusko sta., Jan. 7, a.m.
McCool, at Bowle's, Jan. 7, 8.
Macon ct., at ———, Jan. 13, 14.
Crawford and Shafers, at Crawford, Jan. 14, 15.
Mashulaville, at Mashulaville, Jan. 20, 21.
Shuqualak, at Shuqualak, Jan. 21, 22.
High Point, at White Hall, Jan. 27.
Louisville, Jan. 28, a.m.
Noxapater, at Noxapater, Jan. 28, 29.
Starkville, Feb. 4, a.m.
Ethel, at Ethel, Feb. 4, 5.
Sturgis, at Sturgis, Feb. 10, 11.
Cedar Bluff, at Cedar Bluff, Feb. 17, 18.
Mayhew and Sessums, at Sessums, Feb. 25, 26.

A. T. McILWAIN, P. E.

Corinth District—First Round.

South Side, Corinth, Q. C., Monday night, Dec. 11.
Sherman ct., at Belden, Tues., Dec. 12.
New Albany sta., Dec. 17, night; 18, a.m.
Guntown, at Guntown, Dec. 19.
Baldwyn, at Baldwyn, Dec. 20.
Booneville ct., at Oak Grove, Dec. 22.
Booneville sta., Q. C., Dec. 22, night; preaching, Dec. 31, night.
Wheeler ct., at Wheeler, Dec. 30, 31, a.m.
Potts Camp, at P. C., Jan. 3.
Hickory Flat, at H. F., Jan. 4.
Myrtle, at Myrtle, Jan. 5.
Mooreville ct., at Allen's Chapel, Jan. 6, 7.
Mantachie ct., at Shiloh, Jan. 9.
Marietta ct., at Marietta, Jan. 10.
Rienzi ct., at Rienzi, Jan. 11.
Chalybeate ct., at Camp Ground, Jan. 12.
Ripley sta., Jan. 12, 14, night.
Silver Springs ct., at Mt. Carmel, Jan. 13, 14.
Great State Conference on Evangelism, for all pastors and church officials, to be held at Jackson, Miss., Jan. 16 and 17.
Burnsville ct., at Hebron, Jan. 19.
Iuka ct., at Snow Down, Jan. 20, 21.
Iuka sta., Jan 21, p.m.; Jan. 22, a.m.

All pastors of the Corinth District are called to meet the presiding elder in Corinth for special conference, Tuesday and Wednesday, Jan. 23 and 24.

Paden ct., at Westt Side, Jan. 26.
Belmont ct., at Golden, Jan. 27.
Tishomingo ct., at Tishomingo, Jan. 28, 29.

The district stewards for the Corinth District are called to meet at the First Methodist Church in Corinth at 11 a.m., Nov. 28, 1922.

J. B. RANDOLPH, P. E.

Greenwood Dist.—First Round.

Itta Bena, Dec. 24, a.m.
Greenwood, Dec. 24, p.m.
Moorehead, Dec. 31, a.m.
Indianola, Dec. 31, p.m.
Inverness, at Inverness, Jan. 7, a.m.
Belzoni, Jan. 7, p.m.
Tutwiler, at Tutwiler, Jan. 14, a.m.
Drew, at Drew, Jan. 14, p.m.
Great Rally for Home Missions and Evangelism at Jackson, Jan. 16 and 17, five laymen from each charge, and every pastor in the district to attend.
Swift, at Morgan, Jan. 10, the pastor to set the hour.
Webb, at Webb, Jan. 21, a.m
Minter City, at Minter City, Jan. 21, at 3 p.m.
Schlater, at Schlater, Jan. 24, p.m.
Tchula, Jan. 28, a.m.
Sidon and Cruger, at Sidon, Jan. 28, p.m.
Sunflower, at Sunflower, Feb. 4, a.m.
Ruleville, at Doddsville, Feb. 4, 3 p.m.

S. L. POPE, P. E.

Neutralizes Uric Acid!
Rheumatism is caused by uric acid in the blood. In order to be cured of rheumatism it is necessary to neutralize this acid. RENWAR is a scientific combination of salts prepared to neutralize the uric acid in the blood. There is nothing in Renwar to injure the stomach or affect the heart. It acts solely upon uric acid, completely eliminating it from the blood and thereby relieving your rheumatism. It is harmless but effective. Positively guaranteed by money back offer. It is a godsend to sufferers from rheumatism. Renwar also corrects constipation. Mr. J. M. Wells of the Nashville Railway and Light Company says, "I must say that Renwar far surpassed my expectations, for it gave me almost immediate relief; too much can not be spoken in behalf of 'Renwar' for rheumatism." Sold by druggists, price 50 cents, or by mail from WARNER DRUG COMPANY, NASHVILLE, TENN.

WIN CASH
$2000 IN PRIZES
Enjoy Yourself at the Same Time—COSTS NOTHING TO TRY—You Only Have to Solve a Very SIMPLE PUZZLE to Win $1000 IN CASH.
THE SOUTHERN FARM AND DAIRY
makes you the most liberal offer ever made by any Southern Farm Journal

HERE IS THE PROPOSITION
I.—Give the Names of the Five Following Southern Crops
1. My first syllable is a domestic animal; my second is a letter of the alphabet.
2. My first is slept on; my second is a weight.
3. My first is part of the foot; my second is another part of the body; my third stands for company.
4. My first part is a costly fabric; my second is slang for head.
5. My first is a spice; my second makes sweet sweeter and sour sourer.

EXAMPLE. The name of the domestic animal for the first syllable is "cow." The letter of the alphabet for the second syllable is "P." The name of the crop is "cowpea." The other four answers are equally simple crop names.

Each correct answer will count 10 points toward winning a prize. If you name all five crops correctly, as you can easily do, you have won 50 points in the contest.

II.—The other points for winning the prize are to be obtained as follows: Make the largest possible number of words from the letters composing the words: THE SOUTHERN FARM AND DAIRY.

RULES. Only nouns, names of objects, count. Words occurring in the above name of the paper will not count. Compound words may not be used. Letters may be used as many times in any single word as they occur in the words: THE SOUTHERN FARM AND DAIRY. Foreign or obsolete words may not be used. Words spelled alike but with different meanings may be used only once. Both singular and plural of the same word must not be used.

Write your answers on one side of paper only. Give crop names by number only. Number each word consecutively in your list. Write your name and address on the upper right hand corner of each sheet of paper used. Webster's Dictionary will be the final authority in judging. Competition is open to any one not connected with The Southern Farm and Dairy.

Prizes awarded to new subscribers to The Southern Farm and Dairy are larger than those offered to other persons. Therefore it is well worth while to qualify for the largest prizes by becoming a subscriber to the paper.

Every word in your list will count 1 point toward a prize. The total number of points made by words spelled added to the number of points obtained by naming the puzzle crops will constitute the total score of each contestant. The highest score wins the highest prize, and the next lower wins the next prize and so on down through the twenty-two prizes. In event of a tie for any prize offered, the full amount of the prize will be awarded to each tying contestant.

The final decision will be left to three competent judges who will be distinguished public officials of one or more states. Their decision will be announced in the February 1st issue of The Southern Farm and Dairy. All answers must be mailed not later than December 31, 1922.

Every person sending in a subscription with their reply will receive a reward on one simple condition. Here it is! With your reply (and subscription) send us the names of three owners of cows or persons who should be interested in a rural, farm or dairy paper.

For this service you will receive a valuable reward. The same will be mailed to you without further trouble or expense on your part.

THE PRIZES OFFERED:

	With No Cash Subscription	With $1.00 Cash For Three Year Subscription
First Prize	$10.00	$1,000.00
Second Prize	5.00	500.00
Third Prize	4.00	200.00
Fourth Prize	3.00	100.00
Fifth Prize	2.00	50.00
Sixth & Seventh Prizes $1.50 each	3.00	$25.00 each 50.00
Eighth to Twelfth Prizes—$1.00 each	5.00	10.00 each 50.00
Thirteenth to Twenty-second Prizes $0.50 each	5.00	5.00 each 50.00
Total		$2,000.00

THE SOUTHERN FARM AND DAIRY is one of the best farm and household papers in the entire country. It is the only paper in the South making the dairy interests of this section its leading feature. It is edited by Dr. H. E. Stockbridge, who made the SOUTHERN RURALIST a great paper. He has over and over been publicly proclaimed the best agricultural editor in this country. He has a national reputation as scientist, educator, writer and leader of practical farmers. He is now a member of the National Board of Farm Organizations. Associated with him is a competent staff of experts in every phase of agriculture, dairying and rural life.

If you cultivate a farm, a lot or a flowerbed; if you own a cow, chickens or other livestock; if you use milk, or its products, if you are a home maker; if you belong to an agricultural organization or club The Southern Farm and Dairy will help you and be worth many times its cost. It is published semi-monthly at 50c per year or $1.00 for 3 years.

All money should be sent by either Post Office or Express Money Order. Personal checks cannot be accepted.

GET BUSY! ENTER THE CONTEST; HAVE SOME FUN. SEND IN YOUR ANSWERS. WIN YOUR PRIZE. SEND $1.00 FOR SUBSCRIPTION AND QUALIFY FOR THE BIG PRIZES. ADDRESS THE SOUTHERN FARM AND DAIRY, ATLANTA, GA.

Woman's Missionary Society.

NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE

(Continued from Page 14)

report showed us $488.63 behind on our pledge. The most inspiring time will be when you observe "Promotion Day." Give this prominenee at some time during this quarter. Promote all Baby Divisions who are six years old to Junior Division and all of the Junior Division who are fourteen to Y. P. Societies. May we train our children in their early years to give to Jesus nothing less than their best. God bless you as you give of your best in their training.

Prayerfully yours,
MRS. R. P. NEBLETT.

Young Peoples' Department.

Remember our goal for 1922: 68 auxiliaries, 1240 members, $2000 pledge, 15 Honor Roll societies, 7 new volunteers, 35 new Mission Study Classes, 20 new Bible Study Classes. I earnestly request each Y. P. Superintendent to cut this out, place it in her Bible and make it a subject of prayer from now until January 1. Compare this goal with the following facts and figures that you may pray intelligently:

Only forty-two Y. P. Auxiliaries have reported at all to the treasurer up to date. The following were on last year's roll, but have sent in no report this year: Tupelo Young People, Potts Camp, Greenville, Friar's Point, Lake Cormorant, Shaw, Ruleville, Sidon, Cruger, Holly Springs, Baker's Chapel, Eudora, Cypress Corner, and Davis Chapel (14 in all). These new Y. P. Auxiliaries have never reported to the treasurer: Calhoun City, Whitehall, Chapel Hill, Aekerman, Noxapater, New Albany, Union Hill, Boyle Coahoma, Coila, Aeona, Isola, Darling, Maeon R. F. D., and Senatobia R. F. D. (15 in all.) These new auxiliaries have reported to the treasurer: Aberdeen, Merigold, Red Banks, Holcomb, Byhalia, and Carrollton. For this I thank you.

Can you solve this problem? If every auxiliary on the roll last year and every new auxiliary would report to the treasurer before January 1, would we reaeh our goal of 68? Answer: we would more than reach it, for 42 plus 14 plus 15 equals 71.

If any Y. P. Society has beeome a League sinee January 1, 1922, I think that League should be responsible for any pledge made by a Y. P. Soeiety. Isn't that fair?

I'm hoping you all remembered to observe the Week of Prayer and Self-Denial,

Count up your points at onee to see if it is possible for you to get on the Honor Roll.

Let us send Christmas greetings to our volunteers at Scarritt.

If any one is willing to join me in daily prayer for certain definite results during the month of Deeember, please drop me a eard as soon as you read this message.

Mrs. T. W. BAKER, Tupelo, Miss.

Report of Work Done in North Mississippi Conference, July 11 to November 5, 1922.

Statistieal—Homes entered, 124; visits, 74; meetings attended, 52; institutions visited, 16; talks made, 120; Missionary soeieties organized, 19; Epworth Leagues organized, 1; towns and ehurehes visited, 103.

I have found response, eooperation and Christian fellowship in eaeh of the plaees visited and I take this opportunity to express my gratitude to one and all for rendering the assistanee neeessary for my itinerary through the North Mississippi Conferenee. Respeetfully submitted,

BESSIE BRAND,
Rural Survey Seeretary.

There was a full half day's wait for "the one train daily in spite of strike" in the county seat hotel. Outside, a driving rain was quenching the thirst of the parched earth. It would be little short of suieide to my only and freshly pressed suit to fare forth amid that downpour. Then began a re-living of the mountain top experienees in this "land flowing with milk and honey" (North Mississippi Conference.)

Ends Stubborn Coughs in a Hurry

For real effectiveness, this old home-made remedy has no equal. Easily and cheaply prepared.

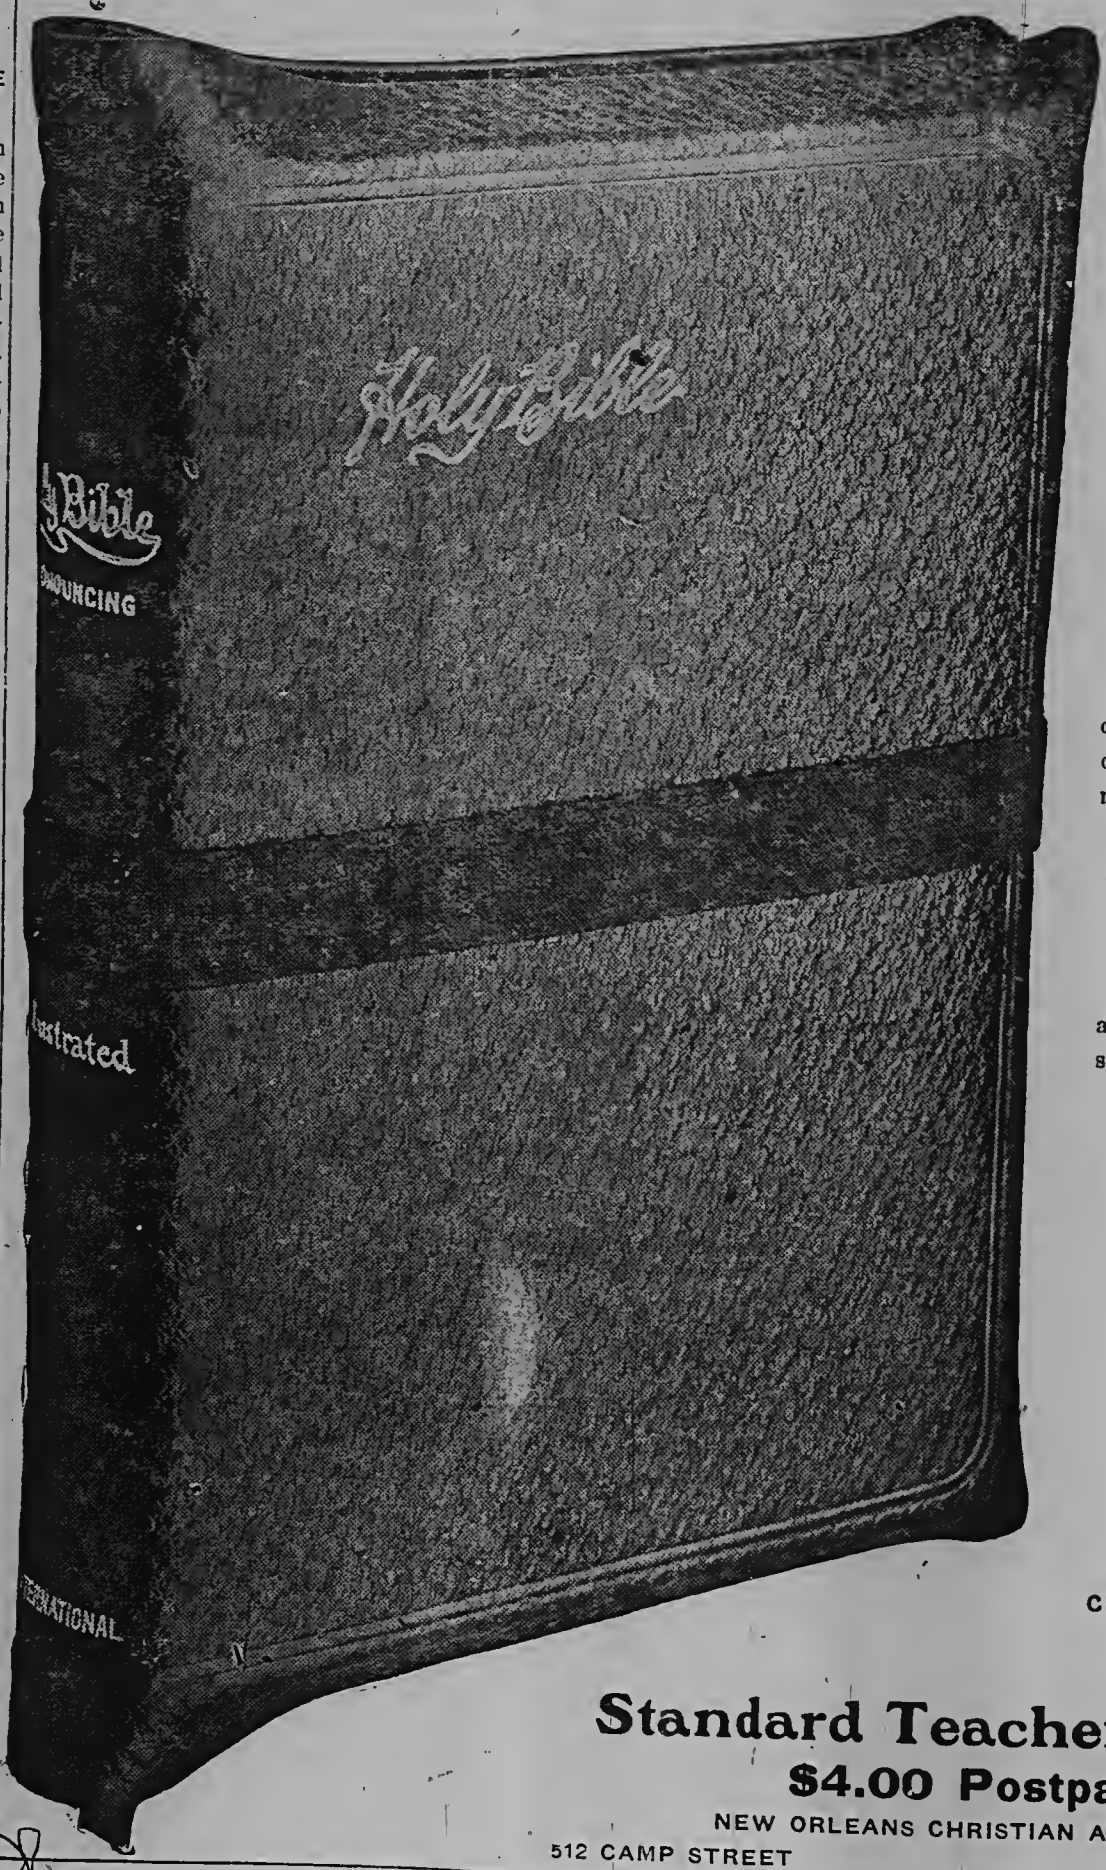
You'll never know how quickly a bad cough can be conquered, until you try this famous old home-made remedy. Anyone who has coughed all day and all night, will say that the immediate relief given is almost like magic. It takes but a moment to prepare, and really there is nothing better for coughs.

Into a pint bottle, put 2½ ounces of Pinex; then add plain granulated sugar syrup to make a full pint. Or you can use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, the full pint saves about two-thirds of the money usually spent for cough preparations, and gives you a more positive, effective remedy. It keeps perfectly, and tastes pleasant—children like it.

You can feel this take hold instantly, soothing and healing the membranes in all the air passages. It promptly loosens a dry, tight cough, and soon you will notice the phlegm thin out and then disappear altogether. A day's use will usually break up an ordinary throat or chest cold, and it is also splendid for bronchitis, croup, hoarseness, and bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a most valuable concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, the most reliable remedy for throat and chest ailments.

To avoid disappointment ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.



Standard Teachers' Bible

FLEXIBLE
LEATHER BINDING
5½ x 8½ Inches

SELF-PRONOUNCING EDITION WITH

Concordance

Beautifully Bound with overlapping cover, red under gold edges; 16 colored maps of BIBLE Lands.

LARGE CLEAR PRINT

This is a handsome book and is sold at a very reasonable price.

Price, $4.00

POSTPAID

SEND ORDERS
TO
NEW ORLEANS
CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE

Standard Teachers' Bible
$4.00 Postpaid
NEW ORLEANS CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE
512 CAMP STREET NEW ORLEANS, LA.

666 is a prescription for Colds, Fever and LaGrippe. It's the most speedy remedy we know.

SORES BOILS, CUTS and BURNS have been healed since 1820 with

Gray's Ointment

Sold by all druggists. Write for sample to W. F. Gray & Co., 707 Gray Bldg., Nashville, Tenn.

NEW ORLEANS

CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE

Vol. 69—No. 51. Official Organ of the Louisiana, Mississippi, and North Mississippi Conferences, Methodist Episcopal Church, South. Whole No. 3489.

HENRY T. CARLEY, Editor. NEW ORLEANS, LA., THURSDAY, DECEMBER 21, 1922. CHAS. O. CHALMERS, Manager.

ANOTHER CHRISTMAS.

The oft-recurrence of some things has a tendency to make them lose their significance and become commonplace; but the annual recurrence of the Christmas celebration brings a new flood of joy to the whole Christian world. When the angel of the Lord stood by the shepherds and made the exultant announcement, "There is born to you this day in the city of David a Savior, who is Christ the Lord," he started ringing around the world the best message it had ever heard—and the best one it will ever hear—and since that time men have been singing, "Glory to God in the highest." In this day that should be the song upon every lip, for it is in Jesus Christ and in him alone that the hope of the world lies. This celebration of the natal day of our Lord should inspire every one of us to a new loyalty to him and to a reconsecration of ourselves to the task of establishing, maintaining, and extending the Kingdom of God upon earth. We should not be as those foolish ones who "say and do not," but as we give the greetings of the season and make our friends and loved happy by tokens of esteem and affection, we should make the greatest gift of all—the gift of ourselves to him who loved us and gave himself for us. May Christmas Day this year mark the beginning of a deeper experience of divine grace in the life of every one who names the name of Christ! And may the prophecy in the announcement to the Blessed Virgin be speedily fulfilled: "He shall be great, and shall be called the Son of the Most High: and the Lord God shall give unto him the throne of his father David: and he shall reign over the house of Jacob for ever: and of his kingdom there shall be no end!"

OUR PRIMARY AND MAJOR TASK NOW.

The Bishops' Message.

We, your General Superintendents, rejoice to report that our church is in a most prosperous condition. The Annual Conferences in their recent sessions have shown most gratifying increases in membership and commendable enlargement in all their activities. Peace and harmony prevail througbout our borders. The attitude of the people toward the church and its work is most encouraging. They are loyal to its interests and faithful in the promotion of its movements. The reports from all the foreign fields have never been so full of encouragement. The day of our advancement is upon us.

We are compelled to say, however, that the continuance of this advancement—under the blessing of Almighty God—is dependent upon our fidelity to the vows and pledges which we have made. This is especially true of our Centenary pledges. The Centenary, by the payments already made, has revitalized all our missionary operations and has thrilled every field with the possibilities of immediate marvelous achievements. Failure to consummate this movement will inevitably bring disaster to many of our most important enterprises and break the superb spirit which is now ascendant in all our work. Because of this fact, unquestionably the collection of these pledges is the outstanding immediate task before us. The neglect of many of our people to pay their subscriptions at maturity has already created a situation which is becoming exceedingly embarrassing and this embarrassment cannot be relieved except by the payment of pledges now over-due. This is true in every field, home and foreign, and involves the building of churches, parsonages, schools and hospitals, and the support of preachers in home mission territory and all the missionaries throughout the world. The Executive Committee of the Centenary Commission has just held a session at which the situation was carefully reviewed and the Directing Secretary, the Rev. W. G. Cram, D.D., has reported to us that a real emergency exists. At least $4,000,000 will be required to meet the obligations made for 1922 and to carry on the work up to the meetings of the Boards in 1923.

The last installment of every Centenary subscription will fall due on January 1, 1923, or during the coming year. The call is now for the payment in full by every subscriber of all that he or she has promised. Subscribers need now to face squarely and unfalteringly these voluntarily assumed and pressing obligations. Most important enterprises are at stake. Promptness in meeting these pledges will not only insure the completion of these enterprises, but will also bring a new enthusiasm, new vigor, and a new effectiveness to all our work.

The collection of our Centenary pledges is so vital a matter that we believe that all our forces, ministerial and lay, should be mobilized and employed at once in a vigorous campaign for the payment of all subscriptions. Those of us who are in charge of home Conferences are ready to give this matter the best leadership of which we are capable. It is our judgment that the bishops in charge of foreign fields, namely, Bishop James Cannon, Jr., Bishop W. B. Beauchamp, Bishop Sam R. Hay, Bishop H. M. Dobbs and Bishop H. A. Boaz, should arrange their work so as to give as much as possible of the time between this date and the meetings of the Boards in 1923 to the special effort for collecting these pledges, acting in co-operation with the Centenary Commission. Those of us who are in charge of home Conferences are ready not only to give leadership in our own districts, but also as far as practicable to aid in the church at large in this emergency.

This is a time, in our opinion, when not only the bishops but also all the secretaries, men and women, of all the Boards involved, should use all efforts possible to make valid our Centenary promises, having this as their major task for this period; and, we would respectfully suggest to the Executive Committee of the Boards interested the advisability of so planning the work of these secretaries as to enable them to give all possible time to this one outstanding task.

We would respectfully suggest to the newly constituted Board of Lay Activities that its primary and principal task at this particular time, as it seems to us, is the collection of the Centenary pledges, and we therefore call upon all lay leaders, Conference, district, charge and church to assume new, constant, and abiding responsibility for the collection of all the pledges within their respective jurisdictions and ask that they do not cease their labors until the entire subscription list in each case is completely cleared.

We would also call attention of the women of the Missionary Societies to what we believe to be the fact, that they can have no higher opportunity for service at this time than that of co-operating with the other forces of the church in collecting these Centenary pledges.

We have only the highest commendation for the Sunday schools and the Epworth Leagues in the splendid work which they have already done in collecting Centenary funds. We express the hope that they will continue their fine co-operation until the task is finished.

Just as the first success of the Centenary was achieved by the mobilization, organization, and employment of all the forces of the church acting in whole-hearted harmony and lively co-operation, so in like manner will the final success be achieved. We send forth this message in confident expectation that all of our people will dedicate themselves anew to the full completion of the Centenary Task and that with us they will recognize the leadership of the Almighty God whose manifest blessing has been upon this enlarged activity from its inception.

Signed by: Eugene R. Hendrix, Warren A. Candler, James Atkins, Collins Denny, William B. Murrah, Edwin D. Mouzon, John M. Moore, William F. McMurry, Urban V. W. Darlington, Horace M. DuBose, William N. Ainsworth, James Cannon, Jr., William B. Beauchamp, James E. Dickey, Sam R. Hay, Hoyt M. Dobbs, Hiram A. Boaz.

A CHRISTMAS PRAYER.

John 15:7.

By Mrs. A. Fount Calloway.

Hear, Father God, who art in Heaven,
Hear faltering me;
Accept my thanks this Christmas-tide,
For the birth and gift of Thy Son who died
To make salvation free.

Show me the way, O Pilot tried,
Show me the way,
That I, Thy trusting child, may guide
Some struggling ones on life's dark tide,
Into the port of day.

Use me, Thou Blessed Loving Christ,
Use even me,
To whisper words of Christian cheer,
To brighten paths, and burdens share
Of those in need of Thee.

Teach me to sing, my Master kind,
Teach simple me;
Attune heart and soul with notes divine,
That this poor, faltering tongue of mine,
May sing some soul to Thee.

Teach me to pray, my Father dear,
Teach needy me,
That pleading there before Thy shrine,
Some humble prayer may blend with mine
And find access to Thee.

Help me to live, O Friend Divine,
Help unworthy me,
That old and young, that rich and poor,
May come with gladness to my door,
And find Thy friend in me.

Watch over me, O Shepherd true,
Watch over me;
Let me not stay from Thy fold away,
But seek for lambs that are prone to stray,
And bring them back to Thee.

New Orleans Christian Advocate

OFFICE, No. 512 CAMP STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

Published every Thursday by the Publishing Committee for the Louisiana, Mississippi, and North Mississippi Conferences, Methodist Episcopal Church, South.

Entered at the Postoffice at New Orleans as Second-class Mail Matter. Accepted for mailing at special rate of postage provided for in Section 1103, Act of Oct. 3, 1917, authorized Oct. 30, 1918.

TERMS:

Subscription Rates: One year, $2.00; six months, $1.
To superannuates and widows of preachers, $1.

TO CONTRIBUTORS.

All copy submitted for publication should be legibly written on one side of the paper with pen and ink, or typewritten. Matters written with a lead pencil and rolled manuscripts are unacceptable. No copy will be returned unless postage is enclosed for that purpose. In no case will responsibility be assumed for the loss or non-return of articles—the writers should keep copies of them. We do not purchase matter of any kind.

WHEN I HAVE TIME.

When I have time so many things I'll do
To make life happier and more fair
For those whose lives are crowded with care;
I'll help to lift them from their despair,
When I have time.

When I have time, the friend I love so well
Shall know no more weary, toiling days;
I'll lead her feet in pleasant paths always,
And cheer her heart with sweetest words of praise,
When I have time.

When you have time, the friend you love so dear
May be beyond the reach of all your sweet intent;
May never know that you so kindly meant
To fill her life with sweet content,
When you had time.

Now is the time! Ah friend! No longer wait
To scattter loving smiles and words of cheer
To those around, whose lives are now so dear;
They may not need you in the coming year—
Now is the time.

—Selected.

A CALL FOR THE OBSERVANCE OF WORLD PEACE SUNDAY.

Issued by the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America

To the Churches of America:

In accordance with the proposal of the World Alliance for International Friendship through the Churches that Christmas Sunday, or the Sunday preceding Christmas, be recognized in all nations as World Peace Sunday, the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America urges all churches throughout our country to co-operate in this world-wide observance.

When can we more appropriately voice our appeal for peace than at the celebration of the coming into the world of Him whom we hail as the Prince of Peace? Especially in a year when we are still haunted by the memory of ten million young men who laid down their lives in the last war; when famine and want continue to stalk in its wake; when intrigue and selfishness again are seeking to control the foreign policies of nations; when rival armaments and threats of war tragically harass the peoples of Europe, it would seem to he the clear obligation of every church that bears the name of Christ to raise its voice unequivocally against the whole war system and to demand that the governments of the world find other ways of settling every dispute which may arise.

Other ways can and will be found if the Christian people of the world urgently and persistently demand it. By a concerted appeal at Christmas time, followed by unremitting effort during the year, we may hear effective witness to our conviction that war can be outlawed by the building up of international agencies for the preservation of peace and the development of a community life among the nations.

Most of all at this Christmas tide let us proclaim our unshaken faith that a great increase in the spirit of trust and brotherhood and good-will, and this alone, will make world peace a permanent reality. The task of getting rid of war and securing peace requires international organization, but it requires more. The trouble in our present international life is a spiritual trouble—the attitude of selfishness, of fear, of suspicion among men in organized groups. So the remedy must be a spiritual one, the acceptance of a way of life not yet generally accepted in economic and international affairs—the way of brotherhood, of friendly co-operation and of love, revealed to us in Him whose life we now commemorate.

Signed by: Robert E. Speer, President, Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America; John H. Finley, Chairman, Commission on International Justice and Good-will; Charles H. Brent, Vice-Chairman, Commission on International Justice and Good-will.

A SUPERANNUATE ON GOOD AND PROFITABLE HEARING.

By Rev. T. W. Adams.

(This article was received by the Advocate several weeks before Brother Adams was called to his reward. It is, so far as we know, the last written by him.—Editor.)

"Take heed therefore how ye hear." Right hearing is profitable hearing. Much instruction is needed on this important matter. How to hear so as to be helped by the hearing is a question of vital importance. Notwithstanding its importance, we seldom hear any real and helpful instruction on it from the pulpit. What is the meaning of this fact? As I see it, the preachers give but little help to their congregations where help is very much needed. Of late, my mind has run on this line quite a good deal, and, with your permission, Henry, I'll jot down some of my cogitations, hoping thereby to help earnest souls to such hearing of the gospel as will do them good.

God calls men to preach. I have no manner of doubt about it. He called the prophets to prophesy, and He called the Apostles to their work, and He called the Seventy and sent them out to preach. Multiplied thousands of men, since those early days, have felt that God had called them to preach. This is all reasonable. Why should anybody doubt that God calls men to preach? He knows perfectly well what native elements in a man are fitted for use in such divine work. None should enter the work unless he has a definite and clear call to it. It would be profane to do so. If one has a clear call to preach, he should not dare to disobey God's call. It would be sin in him to do so. Men should be very honest with God and themselves in this matter. Mistakes at this point have wrecked many lives. Let every man answer when God calls; and let every man be careful not to mistake some extraneous thing for a divine call to preach.

If God calls and sends men to preach, he furnishes people the opportunity to hear. In giving opportunity to hear, He calls them to hear His Word. If God calls us to hear through the opportunities He gives us, it is sin in any one to refuse or neglect to hear. To hear God's Word when preached is not optional with us—we must hear or be disobedient to God. We can not neglect to wait upon the ministry of the Word and be guiltless before God. He will not he mocked and spurned. A day of fearful reckoning is coming, and woe will he to him who refused to hear God's warnings and invitations. Serious, indeed, is the responsibility of a man who lives in a land where the gospel is preached and will not hear the preaching of it. It would be better for him if he had been reared in the jungles of Africa.

In the eighth chapter of St. Luke and thirteenth verse, Christ does not exhort to hear the Word. He seems to have taken it for granted that every one would hear who had the opportunity to do so. That presumption was eminently reasonable. It would be and is entirely unreasonable to presume that any human being, to whom God gives the honor and privilege of receiving a message of good cheer and living hope, would refuse to hear it. Just at this point there are living all around us examples of human folly. There are men and women living in this Christian country who never darken the door of a church. I have tried, but in vain, to get the viewpoint of such people. I can not understand it at all. The fact of hearing is not the point in the passage quoted above; the HOW of hearing is the vital thing. Take heed HOW ye hear. My thoughts have gathered about this point. To be profited by the gospel messages we hear, we need proper equipment for it.

We should bear reverently. The preacher, if he has been really called of God and sent out to preach, is not a mere human individual, but he is, in a peculiar and definite sense, God's man, with a special mission to perform. He is God's spokesman. He is God's representative, God's ambassador. To use an analogy, I may make it clearer. Hon. George Harvey is our national ambassador at the Court of St. James. When he speaks as an individual, his utterances have no significance whatever. On two occasions he has spoken foolishly; on both occasions he spoke his individual opinions, which caused no trouble—the world laughed and sneered at his vagaries. If he should speak officially for the United States, every word uttered by him would have all the resources of this great government back of it. At attention, every government in this world would hear and seriously weigh it. So with God's ambassador. He may say many meaningless and unwise things that may not be taken seriously by his hearers, but when he speaks within instructions, with Bible warrant, back of his deliverances are the infinite resources of God. Superficial and irreverent hearing is a dangerous sin. It is safe and wise to hear gospel messages with all possible reverence. They are God's words, uttered by His ambassador.

The preached Word should be heard prayerfully. There are three offices that prayer performs to get right and profitable hearing. It prepares one for hearing. No man who prays before going to church that God may give him an open mind and a prepared heart, will ever fail to get good out of the sermon and the worship. It does not matter how weak the preacher may he if the hearer is prepared to receive a message—he will get what he needs. Then prayer on the part of the hearer in receiving the message will be greatly helpful. The pew can put itself en rapport with the pulpit by prayer. A prayerful pulpit and a prayerful pew mean a deeply spiritual service. It is in the midst of such worshipers that God manifests His presence and power. The lack of this prayerfulness causes the lifelessness of our meetings which is distressingly common. We should not bother ourselves so much about the insipidity of the preaching as about the spirit in which we hear the Word. Prayer helps the memory to retain the truth. It wonderfully quickens and strengthens the memory. In very many cases serious impressions made by the sermon are dissapated by trifling and frivolous chatter at the close of the services. A Christian man, deeply spiritual and prayerful, told me of an incident at his church which distressed him. He said the pastor preached a sweetly spiritual sermon on Sunday at 11 o'clock; the congregation was under the spell of the Spirit. As soon as the close of the service came the pastor's wife hurried to a friend near her and asked her, "Why were you not at the club meeting last Friday night?" Such a frivolous spirit in hearing vitiates all good in the service to any one. Let us prayerfully carry away with us the truth we get from God! With preoccupied minds we can not helpfully hear the message that God sends us through His messenger.

Sermons should be heard studiously. The real preacher is a teacher of divine truth. His proper work is not to please his hearers and entertain them with his finished and eloquent discourses; his commission is, "Go preach my Word." To preach is to teach the revelation of truth. Oh, that we had more teaching preachers! It is so unsatisfactory to hear words and words thundered at us and leave without any great thoughts to carry away with us to enrich our minds and lives.

If our school teachers in the lecture-room were to spend their time and efforts to entertain and please our children and give no time to instructing them, we would be greatly dissatisfied. It is more important that our preachers should teach us God's truth. The medicos take into the lecture room note books and sharpened pencils. They are there to be taught in the principles of their profession, they are prepared to note down the vital instructions; then, in their rooms, they study them until they have mastered and made them their own. I have many times begged my congregations to bring note books and pencils with them to church, and we would have a study of God's Word together. Such a course would bo better for both preacher and hearer. By all means, let preachers teach and the congregations study God's Word.

The sermon should be heard with a real desire to be helped by it, and a will to be obedient to the truth. Any indifference in spirit, and any mental reservation will shut one out from good in the hearing. It is not sufficient to be at church and respectfully hear the sermon. That is good as far as it goes, but we need to go entirely beyond that if we get the good that God means for us in hearing His Word. "Take heed therefore HOW ye hear."

PREPARATION FOR LIFE'S GREATEST BUSINESS.

By Rufus M. Jones.

Is not the true worshiper one who rises to the positive experience of the real presence of God, and who is bathed with the joy of that experience? The theologian seeks for right ideas of God; the worshiper seeks for God Himself. The former speaks of God in the third person—"He is"; the latter knows God in the second person—"Thou art, and thou art my God." It is, of all things, important to discover how to make this great ascent of soul and how to arrive at the meeting place where the finite spirit becomes aware of its Divine Companion, though it must not for a moment be supposed that He is far away or in some other country—in the remote heights or in the unfathomable abysses. All that is really needed is to get ourselves into a true condition to discover that He is already there. "To arrive where God is," as St. Augustine beautifully said, "is nothing else but to will to go—to will God entirely is to have Him."

The trouble is that most of us do not realize that this intention to find God as a personal experience is the primary and essential thing in religion. We have become so accustomed to substitutes that we very easily fall back upon these substitutes and consider them sufficient. We content ourselves with hearing somebody talk about God, or with the theological account of Him, or with the enthusiastic hymn which gives us a moment's thrill and exaltation as we rhythmically follow some earlier poet's experience. What we need now is to go the next step and intensely seek God for ourselves. This intense attitude of heart, this positive intention of will, is absolutely essential for real worship. There will never be great meetings for worship until we come together expecting, above all things else, to worship, to find God, to enjoy His real presence.

The Power of a Mental Attitude.

It is well nigh impossible to over-emphasize the importance in these matters of attitude and intention. We have found in our generation that the mental attitude works almost like a miracle even with the body. Our physical health is strangely bound up with our mental tone and with our expectations. The neuralgias which come back at stated times, the sleeplessness which besets us because we get to expecting it, are only too well known. Our very blood discs are affected by our attitudes of joy and expectation or by our discouragements and depressions. Immeasurably more is our spiritual experience shaped by what we expect and intend. We are all the time opening or closing the gates of our daily life, unconsciously or subconsciously. The set of our habits does it for us—the trend of our disposition, the inner atmosphere of our heart or mind or will or whatever else is deepest in us. The way to worship is to cultivate the habit of worship; the way to be flooded with the Divine Presence is to set the will and disposition open in that direction. It is, therefore, very important to cultivate this habit in little children. They are very susceptible to spiritual realities; they feel the power of a living hush almost more than grown-up persons do; their inner gate is never in the early days quite tight shut, and any normal child can be trained to expect that his Heavenly Father will speak to him and become real to him. But if we older ones act as though we expected no such event, if we leave all this lofty inward experience out of our religion and give no time nor scope for it in our gatherings, the little folks will naturally adjust themselves to our practical habits, and they will find their inner gates closed up like their elders.

The Child

Feels God a moment, ichors o'er the place,
Plays on and grows to be a man like us.

Another point of vast importance in the preparation for worship is the cultivation of the spirit of love and forgiveness and charity toward our fellows. It is almost impossible to open successfully the door of the soul to God if that same door is shut and barred to some human brother. Prejudices, hardness of heart, spirit of grudge, invariably close the eye of the soul and keep the inward life in the shadow of eclipse from God. If you have hard feelings toward the person who sits across the aisle from you, it will be difficult to break through the film and get the face-to-face experience with God.

The cultivation of forgiveness, the practice of charity and large-heartedness, the atmosphere of love in the inward spirit, the shunning of prejudice as a deadly plague, are as essential to true worship as physical atmosphere is essential to breathing. This is one of the ways in which we can prepare for meeting and for worship.

We can still further prepare by using as much time as possible before religious services in meditation and prayer. Some have no time to sit down, to cut away from the tasks of the morning and to collect the soul for its great ascent, but is it not possible to do this more or less well in the midst of necessary activity? To keep from being ruffled, to avoid being fussy and cumbered with cares, to hold the inner helm true even amid cross-currents, may mean more than prayer and meditation do for those who have only to fold their hands and sit in sweet peace. In any case, whether we go to our worship from states of quiet and peace, or from scenes of busy activity, let us all remember that the one essential attitude is intention to seek, to find, to meet and to enjoy the Infinite Companion of our spirit.

One who has never enjoyed the thrill of swimming has no adequate conception of what it means to be immersed in the cool water and buoyed up by its liquid mass. The unpractical spectator watching the operation thinks of water as something in which you sink if you happen to fall into it. The swimmer, on the contrary, wonders how anybody ever sinks. Water seems to him made to swim in. It feels to him like a life-giving, life-renewing substance in which he finds himself at his physical best. Somewhat so God seems to bathe and refresh the spirit of one who is bold enough to leave the material shore behind and to plunge into His deeps where real life begins.

No wonder birds sing "in profuse strains of unpremeditated art"! They have found their true element. They find the air not only buoyant but invigorating. It raises life for them to its real glory. In God men find, too, their true element and atmosphere. All tired with the heavy effort of being good, suddenly the surge of a new force of life animates the soul, the labor ceases and the refreshed self feels carried on as though by invisible wings.—Central Christian Advocate.

"EVERY ONE'S BANDS WERE LOOSED."

This was a strange occurrence! The foundations of the prison at Philippi were shaken, the doors were opened, and "every one's bands were loosed"—an awkward English expression denoting that Paul, Silas, and all other inmates, good and bad, were delivered from their shackles, which, according to the brutal Roman custom, were probably heavy enough. This release was a happy event for the tired and yet faithful apostles. Their bands of physical restraint were dissolved; the jailer was saved from the shackles of sin, and in one way or another, either literally or figuratively, the prison population in Philippi was free.

Probably, however, some of these men were rearrested. As to that we do not know, but the phrase quoted interests us, for it suggests broadly the thought that all have certain bands which constrict them in thought or feeling or purpose, from which they ought to be released. Every man is a captive somewhere, in some byway of his experience, or activity of his mental processes. There are those who are in the custody of custom—so much the slaves of fashion that they hardly dare to put on a necktie or a ruffle without taking up the morning papers to see how some king or queen of style dressed yesterday; while others are serfs of party policy or opinion, never exercising any initiative of thought or independence of action. Men are very generally creatures of prejudice, pride of opinion, crochets, fads, or vagaries, which in time comes to rule them, being converted into shackles of habit.

"Every one's bands"—what a range of reflection those words suggest! Men do not need to go to jail in Philippi in order to be prisoners—part prisoners at least. There are men who are free except as to their throats, their palates being enslaved to drink; others are bound in their tongues, so that no word of testimony for God ever gets out; others still have yielded themselves servants to evil temper, envying, jealousy, or other mean traits of character. Almost before he knows it, a man may wind about his own wrists, so to speak, the lashings of prejudice, set opinion, awakened mannerisms, and various oddities, which finally, if encouraged, stiffen into metallic bands. There are multitudes of prisoners of self walking around loose, people who are their own jailers, putting their thoughts and desires and will-acts into the clutch of captious custom, and under the power of hateful habit. There is, however, a way to be released from the constrictions of ignorance, obstinacy, or pettiness. We may be "freemen in Christ Jesus." The truth of Christ delivers from all kinds of servitudes, physical and mental. If we walk with Him and learn His will, the fetters will drop from our spirits as suddenly as those rusty shackling irons rattled in olden times down on the floor of Philippi's dismal dungeon.—Zion's Herald.

"OUR PEOPLE DIE WELL"—JOHN WESLEY.

We prepare ourselves for the Great Adventure called death, not by thinking about death, but by thinking about Christ; not by living constantly in the shadow of the grave, but by living constantly in the light of eternity. If we follow the Master whithersoever He leads us in our daily life here and now, we shall find Him waiting to lead when we draw near the valley of the shadow, and that means that there will be no fear there. As Phillips Brooks so beautifully puts it, "To welcome all His leadings now so cordially that we shall know our Leader when He opens the last great door; to be always following Him so obediently that we shall have faith to follow Him when He leads us into the river and into darkness—this, and only this, is readiness for death."—Andrew Gillies.

ONWARD AND UPWARD.

Yes, to me also was given, if not victory, yet the consciousness of battle, and the resolve to persevere therein while life or faculty is left. To me also, entangled in the enchanted forests, demon-peopled, doleful of sight and sound, it was given, after weariest wanderings, to work out my way into the higher sunlit slopes of that mountain which has no summit, or whose summit is in heaven only.—Carlyle.

IN MEMORIAM—REV. T. W. ADAMS.

Thomas Walker Adams, son of Benj. W. Adams, of Virginia, and Lucy W. Gilmer, of Georgia, was born on a plantation in Madison County, Mississippi, on the eighth of February, 1850. He died at Lexington, Miss., November 27, 1922, and was buried at Brookhaven the following day.

Considering his parentage, we are not surprised to find that, for his generation, T. W. Adams was given more than the average amount of schooling. His academic work was taken at old Sharon College and his advanced instruction was given him at Emory and Henry College.

Perhaps the most eventful year of his life was 1874, for then he was licensed to preach, was married to Miss Julia E. Thompson, and joined the Mississippi Conference. At this time, the territory of the Mississippi Conference included a portion of Louisiana, and Brother Adams' first pastoral charge was Franklinton, La.

During the long period of years over which his faithful, loyal and efficient service to the Mississippi Conference extended, he served, besides Franklinton, the following charges: Free Run Circuit, Dover, Benton and Midway, Logtown, Wesson, Ellisville, McComb and Magnolia, Moss Point, Hazlehurst, Brookhaven, Laurel, Lumberton, Hattiesburg Main Street, and Hattiesburg Court Street. He served a term of four years as presiding elder of the Vicksburg District, of three years as presiding elder of the Brookhaven District and, again, a period of three years as presiding elder of the Vicksburg District. For two years. he served as Chaplain in the State Penitentiary. Truly a record of laborious but helpful days!

As a pastor, he was loved because of his geniality, his humor, and his friendly, sympathetic heart. By nature he was social, so we find that he often visited his members. His keen, refined humor made him a welcome visitor even in the homes of outsiders. His people liked to hear him preach, for his sermons were logical, original and well expressed. Indeed, he had an unusual gift of language, which served him well, not only in the pulpit, but in writing. He would have made a fine editor for one of our church papers.

As a presiding elder, he was successful because, to the qualities we have named as pastor and preacher, he added organizing ability and business sense. These latter gifts account, in part, for the fact that he was unusually successful in the management of his own financial affairs, so that old age found him in independent circumstances. Just here, however, we would emphasize the fact that though he accumulated, he gave very generously to his church. His liberality was far above the average—even the average Methodist preacher.

If T. W. Adams had not been called to the ministry, he might have made a statesman, for he was broad in his vision of world affairs and wonderfully well posted on current events and all matters of general intelligence.

His breadth of vision did not prevent him from having depth of feeling. We are told that he almost worshiped his good wife, who preceded him only a few months to the Better Land. Her death and that of his promising young son, Favre Adams, who also belongs to our number of the sainted members of the Mississippi Conference—these two losses seem to have broken his joy in life, so that he prayed, "Now lettest Thou thy servant depart in peace." He was deeply attached, too, to the three married daughters who live to carry on his Christian character and teachings.

Brother Adams was not only a Christian, he was deeply religious and spiritual. It was fitting that at his funeral one of his best loved fellow-workers should read, "He that dwelleth in the secret places of the most High shall abide under the shadow of the Almighty." And his devotion to Methodism was second only to his Christianity. He was most heartily and thoroughly convinced of the superiority of the Southern Methodist Church—above all other churches.

Two of our friend's most pronounced characteristics were his decision and his fearlessness. There was nothing negative about him. He knew what he believed and proclaimed it fearlessly. This was true not only of his religious convictions, but of every question which presented itself to his mind. By nature, he was such a worker and a fighter that all who understood him were forced to admire these elements of strength.

He was such a fearless fighter that we may feel sure that he met his last enemy, Death, with the cry: "One fight more, the best and the last! Let me taste the whole of it, fare like my peers, the heroes of old!"

I. W. COOPER,
J. M. MORSE.

SAFETY SIGNALS.

By Rev. S. J. Davies.

The seventy-seventh session of the Louisiana Annual Conference has adjourned. Seventy-seven, mark you—a mystical number, one that has relation to magic, religion, and other things real or imaginary. It was pretty strenuous for some of us who had all the listening to do, with little chance to talk back or forward. Much was given in the way of episcopal advice, monition, etc., and so forth. How much was received, is as yet a tale untold. Connectional men and their interests had full, free, and unfettered expression. Short and subdued were the few and infrequent speeches made by the members of the body per se They did not have time to talk, too busy listening. But it is over; all things earthly end eventually, I would remind you.

"The shouting and the tumult dies,
The captains and the kings depart."

Berry T. Crews and I also adjourned. At our own request we retired, maybe for a season, maybe for life; and by the franchise of those with whom we have toiled, we enter into a riper period of ministry. The call for younger men is made; may their ministry be more fruitful than ours has been. The harvest is still more than the reapers and the world needs the Christ and all the things for which he lived and loved and died, then lived evermore—more than in all the past. I would rather get out of the way than get in the way; so here I am, until I report "effective"—though I am still fairly efficient, I think. Sometimes a man's friends know more about him than he knows—sometimes, not always. The sun of life is sloping down the western sky; if any clouds gather about the descent below the far-off rim of vision, they are empurpled and golden by the glory of the waning light. The lesson is yours and mine.

Shreveport, La.

REV. FRANCIS ASBURY LANE.

Rev. F. A. Lane was born in Satartia, Miss., July 24, 1840, and was called to his reward November 1, 1922. He joined the church when about nine years old, and was licensed to preach September 5, 1885, and was ordained deacon and elder in due time. He served as a supply on different charges for a number of years in the Mississippi Conference. Four years he was a Confederate soldier, surrendering with the unconquered heroes at Vicksburg, July 4, 1863.

Brother Lane leaves a wife, seven children, a number of grandchildren, and a host of friends to mourn his going away. He was married to Miss Hattie Gaskins in 1859. She served well with him, and now in the twilight, weakened by age and service, gentle in spirit and disposition, is waiting for the reunion.

They had nine children born to them. Two answered the summons from God several years ago. Several are living, one a member of the Mississippi Conference. Two boys have been, and are, stewards in the church. Two of the daughters are wives of Methodist preachers, one a member of the Mississippi Conference, the other a local preacher. The third daughter is the wife of a faithful steward.

Some think Brother Lane was blunt in some of his assertions, which caused some to misunderstand him. Few called him a great preacher; but no one could impeach his Christian character.

In the last years of his life, some said he was childish. But it seems to the writer his childishness was a blessed sort. He said on one occasion: "I often pray my childhood prayer at night before retiring, 'Now I lay me down to sleep,'" etc. He was a man of prayer. His son found among his papers, scrawled by a palsied hand during his last days, the following prayer:

"A Morning Prayer."

"O! Holy Father, help me In Christ daily to dwell,
His holy will be mine own,
His gracious love my theme to tell,
His loving grace to save make known,
In Christ my spirit ever have its throne,
My humble soul to Christ be kin,
Then I'll never be alone,
For Christ will ever be within.

"O! that I may realize the wondrous truth and light,
Revealed to me by inward sign,
Then my soul can say, good-bye, sinful night,
For my Savior is ever mine.

"Some day, O Lord, this mortal coil will drop,
And in far-off realms of space
I'll make my home, I'll cast my lot,
Yet Christ will share with me the place."

J. F. McCLELLAN.

Homewood, Miss.

THE SIBERIA MISSION MEETING.

By Dr. W. W. Pinson.

The Mission opened on October 10, in the afternoon. It was held under difficulties. The unfinished condition of the church building delayed the opening till afternoon and then the big Russian stoves were not in commission and the weather was chilly. The military and political situation rendered travel difficult and dangerous. During our session a train was wrecked between Nikolsk and Vladivostok and 200 wounded soldiers were killed. Rev. H. W. Jenkins was prevented from being present by the interruption of travel between Harbin and Vladivostok. One of our Korean preachers was caught behind the Red Army and did not arrive till late in the session. This situation grew worse and worse. We could not go into the interior, and were fortunate in getting out when we did. When all left on the 22d, there was no Government. The Whites had abdicated and the Reds had not come in. The only show of control was the British, American and Japanese gunboats in the harbor and the Japanese soldiers parading the streets. Business was suspended and the whole situation was tense with excitement. People were fleeing in every direction. Every ship was crowded to suffocation. Miss Howell, Mrs. Pinson and I found three vacant berths on the "Lorestan," a boat of 2,400 tons, sailing for Shanghai. It was crowded with ex-officials and other intelligentia fleeing the wrath they had learned to dread. At Fusan, the boat put in for water and we took advantage of the opportunity and took a boat for Shimoniseki where we caught a Japanese steamer for Shanghai. I am writing on board this ship, under most comfortable conditions. We hope to reach Shanghai to-morrow about noon. When you see a member of our party, you will have an excellent opportunity to get a story of some interesting experiences. For the present "that is another story" which must wait.

The Mission meeting was a great success notwithstanding. The new church, an almost full attendance, fine reports, a thrilling opportunity, a sore need and abounding enthusiasm, packed every hour with intense interest. Though not yet two years old, the meeting would compare favorably with several of our smaller Conferences at home. How these Koreans can talk!—and they take to Conference business like ducks to water. They will be teaching us lessons about "points of order, Mr. President," and that will be an achievement in pedagogy.

As for reporting, they are born to it, and they had something to report. The first report gave 108 received by vows, 90 groups organized, 6,560 people reacbed. Another: 648 members, 1 girls' school, 2 boys' schools, 19,000 Koreans have moved in six years and are still coming; built 2 churches, seating 450, with only 100 yen ($50) from America. Another: Nikolsk has 2,379 Korean households, and there are 28,239 Koreans in the city; 1,000 seekers enrolled; average congregation, 170; for all purposes, raised 3,000 yen. One circuit 300 miles square. These are samples taken from the first three or four reports. That sort of thing doesn't go on long till your pulse quickens and you wish several hundred thousand Southern Methodists might get the thrill of it clear down to tbeir pocketbooks. When summed up, these reports show totals of 129 cburches, 1,212 members, 3,997 seekers, 6,911 adherents, 3,730 Sunday scbool pupils, 741 day school pupils. The increase was 99 churches, 988 members, seekers 3,049, adherents 5,650. Sunday school pupils 3,100, day school pupils 688—not a bad showing for one year's work in a new Mission.

Striking as these figures are, they are still short of tbe showing made in finances. Last year the income was 652.39 yen. This was for only part of the year, of course, and with little organization. The total income this year was 11,123.21 yen, and this still from work only recently organized and without adequate pastoral oversight. The promise is good for a far better showing next year. In fact, nowhere is there a brighter prospect for self-support. The Koreans are industrious, and many of them own their own homes. They are permitted to own land and are welcomed and treated kindly by the Russians. They are more welcome than any other Eastern people and, I am told, are the only ones who are allowed to become citizens. Many of them are full citizens of the country. They are more able than their brethren in Korea. Brother Ryang, who has had so great a part in the work of this Mission and who has charge of the movement for self-support, is enthusiastic. He says if conditions are favorable, the Mission ought to be self-supporting in two years more. When we consider the history of other Missions, this is a startling statement. The prospect justifies the initial outlay and even suggests a re-study, if not a revision, of some of our methods of continued subsidies. We need an example of what can be done by a people who take the Gospel and their own responsibility seriously and are put on their mettle. We sball never see the dawn of the world's full evangelization until there is a renewal of the zeal for self-propagation that characterized the early Christian centuries. The serious lack of this heretofore may be a fault in our method and teaching more than in the peoples.

Rev. J. O. J. Taylor is Superintendent, with headquarters in Vladivostok. He is an exhaustless magazine of energy and action, and is heartily in love with the work. He speaks the language like a native, I am told, and his Korean is an incomprehensible to me as that of any native. The facility with which he is acquiring Russian is remarkable, especially in the midst of his numerous activities.

The work among Russians is barely in its beginning. Rev. H. W. Jenkins is Superintendent and is stationed at Harbin. Rev. E. W. Erwin is in cbarge at Vladivostok. Both are now engaged mainly in the study of the language, and making a study of the field. We had several conferences with leaders of the Evangelicals, a small body whose doctrines and practices are very similar to ours. In fact, they claim to be in a sense Wesleyan in their origin and ideals. We found them earnest and eager for the spread of evangelical religion. We came to terms of co-operation in the distribution of the Scriptures and other literature and also certain lines of evangelism. They were most brotherly and cordial. We have good hope that we may help them in their struggle and that they may further our plans for a larger work among their people. Brother Erwin and his wife are already winning a place in the hearts of the people.

We hope to visit Harbin and other cities in Siberia, if conditions warrant, on our return trip from China, when there will be more to say about this phase of the Mission.

MOTHER AND HER MAGAZINES.

By J. O. J. Taylor, Vladivostok, Siberia.

A few days ago I got a nice package of magazines, and a few days after that a letter from a lady in Virginia. She had been saving these papers for the sailors in Vladivostok and had been sending them to me. Regarding the saving of these magazines, she said in her letter:

"Mother and her magazines really got to be quite a joke around the house, for some one was continually disturbing them."

There are two men on the ship here, whom I have been very anxious to get a connecting link with. One of them especially is a full-fledged American, and manly to the core. Somehow tbat all-important point of contact had not come.

To-night the wind is blowing and there may be inviting places in tbe world with a cold wind blowing, but Vladivostok isn't. But nevertheless you know, when your hair is bushy and you have that service Sunday, why, wind or no wind, you must have a hair-cut. So I went to the Navy Y. M. C. A., where the sailors take their liberty. I sat in the barber's chair and watched one young fellow reading one of these same magazines. Something funny hit his eye and he whooped out a laugh. Immediately six more came around and there were seven men laughing over that one cartoon, joke or something in, I believe, a "Collier's Weekly." It was a great sight on a cold and uninviting night to see these fellows roaring with a vim over these magazines.

The two men about whom I spoke—men with whom I wanted a point of contact—joined the crowd and became two of the seven who enjoyed the laugh. Then one of them spoke up, "Gee, I wish I could see some Baltimore papers." I came out of that barber's chair, apron around my neck. "Give me your written address and I will get you some Baltimore papers," I said.

He asked me how I was "going to put it across." I told him that wherever there was a Southern Methodist Church, there I had a friend who would do what needed to be done. Then we got to talking about churches and he told me he once was a member. Then while the barber snorted because I was away so long, we had a talk and he says he is going to attend the service on Sunday. Maybe "Mother and her Magazines" have started a strong soul into a higher experience.

And if there are some others who want to help in the same work, send your funny sheets, Advocates, magazines, and picture sections to

J. O. J. TAYLOR,
Box 213, Vladivostok, Siberia.

They will make the time pass brighter for some American sailor, and will help us to get close to the boys.

TO OUR FRIENDS.

During the time of our last great sorrow, the passing on of one of the best of fathers and one of the noblest of men, we received many expressions of love and sympathy from many of our friends scattered over the State. We are very grateful for these comforting words, and for the many kindnesses shown our dear father, Rev. T. W. Adams, during these months of suffering and sorrow. May God bless you every one.

Pray that we may be worthy daughters of such splendid Christian parents as God blessed us with.

LERA ADAMS TOLER,
WILMOTH ADAMS BUTLER.
MABEL ADAMS BUIE.

TO THE PASTORS AND LAYMEN OF THE VICKSBURG DISTRICT, MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

Dear Brethren: Please let me call to your attention the Evangelistic Home Mission Conference Bishop W. N. Ainsworth has called to meet in Jackson, Miss., Jan. 16-17, 1923.

I feel sure that each one of you will be glad to take a special interest in this call of our Bishop, and in this meeting, which should set a high mark for Mississippi Methodism.

All pastors will be expected to attend, and it is greatly desired that five to ten laymen from each charge be in attendance also.

Please let all pastors do their very best to secure the largest possible attendance. Let every one do his part in making this gathering of our forces a success. This, I believe, you will gladly do.

Let all church and charge lay leaders assist the pastors in advertising and securing the largest possible attendance of the laymen. For information as to entertainment, etc., write to Rev. M. L. Burton, Jackson, Miss.

J. R. JONES, P. E.

TO THE DISTRICT STEWARDS OF THE VICKSBURG DISTRICT, MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

Dear Brethren: The district stewards are called to meet in the Crawford Street Church, Vicksburg, at 11:30 a.m., on Friday, Dec. 29, 1922. Please let all of the stewards be present. Matters of importance will come before the meeting.

The pastors are urged to see that their stewards attend, and they are invited to be present.

J. R. JONES, P. E.

TO THE PASTORS AND CENTENARY TREASURERS, MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

All together now for the "wind up" of our Campaign to collect the quota of Forty Thousand Dollars allotted us! Do not let your church fall to reach the quota assigned it, and if your church was not given a quota, please collect all you can.

And now to each of you: Please make your reports and include either the bank duplicate deposit slip or a check for all you have on hand. Do not fail—however small it may be; this time let every Treasurer report. Should one fail, it might cause us to fail to reach the quota.

Remember our Motto, "We shall not fall."

With best wishes and Christmas greetings to each of you, I am yours for better service,

W. D. HAWKINS,
Conference Centenary Treasurer.

WHAT IS PRAYER?

By Rev. Payton A. Sowell.

A long life, a needy life, a life that yearns to fulfill the high purposes of being and comply with all the requirements and privileges of the benevolence of God often finds itself face to face with, "What is prayer?"

Is it not often more than petition? Are not the words below, from an unknown author, true?

"A Prayer.

"Let me kneel on: It matters not to thee,
My Lord, that I have nothing else to say.
That since began thy sojourn here with me
All my poor prayers have prayed themselves away.

"Let me kneel on: Merely to watch thee there
Sufficeth me, like the dear saints above
Who worship still, when every word of prayer
Has died away in silent acts of love.

"Let me kneel on: For even on me of all
Thy children here, the lowest, and the one
Least worthy of thy love, on me will fall
Some blessing from thy Sacramental Throne.

"Let me kneel on: That thou art here, my Lord,
I know indeed, for faith is lost in sight;
Those altar lights burn only to afford
Light to the presence of the Light of Light.

"Let me kneel on: My God, the while I drain
The cups of peace, for lo! All clouds are riven
In this sweet sight of thee, and once again
We taste already of the bliss of Heaven."

May there not be after-blessings—and perhaps richer ones—for us if we "kneel on"?

The Call of the Conference Claimants

EDITED BY LUTHER E. TODD, SECRETARY.

Board of Finance, M. E. Church, South.

510-513 Security Building, St. Louis, Mo.

An Interesting "Tombstone."—A famous king of Sparta said: "If I have done anything worthy of remembrance, that will be my monument. If not, no monument can preserve my memory." How true! It is impossible to immortalize people by engraving mere words on stones which mark the graves of empty lives. We live in deeds and not in "figures on a dial." Every person has a few opportunities in this world so to act in crisal days that no grave can ever shut him out of sight. These chances come generally without a blast of trumpets, but with such emphatic announcement that even fools need not mistake them.

The call of the "forgotten man" is such an opportunity. One is remembered longest for service rendered one's fellow man. Attention to those in need "tunes one in" with the currents of everlasting life. If those ministered unto happen to be the Lord's worn-out preachers, those who render this service will place themselves very close to Him who made the law of reward. The God of men who wear out themselves preaching and living the gospel of his dear Son will not forget those who help to provide an old-age sustenance for them. If I could choose my own monument when my earthly life is finished, I would much prefer to have succeeding generations testify, "He did honest and faithful work to provide a comfortable support for the superannuated preachers and widows of preachers of his Church," than to have a granite mountain inscribed with the most beautiful thoughts of mortal man at the head of my grave.

At the Bar of Common Sense.—Did you ever "sit in" at court? If you did, you will recall the various prisoners who were summoned to "render an account" of their actions against the civil laws. And you were impressed by the ability of the court to pierce every camouflage in the effort to know the real facts for judgment.

Concerning the Church's neglect of her superannuated preachers, I call you to the bar of common sense, you bishops, presiding elders, pastors, and lay members. What will you plead, guilty or not guilty? The nearly 1,000 old and physically disabled men, many of them pitifully infirm and in dire want of the commonest necessities, are present to hear your answer. The testimony of their pain-racked bodies and lonely, forgotten souls is so charged with truth that it cries to heaven. Undoubtedly, brothers, you are guilty, and I am guilty, too. We have accepted everything from these old heroes and have scarcely let them have the crumbs under our table. Worse still, we are now taking likewise from those who stepped into their places, and we will also consume them as long as they have something to give. Judge Common Sense condemns us as short-sighted, ungrateful, selfish. But as we did this evil without thinking and without intention to harm our brothers, the judge stays the merited sentence on the condition that we all get busy and work like Trojans for the success of superannuate endowment.

My Real Concern.—"The outcome of the battle is of no importance, but how did you fight?" Preachers and lay members are asking me: "Do you really expect to raise $10,000,000 for superannuate endowment?" "Do you really think the effort will win?" etc. I am not worrying about the end of the thing, but the beginning of it and down through the middle. If I can enlist 6,000 pastors to fight like real men with me for the cause, I will not worry two minutes about the $10,000,000. If I can arouse just a few lay members in every Church to stand with me on the firing line until the last charge is over and the last cannon is silenced, why should I worry about a few million dollars? It is not what we are going to spend ourselves in getting it. I have a perfect right to claim the utmost abandon in service from every one of 6,000 pastors. And if they are the men I think they are, each of them should be able to enlist a group of red-blooded lay member fighters in their respective fields. This is my concern, and with that removal I haven't a single anxiety. It is not the $10,000,000 but those who should "enter the ring."

Key Men—and Other Men.—"Co-operation is the big idea in modern industry. Teamwork is the thing that counts." We have heard much about certain individuals being the "key men" in our modern Church programs. In one way this contention is good sense, but if it is taken too seriously it is nonsense. There must always be leaders in any movement that hope for success, but after all they are but members of the team. They cannot untrack themselves unless those associated with them "play the game" with all their might. The special effort for superannuate endowment will not succeed merely because a few make a noise about it. But it will triumph gloriously if every bishop, presiding elder, preacher, and interested lay member will "throw his hat into the ring," meaning, of course, that every one of us will co-operate to the limit of his capacity to accomplish the task. Not one of us can dodge the issue or put in a substitute. When the whistle blows for that "big game," we must all take our places in the line. And when the "ball" is snapped into play, for pity's sake don't let a single one of us show the "white feather." When I write about it like this, I can hardly wait for the fun to begin. But, O joy, it is coming soon! Everybody get into condition—key men, other men, all men, and women—and be fit to hold up your end when it comes.

A Call for Penitents.—"Art is the beautiful way of doing things. Science is the effective way of doing things. Business is the economic way of doing things." Yes, and religion is the Christian way of doing things. But when I close my eyes and hold in mental picture our 2,300 needy superannuated preachers and widows of preachers, I am reminded that the Church's way of doing things is not always—O, I cannot write it! After all, she is my Church. I helped to make her what she is, and so did you. She gave her children birth, but strangely her children have measured her vision, regulated her heart throbs, and determined the extent of her activity. If she forgot her superannuated servant, it was because her children clouded her memory. Once I wrung her heart when I took the "forgotten man" as a "text" to raise the Conference collections. She suffered terribly from the first shock, but many annual repetitions gradually let her down to my level. O you glorious Methodist Episcopal Church, South, how your thoughtless children have dishonored you! We have brought a reproach upon your fair name, for it is really our fault that the world is saying that you turn aged, broken-down preachers from your active service and leave many of them almost "as wastrels begging bread." Come, all of you, my brothers and sisters, let us together repent and start anew!

Don't forget: Every pastor is a "forgotten man" in the making.

The Home Circle

THE CHRISTMAS SPIRIT.

By Mrs. Lemuella Almond.

Have you caught the Christmas spirit?
Do you feel the urge to give?
Does your heart thrill warmly from it?
Then you've found out how to live.

Oh, this world is rich with goodness,
But there's nothing quite so fine
As the lovely Christmas spirit,
Making human hearts divine.

There are little ones among us,
Yearning, hungry-hearted, sad,
Who'll be praying for remembrance;
We can make their Christmas glad.

Let us then help God to answer
Every little secret prayer.
He would like for all His children
To be happy everywhere.

Christmas will be coming shortly,
Let us strive to make it white
With the beauty of true giving
On that holy, holy night.

White as snow that, like a blanket,
Covers all the sleeping hills,
And with holy-haunted beauty,
Kisses warmly-breathing rills.

THE CHRISTMAS STORY.

By Willie C. Page.

It was Christmas Eve. The decorations of the "Big House" had been hung, to the last holly wreath and sprig of mistletoe.

The tree had been smuggled in the library where mother was busily putting the presents and hanging the silver stars.

The Christmas candles, symbolic of the spirit and gayety of the day, had been lighted and placed in every window of the house. The yule log glowed in the fireplace; Ted was trying to hang his stocking beside the row already in place; the other children were sitting about the room eagerly waiting for their mother to come and tell the Chrstmas story.

Suddenly the door opened and in walked—guess who? Old Santa Claus himself!

There were screams of excitement. Little Billy ran under the lounge. Ted hid behind the table, Alica and Louise snuggled together in the rocking-chair and sat staring in wonder, too frightened to speak.

"Good evening, children," said the jolly old man. "It is pretty cold at the North Pole tonight."

"Where are your reindeer?" asked little Billy, peeping out from under the lounge, his curiosity at fever beat.

"O, they are outside on the roof," replied Santa Claus, chuckling.

"Tell us a story," whispered Ted timidly as he came from his hiding place and took a few steps nearer.

"A story, well, of all things! What about?" asked Santa, his fat sides shaking with merriment.

"About yourself," all the children cried in a chorus.

Santa stretched his legs to the warmth of the fire for a moment, and stooped and held his hands over the smouldering blaze. The firelight flickered and died down, leaving the room dimly lighted and shadowy.

"Far away near the North Pole, I live in my winter palace, which is made of ice and snow. On days when the sun shines brightly, the whole palace looks as if it were built of sparkling jewels of many beautiful colors—something like a chandelier glittering in the electric light. There I have many workshops and storehouses, which contain every kind of toy a child could wish for.

"Every Christmas Eve I come with my sleigh and prancing reindeer. Slowly and slyly I climb down the chimney and tiptoe about the rooms where the little ones sleep. Sh-sh-sh! Not a sound must be heard, and every eyelid closed, or there will be no gifts. I love good children, so I go from stocking to stocking and fill each with the things the most desired."

"My stocking is the littlest one in the middle of the row," piped Billy, who had crept from under the lounge and had edged a tiny bit nearer the speaker.

"See! Mine is the long black one near the end of the mantel," cried Teddy.

"O, I know where every child's stockings are hung and it makes me happy to think of their eager joyful faces when they begin to unwrap the packages I put away for them. All the long year I keep my elves and fairies busy making gifts and toys for children over the wide world. Just think of the many little ones to be remembered!"

"What does Mrs. Santa Claus do?" asked Louise shyly.

"She dresses the dolls and makes ears for the toy animals and ties up the bundles," replied the old man, laughing. "I write down in a big red book the names and addresses of all good children."

"The ones who mind their mothers and wash their faces and e-a-r-s, cold freezing mornings?" asked Billy.

"Yes, indeed. I find out what they want, and if they have been good children, I write down the things they want in the red book with—guess what?"

"A pen," said Billy.

"Guess again."

"With a goose-quill," cried Alica.

"No, try again." Santa Claus shook his head.

"A typewriter," exclaimed Louise.

"No—a feather of the humming-bird's wing dipped in honey-dew! Every time a child does a kindness to some one and divides his playthings and apples and candy, I make a gold star and check his name with it. I will give that child an extra gift because he is kind and unselfish. Just remember that and when Christmas comes again you will be happier children."

In the twink of an eye he was gone.

"Annie," whispered father as he slipped off the robe, "are you through? I kept them entertained for half an hour and they never suspected."

"The dears!" said mother. "Open the door and call them in to see the beautiful tree."

"IN A MINUTE."

"Robert, come into the house," called mother.

"In a minute," replied Robert. "I want to finish my game of marbles."

Mother turned and went into the house with a sigh.

Robert finished the game and started another. He was surprised that she did not call again, for his mother usually had to call several times before he came, for Robert had not learned to obey promptly. He quieted his conscience and also his playmate, Willie, by saying that if mother had wanted him much she would have called again.

After a while, when Willie had to go home, Robert went in to see what his mother wanted.

"I want nothing now, but what I wanted before was to tell you that Uncle Tom had come and was going to take you home with him on the farm, but as he was in a great hurry your sister Mary went without you. I am sorry, but Uncle Tom could not 'wait a minute.'"

Robert forgot that he was a big boy and threw himself on the floor and cried as if his heart would break.

His uncle had written that he was coming to the city some time that week and would take the children home with him; so it was a great disappointment to think all his lovely plans could not come true.

"Why didn't you call me again?" he asked.

His mother sat on the floor beside him and, taking his head in her lap, said: "Robert, dear, you have a very bad habit of not obeying at once. I have tried in many ways to break you of it, but none did any good; so I have tried this way. I know it seems hard; but if it will do any good, it is worth the disappointment."

Needless to say it did do good, and he never forgot the lesson.—Pittsburg Christian Advocate.

Some murmur when their sky is clear
And wholly bright to view,
If one small speck of dark appear
In their great heaven of blue.
And some with thankful love are filled
If but one streak of light,
One ray of God's good mercy, gild
The darkness of their night.

—Trench.

SPECIAL OFFER

ONE 42 PIECE $12.00 DINNER SET

BLUE BIRD, FLORAL OR WHITE AND GOLD DESIGNS

For $4.98 f. o. b. New Orleans

Cut out this Advertisement and send to WM. B. REILY & CO., New Orleans, La., with Six Coupons from Luzianne Coffee and $4.98, and the Beautiful Set will be Expressed to You at Once.

All three sets consist of: 6 dinner plates, 6 cups, 6 saucers, 6 pie plates, 6 fruit dessert dishes, 6 oat meal dishes, 1 large meat platter, 1 round vegetable bowl, 1 oval vegetable bowl, 1 cream pitcher, 1 sugar bowl, 1 sugar bowl cover.

New Orleans Christian Advocate

HENRY T. CARLEY, Editor.

CHAS. O. CHALMERS, Manager.

PUBLISHING COMMITTEE:

Louisiana Conference—Rev. J. F. Foster, Rev. S. J. Davies, Rev. C. C. Miller.

Mississippi Conference—Rev. J. T. Leggett, Rev. J. R. Jones, Rev. W. H. Saunders.

North Mississippi Conference—Rev. J. H. Felts, Rev. T. H. Lipscomb, Rev. J. W. Dorman.

DIRECTIONS.

All checks and money orders should be made payable to the New Orleans Christian Advocate.

Communications pertaining to subscriptions and other business matters should be addressed to the Manager, or to the New Orleans Christian Advocate.

The Printed Lab l on a paper shows the date to which a subscription is paid. It is as good as a written receipt. When renewal is made, if the date is not moved forward after three or four weeks, notify us, and we will make it right.

Communications intended for the Editor should be directed to him at 512 Camp Street. Correspondents will observe the following rules: 1. Write on only one side of the paper. 2. If you have a typewriter, by all means use it; otherwise use a good quality of black ink. 3. Leave a space of at least two inches at the top of the first page; leave a margin of at least one inch on the left-hand side of the page; do not crowd the words and the lines together. 4. Take special pains to write proper names correctly and legibly. 5. Use letter paper if you can get it—not note paper. No attention will be paid to rolled manuscripts.

Editorial.

DEATH OF REV. W. C. CARLISLE.

On Monday morning of this week we received the following telegram from Rev. S. L. Pope, presiding elder of the Greenwood District, North Mississippi Conference: "Rev. W. C. Carlisle, pastor at Inverness, died suddenly yesterday."

We have learned no further particulars of the passing of this good man, and we can make only the bare announcement. We do it with great sorrow, and with sincere sympathy for those who are bereaved by his going away. We hope to have, in due time, a suitable memoir for publication.

PERSONAL AND OTHER NOTES.

Rev. E. L. Cargill has had a fine beginnng at Boyce, La., and indications point to a growing work at that place.

Mr. Walker White, Atlanta, Ga., is the Treasurer of the General Hospital Board of our church, and to him all moneys for this Board should be sent.

The address of Rev. S. J. Davies, who took the superannuate relaton at the recent session of the Louisiana Conference, is 628 King's Highway, Shreveport, La.

Rev. H. W. Rickey, who is now pastor of our church in the important college town of Natchitoches, La., has had a cordial reception at that place and is looking forward to a good year.

Rev. C. M. Crossley, of Hattiesburg, Miss., under date of December 11, writes: "We had a splendid reception yesterday at Court Street—large congregation and twenty accessions."

Dr. W. A. Smart, of Emory University, recently delivered two inspiring addresses at the University of Virginia, principally to the Methodist students of that institution.

An exchange states that sixteen men were up for admission on trial at the Alabama Conference, but nine of them were over forty-five years of age and they were not received.

Dr. Theodore Copeland is in a meeting at Stillwater, Okla., in which six churches and the Y. M. C. A. of the Oklahoma A. and M. College are cooperating. Great good is being accomplished through the meeting.

Rev. Victor G. Clifford, of Centreville, Miss., writes: "The good people here have made us feel good to be back for another year. The prospects are bright for the greatest year of our ministry."

Rev. W. W. Perry has been cordially received for another year as pastor at Rochelle, La. Brother Perry says he is going to do some "presiding eldering" in a small way this year in reaching some neglected territory near him, if his present plans mature.

In a recent revival meeting held at Conway, Ark., by Dr. O. E. Goddard, the pastor, 195 new members were added to the church. Their names are recorded in a most attractive booklet, issued as a souvenir of the meeting.

The Trustees of the Chicago Church Federation, representing the more than 700 Protestant churches of that city, have issued an appeal calling upon all the churches to hold a watch-night meeting on the evening of December 31.

Rev. T. B. Cottrell and family have been royally welcomed back for another year by the congregation of the Gibson Memorial Church, Vicksburg, Miss. During his two years' pastorate there, a 100 per cent advance has been made along all lines.

Rev. Briscoe Carter, D. D., who was appointed Financial Secretary of the Louisiana Methodist Orphanage at the recent session of the Louisiana Conference, will make his headquarters at Ruston, La., while in his present great work.

We especially commend to the attention of our readers the beautiful "Christmas Prayer," by Mrs. A. Fount Calloway, of Oxford, Miss., found on page 1 of this issue of the Advocate. It is attractive in form and inspiring in sentiment.

The laymen of the Methodist Episcopal Church and of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, in Oklahoma City, Okla., have organized a movement looking toward the organic union of these two great churches. Much local interest is being taken in the movement.

"Methodist Matters," the church bulletin issued by Rev. Del Longgrear, pastor of the Coahoma and Lyons charge, North Mississippi Conference, is one of the best little papers that come to the editor's desk. We are sure the local members of the church read it with much interest.

Rev. J. H. Felts, presiding elder of the Greenville District—"the district that sounds no retreat"—writes that the new Conference year begins unusually well. He is finding "new ground," the preachers are taking up afternoon appointments, and the laymen are beginning to do things.

Rev. Jas E. Selfe writes from Hammond, La.: "My wife and I have been royally welcomed by one of the most appreciative and thoughtful congregations in the southern part of the Louisiana Conference." The editor has preached to those fine people and he bears testimony to the correctness of Brother Selfe's estimate of them.

What was formerly known as the Midland Methodist is now the Central Methodist Advocate. It is the official organ of the Holston, the Tennessee, and the Memphis Conferences, and is published by Lamar and Barton. It is still ably edited by Rev. J. A. Burrow, D. D.

Rev. S. D. Roberts reports that he has reached his new appointment, Sulphur, La., and that he is well pleased with the outlook. The Woman's Missionary Society has just expended $500 in repairing and furnishing the parsonage, which makes it a delightful home.

Mrs. S. O. Roberts, of Felixville, La., in renewing her subscription to the Advocate, says that she has been taking the paper for fifty-four years, and her mother took it before her. She says she cannot see how a Methodist can do without it. We have often had the same thought.

Rev. S. W. Johnson has reached his new field of labor at Coaiville, Miss., where he received a cordial welcome, expressed through a heavy "pounding." He says the Gulf Coast people know how to treat a new preacher. The parsonage on the charge is undergoing repairs, and the outlook for the year is promising.

The "Big Brother" of December 10 pays this thibute to Rev. E. Nash Broyles, the new pastor at Greenville, Miss.: "There has been very little time for Brother Broyles to rest since his arrival in Greenville, as quite a number of our members have been on the sick list and Brother Broyles certainly believes in giving them every attention that a pastor should give."

Those who are familiar with newspaper work know that typographical errors will now and then slip through in spite of the most careful proof reading. We regret that such errors, altogether the fault of the editor and not of the writer, appeared in the resolutions concerning Mr. J. S. Otis, of Logtown, Miss., in our issue of December 7.

Rev. Alonzo Early, D. D., who came "back home" after a year in Texas, and was appointed pastor at Crowley, La., has been well received on his new charge. Dr. Early is one of the most efficient members of the Louisiana Conference, and we predict for him a fine year in his work with the splendid people of Crowley.

Rev. James V. Bennett, Mississippi Conference evangelist, was recently with Rev. F. L. Applewhite in a meeting at Rankin Street Church, Jackson, Miss. He will be with Rev. J. M. Alford in a meeting at Winnsboro, La., at the beginning of 1923. Brother Bennett is now living at 1545 West Capitol Street, Jackson, Miss., where he may be reached by correspondents.

Rev. Carroll Varner writes: "I cannot refrain from saying a word about the royal way in which we have been received here in Winona. We found supper on the table and a full pantry when we arrived, and, on top of all this, good things continue to arrive. Two turkeys for Christmas have already been sent us! These are a great people." They are, indeed!

We take the following from the Southern Watchman, of Clinton, La.: "The Methodist congregation particularly, and the public generally, are gratified that the Annual Conference wrought no change in the pastorate here, but that Rev. L. C. Wilson was returned to this charge for another year. The same is true of Rev. J. S. Rutledge, who will continue on the work of the East Feliciana circuit."

The following kindly personal note from Dr. John W. Boswell, one of the "grand old men" of Methodism, gives us great pleasure: "I still read the 'old Advocate' with great pleasure. In so doing I keep in touch with you and the brethren in Louisiana and Mississippi, and that does me good. I am in as good health as I have been in during the past two years—eat well and sleep well, and do plenty of both." Blessings upon him!

Rev. Geo. P. Fikes, born and reared in Mississippi, where he still has a host of friends, but who served as pastor at Elaine, Ark., last year, was compelled to take the supernumerary relation at the recent session of his Conference on account of ill health. He hopes to regain his health speedily and to take active work again when opportunity is offered. He will make his home for the present at Marville, Ark.

Rev. D. M. Barr, formerly of Mississippi, is now pastor of the newly organized Broadway Methodist Episcopal Church, South, Glendale, Calif.

Glendale is a city with a population of 32,000. The opening sermon in the new church was preached by Rev. R. P. Shuler—better known as "Bob" Shuler. Dr. S. H. Werlein, formerly of the Louisiana Conference, is the presiding elder of the district in which the new church is situated.

Rev. A. M. Broadfoot has been very cordially received by the good people of Brookhaven, Miss., and the outlook for a great year's work is most encouraging.

The Gipsy Smith meeting in Hattiesburg, Miss., has developed wonderful spiritual power. Thousands of people have attended every service, and hundreds have been inspired to a better life.

The whole Bible for the blind printed in American Braille by the American Bible Society, requires nineteen volumes, weighs 150 pounds, and costs $75 to produce. A volume of selected passages weighs only one pound and is small enough to slip into an overcoat pocket. The American Bible Society depends upon the gifts of Christian people to make possible its service of love.

Dr. John R. Mott has issued a statement in which he declares that the Young Men's Christian Association, at its recent International Convention at Atlantic City, instead of weakening its relation to evangelical churches, strengthened that relation, and that the Association is now, as it always has been, thoroughly loyal to those churches.

At a recent meeting of a large group of representative women from thirteen Southern States, held in Atlanta, all of whom were officials of the Woman's Missionary Council or Conference Social Service Superintendents of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, vigorous resolutions looking to the suppression of the lynching evil were adopted. Signers of the resolutions from Mississippi were Mrs. L. W. Alford and Mrs. W. V. Pittman, and from Louisiana, Mrs. W. T. Cunningham and Mrs. R. H. Wynn.

From a personal letter from a friend, we learn that Rev. L. M. Lipscomb was received with joy for his fourth year at Oxford, Miss., and that every department of the church is prosperous. The Sunday school is doing excellent work under the superintendency of Dr. A. W. Milden, of the University, and the Epworth Leagues and the women's organizations are keeping pace. The outlook for the new year is bright.

The Methodist church at Ponchatoula, La., suffered a great loss in the death, on Dec. 8, of Mr. Walter Lanier. He was buried on Sunday, December 10, the service being conducted by the pastor, Rev. J. M. Boykin, assisted by the Rev. Mr. Cormish, pastor of the Baptist church. The deceased left a wife, three sisters, and many friends to mourn their loss, to whom the Advocate extends sincere sympathy.

Not a single Methodist in Mississippi should forget the great Conference on Home Missions and Evangelism to be held in Jackson, January 16-17, 1923. Every Methodist preacher of the State is expected to attend, with at least five laymen from charges having fewer than five hundred members; and ten laymen from charges having five hundred or more members. The suggestion has been made—and it is a good one—that the membership of many charges would do a fine thing by furnishing the money for their pastors to make the trip. That meeting will be worth making sacrifices to attend.

Rev. J. B. Cain, of Ellisville, Miss., calls our attention to the fact that the Epworth League Board of the Mississippi Conference was incorrectly given in the Conference number of the Advocate. The correct list is as follows: Meridian District, W. D. Hawkins (President) and J. L. Decell (Vice President); Hattiesburg District, J. B. Cain (Secretary) and K. T. Moore; Newton District, L. F. Alford (Treasurer) and R. C. Peebles; Jackson District, J. O. Ware and J. W. Broom; Seashore District, J. F. Campbell and W. E. Barnes; Vicksburg District, J. L. Smith and W. W. Bowie; Brookhaven District, W. A. Terry and J. E. Carruth.

The quarterly conference list of the Hattiesburg District reached us too late for insertion in this week's Advocate. The full list will appear next week; we give the first few appointments here: Richton, at Richton, Dec. 24, 11 a.m.; Hattiesburg, Main St., Dec. 24, 7 p.m.; Oloh, at Clyde, Dec. 31, 11 a.m.; Silver Creek, Dec. 31, 7 p.m.; Collins, Jan. 7, 11 a.; Seminary, Jan. 7, 7 p.m. The district stewards are called to meet in Main Street Church, Hattiesburg, at 1:30 p.m., Dec. 28. All the district stewards are urged to be present, and the pastors are invited to attend.

A special church-wide campaign for the collection of past due Centenary pledges will be launched about January 15. The Executive Committee of the Centenary Commission requested the bishops and the secretaries of the Board of Missions to give practically all of their time to this campaign. Their action was approved by the bishops in their recent meeting at New Orleans and following this the Executive Committee of the Board of Missions authorized the secretaries to give all the time possible to the movement. The bishops in charge of foreign work who are now in the United States have been requested to remain in the homeland until this campaign is over, and Bishops Hay and Boaz, now in the Orient, have been urged to return for this field work, as have Dr. Pinson and Miss Howell, Foreign Secretaries, who are also in the Orient.

Among the duties imposed upon the General Sunday School Board by the last General Conference was that of inaugurating and promoting plans for Sunday school extension throughout the church, providing for education in missions and social service in all of our Sunday schools, and in the promotion and supervision of Sunday school work in all our mission fields. The General Sunday School Board, in conformity with this action of the General Conference, has elected Dr. Edmund F. Cook as Secretary of Home Missions and Sunday School Extension, and he has entered upon the duties of this office. He will have charge of so much of the work referred to above as applies to the territory in the home field, and to the development of missionary specials in the Sunday school and the furtherance of missionary education in the same. Correspondence regarding missions in the Sunday school, missionary specials, etc., should be addressed to Dr. Cook at 810 Broadway, Nashville, Tenn. Dr. Cook recently transferred his membership from the Southwest Missouri Conference to his old home Conference, the South Georgia.

THANKS TO OUR FRIENDS.

We desire to express our thanks to the following friends who have sent us two or more subscriptions recently: Rev. W. W. Drake (from Shreveport, La.), 6; Rev. W. B. Jones, Crystal Springs, Miss., 3; Rev. H. B. Thomason, Colfax, La., 4; Rev. A. J. Gearheard, Haynesville, La., 2.

"NOW I LAY ME."

When you enter a hospital you see long rows of beds with weak and diseased and broken bodies; you see faces drawn with pain; you see tired nurses after long nights of watching and ministering; and sometimes you see heart-broken relatives, desolate in their loneliness.

Because of those things it seemed strange and wonderful to find in one of the city hospitals an example of the perfect peace—a little eight-year-old girl. She had suffered for many months, and at last her relatives had brought her to the hospital for a serious operation, the result of which would be either death or life with restored health and happiness. The surgeon believed that with good luck the child might survive.

The attendants expected a somewhat distressing scene when the ether was given and were trying to harden their hearts against the cries of fear that frequently occur at such a time. The moment came, and the attendant approached with the ether. The child lay watching with close attention. Then suddenly, instead of a cry from her lips, a most beautiful and winsome smile like the opening of a flower overspread her small white face. Then she closed her eyes and reverently, as if at her mother's knee, repeated in a low, sweet voice:

"Now I lay me down to sleep;
I pray the Lord my soul to keep,
If I should die before I wake,
I pray the Lord my soul to take."

There was silence for a moment as tear-filled eyes turned away. Then quietly and confidently the serious work began. All nervousness, all strain and anxiety had departed, for the peace of God, which passeth all understanding—and which was hers—had filled their hearts.

The above little story is from the Youths' Companion. However, out of our own experience, we have known adults to admit to praying the same little prayer, even when it was so serious that they had been advised to make their will before the operation. It surprises us that the Companion prints the prayer in the above form. It should be:

"I pray Thee, Lord,
And not 'the Lord.'"

A Boston woman told us that her little grandchild, who had doubtless been taught the Companion form, always concluded his prayer:

"I pray another Lord
My Soul to take."

—Exchange.

THE GRACE OF GRATITUDE.

Gratitude comes very near to being the crowning emotion of the soul, and he who has learned the habit of it has learned the way to the greatest fullness and rapture of life. The grateful soul may not be the one to whom life has dealt most bountifully and beneficently, but it is all one as if it were, for the fullness of the heart makes up for any lack. He who has gratitude is as if he had the best that a thousand worlds had to offer, for his gratefulness multiplies and magnifies his blessings a million-fold; while he who has not gratitude is poor and miserable and unhappy with a universe at his feet. It isn't what we have, but how we appreciate what we have that makes life either full or empty, either joyous or futile. There isn't a life that has ever been lived that hasn't felt rich and full and abounding in the hour of some fine gratitude, and there never was a man so poor and bereft that his soul didn't seem crowned with blessings when he looked up into the face of God and tried to express his thankfulness. The joy and richness that come through gratefulness are no mocking, make-believe things at all; they are among the most real and abiding possessions of life. And just as we learn that great lesson of gratitude, and yield ourselves to the throb of that finest emotion of the soul, will life take on a steadfast joy and glory and fullness. Gratefulness is always the doorway into real happiness.—Christian Guardian.

Jesus Christ is indispensable as the standard of reform within the church. Whenever in Christian history the church's life has become corrupt, superficial, lukewarm, it has been the rediscovery of Christ which has cleansed the church and reestablished vital Christianity. To-day the churches need again a fresh invasion of His Presence, a fresh consciousness of His character, rebuking our evils, correcting our faults, putting first things first and aligning us for His work. Christ as the Reformer of His own people, straightening them where they are crooked, sweetening them where they are bitter, enlightening them where they are blind, rebuking them where they are stubborn and putting new heart into them where they are discouraged, is one of the great needs of our time.—Fosdick.

Obituaries

Obituaries not over 200 words in length will be published free of charge. All over 200 words must be paid for at the rate of 1 cent a word. Count the words and be sure to send the amount necessary with the obituary. That will save trouble all around. We cannot make discriminations. Memorial resolutions are subject to the same rule as obituaries.

MRS. EGBERT O. HAYES, a dear little "mother in Israel," passed to her reward, November 30, 1922, dying at the home of her daughter, Mrs. G. W. Summers, in Abbeville, La. Sister Hayes had reached the ripe age of 81 years, 9 months, and 10 days. She was born in St. Landry Parish, near Church Point, and joined the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, at the age of fifteen. The New Orleans Christian Advocate was her favorite church paper from early life till she passed away. All her life she was a devout Christian. The writer had the privilege of visiting her occasionally for the last two years. We prayed together and talked of God's work and his workers. The last words she spoke before our last prayer were concerning the Annual Conference. I always went away refreshed in soul after my visits with her. Prayer was her native breath. She made one think of the twenty-third Psalm and, the fourteenth chapter of John's gospel. Sanctified by suffering and the Spirit of God, one was impressed that the peace that passeth all understanding stood guard at the gates of her life. Her trust in God was fixed, her hope stayed on him, and down to old age she proved his unchangeable love. She fulfilled the law of sacrifice. The mother of nine children, she had buried all but two. Surely there is One on the other side to welcome such souls, who will say to them, "Come, ye blessed of my Father, inherit the kingdom prepared for you." Such are the nameless and humble heroines of the faith once for all delivered to the saints. These are the riches of God's inheritance here, and theirs the riches of the inheritance in God here and in the world to come. She has answered the summons to come up higher, to join the innumerable company whom John in his vision saw standing before the throne of God, who had come up out of great tribulation and had washed their robes and made them white in the blood of the Lamb, who shall hunger no more nor thirst any more; for He who sitteth on the throne shall be their Shepherd, and shall guide them unto the river of the waters of life, and God shall wipe away all tears from their eyes.

The writer held funeral services at the home of her daughter on Dec. 1, 1922, and Rev. S. D. Roberts conducted the services in Opelousas, where her body was laid to rest with those of her kindred and friends who had gone before. W. O. WAGONER.

On Dec. 1, at 12:50 o'clock p.m., at the Baptist Hospital, Alexandria, La., Mrs. SARAH E. WALKER, my precious wife, fell asleep in the arms of Jesus. For the last two years her sufferings were almost unbearable, but she bore them bravely until her domicile was changed. Her maiden name was Sarah E. Satcher, and she was born at Dodson, La., March 13, 1864; she married the writer in May, 1883; six children were born, of whom all survive her. She was converted and united with the Methodist Church at Pineville, La., in 1880, Rev. Christian Keener being the pastor; she was well known by all of the pioneer Methodist preachers who labored through central Louisiana. She was a noble, loving wife and mother. When the time came near for her departure, her testimony was bright and glorious. She was laid to rest in the Pineville Methodist Cemetery.

The home is sad and lonely
Since mamma has passed away,
But with God she is more happy,
And His will we must obey.

Farewell, mamma, we'll sadly miss you
For the short time we remain;
But there are others that will greet you,
And our loss is Heaven's gain.

Her husband,
JAMES H. WALKER.

JAMES A. MOODY was born in Robson County, North Carolina, March 6, 1831, and died at his home in Wayne County, Mississippi, April 18, 1922. He came with his father and family to Wayne county in 1837, and was living in a half-mile of his father's settlement when the end came. He was married to Miss Helena A. Taylor, October 28, 1858. To this happy union were born 12 children, 10 of whom are living, one of them a Methodist minister. Mr. Moody served all through the Civil War, a member of Company C of the Thirty-seventh Regiment, Mississippi Volunteers, and was a faithful soldier. He was a man of even temper, unquestionable veracity, honest dealings, and deep piety. He was converted and joined the Methodist Church, and lived a pure, upright life, and held several official positions with credit to himself and honor to his church. A good man is gone to his reward, and his works do follow him.

In 1895 he was sweetly sanctified, and lived the life to the end. We shall see his kindly face no more on earth, but we shall see it again and clasp his hand in the home of the soul.

His loving nephew,
WM. NORTON.

RESOLUTIONS.

Whereas God, in his all-wise providence, has seen fit to take from our midst Mrs. MYRA BURROW, who died in the Lucy Brinkley Hospital, Memphis, Tenn., Nov. 13, 1922, and was buried in the Byhalia Cemetery, Nov. 14, 1922, from the Methodist church, in which she was a member from early childhood; whereas in her death this society and church have lost a member who will be greatly missed, for never did a servant of the Lord work more gladly in his vineyard—nothing was too difficult if the Master needed her; whereas God alone knows the many acts of kindness she performed throughout her beautiful, noble life; therefore, be it Resolved:

1. That the world was made better and brighter because of the influence of her sweet, pure life.

2. That we extend our most sincere sympathy to the bereaved loved ones and commend them to the care of Him "who doeth all things well."

3. That a copy of these resolutions be sent to her family and to the New Orleans Christian Advocate for publication, and a copy placed in the minutes of the Woman's Missionary Society.

Signed by: Miss Susie Davis, Mrs. W. M. Nichols, Committee.

Adopted, December 4, 1922, at Byhalia, Miss Mrs. W. M. Nichols, Secretary; Mrs. Thos. Eason, President.

RESOLUTIONS.

Our Heavenly Father, in his wisdom, has seen fit to remove from our midst our beloved member and coworker, MRS. J. ATKINSON, on Oct. 21, 1922, at her home in Arcadia, La. To give an adequate sketch of her useful and beautiful life would be impossible in these brief resolutions. Suffice it to say that she was loved and honored by all. Truly to know her was to love her.

Whereas, the Arcadia Missionary Society of the Methodist Church has lost one of its best beloved and honored members, and we deeply deplore our loss; therefore, be it Resolved:

1. That with sorrowing hearts we desire to pay loving tribute to the memory and the lofty character of our departed sister.

2. That this Society does hereby express to her sorrowing husband and companion and bereaved family, our deepest and tendest sympathy.

3. That a copy of these resolutions be spread upon the minutes of this Society, a copy be published in the Bienville Democrat, a copy be published in the New Orleans Christian Advocate, and a copy be sent to the bereaved family.

Signed by: Mrs. E. P. Woodman, Mrs. D. R. Shehee, Mrs. J. E. Currie, Committee.

OTHINE
For the treatment of
FRECKLES
In Use for Over 14 Years
Your freckles need attention NOW or may remain all winter. Use Othine—double strength—the old and time-tried guaranteed treatment that has given satisfaction to millions of women, and rid yourself of these homely spots.
At all Druggists and Department Stores.

Cuticura Soap Will Help You Clear Your Skin
Soap, Ointment, Talcum, 25c. everywhere. Samples free of Cuticura Laboratories, Dept. V, Malden, Mass.

WHEELER Business College
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
"WHEELER STUDENTS GET THE BEST POSITIONS"
Call or Write for Free Catalogue

PELOUBET'S
Select Notes
The World's Greatest Commentary on the International Sunday School Lessons
By AMOS R. WELLS, Litt.D., LL.D.
Let us send you a pamphlet containing the first lesson taken from the volume of 1923
Price, $1.90 Net, $2.00 Delivered
W. A. WILDE COMPANY
120 BOYLSTON STREET, BOSTON, MASS
Madison Terminal Building, Chicago
FOR SALE AT ALL BOOKSTORES

QUALITY GOODS
AT LOW PRICES
D. H. Holmes Co., LIMITED.

BOHNE & WILT, Booksellers, and Stationers, 1328 Dryades St., New Orleans, La. Baseball Goods, Religious Articles, Fishing Tackle, Periodicals, School Books.

No one who vitally knows the indispensableness of Christ can be willing to withhold Him from the rest of humankind. As these recent years have shown, the appeal of a famine to those who have bread and to spare is well-nigh irresistible. The appeal of the non-Christian world to the Christian community ought likewise to arouse an overwhelming response. "The field is the world." Try to confine the love of God revealed in Christ to a limited portion of the world, to keep it for ourselves, and it will spoil on our hands. For by that act, whatever we may say, we are denying the indispensableness of our Lord. We cannot be unmissionary Christians. The adjective keeps ruining the noun. —Fosdick.

Public Service
HAS BECOME THE ACTIVE PRACTICAL IDEAL OF THE STREET RAILWAY COMPANY WITH ITS REORGANIZATION AS NEW ORLEANS PUBLIC SERVICE, INC. WE SOLICIT HELPFUL SUGGESTIONS AND WISH TO KEEP SERVICE ALWAYS
On the Job

DR. H. B. BARTLETT
National Dental Parlors
Canal and Bourbon Sts.
Over Worner's Drug Store
Entrance on Bourbon Street
Phone Main 2193.
NEW ORLEANS
Crown and Bridge Specialist
Vitalized Air for Painless Extraction
Most Modern and Best Equipped Dental Parlors South.

Epworth League.

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.

Alexandria District.

Well, it took until the middle of November to get reports this quarter, but for the first time every League reported. How's that? From now on every League is going to report, on time, aren't we?

There are now fifteen Senior Leagues, and three of these are 100 per cent chapters. It is best to keep quiet about the others just at present. Seven have definite programs of social service and six have programs for recreational activities. Let's bring that up, folks.

There are 115 Epworth Eras taken, and we have to get only 16 more to raise the District's quota, but of course we don't want to stop there.

A weak spot is the Covenants, but the Alexandria District is going to work on them so that by the close of the year instead of just half maintaining them, nearly every Leaguer in the district will be enrolled.

So far our Missionary Special is $174. Last but not least, we gained ninety-five members the second quarter, making a total of 501 members.

All the Intermediate Chapters reported this quarter, one of which is a 100 per cent Chapter. The other two mark up to 70 and 80. They have pledged $42 to Missions. Their membership is 60.

Now comes the sad part. Only one Junior League reported. What's the matter, Superintendents? Get in line next quarter, which ends the last of this month, and send in your report with the Seniors and Intermediates.

WOMAN TOO WEAK TO WALK

Now Works Nine Hours a Day.—Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Restored Her Strength

Union Village, Vt.—"I was weak and nervous and all run-down. I could not walk across the floor without resting and I had been that way for weeks. I saw your advertisement in the paper and after taking one bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I felt the good it was doing me and I took seven more in all. Before I finished I was able to work nine hours a day in a steam laundry. I cannot say too much in favor of your medicine. I trust all sick and suffering women will take it. It has been two years since I took it and I am strong and well."—Mrs. L. A. GUIMANN, Union Village, Vermont.

This is only one of such letters we are continually publishing showing what Lydia E. Pinkham has done for women, and whether you work or not Mrs. Guimann's letter should interest you.

Many women get into a weak, nervous run down condition because of ailments they often have. Such women should take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at the first sign of trouble. Good health is necessary and this splendid medicine will help you to keep it.

A TRIBUTE TO REV. H. N. HARRISON.

Since there is a portion of Brother Harrison's work during his stay in New Orleans unknown to many Methodists, I think it is due him to send a brief sketch of his ministry outside of the local church which he served.

Scholarly, his life a gospel, and recognized as a man who holds counsel with the most High, his parsonage was a retreat for the burdened of soul and the sick. High and low, men and women of all denominations, including Catholic and Jew, came to him for advice and prayer. I saw the dinner wait an hour while he prayed with an unhappy woman.

This was a service of love, for Brother Harrison was paid for it only in the coin of Heaven.

To earnest, sincere hearts, his sermons were the Bread of Life. A Catholic woman who was converted during the Ginsy Smith meeting said to me, "When Brother Harrison is preaching, I feel as if God was talking to me through him."

A MEMBER OF FELICITY.

QUARTERLY CONFERENCES.

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.

Alexandria District—First Round.

Pineville, Dec. 31.
Campti, at Campti, Jan. 7, a.m.
Coushatta, Jan. 7, p.m.
Alexandria, Jan. 8, p.m.
Melder Ct., at Melder, Jan. 11.
Marksville Ct., at Evergreen, Jan. 14, a.m.
Bunkie, Jan. 14, p.m.
Colfax, at Colfax, Jan. 16, p.m.
Melville, at Melville, Jan. 21, a.m.
Opelousas, Jan. 21, p.m.
Livonia, at Livonia, Jan. 24.
Plaquemine and Donaldsonville, at ———, Jan. 25.
Oakdale, Jan. 28, a.m.
Glenmora, Jan. 28, p.m.
Natchitoches, Jan. 30, p.m.
Rochelle and Standard, at Standard, Feb. 1, p.m.
Jena and Jonesville, at Jena, Feb. 4, a.m.
Trout and Good Pine, at Trout, Feb. 4, p.m.

The district stewards will please meet on January 2, in the Alexandria Methodist Church, at 11 a.m.

W. L. DOSS, Jr., P. E.

Baton Rouge Dist.—First Round.

Denham Springs, at Denham Springs, Dec. 24, a.m.
Keener Memorial, Dec. 24-26, p.m.
Clinton, at Clinton, Dec. 31, a.m.
Jackson and Ethel, at Ethel, Dec. 31, p.m.
St. Francisville, at St. F., Jan. 7, a.m.
Baton Rouge, First Church, Jan. 7, p.m.
Natalbany and Pine Grove, at Natalbany, Jan. 14, a.m.
Hammond, Jan. 14, p.m.
Bogalusa ct., at Bogalusa, Jan. 21, a.m.
Bogalusa, Jan. 21, p.m.
Pearl River ct., at Pearl River, Jan. 28, a.m.
Slidell, at Slidell, Jan. 28, p.m.
Springfield ct., at Springfield, Feb. 4, a.m.
Ponchatoula, at Ponchatoula, Feb. 4, p.m.
Franklinton ct., at Fisher, Feb. 11, a.m.
Franklinton, Feb. 11, p.m.
Olive Branch, at Olive Br., Feb. 18, a.m.
Baker, at Baker, Feb. 18, 3 p.m., 7 p.m.
Tickfaw Mis., at Pine Ridge, Feb. 25, a.m.
Amite, Feb. 25, p.m.
Greensburg, at Days, Mar. 4, a.m.
Kentwood, Mar. 4, p.m.
Covington, at Covington, Mar. 11, a.m.
Gonzales, at Meadows, Mar. 18, a.m.

J. W. LEE, P. E.

Lake Charles Dist.—First Round.

Many and Robeline, at Many, Dec. 24, 3 p.m.
Neame and Pickering, at Neame, Dec. 31, 11 a.m.
Carson, Dec. 31, 7:30 p.m.
Abbeville and Kaplan, at Abbeville, Jan. 7, 11 a.m.
Gueydan and Estherwood, at Gueydan, Jan. 7, 7:30 p.m.
Crowley, Jan. 14, 11 a.m.
Eunice Ct., at Eunice, Jan. 14, 7:30 p.m.
New Iberia, Jan. 21, 11 a.m.
Lafayette, Jan. 21, 7:30 p.m.
Merryville, Jan. 28, 11 a.m.
De Ridder, Jan. 28, 7:30 p.m.
Sulphur and Vinton, at Vinton, Feb. 4, 11 a.m.
Lake Arthur, Feb. 4, 7:30 p.m.
Branch Ct., at Branch, Feb. 11, 11 a.m.

J. B. WILLIAMS, P. E.

Ruston Dist.—First Round.

Jonesboro, at Jonesboro, Jan. 17, preaching, 11 a.m.
Gibsland, at Gibsland, Jan. 24; preaching, 11 a.m.
Arcadia, Jan. 31; preaching, 11 a.m.
Elmore, at Wesley, Jan. 4; Q. C., 2 p.m.
Sibley, at Pine Grove, Jan. 5; Q. C., 2 p.m.
Winnfield, Jan. 7; preaching, 11 a.m; Q. C., 2 p.m.
Winnfield circuit, at Joyce, Jan. 7, preaching, 7:30 p.m.; Q. C., 4 p.m.
Blenville, at Blenville, Jan. 14, preaching, 11 a.m.
Bernice, at Bernice, Jan. 16; Q. C., 2 p.m.
Farmerville, Jan. 17; Q. C., 7:30 p.m.
Marion, at Marion, Jan. 18; Q. C., 2 p.m.
Minden, Jan. 21, preaching, 11 a.m.
Homer, Jan. 23; Q. C., 7:30 p.m.
Haynesville, Jan. 24; Q. C., 7:30 p.m.
Dubach, at Dubach, Jan. 26; Q. C., 2 p.m.
Springhill, Jan. 28, preaching, 11 a.m.
Cotton Valley, Jan. 28, preaching, 7:30 p.m.
Ringgold, at Ringgold, Feb. 4, preaching 11 a.m.
Wesley, at Hall Summit, Feb. 5; Q. C., 2 p.m.
Simsboro, at Simsboro, Feb. 7; Q. C., 2 p.m.
Haughton and Doyline, at Haughton, Feb. 11, preaching 11 a.m.
Ruston, Feb. 12, 7:30 p.m.
Castor, Feb. 14; Q. C., 2 p.m.
Athens, Feb. 18; Q. C., preaching, 11 a.m.
District Stewards' meeting, at Arcadia, Jan. 11, at 10:30 a.m.

K. W. DODSON, P. E.

Shreveport Dist.—First Round.

Bossier City, Dec. 17, p.m.
Mangum Memorial, Dec. 24, a.m.
Cedar Grove, Dec. 27, p.m.
Ida, Dec. 31, a.m.
Belcher, Dec. 31, p.m.
Texas Avenue, Jan. 3, p.m.
Greenwood, Jan. 7 a.m.
Oil City, Jan. 7, p.m.
Vivian, Jan. 10, p.m.
Pelican, Jan. 13, p.m.
Pleasant Hill, Jan. 14, a.m.
Grand Cane, at Stonewall, Jan. 21, a.m.
Mansfield, Jan. 21, p.m.
Noel Memorial, Jan. 24, p.m.
Plain Dealing, Jan. 28, a.m.
Mooringsport, Jan. 31, p.m.
Bayou La Chute, Feb. 4 a.m.
First Church, Shreveport, Feb. 7, p.m.
Longstreet, Feb. 11, a.m.
Logansport, Feb. 11, p.m.

The district stewards' meeting will be held Tuesday, Jan. 2, 10:30 a.m., in First Methodist Church.

R. H. WYNN, P. E.

CHAMBERLAIN'S COUGH REMEDY

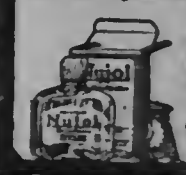
FOR THE RELIEF OF Coughs, Colds, Croup WHOOPING COUGH, HOARSENESS BRONCHITIS

—SOLD EVERYWHERE—

Bad Breath

Is Usually Due to Constipation

When you are constipated, not enough of Nature's lubricating liquid is produced in the bowel to keep the food waste soft and moving. Doctors prescribe Nujol because it acts like this natural lubricant and thus replaces it.



Nujol is a lubricant—not a medicine or laxative — so cannot gripe. Try it today.

Nujol

A LUBRICANT—NOT A LAXATIVE

Marshall, Mo.

Dear Sir:
I have used Mrs. Winslow's Syrup for many years for my three babies and it has proved successful. One of my babies had colic and I gave him Mrs. Winslow's Syrup. It certainly was fine, for it cured him.
Yours truly,
(Name on request)

Diarrhoea, colic, flatulency and constipation are quickly overcome by this safe, pleasant, efficient remedy. Guaranteed non-narcotic, non-alcoholic. Formula on every label.

MRS. WINSLOW'S SYRUP

The Infants' and Children's Regulator

At All Druggists. Write for free booklet of letters from mothers.

ANGLO-AMERICAN DRUG CO., 215-217 Fulton St., New York

General Selling Agents: Harold F. Ritchie & Co., Inc., New York, Toronto, London, Sydney

Sunday School

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE SUNDAY SCHOOL NOTES.

The second Sunday was spent at Hebron, Jones County, with their Sunday school. The Baptist and Methodist schools went together and made a day of it. It was a good day in spite of the weather. My, we had a good time! Hebron is on the map, and if they carry out their promises they will go forward for the Lord this year. I enjoyed meeting old friends and mingling with them, as well as the chance to work for the cause of Religious Education.

Monday was spent in Laurel. They are getting ready for the union meeting to be led by Gipsy Smith, Jr. Pray that God will bless them. They are also planning for a Standard Training School.

Brother Brabham was with us Wednesday and Thursday, meeting the circuit preachers of the Jackson District at Harrisville. We did not have a full attendance, but we surely did have a fine program. The Harrisville community made a name for itself and Brother Brabham passed some very fine compliments upon them and their work. It was fine and I appreciated it very much. Brother Sells and his folks entertained us in a very lovely way and all seemed to enjoy it so much. Every pastor that was present seemed to get great inspiration from the meetings and every one promised to take a forward step, not only for his circuit, but for himself.

Brother Burton liked the meeting so well he is planning to hold another.

The Program of Work for the Coming Year.

1. A Standard Training School in each District.
2. Seven District Institutes.
3. Thirty-five Sub-District Institutes.
4. At least 5 Four-Times-A-Year Circuit-Wide-Institutes in each District.
5. Promotion of the Campaign of Evangelism as outlined by the General Sunday School Board.
6. Definite effort to get each school to accept the proper type Program of work and try to measure up to it.
7. A Bible Reading Campaign in each school.
8. Sabbath Observance promoted in each school.
9. Tithing taught in each school.
10. A campaign for clean speech in each school.
11. A campaign for Family Devotion, promoted by the Bible Classes.
12. A campaign for private devotions.
13. An effort to increase the membership by at least 5000.
14. To promote "Children's Week," at least doubling last year's efforts.
15. A Conference-Wide Sunday School Conference.
16. Increase the number of schools observing Sunday School Day not less than 25 per cent.
17. Increase the offering from Sunday School Day at least 25 per cent.

To beat last year's record will take much work. We have passed every record so far that we have ever made. Will you not gladly pray that for the glory of the Father we may have another record breaking year?

Pray for Brother Hull and myself.

Yours in Him,
JOHN C. CHAMBERS.

School Desks

Opera Chairs,
Folding Chairs,
Kindergarten Chairs,
School Supplies,
Blackboards.

SOUTHERN DESK CO., Hickory, N. C.

NOTES FROM NORTH MISSISSIPPI.

By Rev. R. H. B. Gladney, Sardis, Miss.

Now is the time to call a meeting of the Workers' Council and present the Program of Work so every officer and teacher may know what is expected of them. A large chart to hang upon the wall may be had by sending twenty-five cents to me or to Mr. M. W. Brabham, Nashville, Tenn. No school can stand still after accepting this outline of work. Try it and report the results.

Would you like to have the latest dictionary on Methodist Sunday school work that will cost you only a post card? If you care to have such a book, write to Lamar & Barton for the 1923 Sunday School Supply catalog. It will answer hundreds of questions and answer them correctly. Get this catalog and a copy of the "Superintendent and His Helpers," and you will have two useful tools to work with.

At the recent session of the Little Rock Conference, Rev. Clem Baker, Conference Superintendent of Sunday Schools, presented seventy-eight teacher-training certificates to the preachers of that Conference. This is the main reason why that Conference is making such rapid progress in all good work. Why can we not have one hundred preachers studying one of these books? Bishop Ainsworth's blackboard will not have so many naughts to face us at next Conference if we prepare to teach our people the things of the kingdom. Every preacher, officer, and teacher ought to study "Organization and Administration."

Rosedale has accepted the "C" Program of Work. In doing this, the teachers agreed to put graded lessons in the first three departments as a beginning. Mrs. Dodd agreed to organize the intermediate class and use graded lessons. I am confident this school will demonstrate the wisdom of accepting a full program. The school begins without having a single complete point, but in less than three months there will be a decided increase in the interest of the teachers and a marked advance in the quantity and amount of work done.

The school at Itta Bena accepted the "C" Program of Work. Ten of the teachers agreed to take "The Pupil" as their study for the next three months. This is the most important point of the ten, because if the teachers are trained, they are able to undertake anything that ought to be done; if they are untrained, the school will drag along in the same rut. Brother Lockhart means to make his fourth year in this charge the best of all. He has made a good beginning toward this end.

The Sunday School Board is not asking for the fifth Sunday offering for itself, but is asking for this offering that we may give more of our teachers an opportunity to receive training. And the reason we want trained teachers is that teachers may know how to deal with our children. A dead church never asks for money, never calls upon God to raise up workers, never looks out upon the field that is white unto the harvest. May the Holy Spirit open our eyes that we may see the vast multitude we are not teaching.

A CHURCH ON THE JOB.

A letter from Rev. Chas. D. McGehee, who was formerly a pastor in the North Mississippi Conference, reveals many remarkable facts covering the Haven Street Methodist Church, St. Louis, Mo., of which he is now pastor. In addition to the wonderful work of the women, which is equaled by many of our churches, the work of the laymen is the outstanding feature.

One hundred and two cottage prayer and testimony meetings were held by these laymen during the past fourteen months, with an average attendance of 45, and as many as 110 people were in one large home.

The men are filling the pulpits of the country churches where the pastors can visit only once or twice a month—a wonderful work for laymen in our town and city churches.

These laymen, under the leadership of a great lay leader, Mr. Thomas Mellow, go out on Sunday afternoon, two and two, and visit the sick, the shut-ins, the cold, indifferent church members. They also conduct services in the missions, hospitals and old peoples' homes; they are also planning to open several Sunday afternoon schools out in St. Louis County.

As a result of their work, the church is in a constant state of revival, members being taken into the church regularly. Forty-eight families have signed Family Worship Cards and twenty-five have signed tithing cards. Four Catholic families were taken into the church after a cottage prayer service had been held in their homes.

How soon the Kingdom would come if our laymen would hear the call to this ministry, giving a part of their time and their talents as well as their treasure to the Lord!

KANSAS AND PROHIBITION.

By Dr. Charles M. Sheldon, in the Christian Herald.

In Kansas for more than thirty years after May 1, 1881, the Prohibition question was the one great political, social, business and moral issue of more than 1,500,000 people, living in the geographical center of a nation, isolated by more than 1,500 miles from any other State having a similar law, ridiculed by a powerful national press, by financial and political organizations.

It is of course true that during the entire forty-two years of Kansas prohibition there have been many and brutal violations of the law. But all the lawlessness and disorder and deceit and trouble of various sorts under an imperfectly obeyed prohibition law were not a drop in Noah's flood compared with the same things intensified which Kansas had endured under the saloon. In other words, Prohibition at its worst was tremendously better than the saloon at its best, and the foes of Prohibition need to have this fact hammered into their skulls with a bung-starter.

The history of Kansas in its fight with the liquor interests is being reproduced in the national conflict almost step by step. The difference consists in the tremendous advantage that Uncle Sam has over the single State that stood for so many years alone. But the evasions, the home brew, the illicit sales, the lawlessness of the high-brow and the low-brow element in hatred of the law, the cry of personal liberty, the exaggerated thirst that the law-breakers would have us believe 110,000,000 people have, the apathy or direct sympathy with lawlessness that certain great dailies still express—have we not seen all that in the history of Kansas, and all of it intensified by the combined attack of forces that are no longer in political or social power? Yea, verily.

And, if, alone, handicapped, surrounded, deluged with whiskey and beer from every quarter of her boundaries, betrayed by her own sworn public officials, and smitten by the very forces of civilization that should have rallied to her support, Kansas fought and won, how much more now, with all that as past history, is the hope and faith that the United States shall drive this common enemy of the church and home and business into the sea, so far beyond the three-mile limit that not even a wireless can get her last call for help.

For the HAIR—

To make it soft, fluffy and free from dandruff use

TETTERINE

60c at your Druggist's, or from The SHUPTRINE CO., SAVANNAH, GA.

MURINE FOR YOUR EYES

You Cannot Buy New Eyes

But you can Promote a Clean, Healthy Condition

Use Murine Eye Remedy "Night and Morning."

Keep your Eyes Clean, Clear and Healthy.

Write for Free Eye Care Book.

Murine Eye Remedy Co., 9 East Ohio Street, Chicago

ANGELL'S

COUGH and WHOOPING

Cough Syrup

Easy to Take

No Habit-Forming Drugs. Formula of DR. RICHARD ANGELL

Prepared by JAMES R. ANGELL, New Orleans, La.

PRICE 35c AND 65c

AT ALL DRUGGISTS

YUN, PEERLESS KOREAN, ACCEPTS PRESIDENCY ANGLO-KOREAN SCHOOL.

By Rev. A. W. Wasson.

Hon. T. H. Yun has accepted the presidency of the Songdo Higher Common School (Anglo-Korean School) and will take charge at an early date. The many friends of the school who know him will rejoice at this news. It is peculiarly gratifying to have at tbe head of our leading educational institutions a peerless Korean leader like Mr. Yun.

In taking charge of this school again he will be resuming under more favorable conditions the work which he began in 1906 and which was so tragically interrupted by the Conspiracy Case in 1911. His powers of mind and heart have been enriched and ripened by the hard experiences of the intervening years. The preacher in Arkansas who prayed for Mr. Yun by name every day of the three years he was a political prisoner can feel that his prayers have been abundantly answered as Mr. Yun takes charge of this student body of over fourteen hundred and brings to bear upon their lives the truths of the Christian religion wbich sustained his own heart so well during the strain and anguish of those long years.

In spite of the dark days and the temporary setbacks, the advance of the Kingdom through the years has always outstripped our expectations. Let us expect great things from this institution in full confidence that if we are faithful God will more than fulfill them.

Songdo, Korea, Nov. 6, 1922.

EVANGELISM IN THE SUNDAY SCHOOL.

We must understand the boy's problem if we are to solve the Boy-Problem. We must know the mind of a child if we are to help in the development of the mind.

The teacher who knows the Master Teacher and also knows the child will understand how to lead the child into the Master's presence.

The aim of the Sunday school is to lead each pupil to a knowledge of Jesus Christ as personal Savior and Lord and to develop in each a Christian character that is expressed through worship, right living and service.

Special Campaign of Evangelism January, February and March, 1923. Outline of plan and the following Leaflets freely supplied by the General Sunday School Board, 810 Broadway, Nashville, Tenn. "Evangelism through the Sunday School." "The Sunday School Teacher as an Evangelist." "The Child and Evangelism." "Enlistment of the Home in Evangelism." "The Graded Lessons and Evangelism." "The Evangelization of Youth." "Two Experiences in Evangelism with Young Men." "Winning Souls for Christ." "Confession or Decision Day." "Preparation for Church Membership."

REV. AND MRS. T. B. COTTRELL WELCOMED BACK TO GIBSON MEMORIAL.

When returning home Thursday evening from a call, Rev. and Mrs. T. B. Cottrell were agreeably surprised to find a number of friends awaiting them. As the Rev. Mr. Cottrell has been returned to this pastorate for another year, the members of his church had arranged a reception of welcome. The reception had been kept a profound secret, and as Mr. and Mrs. Cottrell left for a short call in the evening, some of the committee entered their home and quickly made arrangements for the entertainment.

As they entered, on their return, they were greeted with cheers. The lights were turned on and words of welcome poured forth from all

It was just an informal affair.

After quite an enjoyable time of

(Continued on Page 16.)

QUARTERLY CONFERENCES.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

Brookhaven Dist.—First Round.

Bayou Pierre, at Center Point, Dec. 30, 31.
Hazlehurst, 7 p.m., Dec. 31.
Pleasant Grove, at Picasant Grove, Jan. 6, 7.
Monticello, at Monticello, 7 p.m., Jan. 7.
Adams, at Adams, Jan. 13, 14.
Bogue Chitto and Norfield, at Norfield, 7 p.m., Jan. 14.
Meadville and Bude, at Bude, Jan. 21.
Wesson and Beauregard, at Wesson. 7 p.m., Jan. 21.
Gallman, at Bethesda, Jan. 24.
Foxworth, at Hopewell, Jan. 27, 28.
Tylertown, 7 p.m., Jan. 28.
Osyka, at Osyka, Jan. 31.
Barlow, at Rehoboth, Feb. 3, 4.
Brookhaven, 7 p.m., Feb. 4.
McComb, Pearl River Ave., Feb. 7.
Crystal Springs, 11 a.m., Feb. 11.
Georgetown, at Georgetown, 7 p.m., Feb. 11.
Magnolia, Feb. 14.
McComb, Centenary, 11 a.m., Feb. 18.
McComb, La Branch St., 7 p.m., Feb. 18.
Scotland, at New Hope, Feb. 21.
Summit and Topisaw, at Topisaw, Feb. 24, 25.
Fernwood, at Fernwood, 7 p.m., Feb. 25.

The district stewards will meet at 1:30 p.m., Thursday, December 28, in the Methodist church in Brookhaven. The pastors will also be welcome.

H. M. ELLIS, P. E.

Jackson Dist.—First Round.

Jackson, at Capitol St., Dec. 24.
Terry, at Terry, Dec. 30, 11 a.m., 2:30 p.m.
Florence, at Braxton, Dec. 30, 7 p.m.
Florence, at Braxton, Dec. 31, 11 a.m.
Canton, Jan. 7, 11 a.m., 2 p.m.
Bolton, at Raymond, Jan. 14, 11 a.m., 2 p.m.
Edwards, Jan. 21, 11 a.m., 2 p.m.
Flora, Jan. 21, 7 p.m.
Flora, Jan. 22, 2 p.m.
Madison, Jan. 24, 11 a.m.
Satartia, at Mt. Olivet, Jan. 27, 28, 11 a.m.
Benitonia, Jan. 28, 2 p.m., 7 p.m.
Harrisville, at Rexford, Feb. 3, 4, 11 a.m.
Mendenhall and D'Lo, at D'Lo, Feb. 4, 2:30, 7 p.m.
Camden, at Camden, Feb. 13, 14, 11 a.m.
Sharon, at Sharon, Feb. 14, 2:30 p.m.
Vaughn, Feb. 16, 11 a.m.
Benton, at Midway, Feb. 17, 11 a.m.
Eden, at Eden, Feb. 18, 2:30 p.m., 7:30 p.m.
Yazoo City circuit, at ———, Feb. 24, 25, 11 a.m.
Yazoo City, Feb. 25, 2:30, 7 p.m.
Brandon, at Pelahatchie, Mar. 4, 11 a.m., 2 p.m.
Monterey, at Mt. Carmel, Feb. 5, 11 a.m.

The district stewards are called to meet in the Sunday school room at Galloway Memorial Church, December 28, at 9 a.m. A full attendance is desired. We will be glad to have the pastors and lay leaders in attendance that we may have a full discussion of the work before us for the year.

M. L. BURTON, P. E.

Meridian Dist.—First Round.

Meridian, Fifth Street, Dec. 31.
Porterville, at Chapel Hill, Jan. 6, 7.
Scooba, Jan. 7, p.m.
Cleveland, at Mellen, Jan. 12.
DeKalb, at Pleasant Ridge, Jan. 13, 14.
Vimville, at Pleasant Hill, Jan. 20, 21.
Meridian, Seventh Ave., Jan. 21, p.m.
Daleville, at Lockhart, Jan. 21, 22.
Lauderdale and Electric Mills, at Elec. M., Jan. 28.
Waynesboro circuit, at Fedora, Feb. 3, 4.
Waynesboro, Feb. 4.
Matherville, at Poplar Springs, Feb. 10, 11.
DeSoto, at Crandall, Feb. 11, 12.
Enterprise, Feb. 15, 16.
Pachuta, Feb. 16, 17.
Quitman, Feb. 18.
Shubuta, Feb. 18, p.m.
Bucatunna, at State Line, Feb. 25.

The district stewards will meet at Central Church, Meridian, on Friday, 10 o'clock a.m., December 29. The pastors are invited to be present.

PAUL D. HARDIN, P. E.

Newton Dist.—First Round.

Neshoba, at Sandtown, Jan. 5.
North Neshoba, at Hope, Jan. 6, 7.
Philadelphia, Jan. 7, 8.
Carthage, at Carthage, Jan. 11.
Walnut Grove, at W. G., Jan. 12.
Harperville and Lena, at Harperville, Jan. 13, 14.
Laymen's Rally, at Jackson, Jan. 16, 17.
Trenton, at New Prospect, Jan. 20, 21.
Forest and Morton, at Forest, Jan. 21, 7 p.m.
Rose Hill, at Homewood, Jan. 27, 28.
Montrose, at Montrose, Jan. 31.
Lake, at Lawrence, Feb. 3, 4.
Bay Springs, at Holder's, Feb. 7.
Decatur and Hickory, at Hickory, Feb. 11.
Chunky, at Chunky, Feb. 14.
Shiloh, at Shiloh, Feb. 17, 18.
Newton, at Newton, Feb. 21.
Raleigh, at Raleigh, Feb. 23.
Homewood, at Homewood, Feb. 24, 25.
Union, at Union, Feb. 28.
Laurel, First Church, March 4, 11 a.m., 3 p.m.
Laurel, Kingston, March 5, 7 p.m.
Laurel, West End, March 6, 7 p.m.

The district stewards are called to meet in the Methodist church, Newton, Miss., Dec. 29, 10:30 o'clock a.m. Pastors are invited to attend this meeting.

Do not fail to attend the great Methodist Rally in Jackson, Jan. 16, 17. Who? All preachers; five laymen from every charge of less than 500 members; ten laymen from every charge of 500 or more members. Hosts of Methodists from all over the State will be there. Be sure to be one of them.

J. A. MOORE, P. E.

Seashore Dist.—First Round.

District Stewards, Gulfport, 10 a.m., Dec. 28.
Logtown, 11 a.m., Dec. 31.
Bay St. Louis, 7 p.m., Dec. 31.
Americus, Fri., 11 a.m., Jan. 5.
Moss Point, 11 a.m., Jan. 7.
Escatawpa, 3 p.m., Jan. 7.
Pascagoula, 7 p.m., Jan. 7.
Lumberton, 11 a.m., Jan. 14.
Columbia Mission, at Hub, 3 p.m., Jan. 14.
Columbia, 7 p.m., Jan. 14.
Poplarville, 11 a.m., Jan. 21.
Picayune, 7 p.m., Jan. 21.
Carriere, Mon., 11 a.m., Jan. 22.
Vancleave, at Vancleave, 11 a.m., Wed., Jan. 24.
Mentorum, at Alexandria Memorial, 11 a.m., Saturday, Jan. 27.
Brooklyn, 11 a.m., Jan. 28.
Wiggins, 7 p.m., Jan. 28.
Saucier, at Saucier, Wed., 7 p.m., Jan. 31.
Ocean Springs, at Ocean Springs, 11 a.m., Feb. 4.
Back Bay, 7 p.m., Feb. 4.
Gulfport, Q. C., Mon., 7:30 p.m., Feb. 5.
Biloxi, Q. C., Tues., 7:30 p.m., Feb. 6.
Long Beach, Q. C., Wed., 7:30 p.m., Feb. 7.

The district stewards, the district lay leader, and all the charge lay leaders are requested to meet at Gulfport Methodist church at 10 o'clock, December 28. Matters of importance are to be discussed and settled for tbe year. The pastors are invited to come, but if tbey cannot make two trips, they will be expected to meet in a Preachers' Institute at Gulfport, Thursday and Friday, January 25, 26. Bishop Ainsworth will arrange matters for consideration. Let no pastor fail to attend. Let us all begin now for a great forward movement. I urge the stewards to collect a part of their pastors' salary at once. He will need it. Some have had long moves. So, bretbren, please don't wait until the quarterly conference meets. Let us all begin now working and praying for a thousand souls to be saved, and a level district by Conference. We can have it if we will.

W. M. SULLIVAN, P. E.

Vicksburg Dist.—First Round.

Nebo, 11 a.m., Dec. 31.
Fayette, 7:30 p.m., Dec. 31.
Harriston, at Lorman, 11 a.m., Jan. 7.
Port Gibson, 7:30 p.m., Jan. 7.
Hermanville, 11 a.m., Jan. 14.
Utica, 7:30 p.m., Jan. 14, 15.
Washington, 11 a.m., Jan. 21.
Natchez, 7:30 p.m., Jan. 21.
Rosetta, 11 a.m., Jan. 26.
Gloster, 11 a.m., Jan. 27.
Centerville, 11 a.m., Jan. 28.
Woodville, 7:30 p.m., Jan 28.
Rocky Springs, at Willows, 11 a.m., Feb. 4.
Vicksburg, Gibson Memorial, 7:30 p.m., Feb. 4, 5.
Roxie, 11 a.m., Feb. 11.
Vicksburg, Crawford Street, 7:30 p.m., Feb. 11, 12.
Oak Ridge, at Flower Hill, 11 a.m. Feb. 14.
Louise and Holly Bluff, at H. B., 11 a.m., Feb. 18.
Silver City, 7:30 p.m., Feb. 18.
Mayersville, Feb. 24.
Angulla at Delta City, 11 a.m., Feb. 25.
Rolling Fork, 7:30 p.m., Feb. 25.

The district stewards are called to meet in the Crawford Street Church, Vicksburg, at 11:30 a.m., on Friday, Dec. 29, 1922. Please let all of the stewards be present. Matters of importance will come before the meeting.

J. R. JONES, P. E.

ROCHE'S HERBAL EMBROCATION
RELIEVES SAFELY AND PROMPTLY
CROUP OR WHOOPING COUGH
Also wonderfully effective in Bronchitis, Lumbago and Rheumatism.
All druggists or
W. EDWARDS & SON, London, England
E. FOUGERA & CO., 90-92 Beekman St. N. Y.

666 quickly relieves Colds, LaGrippe, Constipation, Biliousness & Headaches.

WINTERSMITH'S CHILL TONIC SOLD 50 YEARS
If not sold by your druggist, write Wintersmith Chemical Co., Louisville, Ky.

Woman's Missionary Society

All communications for this Department should be sent to Mrs. J. G. Snelling, 1431 Octavia St., New Orleans, La.

LOISIANA CONFERENCE.

Auxiliaries Attention!

My Dear Auxiliaries:

December is here, which brings us to the last lap of our good race for 1922. A message from Mrs. Lipscomb tells that the closing of the books for the third quarter showed we have yet a large sum to bring up in order that our total pledge shall be paid in full. Looking back over our records for the past two years, I have every reason to believe that this obligation will be met. Now, let us rally fast; the time is short; if one auxillary should fall in its relay all would be concerned. Before the dear Christmas time has come let us pay our vows to Him, and be joyous in the knowledge of a service well done, of an unborken gift to lay at his feet.

The total budget for this year is as follows: Auxiliaries, $24,000; Y. P., $500; Juniors, $500. At the end of the third quarter, $15,417 had been paid, leaving a balance of $9,583.

With love, yours in His service

MRS. C. F. NIEBERGALL.

NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE

Executive Committee Meeting.

The Executive Committee of the Woman's Missionary Society, North Mississippi Conference, was called to meet in Winona on November 6th, and twelve members responded. The session was held in the ladies' parlor of the Moore Memorial Church. Miss Brand, secretary of the rural survey, gave a report of what she had found during her four months' tour of the Conference, and a committee was appointed by the President, Mrs. T. M. Clark, to meet with a like committee from the Annual Conference in session at Water Valley, with reference to locating Miss Brand.

Reports were heard from the officers and district secretaries present, all showing much had been left undone for the last quarter of the year.

Plans for the coming annual meeting of the Woman's Missionary Society to be held in Greenwood during the first quarter of 1923 were discussed, and the president will confer with the local committee and a definite date will be announced as soon as possible.

Miss Brand at Shuford.

As the Annual Conference had made a beginning in the Rural Work at Shuford, and urged the Woman's Missionary Society to co-operate in the work at that place, it was decided to concentrate at that point.

To the places where Conference workers felt Miss Brand should locate, will be given all the help volunteer workers can give, and it is hoped to put on an all-time worker in every district. That is not asking too much, since we are seeing results from this line of work.

Just another month is given you to finish the year's work. To date no Auxiliary has observed "Harvest Day," but a number expect to during December. It is so important that all reports go in early, for during the holidays so much time will be given to other things. Our treasurer would have such a happy Christmas if every Auxiliary in the Conference would send her a full report by December 15th, and send with it the real Christmas good wishes.

CHRISTMAS ROUND THE WORLD.

Donors who last year gave aid for the 1921 Christmas greetings sent to leper people in many lands through the American Mission to Lepers will read with quick interest some of the responses sent back by the superintendents of hospitals who distributed such gifts. Excerpts of four such letters are included in the following paragraphs:

"It was a sight to see one hundred and fifty lepers—men, women and children—enjoying YOUR rice and curry. During the feast, the gramaphone, bought with your gift last year, played. We were also able to give to each leper a cotton shawl, so greatly appreciated in this cold weather. The untainted boys have never had blankets before, but were provided as a result of your gift."

"Our lepers are most grateful as this is the ONLY TOUCH OF INDIVIDUAL INTEREST they receive during the year. We purchased a warm, knitted wool cap for each, besides oranges and sweets. Thank you for the practical Christmas gift."

"Special thanks are given for the usual gifts, and particular acknowledgment of the money which provided some eatables and extra supplies of soap. The soap was especially appreciated. Sometimes the lepers are so anxious to get it, they will even offer to trade a portion of their food allowance for a little extra soap."

"Two hundred lepers gathered for their Christmas celebration can make quite a noise as they sing and laugh and enjoy their phonograph. I think there were just ten shirts in your box, which I gave out to the eldest men. One man said, 'I hope I grow old soon then, because I have never had a shirt.' The lepers received the two hundred mufflers with great joy and thanksgiving."

Whoever would like to have a hand in scattering Christmas joy of this kind among the class of sufferers who have as little joy as any people on earth, is invited again this year to forward contributions to W. M. Danner, Secretary of the American Mission to Lepers, 156 Fifth Avenue, New York City.

A distribution of such gifts will be made around the world, not forgetting the 400 leper people of the United States who are housed in the beautiful Federal Hospital Sixty-Six in Louisiana. Christmas is yet several weeks away, but for this purpose Christmas giving must be immediate, since it requires a good deal of time to communicate with the remoter stations of this widespread benevolence.

FROM SHUFORD, MISS.

Miss Bessie Brand, of Staunton, Va., appointed pastor's assistant on the Shuford circuit during the convening of the North Mississippi Conference at Water Valley, reached here Monday, November 20. Rev. T. B. Thrower, newly appointed pastor of the Shuford circuit, wife and two small sons, arrived at Shuford via Courtland, Friday, November 24.

On the evening of November 25, young and old gathered at the Community House and tendered a reception to Rev. Mr. Thrower and his wife. With kind and gracious words Miss Lillian Meek welcomed the new pastor and his wife into our midst. The response of our pastor to these words of welcome by Miss Meek on behalf of the neighborhood was equally kind and gracious. Mesdames Sherman Meek, P. C. Magee, Ed. Barnett, John Childress, John Gardner and others, acting as hostesses, served a plate luncheon, consisting of chicken, dressing, salad, pickle, coffee, cake and punch. The dining room was tastefully decorated with white and yellow chrysanthemums. Misses Ava Willingham, Walve Magee, Hettie Meek, using a victrola and some choice records, proved their ability as an entertainment committee. We believe we voice the sentiment of those attending when we say, "We enjoyed the evening." REPORTER.

FROM ROBELINE, LA.

Dear Brother Carley: Please give us just a little space in the Advocate to tell something about our efforts here in Roseline church. We have a membership of 48 members. We have a well organized Sunday school, with an average attendance of 35 to 40; our collections are seldom less than $18 per month. The most attractive feature in the Sunday school is the Cradle Roll—we have eleven babies from two to four years of age. Each Sunday morning these little tots gather in one of the most attractive little rooms in the church, where they are taught about God.

Our Woman's Missionary Society has just been organized. We have only 12 members, but we are in the work to stay. In our next letter we hope to report something worthwhile.

Our midweek prayer meeting is well attended—often the attendance exceeds the membership of the church. Although our pastor is seldom with us in the services, the laymen of the church carry on the work very zealously. We announce the chapter in the Bible that we are to discuss a week in advance, giving every one an opportunity to study it. Often the children take part in the service—if they do not join in the discussion, they repeat a verse of the Scripture from memory.

We have two splendid Leagues, Senior and Junior. Both are doing a splendid work. Our Senior League contributed this year more than $100 toward building an addition to our church. Four rooms have been completed and furnished.

Our Centenary to date is paid in full. I am sure if many of our sister churches, much stronger than we, were putting their shoulder to the wheel as this little church is doing, God's kingdom would move rapidly.

MRS. J. G. IDOM.

Roseline, La.

BOILS Old Sores, Cuts and Burns have been healed since 1820 with

Gray's Ointment

Sold by all druggists. Write for sample to W. F. Gray & Co., 707 Gray Bldg., Nashville, Tenn.

Headaches Vanish

Sick or nervous headaches, backaches, women's aches almost instantly respond to the liquid remedy Capudine. It stops the pain by removing the cause. Every home should keep a bottle handy. Sold by druggists, 10c, 30c, 60c. Insist upon getting CAPUDINE

CANCER HOSPITAL. Intra-venous treatment for cancer. Operation, Radium and X-Ray unnecessary. Booklet giving full information upon request. Box 2127, ATLANTA, GA.

Don't Wear a Truss

MR. C. E. BROOKS

BE COMFORTABLE—wear the Brooks Appliance, the modern scientific invention which gives rupture sufferers immediate relief. It has no obnoxious springs or pads. Automatic Air Cushions bind and draw together the broken parts. No salves or plasters. Durable. Cheap. Sent on trial to prove its worth. Never on sale in stores as every appliance is made to order, the proper size and shape of Air Cushion depending on the nature of each case. Beware of imitations. Look for trademark bearing portrait and signature of C. E. Brooks which appears on every appliance. None other genuine. Full information and booklet sent free in plain, sealed envelope.

Brooks Appliance Co., 443H State St., Marshall, Mich.

Bitter Chillifuge 25c

Has a bitter tonic taste and quick action in routing malaria from the system.

Will quickly stop chills and fever.

Splendid tonic for torpid liver and bracer for poor appetite.

FINLAY, DICKS & CO., INC., NEW ORLEANS.

TETTERINE

ENDS COMPLEXION WORRIES.

Healing, Antiseptic, Soothing, Fragrant.

60c at your Druggist's, or from The SHUPTRINE CO., SAVANNAH, GA.

CHAMBERLAIN'S TABLETS

-SOLD EVERYWHERE FOR-

CONSTIPATION
BILIOUSNESS
Headache
INDIGESTION
Stomach Trouble

PARKER'S HAIR BALSAM

Removes Dandruff-Stops Hair Falling. Restores Color and Beauty to Gray and Faded Hair. 60c. and $1.00 at Druggists. Hiscox Chem. Wks. Patchogue, N.Y.

HINDERCORNS Removes Corns, Callouses, etc., stops all pain, ensures comfort to the feet, makes walking easy. 15c. by mail or at Druggists. Hiscox Chemical Works, Patchogue, N. Y.

QUARTERLY CONFERENCES.

NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE

Aberdeen Dist.—First Round.

Buena Vista, at B. V., Dec. 30, 31.
Verona, at Verona, Jan. 6, 7.
Shannon and Nettleton, at S., Jan. 7, 8.
Woodland, at Mantee, Jan. 13, 14.
Nettleton, at Carolina, Jan. 20, 21.
Greenwood Springs, at G. S., Jan. 24.
Vardaman, at V., Jan. 27, 28.
Calhoun City, at C. C., Jan. 28, 29.
Houlka, at Houlka, Feb. 3, 4.
Salem and Ecru, at E., Feb. 10, 11.
Randolph, at Randolph, Feb. 13.
Tocopola, at Thaxton, Feb. 14.
Fulton, at Van Buren, Feb. 17, 18.
Tremont, at Tremont, Feb. 18, 19.
Eupora and Mabin, at Eupora, Feb. 24, 25.
Smithville, at Smithville, Feb. 20.
Bellefontaine, at B., Feb. 23.
Mathiston, at Mathiston, Feb. 25, 26.
Algoma, at Algoma, March 3.

T. H. DORSEY, P. E.

Columbus Dist.—First Round.

Columbus, Central Church, preaching, Dec. 17, a.m.; Q. C., Jan. 11.
Artesia, preaching, Dec. 24; Q. C., Feb. 1.
Chester, at Nebo, Dec. 30, 31.
Ackerman and Wier, at Wier, Dec. 31, Jan. 1.
Kosclusko ct., at East Union, Jan. 6.
Kosciusko sta., Jan. 7, a.m.
McCool, at Bowie's, Jan. 7, 8.
Macon ct., at ———, Jan. 13, 14.
Crawford and Shafers, at Crawford, Jan. 14, 15.
Mashulaville, at Mashulaville, Jan. 20, 21.
Shuqualak, at Shuqualak, Jan. 21, 22.
High Point, at White Hall, Jan. 27.
Loulsville, Jan. 28, a.m.
Noxapater, at Noxapater, Jan. 28, 29.
Starkville, Feb. 4, a.m.
Ethel, at Ethel, Feb. 4, 5.
Sturgis, at Sturgis, Feb. 10, 11.
Cedar Bluff, at Cedar Bluff, Feb. 17, 18.
Mayhew and Sessums, at Sessums, Feb. 25, 26.

A. T. McILWAIN, P. E.

Corinth District—First Round.

Wheeler ct., at Wheeler, Dec. 30, 31, a.m.
Potts Camp, at P. C., Jan. 3.
Hickory Flat, at H. F., Jan. 4.
Myrtle, at Myrtle, Jan. 5.
Mooreville ct., at Allen's Chapel, Jan. 6, 7.
Mantachie ct., at Shiloh, Jan. 9.
Marietta ct., at Marietta, Jan. 10.
Rienzi ct., at Rienzi, Jan. 11.
Chalybeate ct., at Camp Ground, Jan. 12.
Ripley sta., Jan. 12, 14, night.
Silver Springs ct., at Mt. Carmel, Jan. 13, 14.
Great State Conference on Evangelism, for all pastors and church officials, to be held at Jackson, Miss., Jan. 16 and 17.
Burnsville ct., at Hebron, Jan. 19.
Iuka ct., at Snow Down, Jan. 20, 21.
Iuka sta., Jan 21, p.m.; Jan. 22, a.m.

All pastors of the Corinth District are called to meet the presiding elder in Corinth for special conference, Tuesday and Wednesday, Jan. 23 and 24.

Paden ct., at Westt Side, Jan. 26.
Belmont ct., at Golden, Jan. 27.
Tishomingo ct., at Tishomingo, Jan. 28, 29.

J. B. RANDOLPH, P. E.

Methodist Benevolent Association
Gives Southern Methodist Men and Women Safe
LIFE INSURANCE AT ACTUAL COST
J. M. SHUMAKER, Sec'y
810 Broadway Nashville, Tenn.

TETTERINE
DRIVES AWAY PIMPLES
and leaves your skin soft and spotless
60c at your Druggist's, or from The
SHUPTRINE CO., SAVANNAH, GA.

Greenwood Dist.—First Round.

Moorehead, Dec. 31, a.m.
Indianola, Dec. 31, p.m.
Inverness, at Inverness, Jan. 7, a.m.
Belzoni, Jan. 7, p.m.
Tutwiler, at Tutwiler, Jan. 14, a.m.
Drew, at Drew, Jan. 14, p.m.
Great Rally for Home Missions and Evangelism at Jackson, Jan. 16 and 17, five laymen from each charge, and every pastor in the district to attend.
Swift, at Morgan, Jan. 10, the pastor to set the hour.
Webb, at Webb, Jan. 21, a.m.
Minter City, at Minter City, Jan. 21, at 3 p.m.
Schlater, at Schlater, Jan. 24, p.m.
Tchula, Jan. 28, a.m.
Sidon and Cruger, at Sidon, Jan. 28, p.m.
Sunflower, at Sunflower, Feb. 4, a.m.
Ruleville, at Doddsville, Feb. 4, 3 p.m.

S. L. POPE, P. E.

Grenada Dist.—First Round.

Coffeeville ct., at Coffeeville, Dec. 24, Jan. 10.
Sallis ct., at Sallis, Dec. 30, 31.
Holcomb ct., at Holcomb, Jan. 7.
Poplar Creek ct., at Shiloh, Jan. 13.
Tie Plant ct., at T. P., Jan. 14.
Duck Hill ct., at Duck Hill, Jan. 14, 15.
Winona sta., Jan. 21, a.m.; Jan. 22, p.m.
Kilmichael ct., at Kilmichael, Jan. 21, p.m.; Jan. 22, a.m.
Waterford ct., at Waterford, Jan. 26.
Ashland ct., at Ashland, Jan. 27.
Lamar ct., at Lamar, Jan. 28.
Paris ct., at Paris, Feb. 3.
Abbeville ct., at Abbeville, Feb. 4.
Lexington, Feb. 9, 11.
Ebenezer ct., at Hebron, Feb. 10.
District stewards' meeting at Grenada, Dec. 7, at 2 o'clock p.m.

R. A. TUCKER, P. E.

Greenville Dist.—First Round.

Lake Cormorant and R., at Hollywood, Dec. 31, a.m.
Clarksdale, Dec. 31, p.m.
Friars Point and Bobo, at Bobo, Jan. 7, a.m.
Shelby, Jan. 7, p.m.
District Stewards meet at Shaw, Jan. 8, 2 p.m.
Cleveland, Jan. 10, p.m.
Gunnison and Sherard, at Gunnison, Jan. 14, a.m.
Rosedale and Hillhouse, at Rosedale, Jan. 14, p.m.
Laymen and Pastors meet at Jackson, Jan. 16, 17.
Glen Allan and Benoit, at Benoit, Jan. 21, a.m.
Glen Allan and Benoit, at Glen Allan, Jan. 21, p.m.
Hollandale and Arcola, at Hollandale, Jan. 28, a.m.
Leland, Jan. 28, p.m.
Greenville, Jan. 31, p.m.
Jnestown and Duncan, at Jonestown, Feb. 4, a.m.
Jonestown and Duncan, at Jonestown, Feb. 4, p.m.
Boyle and Pace, at Boyle, Feb. 11, a.m.
Boyle circuit, at New Salem, Feb. 11, 3 p.m.

The mass meeting at Jackson, Jan. 16, 17, is of sufficient importance to provoke a record attendance from this territory. Make your plans NOW, brethren. It will be the best money and time you have ever invested for your church. The district stewards' meeting at Shaw should have the individual attention of every district steward. Due personal notice will be given later. The Shaw quarterly conference will be held in connection with the district stewards' meet. District Conference at Jonestown, May 8-11. In arranging your meetings, brethren, give this fact due attention.

JAMES H. FELTS, P. E.

Sardis District—First Round.

Como, 11 a.m., Dec. 24; Q. C., evening, Dec. 12.
Coldwater, evening, Dec. 24; Q. C., evening, Dec. 11.
Shuford, at Eureka, Dec. 30; preaching and Q. C., 11 a.m.
Courtland, at Courtland, Dec. 31; Q. C. in afternoon.
Crenshaw, at Sledge, Feb. 4.
Cockrum, at Palestine, 11 a.m., Jan. 6.
Pleasant Hill, at P. H., 11 a.m., Jan. 7.
Horn Lake, at H. L., preaching, p.m., Jan. 7; Q. C., 11 a.m., Jan. 8.
Sardis ct., at Terza, 11 a.m., Jan. 10.
Longtown, at Longtown, 11 a.m., Jan. 11.
Arkabutla, at Hunter's Chapel, 11 a.m., Jan. 12.
Crowder, at Crowder, evening, Jan. 14.
Mt. Pleasant, at M. P., Jan. 20, 21.
Tyro, at Free Springs, Jan. 27, 28.
District Preachers' Meeting, at Sardis, Jan. 23-24, beginning at 11 a.m., Jan. 23.
District Conference, at Senatobia, May 15-17.

J. TILLERY LEWIS, P. E.

Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic
Destroys Malarial Germs in the Blood. 60c

YOU OWE IT TO YOUR CHILDREN - TO YOUR FAMILY TO SEE THAT THEY GET THE MOST NUTRITIOUS WHOLESOME BAKINGS.

Don't take the chance of sacrificing quality, economy and food value by using self-rising flour mixtures. They are only substitutes for good plain flour and good baking powder.

The best baking results are obtained from good baking powder and plain flour. The results are far better than from self-rising flour.

There is no substitute for good baking powder and plain flour.

Economy does not necessarily mean cheapness of price, nor does it mean the easiest way. In these times the greatest care should be used in determining between true economy and the sham of mere cheapness because there are so many preparations and substitutes in the way of leavening agents on the market.

For best results use—
Calumet Baking Powder
and a good plain flour.

FINE MEETING AT BOYLE, MISS.

Following is a brief report of a two weeks' meeting held in Methodist church, of Boyle, Miss., which closed Sunday night, December 10:

1. Twenty-two forceful and effective sermons by Rev. John W. Robertson, Conference Missionary Evangelist, Rosedale, Miss.

2. Entire church membership thoroughly aroused and revived.

3. Several reclamations.

4. Two additions to membership and five or six prospective additions.

5. Flying Squadron of thirty members volunteered for service in reclaiming and organizing outlying community churches. The flying squadron has had its initial meeting and elected the following officers: C. E. Young, Chairman; Dr. S. B. Farmer, Vice Chairman; D. H. Adams, Secretary and Treasurer, and E. H. Foster, Corresponding Secretary. The squadron has the advantage of a male quartet and an orchestra among its membership. This fact, coupled with the fact that the District Lay Leader lives in Boyle and is constantly in need of volunteer workers, to whom the squadron has offered its services and co-operation, will make the work of the Lay Leader easier and put the Methodist church of Boyle on the map for usefulness in the Master's Vineyard. Fraternally yours,

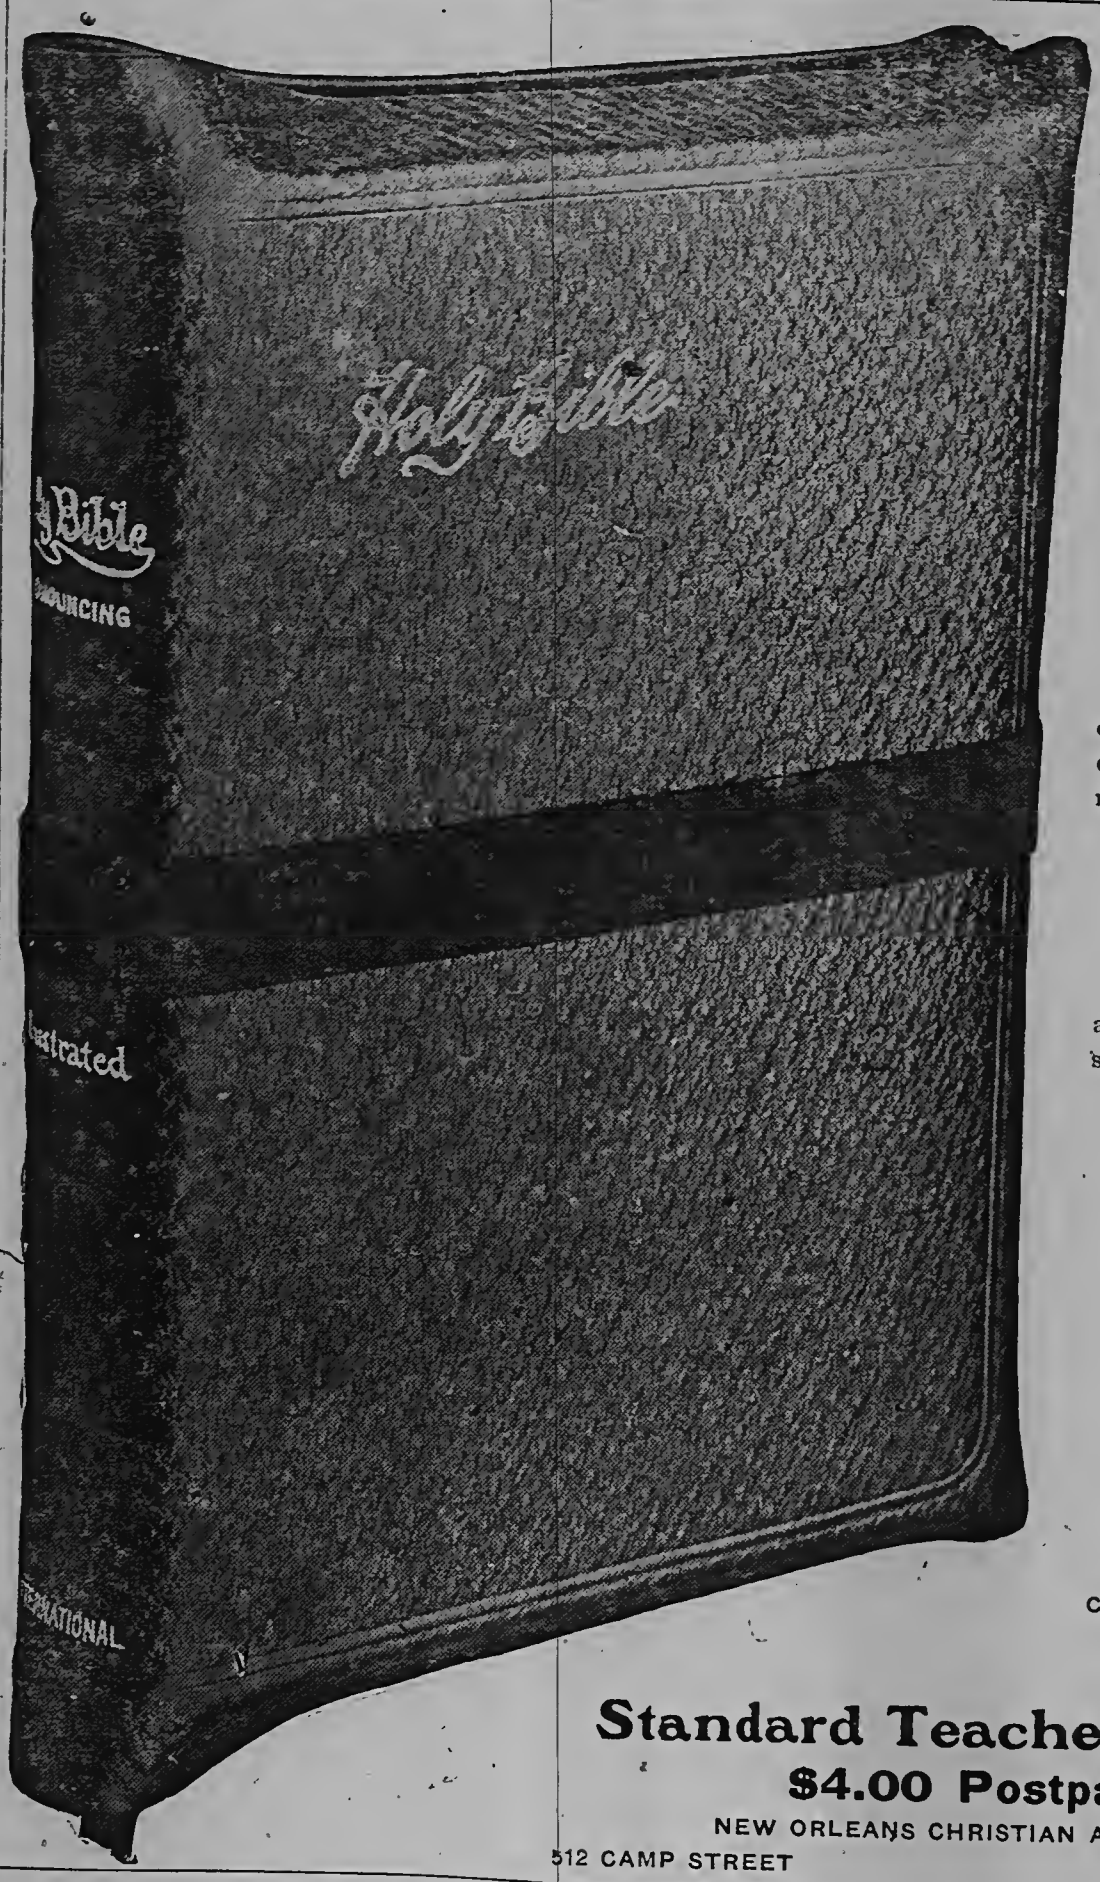
Signed by: W. W. Hartsfield, P. C.; S. V. Wall, District Lay Leader.

A BANKER ACCEPTS CHRIST.

Rev. A. W. Wasson speaks of Mr. Sherwood Eddy's visit to Songdo, and one of the results: "Two weeks ago, Dr. Sherwood Eddy spent two days in this city, greatly to the benefit of the work. Among the persons who remained for the after service at the close of the night meeting was a prominent Korean banker who, for some years, has been kindly disposed towards the Christian movcment hut who had not accepted Christ. After a few minutes conversation, in which he expressed his sympathy with Christianity hut at the same time stated quite frankly the obstacles in the way of his becoming a Christian, he was invited to a personal interview with Dr. Eddy at our home the next morning. At the appointed hour he came; Rev. J. S. Ryang interpreted. The banker stated again quite clearly and frankly and earnestly the intellectual difficultics in the way of his faith and also his shrinking from the opposition he would meet if he became a Christian. Without any evasion and with great ability Dr. Eddy faced and removed the intellectual difficulties and then pressed upon the man's conscience the duty of enduring the hardships incident to being a Christian in Korea, and appealed for an immediate decision. For some time the decision seemed to hang in the balance. Dr. Eddy said: "There are four of us in this room whom you can see. A fifth person is present whom you cannot see. As my words enter your ears this fifth person, the unseen Christ, is saying in your heart, 'They are true. You ought to be a Christian. You ought to he a Christian now.' After a brief silence, during which I have no douht the living Christ kept pleading with him, the strong man held out his hand and said, 'I will.'"—Bulletin.

THIS GIRL IS A WONDER.

Do you want more money than you ever possessed? If so, learn to make nut and fruit bonbons. The business will net you $90.00 to $300.00 per month. You can work from your own home. All who sample your bonbons become regular customers. Mary Elizabeth started her candy kitchen with $5.00 and has made a fortune. Cannot you do likewise? I will tell you all about the business. Now is the psychological time to make big money. Write today. Isabelle Inez, 526-B Morewood Building, Pittsburgh, Pa.—Adv.



Standard Teachers' Bible

FLEXIBLE
LEATHER BINDING
5½ x 8½ inches

SELF-PRONOUNCING EDITION WITH

Concordance

Beautifully Bound with overlapping cover, red under gold edges; 16 colored maps of BIBLE Lands.

LARGE CLEAR PRINT

Thls is a handsome book and ls sold at a very reasonable price.

Price, $4.00

POSTPAID

SEND ORDERS
TO
NEW ORLEANS
CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE

Standard Teachers' Bible
$4.00 Postpaid
NEW ORLEANS CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE
512 CAMP STREET NEW ORLEANS, LA.

666 is a prescription for Colds, Fever and LaGrippe. It's the most speedy remedy we know.

You find pourself refreshed by the presence of cheerful people; why not make earnest efforts to confer that pleasure on others? You will find half the batle is gained if you will never allow yourself to say anything gloomy.—Lydia M. Child.

REV. AND MRS. T. B. COTTRELL WELCOMED BACK TO GIBSON MEMORIAL.

(Continued From Page 13.)

laughter and talk we were delightfully entertained with readings given hy Miss Ruth Peek, Miss Eloise Cunningham and Mrs. L. C. Prothro, also duets by Mrs. Z. D. Clark and Miss Mary Lee Parker.

Delicious refresnments were served after which "Onward Christian Soldiers," and "Blest be the Tie," was sung by all.

Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Cottrell made beautiful and appropriate remarks of appreciation.

Amid words of loving appreciation for their return to us and good wishes for a better Conference year than ever before and pledging our support both in service and finances, good nights were said.

All enjoyed the delightful evening and we felt our coming together has drawn us nearer each other.

We are determined to he more faithful and loyal to our pastor and the cause of Christ and we know from the past we can depend on our loved pastor and his equally loved wife for their love, prayers and help.—Vicksburg Post.

Dicks' Antiseptic
Kills Germs

For Cuts, Wounds and Burns. Especially fine for mouth diseases, pyorrhoea and sore throat.

25 CTS.

NEW ORLEANS

CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE

Vol. 69—No. 52. Official Organ of the Louisiana, Mississippi, and North Mississippi Conferences, Methodist Episcopal Church, South. Whole No. 3190.

HENRY T. CARLEY, Editor. NEW ORLEANS, LA., THURSDAY, DECEMBER 28, 1922. CHAS. O. CHALMERS, Manager.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

POSITIVE PREACHING.

We can make no greater wish for the church for the incoming year than that its ministry give itself to the positive and constructve preaching of the fundamental doctrines of Christianity. As the New York Christian Advocate says editorially in a recent issue, there never was a time when the temptation to deal with all life on the negative side was stronger than it is to-day. The tragedy of yielding to this temptation lies in the fact that negative preaching gets nowhere. It is well, of course, to point out the sins and evils of the age in which we live, and to denounce them with all the vigor and earnestness of the prophets of old; but the world needs a remedy for sin, and that remedy is to be found—and found alone—in the gospel of Jesus Christ. The way to get rid of darkness is to turn on the light; and the best way yet revealed to convict the world of sin, and of righteousness, and of judgment, is to proclaim with the "accent of authority" the doctrines that have been the central feature of every great evangelistic movement in the history of the Christian church—and those doctrines all center in the Person and teachings of Christ. It will be well for us to meditate long and deeply on those words of the Master, "And I, if I be lifted up, will draw all men unto me." Our gospel is able to save the world—if we will only preach it.

THE PATHOS OF CHRISTMAS.

Christmas is a season of joy; yet it is not a season of joy for everybody. A New Orleans newspaper has been calling attention to some of the "neediest cases" in the city, and it cites this one: "There is no one to look after her, no relative to care for her in her old age. She is 82 years old, without friends or relatives, and lives alone in one little room. That room is bare and squalid, and without heat. A bed and one rickety chair—these are the only aricles of furniture. She has not even a table, or a mirror. Her personal effects consist of barely enough clothing to keep her warm. Charity has given her food enough to keep hunger away; but she needs other things—clothing, a little furniture, the common necessities of life, things to make her more comfortable as she sits there in the twilight, waiting for the end, or the dawn of a happier day." We would not say one word that would detract from the joy of those who have friends, kindred, all the comforts and many of the luxuries of life at this season; but would it not make us all happier to share our good fortune with some forlorn and forgotten one who, otherwise, will not know that the Christmas spirit is one of good cheer? Christ himself came not to be ministered unto, but to minister—and we best represent him by following his example.

THE END OF IT ALL.

The church is now calling upon its membership to meet in full the obligations assumed by it in the two great movements that have so largely held its interest during the past quadrennium—the Centenary Movement and the Christian Education Movement. So urgent is the need of the Centenary funds that the College of Bishops, at its recent meeting in New Orleans, issued a special message in connection with this matter, in which it called upon all the forces of the church to cooperate in bringing the collections up to date. It is just possible that some of our people, having in mind the Centenary obligations, the Christian Education pledges, the approaching call in behalf of our superannuated preachers, and the demands upon them to meet the current expenses of the local congregations, may feel that the church is concerned primarily with the collection of money and that it is neglecting its main business of evangelism. Of such, if there be any, we call attention to the fact that evangelism, in its broadest and best sense, is the end of the collection of all this money. We do not hesitate to affirm that all the great Boards of the church are committed to evangelism as their chief end, and that the collection of money is merely a means to that end. The church has no use for money simply as money—it values it only as it can apply it to the great work of establishing, extending, and maintaining the Kingdom of God upon earth. It is a blessed thing for some of us that the church stands ready to make our dollars count in the evangelization of the world for, otherwise, we would have very little part in the accomplishment of that glorious task. Do you think evangelism is the chief business of the church? Then pay your Centenary pledges, that the church may carry on that business.

PAY YOUR POLL TAX.

Since, in Louisiana, the right to vote is conditioned upon the payment of the poll tax for the two years preceding the year of election, and since failure to pay the tax in 1922 and 1923 will disfranchise the citizen in 1924, when all the important municipal, State, and National elections are to be held, we feel that it is worth while to call attention to the importance of paying the poll-tax this year. We may be sure that those who have selfish and personal interests to serve will not fail to qualify; all the more should Christian men and women be prepared to cast their ballots on the side of public morality, public education, and every issue involving the fundamentals in our social organization. Citizens of Louisiana, if you have not already paid your poll tax for this year, do not fail to do so within the few days remaining.

SECTARIANISM WITH A VENGEANCE.

The Texas Christian Advocate recently commented on certain resolutions adopted by the Baptist State Convention, held in Waco, Texas, not long since, as those resolutions were reported in the secular press. These resolutions are so manifestly sectarian that we give them, as quoted in the Texas Advocate, that our readers may see the type of theological bigotry the world has to contend with in some sections at least of the South: "Third, that we record our profound gratitude to God for His signal and manifest blessings on our labors in the campaign thus far, and that with singing hearts we go on winning the lost, building the kingdom of Christ, teaching the ignorant and healing the sick, until we put a glorious Baptist crown on the head of our Lord and Savior, Jesus Christ." We join with all Christian people in rejoicing over the success that the Baptists are meeting with in the work of saving the lost and building up the kingdom of God; but we have scant patience with the assumption of a superior virtue that would make even the Christ a denominational Lord. If the language of the resolutions is not actually blasphemous, it is at least an expression of sectarianism that is strangely out of joint with the times which require comity among all Christian forces. So far as we are concerned, we prefer to worship a Christ who is "Lord of all."

POOR BUSINESS FOR A GOVERNOR.

According to newspaper reports, Governor John M. Parker is spending a good deal of time nowadays in denouncing the Ku Klux Klan and in declaring that the prohibition law is a farce. We hold no brief for the Klan, though we have seen no indication of the widespread demoralization the Governor is reported to have declared exists in Louisiana. But we do hold a brief for the Constitution of the United States—as does every other law-abiding citizen in the land—and we think the Governor is engaged in a mighty poor business if he is, as the press reports say, declaring that that section of the Constitution which provides for national prohibition is a farcical provision, or, which amounts to the same thing, that its enforcement is farcical. This country needs some men of high position politically and otherwise, who will stand flat-footed for the enforcement of all law without excuse or palliation for its violators. About the least that could be expected of a Governor is that he should take and maintain such position.

From strength to strength go on!
Wrestle and fight and pray!
Tread all the Powers of Darkness down,
And win the well-fought day.

—Wesley.

New Orleans Christian Advocate

OFFICE, No. 512 CAMP STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

Published every Thursday by the Publishing Committee for the Louisiana, Mississippi, and North Mississippi Conferences, Methodist Episcopal Church, South.

Entered at the Postoffice at New Orleans as Second-class Mail Matter. Accepted for mailing at special rate of postage provided for in Section 1103, Act of Oct. 3, 1917, authorized Oct. 30, 1918.

TERMS:

Subscription Rates: One year, $2.00; six months, $1.
To superannuates and widows of preachers, $1.

TO CONTRIBUTORS.

All copy submitted for publication should be legibly written on one side of the paper with pen and ink, or typewritten. Matters written with a lead pencil and rolled manuscripts are unacceptable. No copy will be returned unless postage is enclosed for that purpose. In no case will responsibility be assumed for the loss or non-return of articles—the writers should keep copies of them. We do not purchase matter of any kind.

A CHRISTMAS PRAYER.

Lord, give me a spirit like Thine:
A spirit that is unselfish;
A spirit that is patient;
A spirit that is forgiving;
A spirit that is kind;
A spirit that is true;
A spirit that is courageous;
A spirit that is gentle;
A spirit that is sweet;
A spirit that is tender;
And a heart that is ever filled with praise.
In Thy name I ask it. Amen.

A MINISTER'S DAUGHTER.

THE BISHOPS' MEETING.

By Bishop W. F. McMurry.

The fall meeting of the College of Bishops met in the Rayne Memorial Church, Rev. W. L. Duren, D.D., pastor, New Orleans, La., on Friday morning, December 8, 1922, at 9:30 o'clock, and adjourned Sunday, December 10, 1922, at 6 o'clock p.m. Three sessions were held on Friday, three on Saturday, and one Sunday afternoon. I am sure every bishop present felt that a mistake had been made in trying to crowd the business into two working days. The law provides that "The College of Bishops shall hold semi-annual meetings of not less than three days' time, and as much longer as the work may require." There has been in the past some disposition on the part of a few of the bishops to feel that the General Conference was wrong in requiring a fall meeting. But I do not believe any one who participated in the proceedings of the meeting in New Orleans will hold any such views in the future.

There were present at the opening, Bishops Candler, Denny, Murrah, Mouzon, Beauchamp, Dobbs, Dickey, and McMurry. Bishop Cannon came in at 11:15 o'clock, and Bishop Moore arrived at noon, he having been detained by the illness of Mrs. Moore. Bishop Darlington missed his connections twice on account of a train wreck, and abandoned the trip. Bishops Ainsworth, Atkins, and DuBose were absent. The superannuated bishops, Hendrix and Waterhouse, were not present.

The meeting was saddened by the newspaper report, followed by telegraphic advices, of the serious accident and subsequent death of Bishop R. G. Waterhouse, in Knoxville, Tenn., on Saturday, the ninth. Bishop Waterhouse was honored by all his colleagues and his sudden and violent taking away produced a feeling of sadness and of loneliness. Bishop Atkins was requested to represent the bishops at the funeral on Monday, the 11th, it not being possible for others to reach the place of burial in time to participate in the sacred ceremonies.

Bishop Candler, under what may be called the rule of seniority, was in the chair. It seems to have been the custom for the senior active bishop to preside over the deliberations of the College from the beginning. If Bishop Candler should claim the office as a right, I am of the opinion that the present College would not grant it. He is a good presiding officer, and highly esteemed by his colleagues, and, so far as I know, his presidency is satisfactory to every one of them. If in the unfolding of time some man should come to the chairmanship by the seniority route who would not be satisfactory to his brethren, I give it as my opinion and mine alone, that by formal action a chairman would be elected, or a rule adopted providing for rotation in presidency, as practiced at the General Conference.

The preachers of New Orleans entertained the bishops and a few laymen each day at luncheon in the hotel. These were pleasant occasions. Informal speech-making was indulged in. Good fellowship had right-of-way. The bishops were entertained in the homes of the Methodists of New Orleans, and, speaking for myself, I found it quite refreshing to be the guest of such a lovely Christian home as that of Dr. and Mrs. Paul H. Saunders.

The morning and afternoon sessions of the first day were given up largely to the reports of the bishops, each going somewhat into detail concerning conditions in his Episcopal District, and calling attention to the unusual in matters of administration. The reports revealed a healthy state of affairs throughout the church. The increase in membership is quite satisfactory. The support of the ministry is very much better than in the past. Building enterprises are proceeding with dispatch. There is peace and harmony within our borders.

No bishop had a question of law to submit. This indicates a state of mind that is quite satisfactory. In times of turmoil, disturbances, discussions, and divisions, points of order and questions of law for decision are numerous.

A large part of one session was given to the discussion of matters of administration, "to provide as far as possible a uniform policy of administration so as to secure true leadership." It is amazing how many things can arise in an Annual Conference and in the administration of the law of the church calculated to perplex. One charged with this responsibility finds great satisfaction in discussing problems of administration freely and fully with others who have like responsibilities. This was the most satisfactory meeting of the College of Bishops in this respect that I ever attended. It was not to be expected that there would be full agreement on every question raised. But it is remarkable to what extent brethren see eye to eye when all the facts are placed before them, and in such way as to permit them to see all sides of these facts. I predict a more uniform and satisfactory direction of the business of the church as a result of this discussion. I am sorry for the brethren who were absent and could not participate in the discussions and hear the conclusions reached.

The Centenary was brought before us by a communication from Rev. W. G. Cram, D. D., Directing Secretary. A meeting of the Executive Committee of the Centenary Commission had just been held, and the exact financial situation was therefore in hand. It was stated, without hesitation, that four million dollars would be needed to finish up the work of 1922 and take care of the first quarter of 1923. The discussion brought out the fact that the Foreign Department of the Board of Missions had been under the necessity of borrowing heavily, and that word had gone forth on the authority of the Executive Committee of that Board that building operations must halt in the foreign field until more funds are in hand. The situation was thoroughly discussed and there was unanimous agreement on the following points:

1. The primary and pressing task before the church at this time is to secure the payment of overdue pledges on the Centenary, and that no other financial interest of the church, not even the Near East Relief, should be permitted to interfere with this work.

2. This must be done not only because of the necessity of having the funds to carry out the program of the church in the fields at home and in the regions beyond, but to prepare the church for the privilege and duty of paying the obligations of the Christian Education Movement.

The bishops prepared an address to the church on the subject of the Centenary, and on that alone, thus giving emphasis to their view of the importance of doing this work at once. In this address record is made of the conviction that the bishops in charge of work in the foreign fields should remain at home, and those now absent called home, so as to give every possible effort to the collection of Centenary pledges. It was respectfully suggested to the Executive Committee of the Board of Missions that all Missionary Secretaries should actively participate in this campaign to collect these funds, and to the exclusion of everything else, except the imperative duties of administration.

A communication was received from the Secretary of the new Board of Lay Activities, and suitable reply was made to same, and in this reply the attention of the laymen was directed to the fact that there could be no higher duty or more important service at this time than the completion of the Centenary program.

Dr. A. J. Lamar, of the Publishing House, representing Lamar & Barton, appeared before the bishops, bringing information and raising the questions of interest concerning the cause he represents.

Bishops Mouzon and Denny were appointed to arrange for the spring meeting of 1923.

The Committee on Course of Study, consisting of Bishops Moore, DuBose, and Dickey, were instructed to submit suggestions to their colleagues by mail for the post-graduate course of reading.

Bishop Candler was named to prepare the memoir for Bishop Kilgo, and Bishop Mouzon for Bishop Waterhouse, these memoirs to be read and become a part of the records of our spring meeting.

I believe the following provision, in Paragraph 129 of the Discipline of 1922, is a wise one: "The College of Bishops shall hold semi-annual meetings of not less than three days' time, and as much longer as the work may require; to survey and consider all the work of the church at large; to plan and suggest new and needed enterprises in any part of the field; to provide, as far as possible, a uniform policy of administration, so as to secure true church leadership." I would no more think of being absent from this meeting than I would of remaining away from an Annual Conference to which I had been assigned. It would take the same providential interference to keep me away from one as from the other. Such meetings are necessary if our plan of general superintendency is to survive.

The pastors of New Orleans, headed by Dr. Duren, pastor of the church where the meetings were held, were kind, attentive, gracious and considerate. So far as I have observed, the bishops have never had better entertainment, or a more satisfactory meeting, and they have never separated for their several tasks with a feeling of greater encouragement and hopefulness for the church.

On Sunday the pulpits of New Orleans were occupied by the visiting bishops, and the late trains Sunday night carried most of them out of the city to other duties and other places.

What is set down above is on my own responsibility, and at the request of the Editor, and is intended in no sense to supercede or take the place of the official report which the law requires, and which will be made by the Secretary, Bishop Denny.—St. Louis Christian Advocate.

St. Louis, Mo.

If Ye Abide: If ye abide in me, and my words abide in you, ye shall ask what ye will, and it shall be done unto you.—John 15:7.

He Shall Not Fail: Behold my servant, whom I uphold; mine elect, in whom my soul delighteth; I have put my Spirit upon him: he shall bring forth judgment to the Gentiles.  He shall not fail nor be discouraged, till he hath set judgment in the earth: and the isle shall wait for his law.—Isaiah 42:1, 4.

A SUPERANNUATE LOVES THE NEW ORLEANS CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE.

By Rev. T. W. Adams.

(Editor's Note—A few days ago we received this letter from Mrs. Lera Adams Toler, of Brookhaven, Miss.:

"Dear Brother Carley: I found this letter to the Advocate already stamped and addressed when looking over father's papers to-day, so I am sending it on to you. I know you will appreciate the subject of his last letter."

We do greatly appreciate it—not only for its kindly personal references, but also for its estimate of the value of the Advocate as a church organ. Brother Adams was devoted to the church and all of its institutions.)

Of course, I love the New Orleans Christian Advocate. There are many reasons why I do love it. I can think of no reason why I should not. It is an easy thing to love anything that is lovable. I love the editor and all of his editorials. The editor's father, the Rev. Lyman Carley, was in my district when I was on the Brookhaven District, and I fell in love with all of the family. Everybody in the home treated me so graciously that they won my heart. It is true, Henry was not at home, having a home of his own. It was during my incumbency of the Brookhaven District that he was transferred to the Louisiana Conference. Lyman Carley, the editor's father, was a wide reader and a close, critical student. I have spent many pleasant hours in his home, examining books and high-class magazine literature. I enjoyed the crossing of words with him on our differences and was made stronger by it. I was considerably more literalistic in my conceptions and interpretations of matters than he was. There is a little tincture of the mystic in me, inherited from the Welsh, through my mother, but it is not strong enough to enmesh me in my perigrinations in the fields of uncharted mysticism. I turned that field largely over to Brother Carley. Metaphysics has no special charm for me.

I love the editor of the Advocate so much that I was disturbed when I heard that there was something the matter with him. I didn't know that he was not thoroughly well until the diagnosticians at Jackson discovered that there was some taint or twist in his theology and proceeded to doctor him forthwith. I hope the treatment that was given my friend will get all the infection out of his system. I presume this was done under Aleck Watkins' direction. I had never heard that Millsaps College had a theological hospital. I hope Aleck will let me know if there should be any return of Carley's trouble. If it should break out on him again, I'll take him down to Shiloh and have a good old time Methodist revival. That is a specific for theological diseases.

I greatly love the Advocate for we are of the same age. We will both be seventy-three years old next year. We have both been living a long time. We know all about hard times. We know more about lean years than about fat ones. We have both been very diligent and punctual in caring about our jobs. Sometimes it has seemed that nobody cared whether we lived or died. Most of the time we could not run—a walk was the best we could do and it was a dreadfully slow walk at that. No good Samaritan ever came along to give us a helping hand.

I love the Advocate for its great devotion to its business. The Conferences said: "Go every week into our church homes, and cheer and stimulate and strengthen all of our Methodist people. Make your own living, as you go. Be sure that you don't take any advertisements to pay your way." I have been watching your struggle, Advocate, as you have been thus handicapped. I have noticed that the sharpest critics you have had on the advertisement matter have been the most inactive supporters you had. I have been almost tempted to get mad at such manifestations of unfairness. If I had not been a St. John type of character, I am sure I would have completely lost my temper. I think you have done wonderfully well to keep going in spite of all this apathy and sharp criticism. I love you because you have made an heroic fight to keep your head above the whirling waves. I love heroism whenever and wherever I see it. I love you because I have been up against things myself. "A fellow feeling makes one wondrous kind." You have the better of me now, however, for money can repair you, while I am beyond the hope of repairs.

I love the Advocate, for it has been the most regular and faithful visitor I have ever had. It pays me a visit every week. It comes regardless of every untoward circumstance. If the weather is good, it comes; if the weather is bad, it comes. Its faithfulness is admirable. It has kept up these weekly visits to me for nearly forty-eight years. It has never grown weary all these years. It never wastes my time by chatting of mischievous and trifling things. It always comes to entertain and instruct in a large way. It informs me of important happenings in far-away lands. It informs me of the great movements in the Kingdom of God. Messages come from Europe, South Africa, South America, Asia, Japan, Mexico and other fields where we are working to save those who are lost. It informs me of what is being done in our home fields. The Advocate brings the tidings of world movements of every kind. I look often impatiently for its coming every Thursday morning. When it reaches me I lay aside everything and shut myself up to a careful examination of its pages. I generally run over, first of all, the "personals." I want to know what is happening to my brethren. Then I am ready to take things as they come. I even read the Quarterly Conference Rounds. I follow the presiding elders, whom I specially love, in their quarterly perigrinations. I try to imagine what kind of appeals they are making, and what kind of plans they are projecting to help on the Kingdom. I confess, Henry, that I don't read the advertisements. I don't object to them as long as you need money to keep the Advocate going. Please excuse me from reading them—I just don't want anything they have to sell. I haven't the money to pay for anything, even if I wanted it. Don't let anybody think an old superannuate has a purse even; if he had one, there would be no money in it.

I love the Advocate because it tells me all about the plans and work of our young people in the Epworth Leagues and in the Sunday schools. I hope I'll never get so old that I'll lose love for and interest in the young life of the church. The Sunday school is recognized in a fairly good way, but we have been playing with Epworth League interests. It is an indispensable part of our work. We ought to be ashamed of the way we have dealt with this vital part of our machinery. Let the Advocate shout out a clarion call to the pastors in behalf of it.

I have been giving unusually close study to the last issue of the Advocate. It is one of the best numbers of the paper I have seen lately. The article by Bishop Candler is a noteworthy discussion of the situation in the Near East. I advise every reader of the Advocate to give it careful and thoughtful reading. "The Guidance of Life," by F. C. Hoggarth is a discriminating and beautiful tribute to a wonderful man. It did me much good to read it. The article on the third page, taken from the Moody Bible Institute Monthly, should be read by every preacher, especially the younger ones. It is full of stimulating and helpful suggestions to preachers. It deserves thoughtful and earnest reading. I take an increasing pleasure in reading "Safety Signals." Brother Davies gives me real pleasure in these stray thoughts in such beautiful dress. I have wondered if every reader of the Advocate catches a gleam of light, coming from these nuggets of gold. Let every Advocate subscriber read the issue of November 16 thoroughly and prayerfully. I am sure he will become more deeply interested in the wider circulation of his Conference Organ.

If the Advocate were not my Conference organ and I felt in duty bound to read it, I would read it because of its real worth as a church periodical, furnishing what I needed to enrich and enlarge my intellectual life. It has a list of contributors of high standing and large vision. Bishop Candler's articles alone are worth far more than the cost of the paper.

DR. MARTIN LUTHER SEXTON—AN APPRECIATION.

By Rev. R. H. Harper.

It is said by those who knew the early environment of Dr. Luther Sexton that his achievements in life were little short of marvelous. He was born October 7, 1858, in Copiah County, Mississippi. His father died when he was but two years of age, and he suffered all the privations of poverty in a country impoverished by the Civil War. Notwithstanding he rose to the highest place in his chosen profesion, as a citizen of a great city, and as a benefactor to many.

After his father's death what little fortune the family had was swept away by the war. His mother, believing that she could do better in the country with her family of five sons, removed from Crystal Springs, Miss., to a little home in the country which her husband had provided, but which was still involved. There in a little log cabin, in the midst of war and the most distressing circumstances, the earliest days of Dr. Luther Sexton were spent. The eldest son, John F. Sexton, went to the army before he was eighteen, and of the rest of the family only the mother had had any experience in farming. But the mother paid every dollaar of indebtedness on the place, gave the two eldest sons the best opportunities possible under the conditions, gave the three youngest the best education that the country schools could supply, and afterward gave them the benefit of college training, leading to a professional degree. How this was done, by her own labors and theirs, still remains a mystery to members of the family.

Dr. Sexton finished at the University of Mississippi with the coveted honor of his class and was easily one of the brightest students of that institution. He afterwards entered Tulane Medical School, from which he was graduated with first honor as the valedictorian of his class. His valedictory address attracted wide attention and made a great impression. He was then selected as an interne in Charity Hospital, New Orleans, and remained there two years. He left there thoroughly equipped for his profession.

He practiced first in partnership with Dr. George Purnell, a leading physician of Hazlehurst, Miss. Soon, recommended by one of the greatest surgeons of the South and a member of the Tulane faculty, Dr. T. G. Richardson, he was elected surgeon of the Mississippi Mills. During his work there of several years he was elected President of the State Medical Association of Mississippi. It is probable that he was the youngest man to that time ever elected to the office. He was selected by the Government, during a yellow fever scourge in Louisiana and Mississippi, to take charge of a quarantine station near Vicksburg. He also had charge during one of the most virulent epidemics of smallpox Mississippi ever suffered and he himself visited hundreds of cases and buried some of the victims with his own hands. Through all those trying scenes he gave no thought to his personal safety, and fear was alien to his nature. Dr. Sexton later moved to the city of New Orleans, a center of the healing art favorably known over the whole country, to accept the offer of a place on the faculty of Tulane Medical and to engage in general practice in the city, and he resided there until his death, rising to a high place as a physician and as a citizen.

Much has recently been written in the press of his generosity and philanthropy, more than his family would have desired, and the amount of his wealth was greatly exaggerated. He was never a very wealthy man. But he early learned to make and to save and to give. While he lived comfortably, he lived without the ostentation of wealth and did not give himself to "softness or needless self-indulgence." He lived simply that he might give unto others. Of his earliest benefactions the writer can not speak with certainty, but during the last ten years of his life his gifts to others aggregated more than a quarter of a million dollars. His devotion to the Sexton family and his belief in their possibilities if properly trained was a dominant passion. He believed with all the ardor of his being in education, and to the end that all the descendants of his parents might have the advantages of education through all time to come and be "useful and intelligent citizens," he caused to be formed a corporation known as "The Sexton Education and Benefit Fund." To this corporation he gave the sum of $200,000, and was only prevented from giving more by his failing health. This great thought for his people, made concrete by so large a gift, will certainly make his name a household word in the Sexton family for generations to come. But he gave not to his own people alone. In recent years he had given $10,000 to an orphange in Mississippi, $10,000 to the Seventh Street Home in New Orleans and a like amount to the Louisiana Methodist Orphanage at Ruston, La., and various other amounts. On the very day of his death he had exhausted his funds at the bank in making a contribution to the Baptist Hospital enterprise in New Orleans. The last check he ever drew was the one he gave to his wife for an old negro in Haziehurst, who had been a servant to Dr. Sexton's mother. But he gave not in money alone. His brother, the Honorable James Sexton of Haziehurst, truthfully said of him, "The whole tenor of his life was to make the world a better place in which to live." For forty years he gave himself without stint, ofttimes without remuneration and at the sacrifice of his own ease and comfort, to alleviate pain and suffering. During his last days he insisted on going to his office, though he was not physically able to do so. He told his pastor that he would rather "wear out than to rust out." And he did wear out in the service of others. From his deathbed he prescribed for one of his patients. Dr. Sexton was named as one of the Hospital Committee appointed at the recent session of the Louisiana Conference, and in his last conversation with his pastor he expressed great pleasure that the Conference had taken up the hospital work.

Dr. Sexton was married to Miss Kate Hartwell, of Haziehurst, who survises him, and they lived a most beautiful life together. She was in perfect harmony with his many plans of helping others. There were no children, but a number of nephews and nieces found a home with them at different times and enjoyed the advantages and opportunities of life in a great city. They rise up and call him blessed and declare that they loved him as an own father.

When he was an instructor in Tulane Medical it is said that the students in his class often rose and greeted him with cheers when Dr. Sexton entered the room. This was certainly unusual. He loved "the boys," as he called them, and they loved him. That he was held in universal esteem by the people among whom his life began was shown by the large number who attended the funeral service, which was held in Hazlehurst, Miss., on Saturday afternoon, December 2, in the Methodist Church of that place, following his death in New Orleans on November 30. The service was conducted by his pastor and Rev. W. H. Saunders, pastor of the Methodist Church in Hazelhurst, and Rev. Mr. Caldwell of the Presbyterian Church, and Rev. Mr. O'Kelly of the Baptist Church.

Dr. Sexton's family were of Scotch and Irish descent and he inherited sturdy qualities from both. In personal appearance he was striking and distinguished. As a physician, philanthropist and citizen his place will be secure in the memory and esteem of the generations. But above all he was a devout follower of the "Great Physician." He was a faithful member of the First Methodist Church in New Orleans. Throughout his life he devoted himself to the right and despised the wrong. There was no uncertain place in his religious convictions. He never wavered in the faith which he had learned at his mother's knee and he died in the consolations and the assurances of that faith. A day or two before his death he repeated in the presence of his family a verse of the hymn which was sung by request at his funeral, "It is well with my soul." When the pastor came a well-worn Bible was handed him and he was asked to read and pray. But prayer was the daily custom in that home. They were accustomed through the years to family prayer. Dr. Sexton was a reader of good books. Just before his death he said of two fine religious books which he had recently read, "They have been a great comfort to me." He approached his end in the full hope that there were light and comfort beyond and we who knew him and loved him have not a doubt that he dwells in light forevermore.

"Know ye not that there is a prince and a great man fallen this day in Israel?"

New Orleans, La.

THE PLEAS OF THE PATRIARCHS.

By Bishop James Cannon, Jr.

I have had many interviews, some of them with very interesting and very distinguished people, but none of them stand out more vividly than those which I had in September with the Greek and the Armenian Patriarchs in their official residences in Constantinople. I have decided to let these fathers of their people speak to the readers of this paper in their own words.

It was a beautiful Friday afternoon (the Turkish Sunday or holy day) when I went with Miss Pauline Allen, one of the Near East Relief workers, to see the Greek Patriarch. As we drove across the Galata Bridge over the Golden Horn into Stamboul, the Turkish quarter of Constantinople, we had to be exceedingly careful, for the red-fezzed Turks were swarming everywhere, waving flags and giving vent to their exultation at the victory of Kemal's army and to their hatred of "Christian dogs." Many times, as we were obliged to come to a standstill in the narrow, crooked streets, they peered into the car with scowling, suspicious faces, and from all the windows and doors of the houses, so close that one could almost reach out and touch them, waved the red flags, reminding one of the bloody record of the Turks throughout their history.

The Greek Patriarch, Meletios, is a fine-looking man in the prime of life, who would attract attention in any gathering. While his face showed plainly the great strain upon him for the past few weeks, and although he had just heard the details of the martyrdom of the Patriarch of Smyrna, and knew that a similar fate might be his at any time, there was no trace of excitement, no nervousness, no lack of poise. The grasp of his hand was firm, the tone of his voice clear, but earnest, sometimes wondrously pathetic, his eyes showing more than any other feature the depth and strength of his emotions. He spoke without hesitation and with an intensity of conviction which was most impressive, and Miss Allen took stenographic notes as the Patriarch said:

"The divisions among the Christian nations are giving the Turks new life and hope. Great Britain seems to be the only nation which realized the real situation. If Great Britain should fail to check the Turkish advance, it will be a lasting disgrace to Europe, and even to America, that no nation gave Great Britain co-operation to prevent continued Turkish atrocities. If the American Government thought it to be its duty to intervene to make the world safe for democracy against the assaults of Germany and to uphold the ideals on which the United States Government is based, why should she not consider it her duty to continue to uphold the same ideals, and to prevent awful crimes against humanity, to say nothing of democracy? All the Eastern Christians look up to the United States, and it is hard to understand her refusal to take action to protect the innocent and helpless from outrage and slaughter. It is believed by our people that the United States could prevent the atrocities if she declared positively that they must cease.

"For all the other things that your people have done for the Eastern Christians, we thank you. Your visit gives me the opportunity to express, in the name of the Greek Christians, our gratitude to the United States, and especially to the Near East Relief, for assistance to the refugees of Symrna. This help is as the myrrh and spices and the clean shroud, which Joseph and Nicodemus furnished for the burial of our Lord, for it is indeed the Christianity of Asia Minor which has been entombed. The Seven Churches of Asia, to which our Lord delivered his last message on earth, have lived through the centuries despite persecution and martyrdom. In the Caucasus and Anatolia the three million of Armenians and Greeks, who before the Great War represented Christianity, have been massacred or driven into exile. The fires of the conflagration of Smyrna light up this ancient Christian city as the funeral pyre of the martyrs. We can but think of the promise of our Lord in his Patmos message to the Angel of the Church of Smyrna, 'Be thou faithful unto death and I will give thee a crown of life.'

"The Metropolitan Archbishop of Smyrna was invited to come to the headquarters in Smyrna of Noured-in-Pasha, and upon leaving the Conference he was immediately attacked by a band of Turks, gathered for the purpose, who beat, stabbed, mutilated, and finally killed him. Many Greek priests were also killed after awful torture. All the men between 17 and 45 have been torn from their families at Smyrna and deported into the interior to almost certain starvation and other forms of death. The fairest girls and women have been outraged, taken to harems, or killed, and hundreds of thousands have been driven from their homes and to-day have practically nothing—no house or land, no shelter of any kind, no clothes except the ragged ones they are wearing, no food, no money to buy food, no chance for employment, in most cases the men of the family killed or deported, and only the mothers and children left. My own country, Greece, is bankrupt and cannot maintain in comfort the present population. And to-day we learn that Eastern Thrace is to be turned over to the Turks, which means that seven or eight hundred thousand more Greeks will have to leave their homes in Eastern Thrace, or be massacred by the bloodthirsty Turks. It is the blackest page in modern history."

And then the Patriarch, with the same feeling which a father would show for his own children, said:

"What can be done to save my poor, despairing, dying people? We must appeal to your people to save them from starvation, disease and death. God has blessed you with food and clothing, and you have big hearts. Take your people our thanks, but ask them to continue to help us in this day of death."

I told the Patriarch that I would convey his appeal to our people, and furthermore stated that if I had the power I would call upon the manhood of my country to protect them from persecution and extermination.

The following day I had a conference with the Armenian Patriarch Zavan at his home near the Pera quarter of Constantinople. His attitude was that of one who "was acquainted with grief," who was accustomed to evil tidings. And yet he did not speak as entirely hopeless—rather as one who, while grieved and burdened by the tragedy of his people, was alert, and determined to do all in his power to save the remnant. Miss Allen acted as interpreter, and Miss Morton took stenographic notes, and the conference lasted for over an hour, and only a small part is quoted here. The Patriarch said:

"My reliable information from eye-witnesses is that the Turks did not start to burn the town for three days. It was started first in the Armenian, and then in the Greek quarter. The Turks went into the houses and killed the men and women there and that is why the foreign newspaper correspondents saw so few dead bodies in the streets. After they had finished looting the houses, the Turks set fire to the Armenian quarter, so that it is impossible to figure out how many they killed. They kept the fire going by restarting it when it burned low. Five times they started the fire that the entire quarter might be destroyed.

"When the fire began, many of the Armenians took shelter in the large Armenian church, barred themselves in and resisted. Later they fled to the Dominican School, but when the fire reached the school they fled to the pier to try to take the boats, but the most of them were massacred, and the rest were deported back into the interior to meet their death by stravation or the sword."

The Patriarch stopped, overcome by his feelings. Presently, in reply to questions, he said:

"There were nearly four million Armenians before the war begun; now there are less than two million. None of these would remain in Turkey if they could get out. Life for an Armenian in Turkey is almost worthless, because he has no chance to escape if a Turk chooses to kill him and take his property from his family. It is a repetition of the awful atrocities which the Turks have perpetrated deliberately in cold blood throughout their history. All the Armenians would leave, but they are not permitted to do so.

"The Armenians ruled in Cilicia before the country was conquered by the Turks. Afterwards when the French took charge, thousands of Armenians went to Cilicia under the pledges of the French Government that they should be protected. But the French made a secret treaty with the Angora Turks, withdrew from Cilicia, leaving the Armenians to their fate. Many of them were massacred by the Turks, and the rest took up their weary march, fled from the country, and now there are no Armenians left in Cilicia."

I asked what he thought would happen if the British should follow the example of the French and Italians—withdraw their troops and allow Kemal's army to enter Constantinople. Without a moment's hesitation, he replied:

"There would certainly be a repetition of the Smyrna horrors. There are over thirty thousand Turks in Constantinople armed and organized to obey any instructions Kemal may give, and they may act without waiting for orders. Lists have already been made, the houses noted of those whom the Turks in the city for various reasons have marked for slaughter. There is no safety but in flight."

I asked why the Turks killed the Armenians, and he replied:

"Because the Armenians are Christians, but also because the Turks are jealous of the Armenians, who are more intelligent; they have better schools and are better educated. There are about five Turks to one hundred Armenians in school. Also the bulk of the commerce and business generally is carried on by the Armenians. The Turks hate the Armenians because they are Christians, are better educated, and are better business men. Jealousy and religious hatred are the causes of the massacres."

And then in the conclusion of the conference the Patriarch made the following touching appeal:

"The Armenians can never forget what the Near East Relief has done for them. The children would all be dead if it had not been for you. Now they have performed a miracle by getting hold of all these children and saving them, and we owe everything to the Americans. We want a country where we can live and grow in peace and support ourselves. We do not want to live as we have to now—as paupers, as beggars, by being helped. We want to have a chance to help ourselves. Now every day the situation is growing worse—the misery is augmenting every day. Although the Armenians recognize all that America has done for them, they hope that they will not be allowed to die while America is aiding the children. They beg that the Turks may not be allowed to massacre all the older ones in the meanwhile. America is far away, and her interest in this country is purely in the interest of humanity. Every other country in Europe has political interests, and for that reason we beg America to protect us from destruction. Her human interest would save every one if she would enter into the situation, and not only feed the hungry, but save the rest of us from outrage, torture and death at the hands of the Turks."

I present the pleas of these two patriarchs to our Christian people that they may decide what answer they will give and how many they will save from starvation.

NEEDS OF THE MEMORIAL HOME.

Dear Friends: I know every one of you is interested in the great work of the Memorial Home. We have just placed two lovely little girl twins, Jane and Jean, in a Christian home, where we trust they will make Christian women and do some wonderful work for the Lord.

We have at present twelve girls and several applicants. These girls are taught what the love of God can do for them, and, as they go out from this Home, we trust they will be a glory to their Maker and a shining light to those around them. Not only do they have the best Christian training, but they also receive the very best medical attention that can be given them.

Every Christian reader knows the expense the Home is under and there are lots of things our country friends have and would donate gladly if they knew just what we needed most; the same could be donated in small quantities, such as the following: Home-cured meat, vegetables, chickens, eggs, bed linen, baby clothes, cooking utensils, etc. Our sick girls would appreciate these little delicacies very much as well as the girls that are up, for they all enjoy anything that is grown in the country.

Any one sending any of the above articles may rest assured that they will be appreciated, but please do not send them C. O. D.

With best wishes to each of you, and trusting to hear from you real soon, we are,

Yours very truly,
MEMORIAL HOME FOR YOUNG WOMEN,
Mrs. L. Verlander, Matron.
803 Washington Ave.,
New Orleans, La.

A TELEGRAM—AN URGENT MATTER.

Clean-Up Campaign for Christian Education subscriptions starts Sunday, December thirty-first, and runs to Sunday, January seventh. We hope all pastors and collectors will do their best to get all subscriptions to date. We are mailing notices to all delinquent subscribers. J. H. HOLDER.

New Albany, Miss., Dec. 25.

TO THE PASTORS AND CENTENARY TREASURERS.

Dear Co-Workers: The Finance Department of the Centenary, through the Treasurer, John E. Edgerton, has given us until January 3 to make our final report on the "Emergency Quota;" therefore, I appeal to you to do your best to reach your quota before that time, but if you have not reached it by the 26th, just continue until the 3d, and make your report so as to reach me not LATER THAN JANUARY 5. Or, if you have collected anything since you made your report, please make this an additional report, and send in to me. This also applies to churches which were not assigned quotas, as well as those which were asked to collect and send in a certain amount.

Let each church pay its quota, and the other churches pay as much over as possible.

Thanking each and all of you for your efforts, and wishing you continued success, I am,

Yours for better service,
W. D. HAWKINS,
Conference Missionary Secretary,
Conference Centenary Treasurer.

THE WESTERN METHODIST ASSEMBLY.

On December 7, the Executive Committee of the Assembly met at Fayetteville, Ark., and elected as superintendent Prof. J. L. Bond, who is just closing his third term as superintendent of public instruction of the State of Arkansas. During his incumbency Arkansas has made unusual progress in education, and for much of it Prof. Bond deserves credit. He is the son of a Methodist preacher, a graduate of Hendrix College, and one of the most popular public men in Arkansas. He did not seek re-election and has been offered attractive positions, but prefers the superintendency of the Assembly because he sees in it great possibilities. He is in the prime of life and is not only a successful educator, but a capable business man. After January 1 he will be in full charge at Fayetteville.

On December 8 several persons examined lots and made selections, but the weather had been and continued to be so wet and cold that many were unable to be present. Many have positively announced their purpose to buy as soon as they can examine the site and personally select lots.

Work on the scenic drives and the picturesque road from the city to Mt. Sequoyah is in progress and will be completed within a few weeks if the weather is not too bad. Early in January the laying of water and sewer mains will begin and the 50,000 gallon water tower will be erected. A house for Superintendent Bond will soon be ready, and in the spring cottages, dormitories, cafeteria, and chapel will be built in time for the opening in June. There are those who have been inquiring whether the Assembly would be ready for the summer of 1923. Let them be assured that plans are being made for the opening and it is expected. The program is in preparation and in due time will be announced. The outlook is very bright.

Persons who want lots soon should apply for information to Rev. A. C. Millar, President of Assembly, 221 Capitol Avenue, Little Rock, Ark. After January 1, application should be made to Superintendent J. L. Bond, Fayetteville, Ark., who will be on the ground ready to co-operate in every way.

A NAME IN THE SAND.

Alone I walked the ocean strand;
A pearly shell was in my hand;
I stooped and wrote upon the sand
My name—the year—the day.
As onward from the spot I passed,
One lingering look behind I cast;
A wave came rolling high and fast,
And washed my lines away.

And so, methought, 'twill ever be
With every mark on earth from me;
A wave of dark oblivion's sea
Will sweep across the place
Where I have trod the sandy shore
Of time, and been, to be no more,
Of me my day, the name, I bore,
To leave no track nor trace.

And yet with Him who counts the sands
And holds the waters in his hands,
I know a lasting record stands
Inscribed against my name.
Of all this mortal part has wrought,
Of all this thinking soul has thought,
And from these fleeting moments caught
For glory or for shame.

—Hannah Flagg Gould.

THANKS TO OUR FRIENDS.

We desire to express our thanks to the following friends who have sent us two or more subscriptions recently: Rev. M. L. White, DeKalb, Miss., 4; Rev. W. M. Williams, Purvis, Miss., 4; J. H. Kenesson, Woodsworth, La., 8; Rev. B. H. Andrews, Zachary, La., 2.

Use Heavenly Banks: Lay not up for yourselves treasures upon earth, where moth and rust doth corrupt, and where thieves break through and steal: But lay up for yourselves treasures in heaven, where neither moth nor rust doth corrupt, and where thieves do not break through nor steal: For where your treasure is there will your heart be also.—Matthew 6:19-21.

Finding the Right Way: Seek ye the Lord while he may be found, call ye upon him while he is near: let the wicked forsake his way, and the unrighteous man his thoughts: and let him return unto the Lord, and he will have mercy upon him; and to our God, for he will abundantly pardon.—Isaiah 55:6, 7.

The Call of the Conference Claimants

EDITED BY LUTHER E. TODD, SECRETARY.

Board of Finance, M. E. Church, South.

510-513 Security Building, St. Louis, Mo.

COME WITH ME FOR A TEN DAYS' JOURNEY.

If you would like to know how it feels to spend yourself without reserve in behalf of the "forgotten man," come along with me and recall my travels of the last ten days.

Texas Conference.—Leaving St. Louis on the night of November 20, I arrived in Marshall, Tex., in time to address the Texas Conferenee on the morning of November 22. This was the fourth Conferenee held by Bishop Moore this fall, and, as usual, he promptly and eourteously introduced me with the privilege of speaking twenty minutes. Thus It was possible to deliver an address, meet the Conferenee Board of Finance at 1:30 p.m., and get away at 3 p.m. The preaehers were exeeedingly kind and, without exception, expressed themselves as eonfident that the superannuate endowment eause would "go over with a bang." From the four Conferenees in Texas personally visited this fall and from one such Conferenee visited by Dr. C. C. Seleeman comes the cheering announeement: "We will all be in our plaees and ready to go when the signal is given to begin the speclal effort for superannuate endowment." Bravo, Texans! Don't foget to remember!

Louisiana Conference.—I landed in Shreveport, La., at 4:30 p.m., Wednesday afternoon, November 22. Just as my grip was taken in hand by the hotel bell boy a preaeher slapped my baek with a whale of a slap, saying: "Hello, Todd! You are to speak to the Louisiana Conferenee at 7:30 tonight." That prince of good fellows, Dr. Fitzgerald Parker, had arranged the appointment. The Conferenee Board of Sunday Sehools had the night, but the boys were good enough to mix me in their program for a talk of fifteen minutes eoneerning the "forgotten man." The opportunity was aeeepted, and let us hope some good licks were gotten in for the grand old boys. The kindness of the Sunday sehood workers in thus dividing their evening will eome back to them some day in abundant measure like bread cast upon the water. After speaking I had a conference with the aeting president of the Conferenee Board of Finanee and hurried to the hotel for a quick departure on a 10 p.m. train for Montgomery, Ala., via New Orleans. Upon leaving the hotel for the train a group of the preaehers returning from the service at the chureh together said: "We're for you with heart and soul, old man. Put the Louisiana Conferenee down right now as one that you need not fret about, for we'll do our share and more." God bless them and bless every preaeher who gets under this task with his lift.

Alabama Conference.—It's a long, long way to Montgomery, but I landed there. It was Friday morning, November 24, at 10 a.m. "Taxi, taxi," said the man with extended hand. "Yes," was the answer; "Perry Street Methodist Chureh." A zip, a bang, and a whiz, and the driver said: "Here you are, cap. Seventy-five eents, please." Whew! A day's living for one superannuate! But don't worry about it, you blessed old veterans, for you will never have a harvest of eomfortable living without the neeessary expense of sowing. At 11 a.m. Bishop Murrah called me to the platform, saying: "I will give you fifteen or twenty minutes now." And you can be sure how that they were used for all that was in me. Immediately afterwards the Conference Board of Finance met to learn more about our plans for the "forgotten man." They were very much interested, enthusiastic, and gave assurance that the grand old Alabama Conferenee would not fail in what was expected of her. Passing among small groups of preachers who were visiting in front of the church, they asked repeatedly: "Well, how is the 'forgotten man' eoming on?" I answered: "Bully! He is remembered with the best promises of serviee in his behalf that ever eehoed through the church."

Williston, Fla.—And now, fellow travelers, if you don't mind, we will take a little trip as a diversion from Conferenee routine. Leaving Montgomery at 1:30 p.m., on November 24, I turned baek south in order personally to inspect 640 aeres of land which was given reeently to superannuate endowment by a noble layman of the Florida Conferenee. "How far is it?" Well, it's a good pieee, as you will realize when you read it was Saturday, November 25, at 4 p.m., when the porter was heard ealling: "Williston! All out for Williston!" Dragging my grip, I stepped down from the train, to find the wide-awake pastor, Rev. Rembert A. Guy, waiting with his auto. In less than thirty minutes we had pieked up the good layman who gave the land and were speeding on a journey of four miles to look the "gift horse in the mouth." For nearly two hours we rode and walked over those fertile acres, and it was gratifying to find by personal examination that the "forgotten man" had come into a very valuable property. The donor explained his generosity with the words: "It is for a eause that lies very elose to my heart." I asked Brother Guy if there were any quail around. He said: "Quail? Why, man, if you go hunting in this section, they will aetually light on the barrel of your gun!" He has served Williston six years, built a $40,000 chureh, a $3500 parsonage, seeured the 640 aeres for superannuate endowment, and is loved by everybody. How does he do it? On Sunday morning, November 26, I addressed our people on "The Forgotten Man." Afterwards Brother Guy said: "You can surely depend on Williston good and strong." Of course his words pleased, but that "quail" yarn!

South Georgia Conference.—Bishop McMurry had represented the Board of Finanee at the South Georgia Conferenee on its opening day; but as it was only six hours' ride on a slow train over to Waycross from Williston, the desire to speak an additional word for the "forgotten man" eould not be denied. And the journey was quite worth while, for upon my arrival Sunday evening, November 26, it was announeed that this historic Conference had the largest check for the Superannuate Endowment Fund from the 1 per cent assessment on salaries that had ever been paid in one year by any Conference in the history of the church. If one can prophesy the outcome of the speeial effort for superannuate endowment in the South Georgia from the interest now being expressed by her pastors and lay leaders, one may state confidently that this Conference will be among the first to pay her full amount.

South Carolina Conference.—Leaving Wayeross on Monday, November 27, it was delightful to have Bishop Ainsworth as traveling companion. He is a member of the General Board of Finance and intensely interested in its work. Whenever he discusses the needs of the veteran preaehers, he does it with abandon and power. The good Bishop left the train at Savannah, Ga., sending me on into the night under the lift of his "God bless you." The long journey was easy with such a start. I reached Marion, S. C., on Tuesday, Nov. 28, and spent two days and one night with the South Carolina Conferenee, the one that pays the highest average salary to her active preachers and approximately $600 per eapita annually to her superannuates. We should all give them the high honors. This Conferenee has suffered from unusual business depression for two years, but not a doubt was expressed eoneerning their success in the speeial effort for superannuate endowment. They did everything they were requested to do for the cause at this time and put me on the train with the emphatic promise: "You need not worry about us. We will be lifters and not leaners."

Mississippi Conference.—It is a 36-hour journey from Marion, S. C., to Crystal Springs, Miss., not the most pleasant to the traveler when he is making it on Thanksgiving Day. I reached Crystal Springs on Friday, December 1, and found the Mississippi Conference in full swing. Bishop Ainsworth gave me twenty minutes to address the Conference, and the brethren gave emphatic evidence of their great interest in the cause of the "forgotten man." There is every reason to believe that the two Conferences in Mississippi will enter the speeial effort for superannuate endowment with determination to win. They will carry through, too, for history tells how the valiant men of this State have always aeeomplished the tasks which they have set their heads to do.

Homeward Bound.—And now after two weeks of very strenuous work, in which six Conferences have been visited and a special trip to Florida made, it is pleasing to take a fast train for St. Louis—and home. The purpose of the page this week is to reveal to readers the spirit of carry on that stirs the leaders of the superannuate cause to make any sacrifiee neeessary to get it ahead. You preachers and lay members of the church are not asked to go on, but to come on. The Board of Finanee is in earnest. Are you?

The Home Circle

CRY OF THE LITTLE BROTHERS.

We are the little hrothers, homeless in cold and heat,
Four-footed little beggars, roaming the city streets.
Snatching a bone from the gutter, creeping through alleys drear;
Stoned and sworn at and beaten, our hearts consumed with fear.
You prlde yourself on the heauty of your city, fair and free;
Yet we are dying by thousands in courts you never see.
You boast of your mental progress, of your libraries, schools and halls;
But we who are dumb denounce you, as we crouch beneath their walls.
You sit in your tinseled playhouse and weep o'er a mimic wrong;
Our woes are the woes of the voiceless, our griefs unheeded in song.
You say the same God made us, when before His throne you come;
Shall you clear yourselves in His presence, on the plea that He made us dumh?
Are your hearts too hard to llsten to a starving kitten's cries?
Or too gay for the patient pleading in a dog's beseeching eyes?
Behold us, your "lIttle hrothers," starving, heaten, oppressed:
Stretch out a hand to help us, that we may have food and rest.
Too long have we roamed, neglected, too long have we sickened wlth fear.
The mercy you hope and pray for, you can grant us now and here.

—Etheidred Barry.

MAKING FACES.

By M. C.

I suppose if we couid each one of us make our own faces, we should choose to be very heautiful Indeed! We should have loveiy eyes, and a charming mouth, and just the sort of nose that we admire the most. But we cannot make our own faces, can we? Well, there is a sense in which we cannot, but there is aiso a sense in which we can. Let me tell you a story.

There was once a very clever Italian artist named Leonardo da Vinci. One day he began to paint a picture of "The Lord's Supper." Perhaps some of you have seen reproductions of it, but unless you have visited Italy you have not seen the originai.

Leonardo da Vlnci had palnted all but two of the faces for his picture—the face of our Lord, and the face of Judas. He could not find any one with a face beautifui enough to be painted to represent the most beautiful character that ever llved in the world. He waiked about the streets of Rome iooking eagerly for some face that was innocent enough, and pure enough, and strong enough, and kind enough, for him to dare to iet it represent the Lord. At last, one day, he saw coming down the road a young man, with a frank, open face, with fearlessness in his eyes and an expression that was truly wonderful. The artist stopped him, and asked him if he wouid come to his studio and sit to him for a portrait. The young man agreed to go. He went again and again, while the artist painted away until this particular face In the picture was finished. Then he called the young man over to his easei and showed it to him.

As the young man iooked at it, the tears came into his eyes. "I did not know I was being palnted for the Christ!" he said.

The young man went away, and the artist lost sight of him. Years passed. He painted other pictures, but this particular one remained unfinished. There was only one face left to add. It was the face of Judas.

Leonardo da Vinci was living in Mllan now, and he was tramping about looking for some one with a face evil enough to be painted as the man who betrayed our Lord. Aud one day he found a man slinking along down a side street, with a faco full of cunning and greed, and really dreadful to look at. The artist stopped him and asked him if he would come to his studio to be painted, and the uan agreed to go. All the while da Vinci was palnting this man's face he felt a curious feeling of revulsion against him; he did not quite know why.

When it came to the last sitting, the man asked: "May I look at your picture, sir?"

The artist hesitated. He scarcely liked the man to know he had 'painted him as Judas, but at last he said:

"Yes, you may see it If you like."

The man came over to the artist's side and looked at the picture for a long time without saying a word. Then he looked into the artist's face and he said:

"Don't you remember me?"

"I do not think I ever saw you before till you came here," da Vlncl replied.

"Yes," said the man, "you have seen me before. I came to your studio in Rome when I was only eighteen. You painted me then for the Christ, and now you have palnted me for Judas. And I am a Judas, for I have betrayed my Lord!"

What had made this man's face change so terrihly! It was sin. He had done wrong, he had led a wicked life, he had learned to drlnk and to gamble, and to do many terrihle things. And the sin in his heart and his life had been writing itself on his face all the time.

Will you try to remember that what you aro Inside, what your character Is, does show on your face! If you see a little girl who has nearly always a pouting mouth and an angry look in her eyes, you know she cannot he a very pleasant, happy little girl. Her face tells you so. If you see a boy who delights in hurling stones at stray cats, or hurting little children younger than himself, you know he is not a good boy, and his cruelty will be written on his face as time goes on.

Every time you fly into a temper, something comes into your face that was not there before, and it leaves its mark. Every time you do something really kind, every time you exercise self-control, something strong comes into your face that was not there before, and it leaves its mark. What you really are Is being written, as the years pass, on your face.

If you want to have a really beautiful face, you may have one if you will. I do not mean that your features are going to change into a different shape—that, of course, is not possible. But I do mean that the expression of your face may be beautiful, if you in your thoughts and actions are beautiful. Some faces that people call pretty are not a bit heautiful. The features may be regular, but there may be no real soul or character in the face, while other faces that are not pretty at all are full of character.

We can do so little by ourselves to alter ourselves; we can hardly do anything at all. But we can do great things through Christ which strengtheneth us. If you give yourself to Him when you are young, all the power and strength you need to make a real success of your life shall be yours. If you will let Him take and mould you, He will make your character strong and your face beautiful, because you will live to express Him and to show forth His love.

Do not forget that you are making faces all the time, and do not forget to ask Him to help you in your fight for character.—The Christian.

BLESSINGS.

By Willie C. Page.

So many blessings have come this sunlit day,
The quiet beauty of the seasons as they swing;
I will be glad and grateful, let come what may,
And welcome every golden gift that life may bring.
For 'tis the thankful heart that opens wide the door
Through which the sweetest joys may enter in,
And make life's cup of happiness to overflow,
Bring peace to the spirit that dwells within.

I count my blessings as the leaves that fall;
First, love of God, of friends, strength to do my part,
Home, little children, love's sweetness over all,
The will to lift the shadow from some troubled heart,
For health, plenty, joy of winged things in their flight,
The heart to understand, to rejoice, to trust and pray,
To let in sunshine where dwelt the shades of night,
To make all days a glad Thanksgiving Day.

SPECIAL OFFER

ONE 42 PIECE $12.00 DINNER SET

BLUE BIRD, FLORAL OR WHITE AND GOLD DESIGNS

For $4.98 f. o. b. New Orleans

Cut out this Advertisement and send to WM. B. REILY & CO., New Orleans, La., with Six Coupons from Luzianne Coffee and $4.98, and the Beautiful Set will be Expressed to You at Once.

All three sets consist of: 6 dinner plates, 6 cups, 6 saucers, 6 pie plates, 6 fruit dessert dishes, 6 oat meal dishes, 1 large meat platter, 1 round vegetable bowl, 1 oval vegetable bowl, 1 cream pitcher, 1 sugar bowl, 1 sugar bowl cover.

New Orleans Christian Advocate

HENRY T. CARLEY, Editor.

CHAS. O. CHALMERS, Manager.

PUBLISHING COMMITTEE:

Louisiana Conference—Rev. J. F. Foster, Rev. S. J. Davies, Rev. C. C. Miller.

Mississippi Conference—Rev. J. T. Leggett, Rev. J. R. Jones, Rev. W. H. Saunders.

North Mississippi Conference—Rev. J. H. Feits, Rev. T. H. Lipscomb, Rev. J. W. Dorman.

DIRECTIONS.

All checks and money orders should be made payable to the New Orleans Christian Advocate.

Communications pertaining to subscriptions and other business matters should be addressed to the Manager, or to the New Orleans Christian Advocate.

The Printed Lab l on a paper shows the date to which a subscription is paid. It is as good as a written receipt. When renewal is made, if the date is not moved forward after three or four weeks, notify us, and we will make it right.

Communications intended for the Editor should be directed to him at 512 Camp Street. Correspondents will observe the following rules: 1. Write on only one side of the paper. 2. If you have a typewriter, by all means use it; otherwise use a good quality of black ink. 3. Leave a space of at least two inches at the top of the first page; leave a margin of at least one inch on the left-hand side of the page; do not crowd the words and the lines together. 4. Take special pains to write proper names correctly and legibly. 5. Use letter paper if you can get it—not note paper. No attention will be paid to rolled manuscripts.

Editorial.

ON TO JACKSON.

The editor of the Advocate is looking forward with great interest and the expectation of great profit to the Conference on Home Missions and Evangelism to be held at Jackson, Miss., January 16-17. He counts it a great privilege to have the opportunity of hearing the great leaders in religious work in this day who have accepted Bishop Ainsworth's invitation to attend that Conference; and to sit with the leaders of Mississippi Methodism as they plan to make this year one of great achievement in the Kingdom of God.

We trust that all the preachers and laymen of Mississippi are looking forward to this great gathering with the same degree of interest and expectation. The mere coming together of a great host of devout ministers and laymen will arouse an enthusiasm for a common task that will help every one of them in the work of the church throughout the year; and the plans they will form and the inspiration they will receive will prepare them for the greatest forward movement Mississippi Methodism has yet known.

We consider it especially important that the laymen should be largely in evidence at the meeting. We expect the preachers to be there, for it is still true that the pastor is the key man in the work of the church; but the laymen are coming to a new realization of their part in all the plans of the church, and we are anxious to see them as active and as keenly interested in their religious undertakings as they are in their business affairs. If we were a Mississippi pastor, we think we should make every possible effort to have a large and representative delegation of our laymen at that meeting, for we can think of nothing else that would mean so much for the welfare of the work we should be attempting to do. When laymen and preachers both catch a vision of the possibilities of service in the kingdom of God, great things will begin to happen.

So we say, ON TO JACKSON!

THE SOUTHERN METHODIST ON THE NEW ORLEANS CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE.

A copy of the November 27 issue of the Southern Methodist, an independent religious newspaper edited by Dr. R. A. Meek, late of the North Mississippi Conference, failed to reach us in due course through the mails, that being the first number, so far as can recall, that has failed to reach the Advocate office promptly after publication. Through the kindness of a friend, however, we received a copy a few days ago.

It is in the issue of November 27 that Dr. Meek, under the caption, "Two-In-One: A Commendation, and A Condemnation," quotes in full a recent editorial in the New Orleans Christian Advocate in which we had it only in mind to pay a kindly tribute to him as our good friend. After a professed reciprocation of the kindly sentiments we expressed toward him, he proceeds at considerable length, by implication, insinuation, and innuendo, to seek to create the impression that we are not as loyal to the doctrines of Methodism as we ought to be, and that the editorial policy of the Advocate is such as to give aid and comfort to any who may wish to overthrow our established faith. The charge, for it amounts to that, is as unworthy of Dr. Meek as it is untrue of the editor of the Advocate, and we dismiss it with the simple statement that a lifetime in the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, and more than twenty years in its ministry constitute a record of which we are neither ashamed nor afraid.

We could wish that the proof reading of the Southern Methodist were a little more carefully done, so that at least we might receive the courtesy of being properly quoted—we assume that it is an error in proof reading that permits Dr. Meek to use the word "insane," in line seventeen from the bottom of the first column of page 6 of his paper of November 27, instead of "unsafe," which is the word we used in the clause he sets off with quotation marks. Correct quotation is an elementary principle of journalism, especially when the views of a writer are under discussion.

Dr. Meek refers to the resolution adopted by the Publishing Committee of the Advocate at its annual meeting on October 7, 1921, which resolution he professes to quote in full, and insinuates its adoption was a rebuke to the editor by the Publishing Committee for some of his editorial expressions. Concerning this resolution, we have to say, first, that Dr. Meek does not quote it correctly. The final sentence of that resolution reads—as may be seen by referring to the Advocate of October 13, 1921, in which the report of the Publishing Committee is published—as follows: "and that we anew dedicate our Christian Advocate to its responsible mission of establishing the church in the faith once for all delivered to the saints." Dr. Meek, in his quotation, omits the significant word, "anew," which, of course, involves a radical change in the meaning of the sentence.

We have to say, in the second place, that either Dr. Meek's informant did not give him all the facts in connection with the adoption of the resolution, or Dr. Meek's memory concerning the facts failed him when he wrote concerning it, or Dr. Meek, innocently or otherwise, by implication twisted the facts to suit his own purpose. Dr. Meek says he has been too busy to read the Advocate with care since the meeting of the Publishing Committee in 1921; the presumption is that he did read carefully the issue containing the report of that meeting. If he did, he could scarcely have failed to read in that issue an editorial note, immediately following the report of the Committee, as follows:

"The Resolutions of the Publishing Committee.

"In connection with the resolutions passed by the Publishing Committee at its meeting last week, it is only fair to say that the resolutions are not to be construed as a criticism, expressed or implied, of any editorial expression of opinion in connection with any question that has been discussed in the Advocate. That they are not to be so construed was specifically and definitely stated by the Committee in adopting the resolutions."

If that statement had not represented the Publishing Committee as it had expressed itself in its meeting, it would not have been written, and surely there would have been some protest against it by at least some member of the Committee. Facts speak for themselves.

Since Dr. Meek vehemently asserts that he believes "that the great majority of our preachers and people are thoroughly sound and loyal to Evangelical Christianity," we find it harder than ever to understand why he should feel it necessary to retire from the traveling connection to edit what the business management of the Southern Methodist calls "the organ of orthodoxy;" however, as we remarked in the editorial concerning Dr. Meek's retiring to the local ranks, "We are perfectly willing to allow to others that degree of liberty of thought that we claim for ourselves; and we earnestly pray that this distinguished minister may have, in his new relationship, great happiness and usefulness."

PERSONAL AND OTHER NOTES.

Mr. John T. Sawyer, Jr., son of Dr. and Mrs. J. T. Sawyer, whose home is now in Milwaukee, Wis., paid his parents a visit during the Christmas holidays.

Rev. R. E. Rutledge, of the Mississippi Conference, has been cordially received on the Pachuta charge, and he begins the year's work with encouraging prospects.

We learn from an exchange that Mrs. H. C. Morrison, widow of the late Bishop H. C. Morrison, died at her home in Leesburg, Fla., on December 12. She was buried at Atlanta, Ga., Bishop W. A. Candler officiating.

Rev. J. W. Carey, a superannuate member of the North Alabama Conference, paid the Advocate office an appreciated call on Thursday morning, December 21. Brother Carey is in New Orleans on a visit to relatives.

Rev A. J. Martin, our pastor at St. Martinsville, La., paid the Advocate office an appreciated call on Friday of last week. He had just recovered from an attack of dengue, but was optimistic concerning his work.

Mr. J. W. Barton, Junior Publishing Agent, has declined the presidency of Southern Methodist University, to which he was elected a few weeks ago. It is not considered probable that the trustees will select a president until next June.

Rev. J. W. Lee, presiding elder of the Baton Rouge District, Louisiana Conference, requests us to announce that he has appointed Rev. F. N. Sweeney to supply the Bogalusa circuit this year. Brother Sweeney's address is Franklinton, La.

We learn from the "Big Brother" that Gipsy Smith will begin a revival meeting at Leland, Miss., on January 7, and that the meeting will continue for three weeks. This will give an opportunity to a large part of the delta section of Mississippi to hear this distinguished evangelist.

Rev. H. P. Lewis, the new pastor at Belzoni, Miss., has begun his work by issuing the "Belzoni Methodist Booster," which will be a weekly bulletin. Brother Lewis is one of our most consecrated and efficient pastors, and we predict for him a fine year at Belzoni.

In the contest in the Big Brothers' Class of the First Methodist Sunday school, Greenville, Miss., between the "Boll Weevils" and the "Army Worms," The "Army Worms" won by a margin of 55 points. The penalty imposed upon the losers was a contribution of $25 to the Methodist Orphanage at Jackson.

The Monthly Messenger, the bulletin issued by Rev. Victor G. Clifford, pastor of the Centerville charge, Mississippi Conference, is full of interesting news concerning the charge. One of the results aimed at this year on the charge is the New Orleans Christian Advocate in every Methodist home. Fine!

Rev. George Fox is delighted with his new charge, Oak Grove, La. He is serving a people of the finest spirit, who are ready to follow the pastor's leadership in every good cause. The neat brick church will soon be fully paid for, and the parsonage, which is now being remodeled, is a delightful home.

On Sunday afternoon, December 17, at 4:30 o'clock, the Christmas cantata, "The Greatest Gift," was rendered by the choir of the First Methodist Episcopal Church, South, Laurel, Miss. A report to us of that event declares that it was the greatest thing of the kind ever given in Laurel. Rev. O. S. Lewis is the pastor of the church; he also was tenor soloist in the cantata.

Through the kindness of the publishers, Appeals Press, Inc., Richmond, Va., we have received a copy of the book, "Travels in the Old World," by Dr. J. M. Rowland, editor of the Richmond Christian Advocate. We have had time only to dip into its page, but we have discovered that a rich treat is in store for us as we read tho volume at leisure. It is attractively bound and well printed.

The editor of the Advocate desires to express his very great appreciation of the Christmas greetings sent him by so many friends, and to assuro them that he wishes for every one of them a full share of the happiness the Christmas season typifies, and abounding prosperity throughout the year 1923. These greetings added greatly to the good cheer of the editor and encouraged him in his work.

We received, too late for insertion in last week's Advocate, the following telegram from Rev. Waldo W. Moore: "Brethren, send Christmas and New Year gifts on Back Bay car; will announce them over Back Bay radio." Brother Moore, whose address is Biloxi, Miss., has done a wonderful piece of work in connection with the Back Bay Mission, and he deserves the sympathy and co-operation of all our people.

Miss Ruby Muriel Smith, daughter of Rev. J. L. Smith, our pastor at Gloster, Miss., was married at noon, December 20, to Mr. Albert L. Sinclair, of Denison, Texas, the ceremony being performed by Rev. J. R. Jones and Rev. Claude P. Jones. It was a home wedding, only members of the family being present. The wedding march was played by Mrs. C. E. Whittington. The couple will make their home at Denison, where Mr. Sinclair is engaged in business. The Advocate extends all good wishes to this fine young couple.

We received a copy of the Minutes of the recent session of the North Mississippi Conference on Saturday, December 23—the first official record of any of our patronizing Conferences to reach us. The volume is well printed, on good paper, and is altogether up to the high standard previously established by the efficient Secretary of the Conference, Dr. J. R. Countiss. A copy of the Minutes is an indispensablo part of the Advocate office equipment, and we thank Dr. Countiss for sending it to us so promptly.

We take the following from the Macon Circuit Reporter, issued by Rev. M. A. Burns, pastor: "At the recent session of the North Mississippi Annual Conference, the Rural Pastors' Association was called together by the Rev. N. D. Gueery, who made some report of the work of the Association for the past year; then he tendered his resignation, as he was assigned to school work. The following were elected to serve for the present Conference year: Rev. T. B. Thrower, Mathiston, Miss., President; Rev. W. M. Langley, Guntown, Miss., Secretary; Rev. M. A. Burns, Macon, Miss., Publicity Agent."

Dr. and Mrs. R. S. Crichlow, son-in-law and daughter of Rev. R. A. Davis, an honored superannuate member of the Louisiana Conference, were the hosts during Christmas week, at their beautiful home in New Orleans, of the children and grandchildren of Brother Davis. Those attending were: Miss May Davis and Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Davis, of Houston, Texas; Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Briggs, with their two children, G. L., Jr., and Dorothy May, of San Antonio, Texas. Dr. and Mrs. Crichlow's two children, Dalton and Robert, were two important members of the group. Brother Davis's daughter, Mrs. B. C. Andrews, of Gainesville, Texas, was the only member of the family not able to be present. The occasion was a very delightful one in every respect.

THE JACKSON CONFERENCE — THE OUTSTANDING HEADLINE ON THE METHODIST CONFERENCE.

By Bishop W. N. Ainsworth.

The headline on the Methodist calendar for 1923 is the great conference on Home Missions and Evangelism to be held in Jackson, January 16-17. The Methodist multitudes will be there and the conference is expected to inaugurate a new day of effort in Mississippi to discharge the mission of Methodism in this great State. Methodists have the message for all the people and the organization to carry it everywhere. It is to be feared, however, that tho church has not functioned as efficiently in some sections of the country as it has the right to do. The industrial world has moved in the last fifteen years from ox-cart and mule-wagou speed to Ford and Packard pace, while the church is still trying to discharge its obligations in the same old way. No mero conservatism can maintain itself amid the aggressive forces of society.

A recent survey of the field indicates that approximately half the white people in this State are unreached by any form of evangelical Christianity, and this condition demands of Methodism a new and more thorough mobilization of all its forces to reach the unenlisted multitudes who are at our very doors. It is the purpose of this meeting to give our people, both ministerial and lay, a thorough understanding of the problems on our home base and stir them to a full investment of the resources of the church in reaching these unevangelized masses. To this end, there will be some startling disclosures both as to the amount and the location of the population that is entirely outside of the fold of any evangelical church, and means will be proposed for reaching them in an effectivo way. Among other things, the clarion call of this conference will be for every regular pastor to break some new ground by leading his local church into new forms of evangelism among the people in their immediate vicinity. Plans will be made to scatter doctrinal and evangelistic literature in every county in Mississippi and then follow this up with evangelistic meetings in every unoccupied section. Plans will also be made to provide for at least one service on every Lord's Day in every Methodist church in the State, calling upon the laymen to supplement the pastoral efforts in this direction. A very strong program of distinguished speakers will be brought together from all parts of the nation and the program will be worth traveling hundreds of miles to hear, among them Goodell, Candler, Taylor, Sledd, Russell, and many others.

It is earnestly desired that the presiding elders, pastors, and lay leaders give great diligence in seeing to it that no charge is left without representation. Every pastor is expected to be present with five laymen from every charge of not over five hundred members and with ten laymen from every charge of greater size. Let every community organize an automobile party to come to Jackson for these two days. Delegates will address all communications to Rev. M. L. Burton, Jackson, Miss., about reservations, and all persons will report to the central committee at the Galloway Memorial Church on arrival in Jackson and will be directed to homes and boarding houses where they can secure rooms at 50 cents, 75 cents, and $1 per night. We ought to have two thousand people at this meeting. Meantime, let all the Lord's people be engaged in prayer that this conference may inaugurate a new day in the progress of Mississippi Methodism.

THE METHODIST SANITORIUM AT SKOLIMOW.

By Maria Morozowa.

The American Methodist Mission truly and faithfully does the will of God. Notwithstanding the great help and charity given already, they have also established their own Sanitorium in Skolimow, near Warsaw, for workers and little children.

The Sanitorium consists of two buildings, one the Sanitorium itself, which has two floors. In the other buildings are bedrooms for the staff and convalescent workers. There is also a small study. The two-story house contains a large dining-room and also a play-room for children, a hospital, a dispensary, a bathroom, and down stairs a laundry and kitchen.

At present thirty children are here, and it must not be forgotten that all these have been found by the Mission in some miserable place, and have been saved from starvation and frost. Great care is taken of them, and their food is wholesome and nourishing. Occasionally a doctor comes to look after the weak children, who are in bed.

The staff personnel has also educational duties to perform. They must take care of, amuse, keep the children out of all kinds of mischief, give them gymnastics and drawing lessons, and teach them to make paper flowers. The very young children build castles of bricks and call the attention of each other to their architectural efforts.

It is no easy task to make them happy, and it must not be thought that the Sanitorium is a permanent home for the children; this is not so, for when the children grow strong they have to leave it for new comers. It is painful to part with little friends, but necessity compels, for other little sufferers await their turn to be touched with loving hands.

Some of the children when they are brought in cannot stand on their legs without help. At present a little girl is staying here who was found in Baranowicze among the refugees of Russia. She was so worn out that she could hardly move and lay a long while in bed. Now she sits, but still is not able to walk.

It must not be forgotten that in the Sanitorium are also grown up patients, for instance, Count Cherep-Spiridovitch. This poor young man from Russia was dangerously ill with typhus fever, then was obliged to have an operation in his throat, breathes through a silver tube, and when strong enough must undergo another operation.

Another inmate is a poor girl of eighteen years of age, affected with paralysis three years ago. What tragedy for one so young! This girl, Blanche Raszeka, three years ago came from England where she was born, although her parents were Poles. She was then an active girl, full of life and hope, and worked to help her parents. Suddenly she says her limbs became stiff, but still she hopes to get well. May God and charitable people help her! It is difficult to visualize an active girl chained to a cripple's chair, sitting there a pale and silent invalid. She is staying in the Sanitorium of the Methodist Mission at Skolimow, and it was touching to hear her speak with gratitude of the visit paid her by the Chief of the Mission for Poland, Mr. F. F. Woodward, who said, "I shall come to see you with my wife and baby."

Some refugees lose their children on the way from Russia. One of the servants in the kitchen relates that she became ill in Baranowicz and was taken to tho hospital, and so lost sight of her three children. When she got well she did not find them in Baranowicz. Then she came to Warsaw and began to search, and at last found them sound and safe in Skolimow.

There are many wonderful things to be said about the Sanitorium, but the principal thing is, all this help is free, and these enormous expenses are borne by the Methodist Mission.

The Mission fulfills God's will everywhere. That is, she helps all tho poor and afflicted, and for this reason—THE MISSION IS A BLESSING TO POLAND AND MANKIND.

Poverty may induce you to turn your cuffs, but never let it persuade you to turn your coat.—Selected.

Begin Right in Youth: Remember now thy Creator in the days of thy youth, while the evil days come not, nor the years draw nigh, when thou shalt say, I have no pleasure in them. Let us hear the conclusion of the whole matter: Fear God, and keep his commandments: for this is the whole duty of man.—Ecclesiastes 12:1, 13.

Obituaries

Obituaries not over 200 words in length will be published free of charge. All over 200 words must be paid for at the rate of 1 cent a word. Count the words and be sure to send the amount necessary with the obituary. That will save trouble all around. We cannot make discriminations. Memorial resolutions are subject to the same rule as obituaries.

A TRIBUTE.

To the members of the Shand's Bible Class of Rayne Memorial Methodist Church.

Dear Brothers: From our midst has been called one whom I loved as a brother, and I beg to submit this tribute of respect to his memory.

SAMUEL ALEXANDER MONTGOMERY as a Christian man is our point of approach to this character sketch. To say that he was a perfect man would not be true, and therefore unworthy. He was human and had those imperfections and infirmities of which our natures are the heirs in this life. It is enough to say he was sincere and honest, without pretense or affectation. He loved truth and honesty.

He was a man of strong personality and required full room for a personality that could not live as a copyist in all the ways in which he lived. He yielded to others that which he required for himself, yet he was not a man who compromised principles nor yielded convictions to purchase favor or power. Smaller men have gone to places of prominence or distinction by means he would have disdained to use, but none to truer honor. Few men have so preserved their own integrity and honest convictions of truth.

He was a man of judicial mind, yet he possessed an intuition of justice and right. He was not a man of notions, but of conviction, and from this point of approach he reached also his religious convictions. Such a man, such a mind could not dally with the technicalities of a traditional theology. Christianity to him was a life to be lived, not theories nor church provincialisms. With no pretensions to be peculiar or eccentric in religion, he was yet quite independent in matters merely incidental, but true in principle and spirit to Bible teachings in all fundamentals.

His devotions were not erratic or without due form. He accepted due forms of worship as the proper mode of expression of his faith and the emotions of his heart, and in all was sincere and true. His whole life was on a high plane without cant or pretense. He was kind and charitable to the humble poor and unfortunate, yet he never deemed that all true goodness resided in the slums, nor that esthetics was opposed to virtue. He lived a full life on a high plane, and has gone to his reward.

I commend not that we copy his life in our own, but rather, as he did, live lives that are true to ourselves, true to God and to our fellow-men.

Cordially his friend and your brother,

E. N. EVANS.

December 17, on motion, the above was approved as the tribute of the Shand's Bible Class and it was asked that it be published as such in the New Orleans Christian Advocate.

JOHN CREBBIN, Secretary.

Little KELLEY DYSON, son of Clarence and Bertha Dyson, was born in Abbeville, La., November 11, 1920, and died December 8, 1922, aged two years and twenty-seven days. Little Kelley was a great sufferer for one so young, and through most of his short life he felt the pains of his affliction. His place in the affection of his father and mother was exceedingly precious and his early departure from their embrace has left an aching void that only God can heal. But this precious little twig has budded on earth to bloom in heaven. Jesus said, "Suffer the little children to come unto me, for of such is the Kingdom of God." Heaven will be more attractive to the good Christian parents now since they are conscious that Little Kelley awaits their coming at the open door of Eternity. F. M. MILLER, P. C.

Abbeville, La.

MRS. ELIZA LEE JENNINGS, wife of J. W. Jennings, was born in the State of Alabama, January 20, 1877, and moved to Mississippi with her parents while a child. Here she met and married J. W. Jennings, December 26, 1894. To this union were born eight children; two are dead and six survive her to mourn her going. The six living are: Mrs. Lottie Holcolm, Miss Leona, Jimmie, Robert, Annie Mae, and Willie D. Jennings. She united with the Missionary Baptist Church when 14 years of age, but after her marriage she united with the Methodist Church, in 1905, and lived a consistent member of same till the death angel called her away, October 18, 1922. Sister Jennings was almost an invalid and suffered much for several months before death released her; but with Christian patience she endured to the end, waiting for the summons to "Go up higher." Her body was tenderly laid to rest in the cemetery at McGhee's chapel, near Como, Miss., there to await the resurrection morn. May the Heavenly Father give peace and comfort to the husband and children and dear ones left behind, making them to know his consolation, and finally uniting them in that beautiful home that God has prepared for them that love him.

Her pastor, A. F. MOORE.

Longtown, Miss.

Brother BUDD HINTON was born August 17, 1841, in Mississippi. He came to the State of Louisiana when he was one year old. His father settled near what was later known as Woodville, about eight miles south of what is now Rustou. He joined the M. E. Church, South, in 1870 at old Wesley Camp Ground, what is now Wesley Chapel church, of which the writer is pastor. It is one of the oldest church in North Louisiana. Brother Hinton was married to Miss Mattie Davis, September 13, 1867. To this happy union there were nine children born, seven of whom are living to-day—five daughters and two sons. He joined the Confederate army in 1861, and served till the surrender. He was at Monroe, where he was discharged with honors. I met Brother Hinton on the 28th of last November the first time. I arrived on this charge on that day and among the first men I met was Brother Hinton. I have been intimately associated with him all during the year. In his home I found him cheerful, happy, and always glad for the pastor to come. His home has always been the home of the preacher. In conversing with him on the Scripture I found him above the average in knowing God's Word and having a conviction of its worth to the soul. His Christian character was fixed. He was steadfast, unmovable, always abounding in the work of the Lord. He was happy among his people and had the confidence and esteem of them all. He was especially devoted to his wife and children—a devotion they fully returned in their kind attention to him during his illness. While we are waiting on this shore we can best honor the memory of our brother who is waiting on the other shore by always bravely fighting what is wrong and defending what is right. Then, when at our tired feet the breaking of the rippling waves upon the sands reminds us that from out the mists the determined face of the returning boatman comes with the summons that we must obey and be carried to the unseen shore, oh, may it then be said of us as I now say of him—

"One that never turned his back, but marched abreast forward;
Never doubted clouds would break;
Never dreamed, though right were worsted, wrong would triumph;
Held we fall to rise, are baffled to fight better,
Sleep to wake."

His pastor, L. W. SMART.

JAMES M. BOYD was born at Laclede, Mo., January 18, 1880. His youth was spent at his home-town. Later he came to Louisiana and was employed by the Kausas Land & Lumber Company, and stayed continually in their service in various capacities until his death at Standard, La., on July 30, 1922. He and Miss Mildred Raywinkle were happily married on June 24, 1908, and to their union were born two children, Glen and Helen Boyd. Brother Boyd joined the M. E. Church, South, about 1915, and held official relation most faithfully to his church until called hence. He was cheerful in thought, faithful to his work, and loved and honored by all who knew him. His devotion to his wife and children was beautiful—they were in mind in all of his plans. In his passing away they, the community in which he lived, and the church, lose a man that could be loved and trusted. We miss him very much; therefore, be it resolved:

1. That we bow submissively to the will of our Heavenly Father, who doeth all things well.

2. That we hereby express our tenderest sympathy to his widow and children and pray God to sustain them in their sore grief.

3. That copies of this paper be furnished Sister Mildred Boyd, the Recording Secretary, for insertion in our Quarterly Conference Record, and the New Orleans Christian Advocate for publication.

Signed by: W. W. Perry, H. E. Winkler, Committee.

WHEELER Business College BIRMINGHAM, ALA.
"WHEELER STUDENTS GET THE BEST POSITIONS"
Call or Write for Free Catalogue

IS IT INSURED?

No body knows when Fire or Lightning or Wind will rage and destroy. Somewhere every day church property is burning.

THE NATIONAL MUTUAL CHURCH INSURANCE COMPANY of CHICAGO

—The Methodist Mutual—has been furnishing protection AT COST upon easy annual payments since 1898. No assessments; legal reserve for protection of policy-holders same as stock companies. No agents. Deal direct. The oldest fire insurance company in the United States is a Mutual organized by Benjamin Franklin. Get the facts.

Write to HENRY P. MAGILL, Sec'ty. & Mgr. 1509 Insurance Exchange, Chicago, Ill.

Mrs. Alice Hargrove Barclay, Agent, M. E. Church, South, 314 Norton Building, Louisville, Ky.

QUALITY GOODS AT LOW PRICES
D. H. Holmes Co., LIMITED.

BOHNE & WILT, Booksellers, and Stationers, 1328 Dryades St., New Orleans, La. Baseball Goods, Religious Articles, Fishing Tackle, Periodicals, School Books.

Public Service

HAS BECOME THE ACTIVE PRACTICAL IDEAL OF THE STREET RAILWAY COMPANY WITH ITS REORGANIZATION AS NEW ORLEANS PUBLIC SERVICE, INC. WE SOLICIT HELPFUL SUGGESTIONS AND WISH TO KEEP SERVICE ALWAYS

On the Job

DR. H. B. BARTLETT
National Dental Parlors
Canal and Bourbon Sts.
Over Worner's Drug Store
Entrance on Bourbon Street
Phone Main 2193.
NEW ORLEANS

Crown and Bridge Specialist
Vitalized Air for Painless Extraction

Most Modern and Best Equipped Dental Parlors South.

Epworth League.

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.

New Orleans District.

On Tuesday, Decemher 19, the monthly meeting of the New Orleans District Union was held with the Carrollton Avenue Leaguue. The attendance was splendid, there being ahout 90 Leaguers and pastors present, and the spirit of the meeting was very uplifting.

In order to better acquaint all the Leagues with what the others were doing, each League told what they had done for Thanksgiving, which proved to be very heneficial and interesting. Among the various things done were: aiding poor families, holding speelal services, giving Thanksgiving programs at Institutes, delivering fruit and flowers to the sick, all of which proved the Second Department Superintendnts were right on the joh. Plans for Christmas were also told by the different Leagues; and with all the plans under way the New Orleans Leaguers will surely he busy spreading joy and sunshine all during the Christmas holldays.

Another real nice treat was short talks by our new presiding elder, Brother Drake, and also the new pastors, Brother Hill, Brother Foster, and also our heloved fellow-Leaguer, Brother Grambling. In his talk, Mr. Grambling, among other things, stated that the Leaguers of Louisiana need not think that just hecause we have uo man in the field that that means we are not going on. We are, and extensive plans will soon be hegun for the Fifth Assembly and that we as Leaguers in the State are going to do great things.

The New Orleans District extends to all Louisiana Leaguers the compliments of the season and trusts that the New Year will bring great joy and prosperity to them all.

RESOLUTIONS.

Whereas, on November 7, 1922, it pleased our Heavenly Father to remove from our midst by death our beloved brother, J. WESLEY ABNEY, therefore he it resolved:

1. That in the death of Brother Abney, whose fellowship it was an honor and pleasure to enjoy, we have sustained the loss of a fellow-Christian and a nohle citizen and an honored member of our community.

2. That the M. E. Church, South, and Sunday school offer to the bereaved family and mourning friends our heartfelt sympathy.

3. That a copy of these resolutions he sent to the family of the deceased, to the Jasper County News, and to the New Orleans Christian Advocate.

Signed hy: F. H. McLaurin, W. J. Stokes, B. H. Chatham, Committee.

MARRIED.

On November 26, 1922, at the Gibson Memorial parsonage, hy Rev. H. B. Cottrell, MR. F. N. MASSA, of Memphis, Tenn., to MISS OPAL JAMERSON, of Vicksburg, Miss.

On Decemher 11, at the Gibson Memorial parsonage, by Rev. T. B. Cottrell, MR. SAM D. WEBSTER, of Vicksburg, Miss., to MISS L. M. THOMPSON, of Germania, Miss.

A MESSAGE TO METHODIS EVERYWHERE.

The message referred to is to ministry and membership of the Methodist Episcopal Church, but it fits well the situation in the Methodist Episcopal Church, South; hence we pass it on. It is an appeal from the Board of Bishops of the Methodist Episcopal Church to their own people to save the church from the calamity of a failure of the Centenary program.

In their address the hishops tell how, in the providence of God, the Centenary Movement came; how its ideals and purposes were approved by Methodist people everywhere; how it gave to other Protestant churches tho inspiration to attempt great tasks, and how it heartened the Christian world. They say further:

"Just as the Movement had attracted the attention of the world, alas, the church cooled in its ardor and slackened in its enthusiasm. Now it is even suggested that the very word 'Centenary' is distasteful. Much has been made of the mistakes in policy and procedure; but men of experience know that mistakes always mark momentous movements. It is declared that the frequent appeals for funds have produced irritation in many quarters. Thoughtful people will not forget the stress of these recent months and years. Many destructive forces have been at work. These must be offset hy the employment of higher agencies. Frequent and repeated were the calls for men and money during the war. Never in the history of this nation did its citizens pour out their substances with such lavish hands. That this worked hardship on many caused no abatement of effort. There was no time for debate, no justification for delay. The crisis simply had to he met. It was met.

"Surely it would not be unreasonable in this hour of the extreme peril of our Lord's Kingdom throughout tho world to ask that the members of the Methodist Episcopal Church should meet the crisis by the gift of one tenth of their income. Our church has never given in this proportion. If it were to do so now, the financial demands, even of these days, would be fully met and more. Frankly, there can he no cause for irritation in the matter of appeals for money until tho church shall have met the standard of the gift of one-tenth of the income of its members.

"The task of the church is but fairly hegun. If the conditions of world-life were not so desperate, the case would not be so tragic. But for tho church to slacken its efforts at this junction will he an unspeakable calamity of world-wide proportion. India and the Orient are restive, tumultuous. The world war has come and gone and, alas, without the chastening to the belligerent nations of Europe which was earnestly hoped for and expected by those of spiritual discernment. At this moment the nations of Europe are seething in hitterness and hatred. As for our own country, it liberally riots in pleasure, in luxury, in money madness, in materialism. This is not the hour to consider our task as either accomplished or hopeless. Notwithstanding all admitted error in judgment and all failure in high purpose, we record it as our deliberate conviction that the period since the launching of the Centenary has been the greatest in the life of the church since we have known the church. As the direct result of this forward movement we have to-day a new and larger and more virile Methodism. Our pioneer leadership inspired similar undertaking in all the other Christian communions of the country. And it is not too much to claim that we have to-day a new and larger and more virile Protestantism. A new note is manifest in the preaching of the evangelical pulpits of the United States. The despair of these recent years has brought to truthful hearts a new consciousness and realization of the resources which are in Christ. In these great facts lies the hope of a new and better world."

The Methodist Episcopal Church faces practically the same situation as our own—the slowing down of work in every field, home and foreign, to which Centenary money has been appropriated and the threatened abandonment of some Centenary enterprises. Our own College of Bishops has issued a statement and an appeal to their church concerning this situation and this threatened calamity. Our leaders see that to fail now to carry through the program we pledged to complete will be for Southern Methodism to surrender the best chance that has yet come to make our church a mighty factor in the bringing in of the Kingdom of Jesus Christ. We must not fail; too much is at stake to even count the cost of carrying through the enterprises of the Missionary Centenary. Whatever sacrifices are demanded we must see it through. This, by God's help, we will do.

TETTERINE

Makes Hair Beautiful, Free from Dandruff and Keeps the Scalp Healthy. 60c at your Druggist's, or from The SHUPTRINE CO., SAVANNAH, GA.

MOTHERS AND DAUGHTERS

Read This Letter from Mrs. W. S. Hughes

Greenville, Del.—"I was under the impression that my eldest daughter had some internal trouble as ever since the first time her sickness appeared she had to go to bed and even had to quit school once for a week. I always take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound myself so I gave it to her and she has received great benefit from it. You can use this letter for a testimonial if you wish, as I cannot say too much about what your medicine has done for me and for my daughter."—Mrs. WM. S. HUGHES, Greenville, Delaware.

Mothers and oftentimes grandmothers have taken and have learned the value of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. So they recommend the medicine to others.

The best test of any medicine is what it has done for others. For nearly fifty years we have published letters from mothers, daughters, and women, young and old, recommending the Vegetable Compound. They know what it did for them and are glad to tell others. In your own neighborhood are women who know of its great value.

Mothers—daughters, why not try it?

CHAMBERLAIN'S COUGH REMEDY

FOR THE RELIEF OF Coughs, Colds, Croup WHOOPING COUGH, HOARSENESS BRONCHITIS

—SOLD EVERYWHERE—

DEEP-SEATED FRECKLES

Need attention NOW or may remain all winter. Use the old and time-tried guaranteed treatment that has given satisfaction to millions of women for over 14 years, and rid yourself of these homely spots. Ask for

Othine--Double Strength

At all Druggists and Department Stores.

Easy Now to Double Winter Egg Yield

Proven Remedy Gives Remarkable Results—Turns "Boarder" Hens Into Profitable Layers—

Winter egg yields, double and treble those of former years, are now being made by many poultrymen through the use of a compound that science has finally perfected.

This wonderful medicine, which is called "Hick's Egg-Lay," contains rare and expensive ingredients mixed so as to quickly increase the egg yield. The medicine acts on the reproductive organs and causes double and treble the usual number of ova (the germ cell of the egg) to be produced. Thus you get many more eggs and get them during the time they bring the highest prices.

Hick's Egg-Lay is prepared for convenience in tablet form. Simply dissolve one tablet in a quart of water. This is the surest, easiest and quickest way ever discovered to get more eggs.

A Trial Costs You Nothing

Mr. Hick is so confident that Hick's Egg-Lay Tablets will double and treble your egg yield that he is making a special guaranteed offer of one regular double strength $1.00 package of Egg-Lay Tablets and a full size $1.00 package of Hick's famous Lice-Go Tablets all for $1.00.

Lice-Go is added to the drinking water. The medicine taken into the system of the bird comes out through the oil glands of the skin and every louse or mite quickly leaves the body. Keeps the birds always free [illegible] poultry raiser doing any work. If you would rather have two $1.00 packages of Egg-Lay Tablets [illegible] $1.00 packages of Lice-Go instead of one of each, also so on your order. Send $1.00 today [illegible] money order, check, etc.) to Hick Mfg. Co., Dept. 215, 1414 So. Wabash Ave., Chicago, Illinois. If you prefer, send no money, just your name and address and pay postman $1.00 and postage on delivery. If after thirty days trial you are not absolutely satisfied, write Mr. Hick and your money will be refunded. This offer is absolutely guaranteed, so don't hesitate to make the test.

"PUT THE BEST BEFORE YOUR GUEST"

Henry Clay Brand Coffee

NOT JUST ORDINARY COFFEE

IT IS BETTER

FOR SALE AT ALL FIRST CLASS GROCERS

Sunday School

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE SUNDAY SCHOOL NOTES.

Last Sunday was spent at Canton. This congregation have built a building they can put a type "A" Sunday school in, and they are determined to work to that end. I enjoyed being with these lovely people very much. It was a great blessing to me and I received great good from it. I had the pleasure for the first time of teaching a Teacher Training Class during the lesson period in a Sunday school. I usually have the pleasure of teaching lessons in the Adult Student.

The whole Conference and State may well be proud of the building at Canton. It is a credit to any city. May God continue to bless this people. Brother Gatlin is in favor with the folks and everything was looking to better things ahead.

Use Brother Hull. He is on full time now, so call on him. I am anxious for him to spend his time on the circuits and especially in the Circuit Institute work. Any time is a good time for Sunday school work if the way is just opened for it.

Our prayer for the whole Sunday school family is that God will bless you and use you and make you each and every one a happy and prosperous Christian worker. Pray for the work and the workers. Yours in Him,

JOHN C. CHAMBERS,
Superintendent of Sunday Schools.

NORTH MISSISSIPPI.

That Class At Dundee.

The "Torchbearer" Wesley Bible class, of Dundee, Miss., though less than one year old, has done a notable work from the very day of its organization, January 8, 1922. Under the leadership of Mr. M. P. Myers—a fine young layman, a graduate of the A. and M. College—as teacher, and Mrs. Earl Lake, a magnetic and consecrated young matron, as president, the class has gone forward in all good works by leaps and bounds. There is no place of community uplift and welfare work in which it has not made itself a mighty force. So that it is today recognized as the most potent social, moral and religious factor in the community's life. And this is exactly what every organized adult Bible class should become in its own community.

Beginning with twelve members, this intelligent group immediately made a survey of the village and surrounding territory; listed every adult, male and female, who should be lined up with them in Bible study and Christian service; they then made definite plans to win them, put on the membership campaign, and kept persistently at it until every single prospect was enrolled as active or associate member.

The next step was to place the "Program of Service" wall chart on the walls, and make it the actual standard model and outline of work. The president checked up on the chart each Sunday with a gold star any new form or phase of Christian service work done. Soon the entire list was so starred—to the joy and thanksgiving of all parties concerned.

While in everything "Torchbearers" have wrought well and lived up to their motto, "Let your light so shine," their outstanding achievement for the glory of God is an extension Sunday school, organized last July at a remote, neglected point on Two-Mile Lake, six miles from Dundee, Miss.

With the help of their pastor, Rev. J. M. Wyatt, volunteer members of the class organized the new school, adopted it as their home mission work, pledged themselves to foster and sponsor it until local leaders could be developed, and furnish volunteer superintendent and teachers from their own ranks. The new school has abundantly fulfilled the hopes and answered the prayers of its organizers. It has never failed to meet a single Sunday afternoon since its organization, and it has grown steadily in numbers, interest and enthusiasm, with an attendance of 65 or 70, for the past two months.

The community is responding by showing signs of awakening self-consciousness and a new religious outreach. Already the people of this extension school are dreaming of a little chapel in which to house its work more adequately, and perhaps organize a new rural church. Here is a rich field for the district evangelism provided for by our last Annual Conference.

What the "Torchbearers" have done in extension work, almost any adult class within the North Mississippi Conference might do. Thus would the waste places in our midst be made "to blossom as the rose." And thus could Bishop Ainsworth's magnificent plan for evangelizing our territory be hastened to a glorious consummation.

Will not all our adult classes fall into line with the Bishop, and prepare for a great, sweeping advance of evangelical Christianity through prayer, co-operation and increasing efforts for that great end?

As it has been this Conference Adult Superintendent's privilege to organize the "Torchbearers" and sponsor their activities throughout the year, so will it be her joy and crown if she may encourage or help others to take up the same line of constructive work for the extension of Christ's blessed cause.

Yours for a Spirit-filled and Spirit-led work in 1923,

MRS. J. M. WYATT,
Superintendent Adult Bible Classes.

FIFTH SUNDAY OFFERING.

By resolution, the recent session of the North Mississippi Conference directed that the offering on the fifth Sunday in December in all our Sunday schools go to the Sunday School Board of the Conference for the maintenance of the District Training Schools now being fostered by the Board. Whatever is raised in any given district will be used for the Training School in that district. We have no work before us of greater imporance. A trained leadership in the church is as vital to the future of the church as is a trained leadership in our public school system. The more we put into this fund, the better grade school the district will have. I appeal to the pastors not only on the ground that the Conference ordered this to be done, but on the higher ground of the need of these district schools and that they are a sure investment. The $700 received from the fifth Sunday offering last year was a tremendous help in putting over our program. These district schools made a very definite contribution to our Sunday school work last year. We had a net increase in church membership last year of about 1000, but we had an increase in Sunday school enrollment of about 4000. Help us again as you did last year and we will have another good year.

E. S. LEWIS,
Chairman Sunday School Board.
Columbus, Miss.

ITSUKUSHIMA THE BEAUTIFUL.

Rev. I. L. Shaver, of Hiroshima, Japan, writes: "During the past quarter two young people were converted, a young boy and a young girl, the last of an entire family to come into the church this year. The elder son in the family became a Christian first. He entered the Imperial University in Tokyo, but he kept praying for his people, and, as a result, they have all become Christians and have joined our church. Many young men are becoming Christians in Japan to-day, and it is my hope and prayer that they, too, may lead their parents to Christ. The hope of Japan no doubt lies in its young people, for the older people as a rule are so deeply devoted to their heathen gods. We have started regular preaching services at Itsukushima, the beautiful, and long famous and sacred island of the Shinteists. The large Torii, or big red gate, that stands in the sea near the island, is a symbol of their faith, and on top of the highest mountain there is a fire that has burned for 1100 years in honor of their gods. We hope that with the few Christians there we may be able to lift up the Cross of Christ, that at least in the hearts of a few the Cross may take the place of the torii, and that the fire of God's love may burn from the mountain-tops until idols and false gods shall be cast down, and God, even our God, shall be exalted in the hills."

OUR OPPORTUNITY IN CUBA.

By Garfield Evans.

Authority was given the Epworth League Board by the General Conference to undertake definite work for the young people of our congregations on the mission fields; expense for this work was likewise provided for in the regular budget of general assessments. This means that there should be a Superintendent of Young People's Work on each one of our mission fields.

Having previously made the survey for Cuba, the Central Office directed me to include Cuba in my winter's itinerary in order to make definite plans for our work there. I now find myself in Habana, having taken the picturesque route along the Florida East Coast by Palm Beach and Miami; then across that marvelous bit of engineering, the Florida East Coast Railway extension, where the railway goes from island to island over 125 miles beyond the mainland. One bridge alone measures seven miles, crossing water 40 feet deep.

Does any one ask, "Is the Centenary a success?" One look inside our Central Mission in Habana should be sufficient to satisfy the most critical. One unit of the new building is already completed and in use, and the second unit may be ready in about three months. The completed unit is now being used as a dormitory, school rooms, and church. The school work done here is an extension of Candler College, which is located in a suburb five miles away. Upon inquiring how the school was getting along, the principal replied that he had all he could take care of, and when the children were seen in classes it was readily seen why there was no necessity to solicit for pupils: the problem is to take care of those who come.

Of the 2,500,000 population of the entire island, one-fifth of this number, or over half a million population, is to be found in Habana. Our largest plant on the island is to be found here, the Central Mission. It is built of the prevailing type of brick and stucco and finished inside with tile floors and cedar and mahogany wood work. The decorative effect is very impressive, especially with the finished wood work of mahogany. It must be observed that mahogany is as cheap here as oak is in the States; many of the railway crossties are mahogany.

My first night in Habana I attended a quarterly conference. I expected it to be the usual type that is found in the States, but imagine my surprise when I observed that there were about fifty in attendance and two-thirds of these were young people. My surprise was increased as the service was prolonged; the district superintendent preached first, the quarterly conference was held, and this was followed by a talk by the visiting speaker, which had to be interpreted, and during all this time not one of the young people left.

Practically two-thirds of every congregation is made up of young people. They have capacity and are aspiring as the average young people of any race. To say that there are no problems in working with them is not to understand them or the mission of the church. But the fact that there are problems is evidence that the church is needed to direct their activities.

Refreshes Weary Eyes
When Your Eyes feel Dull and Heavy, use Murine. It Instantly Relieves that Tired Feeling—Makes them Clear, Bright and Sparkling. Harmless. Sold and Recommended by All Druggists.

MURINE FOR YOUR EYES

ANGELL'S

COUGH and WHOOPING
Cough Syrup
Easy to Take
No Habit-Forming Drugs. Formula of
DR. RICHARD ANGELL
Prepared by
JAMES R. ANGELL,
New Orleans, La.
PRICE 35c AND 65c
AT ALL DRUGGISTS

FROM BOYCE, LA.

Dear Brother Carley: I wish to say through the Advocate that we have been very kindly received by the people of the charge. On our arrival at the parsonage, we found a nice donation of groceries.

We hope to have a fruitful year for the church and the kingdom of our Lord. We are asking our people to undertake great things for God, and to expect great things from God.

Yours in His service,
E. L. CARGILL, P. C.

FROM BROOKLYN, MISS.

Dear Brother Carley: Glad to say, my family and I arrived at the parsonage of Brooklyn and Bond charge last Friday night (15th). We were met at the train by the good ladies of Brooklyn, by the former pastor, Brother Walters, and some of the stewards of the church, and conveyed to our present home, where a nice, warm, sumptuous supper awaited us, which we enjoyed very much after an all-day trip from our former charge. Our reeeption here has been all we could ask.

Everything starts off well, and we are looking forward to a very successful year. Pray for us that such may be.

Yours truly.
W. L. BLACKWELL, Pastor.
Brooklyn, Miss.

Life is not a diamond, but a seed with possibilities of endless growth. —J. R. Miller.

QUARTERLY CONFERENCES.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

Brookhaven Dist.—First Round.

Bayou Pierre, at Center Point, Dec. 30, 31.
Hazlehurst, 7 p.m., Dec. 31.

Makes a Family Supply of Cough Remedy

Really better than ready-made cough syrups, and saves about $2. Easily and quickly prepared.

If you combined the curative properties of every known "ready-made" cough remedy, you probably could not get as much real curative power as there is in this simple home-made cough syrup, which is easily prepared in a few minutes.

Get from any druggist 2½ ounces of Pinex, pour it into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with syrup, using either plain granulated sugar syrup, clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, as desired. The result is a full pint of really better cough syrup than you could buy ready-made for three times the money. Tastes pleasant and never spoils.

This Pinex and Syrup preparation gets right at the cause of a cough and gives almost immediate relief. It loosens the phlegm, stops the nasty throat tickle and heals the sore, irritated membranes so gently and easily that it is really astonishing.

A day's use will usually overcome the ordinary cough and for bronchitis, croup, hoarseness and bronchial asthma, there is nothing better.

Pinex is a most valuable concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, and has been used for generations to break up severe coughs.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with full directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

Dicks' Antiseptic
Kills Germs

For Cuts, Wounds and Burns. Especially fine for mouth diseases, pyorrhoea and sore throat.

25 CTS.

Pleasant Grove, at Pleasant Grove, Jan. 6, 7.
Monticello, at Monticello, 7 p.m., Jan. 7.
Adams, at Adams, Jan. 13, 14.
Bogue Chitto and Norfield, at Norfield, 7 p.m., Jan. 14.
Meadville and Bude, at Bude, Jan. 21.
Wesson and Beauregard, at Wesson, 7 p.m., Jan. 21.
Gallman, at Bethesda, Jan. 24.
Foxworth, at Hopewell, Jan. 27, 28.
Tylertown, 7 p.m., Jan. 28.
Osyka, at Osyka, Jan. 31.
Barlow, at Rehoboth, Feb. 3, 4.
Brookhaven, 7 p.m., Feb. 4.
McComb, Pearl River Ave., Feb. 7.
Crystal Springs, 11 a.m., Feb. 11.
Georgetown, at Georgetown, 7 p.m., Feb. 11.
Magnolia, Feb. 14.
McComb, Centenary, 11 a.m., Feb. 18.
McComb, La Branch St., 7 p.m., Feb. 18.
Scotland, at New Hope, Feb. 21.
Summit and Topisaw, at Topisaw, Feb. 24, 25.
Fernwood, at Fernwood, 7 p.m., Feb. 25.

The district stewards will meet at 1:30 p.m., Thursday, December 28, in the Methodist church in Brookhaven. The pastors will also be welcome.

H. M. ELLIS, P. E.

Hattiesburg Dist.—First Round.

Richton, at Richton, Dec. 24, 11 a.m.
Hattiesburg, Main St., Dec. 21, 7 p.m.
Oloh, at Clyde, Dec. 31, 11 a.m.
Silver Creek, Dec. 31, 7 p.m.
Collins, Jan. 7, 11 a.m.
Seminary, Jan. 7, 7 p.m.
Petal, Jan. 14, 11 a.m.
Bonhommie, Jan. 14, 7 p.m.
Heidelberg, at Vossburg, Jan. 21, 11 a.m.
Ellisville, Jan. 21, 7 p.m.
Williamsburg, at Good Hope, Jan. 28, 11 a.m.
Prentiss, Jan. 28, 29, 7 p.m.
Eucutta, at New Hope, Thurs., Feb. 1, 11 a.m.
Taylorsville, Feb. 4, 11 a.m.
Mt. Olive-Magee, at Magee, Feb. 4, 7 p.m.
Hattiesburg, Court St., Feb. 11, 11 a.m.
Purvis, Feb. 11, 12, 7 p.m., 9:30 a.m.
Lucedale ct., at Merrill, Feb. 18, 11 a.m.
New Augusta, Feb. 18, 7 p.m.
Sumrall, Wed., Feb. 21, 7 p.m.
Leakesville, at Pine Grove, Feb. 25, 11 a.m.
Lucedale, Feb. 25, 7 p.m.
Avera, Mar. 4, 11 a.m.
Hatticsburg, Broad St., Mar. 4, 7 p.m.

The district stewards are called to meet in Main Street Church, Hattiesburg, at 1:30 p.m. on Thursday, Dec. 28, 1922. Let all the stewards be present, as matters of importance are to be considered. Pastors are invited to attend.

W. W. GRAVES, P. E.

Jackson Dist.—First Round.

Terry, at Terry, Dec. 30, 11 a.m., 2:30 p.m.
Florence, at Braxton, Dec. 30, 7 p.m.
Florence, at Braxton, Dec. 31, 11 a.m.
Canton, Jan. 7, 11 a.m., 2 p.m.
Bolton, at Raymond, Jan. 14, 11 a.m., 2 p.m.
Edwards, Jan. 21, 11 a.m., 2 p.m.
Flora, Jan. 21, 7 p.m.
Flora, Jan. 22, 2 p.m.
Madison, Jan. 24, 11 a.m.
Satartia, at Mt. Olivet, Jan. 27, 28, 11 a.m.
Bentonia, Jan. 28, 2 p.m., 7 p.m.
Harrisville, at Rexford, Feb. 3, 4, 11 a.m.
Mendenhall and D'Lo, at D'Lo, Feb. 4, 2:30, 7 p.m.
Camden, at Camden, Feb. 13, 14, 11 a.m.
Sharon, at Sharon, Feb. 14, 2:30 p.m.
Vaughn, Feb. 16, 11 a.m.
Benton, at Midway, Feb. 17, 11 a.m.
Eden, at Eden, Feb. 18, 2:30 p.m., 7:30 p.m.
Yazoo City circuit, at ———, Feb. 24, 25, 11 a.m.
Yazoo City, Feb. 25, 2:30, 7 p.m.
Brandon, at Pelahatchie, Mar. 4, 11 a.m., 2 p.m.
Monterey, at Mt. Carmel, Feb. 5, 11 a.m.

The district stewards are called to meet in the Sunday school room at Galloway Memorial Church, December 28, at 9 a.m. A full attendance is desired. We will be glad to have the pastors and lay leaders in attendance that we may have a full discusslon of the work before us for the year.

M. L. BURTON, P. E.

Meridian Dist.—First Round.

Meridian, Fifth Street, Dec. 31.
Porterville, at Chapel Hill, Jan. 6, 7.
Scooba, Jan. 7, p.m.
Cleveland, at Mellen, Jan. 12.
DeKalb, at Pleasant Ridge, Jan. 13, 14.
Vimville, at Pleasant Hill, Jan. 20, 21.
Meridian, Seventh Ave., Jan. 21, p.m.
Daleville, at Lockhart, Jan. 21, 22.
Lauderdale and Electric Mills, at Elec. M., Jan. 28.
Waynesboro circuit, at Fedora, Feb. 3, 4.
Waynesboro, Feb. 4.
Matherville, at Poplar Springs, Feb. 10, 11.
DeSoto, at Crandall, Feb. 11, 12.
Enterprise, Feb. 15, 16.
Pachuta, Feb. 16, 17.
Quitman, Feb. 18.
Shubuta, Feb. 18, p.m.
Bucatunna, at State Line, Feb. 25.

The district stewards will meet at Central Church, Meridian, on Friday, 10 o'clock a.m., December 29. The pastors are invited to be present.

PAUL D. HARDIN, P. E.

Newton Dist.—First Round.

Neshoba, at Sandtown, Jan. 5.
North Neshoba, at Hope, Jan. 6, 7.
Philadelphia, Jan. 7, 8.
Carthage, at Carthage, Jan. 11.
Walnut Grove, at W. G., Jan. 12.
Harperville and Lena, at Harperville, Jan. 13, 14.
Laymen's Rally, at Jackson, Jan. 16, 17.
Trenton, at New Prospect, Jan. 20, 21.
Forest and Morton, at Forest, Jan. 21, 7 p.m.
Rose Hill, at Homewood, Jan. 27, 28.
Montrose, at Montrose, Jan. 31.
Lake, at Lawrence, Feb. 3, 4.
Bay Springs, at Holder's, Feb. 7.
Decatur and Hickory, at Hickory, Feb. 11.
Chunky, at Chunky, Feb. 14.
Shiloh, at Shiloh, Feb. 17, 18.
Newton, at Newton, Feb. 21.
Raleigh, at Raleigh, Feb. 23.
Homewood, at Homewood, Feb. 24, 25.
Union, at Union, Feb. 28.
Laurel, First Church, March 4, 11 a.m., 3 p.m.
Laurel, Kingston, March 5, 7 p.m.
Laurel, West End, March 6, 7 p.m.

The district stewards are called to meet in the Methodist church, Newton, Miss., Dec. 29, 10:30 o'clock a.m. Pastors are invited to attend this meeting.

Do not fail to attend the great Methodist Rally in Jackson, Jan. 16, 17. Who? All preachers; five laymen from every charge of less than 500 members; ten laymen from every charge of 500 or more members. Hosts of Methodists from all over the State will be there. Be sure to be one of them.

J. A. MOORE, P. E.

Seashore Dist.—First Round.

Logtown, 11 a.m., Dec. 31.
Bay St. Louis, 7 p.m., Dec. 31.
Americus, Fri., 11 a.m., Jan. 5.
Moss Point, 11 a.m., Jan. 7.
Escatawpa, 3 p.m., Jan. 7.
Pascagoula, 7 p.m., Jan. 7.
Lumberton, 11 a.m., Jan. 14.
Columbia Mission, at Hub, 3 p.m., Jan. 14.
Columbia, 7 p.m., Jan. 14.
Poplarville, 11 a.m., Jan. 21.
Picayune, 7 p.m., Jan. 21.
Carriere, Mon., 11 a.m., Jan. 22.

SORES BOILS, CUTS and BURNS have been healed since 1820 with

Gray's Ointment

Sold by all druggists. Write for sample to W. F. Gray & Co., 707 Gray Bldg., Nashville, Tenn.

666 quickly relieves Colds, LaGrippe, Constipation, Biliousness & Headaches.

Vancleave, at Vancleave, 11 a.m., Wed., Jan. 24.
Mentorum, at Alexandria Memorial, 11 a.m., Saturday, Jan. 27.
Brooklyn, 11 a.m., Jan. 28.
Wiggins, 7 p.m., Jan. 28.
Saucier, at Saucier, Wed., 7 p.m., Jan. 31.
Ocean Springs, at Ocean Springs, 11 a.m., Feb. 4.
Back Bay, 7 p.m., Feb. 4.
Gulfport, Q. C., Mon., 7:30 p.m., Feb. 5.
Biloxi, Q. C., Tues., 7:30 p.m., Feb. 6.
Long Beach, Q. C., Wed., 7:30 p.m., Feb. 7.

The district stewards, the district lay leader, and all the charge lay leaders are requested to meet at Gulfport Methodist church at 10 o'clock, December 28. Matters of importance are to be discussed and settled for the year. The pastors are invited to come, but if they cannot make two trips, they will be expected to meet in a Preachers' Institute at Gulfport, Thursday and Friday, January 25, 26. Bishop Ainsworth will arrange matters for consideration. Let no pastor fail to attend. Let us all begin now for a great forward movement. I urge the stewards to collect a part of their pastors' salary at once. He will need it. Some have had long moves. So, brethren, please don't wait until the quarterly conference meets. Let us all begin now working and praying for a thousand souls to be saved, and a level district by Conference. We can have it if we will.

W. M. SULLIVAN, P. E.

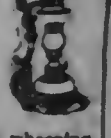
Vicksburg Dist.—First Round.

Nebo, 11 a.m., Dec. 31.
Fayette, 7:30 p.m., Dec. 31.
Harriston, at Lorman, 11 a.m., Jan. 7.
Port Gibson, 7:30 p.m., Jan. 7.
Hermanville, 11 a.m., Jan. 14.
Utica, 7:30 p.m., Jan. 14, 15.
Washington, 11 a.m., Jan. 21.
Natchez, 7:30 p.m., Jan. 21.
Rosetta, 11 a.m., Jan. 26.
Gloster, 11 a.m., Jan. 27.
Centerville, 11 a.m., Jan. 28.
Woodville, 7:30 p.m., Jan. 28.
Rocky Springs, at Willows, 11 a.m., Feb. 4.
Vicksburg, Gibson Memorial, 7:30 p.m., Feb. 4, 5.
Roxie, 11 a.m., Feb. 11.
Vicksburg, Crawford Street, 7:30 p.m., Feb. 11, 12.
Oak Ridge, at Flower Hill, 11 a.m. Feb. 14.
Louise and Holly Bluff, at H. B., 11 a.m., Feb. 18.
Silver City, 7:30 p.m., Feb. 18.
Mayersville, Feb. 24.
Angulla at Delta City, 11 a.m., Feb. 25.
Rolling Fork, 7:30 p.m., Feb. 25.

The district stewards are called to meet in the Crawford Street Church, Vicksburg, at 11:30 a.m., on Friday, Dec. 29, 1922. Please let all of the stewards be present. Matters of importance will come before the meeting.

J. R. JONES, P. E.

Whooping Cough



Asthma, Spasmodic Croup, Bronchitis Coughs and Influenza.

The most widely used remedy for whooping cough and spasmodic croup. The little lamp vaporizes the remedy while the patient sleeps.

Introduced in 1879

Vapo-Cresolene

"Used While You Sleep"

Send for descriptive booklet 43A. Sold by druggists
Vapo-Cresolene Co., 62 Cortlandt St., N. Y.

REV. C. NORMAN GUICE IN GREAT MEETING AT RICH HILL, MO.

One of the greatest evangelist campaigns ever held in the little town of Rich Hill, Mo., came to a close Sunday night, December 3. The evangelist, Rev. C. Norman Guice, and his singer, Mr. Fred McCleskey, came to us on November 12, and for three weeks led this campaign in the preaching of the gospel and sacred song. In spite of the fact that the Presbyterian church began a similar campaign just across the street from the Methodist church, the crowds at our services were large and continued to grow until people were standing in great numbers about the walls of the building. From the very first there was manifest a deep interest and this interest did not lag in the least, but gradually grew until it came to a climax at the closing service, when about twenty-five people were standing at the altar as an evidence of surrendered lives to Christ. One hundred and twenty-five people responded to the evangelist's proposition of a surrendered life to Christ, and reconsecration. One hundred and one of this number have united with the Methodist church and we expect to receive twelve or fifteen more. It was a great service we had Dec. 10, when these one hundred stood at the altar to receive holy baptism and take the vows of church membership.

Not only were there many conversions, but the whole church was revived also. Over one hundred people responded to Brother Guice's proposition to establish a family altar in their homes. There will be family worship in many homes now that did not have family worship before the meeting. About thirty young people pledged themselves to life service in the Kingdom of God. The Sunday school has been greatly helped by the meeting. The attendance reached 261 during the revival. The prayer meeting, the Leagues, and all other departments of the church have greatly improved.

I want to say to my brethren in the pastorate, if you are looking for an evangelist to assist you, if you can get Brother Guice, you will be fortunate indeed. Guice is a strong preacher. He is logical in his thinking, pleasing in his manner and the delivery of his discourse, unsensational, a splendid judge of human nature, and successful in leading men and women to the point of decision. He is blessed with a voice and power of enunciation that make him easily heard by great audiences. He has remarkable power of endurance, and is an untiring worker. I consider Guice as one of our greatest general evangelists. The people of Rich Hill will gladly welcome him back at any time.

Mr. McCleskey is an artist in his line, and won the hearts of all our people with his inspiring evangelistic solos and leadership in song.

E. D. LEWIS, Pastor.

Breaks Up CROUP
Colds, Coughs, LaGrippe, Flu, and a valuable aid in treatment of Pneumonia.
CAPU-SAV
clears the phlegm, reduces inflammation, penetrates. White salve; does not discolor clothing. In handy, collapsible tubes, 25c, at drug stores, or sent by mail.
CAPUDINE CO. :: :: RALEIGH, N. C.

WINTERSMITH'S CHILL TONIC
SOLD 50 YEARS
A FINE GENERAL TONIC

CANCER HOSPITAL. Intra-venous treatment for cancer. Operation, Radium and X-Ray unnecessary. Booklet giving full information upon request. Box 2127, ATLANTA, GA.

FREEDOM FROM LAXATIVES
Discovery by Scientists Has Replaced Them.

Pills and salts give temporary relief from constipation only at the expense of permanent injury, says an eminent medical authority.

Science has found a newer, better way—a means as simple as Nature itself.

In perfect health a natural lubricant keeps the food waste soft and moving. But when constipation exists this natural lubricant is not sufficient. Medical authorities have found that the gentle lubricating action of Nujol most closely resembles that of Nature's own lubricant. As Nujol is not a laxative it cannot gripe. It is in no sense a medicine. And like pure water it is harmless and pleasant.

Nujol is prescribed by physicians; used in leading hospitals. Get a bottle from your druggist today.—Advertisement.

QUARTERLY CONFERENCES.

NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE

Aberdeen Dist.—First Round.

Buena Vista, at B. V., Dec. 30, 31.
Verona, at Verona, Jan. 6, 7.
Sbannon and Nettleton, at S., Jan. 7, 8.
Woodland, at Mantee, Jan. 13, 14.
Nettleton, at Carolina, Jan. 20, 21.
Greenwood Springs, at G. S., Jan. 24.
Vardaman, at V., Jan. 27, 28.
Calhoun City, at C. C., Jan. 28, 29.
Houlka, at Houlka, Feb. 3, 4.
Salem and Ecru, at E., Feb. 10, 11.
Randolph, at Randolph, Feb. 13.
Tocopola, at Thaxton, Feb. 14.
Fulton, at Van Buren, Feb. 17, 18.
Tremont, at Tremont, Feb. 18, 19.
Eupora and Mabin, at Eupora, Feb. 24, 25.
Smithville, at Smithville, Feb. 20.
Bellefontaine, at B., Feb. 23.
Mathiston, at Mathiston, Feb. 25, 26.
Algoma, at Algoma, March 3.

T. H. DORSEY, P. E.

Columbus Dist.—First Round.

Artesia, preaching, Dec. 24; Q. C., Feb. 1.
Chester, at Nebo, Dec. 30, 31.
Ackerman and Wier, at Wier, Dec. 31, Jan. 1.
Kosciusko ct., at East Union, Jan. 6.
Kosciusko sta., Jan. 7, a.m.
McCool, at Bowle's, Jan. 7, 8.
Macon ct., at ———, Jan. 13, 14.
Crawford and Shafers, at Crawford, Jan. 14, 15.
Mashulaville, at Mashulaville, Jan. 20, 21.
Shuqualak, at Shuqualak, Jan. 21, 22.
High Point, at White Hall, Jan. 27.
Louisville, Jan. 28, a.m.
Noxapater, at Noxapater, Jan. 28, 29.
Starkville, Feb. 4, a.m.
Ethel, at Ethel, Feb. 4, 5.
Sturgis, at Sturgis, Feb. 10, 11.
Cedar Bluff, at Cedar Bluff, Feb. 17, 18.
Mayhew and Sessums, at Sessums, Feb. 25, 26.

A. T. McILWAIN, P. E.

Corinth District—First Round.

Wheeler ct., at Wheeler, Dec. 30, 31, a.m.
Potts Camp, at P. C., Jan. 3.
Hickory Flat, at H. F., Jan. 4.
Myrtle, at Myrtle, Jan. 5.
Mo[illegible]ville ct., at Allen's Chapel, Jan. 7.
Mar[illegible]achie ct., at Shiloh, Jan. 9.
Marietta ct., at Marietta, Jan. 10.
Rienzi ct., at Rienzi, Jan. 11.
Chalybeate ct., at Camp Ground, Jan. 12.
Ripley sta., Jan. 12, 14, night.
Silver Springs ct., at Mt. Carmel, Jan. 13, 14.
Great State Conference on Evangelism, for all pastors and church officials, to be held at Jackson, Miss., Jan. 16 and 17.
Burnsville ct., at Hebron, Jan. 19.
Iuka ct., at Snow Down, Jan. 20, 21.
Iuka sta., Jan 21, p.m.; Jan. 22, a.m.
All pastors of the Corinth District are called to meet the presiding elder in Corinth for special conference, Tuesday and Wednesday, Jan. 23 and 24.
Paden ct., at Westt Side, Jan. 26.
Belmont ct., at Golden, Jan. 27.
Tishomingo ct., at Tishomingo, Jan. 28, 29.

J. B. RANDOLPH, P. E.

Greenwood Dist.—First Round.

Moorehead, Dec. 31, a.m.
indianola, Dec. 31, p.m.
Inverness, at Inverness, Jan. 7, a.m.
Belzoni, Jan. 7, p.m.
Tutwiler, at Tutwiler, Jan. 14, a.m.
Drew, at Drew, Jan. 14, p.m.
Great Rally for Home Missions and Evangelism at Jackson, Jan. 16 and 17, five laymen from each charge, and every pastor in the district to attend.
Swift, at Morgan, Jan. 10, the pastor to set the hour.
Webb, at Webb, Jan. 21, a.m.
Minter City, at Minter City, Jan. 21, at 3 p.m.
Schlater, at Schlater, Jan. 24, p.m.
Tchula, Jan. 28, a.m.
Sidon and Cruger, at Sidon, Jan. 28, p.m.
Sunflower, at Sunflower, Feb. 4, a.m.
Ruleville, at Doddsville, Feb. 4, 3 p.m.

S. L. POPE, P. E.

Grenada Dist.—First Round.

Coffeeville ct., at Coffeeville, Dec. 24, Jan. 10.
Sallis ct., at Sallis, Dec. 30, 31.
Holcomb ct., at Holcomb, Jan. 7.
Poplar Creek ct., at Shiloh, Jan. 13.
Tie Plant ct., at T. P., Jan. 14.
Duck Hill ct., at Duck Hill, Jan. 14, 15.
Winona sta., Jan. 21, a.m.; Jan. 22, p.m.
Kilmichael ct., at Kilmichael, Jan. 21, p.m.; Jan. 22, a.m.
Waterford ct., at Waterford, Jan. 26.
Ashland ct., at Ashland, Jan. 27.
Lamar ct., at Lamar, Jan. 28.
Paris ct., at Paris, Feb. 3.
Abbeville ct., at Abbeville, Feb. 4.
Lexington, Feb. 9, 11.
Ebenezer ct., at Hebron, Feb. 10.
District stewards' meeting at Grenada, Dec. 7, at 2 o'clock p.m.

R. A. TUCKER, P. E.

Greenville Dist.—First Round.

Lake Cormorant and R., at Hollywood, Dec. 31, a.m.
Clarksdale, Dec. 31, p.m.
Friars Point and Bobo, at Bobo, Jan. 7, a.m.
Shelby, Jan. 7, p.m.
District Stewards meet at Shaw, Jan. 8, 2 p.m.
Cleveland, Jan. 10, p.m.
Gunnison and Sherard, at Gunnison, Jan. 14, a.m.
Rosedale and Hillhouse, at Rosedale, Jan. 14, p.m.
Laymen and Pastors meet at Jackson, Jan. 16, 17.
Glen Allan and Benoit, at Benoit, Jan. 21, a.m.
Glen Allan and Benoit, at Glen Allan, Jan. 21, p.m.
Hollandale and Arcola, at Hollandale, Jan. 28, a.m.
Leland, Jan. 28, p.m.
Greenville, Jan. 31, p.m.
Jnestown and Duncan, at Jonestown, Feb. 4, a.m.
Jonestown and Duncan, at Jonestown, Feb. 4, p.m.
Boyle and Pace, at Boyle, Feb. 11, a.m.
Boyle circuit, at New Salem, Feb. 11, 3 p.m.

The mass meeting at Jackson, Jan. 16, 17, is of sufficient importance to provoke a record attendance from this territory. Make your plans NOW, brethren. It will be the best money and time you have ever invested for your church. The district stewards' meeting at Shaw should have the individual attention of every district steward. Due personal notice will be given later. The Shaw quarterly conference will be held in connection with the district stewards' meet. District Conference at Jonestown, May 8-11. In arranging your meetings, brethren, give this fact due attention.

JAMES H. FELTS, P. E.

Sardis District—First Round.

Shuford, at Eureka, Dec. 30; preaching and Q. C., 11 a.m.
Courtland, at Courtland, Dec. 31; Q. C. in afternoon.
Crensbaw, at Sledge, Feb. 4.
Cockrum, at Palestine, 11 a.m., Jan. 6.
Pleasant Hill, at P. H., 11 a.m., Jan. 7.
Horn Lake, at H. L., preaching, p.m., Jan. 7; Q. C., 11 a.m., Jan. 8.
Sardis ct., at Terza, 11 a.m., Jan. 10.
Longtown, at Longtown, 11 a.m., Jan. 11.
Arkabutla, at Hunter's Chapel, 11 a.m., Jan. 12.
Crowder, at Crowder, evening, Jan. 14.
Mt. Pleasant, at M. P., Jan. 20, 21.
Tyro, at Free Springs, Jan. 27, 28.
District Preachers' Meeting, at Sardis, Jan. 23-24, beginning at 11 a.m., Jan. 23.
District Conference, at Senatobia, May 15-17.

J. TILLERY LEWIS, P. E.

Bitter Chillifuge 25c
Has a bitter tonic taste and quick action in routing malaria from the system.
Will quickly stop chills and fever.
Splendid tonic for torpid liver and bracer for poor appetite.
FINLAY, DICKS & CO., INC.,
NEW ORLEANS.

PILES Don't Be Cut
Until You Try This Wonderful Treatment
My internal method of treatment is the correct one, and is sanctioned by the best informed physicans and surgeons. Ointments, salves and other local applications give only temporary relief.
If you have piles in any form write for a FREE sample of Page's Pile Tablets and you will bless the day that you read this. Write today.
E. R. PAGE 430J Page Bldg., Marshall, Mich.

CHAMBERLAIN'S TABLETS
-SOLD EVERYWHERE FOR-
CONSTIPATION
BILIOUSNESS
Headache
INDIGESTION
Stomach Trouble

ECZEMA
IS CURABLE
Write me today and I will send you a free trial of my mild, soothing, guaranteed treatment that will prove it. Stops the itching and heals permanently. Send no money—just write me—that is all you have to do. Address
Dr. Cannaday, 1225 Park Squire, Sedalia, Mo.

DANDRUFF
quickly disappears when
TETTERINE
is applied. Fragrant and Soothing. 60c at your Druggist's, or from The SHUPTRINE CO., SAVANNAH, GA.

LOOKING UNTO JESUS.

The above are the most appropriate words I think of now to enable the plucky band of Pearl River Avenue, McComb, Miss., to carry out their objectives for 1923. And I verily believe they are going to co-operate with the Lord Jesus spiritually, socially, and financially.

I asked the membership, young and old, to come to prayer meeting, with each of them indicating what they thought the church should accomplish this year written on a piece of paper without signature, drop it in the "Lord's tithe box," and we would read them all with discussion and prayer, and out of all the suggestions we would adopt some objectives for the church. Most all the suggestions ran pretty much along the same channel, showing the mind of the church was almost a unit. Following are the objectives that were decided on, practically all of them being suggested and adopted by the church without any suggestions from the pastor:

1. One hundred and fifty conversions.

2. Every member of the church attending every service of the church, especially prayer meeting, and every member of the Sunday school remaining for preaching service.

3. All tithers continuing to tithe and all members not tithing to join the "Tithing Band."

4. The officials to see that the church is generally repaired and remodeled with the proposed added Sunday school rooms.

5. All assessmnets paid in full and $1000 paid on the parsonage.

With the above objectives to work to, looking unto Him who is able to do exceedingly abundantly above all that we ask or think—looking to Him who said, "If ye ask anything in my name I will do it"—and working together, pulling together, praying together, loving together, believing together, with enthusiasm, determination, and "stickability," why can't we expect victory? I am expecting NOTHING else. Amen!

If you feel as if you can, reader, I wish you'd continue to love me, pray hard for me and mine, and pray for these objectives. Thank you!

In the presence of the Lord,

J. A. WELLS.

RENWAR VS. RHEUMATISM.

It is certainly a pity that so many people suffer year after year the intense pains of rheumatism when it can be so easily expelled from the system by the simple treatment of taking Renwar Rhenmatic Salts. Rheumatism is caused by uric acid in the blood; and in order to effect a complete cure, it is necessary to entirely eliminate this acid from the blood. Renwar is guaranteed to relieve or your money is refunded. It contains no injurious drugs. It is the one sure remedy, and it does not in the slightest degree injure the stomach or affect the heart. Mr. Joseph L. Boehmer says, "One 50c bottle has done me more good than all sanatorium treatment, and what it did for me, why should it not do the same for others? Should any one doubt the virtue of Renwar and the certainty of curing this malady, refer them to me." For sale by druggists, price 50c; or by mail on receipt of price from WARNER DRUG COMPANY, NASHVILLE, TENN.—Adv.

TETTERINE

CLEARS BABY'S SKIN

and drives off the Rash and Pimples. Harmless, Soothing, Fragrant.

60c at your Druggist's, or from The SHUPTRINE CO., SAVANNAH, GA.

TO THE PEOPLE OF MISSISSIPPI.

You are very busy, I know, and you seldom have time or opportunity to go out into the byways of your town or community to see to it that the NEEDY or NEGLECTED CHILD is being properly looked after.

But you do care, I am sure, and for this reason we are writing you this letter.

As the Christmas season draws near, we are brought face to face with the sad knowledge that there are many little children all over the State of Mississippi who are living in want and neglect and cannot have a fair chance in the world, unless folks more fortunate than they are help them.

Our Society stands ready to do this for the children if you will only co-operate with us in this great work.

We feel sure that you are familiar with this Organization, which is State-wide, non-sectarian and inter-denominational and is supported solely by voluntary contributions.

The following is a brief statement of some of the work that we have done in the last twelve months: Fifty-four babies taken and placed; twenty-five adoption papers sent out; one hundred and fifty children received; three hundred and six children handled; two hundred and fifty-two given medical attention; sixteen unmarried mothers aided; nineteen families aided, twenty-six children operated on, and thirty-five children to be admitted at this date.

Our calls for help are so varied and numerous that we simply can't answer all of them, but we must do our best, and if you will help us we can and will do more.

Wishing for you and yours a Happy Christmas and a prosperous New Year, and reminding you that "It is more blessed to give, than to receive,"

Yours for the good of the kiddies,

JNO. L. SUTTON,
Supt., Mississippi Children's Home Society.
Jackson, Miss.

MARRIED.

On August 3, 1922, at the Gibson Memorial parsonage, by Rev. T. B. Cottrell, MR. BURK L. FIELDER to MISS EFFIE MAE MUSGROVE, both of Vicksburg, Miss.

At the Gibson Memorial parsonage, November 9, 1922, by Rev. T. B. Cottrell, MR. R. R. SMITH, of Oscana, Ark., to MISS ZELLA MAE HAYSE, of Vicksburg, Miss.

QUARTERLY CONFERENCES.

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.

Alexandria District—First Round.

Pineville, Dec. 31.
Campti, at Campti, Jan. 7, a.m.
Coushatta, Jan. 7, p.m.
Alexandria, Jan. 8, p.m.
Melder Ct., at Melder, Jan. 11.
Marksville Ct., at Evergreen, Jan. 14, a.m.
Bunkie, Jan. 14, p.m.
Colfax, at Colfax, Jan. 16, p.m.
Melville, at Melville, Jan. 21, a.m.
Opelousas, Jan. 21, p.m.
Livonia, at Livonia, Jan. 24.
Plaquemine and Donaldsonville, at ———, Jan. 25.
Oakdale, Jan. 28, a.m.
Glenmora, Jan. 28, p.m.
Natchitoches, Jan. 30, p.m.
Rochelle and Standard, at Standard, Feb. 1, p.m.
Jena and Jonesville, at Jena, Feb. 4, a.m.
Trout and Good Pine, at Trout, Feb. 4, p.m.

The district stewards will please meet on January 2, in the Alexandria Methodist Church, at 11 a.m.

W. L. DOSS, Jr., P. E.

Baton Rouge Dist.—First Round.

Clinton, at Clinton, Dec. 31, a.m.
Jackson and Ethel, at Ethel, Dec. 31, p.m.
St. Francisville, at St. F., Jan. 7, a.m.
Baton Rouge, First Church, Jan. 7, p.m.
Natalbany and Pine Grove, at Natalbany, Jan. 14, a.m.
Hammond, Jan. 14, p.m.
Bogalusa ct., at Bogalusa, Jan. 21, a.m.
Bogalusa, Jan. 21, p.m.
Pearl River ct., at Pearl River, Jan. 28, a.m.
Slidell, at Slidell, Jan. 28, p.m.
Springfield ct., at Springfield, Feb. 4, a.m.
Ponchatoula, at Ponchatoula, Feb. 4, p.m.
Franklinton ct., at Fisher, Feb. 11, a.m.
Franklinton, Feb. 11, p.m.
Olive Branch, at Olive Br., Feb. 18, a.m.
Baker, at Baker, Feb. 18, 3 p.m., 7 p.m.
Tickfaw Mis., at Pine Ridge, Feb. 25, a.m.
Amite, Feb. 25, p.m.
Greensburg, at Days, Mar. 4, a.m.
Kentwood, Mar. 4, p.m.
Covington, at Covington, Mar. 11, a.m.
Gonzales, at Meadows, Mar. 18, a.m.

J. W. LEE, P. E.

Lake Charles Dist.—First Round.

Neame and Pickering, at Neame, Dec. 31, 11 a.m.
Carson, Dec. 31, 7:30 p.m.
Abbeville and Kaplan, at Abbeville, Jan. 7, 11 a.m.
Gueydan and Estherwood, at Gueydan, Jan. 7, 7:30 p.m.
Crowley, Jan. 14, 11 a.m.
Eunice Ct., at Eunice, Jan. 14, 7:30 p.m.
New Iberia, Jan. 21, 11 a.m.
Lafayette, Jan. 21, 7:30 p.m.
Merryville, Jan. 28, 11 a.m.
De Ridder, Jan. 28, 7:30 p.m.
Sulphur and Vinton, at Vinton, Feb. 4, 11 a.m.
Lake Arthur, Feb. 4, 7:30 p.m.
Branch Ct., at Branch, Feb. 11, 11 a.m.

J. B. WILLIAMS, P. E.

Ruston Dist.—First Round.

Jonesboro, at Jonesboro, Jan. 17, preaching, 11 a.m.
Gibsland, at Gibsland, Jan. 24; preaching, 11 a.m.
Arcadia, Jan. 31; preaching, 11 a.m.
Elmore, at Wesley, Jan. 4; Q. C., 2 p.m.
Sibley, at Pine Grove, Jan. 5; Q. C., 2 p.m.
Winnfield, Jan. 7; preaching, 11 a.m; Q. C., 2 p.m.
Winnfield circuit, at Joyce, Jan. 7, preaching, 7:30 p.m.; Q. C., 4 p.m.
Bienville, at Bienville, Jan. 14, preaching, 11 a.m.
Bernice, at Bernice, Jan. 16; Q. C., 2 p.m.
Farmerville, Jan. 17; Q. C., 7:30 p.m.
Marion, at Marion, Jan. 18; Q. C., 2 p.m.
Minden, Jan. 21, preaching, 11 a.m.
Homer, Jan. 23; Q. C., 7:30 p.m.
Haynesville, Jan. 24; Q. C., 7:30 p.m.
Dubach, at Dubach, Jan. 26; Q. C., 2 p.m.
Springhill, Jan. 28, preaching, 11 a.m.
Cotton Valley, Jan. 28, preaching, 7:30 p.m.
Ringgold, at Ringgold, Feb. 4, preaching 11 a.m.
Wesley, at Hall Summit, Feb. 5; Q. C., 2 p.m.
Simsboro, at Simsboro, Feb. 7; Q. C., 2 p.m.
Haughton and Doyline, at Haughton, Feb. 11, preaching 11 a.m.
Ruston, Feb. 12, 7:30 p.m.
Castor, Feb. 14; Q. C., 2 p.m.
Athens, Feb. 18; Q. C., preaching, 11 a.m.
District Stewards' meeting, at Arcadia, Jan. 11, at 10:30 a.m.

K. W. DODSON, P. E.

Shreveport Dist.—First Round.

Ida, Dec. 31, a.m.
Belcher, Dec. 31, p.m.
Texas Avenue, Jan. 3, p.m.
Greenwood, Jan. 7 a.m.
Oil City, Jan. 7, p.m.
Vivian, Jan. 10, p.m.
Pelican, Jan. 13, p.m.
Pleasant Hill, Jan. 14, a.m.
Grand Cane, at Stonewall, Jan. 21, a.m.
Mansfield, Jan. 21, p.m.
Noel Memorial, Jan. 24, p.m.
Plain Dealing, Jan. 28, a.m.
Mooringsport, Jan. 31, p.m.
Bayou La Chute, Feb. 4 a.m.
First Church, Shreveport, Feb. 7, p.m.
Longstreet, Feb. 11, a.m.
Logansport, Feb. 11, p.m.

The district stewards' meeting will be held Tuesday, Jan. 2, 10:30 a.m., in First Methodist Church.

R. H. WYNN, P. E.

Poor Flour Bakes Poor Biscuits

Laboratories of the American Association of Baking Make Valuable Experiments

BAKING TECHNOLOGY, A Journal of Applied Science in Baking, devotes several pages of a recent issue to a visualized detailed anaylsis of 40 samples of so-called self-rising flours, purchased in various cities and towns throughout the southern states. After making a detailed showing on each individual sample, the question is summarized as follows:

Unsatisfactory Bakings.

The character of the flour used in self-rising flour as shown by these tests is unsuited for the production of a satisfactory appearance of the crust and a uniform color. The color of the crumb was in every case unsatisfactory, many being classed as dark gray while the character of the crumb was in general only fair. Of the flours examined less than half made biscuits with a satisfactory taste, all the others being either bitter, flat, or musty.

Self-Rising Flour Made from Poor Grade.

Since these samples, because of their varied sources and method of collection, may be considered representative, it would seem from the above study that self-rising flours are generally made from lower grade milling products than the types of flour commonly used in bread making, and frequently from grades which cannot be properly designated as flour without qualification; also that the leavening ingredients used are, as far as this investigation has shown, acid calcium phosphate and bicarbonate of soda (in three cases containing added calcium sulphate). It also appears that these ingredients are mixed with the flour under unstandardized conditions so that uniform products are not obtained in the great majority of cases.

Three Objects to Self-Raising Flour

The objection to the use of these flours is three-fold:

1st. That through a mistaken sense of economy and an appeal to his sloth, the user is led to purchase an inferior product at the same price which would purchase a higher grade of flour and a baking powder which together would produce a better result.

2nd. That the consumer of these so-called self-rising flours is using products which appear to be manufactured under not very carefully standardized conditions.

3rd. Instead of the nutritious yeast made loaf or carefully made biscuit marketed by the baker, the housewife using these so-called self-rising flours is obtaining a biscuit which is often both unattractive and unpalatable.—Baking Technology.